Distance from the Dockyard as well as danger when they got there was a constant problem for the Dockyarders, most of whom lived in a widely dispersed area of South Pembrokeshire. This entailed Long journeys by horse or boat for the fortunate but by foot for the many. As the Paternal concern of the Admiralty included basic medical care it added to the professional duties of the Dockyard surgeon.

1841 This was recognised as early as 1841. An Order in Council dated 11 February , after emphasising that “the number of artificers and workmen has greatly increased [since 1815] and the duty of the Surgeon has become more onerous in consequence of many of the men being obliged to reside at a considerable distance from the yard”, proceeded to ask that the “exigency may be provided for by such small addition to the salary of the Surgeon as will enable him to keep a horse for the purpose of visiting his distant patients”. His salary was duly increased from £400 to £450 a year.

The Dockyard Surgeon was still doing his Rounds on horseback at the beginning of this century. In his memoirs, Rear Admiral T.T. Jeans, then a young doctor at Pembroke Dockyard, recalls that houses in Pembroke Dock were so scarce “that many had to live in the villages in the neighbourhood, some as far as seven miles”. He considered that “the Long tramp to work and home, day after day, winter and summer, a tragedy in itself, was absolutely incompatible with a satisfactory day’s work in between”. The doctor’s concern was, however, tempered by the tale he tells of a Parson’s wife living in one of these remoter villages who, sympathising one day with the wife of a workman who had so far to go to his work, received the unexpected and illuminating reply: “Well, Mum, he do rest all day”.

It was part of Surgeon Jeans’ duties to ride around the country to visit Dockyarders who had reported sick. During the spring and at ‘potato’ time this had its lighter moments: he commented As I rode up a lane towards a cottage, (I would see) over the hedge, the poor “sick” man hoeing his ground. He would hear the horse’s hoof, look up, and catch sight of me then dash for his cottage and his bed, where after listening to a Long-winded account of his ailments from his wife and hearing the thump of his boots on the floor overhead, I would find him in bed probably fully-dressed but minus those boots.

1880 Admiral of the Fleet, Lord Chatfield, who spent his early years at Pembroke Dockyard in the 1880s where his father was Captain Superintendent, recalled how his mother “initiated the soup kitchen in the Dockyard for the men to have hot soup in the dinner hour”. The Pembroke Dock and Tenby Gazette reported that hundreds of the “employees live too far away to allow them to go home in the short dinner time granted and as a consequence they have to be content with cold lunch in the middle of the day”. The soup kitchen was funded by nominal contributions from the men and from the proceeds of concerts organised by Mrs Chatfield. Over the three years of her Husband's appointment fifty-seven gallons of soup were issued daily to 300 grateful men, a total of 17,000 gallons to 90,000 'diners'. Each man received one and a half pints of soup a day at a cost of three pence a week.

There is nothing to suggest that Pembroke men were any slower than their colleagues in other royal Yards in seeing off Their Lordships. Indeed, Surgeon Jeans was of the opinion that the well-known “dockyard crawl” was more apparent in Pembroke Dockyard than in any of the other three great dockyards, and that even the Dockyard shire horses adapted themselves to it:

A couple of these splendidly conditioned animals might be seen drawing, painfully and slowly, a small empty lorry, but at the first sound of the dinner Bell, the drivers would slip off their harness and away they would go, helter skelter across the pieces of waste land, jumping the low chain railings in between, frisking like colts, each trying to get to the harness shed and his feed before the others. “I often went out into the Yard simply to watch this horse play - and some sign of active vitality” he said.

1898 Captain Burges Watson, Captain Superintendent just before the turn of the century, was convinced that his workforce was idle and his suspicions reached dramatic climax on 15 July 1898, when he assembled every Dockyard officer from Chief Constructor down to the humblest charge-man in the Dockyard Schoolroom. He reported that he had found a hutch in a timber stack, roofed with corrugated iron, and equipped with towels, water and pillows and in which, it seemed, men had been going to skulk, sleep and - worse still perhaps smoke, for weeks or months previously. The Dockyard Police had later found three men in there and he had discharged them. A few days earlier he had been on board the cruiser HMS Dromedary when, at five minutes to noon, he had distinctly heard the sound of a Bell, not the official Bell, but a hammer striking on a shackle, and immediately afterwards nearly all hands ceased working. There were other examples of shirking. He had come ashore at the landing stage one night in plain clothes and noted that there was no sound of activity on board the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert where the night shift was on overtime but that when he got near “a perfect din” was set up.

Of course, this all caused a great uproar in the local newspaper with complaints that 2,200 men should not be tarred with the same brush as three errant skulkers.

The workforce was a close-knit community which any senior naval officer found almost impossible to penetrate. Surgeon Jeans observed that the workmen through inter-marriage over Long years had become so closely inter-related that “it was no uncommon thing to find a gang of riggers or shipwrights whose foremen and timekeepers were the fathers or uncles or brothers of most of the gang”. (I trained as a shipwright and this was still the case in the early 1950's at Devonport where nearly all the men in the South Yard Boathouse came from the same village) They must have led the Captain Superintendents a merry dance.

Launching

1844 Launching days were the highlights of the Pembroke calendar Throughout the history of the Dockyard. Their importance varied with the size of the ship which in turn determined the rank of the lady chosen to perform the christening. "These events are to hundreds the "sunny spots" in their chequered existence", commented the Pembrokeshire Herald in its report of the launching in 1844 of the two-decked HMS Centurion by Mrs Cockburn of Rhoscrowther.

1816 The Yard was customarily opened to the public on launching days and the latter occasions attracted crowds of visitors and welcome extra trade in the town. The first launchings were on 10 February 1816 before 'an impressive concourse of spectators assembled to witness the novel event'. The sixth-rates HMS Ariadne and Valorous, built together on that first improvised slip, stem to stem, went afloat, one bows first and the other, more conventionally; stem first, "a circumstance which created considerable interest at the time".

1852 The launch of the great three-decked HMS Windsor Castle in 1852 was typical. According to one report: "From an early hour on Tuesday morning conveyances of every description commenced swarming into Pater . . . and every description of passage boat from Carmarthen, Tenby, Haverfordwest and Milford and other places, lent their aid in conveying to the scene some of the thousands who, throughout the day, thronged the neighbourhood of the Dockyard".

1879 At the other end of the Scale the little flat iron gunboats HMS Tickler and Griper, launched on Monday, 15 September 1879, were christened by two little girls, Miss E.J. Warren, daughter of the new Chief Constructor, and Miss H.M.F. Powell, the six-year-old daughter of Pembroke Dock's second Vicar and former naval officer, the Rev. F.G.M. Powell, of St John's Church. "Each young lady", ran one press report, "was presented with an elegantly polished mahogany boxes lined with blue velvet, containing a burnished miniature steel axe, with which each young lady used to sever the cords suspending the weights over the dog-shores."

The launching process was a complicated engineering undertaking and was not always a success. The launch of the ninety-gun screw two-decked HMS Caesar in the summer of 1853 took seventeen days round-the-clock effort. Lady Georgiana Balfour, daughter of the Earl of Cawdor, christened the 2,767 tons ship on Thursday, 21 July, but the vessel stopped after sliding only half her length down the slip. "Nothing could equal our consternation", wrote Captain Sir Thomas Pasley, the Captain Superintendent, in his diary, "No one could guess the cause." When the tide ebbed the ship's bilge-ways and stem were found embedded in the mud with fifty-six feet of the hull suspended without support over the ground-ways.

The operation mounted over the next seventeen days to free the ship became an epic and was fully reported in the Pembrokeshire Herald. On the following day "all the casks of the town were borrowed and it was gratifying to see the alacrity with which these were furnished by publicans and others - the former in some instances actually emptying both beer and porter into tubs and vats". The tide rose more quickly than expected next day, Sunday, and the Dockyard Bell was rung and "the [Dockyard) Battalion drums sent through the town - beating to quarters, and messengers on horseback and foot sent off in all directions". Improvisations failed and it took specially-built camels lashed beneath her counter at low water on Friday, 5 August, to move her. Across the weekend the ship moved forty-eight feet. Then, at 6.10 on Sunday evening, two hours before high water, she started to move. The Battalion drums again "paraded the town, the Church and Chapels etc. were soon deserted. Sir Thomas Pasley recorded: "And at length she came and marvellous was the excitement and loud and Long were the cheers of our men who, poor fellows, have worked as hard as men could work".

The cause was Long debated. One tradition held that a local witch, excluded from attending the launching, put a curse on the Caesar. Another that the Dockyard was cursed because of the destruction of Paterchurch graveyard. More likely there was insufficient tallow between the sole of the ways and the launching slip while the sliding surfaces had been planed too smoothly.

1856

The launching of minor vessels, too, could prove disastrous on the day. The little 238-ton screw gunboats HMS Janus and Drake were built on the same slip sharing one set of bilge-ways. They were christened at 5.30 pm. on Saturday, 8 March 1856, by Mrs Mathias of Lamphey Court, wife of the High Sheriff, from staging erected on the side of the slip between the two vessels. Both hulls moved off together, Drake leading. As the Janus passed she demolished the platform and Mrs Mathias and her children were “whirled out of their place” and “hurled with frightful violence” into the slip. In the confusion “the gallant little vessels went off without a single cheer or other symptom of approbation”. Miss Mathias, with a broken collar bone, “was for some time insensible”, but they all survived. A week later Mrs Mathias, “being deeply sensible” of the workmen's help in rescuing her family “from the confusion and entanglement into which they were cast”, rewarded them each with ten shillings.

1900 Much more calamitous was the accident to the new royal yacht Victoria and Albert in the winter of 1900, an event which seriously damaged the professional reputation of Pembroke Dockyard and ruined the career of the ship's designer, the Director of Naval Construction, Sir William White.

The 380-foot steel yacht was laid down in December 1897 as a replacement for the veteran paddle yacht of the same name which had been built at Pembroke Dockyard nearly fifty years earlier. The new vessel, the last ship to be launched from Pembroke Yard in Queen Victoria's reign, was launched by the Duchess of York (later Queen Mary) on 9 May 1899.

After her engines and boilers had been installed and her masts stepped under the sheer-legs at Hobbs' Point, the berth had to be vacated for fitting out the new cruiser HMS Spartiate. As there was no other jetty (Pembroke's limitations again!), the yacht was put into dry dock for completion. This was not an unusual proceeding but it led to disaster.

The completed yacht was to be floated out of the dock at dawn on 3 January 1900. As the dock flooded the ship slipped to starboard off her blocks aft with a list of eight degrees to port. “The Marine guard immediately sounded the bugle call” and all ports and scuttles were closed.

The caisson could not be secured at high tide allowing much of the water to escape, leaving the ship unsupported, despite the efforts of the Dockyard fire brigade pumps. Sir William White, summoned from London, arrived at 2 am on “the bleak dock-side and saw the beautiful thing heeled over with naphtha flares burning all round, a host of men climbing over her and shouting angrily”. He felt the hostility in the air but was generous in his praise of the emergency measures which had been taken. “It is not possible for me to over state the value of the prompt and skilful action of the Dockyard officers”, he wrote, “to which we owe the rescue of the vessel from a dangerous position.”

The yacht was safe and watertight with damage limited to an 8-inch dent running over twenty-five feet amidships. She was ballasted with 200 tons of water and 105 tons of pig iron before the next tide, when she was floated out with a ten degree list and taken to a buoy where, on 4 January, Sir William conducted stability tests using a team of 475 men rushing from side to side.

There was a subsequent furore in Press and Parliament. An enquiry presided over by Mr. G.J. Goschen, First Lord of the Admiralty, reported on 29 April. The accident was due “not to a single error or miscalculation in the general design but to an excess in weight and equipment [771 tons] distributed over a number of items”. In short, the ship was top heavy.

Sir William was formally censured by the Admiralty and retired a broken man.

Captain Superintendent

The hierarchy of the Royal Dockyards was as strictly determined as the Royal Navy which they served. At the head was the Commissioner or, after the absorption of the Navy Board by the Admiralty in 1832, the Superintendent - a rear admiral in the major yards but a captain at Pembroke Dockyard. He commanded in all respects: “Commissioner - head of the yard - great man - remarkably great man”, was the accurate description by Arthur Jingle in Pickwick Papers of the Commissioner at Chatham where Dickens' father was employed. These sea officers had no shipbuilding knowledge and there was often tension between them and their civilian Master shipwrights, later Chief Constructors, who had spent a lifetime in the trade. These senior captains, however, knew about handling men.

Pembroke had thirty-five Captain Superintendents between 1832 and 1926 who were borne on the ships' books of the successive guardships at Pembroke which they formally commanded. Among those early Captain Superintendents were:-

Captain Chas Bullen who was the first, he fought at Trafalgar

Cumby who is buried in Park St Cemetery and also fought at Trafalgar

Samuel Jackson

Sir Watkyn O Pell who had a wooden leg and would ride a horse around the yard and up on the Hill so that he could see what was going on. It is said that the horse was so well trained that he could ride it up the gangways on to the ships.

J F Falcon

Peter Richards

Sir Thomas Sabine Pasley,

he was very involved with the early days of the National School

(Biography written about him and his time at Pembroke Dock by Lawrence Phillips)

“I shall always look back on Pembroke Yard as the most comfortable and satisfactory epoch of my life”, he wrote in his diary. His daughter, Louisa, recalled: “Pembroke Dockyard was . . . a paradise to the Captain Superintendent. No telephone disturbed his equanimity or harassed his clerks. The railway did not approach within 40 miles at the date of his taking up the appointment though it had advanced to only ten miles when his time expired.” Old Sir Thomas, racked by money worries, was cheered by the Dockyard workers and sailors from the guard ship HMS Saturn when he left in the Prospero steamer on 5 June 1854: “At last the Yard was cleared”, he wrote, ‘and the last sound of Pembroke Dockyard that I shall ever hear died away. But the recollection will never die from my memory. I was quite over- come and felt it all very deeply . . . God bless them all!”

Robert Smart

George Ramsey was very interested in public work in the town and was one of those instrumental in the forming and building of the Mechanics Institute. His son died young and is buried in Park St Cemetery.

William Loring married while at Pembroke Dock Miss Adams of Holyland who was descended from the Adams of Paterchurch

Robert Hall his wife was very interested in helping the poor of the town

William Armytage

R W Courtney

R V Hamilton

George H Parkin Was very keen on fund-raising activities for the National School

Alfred J Chatfield, his wife was very concerned about the conditions that the workmen had to eat at lunchtime and through her work a dining room was built with a recreation and reading room attached.

Acc./to Kelly's Directory 1884

The senior staff of Her Majesty's Dockyard were.

Captain Superintendent, Alfred J. Chatfield

Harbour Master, Staff-Commander John A. R. Petch

Chief Constructor, J. C. Froyne

Superintending Civil Engineer, George Tinkler

Store keeping & Cashier, A. M. Wiele

Accountant, Charles Napier Pearn

Chaplain, Rev.Frederick William Nickoll MA

Fleet Surgeon, Walter F. C. Bartlett .

Secretary to Superintendent, Alfred Penfold

Constructor, G. A.Malpas

Chief Boatswain, John Oliver

Chief Inspector of Police, Daniel Collins

Schoolmaster, Thomas Dawe

Edward Kelly was the next Superintendent

George Digby Morant remembered for having the ability to recognise any man who worked in the yard

Samuel Long He and his wife organised fund-raising activities to place the National School on a sound financial footing

Walter Stewart

Charles FitzGerald, came to the Yard in 1893: "Their Lordships . . . appointed me to the very best captain's appointment in the Naval Service . . . Superintendent of Pembroke Dockyard . . . and a delightful two years it proved to be. A good home, an excellent garden, a nice compact little dockyard a good Long way from London and the Admiralty, and the kindest and most hospitable neighbours I have ever come across." FitzGerald His wife was took a great interest in the Sunday Schools and work with young people

Chas J Balfor

Burges Watson He and his wife were instrumental in raising the funding to install a new Organ in the Dockyard Chapel. His wife was also very much involved with social work especially the Nurses Association and Home.

Charles J Barlow

Gerald W Russell

John Denison

The reign was terminated by AFO (Admiralty Fleet Order) 1477 dated 4 June 1926:

"As Pembroke Dockyard will be reduced to a care and maintenance basis by 31st May, it has been decided that the appointment of Captain Superintendent is to terminate on that date"

The last one Leonard Donaldson, wrote to his staff: "I wish you all every good luck and trust that the Yard may before Long be used for some useful purpose and bring some help to the Town and District".

The Decline of Pembroke Dockyard

The decline of Pembroke Dockyard began soon after the turn of the century. This was not evident to the men then employed. The armoured cruiser HMS Defence, launched in 1907, was the last major warship built at the Yard. Thereafter only light cruisers - averaging one a year - and a handful of submarines occupied a few of the slips which throughout the Great War were concerned with war repair work.

The future United States President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, visited Pembroke Dockyard in July 1918 when he was Assistant Secretary of the (US) Navy. He "thought Pembroke was "an old, small affair somewhat like our Portsmouth Navy Yard"". In a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniel, Roosevelt reported: "It has been expanded since the War from 1,000 to nearly 4,000 employees, and does mostly repair work to patrol vessels etc., and is also building four submarines. I was particularly interested to see over 500 women employed in various capacities, some of them even acting as moulders' helpers in the foundry, and all of them doing excellent work."

It was somewhat prophetic of future developments in the harbour that the very last vessel launched at Pembroke should have been an oil Tanker.

1922 The Royal Fleet Auxiliary Oleander, named by Mrs Dutton, wife of the Captain Superintendent, went down the ways on Wednesday evening, 3 May 1922. As she entered the water "a loud cheer was raised by all present". It must have been a pale shadow of the great launching days the Dockyard had seen. She was brought alongside the Carr Jetty, that first class fitting-out jetty - the lack of which had hindered fitting-out operations for half a century - but which ,had come too late.

The home dockyards were all now seriously under-employed. The machinery and boilers for the Oleander were made at Devonport, Portsmouth and Chatham, "the work having been distributed for the purpose of keeping workmen in the several engineering departments at those dockyards in employment".

The following month the Dockyard suffered a terminal injury with the burning down of the mould loft. Various newspapers reported the tragic event. "Practically the whole population of the town came to witness what was, in many respects, a wonderful spectacle." A north-westerly breeze fanned the fire "which consumed, not only the constructive centre of the Yard, but its archives and collections of ship models and figureheads". The best efforts of the Metropolitan Police, ship's company of the light cruiser HMS Cleopatra in refit, and two companies of the York and Lancaster Regiment, were in vain."

"The serious fire would have been regretted at any time, but happening just now, when the future of the Yard is in doubt, it can only be regarded as a first class calamity. The towns of Pembroke Dock, Pembroke and Neyland, with many adjacent villages, are entirely dependent on the Government Dockyard, and the heavy reduction of workmen employed, ranging from 4,000 to a matter of 1,700, has materially contributed to the attenuated resources of the whole district."

The Long and vigorous campaign to save Pembroke Dockyard has been ably documented elsewhere. "A petition to Prime minister Stanley Baldwin stressed the lack of alternative employment and the economic consequences. The town would be denuded of wage earners with the transfer of 400 established men and the discharge of 800 hired workers for whom there was no other work; trade would be paralysed and there would be bankruptcy and ruin for traders; homes would be broken up and family ties severed."

The decision, however, was irreversible. The Navy simply had too many dockyards and the Admiralty had to keep a fleet together with much-reduced funds. Pembroke and Rosyth had to go. The choice was laid out starkly by the First Sea Lord, Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty, in his speech at The Lord Mayor's Banquet on 9 November 1925: "Whether these Yards are necessary for naval purposes, the Admiralty is the only competent judge. As to whether they are necessary for political or social reasons is for the Government to decide. The fact is, that so far as the upkeep of the Fleet is concerned, they are entirely redundant."

Pembroke Dock is now 'almost entirely a town of unemployed and pensioners', commented the Telegraph Almanac in 1927. The direct consequence of State policy was thus to destroy a town: between 1921 and 1931 some 3,500 people, a quarter of the town's inhabitants migrated. Most of these were the skilled tradesmen. In 1937 over half of the insured population of the borough were unemployed. It is apparent that in its heyday things had been very different.

Growth had continued fast down to the close of the nineteenth century, the Pembrokeshire Herald of 20 January 1899 observing: "prospects for the future of the Yard are bright". It pointed out that very recently there had been only about fifty joiners in the Yard, whereas at the present time the number was 200. If we turn to the total numbers employed, then we discover that on 1 May 1860 some 1,356 worked there, a number which grew to between 2,200 and 2,500 by 1898-1899. Wages were high compared with those of other workers: thus the average weekly wage of skilled labourers in the Yard in September 1899 was 24s. whereas the annual average weekly wage in 1898 for those Pembrokeshire farm labourers who were married and provided their own food was 15s. 10d.

There is no mistaking the calamity of 1926 for Pembroke Dock inhabitants. But a good many employed in the Dockyard lived in Pembroke, Neyland, and in outlying villages. Many from the country districts having been formerly employed as farm labourers. Some of the Dock yard mechanics and artisans living in these outlying rural villages rented smallholdings, a reminder once again that Pembrokeshire workers employed in industrial undertakings often had links with the land. These neighbouring towns and villages also suffered in 1926. Local farming, too, was adversely affected through the loss of demand for its produce from dockyard workers and their families.

On 4 April 1956 the hulk of the old iron screw frigate, HMS Inconstant, which Lady Muriel Campbell had “Gracefully and dexterously” launched at Pembroke Dockyard on a Thursday afternoon in 1868, arrived at a Belgian port for breaking-up. She was the last Pembroke-built ship afloat. On 29 June that year, Admiral Leonard Andrew Boyd Donaldson, the last Captain-Superintendent of Pembroke Dockyard, died aged eighty-one in a Portsmouth hospital. The last ship and the last sailor had gone to their Haven under the Hill just thirty years after the closure of His Majesty's Royal Yard at Pembroke Dock.

Pembroke Dockyard Today

Today almost nothing remains of those former glories. The building slips have almost all disappeared beneath new developments. A few surviving Dockyard offices, priceless examples of the stonemason's art, are slowly crumbling. The old Dockyard Chapel has been stripped of its memorial window to the lost Atalanta, its oak pews were taken away by the Royal Air Force and its famous Bell, captured from the Spaniards, gone without trace.

(The Bell was taken from the Spanish second-rate Fenix captured during Rodney's Moonlight Battle on 16th January 1780. The ship was commissioned into the Royal Navy as HMS Gibraltar and was broken up in Pembroke Dockyard in November 1836 when, presumably, her Bell was mounted in the recently completed Dockyard Chapel.)

1975

At Pembroke Dock, the Royal Navy still occupied a part of the old Royal Dockyard, HM Mooring and Marine Salvage Depot and was, until recently under the command of a Resident Naval Officer, who also had the title of Queen's Harbour Master. It has since been civilianised.

The depot was a major employer in the area .In 1975 170 people work there - and was the base for a fleet of Royal Maritime Auxiliary Service vessels, the largest of which was the salvage ship Garganey.

Their 'Patch' extends from the Isle of Man to Land's End including the Bristol Channel, and in that area, as part of the Naval salvage organisation, they would be the first to be involved in a Government salvage operation. This includes the recovery from the sea of crashed aircraft.

They are also responsible for the laying and maintenance of all Government Mooring and navigation buoys in their area, a mighty task as under each buoy is a complex system of large anchors and chains weighing up to 200 tons. All this has to be lifted, inspected and components changed, at regular intervals.

The RMAS vessels also play a key role in operations on the Royal Aircraft Establishment's guided missile range off Aberporth, where HM ships are frequent visitors for trials.

A Legend – The Haunting of H.M.S. 'Asp'

In the year 1850 a Captain Alldridge was given command of H.M.S. Asp, but he never realised how much concern that particular command was to cause him in the future. During a few convivial parties with his seafaring friends, they told him she was said to be a haunted vessel. The Captain, who was not a superstitious man laughed heartily, but from the day he took command he felt there was something strange about the ship.

He had been many years at sea and had heard all the unaccounted noises that always seem to be in a ship at night, the creaks and groaning of its timbers.

He had never heard noises like this ship made, but before Long he became quite used to the sounds and paid no further attention to them.

He lay asleep in his ship one night while it was at anchor at Milford Haven, South Wales. He must have been asleep for some time when he was awakened by his Quarter-Master.

'Please to come on deck, Sir. The look-out man has been to fetch me and he seems in a terribly shocked condition,' he said. The Captain was not at all pleased about being awakened, but he got up and made his way to the main deck. There he found his look-out man almost incoherent with terror. He insisted he had seen a woman standing on the paddle box pointing towards heaven with her forefinger. She was dressed in white.

'I am going to die for sure tonight,' he said hysterically. The Captain angrily commanded the man to assume his watch on deck and not to be so silly or he would be flogged in the morning.

He ordered the Quarter-Master to see that his command was obeyed. He added that he was not to be disturbed any more during the night about any sightings of the supernatural, or there would be trouble.

For a while, the look-out man tried his best to carry on, but he was overcome by a kind of fit and had to be carried below by his mates.

An entry in the Ships log reads "3rd December 1852 Seaman Ferris has been charged with deserting lookout duty. During a summary hearing it was alleged that the figure of a woman appeared on the aft deck beckoning and pointing below deck. On medical evidence the accused was found to be sober but emotionally disturbed"

This was not the end of the haunting. The woman appeared to other members of the crew, and, just as on the first occasion, she silently pointed heavenwards.

Some of the sailors were terribly frightened when they saw this woman, but did not dare to say anything about it in case the Captain had them flogged. The others shrugged it off as imagination or too much rum.

During the time the ship was anchored in Haverfordwest River, one Sunday morning the Captain attended Church. The sailors had all gone ashore to visit Lawrenny, a village nearby, in the hope of finding congenial female company. The only crew member left on board to keep an eye on things was the ship's steward, a very prosaic kind of man. He was just coming down the companion ladder, thinking of nothing in particular, when a husky voice spoke to him

He was so frightened when he heard this disembodied voice that he fell down the companion way ladder, injuring himself slightly

When the captain came on board the steward told him the disembodied voice which had spoken to him. The captain was angry at first but the man who had a ghastly look on his face begged for his immediate discharge from the Navy. The captain thinking that in this state the steward was useless granted his request, at which the man rushed off to collect his belongings while the captain signed his discharge papers.

The steward did not want to spend another night on H.M.S. Asp, and left as soon as he received his discharge.

News that the ship was alleged to be haunted reached the village of Lawrenny. Among those who got to hear about the haunting was the local vicar, who had a great interest in the supernatural. He called on the Captain and asked to speak to some of the crew members. The Captain was not very keen to grant permission as he was getting rather tired of the ghost and it was upsetting the men, but he did not want to seem discourteous, so he granted the Vicar permission to visit the ship and talk to the crew.

After interviewing the sailors, the Vicar said he was sure there was a ghost on board, but the Captain refused to let him carry out any form of exorcism, telling him that if the Captain was not afraid of the ghost, then surely the sailors were not either.

The ghost certainly caused the Captain much inconvenience during the years he commanded the Asp.

Several of his men who had told him the same story about seeing the ghost asked for their discharge. He had to let them have their discharge because if he did not so great was their terror that they ran away.

The strange thing was that each man told the same story of seeing a woman dressed in white pointing upwards to heaven. She appeared in many parts of the ship, and at all hours of the day. The Captain remained sceptical about any ghost being on the ship, until one night when he began to change his mind. He was awakened by a sensation of a hand being placed on his leg above the bedclothes. The touch was icy cold even through the thick woollen blankets, and the cabin had become very cold.

He rang loudly for the Quarter-Master in case someone had been playing a joke, but there was no sign of anything anywhere. This incident happened a few times, but the Captain was a brave man and he did not bother very much. At last something happened to really disturb him. He awoke to find a hand smoothing his forehead. He said afterwards that every hair on his head stood up in fright and he leapt out of bed, but there was no one around. Now the Captain, too, was not very happy about the ghost, but he was afraid to tell any of his contemporaries in case they laughed at him.

In 1857 the ghost left H.M.S. Asp, never to return. The ship had been taken during the autumn of that year to Pembroke Dock for repairs. On the second night after the ship had docked, a sentry swore he saw a figure climb onto the paddle-box of the ship. He noticed it was the figure of a woman, pointing upwards, which then stepped on shore and made straight for him. He was not aware that he had seen the ship's phantom. To him it was just a female figure that had no business on the ship. Pointing his musket, he shouted, 'Who goes there' The figure took not the slightest notice and continued to advance. It walked straight through the barrel of the musket, which the man dropped in terror as he ran to the guardhouse. The sentry standing next to him stayed at his post, although he had seen the whole eerie happening. He was made of sterner stuff than his comrade. He fired his musket to attract the attention of his Guard Commander. A third sentry, who was on guard some distance away from the other two, had an even worse experience than either of them. He saw the figure of a woman dressed in white walk past him and make its way towards the ruins of Pater Old Church across from the dockyard.

The apparition walked into the disused churchyard, and the sentry, who had climbed the wall, saw exactly what happened. The figure climbed on to an old grave, and, standing in the centre, pointed a finger towards heaven. Slowly, slowly, with arms upraised, it sank into the grave, passing through the black gravestone, vanishing from the sentry's sight.

The Guard Commander was told by the sentries what they had seen, and although it seemed unbelievable, he wrote a report of the incident. The ghost never haunted H.M.S. Asp again and the strange noises of the night ceased.

The once sceptical Captain Alldridge became very anxious to find out whom the woman had been when she was alive, and eventually found that H.M.S. Asp had once been engaged on mail packet duties between Port Patrick and Donaghadee.

After one journey a stewardess whose duty it was to check all the cabins immediately the passengers had left the ship, was on her rounds. She went into a cabin and saw a beautiful, dark-haired girl lying on a berth. She thought the young lady had been asleep and not realised the ship had berthed, as she appeared to be wearing a Long white night-dress.

The stewardess went to wake her, when to her horror found that the girl's throat had been cut and she was a horrifying sight covered in blood.

No one ever found out who the girl was, nor was the murderer ever found.

The macabre discovery by the stewardess was talked about all over Britain and Ireland at the time, and then everyone eventually forgot about it.

Captain Alldridge told the Admiralty about the haunting of H.M.S. Asp, and of the tragedy he had unearthed after a great deal of enquiry.

H.M.S. Asp was thoroughly searched, but nothing was found to be amiss. She was then refitted throughout.

She was handed back to Captain Alldridge, and during the whole of his command of her that followed there was no disturbing happening of any kind, and the strange noises ceased.

He sometimes wondered whether the cruelly murdered woman's ghost had left her grave near Pembroke Dock and journeyed on the Asp in the hope of bringing her murderer to justice, but had eventually given up in despair.

Pembroke Dock Town

EARLY DAYS

When the early dwelling-houses were built in the town, Tanks were attached for the collection of rain-water. In addition to these Tanks, there were wells of spring water for the use of the public. One was the Fountain Well, at the top of South Park Street. For many years this well was uncovered, and therefore dangerous. Mr. Seccombe father of the Mr. William Seccombe, made a collection amongst the townspeople, and had it built over. The Fortland Well was situated at the lower end of the boundary wall of the Hut Encampment. The water had its source in a spring distance above the wall. Near this spot was the old road which led to Pembroke Ferry, but it is now enclosed and the present one substituted. The water was obtained through a tap fixed in the wall. The military authorities had appropriated the supply, and it was cut off from the public, although, for a Long period the people had claimed it as their own right. The Rock Well, a natural spring flowing out of the rocks near the New Pier, was much used, as also were the Cambrian well, on the Hill between Lower and Middle Prospect Place, and the well which was on the east side of Tregenna's Hill or Bellvue.

With regard to the Water supply from the well at Bellvue there was a problem. The newly built Bethany Chapel at the summit of the Hill had enclosed land for a graveyard. This graveyard caused contamination of the water supply to the well. Orders were given by the Dockyard medical authorities to close the graveyard.

With the exception of a few wells in private gardens, these were the only sources the majority of the people had for the supply of this most essential necessary of life. Two or three of the Streets near the Dockyard were supplied with water from the Government reservoirs. These reservoirs were built with earth taken from the Barrack Hill after it came into the possession of the Government, when they excavated and levelled a portion of it in connection with the Defensible Barracks. For many years the water question was a grievous one; at one time the town practically suffered from a water famine, and whenever there was a spell of dry weather it was very scarce.

The Mr. James Williams, J.P., of London road, agitated for a Long while to have this state of things remedied, and was successful in getting a supply of water by means of a tunnel bored in the eastern side of the Hill, near Prospect Place, through which the springs were tapped. The water was then conveyed into large covered-in reservoirs.

Some time after this Councillor W. Davies, J.P. of Princes Street, who was then Chairman of the Water Committee, greatly interested himself in getting hydrants placed in convenient parts of the Streets, supplied with water conveyed by pipes from the above-mentioned reservoirs. This water is pumped to a high level, and brought by pipes to the town and to the Dockyard, and also to the garrison.

The town was never been systematically drained, because the work, which was begun in 1900, proved to be difficult and very costly. It was, however, hoped it will be completed, and all the connections made, in less than two years. The estimated cost of the drainage scheme and the waterworks combined £54,516.

In fact my house in Pennar did not have a flush toilet till 1947. This was constructed in the back yard and the only water supply was a cold water tap outside the back door.

Amongst the improvements of the town was the Jetty, constructed to the west of the Dockyard, on the principal portion of a dangerous mass of rocks known as the Carrs unfortunately near the end of the Dockyard's life. The Jetty was built for the purpose of coaling ships and the hoisting of boilers and machinery into position on the ships. The sheer legs erected for this purpose are reckoned to be among the largest ever constructed, and were capable of lifting over 100 tons. The cost of the Jetty was £110,000.

In King William Street there is a large yard, formerly used in connection with a business carried on by the late firm of Messrs. Jones and Johns Government contractors. This firm built barracks at Dublin, Devizes and Cardiff, also the early brick huts at the Hut Encampment and did work at different times on all the forts at Milford Haven. They, too, erected the cottages at Llanion and many of the houses in London road. With regard to other industries the building trade during the period employing a great number of men and boys. The principal builders were Mr. Charles Young, Mr. David John, and Mr. John Scourfield.

Free Masons

Amongst the number of volunteers who in the year 1824 came to Pembroke Dock, in response to the invitation from the Admiralty were three Freemasons from Devonport, Mr. William Hutchings, [grandfather of Mr. James Hutchings, J.P., of Bush Street, and also of Mr. Horatio Johns Assistant Constructor in H.M. Dockyard]; Mr. William Cook; and Mr. John Chapple. These three met at Mr. Hutchings' house in Market Street, with the object of establishing a lodge of the Ancient Order of Freemasons in the town. It is a matter of uncertainty whether the lodge was started at Mr. William Hutchings' house or not. It is thought more likely that it was formed at the Porter Stores, at the top of Tregenna's Hill, kept by Mr. Jones, father-in-law of the late Alderman

Samuel Jenkins, for it is recorded that the fraternity regularly met at these stores. Mr. Jones removed afterwards to the Victoria Hotel, and there the brotherhood met for many years. The lodge, which bears the name of the Loyal Welsh Lodge of Wales, was numbered in its earliest days 79. In 1832 the number was changed to 525, and still later (in 1863) to 378. The charter for the lodge was granted by H.R.H. the late Duke of Sussex on October 1, 1824. The first meeting of the lodge was held on September 24, 1824, with eleven members. The first Worshipful Master was Dr. Thomas, JP. of Officers' Row. He continued in office from 1824 to 1826, and upon his vacating this honourable position was presented with a beautiful gold medal from the brethren. It cost £10, and was enclosed in a velvet lined case with a crystal glass cover.

Mr. John Chapple occupied the chair of office in 1826 and 1827. In 1830 Mr. William Hutchings worthily filled this important post, and during his time of office was most assiduous in the cause, and was thoroughly conversant with the rites of the order. It often fell to his lot to instruct the brethren in the inauguration of new lodges, which in those days of inconvenient travelling made the carrying out of such duties no sinecure.

Mr. William Cook succeeded Mr. William Hutchings as Worshipful Master.

The lodge was removed in later years from the Victoria Hotel to the house of Mr. Webb, shoemaker, Meyrick Street North; from thence it was transferred to the Royal Edinburgh Hotel. It was removed from there to Meyrick Street North, to what are known as the Masonic Buildings, which are chambers over the shop premises owned by Mr. Mathias, of Dimond House.

After so many removals, the Freemasons decided to build a permanent place wherein to hold their lodge meetings. A suitable site was chosen in Bush Street west, and on Wednesday, May 20, 1902, the foundation and corner stones of a new Masonic Hall were laid. The weather on the day was propitious, and the Freemasons marched in procession from the schoolroom of St. John's Church, where a special lodge was opened, to the site of the new building, headed by the Volunteer Band. The line of route was decorated by flags suspended from many windows; and, clothed in full regalia; the members of the Order presented an imposing appearance.

After prayer and the singing of an anthem, the laying of the chief stone was proceeded with. Previous to its being placed in position, some papers and documents were laid in a prepared cavity. These were a copy of the Pembroke Dock Gazette, a list of the officers and building committee of the Loyal Welsh Lodge, the by-laws of the Provincial Grand Lodge and of the Loyal Welsh Lodge; and a programme of the day's proceedings. A plate was placed then to cover over the cavity, and the stone was laid by the Rev. David Bowen, of Monkton, Deputy Provincial Grand Master, Past G.C., of England, according to the rites of Freemasonry.

A corner-stone was laid to the right of the foundation-stone by Colonel Meyrick, C.B., and one further on, to the west of the building, by Lord Kensington, D.S.O. An address was then given by the Rev. David Bowen, and after two hymns and the National Anthem had been sung, the Freemasons again formed in processional order, and returned to St. John's Schoolroom to conclude the business of the day.

On Tuesday, January 24, 1905, the new Masonic Hall was formally opened by Mr. H. G. Truscott, G.M. 1904. In honour of the occasion the Freemasons presented Mr. Truscott with a handsome gold jewel in a velvet-lined case, inscribed as follows: 'Presented to Brother H. G. Truscott by the Brethren of the Loyal Welsh Lodge, No.378, Jan.24,1905'.

At a lodge held on the same day, Mr. Levi Phillips was installed as Worshipful Master for the coming year of office (1905) by the retiring Master, Mr. H. G. Truscott.

The Architects who designed the new Masonic Hall were Messrs. G. Morgan and Sons, of Carmarthen, and the contractor who carried out the work was Mr. Charles Young, of Gwyther Street. The estimated cost was £1,500.

Special mention should be made of the roll of the Masters in the lodge-room, which is a complete record from 1824. The back of the frame bears this statement in illuminated lettering: LOYAL Welsh LODGE 378 of FREEMASONS.

This frame was presented to the above Lodge by Bro. B. Mules, J.W.

It is made from the following historically connected woods:

The bases are from an old lintel brought from one of the old temples in Palestine: the pillars and arch are part of an old beam from the Cathedral of St Davids; the small frame on the top of the arch is from a portion of H. M. S. Bellerophon, which conveyed Napoleon I. to England, and contains the likeness of the first Master of the Lodge, the late P. M. Doctor Thomas.

The two metallic steps are part of the Atlantic cable which conveyed that truly masonic message from her Majesty the Queen to President Lincoln of America 'Glory to God on high, peace on earth and goodwill towards men'

Designed by Bro. P.M Neil Boyle, P.P.G.P.

Independent Order of Rechabites Friendly Society

The Independent Order of Rechabites Friendly Society was introduced into Pembroke Dock as an outcome of a series of temperance meetings held here in the early forties. The first meeting of the institution was held on October 12, 1842, in the house of a Mr. Gribbell, at the corner of Commercial Row, later occupied by Mr. Tucker, hairdresser and tobacconist. The members were there duly initiated as members of the Rechabite Order, Tent No. 890. The Tent is a branch of the Salford Unity of Rechabites. It was decided that the newly formed Tent should be named the 'Superb'. The name was suggested by the launch of a vessel so called from the Dockyard about the same time; subsequent events proved that the title was a happy and appropriate one.

The Superb Tent, No. 890, I.O.R.S.U. continued meeting at Mr. Gribbell's house for nearly two years; but as its members increased, the place became too small to accommodate them, so they removed to Mr. Tregenna's schoolroom in Pembroke road. Here they held their meetings for four years, but again became straitened for room, and the Tent was removed to the Temperance Hall which had not Long been built, where for over half a century it grew in members and funds. The removal of the Superb Tent to its new quarters at the Temperance Hall was marked by an attempt to do something for the youth of the town by the formation of a juvenile benefit society, similarly constituted in all respects, save in the matter of age and subscription, to the senior Tent. The venture proved successful, and the Juvenile Superb Tent was opened at the Temperance Hall, in October, 1848, on the anniversary of the Adult Tent.

Members flowed into the Juvenile Tent so rapidly that in 1851 it was found necessary to divide the Tent into two sections, junior and senior, but both forming one society. At the age of sixteen years the members desirous of joining the Adult Tent are transferred to it from the Juvenile Tent. In 1887 the Superb Tent was registered under the Friendly Societies Act of Parliament. The number of its members at that date was about 400; the Juvenile Tent has about half this number.

On October 25, 1902, the Superb Tent of the Independent Order of Rechabites celebrated its diamond jubilee, when a special service was held at the parish Church of St. John's, and the late Very Rev. Dean of St Davids, Dean Howell, preached an eloquent and appropriate sermon. In connection with this celebration a most imposing procession marched through the town. A social evening was held afterwards at the Temperance Hall.

Temperance Hall

About the year 1845 a great temperance orator named Scott came to Pembroke Dock, and through his earnest and eloquent speeches many joined the ranks of total abstainers.

The late Mr. Tregenna, Mr. Davies and Mr. Lewis, who were at that time great workers in the temperance cause, united with others in promoting a movement whereby a special building should be erected for the furtherance of the cause. Accordingly, a site was secured for the purpose, and the Temperance Hall was built in 1845-1846. Mr. John Hall an Inspector of shipwrights held the lease of the land and advanced the money needed for the carrying out of the work. It is recorded that in or about 1868 Mr. William Griffiths of Park Street, took a new lease on the land for 99 years at £3 per annum, paid off the mortgage, and bequeathed the Hall to the Temperance Society.

After the death of Mr. Griffiths, a tablet was placed in the Hall. It Read as follows:-
1872

This Tablet is erected by the Temperance Society as a token of their esteem for William Griffiths, late lessee of this Hall and in remembrance of his zeal in the Temperance Cause.

The Temperance Hall was primarily intended for temperance meetings only, but it was however, afterwards used for various purposes,. Since it was first built it had been lengthened, and has had anterooms added to it, and has been otherwise improved; but it was still inadequate to the needs of the population. It was damaged by enemy action during the Second World War and demolished in 1956. In 1948 the trustee's of the building agreed to give the site and the damaged building to the council without charge and the Council with the aid of War Damage Compensation from the Government were able to build a new Hall on the site. This Hall was named the Pater Hall and was opened by the Mayor Alderman William Nevin on December 11th 1957

The various temperance societies have done splendid work in the town. Among others who devoted almost their lives to the cause, a special reference must be made to the late Mr. Henry Road, who was untiring in assisting every effort put forth for temperance.
Lodges in the early town

1872 The Pembroke Dock Independent Order of Good Templars, Lodge No.57, started on September 12, 1872, at the Temperance Hall.

1873 The Bond of Friendship Lodge was formed in the schoolroom of Meyrick Street Congregational Chapel. It was broken up for a short time; an attempt to re-establish it was made in the Primitive Methodist Chapel, Queen Street East, but it lasted for only a brief period.

1902 The lodge of the Good Templars known as Victoria the Good was opened in February , 1902, by the late Barrack-Sergeant Wilde, who was a Crimean veteran, and who also went through the Indian Mutiny.

1837 On January 29 in the first year of the reign of Queen Victoria there was an Oddfellows Lodge, named in honour of Her late Majesty the Loyal Victoria Lodge, opened at the Victoria Hotel. It is said that the large rooms at the back of this hotel were built for the purpose of holding such meetings.

The first Noble Grand, and subsequently Grand Master, was Dr. J. Sumpter, who lost his life by accidentally falling into the trench of the Defensible Barracks. The Loyal Victoria is the older lodge of Oddfellows, No.1822.

1844 On Christmas Eve, 1844, the Loyal Prince Albert Lodge of Oddfellows No.3836, held the first meeting at the Rose and Crown Inn. Mr. Johnson, of Queen Street, was present on the occasion, with seven other members.

Dr. Thomas , J.P., was the first Noble Grand. It is note-worthy that Dr. Thomas took a prominent part in nearly every institution in his day; as it has been quaintly said by an old inhabitant who knew him, 'Dr. Thomas was the front marcher in most everything'. The Grand Master of the district when the Prince Albert Lodge was first opened was Mr Samuel Jenkins.

The first of the funds, £10, were placed in the Savings Bank by Dr. Thomas , April, 1845. Fifty years after the society was founded, it numbered 140 members.

1844 the Ancient Order of Druids was represented in this locality, but the society soon broke up. Mr. W. D. Ivey, C.C., was a member of this Order, and there was in existence in the town an old certificate that belonged to Mr. William Pagett, of Pembroke, which states that he was initiated into the mystical rites of this old British Order on April 29, 1844.

Mr. Robert Lanning, once Town Clerk of the borough, and Dr. James Bryant, of Pembroke, held leading positions in this institution.

1845 The Ancient Order of Foresters started about 1845 under the name of the Court Star of Pater. The courts were first held at the old Foresters' Inn in King Street, but were afterwards removed to the Royal William Inn in Pembroke Street, now known as the White Hart.

1840's In the late forties there were a few members of a purely Welsh society called Ivorites, who held meetings at an inn which once flourished in Queen Street East, called the Royal George.

In 1854 the Ivorites became amalgamated with another court of Foresters named Court Victoria. About the same time also flourished, the Ancient Order of Shepherds, which was a sort of inner court of the Foresters; that is to say, one could not be a Shepherd unless he were a Forester first.

Mechanics Institute

1850 The Mechanics' Institute had its beginning in a small way. Two Dockyard officers, named respectively Mr. Abethel and Mr. Chevalier, assisted by a committee, started it in 1850 in the interests of the young men of the town to enable them to obtain a practical education with a view to their obtaining posts in the Royal Dockyard. It was held first in a room of a house in Lewis Street belonging to the late Mr. Thomas Dunbar Harris. Mr Harris was appointed Librarian, which position he held for up-wards of thirty-two years. Upon his retirement in September, 1882, he was presented with an illuminated address and a purse of gold on behalf of the members of the Mechanics' Institute. The new venture which was started flourished well, and with the increase of members the room in Lewis Street became too small to hold them; consequently it was decided at a meeting in January, 1862 to erect a more commodious building. A committee was formed to further the matter, and Mr. (later Sir Thomas) Meyrick granted the site of the building in Dimond Street for a term of ninety- nine years at the nominal rent of half a crown per annum. Many prominent ladies and gentlemen took up the matter heartily. A subscription list was opened to raise £700, the sum necessary for carrying out the work. On June 7th , 1862, the foundation stone of the present Mechanics' Institute was laid by Mrs. Ramsay, who afterwards became Lady Dalhousie. To assist the funds of the new building, a grand bazaar was held in the town in June, 1863, of which the late Countess Cawdor, the Lady Frederick Kerr, and Lady Meyrick were patronesses.

Since the Institute was first erected many improvements had been made, and much more money expended on the building. It had a good circulating library, with an opportunity given of changing books four times in the week There is a billiard-room on the premises, also a large reading-room, open from 9.a.m. to 10.p.m. daily, where papers and magazines were freely provided. The subscription necessary to become a member was small - six shillings per year - and could be paid weekly or monthly. It is impossible to say what an immense benefit this institution is to the town, particularly to the younger portion of its inhabitants. Mr. John Llewellyn was the Librarian.

In the 1970's a friend Jimmy Meyrick Owen a local solicitor commented many times that he still enjoyed playing billiards there but there were only two or three who used the place. Parts were let off as offices to various organisations.

Banks and Building Societies

1863 the Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society was started by Mr. Henry Trevena, of Laws Street South. Previous to this society there had been three others in the town, but the methods by which they were each carried on proved unsatisfactory as in these societies the monthly takings were put up by auction, and the highest bidder obtained the money, so it is very easy to see that such methods were sure to have proved means of discontent.

The first meeting of the new society was held on January 13, 1863, in the late Mr. W. J. Davies's auction-room, Queen Street East, when sixteen members were present; and on February 20, 1863, the Pembrokeshire Permanent Building Society was launched. The meetings afterwards were held at the Temperance Hall for many years, until the Building Society Office, opened July 1, 1892, was erected in Bush Street west. The members of this society up to December, 1904, numbered 1797, and the income for that year amounted to about £32,000.

The first secretary was Mr. John Mumford; next came Mr. W. Mathias, and after him Mr John Butler. Upon his death the secretarial duties were taken over by Mr. Joseph Snoddy.

The next president was Mr. Richard Cornish, of Gwyther Street North. Upon the death of the Mr. D. Hughes Brown, solicitor, which occurred in January, 1905, Mr. F. W. Merriman was appointed his successor legal adviser, 1860's Some time in the early sixties there was a bank in Commercial Row, managed by the late Mr. James McLean. It was called the Milford Haven Bank, and was the first to be established in the town. Afterwards it was the South Wales Bank, and finally became a branch of the London and Provincial Bank, and had premises at the north-west corner of Dimond Street. Mr. Richard Harwood was manager of this bank for many years. The followed by Mr. H.M. Rice.

The National and Provincial Bank also has a branch in the town. It was opened in Bush Street, next door to Cambria House. Thence it was transferred to Meyrick Street North - first of all into the premises occupied by Walters' Bank, which existed there for a short time, and then into a new building. The manager was Mr. Richard Thomas.

Other organisations

1843 the Ladies' Association of the British and Foreign Bible Society was formed; the prime mover in the work was a lady named Mrs. Taylor, wife of Captain Joshua Taylor, R.N. She lived at Llanreath, and the committee meetings for many years were held at her house. After this lady left the town, she was succeeded as secretary by Miss. Morris, of Laws Street North. The president of the Ladies' Association was Lady Meyrick, and the treasurer was Mrs. William Robinson, of Church Street.

1860's Some gentlemen of the town established the Pembroke Dock auxiliary of the Bible Society, with Mr. John Walter, a gentleman endowed with much Christian activity, as first secretary. The Rev. William Evans, , was secretary for a time; Mr. Joseph Merriman was afterwards appointed as such, and kept the secretarial books for no less than twenty-five years to be followed by Mr. A. Mackintosh.

1860's the Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress was established. Previous to this a small number of charitably disposed people had started what was known as the Culm Society, which, as its name shows, was formed to provide fuel for the poor in the winter. The relief society is said to have originated in the following way: One cold and stormy winter's night. Mr. William Dawkins, of Albion House, met Mr. John Walter, of the Dockyard, in the street; during their conversation they decided that the Culm Society was inadequate for the needs of the poor people, and that something should be done in the way of assisting them also with food. The outcome of this was the forming of the Society for the relief of Distress, which is the oldest charitable institution in the town. The first meeting of the Society for the relief of Distress was held in Mr. W. J. Davies's sale room in Queen Street East. The first president of the society was Mr. Meyrick of Bush. The first chairman of committee was Mr. W. Mason, J.P., of London road. Its first secretary was Mr. John Walter, the other secretaries were Messrs. George Theobald Davies,

F.A.E. Potts, C. W. Lawrence and J. Lawrence. Mr. F. W Merriman, solicitor, took over the duties in 1904. Other members included Mr. Richard Harwood, formerly manager of the London and Provincial Bank, Mr. Isaac Smedley, J.P. Mr William Lawrence, and Alderman McColl, J.P., C.C.

During the Coronation celebrations, the society distributed special relief, together with portraits of their Majesties King Edward and Queen Alexandra, as a remembrance of the auspicious occasion.

1868 March 26,, a Vestry Meeting was convened at St. John's Church for the purpose of determining whether a Burial Board should be provided for St. John's parish. It was decided that this should be done. Dr. Fitzroy Kelly was in the chair on the occasion. The first business meeting of the Board was held in the Vestry room of the Church on April 1, 1860. The first clerk of the Burial Board was the Mr. W. G. Phillips, (Gazette Office). he was appointed to the position on April 10, 1869. The first members elected were Captain Cocks and Messrs. J. Morgan, Cornelius Williams William Dawkins, William H. Lewis, James Howell and R. Bonniwell. The solicitor was Mr. G. Whitley Dunn. The architect was Mr. K. W. Ladd, at one time borough Surveyor. Mr. Cornelius Williams for many years was clerk of the Burial Board; upon his death he was succeeded in this office by his son, Mr. A. Williams of Commercial Row.

1882, June 21 The Pembroke Dock and Milford Haven Chamber of Commerce, originally called the Chamber of Trade, was established with the object of promoting the trade of the town. The first president was Mr J.H. Teasdale, who held the office from 1882 to 1884. The first secretary was Mr. T. G. Hancock. After he vacated this office, it was filled by the late Mr. David Jenkins Then Mr. F. W. Merriman, solicitor. Since the Chamber of Commerce has been established, it was instrumental in bringing forward many benefits to this district. Amongst other things may be mentioned the Jetty, which undoubtedly was the outcome of an agitation on the part of its members for the building of a dry-dock. The naval authorities thought that a jetty was more necessary than the dock hence its erection. Some credit also must be given to the Chamber of Commerce for the stone barracks that built to take the place of the old wooden huts. The weekly half-holiday, which was a boon to the young people of the town, and the Wednesday half-day excursions to Tenby, also owe their origin to this institution. To it, too, must be attributed the better postal service, the reduction of railway rates, and many other matters which affecting the trade and prosperity of the town.

There is two political clubs in the town.

1886 The Conservative Club was formed in the Masonic rooms, Royal Edinburgh Hotel, 1894 Lord Cross, K.G., formally opened the Conservative Club, Bush Street which was built on the site of the old joint-stock shop.

1887 The Liberal Club was opened at the corner of Pembroke Street, facing Albion Square - Conchar's Corner. There was no public ceremony on the occasion, but the premises were declared open by Isaac Smedley, esq., J.P.

1888 April The Pembroke Dock Co-operative Society was started at the corner of Bush Street in the house later occupied by Mr. John Grieve. During the time the society occupied these premises, a fire broke out there and destroyed a considerable quantity of stock; but owing to the valuable help rendered by the Connaught Rangers, who brought their hose, and obtained water from the Tanks adjoining the neighbouring houses, the fire was soon subdued.

1892 July 16, the foundation-stone of the new buildings in Albion Square was laid by Mrs. W.J. Brown, wife of the president of the society at that time. The architect of these buildings was Mr. H. Cartwright Reid, C.E.

1889 Pembroke Dock Police-Station was built in Charlton Place. Before this place was erected, the house in Albion Square later occupied by Mr.Henderson, Painter, for many years did duty as the station for the force.

1893 the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes was formed, under the Grand Surrey Banner, at the Pier Hotel.

1894 it was transferred to the Grand Lodge of England, and called the Royal Pater Lodge. In 1900 the lodge removed from the Pier Hotel to the Market Tavern in Pembroke Street. There were about sixty members.

1902 A new lodge was made in addition to the Royal Pater, and called the Sir Thomas Meyrick's Lodge, under the Grand Lodge of England. The meetings of this lodge were held in the Bush Tavern. There was forty members.

Pembroke Dock creation

The reason for Pembroke Dock is indicated in its name: it was developed as a dockyard town early in the nineteenth century, no more than two miles away from the established Market of Pembroke. Whereas the latter was located on a narrow tidal pill leading off the Milford Haven waterway, Pembroke Dock was built on a low platform on the southern shore of the main estuary from which ships could be directly launched into the deeper waters of the channel. It was not built by a private entrepreneur as a commercial undertaking but by the Admiralty Board for the Royal Navy and, interestingly, it was to retain a military role Long after the dockyard itself had outlived its usefulness. Shipbuilding for the Royal Navy had commenced in Pembrokeshire in the mid eighteenth century at Neyland and in the late eighteenth century at Milford downstream of the subsequent developments at Pembroke Dock. When the yard at Milford became to expensive an alternative site was sought in the Haven. That alternative site became known as Pembroke Dock.

Prior to the building of the town, the land - known as Paterchurch was largely in agricultural use for centuries under the Adams Family until their debts became to great when it was acquired from the new owners by the Meyrick family. However, the Ordnance Department already had a foothold there, having purchased part of it at Paterchurch Point as the site for a fort - which was started but not finished - in the 1750s.

Initially, in 1810, an area of just over twenty acres was earmarked and purchased for the new venture, but this proved to be far too small and over subsequent years the Admiralty Board progressively extended its holding by taking in more land from the Ordnance Department and the Meyricks. The dockyard itself was marked out and fenced off in 1812 and then given a stone boundary in 1814 (which was replaced by a much more substantial structure between 1830 and 1832).

While it was the intention to move operations upstream in 1813, this was delayed until 1814 because of work in hand in Milford on the battleship Rochefort. Nonetheless, by the 1820 a dockyard was in place.

In these early days there was little residential accommodation in the immediate vicinity, with the workers in the yard having to travel daily from Milford and from other settlements on both sides of the waterway, but plans were afoot to create an associated new town.

The first houses in the town built after the opening of the Yard were built by Mr. Lowless, John Narbeth (Carpenter) and John Jones, started on the 14th May 1814 they were completed by the 25th September and were occupied by Mrs Thomas ,(wife of the foreman of shipwrights,) Mr. Thomas (foreman of BlackSmiths) Mr. Clun (Issuer of Stores) and Mr. Honeydear (Publican) These houses were built in Front St., then called Thomas St.

John Narbeth of Pembroke recording in his diary

1813 “In the year of the Lord 1 January 1813 began the enclosing of the new Dockyard,Pater and the fitting up of workshops for the men and sheds for all sorts of materials; there was a temporary dock dug out to take in an old 74 gun ship for a storehouse , and the upperdeck for offices for the Builder and Storekeeper; the yard enclosed with wooden pailings.”

1814“ By 1st January 1814 the whole of the of the workmen were able to come there to commence their shipbuilding with Mr. Roberts as their builder , and not so much as one house on the spot , only Paterchurch farm, so poor old Pembroke was well filled with both officers and men for a few years”.

“On the 14th day of May 1814, Mr. Lowless and myself left poor old Pembroke to commence its rival, so on that day was the first shaving cut and first window frame made by John Narbeth, and by September 25th 1814, was the first four houses ready. Mrs. Thomas the foreman of shipwrights wife came to take possession, and we drank to the success of the first house in Pater.

Mr Thomas , foreman of shipwrights; Mr. Stephens, foreman of BlackSmiths; Mr. Clun, issuer of stores; and Mr. Honeydear, public house ; were the first four inhabitants of the new town, Michaelmas Day 1814. After that we built a public house for Mr. Phillips on the corner of Middle St”.

1815 February 22 Cresswell Quay

extract from a letter from Hugh Wilson to J Harcourt Powell, esq.. ...The dockyard being so nigh will certainly improve the property at Pembroke, but great exertions are making to build houses adjoining the yard. There are now near one hundred building and engaged to build on Mr. Meyrick’s property and the continuance of building there will , it is thought by everyone, keep the rents from advancing very rapidly at Pembroke..

Harcourt Powell MS unnumbered.

1815 June the Mayor of Pembroke requested help from the Navy Board to repair the old track which connected Pembroke with the new yard and which was being increasingly used by the work force who were lodging in Pembroke town. Previously it had only used as a means of communication with the farm buildings at Paterchurch. This request was refused but the following year the matter was again raised . It was agreed that if the parish would keep in good repair the whole of a road from the “Lodge” to farmer White’s house at Paterchurch (which stood at the top of what is now Sunderland Ave.) then the Navy Board would contribute £200 towards making the road.

1817 By 1817 the framework for the town was set down outside the east wall of the dockyard in a grid-iron arrangement of Streets, some quite spacious, running north-south and east-west. The Admiralty Board and the Meyricks (the latter still retaining much of the vacant land adjacent to the dock) granted leases to an army of small builders who gradually lined the new thoroughfares with houses, sometimes in piecemeal fashion. The original leases from the Admiralty were for 60 years at 6d per foot but those from the Bush and Orielton Estate were for length of three lives with the addition on one in certain conditions.

Building commenced along the waterfront in what is now Front Street then Thomas Street after Thomas Meyrick After the building of Front St., houses were built in King’s St, Queen’s St., Commercial road, now Commercial Row, and Bellevue Terrace/ Tregennis Hill (Tregennis Hill was so called because a Mr. Tregenna occupied a house at top of it, his son was a prominent contractor and built forts down the Haven), Pembroke St., Cross Park, High St., Brewery Row (now Charlton Place)

1816 By 1816 the new Yard was expanding rapidly and more men were required. Work in the other major Royal Yards was slack and there was an immigration of large numbers of skilled tradesmen and their families, from the other Royal Dockyards, about 1816 necessitating a massive house building programme. Houses were erected as fast as possible many with the aid of the dockyard workers who worked on them after a day's work in the yard, but even so some were occupied before they were completed and many were of very poor standard.

1823 Back Cottages (Park St) were built in 1823.

1830 According to Mrs S Peters the majority of the older houses in Pennar were built about 1846 but the Ordinance Survey Map of 1839 based on a survey of 1830 shows that houses were already in existence in Upper St (now Castle St), Middle St (Grove St), Front St (Fleet St), Military Rd, and North St (Owen St) Mays Buildings (Nelson St)

This was the basic orientation of the grid layout which was to be extended eastwards and southwards After the end of the Napoleonic War, the Yard time was, in the first instance, reduced to five and a half days a week, and later to five days a week. Tradesmen now and again, having to do laborers' work in the Yard and the gardens becoming very important as a source of food. The wages of the Tradesmen dropped to 19s per week and that of the Laborers to 10s

Problems with obtaining a site for a Chapel had an influence on the early town construction. Bush estate was loathed to provide a site but Orielton Estate was more receptive, also the Corporation had made a decent road leading from Pembroke through - Furzey (High Street), caused the construction of the town, for the time being, to move to Bethany Square as its center.

1818, cottages were built along Pembroke road, north, near Bethany Chapel.

1818 Bethany Chapel was erected-the first place of worship to be erected .in the new town. The first Bethany Chapel, with its cemetery was lighted inside by tallow candles that smoked needing deacons to go round, during the singing of the hymn before the sermon, with a pair of "snuffers" to lop of the burnt wick.

1825 The houses of Belle Vue terrace, described as one of the prettiest places in Pembroke Dock were built . Cottages Nestling into the Hill side to the east of Barracks' Hill, surrounded by gardens full of fruit trees, terminating at the bottom with a Row of tall trees.

1820 Shortly after Bethany the first Wesleyan Chapel was built at the top of the Row (Tregennis Hill), on the north side, just outside Mr. James Biddlecombe's garden, on the edge of the Barracks's field It was a small place, but it had a gallery, and a choir sat in it.

1820, Cross Park houses were erected, and the big houses in the square followed.

The Caledonia," Inn; with its sign of a kilted Scotchman, the "Cambrian" Inn, Phillips Grocery Store, Barclays' School (the present "Caledonia") Glanville's Grocery, Tregenna's workshop and school were the first Temperance meetings were held. In the early days of the town Bethany Square was one of the important places of the town where the people met and talked in the summer evenings

Most of this was demolished with the building of the Defensible barracks.

Park St Cemetery

(acc to Mrs Peters History of Pembroke Dock 1905)

As the town of Pater increased in size, a proper place for sepulture became necessary. In Monkton Churchyard and in that of St.Mary 's, Pembroke, many of the earliest inhabitants of the town found their last resting-places. Bethany Chapel (built in 1818) was provided with a grave-yard wherein many were buried, but it was deemed expedient that a special place should be set apart for burials.

During the growth of the town in three decades, the reaper Death had gathered in so many lives that the old burial ground became too crowded, and it was therefore necessary to provide a new cemetery.

1869 On October 2, 1869, this new cemetery was opened. But before the cemetery was formally opened a few internments took place . The Rev. Eliakim Shadrach, a much revered minister of Albion Square Church, of whom more in another chapter was the first was laid to rest in this 'God's acre'. He died April 8, 1869. A monument was erected to his memory by the members of the Church, and in May, 1872, Miss. Maggie Moore, daughter of the late Mr. Joseph Moore, chemist unveiled it. This cemetery has recently been enlarged by the addition of more land.

1830's Smuggling

In the early 1830's smuggling was rife as was wrecking in some parts of the county, The Preventative Officers were keen to catch a man called Truscott from Pembroke who they suspected of smuggling and tried to trap him. A quantity of tobacco had been smuggled in to South Cliffs and one of the Preventative Officers, posing as a customer had persuaded Truscott to deliver it to Bentlass. That night Truscott, his friends, the tobacco and Truscotts young son who had just been taken along for the trip were waiting in Pennar Gut near Bentlass, they were approached by a boat load of Preventative Officers, rowing with muffled oars, Mr. Larkin in charge. Truscott spotted the Preventive Officers boat and he and his friends started rowing as fast as possible up river towards Pembroke. The preventive boat was rapidly overhauling them so the young boy jumped out of the boat and tried to swim towards Jacob's Pill. According to his account at the trial, the mate of the preventative boat shouted three time for him to stop before shooting him in the back of the head and killing him. There was a tremendous outcry Throughout Pennar and the whole area, with meetings at Bethany Square, Pembroke and Pembroke Dock. The Preventative Officers had to be escorted to and from Pembroke Town Hall where the trial was held, by Marines, The mate was found not guilty but for his own safety had to be moved from the area.

From 1830 onwards development also occurred in the Melville Street/Albion Square area close to the south-east corner of the dockyard.

It was in this part of the town that the Market House was built in 1826 after the objections from nearby Pembroke had been resolved.

When the Market was first proposed in 1817 the Corporation of Pembroke objected and finally the mayor of Pembroke wrote to the Officers of Pater Dockyard

Pembroke 12 September 1818

Gentlemen

Having been informed that the Government have held out an inducement to those persons who are inclined to take lots for building houses at H M Dockyard Pembroke, that a Market place is to be built, and a Market established there. I request to know if that be the case, and if you have felt it your duty to acquaint the proper departments of the state that H M Dockyard being situated within the liberties of this borough, where there is a Market established by law, that the establishment of another Market at H M Dockyard would be an unlawful infringement and injury to the Franchise and revenues of this Corporation

I have the honour to be etc.

Anthony J Stokes
Mayor of Pembroke

The Principal
Officers of H M Dockyard Pembroke

The following year an act of Parliament was past (George III 59, C C XXV) giving powers to the Admiralty to build a Market place and to make bye-laws for the good rule and government of the town.

The original landing place for the area was enclosed within Dockyard, but this was not really available at full tide owing to the accumulation of mud. To replace this and to facilitate the bringing of produce to the Market from across the water, the Government built the Hard in 1827.

According to Mrs Peters (The History of Pembroke Dock) An eyewitness stated that the work of making the Hard was done by the men of the Dockyard, assisted by the marines, and the materials used for it were the refuse stones and rubbish left from the excavations made in forming or extending the Yard.

Objections to this Hard were made by James Huzzey, the lessee of Pembroke Ferry, who claimed the exclusive right of ferrying.

1826 the Admiralty built the Market Hall paying Pembroke borough £3000 compensation for the right to sell goods (this right had previously belonged solely to the Freemen of Pembroke) The building cost £4630.5s.7d

1827. The foundation stone was laid in the northwest corner. Prominent at the ceremony were the Freemasons who marched from the Navy Tavern where they held their lodge meetings to the site. Also at this time the Admiralty built what is now Commercial Row, and slip in Front St., to compensate the town for the loss of the previous landing place, swallowed up by the expansion of the Yard, at a cost of £71. Its aim was to facilitate the bringing of produce from the surrounding area to the Market.

This became, right up until the 1850's, the principle landing place for boats to and from Neyland causing problems with the existing ferry from Pembroke Ferry to Burton. The lessee Mr Huzzey contended that he had the sole right to ferry people across the Haven from any point. The matter came before the courts at the Summer Assizes in 1834 and the judgement went against Mr Huzzey. Mr Huzzey took the matter of the Neyland Hobbs' Point ferry to the Court of Exchequer of Pleas. Again the judgement went against him.

The landing place at Neyland was at the point near a Public House called the shipwright's arms and at that time kept by Mrs Margaret John. This public house disappeared when the new rail terminus was constructed at Neyland by Brunel.

Further enhanced means of transport were implemented in the 1830's

The Mail Service had previously run from Milford Haven but it was decided to improve the roads to Pembroke Dock so as to avoid the Long hilly road from Narberth via Haverfordwest to Milford. This necessitated a new pier being built.

1830 the foundation stone of the pier at Hobbs Point (Named after a Nicholas Hobbs, buried May 4th 1728 who once owned land in the area.) was laid by Captain E J Savage R E. The excavations began in 1829 and for much of the work on the seaward side a diving Bell was used. It was completed in 1832 it cost £20,250. 19s.3 1/4d.

Sailing packets - viz., the Auckland, Camden, Treeling, Gower, Iris and Mansfield - carried the Irish mails in the early twenties between Ireland and Milford but in the year 1836 the mails were brought to Hobbs' Point to meet the royal mail-coaches,

The sailing packets were later discarded for small steamers named respectively the Adder, Advice, Jasper, Prospero, Pigmy, Donkey and Viper. A reserve steamer, the Firefly, was moored off Barnlake in case of emergency.

After the pier was completed, the London Mail-Coach road, now generally known as the Lower road, was made. The contractor was Mr. Henderson, of Bangeston House.

A large hotel was built near Hobbs' Point at the same time, with several stables attached for the mail-coach horses. It may be interesting to know that a dinner to celebrate the Earl Cawdor's coming of age was held at this hotel also a house was built for the Superintendent of Packets.

For many years after the Government placed a rope across the road once a year to preserve their rights.

1837 the service was taken over by the Admiralty but by 1848 other routes to Ireland had become more popular and the service closed. The hotel and stables was transferred to the War department, and until it was enclosed into the Military Hut Encampment, the Admiralty used the Superintendents house as a temporary hospital.

1831 A Steam ship service was introduced between Bristol and the Haven. Once a fortnight the "Frolic" a steam packet travelled from Haverfordwest, calling at Pembroke Dock, Milford and Tenby to Bristol Unfortunately on 16th March 1831 she was wrecked on the Nash Sands. All 71 people on board died including several from Haverfordwest and the son and daughter of Mr Henderson of Bangeston who was a local government contractor. Acc to Mrs Peters 1896 At one time the pier nearly became lost to the public. On August 13, 1896, a deputation of the Town Council Water Committee, with Mr. A. McColl as chairman, waited on Mr. Austen Chamberlain, then Civil Lord of the Admiralty, relative to the water supply of the town and the proposed closing of Hobbs' Point Pier to, the public.

After the plan of the laying on of the water had been shown and satisfactorily dealt with, the matter of the closing of the pier was brought forward. Upon conditions the deputation received an assurance that the closing order should be suspended for six months. A second deputation, consisting of Messrs. McColl, Sketch, S. J. Allen, and Hulm, again waited on Mr. Austen Chamberlain March, 1897, with the result that the closing order was extended to January 1, 1898. In December, 1897, Mr. J. Allen, then Deputy Mayor was in London on private business, when he found that, although the Corporation had made all the necessary arrangements with regard to the water-supply, the Local Government Board, in whose hands it then lay, had not so informed the Admiralty. They, thinking that the Corporation were the defaulters, determined to issue the final closing order of Hobbs' Point. Mr. Allen saw Mr. Austen Chamberlain, and placed the matter before him in the right light; consequently the closing order was unconditionally withdrawn,

The coaches were drawn by four horses, which were changed at different posting-houses on the road, and ran as far as Gloucester; there they met the train, as the railway at that time was made between Gloucester and the Metropolis. The same driver only went to St. Clears. The posting-house where he stopped was the Picton Castle, and, being central for the coaches, a large and flourishing business was done there. The most popular of the men who drove the coach was named Bramble, and he is described by one who knew him well as "a real gentleman". It is sad to relate that this man took the innovation of the railway, and consequent cessation of the mail-coach service to Pembroke Dock so greatly to heart that he developed melancholia, and hanged himself, during a fit of depression, in a stable at Tenby.

1848 passengers for the royal mail-coaches became very scarce, and they ceased to run to Hobbs' Point. After that time the mails were carried by a four-horse coach to Narberth road (now called Clynderwen), where it met the royal mail. The coach was owned by a man named Benjamin Davies and driven by his son-in-law John Thomas. After the railway to New Milford was completed in April, 1856, the mails were brought across the water and conveyed by the mail train to their destination. When the royal mail coaches were taken off the Lower road, the stage coaches used to start from, and arrive at, the old Victoria Hotel, at the top of Pembroke Street. One of these coaches brought a newspaper every week. Weekly papers at that time cost sixpence, but, owing to the repeal of the newspaper stamp duty, were some time later reduced to threepence, and still later to the price of one penny. Alderman Hughes of Bush Street, used to stand on the steps of the Clarence Inn and read the paper to the people who congregated there for the purpose of hearing it every Sunday. During the Crimean War a crowd collected Long before the arrival of the coach on the newspaper day, anxious to hear the latest news.

1831 the town's population was 3,076.

That was the year of the very hard fought parliamentary election between Sir John Owen of Orielton and Colonel Grenville of Milford. Haverfordwest was the polling station and large quantities of beer and food were supplied to influence the voters. Sir John's supporters included the colliers, many of whom worked in his mines and for intimidation only, one would hope, they marched round with their picks on their shoulders. Of course the other side was supported too. Grenville's supporters included the shipwrights who entered the fray carrying their adze. Many fights were won by the Dockyardies. It is said that both gentlemen nearly ruined themselves with the expenses of this election which was won by Sir John Owen

The old Lock-up stood at the top of Brewery . Reputed to have been a miserable den with an iron studded door, the inside was sufficiently terrorising to expiate the fault of any poor unfortunate prisoner who was incarcerated therein. Attached to the Lock-up was the local pound with a strong iron spiked gate.

1834

A description of the town in 1834 reads (Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis)

Pembroke Dock, sometimes likewise called Pater, or Paterchurch, is situated on the southern shore of Milford Haven, about two miles from the old town. It consists of several Streets of neat and well-built houses, and is partially paved, but not lighted : there are numerous good shops for the supply of the population, , several of which are branches from the larger establishments in the borough. A handsome enclosed Market-place was erected here about five years ago; but it has hitherto been but scantily supplied, and most of the inhabitants frequent the Market at Pembroke. The dockyard forms a spacious area enclosed within a lofty wall of stone, and comprises a neat range of buildings for the public offices, houses for the principal officers of the establishment, a well-built Chapel fitted . up with elegant simplicity for the use of the officers and men employed in the Yard, and a fort, which is just completed, for the defence of the place, mounting twenty- three Long twenty-four pounders. There are twelve slips for ship-building, which is at present the only business carried on in the yard, though, from the low price of labour in this part of the country, and the facility of obtaining materials of all kinds, it is in contemplation to introduce other branches of labour for the naval service. There are at present on the stocks, and in different states of progress, the Royal William of one hundred and twenty guns ; the Rodney, of ninety two gun; the Forth, of forty-six guns; the Andromache, of twenty-eight; the Harrier, of eighteen; and the Cockatrice schooner. The number of men employed at present is about five hundred. Besides the Government establishment there is a small private dock, and it is probable that the Irish packet establishment will be removed from Milford to this place, with a view to which alteration a very fine jetty is now being constructed at Hobb's Point, a few hundred yards to the east of the dock-yard, from which new roads have been formed, connecting it with the main road from Carmarthen, in a new line avoiding both Narberth and Haverfordwest, by which route the mail will save a distance of several miles. About a mile to the east of the dock-yard is Pembroke Ferry, belonging to the crown, and held by Sir John Owen, Bart., who underlets it at an annual rent of £200 : it forms the shortest and most usual line of communication between Haverfordwest and Pembroke, the distance between which places by the ferry is only ten miles, but by Narberth twenty-five : the fares are one-halfpenny for a foot passenger, one penny for a man and horse, and one shilling per wheel for carriages.

The regularity of the Streets suggests at first sight that development took place in a much more structured way than was the case. The reality was that numerous builders were engaged in the process, and terraces were often formed by the coalescence of individual or small clusters of houses, rather than built in their entirety by one person at one time. This is revealed in the Registers of Building Plans which show that many lessees and/or builders applied for building approval in a particular street and that their applications were spread over months and sometimes years. As an example, 'One of the present-day main thoroughfares - Dimond Street - was built piece-meal, the south side of the street completed almost fifteen years before the northern part. In Market St one plot was not built on till 1847 and Princes St still had plots vacant in the 1840's For a Long time the northern side retained a high, thorny hedge - an incongruous sight in the centre of the thriving and developing town. By this process, a town of over 11,000 inhabitants (that is, Pater Ward of Pembroke M.B. in the 1901 Census) came into being during the nineteenth century. What was built was not particularly impressive, rows of terraced houses of one or two storeys with slate roofs The town was built basically to accommodate large numbers of workers in industrial employment. Most Streets were lined by two storey, single-fronted houses but showing some variation, especially over the course of the century. In general, those built in the early days closest to the waterfront and dockyard (such as Front Street, Brewery Street and Clarence Street) were small and had plain facades. Those built later in the century, while retaining the same overall structure, were larger in their internal dimensions and had bay-windows. An interesting and distinctive form of working-class housing was the use of the single storey cottage, particularly characteristic of the outer parts of the town (for example, in High Street and Waterloo), where four rooms were built at street level. Certain areas had far grander houses witness Officer's Row, (Queen St west) which was completely occupied by Dockyard Officers.

At this time every woman walking about the town had to wear clogs or pattens to keep their feet and dresses clear of the mud because the Streets were not very well made up. At night a lantern was a necessity as piles of culm and slime for mixing into fuel, would very often be left in the street overnight. Water had to be fetched from wells and rain water collected in Tanks. The Admiralty had their own supply having driven tunnels into Barrack Hill to collect it. They also purchased the right to the springs at Bethany Corner from Mr Tregennis for £200 had piped it down to their reservoir at the top of Charlton Place. These springs had previously fed a stream running down, in a deep ravine, where Tregennis Hill is now. As the town grew, facilities followed. At the start there was skeleton shopping provision in Commercial Row, these included Trewent drapery shop, Clougher's book shop, the Royal Oak Hotel and general shop kept by Nathaniel Owen, where at first the leading hands of the gangs used to distribute the wages, and Moore's the Chemist.

Friday St., so called, was where goods were sold before the Market was built. The name was later changed, in 1827, to Clarence St in honour of the visit of Prince William Henry, Duke of Clarence (later William IV) who came to witness the launch of the "Clarence" With the town's spread westwards, the centre of commerce gradually shifted in that direction, until Queen Street and Dimond Street, and the spurs leading off them, became the main shopping artery.

After a period of stagnation the town had started spreading eastward in 1836 mainly due to the increase in size and therefore employment brought about by the Dockyard expansion.

Queen St East, part of Meyrick St and Lewis St were built about this time. It had been intended to build a row of better houses up the Dockyard Avenue and two were built but the arrival of Mr Edie as Master shipwright changed the plans. He decided on the planting of a row of trees and the two houses built were purchased by the Government and allocated to the Lieutenant in charge of Police and the Boatswain of the yard.

The Postal Service

1837 London Mail Coach arr. 12.34, dep. 01.32. 273 miles

Hobbs Point was made a Post Town when the Irish Packet was transferred there from Milford Haven about 1837. Before the establishment of the harbour at Hobbs Point the main centre of population was at Pembroke Dock (the Admiralty Dockyard) and the village of Pater or Paterchurch which both lay about half a mile away to the southwest. These places were, in turn, a fifth Class Post under Pembroke two miles to the south east. When Hobbs Point was established Pembroke Dock became a Penny Post under Hobbs Point.

The additional 1/2d. charge.

In 1826 Telford surveyed the Hobbs Point-St. Clears road as an alternative to the much criticised Milford-St. Clears turnpike. In 1833 his road from Hobbs Point was under construction but the funds held by the Turnpike Trust for completion were inadequate and according to the 1846 Report of the Commissioners on Highways in South Wales further moneys (the amounts quoted by different people giving evidence to the Commission conflict) were secured against a charge to be Levied on letters carried from Ireland to South Wales. The 1/2d. surcharge Act was passed on 22

June 1 836 and applied to letters coming into Milford;. Probable period of use was Jul. 1836 to Dec. 1839.

The Waterford Packet had to come to Milford until about 1837 when it moved to Hobbs Point, (near of Pembroke Dock).

One reason for moving it was the poor state of the turnpike between Haverfordwest and Milford. This road, built by Greville in 1791, was so bad in 1817 that the Secretary of the Post Office, Sir Francis Keeling, sent for Henry Leach, Collector of Customs and Controller of the Post Office Packet at Milford and told him that it would be impossible to maintain the mail for Ireland unless the road was improved. Leach in his report the following year attributed the lack of repairs to misappropriation of funds by the trustees of the turnpike.

1825 Telford surveyed this road and subsequently was asked to survey the route to Hobbs Point from St. Clear and Begelly. In order to help pay for the new road to Hobbs Point an Additional' 1/2d surcharge was authorised on letters
Law and Order

Acc to Mrs Peters

The two first magistrates in the town were Dr. Thomas and Mr. Propert.

Dr. Thomas resided in Officers' Row, and subsequently in Charlton Place. He was also a Town Councillor.

At Mr. Propert's house magisterial business was conducted. The house that he occupied was the small one adjoining Albion Square Chapel. It was at that time, with the exception of the Albion House, the only building in the square. It had a small court of grass and flowers in front, and in addition a similar one at the side.

The guardians of the peace were two or three constables.

One was a retired sergeant named Gilfillan, another was Lipton and one was named George Young, familiarly known as Old Young. The duties of these men were manifold, if light.

George Young also acted as sanitary inspector, for which duty he received £5 a year.

At the top of Brewery Row formerly stood the old Lock-up. It was a miserable den with a nail studded door, and the inside was sufficiently terrorizing to expiate the fault of any poor unfortunate prisoner who was incarcerated therein. Attached to the Lock-up was a small plot of grass, secured by a strong iron spiked gate; this was the local pound. To the delighted curiosity of small children, very occasionally a stray quadruped might have been seen inside.

1843/4 Mr Edward Laws, Naval Storekeeper of Pembroke Dockyard and a trustee of the Bush Estate was selected as Mayor of the borough, he was also the chief magistrate for Pembroke Dock.

1860, the next one was Mr James Cocks a master mariner and timber Merchant. He died age 89 in 1891.

1870 Samuel Jenkins and ex Dockyard official and landlord of the Victoria Hotel was Mayor (he later was landlord of the Bush Hotel)

1872 William S Lewis a draper of Pembroke St was Mayor.

The growth of the town depended on improvements inside the dockyard and the build-up of military support. The presence of the dockyard created the need for armed protection, and from the early there was a military presence in the town. Early in the century they were housed in an old vessel but permanent barracks and fortifications were soon needed. The three most important developments for the overall shape of the town were the Defensible Barracks, the Pennar Barracks and the Llanion Barracks.

Work started on the first in 1844 on the top of the Hill - which became known as Barrack Hill - immediately behind the dockyard; the second was completed before the end of the century for the Royal Engineers; and the third replaced a hut encampment for the Crimean War at Llanion overlooking Hobbs Point.

With the demolishment of the houses by the War Department to provide a clear field of fire from the Barracks, many who had lived in Wesley Row, Cross Park, Tregennis Hill west and Bethany Square moved to the new houses that were being built in what is now Bufferland. The influx of military personnel lead to an increase in housebuilding and as well as Dimond St South and Meyrick St Water St East and Lewis St and Laws St were started. The Temperance Hall was erected in 1845.

Migration in and out

But there were times of unemployment, and migration in and out. An example is the Hawgood family recorded in the

1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood William (37) 474 - shipwright - 23 Dimond St P/d born Dale

Hawgood Martha (38) 474 - wife - born Dale

Hawgood Anne Jane (6) 474 -scholar - born Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Susannah(8) 474 -scholar - born Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Eleanor(11) 474 - scholar - born Milford

Hawgood Henry(13) 474 - scholar - born Dale

Hawgood Thomas (34) 406 Tailor Master - 14 Lewis St - Pembroke Dock ---(was he one who became a Mormon)

Hawgood Mary Ann (26) 406 - wife - born Milford

Hawgood Henry (5) 406 - scholar - born Dale

Hawgood John (10m) 406 - born Marloes

Hawgood Margaret (3) 406 - born Walywins Castle

Elizabeth Edwards - visitor - age 14 - unmarried - born Marloes

This part of the family emigrated to the USA in 1856

William Hawgood was blinded in one eye in the Dockyard and later became mine host at the London Coffee House Picton Terr Neyland

1900

By the end of the nineteenth century the main features of Pembroke Dock were in place, An enclosed naval dockyard, and associated fitting-out facilities on the waterway;

To the east of this yard a grid-iron town, with its Streets (some spacious) lined by rows of terraced Properties, these showing some variation in size and style. Residential development had also spread up the Hill to the south, with Streets leading off the road to Pembroke and towards Pennar; Shopping facilities were located in Commercial Row and the Market House nearby, and along the main thoroughfares to the east, especially the Queen Street/Diamond Street axis.

Large tracts of land at the edges were given over to military uses, most notably at Barrack Hill, Pennar and Llanion; Land was purchased at Llanion for the use of the army and a site near Hill Farm was also purchased with the intention of building a Military Hospital. Land was purchased at Pennar Point, a bridge built to connect Cross Park with Pennar, and a road built to connect this bridge with Pennar point. The original intention was to bridge the mouth of Pennar Gut and then continue the road linking all the Military Forts down to Angle.

The Pembroke and Tenby Railway, which had opened a station in Pembroke Dock in 1864, was extended through the town, cutting across some of its Streets en route, into the dockyard, with a secondary spur to Hobbs Point, in the early 1870s

The use of culm for fires going out of fashion by the 1850's and a coal yard was established at the top of Pembroke St by a Mr Michael Morris. House coal from Newport arrived by sea and was offloaded at Front St. In the early part of the 1900's the yard was run by a Miss Leais.

Among notable buildings and services were the Mechanics Institute, Diamond St whose foundation stone was laid by Mrs Ramsey wife of Captain Ramsey M (Later Earl of Dalhousie) in June 1862. The land was leased by T C Meyrick for 99 years at 2s 6d per year. It contained a reading room, a library of 3500 books and a small museum. Members paid 6d per week

Acc/to. Kelly's Directory 1884

The Mechanics' Institute situated in Diamond street, the foundation stone of which was laid June 2th, 1862 contains a fine reading-room, which is well supplied with the daily and weekly newspapers and periodicals: the library contains about 4,000 volumes, and there is a small museum in connection with it.

The Government Savings bank in the Market.

London and Provisional Bank situated at the corner of Diamond St opposite the Royal Hotel

Post Office

acc to Mrs Peters

The first post-office, as may be expected, was a very unpretentious place of business. It was held in a small house opposite the Market house. The postmaster who kept it was a Mr. Tribble. The office was afterwards removed to the Mail-coach Hotel, Hobbs Point; from thence it was transferred to a house on the site of the present Pier Hotel. At both these last named places a Mrs. Williams did duty as postmistress. For a time she also kept it in Commercial Row, and while it was held as a general office at the Mail-coach Hotel, a post office branch, or receiving house, was, for the convenience of the public, held at the stores of Mr Nathaniel Owen in Commercial Row. After this the post-office was for many years kept by Mr. George Thomas Husband of the Clarence Inn, at the top of Pembroke Street. Letters were delivered once daily at 7 pm. The office was then removed to a position in Meyrick Street North. Originally on this site stood a public-house called the Lamb and Flag kept by one Tom Harris, who was also a haulier; afterwards it passed into the possession of a Mr. Joseph Briggs, of the Bush Hotel; it was next an office for the Great Western Railway Company before it was taken over by the Post Office authorities.

The Temperance Hall in Diamond St which was enlarged in the 1870's and besides being used by the Temperance Movement was also used for a variety of other purposes including public lectures and concerts. It held about 500 people.

The Albion Hall in Albion Square capable of holding over 800 people and renovated in the early 1870's used for concerts and lectures and miscellaneous entertainments.

The Police station was in Albion Square.

The area of Pembroke Dock ecclesiastical parish 1096 acres and the population in 1881 was 11,662

The Parish Clerk was Thomas Williamson.

1872 April 22nd by Order made by Queen Victoria in the Royal Court at Windsor that on and after June 30th 1872 the County Court should be held at Pembroke Dock instead of Pembroke. The County Court Room was next to the Victoria Hotel in Pembroke St. The Courts were held monthly and the Pembroke town Council held their meetings there alternating with Pembroke.

Pennar became part of Pembroke Dock about 1870 and, at that time, was a thriving community with shops, pubs, places of worship, several smallholdings and allotments. The Orielton Estate map shows that by that time most of the older houses in Pennar were in existence and the road connecting Military Rd. with Pennar Point, for which the Admiralty purchased two acres of land in 1862 from the Orielton Estate, was built although the road into Pennar was in a very bad state. In 1884 there were two bakers and grocers, Mr. William Lifton of Military Rd. and Mr. William Malley who also kept the sub post office, Mr. William Phillips, jun. of Military Rd., Pennar was a coal Merchant and general carrier, Mr. William Phillips, Snr was a beer retailer, while Mr. David Nicholas kept the Royal Oak public house, Mr. John Williams, the Kilwentage, Mr. Robert Court Griffiths, the Commercial Inn and Mr. Henry Banner, the Swan Inn. The Orielton Estate, of which Pennar was a part, had been purchased in 1856/7 by Miss Jane Martha Jones of Cilwendeg with part of the compensation money for the sale of the Skerries Lighthouse in Anglesey. On her death this estate and the Cilwendeg Estate passed to her niece Margarette Sutton Saurin, wife of Mark Antony Saurin. Part of the estate included the ferry from Pennar to Bentlass and all the houses which were let, leasehold, in the main to dockyard workers although later some were leased to military personnel.

In 1875 the town was described as well lit with gas and pretty regularly built. The principal Streets are Dimond St, Queen St East, Commercial Row, Pembroke St, Bush St, and Meyrick St. Bush St was not completed at that time.

The water supply other than that to the Government dwellings was from wells and by Tanks attached to the houses. It was believed to be adequate by the town council.

The town had at that time two weekly newspapers *The Pembroke Dock and Tenby Gazette and the Pembrokeshire Advertiser.

Acc/to J A Findlay writing 1875

1871 census pop nearly 12000

inhabitants consisted principally of tradespeople and dockyard artisans and comprise persons from nearly all parts of the UK mainly brought hither by the Dockyard and the Garrison

Districts of Pennar, Bufferland, and Waterloo are the more recent additions to the Town. It was essentially an English speaking Community.

Principle Landowners T C Meyrick esq., Mark Antony Saurin of Orielton and the Government.

“Seen from the harbour the town makes a considerable appearance. The Dockyard presents a chief feature with its lofty and uniform range of tolerably handsome sheds covering the numerous slips whose entrances are skirted by the waters of the Haven. Beyond it crowing the summit of the Hill to which they give their name stands the Defensible barracks. Away to the left the continuous elevations of High St and Prospect Place are occupied by terraces and Streets of exceedingly neat looking private houses. Below and nearer us - on the level- is the larger and more business part of the town; where the mass of houses seem closely packed together, but in which the slender pinnacles of the Congregational Chapel are the only prominent object.

Seem from the Barrack Hill looking to the North we see the Dockyard beneath us. The building sheds rise majestically and Barrier like along the water's edge ; while from their dark roofs most profusely skylights twinkle in the sunshine. To their right, a Long slender structure with its roof and portions of its sides composed wholly of glass (The Glass House) is not without some pretension to beauty. Extensive and imposing blocks of stone buildings occupying the middle of the yard- devoted to various purposes -next to arrest our notice and holding an elevated central position on one of these, the clock is seen-from which the time of day is readily made out. , Nearer , fine plantations of high trees separate the well built officers' residences from the parts just described. In the south-east corner stands the Chapel of the yard, with its small square-set tower surmounted by a cupola, and cross ; and at our feet is the pretty entrance to the Establishment. All these catch the eye, and exquisitely combine to render this portion of the picture a most attractive and pleasing one.

Turning from the Dockyard we will now enumerate some of the objects which strike us as most prominent in the second part of the picture.

At the foot of the Hill are the National Schools, containing a crowd of bright, happy-looking, and intelligent children; and near to them the Victoria, Hotel at the top of Pembroke Street. A little to our right is Belle Vue Terrace, with its snug little cottages, each enveloped in the shrubbery and fruit-trees of its surrounding garden ; and adjacent, the Government reservoirs, holding two large rectangular sheets of fresh water-bright and sparkling. Beyond these latter, the Congregational Chapel, one of the most handsome edifices in the town, appears to advantage; and further along, the Town clock, situated in the rather low and un-imposing tower of St. John's Church attracts attention.

Still further beyond, the wooden huts of the Military encampment dot the grassy slope which terminates in the Admiralty Pier at Hobbs' Point,-where a pair of immense , "sheer-legs," , forms a fitting completion to the picture, which has now been describe”

1880 Up till the 1880's the road connecting Pennar with Pembroke Dock was little more than a mud track a "bitter experience on dark damp nights" and down to Lower Pennar and the Ferry was described as "a double source of danger and disgrace" Soon after decent road was constructed with the main aim of conveying goods and manpower the new Torpedo store at Pennar Point.

1881 The Corporation bought the Market Hall from the Admiralty for £4000. The Corporation later covered it in.

In the latter part of the century there was much rebuilding. Many of the early houses which had become more or less slums were replaced. The old cottages of Nailers Lane, (Wellington St.) Back Cottages (Park St) and Front St. as well as Pigs Parade (Bush St) were some. The Admiralty sold of its land in Pembroke St, Market St, Princes St, Cumby St and Victoria Rd making these sites freehold which encouraged owners to spend money replacing of refurbishing Properties in these Streets.

In 1884 according to Kelly's Directory 49 public houses are listed in as being in the town

1887 and 1889 Mr. William Seccombe the then Mayor had placed a number of seats on Barrack Hill

Kelly's Directory 1884

Pembroke Dock

Pembroke Dock, or Pater, is a ward of the municipal borough of Pembroke, from which it is distant by rail 2 and by road 3 miles; in 1844 it was formed into an ecclesiastical parish from St. Mary, Pembroke: the inhabitants, consist chiefly of trades-people and dockyard artisans. The government dockyard here possesses great natural advantages and occupies 80 acres of ground surrounded by a high wall with a formidable fort facing the water, for its protection; on Barrack Hill, immediately behind (from which the entire yard can be overlooked), are strongly fortified artillery barracks mounting guns facing every point. This place, generally called "Little England beyond Wales," was originally a farm with a house and Church, then designated "Pater Church," and was the residence of William de Paterchurch, a follower of William the Conqueror. In 1812 surveys were made, and in 1814 the nucleus of the present government dockyard establishment was formed. The Pembroke and Tenby Railway Company have a line direct into the yard, thus avoiding the transshipment of heavy stores at the passenger station. through the vicinity abounds with magnificent in land and seaboard scenery, Pembroke Dock itself has few attractions for the visitor, except the government yard and beautiful Haven, which is capable of floating the largest ships at neap tide and across which steamers are continually plying to and from Neyland (or New Milford) in connection with the Great western railway station, which is situated at the end of Dimond street, and affords communication with every part of the North of England and the Midlands vid ~ the Central Wales line.

Kelly's Directory 1884

Inns and Hotels 1884

Railway Inn	Llanion Terr	Mr John Arlow
Swan Inn	Pennar	Mr Henry Banner
Bush Hotel	Bush St	Mr Samuel Jenkins
South Wales Hotel	London Rd	Mr James Chappell
Dock Gate Inn	Melville St	Mr George Cousins (he was also a Baker)
Foresters Inn	Kings St	Mr Daniel Davies
Landshipping Inn	Queens St	Mr Thomas Davies
Rose and Crown	Queen St East	Mr William Durnford
Railway Hotel	Gwyther St	Mr Henry Elliot
Prospect Tavern	16 Prospect Place	Mr W Emmerson
Talbot Tavern	South Meyrick St.	Mr James Findlay
Star Inn	17 Water St	Mr Samuel Frise
Globe	King St	Mr John Fulcher
Salutation Inn	Lewis St	Mrs Catherine Gibby
Kings Arms	Front St	Mr George L Griffiths
Commercial Inn	Pennar	Mr Robert Court Griffiths
Swan Inn	Queens St	Mr Walter Griffiths
Clarence Inn	1 Victoria Terr	Mr James Gwyther
Rising Sun	Queen St	Mr William Gwyther
Hearts of Oak	Front St	Mr Richard Hall
Charlton Inn	South Park St	Mrs Mary Hancock
Prince Albert	Market St	Mr William Herbert
Pier Hotel	Llanion Terr	Miss Emily Hussey
Navy Inn	Queen St west	Mr William Hyde
Bush Family & Commercial Hotel	Bush St	Mr Samuel Jenkins
Hawthorne Inn	Clarence St	Mr Jenkin Henry Larkin
Red Lion Inn	Lower Commercial Rd	Mrs Mary Ann Leathlean
Bell and Lion	Commercial Row	Fredrick Lewis

Albert Inn	Dimond St	Mrs Anne Llewhellin
Rose and Crown	Queen St	Mrs Elizabeth Llewhellin
Sun Inn	Queen St East	Mr John McBean (also boot maker)
Burton Brewery Wine & Spirit vaults	Dimond St	Mr John Meyrick
Foresters Arms	Kings St	Mrs Ann Morris
Bird In Hand	Lewis St	Mr William Morris
Caledonian	High St	Mrs Elizabeth Martha Morgans
Royal Oak	Pennar	Mr David Nicholas
Duke of York	Pembroke St	Mr Fredrick Noakes
White Hart	Pembroke St	Mr Thomas Page
Alexander Inn	Water St	Mr William Page
Three Tuns	Dimond St East	Miss Mary Maria Phillips
Commercial Hotel	Queen St	Miss Emily Potter
Three Crowns	Laws St	Mrs Jane Louisa Price
Bridgewater Arms	Kings St	Mr Henry Rowley
Pembrokeshire Arms	Lower Meyrick St	Mr Albert Saxby
Queens Hotel	Queen St East	Mrs Anna Sharpe
Navy Tavern	Pembroke St	Mr John Thomas
New Cambria	Prospect Place	Mr Samuel Watkins
Prince of Wales	Laws St	Mr Sydney Webb (also photographer)
Vine	Melville St	Mr David White
Kalwentage Inn	Pennar	Mr John Williams

Entertainment

Various travelling companies of players acted in wooden theatres at the lower end of the cottages and off Lewis Street, where, among other dramas, the tragedy of 'Maria Martin' was enacted in all its horrors, and was a favourite play, being at that time quite up-to-date. One of the most patronized of these theatres was known as 'Cardonis'. Following these, other temporary 'playhouses' have stayed here at different periods. Later the Queen's Theatre was been erected in Queen Street East; the proprietor was Mr. Walter Canton.

Cook's circus was the first that came to the town, and made a great display.

Waxwork shows and travelling menageries were sources of much wonder and delight, and for many years stood in the Station Field. This is now covered by Apley Terrace and Hawkestone road. One travelling show that visited the town many years ago was very amusing. A loud-voiced showman invited the public inside to see 'a living head without a body, which was picked up rolling down the sandy plains of Africa. The deluded person who paid the modest entrance fee of twopence was rewarded by seeing the head fixed in a box-like arrangement which hid the lower part of the body of a local "celebrity", best known by the name of Pyot, the dialect word for the magpie.

The first roundabout that visited Pembroke Dock was pushed round by boys, who for this work were rewarded by getting a free ride after a certain number of turns. An improvement on this was the whirligig, which was manipulated by some person. After this came the roundabout worked by a pony, then the steam-horses, finally leading up to the gorgeous gondolas and moving animals belonging to Mr. H. Studt. These latest improvements in the way of whirligigs and the revolving gondolas - 'Venice on land' - were each accompanied by a powerful organ; the motive power which produces the music is the same as that which drives the other mechanism, and the illuminant is electricity. Mr Studt represents a family who for many years made occasional visits to the neighbourhood. He was well-known for his contributions to local charities

1904 On May 14, 1904, Colonel Cody (Buffalo Bill) brought his gigantic show of the Wild West to Pembroke Dock. Where his “North American Indian, Cossack” and other daring riders gave their magnificent display of horsemanship and marvellous shooting in a large field nearly opposite Bierspool Farm.

In the early eighties bicycle races were held in the Streets of the town, the cycle being then the old penny farthing ; some time after these races took place, a cycle-track was made on the ground leading from the Fort road to old Pater Battery. June 28, which was then kept as a holiday, being the Coronation day of Queen Victoria, was a favourite day for these races, and large crowds used to gather at such a time to witness them.

The Barrack Hill, the cricket-field, and the field opposite Bierspool, all come in for a Fair share of patronage in an athletic way. But in addition to these places, the athletes of the town had a splendid ground for football, cricket, and other games, situated on a piece of Government land opposite the County Intermediate School. The ground was leased at a low rental on condition that sports and other amusements were to be held there, but that it was not to be let to any circus or travelling show. There are three tennis clubs, and courts laid out for the game at LLanion, Bierspool, and at Kingswood.

Processions

Many processions had been held in connection with the different societies, such as those of the past in which the Foresters took part in their gay regalia and feathered hats; and of the Rechabites, who, when they paraded the Streets in the 1870's of the last century, never marched without carrying aloft on a stick a small cask, open from end to end.

Pembroke Dock people have witnessed many sights of interest in their town. There is a tradition that, when King George IV, died, the day of his funeral was observed by a procession of people, who marched round the Market Place and through the few Streets that were then built in the town. Queen Victoria was proclaimed at the Dockyard gates by, it is said, Dr. Paynter of Pembroke, who was then Mayor of the borough.

1839 The centenary of Wesleyan Methodism in 1839 was commemorated by a demonstration of Sunday-school children connected with this denomination- each child received on the occasion a medal to Mark the event .

1849 On August 14, 1849, the royal yacht, the first Victoria and Albert, with Queen Victoria, accompanied by the Prince Consort, the Prince of Wales (King Edward VII), and the Princess Royal (the late Empress of Germany), came into Milford Haven. Queen Victoria appeared on the deck of the vessel, attired in a dress of a dark material, with a white shawl loosely thrown around her shoulders, and wearing a white straw bonnet trimmed with blue, and with blue strings. Numbers of small boats put out to see the yacht, and Earl Grey, in response to the cheering of the people in them, brought His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to the side of the yacht for them to see. He was dressed in a sailor suit, with a broad white hat. A Welsh girl, habited in native costume, went on board the royal yacht, with a present of butter for Queen Victoria from the Earl Cawdor. Prince Albert came up to Pembroke Dock in the Fairy, a small yacht and viewed Pembroke Castle, but went no further. He then returned to the yacht. The Yeomanry turned out on the occasion, and a royal salute was fired from the Defensible Barracks. Queen Victoria did not land, and was never in the town.

1858 the Prince Consort and the Prince of Wales were again in the harbour, having boarded the old royal yacht from Neyland, en voyage for Ireland

.

1858 On April 7, 1858, the coming of age celebrations of Thomas Charlton Meyrick, esq., (later Sir Thomas Meyrick, Bart. C.B) took place. A dinner was held at the Victoria Hotel, and shortly after a grand Ball was also given at Bush House in honour of the occasion.

1861 The Prince Consort died on December 14, 1861. The sad news did not arrive in the town until the following day (Sunday). The body of the late Prince was interred at Windsor on December 23 (afterwards removed to Frogmore), and Pembroke Dock, together with other places in the kingdom, observed the day as one of national mourning.

1864 The marriage of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales to Princess Alexandra of Denmark took place on March 10, 1864, and was, of course, the occasion of much rejoicing. The children from the various Sunday-schools assembled together and marched through the Dockyard and principal Streets of the town, headed by the Rechabite band. The band of the volunteers also accompanied the procession. This regiment held a grand parade and review on the Barrack Hill that day. All the children were decorated with a white silk ribbon rosette, bearing in the centre portraits of the Prince and Princess. The houses were illuminated in the evening - one house in Prospect Place noticeably so, having fixed to it a large Prince of Wales's plume lighted by gas. There was a bonfire on the Barrack Hill. A Ball was held at the Victoria Hotel the same night.

1880 The Robert Raikes centenary of Sunday-schools was celebrated on June 28, 1880. Hundreds the children of the town, accompanied by bands, marched from Albion Square, through the Dockyard and the principal thoroughfares, forming a gay pageant as they walked, wearing their bright centennial medals. They disbanded and went to their Sunday-schools for tea, afterwards meeting on the Barrack Hill, where all sorts of games were indulged in.

1887 June 21 the Jubilee demonstration commemorated on Tuesday, the fifty years' reign of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. A huge procession, headed by the 81st Loyal North Lancashire military band, formed between Albion Square. and the end of Bush Street East and marched round the Streets of the town, entering the gate of the Dockyard through the main gate, and up south-east Lovers' Walk to the Barrack Hill. The procession comprised the Chamber of Trade and all the scholars of the different Sunday-schools of the town. In addition to the Loyal Lancashire brass band, there were the fife and drum band of the same regiment and the town Excelsior band in attendance. The children marched four abreast and were marshalled by Messrs. William James, John Bray, and W. H. Way on horseback. On the slopes of the Barrack Hill three cheers for Queen Victoria were given. Then the National Anthem, 'God bless the Prince of Wales', 'All hail the power of Jesus's Name', and the Doxology were heartily sung by many hundreds of people, efficiently led by Mr. D. A. Andrews. The schools divided after the singing, and marched to their several schoolrooms, where the teachers had provided tea. At half-past five they reassembled on the Hill for games; the Excelsior band and the band of the regiment played at intervals. At ten o'clock a monster bonfire was lighted, after which a display of fireworks was given by Messrs. Llewellyn and Sons, of Bristol. Each child was presented with a Jubilee medal as a memento of the day.

1892 The death of Prince Albert Victor, the late Duke of Clarence, on January 14, 1892, and his funeral, which took place at Windsor on January 20, were commemorated at Pembroke Dock. On the day his remains were interred an impressive service was held at St. John's Church, when the Mayor and Corporation and representatives of the army and navy were present. The sermon was preached by the Rev. W. R. Lloyd, then curate in charge.

1893 On July 6, 1893, the occasion of the marriage of the Duke of York and Princess May of Teck (now the Prince and Princess of Wales), Pembroke Dock was decorated and illuminated.

On the Barrack Hill, a bonfire was lighted, and fireworks were set off by Mr. K. McAlpin and Mr. Joseph Tucker, of Commercial Row. Many of the townspeople wore a White rose, the York emblem, on the day.

1897 The celebrations of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee on Tuesday, June 22, 1897, were carried out on much the same lines as on Jubilee Day, 1887. The Sunday schools assembled in a field east of Bush Street, kindly lent by Mrs. Owen Davies, of Waterloo House. The band of the 2nd Battalion Devon Regiment (Colonel Bullock commanding officer) headed the procession. The Salvation Army band also marched and played. Before the procession started the Sunday-school officers distributed medals to the children; then 'God save the Queen' and 'God bless the Prince of Wales' were sung. The same marshals were in attendance as in 1887, with the addition of Mr. James Eastlake Thomas. Inside the grounds of the Dockyard the English and Welsh National Anthems were sung, after which the children proceeded in marching order to the Barrack Hill, where 'All hail the power of Jesu's Name' the National Anthem, and the Doxology were again sung by the direction of Mr. Fred Sanders, and conducted by Mr. D. A. Andrews. The children afterwards dispersed to their own schools.

Calamities and disasters

It is not to be expected that during the space of ninety years the town has escaped all calamity.

1866 On January 8th 1866, Bush House, at that time the residence of Mr. Meyrick, the owner of the estate, was burnt down. The fire broke out at five o'clock in the evening through some inadvertence. A beam in the chimney caught fire. There was a strong westerly breeze going at the time, which fanned the flames and caused them to spread quickly. The Dockyard men living in the district of Pembroke, who were returning home from work, rendered great assistance, as did also the soldiers of the 6th Royal Warwickshire Regiment, but all to no purpose, as far as saving the mansion went, although they were able to remove many valuables to places of safety. The fire, happily, was not accompanied by any loss of life.

1880 The biggest fire that has occurred in the town, until the Tank fire of World War II, was that which destroyed the 'Emporium' drapery establishment in Bush Street, then owned by the late Mr. David Jenkins. About ten o'clock on the night of July 12, 1880, the first alarm was given. The flames increased so rapidly that they grew beyond control, and the whole of the house was soon on fire, and was completely burned. Unfortunately, a young man named Richards, an assistant in the business, lost his life in the burning building.

The drapery business of Mr. Thomas Phelps, which was at one time carried on in Commercial Row, suffered greatly from a destructive fire. The conflagration spread until it reached the ironmongery establishment of Mr. J. Phillips next door, and did immense mischief. In consequence of this fire both these businesses were discontinued.

Fire also threatened the destruction of Mr. J. Hancock's drapery establishment, the Crillion, in Dimond Street, but, fortunately, it was subdued before it had taken too great a hold.

1897 A volunteer fire-brigade was formed in the town in 1897, and paraded for the first time in the Mayor's (Mr. William Davies) Procession to Albion Square Congregational Church in 1898. It also marched in Alderman McColl's mayoral procession in 1900 to St. Andrew's Chapel, and likewise took part in the historical pageant in Coronation year, 1902. The late Mr. D. Hughes Brown, Mrs. J. Allen, and Mr. McColl were the first promoters of this fire-brigade.

1905 Owing to lack of support the brigade was disorganized

Calamities other than those by fire have happened in the town. Some have been caused, of course, by the various dangers to be met with in any big works. The waters that wash our coast are responsible for many others.

1831 The daughters of Mr. William Henderson, of Bangeston House, lost their lives by the foundering of a steam packet called the Frolic, which was wrecked off the Nash Sands (Glamorganshire), September, 1831. This ship was comparatively new, having only been in use about a year for trading every fortnight between Bristol and Haverfordwest.

1889 A sad accident, resulting in the loss of nine lives, happened on Friday afternoon, February 8, 1889. It was Market. day and the weather was very stormy. The Market-women were returning home across Bentlass Ferry, and the boat was heavily laden, with, amongst other things, a sack of flour; while proceeding across the water, just before reaching the other side, the boat capsized with all her living freight, and the seven women and two men of whom it consisted were drowned. The sadness of the disaster was added to by the thought that they were within one would have surmised, such easy reach of help, and the tide, at the time was but at low ebb.

This was not the only tragedy connected with Pennar and the Gut (More information is recorded under Pennar)

Newspapers

(Acc/to Mrs Peters)

1844 Pembrokeshire Herald Published in Haverfordwest. First and only newspaper carrying any information and local news (published by Mr. J. T. Morris)

1855 Potters' Electric News, but in 1870 became incorporated with the Pembrokeshire Herald.

1861 Pembroke Dock and Tenby Gazette founded by Mr W. G. Phillips published every Thursday cost one penny At first published in Queen St East but later moved to North Meyrick St. It was later renamed Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette and was a Liberal paper . Mr W. G. Phillips died in 1889 and Mr J.A.Beed became editor. He was followed by Mr Llewellyn Powell son in law of the founder and then his eldest son Mr H. Montague Powell

Free Press, mainly a Pembroke paper, but which contains Pembroke Dock news, proprietor Mr Ivor Ward Davies

The Pembrokeshire Times, was the Tenby Telephone, edited in Bush Street, Pembroke Dock, by Mr. William C.Harris and printed by Mr.Alfred Cozens, later station-master at Lamphey.

1880 and 1882 Pembroke Dock Express.a halfpenny paper existed for a short time only.

1901 The Pembroke Dock Journal was first published on January 24, 1901. A penny weekly paper, published every Wednesday at the Journal office, North Meyrick Street, by its owner, Mr. W. G. Dobson.

1904 The Weekly Post a Conservative local paper, published from the Weekly Post offices in Bush Street, January, 1904, edited by Messrs. John Thomas and Son.

Solicitors 1905

(Acc/to Mrs Peters)

The legal profession is represented in the town by Mr.H.A. Jones-Lloyd , solicitor (offices Bush Street)

Mr. F. W. Merriman of the firm of Messrs. George Thomas and Merriman, solicitors (offices, 11 Meyrick Street North).

Mr. W. G. Wynne, son of Major Wynne of Mellaston, has recently been admitted a solicitor and has purchased the practice of the late Mr. D. Hughes Brown of Meyrick Street North.

Mr.F.S.Reed, solicitor of Pembroke, has an office in Dimond Street Pembroke Dock

Doctors 1905

(Acc/to Mrs Peters 1905)

The members of the medical profession are:-

Dr.H.D.Reynolds,M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.;

Dr.E.A.Saunders, M.R.C.S., L.S.A.;

Dr.Geoffrey Stamper, M.R.C.S. L.S.A.;

Dr.R.H.Williams, M.R.C.S. L.R.C.P.

Dr.W.B.Wall, M.R.C.S. L.R.C.P., of Pembroke has a consulting-room at Pembroke Dock.

Population & Census returns

	Population	Inhabitated houses
1851	6236	1069
1861	10190	1353
1871	9622	1670
1881	9871	1752
1891	10481	1912

Other Shipbuilding and Industries in the Area

1700's shipbuilding in Pembroke River near Bentlass

1700's Shipbuilding and boat building at Pembroke Ferry by the Allen Family

1780 "Prince of Wales" built for the Admiralty at what is now Neyland

1784 "Triumph" built for the Admiralty in same yard.

Mr. William Robinson

In Pembroke Dock the first yard was that of Mr. William Robinson in Front St. He also had a timber yard and two large saw pits. He had been a Dockyard Clerk but had been left a large amount of property and left the Dockyard to start up in business. Among the vessels built was a barque for the timber trade called Resolution. The Resolution was wrecked coming over from America with timber. .He also purchased a paddle steamer the Cambria the first steam vessel to carry a member of the Royal family and had a gilded crown on the bulkhead of the engine room The Monarch was George IV in 1821 and he travelled on the paddle steamer between Newport and Bristol. Mr Robinson lived in a large house in Water St which was later divided up into smaller dwellings.

Among his other business interests was a flour mill at Hazelbeach which could be worked by either steam or water. He converted the old lightships which had been moored at Carr Rocks and Weir Point one into a barge and the other into a pontoon which he moored at Neyland point with a sloping stage which could be varied according to the tide. The Cambria was used as a ferrysteamer between Neyland and Hobbs Point and thus was the first mechanically propelled ferry between the two points. Mr Robinson also purchased another steamer "Pearl" which was used on the Irish trade at first but later used for running excursion trips.

1850's Mr. Richard Allen had a yard on the west side of Water St. He built the Arethusa for Captain Pring of Brixham.

1856 Mr. Allen formed a partnership with Mr. James Warlow. The firm called Allen and Warlow built vessels until 1868. Among them was the Carmarthenshire, the first Merchant vessel to enter Yokohama Harbour. She was owned by Messrs David Jenkins of London, Merchants, and carried 1250 tons of Cardiff coal.

1868 In 1868 the firm became Allen and Long for about three years. Then Richard Allen and Son, Shipbuilders. They were appointed contractors to the Trinity Brethren for the repair of Lightships and were also Admiralty Contractors. Also they built and operated a steamer called Wave which ferried people to and from Landshipping and other places on route on a Friday for Pembroke Dock Market.

1873 Richard Allen died and his son Mr. S R Allen JP inherited, he moved the business to Lower Meyrick St.

1858 1860 Messrs McMaster and Co built ships at Front St., among those built were a brigantine the Katherine Jane and a Barque the Monte Belle. The Yard was afterwards converted into a Timber Store and the firm went into the Timber business with saw mills in Front St.

1873 1879 The Pembroke Dock Co Operative Shipbuilding Co employed about 100 men on the site at the bottom of Meyrick St. They failed and the vessel on the Stocks was completed by Mc Masters and Co.

1888 Messrs J & W Francis Shipbuilders of Milford started a business at Front St established by Mr. A.B.Harris who took over the saw pits of Mr. William Robertson Timber Merchant and Shipbuilder It was sold to Messers Mc Masters & Co and then to Messers Robinson Davis & Co of Cardiff and then Jewsons.

Saw Mills Front St.

Jacobs Pill Pennar

1874 a large shipbuilding Yard commenced at Jacobs Pill built the Hei Yei a corvette for the Japanese Navy launched in 1877. Another ship built there was the Acorn. The last work carried out was the building of a Caisson for the Government, the yard closed in 1884.

Jacob's Pill County Records Office Haverfordwest. Deeds D/LLO/59 66

Haverfordwest Milford Haven Shipbuilding and Engineering Co Ltd (Jacobs Pill) leased many Properties in Fleet St in March 1874 from the Orielton Estate.

Company went into liquidation in 1885 as part of the liquidation settlement the company assigned to Saurin its foreshore right in front of Fleet St. which it had acquired from the Board of Trade

[acc/to the estate map the yard was on the Pennar side of Jacobs Pill]
(see also under Pennar)

Fortifications and those Manning them

1539 Thomas Cromwell proposed the fortification of the Haven and two blockhouses were started at Angle and Dale but not completed.

1595 George Owen prepared a plan for the fortification of the Haven but it was not carried out

1643 Richard Steele, a royalist engineer constructed Pill Fort near Milford Haven -- it did not hold out for Long

1689 The Privy Council discussed the problem of the defence of the Haven and an engineer was sent to survey the area but no further action was taken

1748 Lewis Morris carried out a survey of shipwrecks and navigation in the Haven and suggested that a small fort be built on Stack Rock -- nothing was done

1757 Lt Col Bastide (Director of Engineers) was sent to survey the area and advise on suitable sites for forts and batteries.

He suggested -- Dale point, Great Castle Head, West Angle, Popton Point, Paterchurch and Neyland and a floating battery anchored 500yds north of Chapel Bay. --- The effective range of the cannon was about 500yds so there were areas not covered.

An alternative plan provided for a fort at Paterchurch point, one at Llanion Point and one at Neyland. The Ordinance department was put in charge of construction and land purchased. Only one the Paterchurch fort was started but it was not completed. The Paterchurch fort that was started stretched from the Carr Rocks to the foot of St. Patrick's Hill and the walls were built in the form of a zigzag with a total area of 10 acres. When the remains of this fort were demolished in 1836 during an expansion of the yard, the masonry of parts was so hard that it to be blown up to remove it.

From 1801 to 1803 batteries of guns were sited at Milford Haven to defend the dockyard there one at Hakin Point and one on the site of St. Katherine's Church. It is not recorded what guns were actually sited there.

Pater Fort

1830 With the Dockyard moving to Pater in consideration was given to fortifying the area and in 1830 work was carried out at Pater Fort. It was garrisoned in 1831 but in 1836 it was dismantled. No record is available as to what armament was installed.

Paterchurch Battery

1840 work was started by the Admiralty of the Paterchurch Battery and completed in 1842 and mounted 23 guns. It was taken over by the Ordinance Department in 1855 and renovated in accordance with plans drawn up by Lt Gordon (Gordon of Khartoum) of the Royal Engineers. Until 1855 it was only entered through a gateway via the Dockyard and in charge of a Naval Gunner. The last one was a Mr Turner. It was used by the Royal Dockyard Battalion from 1847 to 1857 and in that year, on its being taken over by the Ordinance Department a gateway was made so as to allow entry to the Battery from outside the Dockyard wall. In 1864 the Pembroke Dock Artillery Volunteers used it for gun drill and firing practise. It was finally dismantled in 1902 when some of the stone was used for the erection of a new fitter's workshop and some for St Teilo's Church Llanion.

Defensible Barracks

This and the odd bullets, cap badges and tunic buttons, which are still occasionally washed to the surface by the winter rains that lash the Barracks Hill, are all that remain to remind the golfer and stroller of a proud and distinguished past when practically every major regiment of the line was garrisoned at Pembroke Dock.

1844 For the army garrison the defensible barracks was erected above the town work commenced in 1844 and the army took possession on 25th November 1845. This barracks was not designed to mount artillery but a Gun was fired daily at noon and at 9.30 pm from it. This needed according to the original plans a clear field of fire with no buildings encroaching on it surrounding the Barracks and the War department drew up proposals to clear all building to Llanreath at the west, to the stream of water running at the south and east of Cross Park, to the road at Tregennis Hill (all the houses built on the west side) and down to Victoria Rd on the north. Farmer Whites house and all the farm buildings were the first to be cleared as their lease had expired. All the other buildings were held on leases with unexpired portions and the tenants were asked to sell. It would appear that pressure was brought to bear on many of the tenants especially those who were working for the Admiralty and the houses were demolished. All the houses on the west side of Tregennis Hill, much of Cross Park including all those on the North side, and all Wesley Row including the Ebenezer Chapel.

Martello Towers

The Martello towers were built in 1850-1851; the contractors were 'Messrs. Joseph and Charles Rigby, London; chief-foreman, Mr, Stovall; under-foreman Mr.Noakes, father of Mr.Noakes, High Street. They were intended as a coast defence. One is situated off the Hard, Front Street, and the other opposite the Fort road. One to the South west , was designed to accommodate 1 x 32pounder + 4 x 12 pdr. brass howitzers and the other,by Front street 3 x 32 pdrs. These towers were formerly occupied by sergeants of the artillery and their families, but are now unoccupied and obsolete for military purposes. The one approached by the Fort road is utilized for storage, but the other, off the Front Street, is now a museum

Pennar Torpedo Stores and Magazine near Pennar Point.

1875 A description in 1875 reads--Near the shore at Pennar Point (or Pennar Gut) are torpedo stores and magazines. Submarine Mining experiments have been carried on in connection with this station, and all appliances are kept there for Mining the Haven in case of need. At present these submarine Mining works belong to the War Department, and Royal Engineers are established there. But in the near future it is thought that the Admiralty will take over from the War Department all these works. These arrangements are understood to be part of a new scheme for the defence of Milford Haven, and will probably be developed on lines suggested in a recent Parliamentary statement made by the Right Hon, Arnold-Forster, Secretary of State for War.

If this transfer should take place, it may eventually happen that a torpedo depot will be established in the neighbour Hood of Pennar Gut. This has, it is believed, been under consideration, and a part of the Pembroke river already been surveyed for this purpose.

Much money has been expended on the various buildings in connection with this establishment at Pennar, the total cost approximately being £17,000.

1875 Findlay records

The Garrison comprises Artillery infantry of the line and forms part of the 24th Brigade depot'. The total number of men of all ranks, including those in charge of the forts down the Haven, is about 1,500, the larger portion of which occupies the Hut Encampment and the Defensible Barracks.

The Hut Encampment is situated upon a acclivity on the north-east side of the town. It was formed about the time of the late Crimean War. It consists of a large number of huts, built chiefly of wood, arranged in parallel lines - those of the officers standing separately from those of the non-commissioned officers and men and those devoted to hospital purposes from both.

A large stone-built residence for the doctor-formerly used as a hospital, a fine brick canteen, and a splendid gymnasium ; besides schools, Ball-court, etc. There is also a capital parade ground, with plenty of space for field, exercises, and a most capacious magazine for the storage of the War material necessary for the troops in this district.

The Defensible Barracks, standing on the summit of a Hill overlooking the town, are always most conspicuous and striking objects. They are visible at a distance of, several miles. From their elevated position, they command the town- a large portion of which lies at the foot of the Hill, the harbour, and the country in all directions: they would in case of actual necessity be well adapted for purposes of defence. ,

They are strong and well-constructed buildings, erected in the year 1844, occupying an area of 6,000 square yards." The outworks are strengthened by ramparts, loopholes, for small arms, and an entrenchment thirty feet wide and twenty feet deep. The outer boundary of the entrenchment was formerly unenclosed, which made it very unsafe for persons approaching it after night had set in; and during the first occupation of the defences by detachments of the Royal Marines-Plymouth Division-some twenty-eight or thirty years ago, several unfortunate members of that corps lost their lives through falling into it, as the grave-stones erected to their memory in the Old Burial Ground only too truly testify.

The barracks, occupying the centre of the works enclose a large quadrangular area and are reached by a drawbridge. The Royal Artillery has for many years occupied them. The armament at present consists of twenty four pounders(used only for firing salutes), likely shortly to be replaced by much heavier ordinance From here a gun is fired morning and evening -- sunrise and sunset-daily Throughout the year, as is usual in most garrison towns."

Pater Battery is situated at the north west extremity of the dockyard, which it adjoins and protects. It mounts twenty-three guns-among them being one breech loading Armstrong 112-pounder. It is a very neat and compact fortification, and is much used by Artillery Volunteers for gun-practice It is occupied by the Royal Artillery

The Martell Towers are two in number erected in the years 1849-50. They are situated, one on the southwest, and the other on the north east of the dockyard -the latter being the larger. They mount five and seven heavy guns respectively. The Royal Artillery occupies them

.....

1899 quarters for married artillerymen were built on the east side of the Barracks on the site of some very old cottages.

The need to garrison regular troops on a permanent basis did not arise until the establishment of the Admiralty dockyard at Pembroke in 1814. Originally the Yard was under the care of caretakers, then a small force of under a naval lieutenant was formed.

Royal Marines

Eventually it was decided to protect the yard with a force of 500 Royal Marines. These men were to be accommodated in HMS Dragon, a hulk deliberately run ashore near the developing dockyard. This accommodation was used until the Defensible Barracks were opened. Work on Defensible, which overlooked the dockyard, had commenced in 1844 and possession was taken at 3 p.m. on 25 November 1845. This was signalled to the spectators by the hoisting of the Union flag; meanwhile, the workmen who had been employed in the construction enjoyed a substantial dinner. When the barracks were ready for occupation the Marines, drawn from the Plymouth, Portsmouth and Woolwich Divisions gratefully moved in.

The Royal Dockyard Battalion

1847 Was a force of volunteers formed from the Dockyard employee's. It is believed that every man who was fit in the Yard, except for one, volunteered. It was raised in 1847 and consisted of eight companies of artillery and infantry combined and one company entitled the boat brigade. The salaried Yard Officers formed the Officers of the battalion and the instructors were professional soldiers. The Yard Officers appointed the non-commissioned Officers from among the volunteers. The uniform consisted of a blue frock coat and trousers, red facings, brass buttons and a spiked helmet. They drilled for two hours, twice a week and were paid sixpence an hour. Some afternoons were given over to target practice and once a year a field exercise was held to which the general public were admitted. Blank ammunition was used for these field exercises but there was the one occasion when a ramrod was fired off by mistake narrowly missing the Commanding Officer. There were comments that the man who fired should have been court-martialed for missing the target. Target practice by the infantry was much encouraged by setting apart certain afternoons during the summer months for the purpose. The place selected for the firing was Llanreath Point, just a little to the west of Mr. David Price's house. The target was fixed along the beach to the south. A good deal of rivalry existed between the companies which was fostered by the officers in giving prizes, and it was a remarkable fact that the company possessing the greatest number of shipwrights was the premier shooting company. The leaden bullet used at that time was five-eighths of an inch in diameter.

Transporting the regiment by boats, which also conveyed the field guns. One occasion stands out According to Mason

"The Field Day in the summer of 1853 was announced to be a special one. The troops were to be conveyed across the water with every equipment for service. The day arrived with a beautifully fine morning, which induced thousands of spectators to cross over to Neyland. Milford and Haverfordwest also furnishing their quota. Shortly after noon, a great number of boats; loaded with soldiers, shot out from the Dockyard, crossed over to the north side of the Haven, and landed on the beach between Neyland point and Church-lake. The regiment formed up with field guns, and marched with the splendid band playing a lively air, to a field at the Gale near Great Honey borough. It was a sight to be remembered. The battalion was drawn up in line in an oblong space reserved for the review ground, and an immense concourse of people surrounded, the ladies dressed in their lightest summer attire and straw hats "being conspicuous amongst the gentlemen". The battalion went through various evolutions splendidly, and were much admired. At about; .3.30 p.m.; the field guns were being exercised and several rounds fired. The first concussion of this firing produced a slight rain, and as the firing went on, the sky assumed a black, threatening appearance, which suddenly broke out into a terrible thunderstorm. Vivid flashes of lightning flew in every direction, and the rain descended “in a devastating rush”, which scattered the people to seek for shelter. This could not be found, there being only a few houses near at hand. Everybody seemed to be almost immediately saturated, and the ladies looked most pitiable in their wet flimsy garments. The review was cut short, and the battalion limbered up guns and marched of the field en-route for their boats, to re-cross to the Dockyard . When they reached the road, which had become a quagmire, crowded with people going in the direction of the beach, the scene could only be likened to the final attack of the French at the battle of Waterloo. “ They got mixed” it was impossible to keep anything like formation and the word was passed “ Get to the boats the best way you can”. The result was that about one third did not reach the boats, some went directly home and some found themselves in Haverfordwest.

1857 it was decided that the Royal Dockyard Battalions were no longer required, and with the exception of Malta, they were removed from the Army List.

After the Pembroke Dock Battalion were disbanded the Pater Volunteer Artillery Corps were reformed, and they continued to serve until 1861.

The Royal Dockyard battalions were never intended to be used as front line troops, their primary task was to defend the Dockyards, but in the event of invasion they were expected to assist the Coastal Defence Units.

Regiments of the Line pre Crimea war

In 1850 the Royal Marines, who had formed the Pembroke Dock garrison since the first houses were built around the dockyard thirty-five years previously, were replaced by regiments of the line. General Gordon, destined to die at Khartoum many years later, was a young Royal Engineer Lieutenant stationed at Pembroke Dock at the time of the outbreak of the Crimean War. It is said that when he received his posting to the Crimea, Gordon exclaimed: ‘I have received my death warrant!’

The 21st East Surrey Regiment was at Pembroke Dock when it, too, received orders to embark for the Crimea. Their departure was impressive; on a bitterly cold morning the East Surreys, led by their Commanding Officer, Colonel Slater, marched from the Barracks Hill to the dockyard steps. From there they were ferried out to the troopship Imperadore. After the soldiers had gone, collections were made in the town and dockyard in aid of the wives and children left behind.

The Royal Monmouth Militia replaced them

Militia Men

Militiamen formed the Pembroke Dock Garrison for most of the time of the Crimea War, and from all accounts they were an ill disciplined lot. Many were billeted on the townspeople, who were pleased, when the war ended and the militiamen departed.

The Royal Monmouth Militia had to March from Haverfordwest in a blizzard to Pembroke Dock and moved into the Defensible Barracks the same day that the East Surrey’s left.

There are several records, which show the sorts of problems associated with the militia.

One was tried by Court-Martial disobeying an order in that he proceeding to Pembroke without a Pass.

In October 1855 a party of Militia who had been in Duke of Wellington Hotel broke windows of some of the residence in the area, by throwing stones at them. The Duke of Wellington was put “Out of Bounds” and a military piquet of four NCO’s and 12 rank and file policed the town between 7.30pm and 9.30pm to prevent further disorder

Regiments of the Line post Crimea war

1856 to 1861, regiments stationed at Pembroke Dock included the Monmouthshire Light Infantry and the green-uniformed Montgomery Rifles.

1861 batteries of the 15th Brigade, considered to be an elite corps, arrived, to be followed by the 1865 62nd Wiltshire Regiment arrived. This regiment had its own band; it played at the unveiling of the memorial to the Prince Consort on Castle Hill, Tenby, by HRH Prince Arthur, later Duke of Connaught.

1866 The Royal Warwickshire Regiment whose soldiers rendered valuable assistance when the original Bush House at Pembroke, seat of the Meyrick family, caught fire in 1866 succeeded the Wiltshires. Despite their heroism and that of others, the stately building was destroyed.

1871 The 103rd Foot, also known as the Bombay Fusiliers, occupied part of Defensible in 1871

1873 The 1st Battalion of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers whose Commanding Officer was a Colonel Prevost. Even in a town used to the pomp and splendour of the Victorian military, this regiment attracted considerable attention, not least because of the handsome goat that invariably led ceremonial parades.

The 'Holy Boys' of the 9th East Norfolk Regiment followed the Fusiliers. Their fine band under its dashing Italian Bandmaster, Signor Bonicoli, a member of the Regiment, created a big impression.

95th Derbyshire,

54th Dorsetshire and

41st Welch Regiments, the last-named commanded by Sir Hugh Rowland, VC It, too, had a goat as its mascot.

1877 The 36th Worcester Regiment was in residence at Defensible from 1877 to 1879. Its soldiers were the last in Pembroke Dock to have a green facing on their uniforms and to wear the old shako-style headdress. The Regiment was also the last to attend services in the Royal Dockyard Chapel. For some unknown reason Dr Ring, the Dockyard Chaplain had objected to the presence of troops in the Chapel. The military took offence and ever thereafter attended Divine Service in the Parish Church of St. John.

1880 a hutted encampment was created to lodge an overspill of men from Defensible. This was on land overlooking the present Pier road at Pembroke Dock, just below the future site of Llanion Barracks where building was due to begin in 1889.

One of the encampment's first occupants was the 2nd Battalion, 23rd Royal Welsh Fusiliers, whose Commanding Officer, Colonel Luke O'Connor, was a remarkable man. Commissioned from the ranks, a difficult achievement in those days, he had won the VC in the Crimea. Though severely wounded he had saved his regiment's colours during the thick of the fighting on the heights of Alma.

While the Fusiliers were at Pembroke Dock, a detachment of the Royal Marine Artillery was also stationed there, quartered in the hospital ship Nankin. This was the time of the Fenian scare and the Marines were brought in from Portsmouth to add weight to the police protection of the dockyard, taking sentinel duty on the yard's boundary walls.

After a tour of duty in Nova Scotia, the Royal Munster Fusiliers arrived in the trooper Himalaya. Though weary after the Atlantic crossing, the Munster's marched in immaculate style to Defensible and were said to be the finest body of men ever seen on the Streets of Pembroke Dock up to that time. They, too, had an excellent band; Mr. Dunkerton, their bandmaster, subsequently became bandmaster in the Scots Guards.

Next into Defensible came the 81st Loyal North Lancashire's. During this regiment's stay the Rev. Stuart Patterson, the Garrison Chaplain, discovered among its possession a Bible on which George Washington, first President of the United States was said to have taken his Freemasonry Oath. This was obviously a trophy of the American War of Independence, in which the North Lancashire's had fought over a century earlier.

1891 In December 1891 the 88th Connaught Rangers under Sir George Larpent stepped ashore at Pembroke Dock in a snowstorm, in marked contrast to the heat of Aden, their previous station. However, the prospect of spending Christmas at home after service abroad put the soldiers in much better humour once they had bedded down. The officers were men of considerable wealth, keen to encourage and promote sport in the locality, and one of their presentations was a cup for competition in the Pembroke Steeplechases. During the regiments stay a steel engraving representing General Picton, of Waterloo fame; was presented to the officers' mess by Sir Owen Scourfield, Bart.

1893 After the departure of the Connaughts, the artillery took over garrison duties until 24 November 1893, when the trooper Himalaya again put into Milford Haven, this time with the 41st Welch Regiment from Malta. There was a particularly warm welcome for the bandmaster, Mr. Rowlandson, a popular and well-remembered figure from the regiment's earlier stay in Pembroke Dock. Its band played the Vespers Hymn every night at 9.30 on the Hut Encampment parade ground, a sum of money having been bequeathed for this to be done. In addition the Welsh and English National Anthems were played.

1894 On St Davids Day 1894 the regiment indulged in traditional celebrations and that night there was a grand banquet in the officers' mess. In the early hours of the following morning, by which time the mess was unoccupied; it was ravaged by fire. Many valuable items, including the mess silver, were destroyed, and for some time afterwards the officers dined at the Pier Hotel and, subsequently, in a spacious room in the old Pembroke Dock library, specially converted for the purpose. It was still in use as an officers' mess room in the early years of the 1900's

1895 On 17 August 1895 the paddle steamer Cambria brought the 2nd Battalion of the Devon Regiment (11th Foot) from Ilfracombe. They were commanded initially by Colonel Kinder and then by Colonel Bullock, who was to achieve fame in the Boer War by refusing to surrender. He was only taken prisoner after being knocked unconscious.

When the Devon's left the 2nd Battalion of the 24th South Wales Borderers (the 24th Regiment of Foot) replaced them. Every Pembrokeshire schoolboy knew about this regiment and its heroic defence of the Rorke's Drift mission station in Natal during the Zulu War eighteen years earlier. The 24th marched through South Wales to Pembroke Dock and was given a tumultuous welcome all along the route by thousands of people. When approaching Pembroke Dock the marching soldiers detoured to Pembroke, where a large crowd in the Castle gave them a rousing reception and regaled them with refreshments. There was an official welcome from the Mayor, Councillor Samuel J. Allen, who, accompanied by officials in a four-horse brake, members of the Corporation on foot and the band of the 1st Volunteer Battalion Welsh Regiment (E Company), then preceded the regiment to Pembroke Dock. There Streets were lined three and four deep with cheering crowds as the 24th, bayonets fixed and Colours flying, marched past.

1899 the 1st Battalion Royal Welsh Fusiliers arrived from Ludgershall, Salisbury Plain, on 5 September 1899. Its stay in Pembroke Dock was brief for, on Sunday, 22 October, the regiment entrained for Southampton on its way to South Africa. On the morning of departure from Pembroke Dock, a reservist from Cardiff was killed when a drummer named Grainger accidentally discharged his rifle. He was placed under immediate arrest but his subsequent acquittal by a court martial came too late for him to follow his comrades to South Africa. The regiment's commanding officer, Colonel Thorold, a man of exceptionally fine physique, was killed in the Boer War.

1899 The Royal Welsh Fusiliers were swiftly replaced by the 3rd Battalion of the Welch Regiment (Royal Glamorgan Militia), said to be the largest militia battalion in the British Army at that time. These soldiers occupied the hut encampment; their stay was brief for they were soon on their way to South Africa.

Throughout the Boer Campaign Pembroke Dock was overflowing with troops for, in addition to the Royal Northern Reserve Regiment, which was stationed there, the town also accommodated Number 1 Company of the Royal Garrison Artillery, the 35th Royal Engineers, and a section of the Royal Pembrokehire Militia. They all did garrison duty until the New Year of 1903. Many of the men in the Royal Northern Reserve Regiment were time-expired veterans who had fought Throughout the Empire in Queen Victoria's 'Little Wars'; they wore a string of campaign medals with great pride.

1903 One of the most famous regiments in the British Army, the King's Shropshire Light Infantry, commanded by Colonel Bulman, DSO, arrived in March 1903 from Poonah, India, and there were mixed fortunes for the men in respect of accommodation. Some were lucky enough to move into a block of the half-completed Llanion Barracks, but the majority was quartered in the old hut encampment.

Llanion Barracks

Although condemned some nine years earlier by the Duke of Cambridge, then Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, the huts had remained in use and the decision was made to extend their life until the new barracks, able to accommodate two battalions, was ready. Building commenced in 1899 and was completed in 1906. There were a number of innovations, not least a commodious mess Hall for the soldiers. At Defensible and the hut encampment, they had slept and eaten in the same barrack-room, a practice that had been common throughout the British Army until the modernisation of barracks and the construction of new ones like Llanion. The new messing arrangements, therefore, were warmly welcomed. Each barrack-block had a veranda so that the men could sit and chat in the open air, and the large gymnasium could also be used for concerts, balls and other entertainments. Houses were built for married personnel who wished to bring their families to Pembroke Dock.

The opening of Llanion Barracks signalled the gradual demise of the sixty-year-old fort at Defensible. It had served its purpose well, quartering Throughout Victoria's reign many thousands of troops in defence of the Royal Dockyard. It would never again be the principal source of accommodation for regiments garrisoned at Pembroke Dock, although right up to the early 1950s it continued to be occupied from time to time by various small units of the regular army, and local territorials.

Scores of Pembrokehire men enlisted at the Llanion Barracks during the Great War, and after the War distinguished regiments continued to serve two to three-year stints at Pembroke Dock. In the mid-1920s the Royal Welsh Fusiliers - and their goat!, came back. Between then and the outbreak of the Second World War, a number of regiments were stationed at Llanion Barracks including the East Lancs, the Essex, the Royal Fusiliers, the King's Shropshire Light Infantry and The Buffs. The latter formed the garrison when Britain declared hostilities with Germany on the morning of 3 September 1939.

In October 1943 the first foreign troops to be stationed at Llanion Barracks moved in. They were American GIs of the 110th US Infantry Regiment, which formed part of the 28th US Infantry Division from Pennsylvania. The bulk of the 5,000-strong regiment was at Pembroke Dock, with various companies based at Lamphey, Cresselly, Haverfordwest and Fishguard. For the next eight months this regiment trained extensively in Pembrokeshire for the invasion of Europe, finding the county's many beaches ideal for the purpose. Strenuous route marches were also undertaken in the Preseli hills.

Off-duty the GIs made many friends, and lay on parties for hundreds of local children over the Christmas period, 1943. They also challenged the Pembrokeshire Home Guard to a shooting match, believing that their riflemen - in the best tradition of the American frontier - were second to none. In fact the old timers of the Home Guard won!

1944 General Dwight D. Eisenhower,

On 1 April 1944 the Supreme Allied Commander, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, paid a surprise visit to the 110th Regiment. Mr. Joe Gough of Pembroke, then a detective with the Pembrokeshire Constabulary recalled:

“It was not until the day before, that we were informed Eisenhower was coming. I was detailed, along with a colleague, Jack Evans, to act as the General's civilian police escort. He arrived by train at Tenby and was met by a delegation of top US Army brass. From Tenby our police car led a fast convoy of American military vehicles, with motor cycle out-riders, to the headquarters of the 110th Infantry Regiment at Llanion Barracks, Pembroke Dock. There the soldiers were lined up for inspection and afterwards Ike asked them to gather round so he could address them. I was struck by the friendly rapport he had with the men”.

The 110th Regiment's Intelligence Officer was Major (later Brigadier General) Robert M. Gaynor. He remembered that day at Pembroke Dock thus:

“It was chilly and damp and the troops had been standing on the barrack square in the rain and windy gloom for some time. They were a bit displeased but Ike's appearance, with his overwhelming personality, quickly changed the mood and most of us remember the occasion with great satisfaction.”

For his part, Ralph Johnson of Philadelphia, then a chief warrant officer and the regiment's assistant adjutant, recalled:

“After the inspection Ike stood in a jeep and used a Bull-horn to speak to us. Later he walked through the re-formed ranks, chatting briefly here and there. He spoke to the soldier next to me and asked 'Are you ready?' The answer had to be 'Yes.' “Before leaving he shouted farewell and added 'Good luck! See you when we cross the Rhine, and we'll all have a drink together.' Sure enough, on the day we did make the Rhine crossing, trucks arrived loaded with cases of champagne. There was a bottle for every three GIs”

Eisenhower also visited other units of the 110th Infantry scattered around Pembrokeshire, including the regiment's Cannon Company, whose members were billeted in Cresselly House, Cresselly. A member of the domestic staff was Miss Martha Davies, who later became housekeeper and did not retire until the mid-1980s. She recalled:

“We were aware someone very important was going to arrive, and there was great excitement when General Eisenhower was seen stepping out of his car. The American soldiers paraded on the lawn and I watched from the staircase window as he inspected them. The General had a most engaging smile and impressed us as being affable but determined. I remember that miniature Stars and Stripes were attached to the mudguards of his staff car. After seeing Ike I think we all sensed it would not be Long before the invasion of Europe got under way.”

Winston Churchill

There was another very important visitor to Pembrokeshire round about the same time. Prime Minister Winston Churchill watched invasion exercises on the beaches at Amroth and Wiseman's Bridge, accompanied by senior British and American officers. Mrs Olive Cook, whose parents, Jack and 'Artie' Mathias, then kept the Wiseman's Bridge Inn, recalled: "There was tremendous excitement when it was realised the great man himself was in our midst. He and his companions stopped by the Inn for refreshments and we carried trays of tea, sandwiches and Welsh cakes out to his car, which was flying a small Union Jack from the bonnet. Mr. Churchill's daughter Sarah, who was his chauffeur and in army uniform, helped us carry the trays. She was a charming girl. I remember amphibious vehicles called DUKWS coming out of the sea and up on to the beach. They were filled with British and American troops. Anti-aircraft guns were placed in strategic positions at Wiseman's Bridge, but whether they were part of the exercise or there to protect Mr. Churchill, I could not say."

110th Infantry Regiment

On 14 April 1944, only a matter of days after its troops had taken part in the D-Day rehearsals witnessed by Churchill, the 110th Infantry Regiment left Pembrokeshire under the cover of darkness for a military camp close to Marlborough in Wiltshire. There it remained until 17 July when, as part of the 28th Infantry Division, it moved to Southampton and Weymouth for the crossing to Normandy. In the months that followed the division was engaged in constant combat and late in the year was embroiled in two of the bloodiest battles of the war involving US troops. The first, in the Huertgen Forest, near the Siegfried Line, in November, was fought in a continuous mixture of rain, mist and snow. The second took place in the Ardennes in November and became known as the 'Battle of the Bulge'. Ironically, the 28th had been sent to this thickly wooded area to lick its wounds after the Huertgen Forest mauling. In both battles the 110th Infantry bore the brunt of some of the most savage fighting.

It has been estimated that of the 5,000 men who left Pembrokeshire with the 110th Infantry Regiment on 14 April 1944, only some 500 were still fit for combat duty by the end of that year. In the Huertgen Forest alone, the 28th Division suffered a minimum of 6,184 casualties after beginning the battle with its maximum infantry complement of 15,000 men.

A regiment of the 2nd US (Indianhead) Infantry Division, previously stationed in Northern Ireland, replaced the 110th Regiment in Pembrokeshire for some months, before itself leaving for Europe.

1945 British solidiers returned to Pembroke Dock for peacetime garrison duty.

The town turned out in force in the mid-1950s to welcome the 1st Battalion of the Welch Regiment, who's CO was Colonel Cowie.

Davey John Lt MC

Among the regiment's younger officers was Lieutenant John Davey, a local man from Lamphey, who had won the MC in Korea a few years before. He eventually commanded the regiment which, following amalgamation with the South Wales Borderers, became the Royal Regiment of Wales.

The Welch Regiment was succeeded at Llanion Barracks by the 22nd Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, now known as the 'Welsh Gunners' because it recruits mainly in the Principality. This regiment had a Pembroke Dock cafe named after it. Called 'The Double Two', it was destroyed by fire in the 1970s.

1966 Llanion Barracks became surplus to military requirements in 1966. Eight years later, and following local Government reorganisation, the former head quarters buildings and officers' mess were taken over by the newly-formed South Pembrokeshire District Council as its headquarters. The old barrack blocks with their verandas, such a luxury for the troops who occupied them for the first time in the early part of the century, were converted to flats, and the guardroom eventually became a pub of that name! Other buildings were leased or bought, one being taken over by the Department of Social Security. Cars now park on the former barrack square where Eisenhower inspected his invasion troops.

During the early 1970s Defensible was been the headquarters of South Pembrokeshire Golf Club. It was sold to an English-based company in 1985 by South Pembrokeshire District Council, that Authority having previously used the barracks as a works depot and stores.

The departure of the army in the 1960s, together with the earlier closure of the RAFs flying boat base in the town in 1959, dealt a severe blow to the local economy. It also signalled the conclusion of the military's connection with Pembroke Dock; a connection which had spanned 152 eventful years. A colourful era had come to an end.

Pater fort info from Jack Vincent.

Garrisoned in 1831 but was dismantled in 1847

Then was used by the Dockyard Battalion

Captain Wright R.M. & Commander Jennings R.N. appointed to form battalion 19/4/1847.

Terrier Captain was George Chiles (Dockyard Stone Keeper). Drills were every evening and Saturday afternoons and the men were dockyard employees. The men wore a special uniform and had a band led by a Mr. Ribbon.

The threat of invasion was still real at that time and considerable efforts were made to protect the yard.

A network of Fortifications was constructed, to form a chain of defence, not only to protect from seaward attack but also from landward invasion.

An earlier battery on Paterchurch point was improved and Martello towers were built on the south west and north east corners of the Dockyard walls, themselves heightened and strengthened.

Hutted encampments of Infantry and Artillery had been scattered around the town, and permanent barracks were built for them at LLanion, on the Barrack Hill and at Pennar.

Further down the harbour, forts were built at Scoveston, Hubberston, South Hook, Stack Rock, Angle and East blockhouse.

It is obvious that Pembroke Dock was built with just one aim in mind, so the announcement of the closure of the Dockyard in 1926, was a grievous blow, and unemployment remained high in the town Throughout the thirties.

Army – acc to Vernon Scott

Snow flurries gusted across Pembroke Dock on a bleak, bitterly cold February morning 132 years ago as the 31st East Surrey Regiment prepared to leave the town. The men had breakfasted early and at first light they were assembled on the Defensible Barracks parade ground, stamping chilled feet on the frozen square.

As the light strengthened, orders were barked, the troops snapped to attention, and with their commanding officer at the lead, they tramped out across the drawbridge and began descending the Barracks Hill in orderly ranks to the Royal Dockyard below.

The year was 1855 and from garrisons Throughout the nation Queen Victoria's soldiers were off to the Crimea. The 31st East Surreys had received their embarkation orders only a week or two earlier. Although the notice was short there had been time for an officers' Ball to which all the gentry of Pembrokeshire had been invited.

It was by all accounts a 'damned swell affair', with a band brought down from Cardiff to play for dancing and 'enough fine Food on the tables to have fed the whole of Pembroke Dock' There were some hungry bellies in the town which could have done with it too.

Meanwhile, the enlisted men had said their farewells at a much humbler level. They had swarmed into the smoky inns and taverns of the dockyard town and those of nearby Pembroke to 'drink, wench and make merrie'

The snow had thickened by the time the regiment reached the Royal Dockyard and there 'amidst much excitement and tokens of grief from wives, families and sweethearts, the men embarked upon the troopship Imperadore bound for the Crimea'.

The majority of the soldiers had never heard of the place. The war there was the first major military engagement in which the British Army had been involved since Waterloo many years before. There were, in fact, a few grizzled Waterloo veterans in their number who had quaffed many a free measure of ale during the East Surrey's time in Pembroke Dock on the strength that they had soldiered with Wellington, the Iron Duke.

General Gordon

As the Imperadore slowly moved away from Pembroke Dock in the swirling snow, a young lieutenant in the Royal Engineers and who was attached to the East Surrey's, looked back searching for the barracks on the Hill.

His name was Charles Gordon and Long before the turn of the century he was to become the best-known general in the Imperial Army. He was also to die a martyr in the Sudan at Khartoum.

As an officer he had been privileged to 'live' out while at Pembroke Dock and had lodged in a house at the top of Lewis Street. He was a man who kept to himself and was not altogether popular with his fellow officers. Many who watched the regiment depart Pembroke Dock that cold, grey morning, had frequently seen him 'walking to and fro at the foot of the Barracks Hill studying a book'.

When his papers arrived from the war office summoning him to the Crimea for active service with the 31st East Surrey Regiment, he was reported to have exclaimed with despair "I have recieved my death warrant!"

From the high stem of the Imperadore, Gordon continued to look back at the sloping town of Pembroke Dock and the barracks atop the Hill, until a thick blanket of snow cut both off from his view. He never saw then again.

Work on the building of Defensible had begun 11 years before, in 1844. Mr. James Cole, a Mason who worked on the battlements during the construction and who remembered seeing Gordon 'walking to an fro studying a book', he was still alive and residing in the town when the First World War started in August 1914.

Those who are familiar with the barracks and admire their size and strength may be unaware of the remarkable fact that they were completed in just 12 months, the contractor, Thomas Jackson, handing them over to the military on November 25th, 1845.

According to records .. 'Possession was taken at three o'clock in the afternoon and was officially indicated by- the hoisting of Her Majesty's (Queen Victoria) flag amidst deafening cheers from hundreds of spectators. A substantial dinner with a liberal quantity of double strength Welsh ale was given to the workmen'.

These men deserved their reward, too, because even in this day and age, with all the contractors' mechanical aids, it is doubtful whether such a substantial fortress, capable of accommodating a regiment of soldiers, could be completed in 12 months.

Its first occupants were the Royal Marines of the Portsmouth Division, transferred there from the guardship Dragon moored off Pembroke Dockyard. They were shortly joined by two companies of the 14th West Yorkshire Regiment.

For several years after the military's take-over, the trench or moat around the barracks was not enclosed .. "presenting a great danger to the unwary, particularly on pitch black nights".

Several marines, returning to quarters much the worse for wear after over-indulging, toppled over the moat and were killed. Their headstones, with suitable epitaphs, are still to be seen in the old town cemetery (now a garden of rest) in Upper Park Street, and one reads:

To the Memory of John Harding. Late Private Royal Marines. who was accidentally killed by falling into the entrenchment at the Fort Barracks, Pembroke Dock, October 10th 1850 age 32.

The verse underneath, obviously composed by someone with a very dry sense of humour, says:

The Lord direct our feet and guide with gracious care.

in even step we danger meet in every path a snare.

Then reader pause whoer thou art,

as thus my grave you view renumber thou from life must part and perhaps as quickly too!

A local GP named Dr. Sumpter, who at that time was widely known in the district, lost his life through similar circumstances while returning from a professional visit to a patient in Pennar one night. He never recovered from the shock of the 30 feet fall and died from its effects.

Following the departure of the East Surreys to the Crimea, subscriptions were raised among the young men of the Royal Dockyard and the town in general, in aid of the wives and families left behind. One of the men behind this charitable gesture was a Mr. Thomas Collins of Church Street, Pembroke Dock, and it was largely due to his efforts that a handsome sum was raised.

During the Crimea Campaign the Defensible garrison was composed entirely of militiamen who .. not only enlivened the town with a drum and fife band, but made it lively for the inhabitants in other less acceptable ways; for the militia were oftentimes a very rough class of men, who were much given to practical joking and disquieting pranks. These men were more in number than the Defensible fort could accommodate; consequently some had to be billeted on the townspeople who doubtless were not sorry when their uninvited guests took their departure'.

Between 1855 and 1861, the regiments garrisoned in the town were the Royal Pembroke-shire Artillery, the Monmouthshire Light Infantry, the Hampshire and Antrim Militia. the Montgomery Rifles, who wore a Green uniform and the Royal North Gloucester-shire Regiment.

This regiment, which afterwards became known as the 4th Battalion the Gloucestershire Regiment were, together with the Monmouthshire Militia. the first occupants of the wooden huts or hut encampment. These were built during the time of the Crimea War on the sloping ground overlooking the Pier road leading to Hobbs Point. The wooden huts were condemned in 1894 by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, then a Field Marshal and Commander-in-Chief of the British Army.

After 1861 came the crack 15th Brigade to the Defensible Barracks, and they were considered an elite corps. When they completed their garrison duties at Pembroke Dock they proceeded from Defensible Barracks by way of Commercial Row, Queen Street. Dimond Street and Water Street to Hobbs Point, accompanied by their band.

Because of the death, which occurred at the time, of Queen Victoria's Husband Albert, the Prince Consort, the band played with muffled drums. The soldiers of the 15th Brigade were ferried out to the troopship Tamar, Iying off Hobbs Point.

They were succeeded at Defensible in 1865 by the 62nd Wiltshire Regiment .. 'which arrived at Pembroke Dock to the inspiring strains of its own band'. Within a mater of months this band played on the occasion of the unveiling of the Prince Consort's memorial on Castle Hill, Tenby, by His Royal Highness Prince Arthur, later title Duke of Connaught.

Various regiments followed the Wiltshires, including the 58th Depot, the 13th Light Infan tq, the 103rd Foot, the 1st Battalion the Royal Welch Fusiliers, the 9th East Norfolks (known as the Holy Boys'), the 95th Derbyshires, the 54th Dorsetshires and 36th Worcestershires. These soldiers went into the local record book as the last stationed in Pembroke Dock who wore Green facings on their uniforms. and who had the old 'shako', a stiff military cap with a peak and a small upright tuft at the front, for headwear. They were followed by the 7th Royal Fusiliers.

Acc/to .Kelly's Directory 1884

Royal Engineers' Staff~ South Wales District~ Pembroke Dock.

Lieut.-Col. Commananding, A. T. Storer R.E

Major and Brevet Colonel, Sir A. W. Mackworth bart

1859 The Volunteers

The Volunteer movement at Pembroke Dock was first started in 1859, when meetings were held in the Temperance Hall.

Mr. William Harries, of Walwyn House, was one of the first members enrolled.

Mr.Edgecumbe Chevalier was Captain,
Mr.McAlpin, father of Mr.K.McAlpin, borough Surveyor, was Lieutenant.
The men wore a Gray uniform. It was known in 1860 as the 2nd Pembrokeshire Rifle Volunteers.
The first review was held at Portfield, Haverfordwest, 1862 the regiment became changed to that of the Pembroke Dock Volunteer Artillery, commanded by Mr.Chevalier; but upon this officer leaving the town
Mr.J.Richardson was made Captain.
Dr.Feynolds was Surgeon; the sergeant-majors were Mr.W.H.Lloyd and Mr.George Sloggett.
Mr.Richardson held command for some years; afterwards it was passed over to Mr.C.A.Christie, who kept it until the regiment was disbanded in 1884 outside old Pater Battery.
Mrs.Ramsay presented a silver bugle to this corps on July 10, 1861, and some ladies in the town worked a set of colours and presented them to the Volunteers. The colours were subsequently handed over to a late Vicar of St.Mary's Church, Pembroke, by Captain Christie.

1904 A new company the C.Company, 1st V.B.Welsh Regiment, was started in Pembroke Dock in 1904, Mr.Treweeks, Pembroke, as Captain,
Mr. W Bowling , of Dimond Street, Pembroke Dock, as Lieutenant.

The silver bugle which was presented to the Pembroke Dock Artillery Volunteers was sent by Mr.C.A.Christie of London, the last commanding officer of this company, to Lieutenant W. H.
Bowling , for C. Company, 1st V. B.Welsh Regiment for their use.

Military Cemetery

Situated at a little distance from the barracks lies the military cemetery, where many a soldier has been laid to his last resting-place by his comrades, who 'with arms reversed and muffled drum' followed his body to the grave. The largest funeral that has taken place in this cemetery was that of Colonel Isaac Moore, 13th Depot Battalion, who was buried October 14, 1868.

Pembroke Dock Newspaper snippets 1917

From the Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette Friday 14 Sep 1917

Advert

Harrisons Nursery Pomade -- send to our tommies at the front as “ a little Harrisons Nursery Pomade kills every insect on hair and body”

From the Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette Friday 14 Sep 1917

Dr D L Morgan reported to the Town Council that the number of Tuberculosis cases in the town was three times that of measles

Several reports of Servicemen being killed in action

The Belgian Trawler Raymond landed a record catch which sold for £2304

Amount of collections for the Church anniversaries this year.

Trinity Chapel	£31 13s + £24 from the Sunday school
Bethany Chapel	£75
Gilgal	£14 10s + £12 from the Sunday school
St Patrick's dedication festival	£ 19
Albian Sq Chapel	£76 + £15 Sunday school

Bethel Chapel
St Andrews

£45 + £ 15 Sunday school
£52 17s

Distressful happening at a funeral

At the funeral of a lady from Pembroke Dock one of the mourners had arrived in his donkey cart. During the internment service the donkey dropped dead

September 21 1917

Advert

Wanted at once, respectable experienced General . Sleep in – Mrs Evans

Marriage

The marriage of Sgt Major Twinee RE with Miss Margaret Price licensee of the Rose and Crown took place at St John's Church on Tuesday morning . The bride was given away by Mr J D Jones of the Navy Inn while the best man was Mr John Williams of the Bird in Hand. The Bridesmaid was Miss Williams fruiterer and the ceremony was performed by the Vicar Rev D L Prosser MA

(over 6000 seats in various religious places in the town and at least two “disorderly houses”)

.....

Churches and Chapels

Some Church and Chapel data from the Religious census of 1851 : A Calendar of the returns relating to Wales, Vol 1, South Wales. Ed. by I. G Jones, & D. Williams. UWP, Cardiff, 1976. The names are those of the informants

St John's. Pembroke Dock New Parish under provisions 6&7 Vict. cap. 37 Situated at Pembroke Dock, in the new Parish Town of Pembroke Dock Consecrated on 29th September 1848 by Bishop of St David's; Mother Church, St Mary's Pembroke Cost defrayed by £500 from Admiralty, £3000 Inhabitants Geoff. Fitzroy Kelly MA, Incumbent

Chapel of Her Majesty's Dock Yard Pembroke Situated within the walls of the Yard, in the Parish of St John's. Neither consecrated nor licensed Erected by Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty James H Mallet, Chaplain of Her Majesty's Dockyard

Bethany Chapel, Pembroke Dock Baptist Erected in 1818 "Sickness is very prevalent among the members and the congregation at this time. Several families were absent on that account last Lord's Day..." Henry James Morgan, Minister, Front St

Baptist Chapel Obtained by the Baptists in 1836 "The Chapel was erected as a dwelling house afterwards occupied by the Wesleyan Body, and taken by us in 1836; since then it has been considerably improved" Thomas Morgan, Minister

Tabernacle Independents or Congregationalists Erected in 1812 Signature illegible] Deacon

Preaching Room, Castle Back Primitive Methodist Fitted up for worship in 1839 John Jones, Steward, Main St

Gishom Chapel [?], Pembroke Dock CM Erected in 1838 John Adams, Secretary, Pembroke Dock

Bethel Baptist Erected in 1844 "The lower number [in Attendances] shows increase which is accounted for by the fact of the weather being more favourable and therefore the attendance is something larger in the Summer season than in the autumn and winter. Some have also lately left for other and distant places" Evan Davies, Minister, Lewis St, Pembroke Dock

Wesley Chapel, Meyrick St, Pembroke Dock WM Erected in 1848 "This Chapel was built in lieu of one that was too small, not on the same site but on a more central part of the town. The old Chapel was built in the year 1820 and disposed of in 1849" John Road, Steward, shipwright, Meyrick St, Pembroke Dock

Temperance Hall Independent " is at present used as a place of worship. A Chapel being in course of erection to be called 'Meyrick Street Chapel' ..." William Burdwood, Treasurer

Zion, Pembroke Dock Primitive Methodist Erected in 1849 John Maylard, Minister, Hobbs Point

St Mary's Roman Catholic Erected four years Oliver Maybury [?], Priest, Dimand St, Pembroke Dock

Tabernacle, North Brewery St Ind Erected in 1824 Charles Sumpter, Deacon, 7 Queen St

Bethel, West Gate CM Erected in 1826 William Powell, Minister

1834 The erection of the Dockyard Chapel in 1834 has already been referred to. I tried to find out when this Chapel was dedicated and to whom but could not. Many sources say it was never consecrated.

Places of Worship

The total capacity of the places of worship in Pembroke Dock according to Findlay in 1875 was 6620

Apart from St John's for which an architect was employed there is a remarkable similarity between the original designs of the early places of worship in the Town.

It is believed that a Mr John Road, a draughtsman in the Dockyard drew up the plans and designs. Later he was assisted by Mr George Willing. Mr W Mason is credited with setting out the roofs, he also turned all the pillars free of cost.

Dockyard shipwrights did the roofing and the floors while the dockyard joiners did the doors windows and pews.

1824 - The first Anglican Church Services to be held in the new locality were conducted on board the Naval Frigate H.M.S. Lapwing, moored close to the foreshore, when the Vicar of St Mary's Pembroke officiated. Later, a wooden Church was erected in the South East corner of the yard to be replaced in 1834 by the stone built imposing Chapel which after the closure of the Royal Dockyard in 1926 passed into the care of the RAF. In the post war years of World War II the building was used for the formation of many musical shows and acquired the name of " The Garrison Theatre"

1834 The cemetery in Upper Park St., the gift of Mr. Thomas Meyrick of Bush was consecrated by the Bishop of St David's and a small Chapel erected on the site which was enclosed by high walls and a wrought iron gate, kept locked at all times. There was, until the late 1800's a stone in the wall near the north east corner recording the fact that William Instance, who had help erect the walls around the cemetery was the first person to be buried in it. In 1898 the Rev Silas Phillips recorded that this stone was broken beyond repair. Being so close to the early town was a great boon as the coffins were normally carried followed by the mourners walking. On the north west side were buried the Marines who died while based at Pembroke Dock. Burials continued until 1869 when Llanion Cemetery was opened. Some burials were subsequently arranged in family graves, e.g. the "Teesdale" grave. Although the Chapel was originally intended just for the burial service it was often used by the priest attending a funeral, for baptisms. Mason records that, as there was no font an ordinary basin was used and that sometimes two of three children would be baptised together and sometimes several families. The Chapel continued in use for over a hundred years, latterly as a mortuary. During the time of Canon David Steven's the Church was persuaded to sell the land to the Pembroke borough Council/ South Pembrokeshire District Council who cleared the site and laid it out as a Leisure Garden. The headstones were stacked against the walls and those which had been damaged, preserved A Record was kept of those headstones which can be identified and may be inspected at the Offices of the South Pembrokeshire District Council. Mason gives and estimates of 3934 burials in this cemetery

Parish of Pembroke Dock

Her Majesty sanction was published in the London Gazette on June 3rd 1844 The boundaries were defined as " All that part of the said Parish of St Mary Pembroke bounded on the north, North – west and south by Milford Haven and on the east by an imaginary line commencing at a point at the southern end of Imble Rd and thence extending northward along the middle of such road as far as the middle of the high road to Pembroke and thence eastwards along the middle of such last road to a point opposite to the middle of the road leading to Pembroke Ferry and thence towards the north-west along the middle of such road as far as the road leading to Carmarthen and then in a straight line across such last mentioned road and along the western boundary of a certain meadow called Patch so far as the high water Mark at Llanion Pill".

The Parish of Pembroke Dock – Silas T Phillips 1898

1844 Nov 13 Rev George Fitzroy Kelly first incumbent of the Parish and from this date baptisms and burials were registered in the registers of the district of St John but until a new Church was built marriage had to be celebrated at St Mary Pembroke. The new incumbent lived with the captain Superintendent of the Dockyard and he conducted services in the National School. At that time no evening service was held in the Dockyard Chapel.

Notes from J Meyrick Owen

1843/4 By Acts of Parliament in this period and subsequent changes in the structure of Local Government, the area under the description of Pembroke Dock was included in the Municipal borough of Pembroke and was described as the Pater Ward .

Pembroke at this time was in poor shape and in 1823 was insolvent. The union of Pembroke Dock with Pembroke saved the small town from further decay as the new town went from strength to strength to become a Flag Ship of the British Empire and a Garrison Town of great importance to the British Army. The names of General Roberts, Kitchener, Gordon of Khartoum - later Air Marshall Sir Edgar Harris (Bomber Harris) Lawrence of Arabia and the German Spy William

Joyce (Lord Haw Haw) (lodged at 26 London Rd.). often pass through the minds of those of us who remember the old Town as it was before it died in 1926

1844 - by Act (6 & 7) VICTORIA, Pembroke Dock was declared a District for the purpose of Local Government and so for Ecclesiastical purposes a new Parish (as soon as a Parish Church was consecrated)

On November 13th, the Revd. Dr. George Fitzroy Kelly became the Incumbent of the new Parish and remained in office until his death in 1878; the headstone of his grave is close to the Llanion Cemetery Chapel entrance. Pending the building of a new Church, the Vicar resided at the residence of the Capt. Superintendent of the Royal Dockyard and conducted Services at the National School in Victoria Rd.

1846 - The land upon which St John's Church was built was acquired from the Bush Estate Trustees for £50. The resultant building costs amounted to £3500.

On September 21st, the Ceremony of Consecration was arranged. At this time Pembroke Dock had become one of the most progressive Towns in Wales and a Military and Naval Station of National importance. It is written that the Ceremony began with the assembly of the Procession at the national school. The procession was said to be the most imposing Pembroke Dock has ever seen, comprising the following:-

Scholars of the National School, Architect & Builder, the Mayor and Corporation with Mace bearers, Military Officers of the Depot & Garrison in full dress uniform, Naval Officers in Port in uniform, the Revd Dr G.F.Kelly, MA (First Incumbent of the Parish) and Churchwardens, The First Lord of the Admiralty, the Earl of Auckland with Sir Charles Adams and other gentlemen of the Board of Admiralty

At the site, Lord Auckland was greeted by the hoisting of the flag of the Admiralty and received by a guard of honour composed of a detachment of Marines, the Enclosure being kept by the 37th Hampshire Regt.

The Revd James Allen Read the inscription on a parchment which was placed in a sealed bottle with the customary coins.

When the stone had been well and truly laid, Lord Auckland delivered an address and he was followed by Captain Falcon RN, then Captain Superintendent of the Royal Dockyard.

A plate seems to have been placed over the cavity in the stone and then walled over. It is believed that the stone lies near the tower door.

1848 - The building of the Church was completed - the floors were of concrete, the pews of deal and some were rented. There were no Choir Stalls in the Chancel; the Choir sat at the west end led by an orchestra and was screened by a red baize curtain. The children were seated under the Tower. A large stove stood in the Chancel. Later an Organ was erected in the Chancel - [now in St Patrick's Church.]

1849 - In September the weathercock was fixed on the Church.

1857 - A site for the Vicarage was purchased for £80 - and the handsome stone residence standing in its own grounds within the Church enclosure was erected. Previously a lime kiln stood on the site. Prior to the building of the Vicarage, the Vicar Rev D Kelly resided in the house later occupied by Mr John Roberts, Undertaker, in Bush St.

1861 - The Rev John Nicholas was the first Curate to be appointed, followed by the Rev C D Quinland and the Rev Geo. E. Mc Hugh

1865 - The Town clock was placed in the Tower

1867 - An attempt was made to provide accommodation for a Sunday School in King William St. (Gas House Lane) Better and more substantial work was done at Pennar. The curate Rev G.E.Mc Hugh had married the daughter of the Chief Constructor at the Royal Dockyard, Mr Fincham and with the help and patronage of his father-in-law the Rev Mc Hugh commenced cottage lectures and a Sunday School at Pennar. A large cottage was purchased for £100 and there Services were held until the building of St Patrick's Church in 1894.

1878 - The Vicar the Rev Dr George Fitzroy Kelly died at the age of 77 and was buried at Llanion Cemetery. He was remembered as a preacher of great ability with an attractive personality. The Pulpit in St John's was provided as a memorial and a tablet affixed there to. Dr.Kelly was succeeded by the Rev F G Montague Polsell MA. for the next three years during which time the Church was restored, reseated and provided with a heating system.

1880 - The Church was re-opened on January 4th., as from that date the Infantry Bn., stationed at Llanion Barracks was present having previously attended Sunday morning Service at the Royal Dockyard Chapel.

Early Burial places in the Town

1731 St Mary 's register states Jan ye 11 buried ye sonne, Roger, of Mr. Williams Adam's in their own Burying Ground [at various times remains were unearthed during the construction of the Dockyard and re interned on St Patrick's Hill][[under what is now the site of South Pembs. Hospital?]]

The early burials of Town's people were either at St Mary's Pembroke, Monkton or from about 1818 to 1834 at Bethany [halted by Admiralty because of fears of contamination of the water supply to the Dockyard]

1834 26th September Mr. Thomas Meyrick of Bush gave the town nearly 2 acres of land free of charge. Consecrated by the Bishop of St David's on that date. First person buried there was William Instance who had worked on the surrounding wall and died on October 11th 1834. Closed September 1869 when nearly 4000 burials had taken place.

St John the Evangelist

1844 Some time after the Dockyard Chapel was built - from 1844 to 1848.- the Church of England services were held in the National School Victoria Rd

During the time that Divine services were held in the schoolroom a rather alarming event took place. A large number of people had congregated to hear a funeral sermon given by the Rev. George Fitzroy Kelly (afterwards Dr.Kelly). Owing to the weight caused by such an unusually large congregation, the floor cracked down the middle with a loud noise, despite the fact that stanchions had been placed under it in view of an extra strain. Such consternation was caused by the mishap. Fortunately, no accident occurred, but the assemblage at once dispersed.

1844, by the passing of an Act (6 and 7 Victoria, chap. xxxvii 1843), Pembroke Dock was formed into a district, and in November 1844, the Rev. George Fitzroy Kelly was appointed as the first incumbent.

1845 At a meeting held on December 11 (Thursday), 1845, it was proposed by the late Mr. William Hulm that a new Church should be erected in the old burial-ground. This was seconded by Mr. Robert Lanning, then the Town Clerk. An amendment was proposed by the late Mr. Cocks, that the sacredness of the burial-ground should not be interfered with, and that other ground should be selected for the Church. This was seconded by Mr. Glanville, and carried by a large majority.

1846 On August 19, 1846, Mr. Meyrick, the late owner of the Bush Estate, conveyed through Edward Laws, esq., a site for the erection of a new Church [A memorial tablet to him was erected after his death in the Dockyard Chapel. In 1983 this was found smashed, in rubbish, outside the Chapel. It was pieced together, by the Dockyard shipwrights under Mr M Naish, framed and was placed in the Main Office H.M. Mooring and Marine Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock.]

On this site some of the very oldest inhabitants of the town say there was once a rope-walk, owned by a man named Eldridge.

The ground for the building of the Church was staked out on Wednesday, September 4, 1846, and the foundation stone was laid on September 21, 1846 by Lord Auckland, at that time First Lord of the Admiralty. He was accompanied by Sir Charles Adams and Captain Berkeley, subsequently Lord Fitzhardinge, and other gentlemen of the Board of Admiralty. The Mayor and Corporation were also present. It was an occasion of much rejoicing and ceremony. The Superintendent of the Dockyard, -Captain Falcon, after Lord Auckland had spoken, gave a short address. The Royal Marines formed a guard of honour, and the band of the 37th Regiment was present and added to the general effect. The architect was J. Harrison, esq., and the contractors were Messrs. Jones and Griffiths.

The cost of the Church was £3,500.

1848 September the Church of St. John the Evangelist, as it was named, was consecrated by the Lord Bishop of St Davids, the late Right Rev. Connop Thirlwall, who was accounted one of the greatest Greek scholars of his day.

With the consecration of the Church Pembroke Dock became ecclesiastically a new parish, that of St. John's.

The first incumbent, the late Dr. George Fitzroy Kelly, was remembered as a preacher of great ability, with an attractive personality; and he gained the affection of all his parishioners. He died January 25, 1878 aged seventy-seven years, and was buried in the New Cemetery. The pulpit was placed in St. John's Church as a memorial of him, and a brass tablet in front of it is thus inscribed:
In Memory of

Dr. FITZROY KELLY, M.A., LL.D The first, and for thirty years, Vicar of this Parish. Died January 25th, 1878.

We preach Christ, and Him crucified.

During the three years that the Rev. Frederick Glyn Montague Powell, MA., was Vicar of the parish, St. John's Church was restored and re-seated, and also provided with a heating apparatus. The Church was re-opened on Sunday, January 4, 1880, and on that day the military attended this place of worship for the first time, having previously gone to the Royal Dock yard Chapel.

The schoolroom, a detached building standing in the Church grounds, was erected when the Rev. John Seymour Allen was Vicar. Mr. Kenneth McAlpin was the architect and contractor. It was opened by Right Rev. W. Basil Jones, Lord Bishop of St. David's.

There are three memorial stained windows in the Church. The first was placed there in memory of the late Isaac Smedley, esq., J.P., who was a devoted Churchman. The inscription reads:
To the Glory of God, and in Memory of Isaac Smedley, J.P of Water Street in this town, who entered into rest June 12th, 1896, aged 55 years.

This Window was erected by friends who admired him for the services rendered to the Church, the poor, and the public.

The inscription on another window is as follows:

To the Honor and Glory of God, and in Loving Memory of Richard and Amelia Jane Jenkins
This window is given by their daughter, Phoebe S.Mathias, A.D.1899.

To perpetuate the memory of Dr.James F.Stamper, M.D. a memorial window, the work of Mr.C.E.Kempe, was placed in St. John's Church, inscribed thus :

To the Glory of God, and in Memory of James Fenton Stamper, M.D., J.P.who entered into rest May 22nd, 1900, aged 52 He was a devout Churchman, a loyal friend, a skilful physician, and a good citizen. The cost of this window was defrayed by voluntary subscriptions.

There are seven mural tablets in the Church, one in memory of the family of the Properts. It will be remembered that Mr. Propert is mentioned as being one of the first magistrates of the town. Another tablet is in memory of one Lewis Davies, who was killed in an attack on pirates off the coast of Borneo, September 7, 1868.

There is also one erected to Henry Groves, an early inhabitant of the town, and a former churchwarden.

Four tablets are fixed in the chancel to the memory of a family named Shawe Jones. A grant was given to this family by the Secretary of State for War for rights to be buried in the military cemetery.

1849 In September, 1849, the weathercock was fixed on the Church.

1865 In 1865, the town clock was placed in the tower of St.John's Church, mainly by the efforts of the late Dr.Fitzroy Kelly, the late Alderman Hughes, and the late Mr.Cornelius Williams. The cost of the clock itself was £170; the expenses in connection with its erection were a little under £50. Public subscriptions were raised to defray the same, to which the Admiralty contributed £50 The Organ was built by Messrs. P.Conacher and Son, Huddersfield. It cost £360, £100 of which was given by the late Mrs. Thomas McMaster . The organist is Mr . H. Taylor, o f Dimond Street .

For many years only one Bell announced the time for service which was hung in the year 1848. To commemorate the Coronation of our present Sovereign, King Edward VII., a peal of bells was placed in the tower. The bells were first rung on September 29, 1902, on the anniversary of the opening of the Church. The makers of the bells were Messrs. Mears and Stainbank, who also had made the first Bell in 1848. The cost of the complete peal of bells, which was £403, was principally defrayed by public subcription, but two were entirely given, one by the Rev.J.W. Longrigg, M.A., a late chaplain of the Dockyard, and the other by members of the Teesdale family, 1857 The Vicarage is a handsome stone residence standing in its own grounds within the Church enclosure, and was erected in 1857. Many years before the erection of this building a limekiln stood on the site.

Prior to the Vicarage being built, the first Clergyman, Dr. Kelly, resided in a house in Bush Street, now occupied by the firm of W.T.Smith and Sons, wine and spirit merchants.

The first baptism recorded in the register of the Church was that of William Henry Budge, son of George and Harriet Budge, on November 29, 1844. The first baptisms that actually took place within the Church walls were on October 1, 1848, and were those of Elizabeth Sarah, daughter of William and Jemima Earwaker; Thomas John son of William and Marianne Morris; and Dorothy, daughter of John and Elizabeth Nicholls. The first marriage that was solemnized was by license, on October 3, 1848. The contracting parties were Ann Elizabeth Spriggs, of Pembroke Dock, and James Thomas of Haverfordwest. The officiating Clergyman was Dr.Kelly.

It may be interesting to know that Sir William White, K.C.B., LL.D., F.R.S., late Director of Naval Construction, was married in this Church to Miss Martin, daughter of a former Master shipwright of Pembroke Dockyard.

For many years there was a small mission cottage in Pennar, purchased through the instrumentality of the Rev George McHugh, one of the earliest curates in the parish. In this cottage services were held regularly, and were well attended. Later the Rev.F.G.Montague Powell interested himself in getting a large wooden building erected in the garden of the mission cottage, which for a time served its purpose very well as a temporary place of worship, until St.Patrick's Church was erected. 1894 The foundation stone of this Church was laid on May 1, 1894, by the late Lady Catherine Allen of Woodfield, mother of the Rev.John Seymour Allen, M.A., who was the Vicar at that time. The total cost of St.Patrick's Church was £2,324. The architects were Messrs. Nicholson and Son, Hereford, and the contractors Messrs. Davies and Morgan, Pembroke. The site was granted by the War Department. The Church was consecrated on July 11, 1893, by the Suffragan Bishop of Swansea.

1903 On Saturday, June 13, 1903, Mrs.F.C.Meyrick, wife of Colonel Meyrick, C.B., laid the foundation-stone of St.Teilo's Church near Waterloo, and it was opened for Divine worship on February 9, 1904, the name-day of the old Welsh saint, by the Arch deacon of St.David's. This Church was built principally with stones removed from Pater Battery, to which reference is made elsewhere. The carting was freely done by Messrs. Brown, of Kingswood, and Messrs. Gibby. The Bell was given by Mr.Elijah Howell, of Queen Street East, and was taken from the wreck of a steamship, the Ben Nevis. This mission Church will prove a great convenience to LLanion, Waterloo, and the surrounding district. The Vicar of the parish, which includes the three churches is the Rev. Silam T.Phillips, B.A., B.D., (St.David's College, Lampeter), and Rural Dean of Castlemartin. He was appointed on August 31, 1894. He is a zealous Clergyman and an energetic worker, and is diligently assisted by two curates, namely, the Rev.John Titus, B.A., and the Rev. A.E. Lewis, B A.

St John's Church construction

The exterior has walls of trimmed and dressed limestone a triple ridged roof and a square tower. The interior of the Church with its fifteen arches supporting the roof and tower, consisted of chancel, nave, north and south aisles and vestry with a square tower and later a chiming clock. The columns are of dressed limestone. The original windows were fitted with small squares of tinted glass. The weathercock was fixed to the top of the Tower in 1848. The floors were of concrete with pine pews. The choir sat at the back of the Church, children under the tower and an orchestra accompanied the choir and congregation. The original entrance was on the south side was designed without steps. The development on Bush St meant that the majority of the congregation used the smaller door on the north side. This entrance had to be altered and a suitable porch built. There was a large stove installed for heating in the Chancel.

Mrs Ann Powell was appointed sextoness and carried out those duties for 33 years.

1898 The Parish of Pembroke Dock – Silas T Phillips 1898

St John

Originally every legal document described the Church as St John without indicating which St John was meant although it is believed that the inscription on the plate over the foundation stone bore the inscription St John the Evangelist.

The first Churchwardens elected on 12 October 1848 were Mr James Jennings (Chemist & Druggist) and George White.

Patronage of the new benefice was vested in the Crown and the Bishop alternatively.

Originally the Church floor was of concrete. The Pews were deal and capable of being fastened to prevent the entry of all but those who rented them. There were no choir stalls in the chancel 1867 In 1867 a building was provided at a cost of £96 9s 4d for Sunday School purposes. This building in King Williams Street later became a warehouse.

1894 The damage done to the west end presumably by an earthquake was repaired and the chancel screen erected – the screen cost £100 and was dedicated on Feb 1st 1894.

1851 The capacity given in the 1851 census of religious buildings was free 500 other 375 and the average congregation 400 + 79 scholars in the morning and 750 + 62 scholars in the evenings.

1857A site for the Vicarage was purchased for £80 in 1857 and a stone residence standing in its own grounds within the Church enclosure was erected. Previously a limekiln stood on the site. The cost was £1100. Until the building of the Vicarage, the Vicar Rev. D Kelly resided in the house now occupied by Mr. John Roberts, Undertaker, in Bush St.

1858A harmonium was purchased was purchased for the Church in 1858 and was played by Miss Adeline Grove. On the building of St Teilo's Mission Church this was moved there.

1860 This was replaced in 1860 by an Organ. The Organ installed was by Vowles originally made in 1819 and has two manuals and fourteen stops, at present (1998) it is installed in St Patrick's Church. It was fitted in the southeast corner of St John's and the choir was moved to that area as well.

1861The Rev. John Nicholas was the first Curate to be appointed in 1861 followed by the Rev. C D Quinland and the Rev. Geo. E. Mc Hugh who lived up in Pennar. He married the daughter of the Chief Constructor at the Royal Dockyard, Mr. Fincham and with the help and patronage of his father-in-law the Rev. Mc Hugh commenced cottage lectures and a Sunday School at Pennar. An attempt was made to provide accommodation for a Sunday School in King William St.(Gas House Lane) in 1867 but with little success.

1878 - The Vicar the Rev. Dr. George Fitzroy Kelly died at the age of 77 and was buried at Llanion Cemetery. He was succeeded by the Rev. F G Montague Polsell MA. The Rev. A Wilson was Curate

1878The Vicarage was enlarged in 1878

1879 On 16 July, 1879, a faculty was granted for the restoration of the parish Church, included the installation of stained glass windows, some by Kempe, a carved pulpit of marble and bath stone, new seating, ornamental tile floor covering, a handsome reredos, patent heating apparatus and the building of a new North Porch.

1879 On the 3rd of August 1879 the choir wore surplices for the first time and moved from the south aisle to the Chancel.

1880 The Church re-opened on 4 January 1880 after refurbishing which cost of £1500 After the restoration. Weekly Eucharists were introduced and the Infantry Bn., stationed at Llanion Barracks was present having previously attended Sunday morning Service at the Royal Dockyard Chapel. The pew rents had been abolished which meant that more seats were available for the poorer members of the congregation. The Rev. F G Powell resigned and on December 14th the Rev. John Seymour Allen became Vicar. He was related to the Allans of Cesselly

1883 The Schoolroom and Hall by the Church was completed in 1883 at a cost of £1300. The design was by Mr. K McAlpin

1884 In 1884 there was a robed choir of forty and the present Organ was installed in 1890. It was purchased at a cost of £360 from Messrs Peter Conacher

.Kelly's Directory 1884

The parish Church of St. John was built in 1848, at a cost of £3000, which sum was collected chiefly through the exertions of the Dean of St Davids and other members of the Allen family : the site, consisting of half an acre, was purchased from the Bush estate and conveyed to the vicar and churchwardens : the Church consists of chancel, nave, aisles and vestry, with 1 square tower and chiming clock. It is built of finely chiseled limestone, and has seats for 801 persons, so arranged that everyone is within easy hearing of the preacher : the Organ, with 14. stops and double manual, is by Vowles : there is a surpliced choir of forty voices : in 1879 the Church was beautified and improved ~ internally at a cost of £1500 the alteration comprised ~ stained windows, carved pulpit of marble and Bath stone, new seating, ornamental tile flooring, a handsome reredos and patent heating apparatus : the money was borrowed by the Rev. F. G.M Powell, vicar, and repaid partly by him and partly by his successor, the Rev. J. Seymour Allen. The Vicarage is a handsome structure of hewn lime stone standing in its own grounds, adjacent to the Church, with which the style of architecture harmonizes. The living is a vicarage gross yearly value £370 with house, in the gift alternately of the Crown and the Bishop of the diocese, and held since 1880 by the Rev. John Seymour Allen :MA of Baliol Colleg Oxford, F.R.G.S. Between the vicarage and the Church stands the parish room and Sunday school, a very handsome edifice in complete accordance with the Church : it ;was built in 1883 according to the design of Mr. K. McAlpin C.E. at a cost of £1,300, collected by the present vicar, the Rev. J. Seymour Allen : it consists of .a main room and two class rooms, and is capable of seating 400 Connected with the Church is a wooden mission building, at Pennar, with accommodation for 200, here services are carried out almost precisely as at the parish Church : it is contemplated to build a new Church of limestone here, towards which a fund has been started.

1894 The Chancel screen was erected and dedicated on 4th February 1894

Later that year on August 31st saw a new Vicar the Revd Silas Thomas Phillips and the following year saw the first use of the High Altar and the dedication of the new St Patrick's Church. This was also the first year that women became members of the Choir. They were seated in what is now the Lady Chapel

1898 On 1 July, 1898, a faculty was obtained for the erection of a new east window in the parish Church, which was dedicated on September 29th 1898

1902 The peal of eight bells was installed in 1902 .

On Sunday October 22nd a Service of Thanksgiving was held for Peace on our Coasts on the Sunday after the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Trafalgar

On 28th April the Rev. Silas Phillips died and on August 19th Rev. David L Prosser became Vicar. He later became Bishop of St David's then Archbishop of Wales.

1915 Daily Eucharist started March 28th

1919 After the First World War the old choir vestry was converted into the Lady Chapel and the names of those who died from the Shropshire Regiment are remembered on the oak panelling there. It was dedicated on October 5th 1919. The Choir then used what had been the Clergy Vestry and a new Clergy Vestry was built above the old one.

Memorial Panels on the north side of the Lady Chapel St John's Church
Pembroke Dock

To the Glory of God and in Memory of their Comrades especially those who were Confirmed by the Bishop of this Diocese, this screen is dedicated by the Officers and men of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry who went from Bush Camp in this Parish to the Great War 1914-1918

1915

Harry Boycott

1916

Arthur Longmate;
David Haddon;
William Coombes;
Edwin J Herbert;
Percy Mackenzie;
Victor Leaver;
William H Fletcher;
Ernest Thomas ;
Lionel J Morley;
Frederick Beech;
Harry Bostock;
Harold Grice;
Frederick Stephens;
Alfred H Lowe;
Albert Henshall;
Samual H Allan; Henry Fleming.

1917

Phillip Preece; William Fox;
William Stockton;
John W Higgins;
George Kniverton;
George Brinsley;
Joseph N Scudmore;
John W Johnson;
Henry J Haver;
Joseph Cotton;
George H Williams;
Charles E Burgwin;
Edwin Noble;
William Carter;
Jesse Haynes;
James H Green;
James Evans;

Ernest Cashion;
Harry Grimshaw;
Edward P Davies;
William E Cornes;
Charles Ogden;
Ernest Breeze;
William Southerton;
Richard Lloyd ;
William G P Brown;
John W Langford;
Walter Crowther;
John R Suchon;
Gordon Drury;
Samual Thompson;
George E Lawley;
James H Correll.

1918

Cecil Lines;
John Richards;
William H Richards;
George J Turner;
John. Taylor;
Harry Macdougall;
George H Price;
Thomas N Brassington;
Stanley E Davies;
James Maney;
Samual Bower;
William Kelly;
Herbert Goostry;
John J Sawyer;
William Rimmer;
Albert J Johnson;
Jeffery Ryder;
Harold W Symonds;
George H Roberts;
Thomas Francis;
Thomas Evans;
Clarence J Reynolds;
Wallace Taylor;
John Brick;
James T Walton;
Percy Simmonds;
William Roberts;
George Haynes;
Robert Daniels;
Richard Woodruff;
Charles Oliver;
Lewis J Gilbert;
Cadwell Anderson;
Edward H Owen;

George Bloomfield;
John T Latham;
Walter Warhurst;
John Tunsdall;
James Norris;
John S Josephs;
Albert Lewis.

The names are carved on 8 oak panels

Other Memorials

Lewis Davies, who was killed in an attack on pirates on the coast of Borneo on the 7th September 1868 age 21 years 8 months -- Tablet erected by his shipmates - (Presumably buried at sea)

Capt Henry Shawe Jones Late 33rd Reg and Royal Westmorland Militia of Dollandstown Count Meath Ireland

died at Teignmouth Devon March 9th 1867 age 67 years -- remains interned in the Military Cemetary Pembroke Dock

Maria Shawe Jones wife and widow of Capt Henry Shawe Jones

youngest daughter of the late Capt Gilbert Pickering Rudkin of Wells and County Carlow Ireland Late 35 Reg

Died at Clifton Bristol March 11 1895 age 93 years

Henry Shawe Jones Lt 84th Reg

Youngest son of Henry Shawe Jones of Dollandstown County Meath Ireland born Naples August 1st 1836 died at Pembroke Dock Apr 14th 1864 -- served in the Indian Campaign of 1858 -- severely wounded Burrahpore -- medal

Mjr Conyngham Jones

1st Battalion 60th Royal Rifles of Dollandstown County Meath

The Roll of Honour

inscribed on the Screen of the Lady Chapel 1914

Oct.	19	Stanley Dier.
"	26.	Edward Bowmaker.
"	28.	William Lynn Allen.
"	28.	Charles George Williams Andrews.
"	28.	Alfred Henry Bull.

1915.

May 13.	Tom Ashton.
	William John McCarthy.
	Edward John Beavil.

	Arthur Benjamin
	Stephen Mules.
" 28.	William Stephen Chivers.
Aug. 10.	Bertie Thomas Ashmore.
" 27	Arthur E. Ridout Thomas .
September. 18.	Thomas Lloyd .
" 25.	Joseph George Watson.
" 28.	Thomas John Birmingham
Oct.	Albert Edwin Williams.
1916.
March 13.	John Alfred Griffiths
. " 28.	Thomas McCloghrie
. " 30.	William John Beddoe
May 31 .	John Hubert Rogers.
".	Albert Victor Searle.
"	George Evans.
July 16.	Lewis Canton.
" 26.	D. Aubrey Williams.
" 28.	Albert Victor Adams.
September. 26.	George James Rich Saunders.
Nov. 3.	Fred Brooks.
" 13.	David Edgar Evans.
1917
Jan. 25.	William George Hobbs.
Feb,12	John Martin Evans.
March 20.	Sidney Thomas Elliott.
" 26.	William Arthur Picton.
April 19	Albert S. Lloyd .
June 7.	Frank Manning.
July 9.	Reginald George Thomas .
" 16.	Samuel George Turner.
Aug. 5.	James Wood.
September. 12.	Albert Hugh Bunt.
" 20.	Ernest Norris.
" 21 .	Frederick James Thomas .
Oct. 21.	John Mason.
" 30.	T. Howard Williams.
Dec. 5.	James Edgar Ball.
1918,
Jan. 20.	Walter I.Phelps
" 22.	John Clements.
April 2.	Thomas Alan.
April 18.	Harry Pugh.
" 23.	Frederick George Truscott.
May 27	John Henry Dawkins.
"	Bertie Theodore Pinniger.
July 7.	Frederick James Bunt.
" 20.	Albert John Moffatt.
Aug. 21 .	Robert Matthew

September. 2.	Ingledeu Leonard.
"17.	John P. Joseph Phillips.
" 26.	Gilbert John Jones.
Oct. 4.	Edwin Skyrme.
" 9.	Stewart Thomas .
" 23.	George Price Davies.
Nov. 5.	Lewis James Thomas .
" 6.	Owen Magall.
" 10.	William Jones.
" 25	William George Bevans.
Dec. 5.	Henry Lloyd ,
" 27.	Edward Farrington.
	Frederick James Jones. .

1919

Feb. 26.	William John Davies.
----------	-----------------------------

Thomas Emmment.
Frederick John Scurlock.
Mervyn Williams.

1924 Rev. Prosser had been instrumental in organising fundraising in all the Churches through the war years to build a new schoolroom at St Patricks. This was completed in 1924.

In a letter written January 19th 1924 he states that he had recently sold one of the little camp churches built on War Department ground and vested in himself personally. The highest bid he received was £15 – Was this the one on Bush Camp

In 1926 the Dockyard closed,. Unemployment and depression hit the town many tradesmen left the for other Government establishments. The Dockyard Chapel also closed and many of the Choristers transfered to St John's choir.

The Rev. Prosser was followed by the Rev. J Davies whose Scottish Terrier is said to still haunt the Vicarage

He was followed by the Rev. DD Bartlett who served the Church during the Second World War. During that period one of the Air Raid Shelters for the town was the Vicarage basement. After a period of illness he left the town and the Rev J T Morgan who had been Priest in Charge of St Patrick's was appointed Vicar of Pembroke Dock. He had the reputation of being vitriolic and not very tolerant

He was followed by the Rev D J Stevens who had previously been involved with Mission work. After his death the Rev Alan Thomas was appointed Vicar in 1977

Pemhroke Dock, St. John.

A Perpetual Curacy or District Chapelry (Peel Parish)

District assigned out of the parish of St. Mary, Pembroke, by Order in Council, dated 23rd May, 1884 (Gazetted 3rd June, 1884).

The income of the Incumbent amounts to £291 gross, and consists of the following annual payments-

1. £271 received from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.
2. £20 paid by the War Office.

N.B.-A sum of ,£ 12 16s., with interest, is payable every year until 1909 to the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty, dated 4th September, 1878,for £384 for altering and enlarging the Parsonage.

1. The £271 consists of

- (a) £150 under the Order in Council of 23rd May, 1884, and
- (b) £121 annual grant under Order in Council of 27th July, 1863.

2. The £20 is a Rent-charge on the Military Cemetery, and is paid under Deed, dated 28th August, 1860,

3. There are three Curates who are licensed at £120 each.

The buildings are-

The Parish Church with a burial ground about 1 ½ acres in extent, which was closed for burial in 1863.

A piece of land was bought for £50 from the trustee of the will of Mr. Thomas Meyrick, as a site for the Church, and conveyed to the Commissioners for building new Churches on 14th August, 1846.

Another piece of land was bought from Mr. Thomas Meyrick for the nominal consideration of 10s., and conveyed by Deed, dated 19th September, 1834.

The present Church was consecrated on 29th September, 1848, and the burial ground on 26th September, 1834.

The Mission Church of St. Patrick's, Pennar, which was consecrated on 11th July, 1895, the site of which was conveyed by the War Office on 25th April, 1895.

The Mission Church of St. Teilo, which was licensed on 8th February, 1904.

The Parsonage, with garden, &c., containing altogether 37 1/2 perches. The site was bought in 1857, by the Governors of Queen Anne's Bounty for £80, and they also spent £8 10s. on costs of conveyance in the same year, and £594 0s. 1d. on building the Parsonage. These three sums, amounting to £682 10s. 1d., were made up as follows-

(a) £454 given by Bishop Thirlwell in 1855;

(b) £200 grant in the same year out of the Royal Bounty money to meet such gift ;

(c) £32 10s. 1d. interest thereon.

As stated above the, sum of £384 was raised by mortgage in 1878 for altering and enlarging the Parsonage.

I am informed that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners paid £150 in 1858 and £200 in 1859 from the Gally Knight funds towards the cost of the Parsonage, but I cannot find any record of such grants in the Annual Reports.

.....

St Patrick's Pennar (see under Pennar)

Mission Room at Llanreath

The Rev F G M Powell contemplated the building of a Mission Hall at Llanreath. Several open air meetings were held there on summer evenings after Evensong at St John's. Eventually arrangements were made to use a room erected by the Calvanistic Methodists but numbers dwindled and the mission closed.

St Teilo's

The funding of this Church was quite unusual. With the exception of a few free gifts the cost was met by the quarterly offerings of the congregations of St John's and St Patrick's. The Vicar had made an appeal on a pamphlet explaining the proposal for obtaining the funds and the response was such that no fund raising by means of bazaars etc. was necessary. The stone came from the old Pater Battery which was being demolished in the Dockyard at that time and was carted to the site free of charge by Mr Thomas Brown of Kingswood and Mr Joseph Gibby of Bierspool.

Questions were asked in Parliament about the material from the Dockyard being used free of cost in the construction of this Church. The Church is a small rectangular building with a continuous nave and chancel. A lean to at the west end contains the porch and the vestry. It has a small projecting turret set within the gable apex at the west end containing the Bell. It is constructed of rubble limestone with red brick dressings and the roofs are of slate. Internally the walls are plastered, ceiling boarded as are the floors. The Bell was donated by Mr Elijah Howell of Queen St. It had come from the wreck of the Steam Ship Ben Nevis. A harmonium purchased for St John's Church in 1858 on the building of St Teilo's Mission Church was moved there. It was played by Miss Maud Thomas. Among the furnishings donated was a communion service by Dr Stamper, cross and vases by his wife and an Alter cloth by Miss Stamper. Candlesticks by Rev Goodenough MA RN alms bags from Mrs Harris, book for the lectern and altar Miss Packe, alms dish Mr and Mrs T Brown, altar desk Mrs Williams, kneeling cushions Mrs Smith and the stove by a lady member of the congregation

The Mission Church was consecrated Feb 9th 1904.

1912 February 7th St Teilo's schoolroom opened

In 2003 it was found that the timber in the Church was suffering from dry rot and had to be replaced. The school room was used for services until the work was completed

Bethany Chapel

The first Chapel in the town was Bethany, which was erected in 1818. The late Sir John Owen of Orielton granted a little band of Baptists a choice of different portions of ground on his estate on easy terms, whereon to build, on a ninety-nine years' lease, at the nominal rental of ls. per year, with power to claim for themselves or successors for nine hundred and ninety-nine years on the same conditions. Taking advantage of these generous terms, the Baptists commenced the building of their Chapel at the west end of High Street, between the entrance into Bufferland and the road leading into Pennar. Having secured the land, the people had a mind to work 'and, with the exception of the masonry and the plastering, the structure was built up by the labour of love; for the woodwork was made and the carting done gratuitously, chiefly by Dockyard men before and after Government hours, as, indeed, was the case in the building of all the early Nonconformist places of worship in the town. Such free labour helped greatly in the erection of the Chapels. But even then the cost was not inconsiderable. when it is remembered that a farm labourer's wages seldom amounted to more than 5s. a week and food, with possibly a few perquisites, and a Dockyard shipwright's pay was but £1 4s., it is not easy to imagine at what cost of self-denial each little body of worshippers raised for themselves 'a house of prayer'.

Acc to Mrs Peters 1905

The original Bethany Chapel was smaller than. the present one which was erected later. It was surrounded by a stone wall 7 feet high, with heavy wooden gates, which enclosed a burial ground, where many of the earliest inhabitants of the town were buried. The road by the side of the Chapel, sometimes now called Bufferland Lane, was at that time private property, and was owned by Mr.Barclay, schoolmaster. It was shut off from the public by gates at both ends.

The small stream which still meanders slowly at the back of the gardens in Hill Street once flowed almost across the site of Bethany Chapel. This stream lies between the Bush and Orielton estates, though since the early days of Bethany much of its waters have been drained, and its course somewhat diverted.

The first pastor of Bethany Chapel, was the late Rev. Gabriel Devereux , who was a saintly character, and whose ministry was much appreciated and Long remembered by many. He died January 12, 1833, at the early age of twenty-six years, and was buried in the graveyard of the Chapel. The old building became very dilapidated; it was therefore pulled down and a new structure erected in its place. The new building was extended 4 feet further out than the old one. The grave of the Rev.G. Devereux by this extension became actually enclosed within the Chapel walls, and because of this a tablet was placed to his memory above the spot where his remains lie buried.

Some time after Mr.Gabriel Devereux's death the Rev. John Morgan was pastor of Bethany. He was an able and scholarly man, who for a time also conducted an excellent middle-class school He was followed, in 1845, by the late Rev. H. J.Morgan, who was known as a powerful preacher and a strong theologian. He remained here until 1867, when he removed to Milford. After him came the Rev.William Davies. He was a felicitous preacher, and remained eleven years. It was during his pastorate the present Chapel was erected.

When the first Bethany Chapel was built, the placing of the windows was left until the last. This was because at the commencement of its erection the window-tax was in force, but before the building was completed it was repealed. So the fore sightedness of the Baptists in this direction was rewarded.

The foundation stone of the present building was laid by Miss. Rose Reed, daughter of Sir E.J.Reed, K.C.B., M.P in the year 1877, on the morning of the day that the Japanese vessel, the Hei-Yei, was launched at Jacob's Pill. When the Chapel was rebuilt, the old lease was yielded to the Ordnance Department, who had taken over the Barrack Hill from the Admiralty in 1830. The Government wanted the approaches kept clear for gun-range, and therefore desired to annex some of the surrounding property, which belonged to Sir John Owen of Orielton. To meet their ends, they offered compensation and lease renewals to all who occupied the land which they required. The old Board of Ordnance stone which marked the boundary of the Government property in the direction of Bethany is still to be seen fixed in the wall which encloses the Chapel.

On September 14, 1904, the memorial stones of a new schoolroom were laid, respectively, by Owen Philipps, esq., Amroth Castle; Mrs. J. D. Jones , Miss (Sketch) Edwards, Mr . William Evans, Mr . John Edwards, and Mr.Joseph Llewellyn. Moreover, the Chapel itself is about to be renovated, and to be fitted with increased accommodation, and also with an Organ chamber.

The present minister of Bethany Chapel is the Rev.J.D.Jones. He is a native of this county, but went at an early age to Glamorganshire, where after a time he became a candidate for the ministry. He studied for four years at Haverfordwest College. He first settled in Swansea. In 1880 he accepted the unanimous invitation of Bethany Church to become its minister, and there for nearly quarter of a century he has laboured with much acceptance and success.

Rev R C Roberts in his Baptist Historical Sketches

There was no Baptist Chapel nearer than Haverfordwest or Molleston, so originally the Baptist congregation hired a room in Front Street, where prayer meetings and preaching services were conducted until a suitable permanent place could be secured. They, however, experienced some difficulty in obtaining an eligible site, as the gentleman who owned a greater part of the land appeared to have no sympathy with Nonconformists. But this difficulty proved to them a blessing in disguise, for Sir John Owen, of Orielton, whose estate adjoined, granted them a suitable site on an elevated spot, where the present Chapel stands. No time was lost in setting to work, and in 1818, Bethany, the first Nonconformist Chapel in the town and neighbourhood was erected. In that same year the Church was constitutionally formed, and also admitted into the Association. On June 13th, 1818, the Chapel was opened for Divine worship, but remained two years without a settled pastor.

In 1821, the Church invited Mr. Rees Gibbon, a student from Bristol College to the pastorate. Mr. Gibbon, who was a native of Cwmfelin, Carmarthenshire, was a young man of eminent abilities, and this infant Church anticipated the enjoyment of his services for many years. But his pastorate was brief. He removed to Haverfordwest, then to Carmar then, where he conducted a grammar school for some time, and at the death of that eminent Welsh author and preacher Rev. Titus Lewis, he succeeded him as the pastor of Tabernacle Welsh Baptist Church, Carmarthen. Mr. Gibbon, however, died at the early age of 33 years, to the profound regret of his Church and the Denomination in West Wales.

On August 13th, 1827, a young man named Thomas Davies, originally a member of Rev. Rees Gibbon's Church at Carmarthen, was ordained his successor at Bethany. But after only one year's ministry here he accepted the pastoral charge of the newly formed Baptist Church, Commercial Street, Newport, Monmouthshire. His effective earthly ministry ceased in 1830 by the ruthless hand of death.

At the strong recommendation of Rev. Shem Evans, Milford the Church now invited Mr. Gabriel Dewereux, a native of Wolfsdale, in the county, to the pastorate. He was ordained April 17th, 1829.

A young man of great ability, fine diction, good memory, rich in Scripture and Theologic lore. He devoted his fine energies to the promotion of his Master's cause in Pembroke Dock. The Rev. G. Dewereux appears also to have been one of the prime movers in establishing a Baptist Church in the town of Pembroke. But in the mysterious Providence of God, consumption was permitted subtly to lay hold of him, and seize him as its victim, and in January, 1833, at the early age of 26 years, he exchanged his earthly toil for his heavenly rest. His mortal remains were tenderly laid until the resurrection morn in the ground on which the vestibule of Bethany Chapel now stands. This saintly minister was succeeded in the pastorate by Mr. J. H. Morgan, a student from Bradford College. He was ordained in 1834, and after ten years' labour here removed to Caerwent, Monmouthshire. The Rev. gentleman is described to have been physically, intellectually and morally a strong man. Towards the close of his ministry a number of members left, and formed the Church known today as Bethel Baptist Church, Bush Street, Pembroke Dock.

The vacancy in the pastorate was not Long ere it was again filled. In 1845 the Rev. H. J. Morgan settled here as minister. Some of the older member of our Churches, who often sat under his ministry, have represented him to us as a great pulpit orator, his sermons being the result of profound study and extensive reading, with a powerfully impressive delivery. It was characteristic of him, when he took part in any public meetings he always insisted on speaking before nine o'clock in the evening, as he had strong objection to late services, believing that every one should be in his own home at that hour. In 1867, he resigned his charge after labouring at Bethany twelve years. The Rev. Morgan completed the census returns for this Chapel in 1851 and recorded that there were 150 free places and 441 others, the average congregation being 300+108 scholars in the morning 130 scholars in the afternoon and 450 in the evening He also records that there was a great deal of sickness among the congregation at that time.

According to Findlay in 1875 the Chapel was a very plain building showing outward signs of delapidation accomodating 600

Not many months elapsed and the Rev. William Davies removed from Merthyr to become the next pastor of this Church. Like his predecessors he was no novice in his work. His sermons, beautiful in thought, and full of pathos in delivery, were much enjoyed by his people.

It was during his ministry in 1877 that the old Chapel was taken down, and a new one erected, half the cost of the contract being raised when the memorial stones were laid. Mr Davies resigned in 1879, after a ministry of eleven years.

We now come to the ministry of the Rev.J D Jones who, after a pastorate of nearly four years at Carmarthen road Baptist Church, Swausea, commenced his ministry at Bethany, Pembroke Dock, on the first Sunday in April, 1880 Its due to him that the success with encouraging growth of the Church and the Sunday School-necessitating increasing accommodation, involving an outlay of £3,000

Acc to .Kelly's Directory 1884

Bethany Baptist Chapel, High street, will seat about 600 In 1904 the schoolroom became too small and the Chapel needed reseating. A new schoolroom was built capable of accommodating 650. The interior of the Chapel was re- arranged, a gallery was fitted all round, and the old ceiling removed. The Organ and choir were moved to the gallery behind the pulpit. In 1905 the average congregation was 650 with over 300 children attending Sunday school.

Albany Square Congregational Chapel

A few years ago an old sail-loft in the Front Street was taken to carry on mission work in that part of the town, where much good is being done. In connection with the work, Miss. Barret, Mr. John Green, and others, deeply interested themselves, and their efforts are greatly appreciated by the people dwelling in that neighbourhood.

When the Dockyard was transferred from Milford half a dozen Congregationalists, who had come up from that town, met in a room in the Front Street to hold their services, and once every month went into Pembroke to receive the Sacrament from an ordained minister of that place; but seeing that the Baptists and Wesleyans had built churches of their own, the Congregationalists set their minds on erecting a Chapel.

As there was some difficulty in obtaining land for the purpose of building a place of worship, two cottages which belonged to a Mr.Wilkins, of Llanbwm, were secured in North Brewery Street. Here the new owners proceeded to erect a small Chapel in the gardens. On Good Friday in the year 1824 this place of worship, which they called the Tabernacle, was opened. The Congregationalists had invited the Rev. Thomas Williams of Neuaddlwyd, to become their first minister. Owing to the debt on the building, the cause at the outset was not very prosperous, and their minister was not even 'passing rich on forty pounds a year', for the stipend that he received was only £39 per annum. The Sunday School was held in the Chapel. Music for the services was provided by Mr Thomas Rowe; violin, Michael Morgan, cello; and George Gibbs, double bass.

Following this minister came the Rev. Mr.Lewis, who was succeeded by the Rev. Thomas Williams, of Merrivale, Templeton, known generally as the Rev. Thomas Williams the second. This minister was the father of the late B.T.Williams, esq., Q.C., County Court Judge, Carmarthen.

In 1851 the capacity was free 36 other 516 with an average congregation of 200 + 60 scholars in the morning and 300 in the evening. Charles Sumpter was the Deacon
This was the first Chapel to have an Organ, which was installed in the 1860's

After a few years the Tabernacle was enlarged by removing one of the sides of the building and making it wider, so that, literally it was 'as broad as it was Long.' Still the congregation became too large for the increased accommodation, and, after much prayerful thought as to the advisability of erecting a more commodious Church, they decided to do so.

It needed much deliberation to arrive at this decision, for a debt of £140 still remained on the Tabernacle. However, they purchased a piece of leasehold property from Thomas Meyrick, esq., for the term of ninety-nine years, for which they paid £561.

This piece of ground consisted of the house once occupied by the late Mr. Propert, J.P., and a portion of adjoining ground. Where the Chapel now stands originally grew trees and plants, which formed Mr. Propert's orchard, and which opened out to Albion Square by a wooden door.

The cost of erecting this new place of worship, the Albion Square Congregational Church, was £3,940, which included the fees of the architect and clerk of works and legal and other expense~. The foundation-stone of the present handsome building was laid on June 28, 1865, by Mrs. Jenkins, of London, in the presence of a large assembly, including the Mayors of Haverfordwest, Tenby and Pembroke. The architect, R.C. Sutton, esq., presented Mrs. Jenkins with a handsome silver trowel with which to lay the stone. In a prepared cavity beneath the foundation-stone was placed a bottle containing a copy of the Patriot and the Christian World, together with a few coins and documents of Church matters.

The Chapel was opened for public worship on Friday, June 28, 1867. The late Rev. E. Paxton Hood preached in the morning and evening, and the Rev. D. Anthony, B.A., then of Tenby in the afternoon.

Still within the memory of some of the oldest members of the Church is the ministry of the late Rev. Eliakim Shadrach, who was the pastor at the time the present Chapel was built. He was a saintly man and an excellent preacher, and was much beloved by his people. On the north wall of Albion Square Chapel is fixed a tablet to his memory, on which the following words are inscribed:

In Remembrance of THE Rev. E. L. SHADRACH,

For forty years a faithful Minister of Jesus Christ.

Was ordained at Doncaster in the year 1829. After a short period he removed to Aberystwyth, and was co-pastor with his father, the late Rev. A. Shadrach, for six years. In the year 1835 he removed to Dursley, where he laboured with great acceptance for twenty-two years. In the year 1857 he commenced his ministry at the Tabernacle, Pembroke Dock, where he successfully discharged the duties of the pastorate twelve years. During his ministry this Chapel was erected, in which he preached for nearly two years. After a short illness he fell asleep in Jesus, April 8th, 1860 aged 64 years. To perpetuate his memory the Church and congregation have erected this Tablet.

Following Mr Shadrach came the late Rev. Dr Davies and the Rev J R Webster.

The present pastor of Albion Square Church is the Rev. J E Griffiths who was born at Neath. In 1867 Mr. Griffiths entered Bala know Bala Bangor- College, where he had a very successful course and obtained a first class diploma. In 1870 he entered his first pastorate, at Vochriw near Merthyr. In 1877 he removed to Lion Street Congregational Church, Blaenavon, where remained until August, 1886, when he commenced his present ministry at Albion Square Chapel, and since that time has ably, faithfully, and consistently preached the Gospel in that place. During his pastorate he has had the satisfaction of seeing the extinction of the Chapel building debt. Special services were held on the occasion, from Sunday, June 18, to Wednesday, June 21, 1899. On that day a big social tea took place, which was followed in the evening by a meeting at which Mr. Isaac Samuel, who was at that time treasurer of the Church, announced that the whole of the debt had been completely cleared off. This debt, since the year 1865, had by accumulation of interest and incidental expenses increased to the sum of £6,389.13s.

In 1875 it was described as one of the most handsome and commodious edifices in the town. An exceedingly fine window immediately above the entrance attracts universal notice and admiration. The internal fittings are of the most elaborate kind. The roof is very lofty, and supported by fine wrought iron pillars running above the galleries, which are large and capacious. It will accommodate nearly 1500 persons and possesses a rich toned Organ. Among those who preached at this Chapel was General W Boothe of the Salvation Army.

During the latter part of 1897, Albion Square Church was closed for renovation, and at the same time a splendid new Organ, made by Messrs. P.Conacher and Co., of Huddersfield, was erected in the north end of the building; the old one had previously stood near the south wall. A platform was also made below the pulpit for the choir. The cost of the new Organ and renovation combined was £700; the Organ alone cost £432. The talented organist is Mr.William G.Phelps, of Laws Street North.

The Church has sittings for 1,350 people, but has held upon special occasions 1,500. The improvements were completed , and it was re-opened for Divine worship, on February 9, 1898.

Amongst the many zealous workers in Albion Square Chapel, Special reference must be made to the late Mr.James Hancock, Mr.Richard Allen, and Mr.Joseph Lewis, who were truly pillars of the Church; also to the late Mr.John James, who passed away at the advanced age of eighty-seven. He was foremost in every good movement connected with the cause, and was the senior deacon for many years. Mr.I.Samuel and Mr.H.Pinch, who are still living, have also done much good work in connection with the Church.

Acc/to Kelly's Directory 1884

The Congregational Chapel, Albion square, erected in 1865 is a splendid building, the internal fittings being of the most elaborate kind: the roof is very lofty, and is supported by fine wrought iron pillars

The old Chapel was for a period used as a public Hall and later as a Salvation Army Barracks. It was torn down in 1904 to make way for housing , the fate which met its successor in the 1990's

Records available include births and baptisms 1825-37 PRO London (The original Tabernacle in Pembroke was formed in 1691 as a branch of Albany St Thomas Green Haverfordwest and some records go back to that date)

Meyrick St Congregationalists

In 1843 a dissension arose amongst the Congregationalists worshipping at the Tabernacle, and some of the members decided to separate themselves from the mother Church. They obtained a piece of land in Meyrick Street South whereon to build another Chapel.

The foundation-stone was laid on February 12, 1851, by W.F. Moart, esq., London, and the Church was opened on Wednesday, December 3, 1852, when special services were held. The Rev. J.D.Davies, of Albany Chapel, London, preached in the morning, and the Rev.D.Rees, of LlaNelly, in the evening of the day. The services were continued on the following Sunday, December 7, when the Rev.J.D.Davies again preached.

The Chapel was renovated in November, 1889. The first minister of Upper Meyrick Street Chapel was the late Rev. Josephus Williams, who prior to his pastorate in this place of worship had been minister of the old Tabernacle, Albion Square. Mr. Williams was an able minister and a man very remarkable for the extent of his general information. He could speak at length on any subject. He was followed by the Rev.Mr.Ramsay, who was an eloquent speaker, but he remained only about two years. After him came the Rev.Charles Goward, who was a sound preacher, a good man, and thoroughly devoted to his work.

The present pastor is the Rev.W.A.Edwards, who was born at . Aberdare, Glamorganshire. He studied at Brecon College. He has been minister of Meyrick Street Church for over thirty years successively, and, being so Long associated with the people, has made for himself many friends. Mr.Edwards is a man of wide Reading, and is well versed in geology and astronomy.

St Mary's Church Meyrick St Roman Catholic

It was started in 1846 due to the work of Rev. Father Lewis who was from Williamston. Previously there had been since 1840 a large number of Irish immigrants settling in Pembroke Dock who had come over with the start of Irish Mail Boats to Hobbs Point. He was first Roman Catholic priest who lived in the town and it was his custom to preach on Sunday afternoons in the open air at the top of Pembroke Street. Mainly by his efforts St.Mary's Church was erected in North Meyrick Street during the years 1845 and 1847. A private house had been in King St had been rented to meet and hold services in but the need for a Church was felt greatly. A piece of land was leased from the Bush Estate in 1846 and work started. It was dedicated August 29th 1847 capacity 150 +30 standing ,average attendance 110 in the morning and 50 in the afternoon according to the priest Rev. Maybury The original Church was much smaller than the present building and was enlarged and renovated in 1862 by the Rev. Father Oliver Murphy. The original Church only extended as far as the present altar rails. At the same time the altar was replaced with a stone one and the Sacristy was built. A large mission room attached to the Church on the north side was built in the early 1900's.

The Church was dedicated on Thursday, August 29, 1847, and on the occasion the Rev.Father PMcDonnel gave a special address in the evening to a crowded congregation. The Church, which stands in its own grounds was enlarged and renovated by the untiring zeal of the Rev.Father Oliver Murphy, who succeeded the Rev.Father Lewis.

On the walls of St.Mary's Church hangs a memorial tablet to a lady who was buried within the building. The tablet bears the following inscription:

Sacred to the Memory of Ann Martha Darby ,

The beloved wife of Abrahan Darby RN .

She was born May 16th, 1814 and died March 2nd, 1849, and was ill four years.

Her body lies beneath.

The funeral of this lady was the first that took place in the town according to the rites of the Roman Catholic Church. It was on March 9, 1849. The procession solemnly marched through the Streets of the town from the house, which is said to have been in Llanion Terrace, to the Church, and was accompanied by the two priests (the Rev.Father Lewis, and the Rev.Thomas Sick, from St.Bernard's Monastery) and two acolytes. The body, covered by a pall, was borne by six naval officers, wearing mourning scarves and hat-bands, assisted by the deceased lady's three medical attendants, who also wore deepest mourning. Large numbers of people followed the procession with marked respect. The body was brought into the Chapel, and there laid to rest. An extempore address, given by the Rev.Thomas Sick, was intently listened to, and made a deep impression on his congregation. The building was crowded almost to suffocation.

The Rev.Father Murphy came as a young and genial priest to Pembroke Dock from Kilkenny in the year 1850, and after forty-four years of residence in the town he passed into rest, March 14, 1894, having borne an unblemished character, and won the good feelings, not only of his own flock, but of the whole of the townspeople. In what esteem he was held was shown on the day of his funeral. His mortal remains, by special permission granted by the Home Secretary, were interred in the adjoining Church grounds: Amidst a huge concourse of people, his body was borne to its last resting-place by the sailors of H.M.S.Rupert, port guardship at that time in Milford Haven. The band of the Welsh regiment played the Dead March in Saul. So large was the crowd on the occasion of this good man's funeral that at least two people died from the results of the crush. On the headstone which marks the grave of the Rev.Father Murphy, are these words:

In Affectionate Remembrance of The Rev. FATHER Oliver Murphy

Born at Kilkenny, 17th March ,1825. Ordained priest at Kilkenny, May, 1850.

Pastor at St.Mary's Catholic Church, Pembroke Dock from 1850 until his death, 14th March ,1894. R.I.P. De Profundis. 'Eternal rest give unto him, O Lord, and 1et perpetual light shine upon him'.

1900 The officiating and resident priest of St.Mary's Roman Catholic Church is the Very Rev.Dean V.J.Kelly. He came to Pembroke Dock February , 1900. The Dean is a cultured writer and scholar. He studied at Ushaw College, Durham, and at the English College, Rome.

1875 It was described in 1875 by Findley as a Chapel and a small stone edifice which could accommodate between 200 and 300.

1884 Kelly's Directory 1884 The Catholic Church, Meyrick street, dedicated to St Mary , is a commodious building of stone, erected in 1846, by the late Rev. Father Lewis; and in 1862; the Rev Oliver Murphy, the present priest, enlarged the Church, and thoroughly· renovated it, at a cost of over £300, and it will now seat about 350.

The Dockyard Chapel

The first Services were held on the frigate Lapwing which had been run aground and was used as offices and storerooms. Up to about 1820 these were conducted by the Vicar of Pembroke. After this ship was broken up in 1828 the Services were held in a wooden building but the increase in the numbers made it imperative that a larger building be constructed. The site chosen was in the north east corner of the Yard and work started in 1831. Consideration was given to future installation of heating by banking up the site before constructing the building. The design was very plain with very large windows. The three west doors are approached by two flights of steps. The interior had a gallery on each side and at the west end, the main floor had a nave, two side aisles, chancel with choir stalls and a sanctury in a recess. It was capable of seating 1100. Most of the pews were box pews with doors. The reading desk was a two decker, the Chaplain reading the prayers from the upper box and the clerk leading the responses from the lower. The pulpit was very high, reached by a winding staircase and when in it the preacher was at the same height as the gallery. Up till 1857 it was the custom for the Chaplain to Read the prayers in a White surplice and during the singing of the psalm before the sermon change into a black cassock to preach. Right from the very beginning the Chapel was renowned for its choir, and sang at the visit of the Duke of Clarence in 1827. The choir occupied the west end gallery and in 1836 an Organ was installed in this gallery. A large painting representing a dove descending from the clouds towards a chalice obscured the east window. In later years a stain glass window replaced this painting.

It was expected that the marines and Dockyard Policemen not on duty marched to the Chapel every Sunday morning as well as the crews the "Royal Sovereign" and the Irish Mail steamers in harbour. All Dockyard apprentices were expected to attend and after the opening of the National School the Master, Mistress, and pupil teachers. In the early days of the Sunday school held in the national school all the pupils after attending Sunday school were marched down to the Chapel for the morning service.

In 1844 Mr William Edye Master shipwright drew up plans for landscaping the grounds around the Chapel with trees and shrubs.

A Coat of Arms belonging to the yacht Royal Sovereign was affixed to the west gallery in 1850 when that yacht formerly the Royal Yacht of William IV was broken up. The Bell was taken from the captured Spanish cruiser El Phoenix (renamed Gibraltar) It appears that the building was never actually consecrated during the time it was used by the Admiralty but it is said this omission was rectified in 1927 but no trace can be found

According to the census of Religious Buildings in 1851 the Dockyard Chapel could accommodate 800. This census also lists it as not being consecrated or licensed with an average attendance of 250 in the morning and 100 in the afternoon. The Chaplain of Her Majesty's Dockyard was J H Mallet. A Tablet in memory of Edward Laws who died in 1854 was placed on the south wall. This was destroyed in the 1970's

Gas lighting was installed in 1874 and the afternoon services replaced by evening services.

A small font was installed at the entrance to the south aisle in 1875

A Description of 1875

A spacious stone building. It is entered by 3 doors at the western end which are approached by flights of stone steps. Above the centre entrance is a small square set tower having a hemispherical summit surmounted by a cross within is one small Bell. The Church consists of a nave, a singularly small chancel, side aisles and galleries. In the west gallery there is a fine Organ in front of which the members of the choir sit. The interior has an exceedingly neat and pleasing appearance, the roof is lofty and having a large flat ceiling unsupported by pillars, it is well worthy of attention. Above the communion table, and covering the east window is a handsome painted screen, its subject intended to be emblematical of Christianity. There is also a handsome pulpit reached by a winding staircase and balustrade. There is one tablet affixed to the south wall.

.Kelly's Directory 1884

The Dockyard Church is a plain building, erected inside the walls of the Royal dockyard, and consisting of a small chancel, nave, aisles, with galleries, the west gallery containing a fine Organ : above the centre entrance is a small square tower, surmounted by a cross : the Church was built for the officers and workmen of the dockyard, for whom seats were' appropriated in the area : the north and south galleries are set apart for the sailors and soldiers of the garrison , the public are permitted to attend any of the services , there are seats for about 1100 persons. The Rev. Fredrick William Nickoll M.A. is the chaplain, appointed in 1881

From 1885 onwards various alterations to the internal arrangements took place and included reducing the height of the pulpit, doing away with the clerk leading the responses, panels on which were painted the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer were removed. The Choir and Organ moved to the main body of the Church, galleries shortened and pews removed and replace. While Captain Kelly was Superintendent of the Yard the Training Ship "Atlanta" which had originally been built in Pembroke Dock was lost at sea with a tremendous loss of life and a collection was organised for a memorial window to those lost. £75 was raised by Mrs Kelly in the Yard and a stain glass window was installed at the east end of the Chapel depicting Christ in the ship rebuking the wind and saying "Peace be still" at the base was the dedication "To the Officers and ship's Company H.M.S. "Atalanta" Perished A.D., 1879 in 1887.

NB This window was removed at the closing of the Dockyard and all trace lost.

Acc to The Parish of Pembroke Dock – Silas T Phillips 1898

Dockyard Chapel

As a Government building it neither secures nor claims episcopal oversight and consequently has never been consecrated. Baptisms celebrated there, were registered in the Parish Church Register.

Electric light was introduced in 1905 and all gas fittings removed.

Frank Owen remembered the Chapel

Situated at the east end of the Royal Dockyard , standing in its own grounds and approached from the corner of Commercial Row stood the Royal Dockyard Church. It could be easily identified from sea or land by the domed tower at its west end. The Church stood at the end of the Senior Officers Houses and was approached by a road flanked by high trees. This road terminated in a wide forecourt presenting a tall building with wide steps which led to the Bell Tower and the entrance. here , right up to the closure of the Dockyard Mr. Lewis would welcome you with dignity and present you with your hymn book and psalter --- this between his duties as verger and Bell Ringer.

The Church possessed only one Bell, as apposed to St John's which had eight. The building was always refered to as a Church but in some quarters is only recognized as a Chapel and not consecrated.

The last resident Royal Naval Chaplain was the Rev. R D Gilbertson MA whose father was well known in Pembroke as a solicitor and clerk to the Castlemartin Division which covered an area from Angle to Penally. Understandably, most of those who worshiped at the Church were associated with the Dockyard and on Sunday mornings , the front rows were occupied by uniformed officers of the Royal Navy, the Resident Officers and their families. The remainder of the congregation consisted of the lower ranks and various officials of the civilian branches seated strictly according to rank. This may sound rather snooty but the Dockyard boasted some of the finest craftsmen in the country and there was enormous pride attached to a man's craft or trade. When all were assembled there would be heard the stirring sound of the band of the resident battalion which was stationed at Llanion Barracks. Led by the Drum Major and to the tune of its Regimental March the detachment detailed for Church parade would March with pride along the Avenue then enter the Church and occupy the pews at either side, towards the rear to allow for reassembly after the service. The band would be in the balcony and play for the service, accompanied by the civilian organist and by instrumentalists who were associated with the choir. The choir was made up of many of the most talented vocalists and musicians in the area under their Choir Master , Mr. Thomas Handcock of Cheriton House , Water St. Mr. Hancock was an imposing gentleman of great personality and musical genius , Stocky with wild hair and goatee beard, he controlled his choir with a baton of iron. Known as "T G" he inspected applicants for the choir, tested them and then gave them a trial run. Boys on acceptance were paid 2s and 6d per quarter - It worked out that if a boy gave 1d per service for the collection, he just about broke even at the end of the quarter but if he spent his money on Mrs Rogers home made toffee on the way to Church then he had to be well practised in the art of shaking the collection bag to give the impression that he had dropped in a few coins.

Although Mr. Hancock was Organist and Choirmaster, other talented musicians, Mr. Reginald Calver, Mr. Frank James and Miss Ivy Lewis -- all first class organists, assisted him. There were also a number of ladies choristers.

At the closing of the Dockyard and the Church all these fine trained choristers were in great demand and invited to join the choirs of other churches and other denominations carrying on the traditions which they had leamed.

Later the building became the Garrison Theatre and even later a Motor Museum. Now part of the Enterprise Zone and plans are being submitted to turn it into a warehouse.

NB It was always said that if you wanted promotion in the Yard you had to regularly attend the Church (or Chapel) that your supervisor attended.

Gilgal Baptist Chapel, Pennar (see under Pennar)

Wesley Chapel Pennar (see under Pennar)

Trinity Wesley Chapel, Pembroke Ferry

In the 1870's some of the Wesleyans again commenced regular services, and formed a society at Pembroke Ferry

Mr.W.Lawrence, of Queen Street East, had the interest of the work at this place greatly at heart, and by his unwearied efforts the present little place of worship, Trinity Chapel, was built at a cost, exclusive of the school-room, of £170.

The corner-stones of this Chapel were laid on November 10, 1879, by the late Mrs. Evans, of Trinity Wharf, Mrs.W.Lawrence, Miss. Trayler, and Miss Green, each lady giving a donation of £5.

The late Mr.Ladd was the architect, and the late Mr.Thomas Thomas , of Queen Street East, was the builder.

The first service was held in the Chapel on August 12, 1880. The sermon was preached on the occasion by the Rev.Josiah Cox, who was at that time superintendent of Tenby Circuit.

The late Mr.Lawrence, superintended the good work carried on at Trinity Chapel for many years, and gained for himself the title of 'the Bishop of the Ferry,' by which name he is still affectionally remembered by very many.

He was succeeded by Mr.Miller, who during his time did much good work then Mr.Roblin.

At the March Quarterly meeting of the Pembroke Wesleyan Circuit-. in 1878 four men, W. Lawrence, G.T. Davies, W.G. Copplestone -and W Dawkins, were instructed "to select a site and make the necessary- preliminary enquiries as to .ground: rent; with .a view to building. a Chapel .at Pembroke Ferry, the present place of worship being . small and inconvenient" . They were to report back but no further action was taken until 1879 . In 1878 the membership was recorded at 12.

A cottage had been opened for the purposes of public services and Sunday School previously but it was damp and considered unsuitable. The congregation became affiliated to the Wesleyan Methodist Society of Pembroke Dock and a fund was started to raise money to build a Chapel. The building cost £176. The plans were prepared by Mr. Ladd the cost was cut to the bare minimum even to the extent that no money was to be spent on flooring etc. in the lower part of the building. The plans had to be altered by reducing the length to avoid interference with other buildings adjacent. Mr. W John agreed to do all woodwork.

The building was registered for public worship on 20th July 1880 and the official opening was on Wednesday 4th August 1880 when Rev. J Cox of Tenby preached

In November 1880 work was started on completing the lower room as a schoolroom.

In 1920 the freehold was purchased for £5 plus £2 . 10. 0d solicitors and auctioneers fee.

The first woman trustee was Constance Hughes in 1940

Electricity was installed in 1969, in 1989 the Chapel was re-roofed and the next year the interior was renovated including two new windows being installed.

Gershom Calvinistic Methodist

In 1837 some of the members and adherents of the West Gate Church, Pembroke, who resided at Pembroke Dock began to hold services in a private house belonging to one of their number in Market Street, and afterwards in a large room in Melville Street. These services were conducted alternately by the Rev.John Davies, of Mead Lodge, and the Rev.William Powell, of Pembroke. Steps, however, were taken to build a Chapel, and a site was obtained in Queen Street East. The responsibility of this undertaking fell chiefly on the Rev.John Davies, who was appointed in 1835 home missionary for Pembroke and its neighbourhood by the South Wales Association of the Calvinistic Methodist.

This Chapel, which is known as Gershom, was opened on Christmas day, 1838. It was a quaint little building, standing a short distance off from the street, with, to the modern eye, a somewhat strange arrangement of pews. In 1844 Mr.Davies became its recognised and settled minister. He remained at Pembroke Dock until 1852 and was most faithful in his labours. After his removal, he served various churches, and died at Newport, Monmouthshire, 1870.

Early in 1853 the Rev. Lewis Evans became pastor of the Church, and faithfully fulfilled this duty for nearly eleven years. He died October, 1863. The congregation, who mourned the loss of a Christian minister, placed a tablet to his memory on the south wall of St. Andrew's Chapel, which bears the following inscription: who presided over this Church during a period of eleven years and entered into his rest October 16th, 1863 aged 41 years.

In Memory of

THE LATE Rev. Lewis Evans,

This Tablet is erected by the Church and congregation aided by his brother ministers, as a token of the love and esteem which they cherish for him. In life he was faithful, diligent, and blameless, always abounding in the work of the Lord; and in death he was more than conqueror, through Him that loved him and gave Himself for him: changing the cross for the crown, and the sword for the palm of victory.

When St. Andrew's Chapel was built, this memorial was removed from the old Chapel, and placed on the south end wall of the new place of worship.

The Rev. William Evans, M.A. commenced his labours on January 1, 1865, having previously served at St. John's Church, Runcorn, for nearly two years and a half.

The Rev. William Evans is a native of Glamorganshire, and is the grandson of the late venerable William Evans, of Tonyrefail, a name that is known and honoured Throughout Wales. This much revered and good man died in 1891 at the great age of ninety six. His grandson was educated for the ministry at Swansea, the University of Glasgow, and Cheshunt College. He matriculated in London in 1855, obtained one of Dr. Williams' scholarships in 1857, graduated B.A. in 1860, and M.A. in 1861.

The original meetings were held in the school room at Mr Allan's house three nights a week and also a Sunday school. Sunday Services were then held in a room of Mr George Morgan's house in Market St. In 1837 a Long room was taken by Rev John Davies in the Melville Hotel in Melville St. but the congregations had increased to such an extent that it was decided to build a Chapel. situated in Queen Street East. Members of the congregation supplied much of the labour and it was opened on Christmas day 1838. Like many of the other early Chapels it had a fine orchestra which included violins, double bass, flutes and clarionets. There was also a fine choir. Members from this Chapel also carried out missionary work and help found the Zion Chapel in Neyland.

This Chapel was then found to be too small and work started to build a new Chapel St Andrew's St Andrew's

Calvanistic Methodist -- now United Reform

Andrews Calvinistic Methodist

Soon after Mr. Evans' settlement it was decided to erect a larger place of worship. Accordingly, St. Andrew's Chapel was built. The foundation-stone of this beautiful Church, which is built in the Italian style, was laid in August, 1865, by Mrs. Ezra Roberts, wife of one of the firm of Davies and Roberts, who constructed the Pembroke and Tenby Railway. The Chapel was opened in November, 1866. Mr. Evans continued his ministry at St. Andrew's until 1875; when he removed to Aberystwyth, where he remained six years as pastor of the English Calvanistic Church. During his absence the Rev. John H. Griffiths, M.A., officiated as minister for the greater part of the time. He is now in the United States of America.

The Rev. W. Evans, M.A., returned to his former sphere at Pembroke

Dock in April, 1881, and continued to faithfully serve St Andrew's Church as minister until he resigned the pastorate, preaching his farewell sermon on the evening of Christmas Day, 1904.

Mr. Evans has, however, signified his intention of still identifying himself closely with the work, particularly in connection with the small Calvinistic Chapel at Llanreath.

Mr Evans is widely and worthily known as a scholar, and has written two or three books. He has occupied most of the places of honour in his Church, and was appointed Moderator in 1897.

At the south end of St. Andrew's Chapel is a very beautiful stained-glass window representing the Prodigal Son meeting his Father. This window was given in 1882 by the late Captain Cocks, who attended this place of worship. In addition to the tablet raised in remembrance of the Rev. Lewis Evans, there is a brass ' memorial tablet placed on the walls to the late Mr. James Owen.

On it these words are engraved:

In Memory of

James Owen, R.C.N.C,

A Member and Office-bearer of this Church, who died 20th June, 1902, aged 55 years.

Erected by the Officers of the Chief Constructor's Department, H.M.Dockyard, as a Mark of respect and esteem.

During the latter part of the past year another tablet has been placed in this Chapel:

In Loving memory of James Davies ,

For many years a Member and Deacon of this Church, and a faithful Sunday school Superintendent, Who died 28th September, 1900 aged 61.

This Tablet is erected by his two daughters.

The Organ was built in 1896. The organist is Miss Gertrude Webb, of Bush Street, who is a young lady of much musical ability.

Originally a Chapel was built in 1837 called Gershom. This was then found to be too small and then in 1866 a new Chapel was built on the present site. The foundation stone was laid by Mrs Roberts wife of Ezra Roberts a Railway Contractor whose firm constructed the Railway line from Whitland to Pembroke Dock, and after the service gold and silver offerings were laid on the foundation stone by those present. Mr Roberts laid what was described as a very large cheque. The architect was Mr K Ladd and the contractor Mr Joseph Tregenna. It was constructed to seat 800 people but unfortunately there was a design fault in the roof , the span being too great for the weight on it and the side walls started to spread outwards while the roof subsided. The original cost had been £3000 but the additional remedial work undertaken by Mr K McAlpin involved the rebuilding of a large portion of the outer walls with a new roof of a different design at a cost of £800. At the same time he redesigned a large part of the interior. While this work was being undertaken the services were held in the Schoolroom underneath.

In 1875 it is described as of ornamental design and is a handsome edifice.

Captain James Cocks, a member of the congregation, offered in 1882, to have erected a stained glass window depicting the Prodigal Son. This offer was accepted and Mr K McAlpin designed the window and directed the making and installation at a cost of £80.

.Kelly's Directory 1884

St. Andrew's Calvinistic Methodist Chapel, Bush street, is in the Italian style, and was erected in 1866 ; it is capable of seating 800 and has a beautiful stained window behind the pulpit: The interior was again renovated in 1896. Among the work undertaken was the installation of a new Organ, ironwork tracery in the galleries, the renovation of the schoolroom and the installation of heating.

Primitive Methodists Gershom Chapel

When the Calvinistic Methodists vacated Gershom Chapel in September 1866, it was taken over after a time by the Primitive Methodists, who hitherto had worshipped in a little Chapel at the top of South Park Street, which was approached by a flight of steps. This Chapel was afterwards sold, and turned into a public-house known as Temple Bar. Prior to this, a few of these Methodists met for worship, in Park Street North, two cottages being converted into one room for the purpose. The minister at that time was the Rev. Mr. Maynard, and it was through his influence that the early Chapel at the top of Park Street was built.

Acc/to Kelly's Directory 1884

The Primitive Methodists have a Chapel in Queen street which , seats 500.

Gershom Chapel Document D/LLB/9 Pemb R O -- Assignment of Gershom Chapel by the trustees of the Welsh Calvinistic Methodist congregation to Rev Nicholas Pasco and Trustees.

Llanreath Calvanistic Methodist Chapel

A Sunday school was formed before 1885 under the pastorate of Mr Evans and a Chapel built about that time it, was rebuilt in 1910.

Extra land adjacent to the Chapel was purchased for the sum of £20 from the Admiralty 27th September 1911 by the congregation for the building of a schoolroom Rev W Evans 97 Laws St was the minister

According to the Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette Friday 21 September 1917.

At the anniversary Service the previous Sunday the preacher in the morning was the Rev E H Merchant of Tenby and in the afternoon Rev J T Davies of Gilgal The singing was hearty. Mr Richard John acted as usual as precentor and Miss Mary John was the organist.

Acc to Mrs Peters

In 1883 a branch Sunday-school was opened at Llanreath, in the house of Mr. Peter L. Jones, now of Belmont House. In 1885 a Chapel was opened for Divine worship, when the Rev. D. Saunders, D.D., preached, who had also preached at the opening of St. Andrew's Chapel. Since then the Llanreath Chapel has been enlarged, and there is now a prosperous Church, with a flourishing Sunday-school, there, and the good work carried on is universally admitted to be of great blessing to the growing village on the Hill.

2000 The Chapel has now been converted into a house.

Bethel Baptist Church

Bethel

In the early forties, owing to a misunderstanding between the late Rev. John Morgan and his people, a great many of the members of the Church and congregation left during his pastorate. There being no other Baptist Chapel in the place, they held their meetings, at first in the malt-house, now the Criterion, at the corner of Llanion Terrace, and afterwards in a billiard room on the premises of Mr. William Robertson, timber-merchant and shipbuilders, in the lower part of North Meyrick Street, near the site of the sawmills belonging to the firm of McMaster and Co. The room remains to this day, but is now converted into business premises.

This part of the town at that time was commonly known as The Quarry. A Church was formed, and deacons were elected, whose names were Messrs. W. John senior, Samuel Allen, George H. Davies, Thomas Brown, John Peters, and W. John junior. In 1844 the church was admitted into the Baptist Association of the county. The late Rev. John Rees, of Upton, and the Rev W. H. Thomas of Water Holmes, took great interest in the young cause, and frequently preached in the room at The Quarry .

Bethel Chapel was built in 1845. The first minister was the Rev.D.L.Pughe, who is reputed to have been an able preacher. He remained about four years, and removed to Builth, Breconshire. He was succeeded by the Rev.Evan Davies, whose stay was only two years ; he was followed by the Rev. T. Thomas , whose brief pastorate terminated in 1854. In October, 1855, the Rev.W.F.Bliss entered upon his pastoral charge of Bethel. He laboured with much acceptance in the Church for ten years. Mr. Bliss was a very cultured man. He kept a middle-class school for boys in the town which proved to be of great service. From 1865 to 1868 the Rev.J.D.Williams was minister. He was followed by the Rev.E.Roberts, who came in 1869 and removed in 1873.

There was an interval of three years before the calling of another minister, and during that period the Chapel was re built.

During the erection of the new building, before the old ceiling could be removed, some of the supports gave way, and it fell in. Fortunately, the accident occurred in the dinner-hour, when there were but few workmen on the spot, or the consequences must have been very serious indeed; as it was, among a few who were present, two or three men were severely injured.

The beauty of the new Chapel certainly far exceeds that of the former structure.

The present minister of Bethel is the Rev.R.C.Roberts, who was educated in Llangollen College. He came here in 1876 and has perseveringly carried on his duties since then without a break. The organist of Bethel Chapel is Mr.John Hancock, of Queen Street west, who is well known as a musician of great ability .

1851 According to the Census of Religious Buildings it had an average congregation of 250 + 70 scholars in the morning 81 scholars in the afternoon and an evening congregation of 400

A description in 1875 after the rebuilding in 1874 on the same site says, "It is a very handsome stone building accommodating about 800 persons

Bethel

In the year 1843, a number of members withdrew from Bethany Baptist Church, Pembroke Dock, The cause is not known but it appeared that they had become dissatisfied with the Minister and failing to bring about a better understanding, they split away. The numbers given were 104 members which was actually the majority of the Bethany congregation. At first they met in a room in North Meyrick Street, on the west side which they hired. It was behind the Edinburgh Hotel and known as Robinson's Billiard Room. There they assembled together for Divine worship. They presented a letter to the County Association held at Bethany on 4th June 1844 which said that " Formerly we constituted a part of the Church meeting for Divine worship at Bethany in the town, of which Church many of us are the original members, and with which we have continued in fellowship since its formation until a few months ago, when we felt that our further communion with it under certain circumstances must cease.

Immediately after our withdrawment we rented a house for Divine worship, where we still meet in union and harmony.

At a quarterly meeting held at Ffynon on 6th November 1843, our case was submitted to the consideration of the ministers present, when our separation was allowed and sanctioned, since which time we have been regularly and acceptably supplied with preachers, and it is with devout and adoring gratitude, we record that the Lord has been graciously pleased to own the services of his servants, in the conversion of sinners, the decision of the halting, and the edification of our hearts.

As to the present prospects, they are cheering. Our congregation exceeds what our place of worship will comfortably contain. We have among us a few enquirers. We have in contemplation the erection of a more commodious place of worship, for which we are making provision

They became constituted into a separate Church under the temporary pastorate of the Rev. John Rees, of Upton who took a deep interest in this cause preaching frequently and administering the the Christian ordinances when required, and at the Annual Assembly of the Churches of the county held at Bethany, June 1844, this Church was cordially received into the Association. The candidates for membership were baptised in the Haven off Front St. The first being Mr Thomas Brown and his wife of Laws St and Mrs Phoebe Peters of Queen St.

In 1844 they leased a plot of land from the Bush Estate at the junction of Bush St and Meyrick St south, the site were the present Chapel stands. The new Chapel was built described as very comfortable and commodious able to seat 400 to 450 people. The exterior was plain with very large windows; semi circular at the top and the front had a moulded design. The interior had a plain flat ceiling, and on the floor were fitted rising seats on either side and at the east end, facing two of seats fitted on the flat in the centre. The pulpit platform was at the west end, and the baptistry under the pulpit pew. There was no gallery. A small schoolroom was built against the west end of the Chapel. The Chapel was opened for public worship in June 1845. The choir occupied the centre pews of the rising portion at the east end assisted by various instrumentalists. In 1855 the Chapel was registered for marriages, the first being that of Mr S W Willing to Miss Amelia Allen. A harmonium was installed in 1857 played by Mr W Hancock member of a very musical family. His three sons also played the harmonium and Organ in various Chapels and his nephew was the organist at the Dockyard Chapel.

Some members of this Chapel held cottage meetings at Lower Pennar. The numbers attending these meeting increased and it was decided to convert an old farm cowshed into a Chapel. Mr David Jones and others loaned the money and Services and a Sunday School were started led by Mr Bliss. Those helping at Pennar often had to trudge through ankle deep mud to get to Lower Pennar as at that time there was no proper road only a track.

The congregation had increased at Bethel to such an extent that consideration was given in 1867 to enlarging the building or rebuilding. Unfortunately as the fundraising started there was falling of of shipbuilding leading to massive job losses in the Yard. At the time the feeling was that the Yard would be closed. Proposed building plans were shelved until November 1872 when there was a terrible storm which blew off most of the Chapel roof. The congregation had to hire the Temperance Hall for Sunday services and Sunday School for the next two years while weekday meetings were held in the Chapel in Upper Meyrick St the congregation of which had kindly offered assistance. In 1873 an extension on the lease was obtained for a further 99 years and the congregation returned to the old Chapel for one last Service on May 31st 1873. The next week it was demolished and a new Chapel designed by Mr Hans Price and constructed by Mr Isaac Hughes (who also built Pennar school) was accepted. The old building was in such a dangerous state that while demolishing it two labourers were seriously injured by part of the wall falling in on them. The congregation raised enough funds to give the men 8s per week for several months and when they were fit the rest of the money was divided between them. Mr W Davies who placed a cheque for £25 towards the building fund on it laid the Foundation stone. The building work proceeded but very slowly, then in April 1874 the builder died. The roof timbers had not been completed and no progress was made till the Autumn. Messrs Jones and John agreed to complete the contract on a additional payment over the contract price with Mr Hughes of £100

The walls of the Chapel are of dressed limestone with bathstone facings it has been described as a squat building. The interior contains pitch pine pews on the ground floor with galleries on either side and the west end on which there is the Organ and the choir places. . The platform pulpit is at the west end with the baptistry below the pulpit seat. The large two story schoolroom is attached to the west end and the upper floor has large doorways leading into the west gallery which can be opened so as to increase the capacity of the Chapel.

The Chapel had no boundary wall but Messrs Jones and John were employed to erect a wall, railings and gates at a cost of £200.

A pipe Organ was installed in September 1883 on the gallery at the east end. The actual work of fitting and fixing was done free of charge. Mr Millard a Constructor in the Dockyard was responsible for organising this. The schoolroom and the Chapel were completely renovated in 1901 and a new classroom built.

Kelly's Directory 1884

The Baptist Chapel, South Meyrick street, is a stone building, erected in 1874, having seats for about 800 persons : a very fine Organ has been add

Meyrick St Chapel (Trinity)

This Congregational Chapel was formed in 1849 after a disagreement at Tabernacle Albion Square The foundation Stone was laid by W F Mount of London who gave £105 towards the building costs. Mr John road, a draughtsman in the Dockyard, designed it. Dockyard tradesmen carried out the majority of the woodwork voluntarily. The Chapel was opened on 3rd December 1851 Rev J Davies Albany Chapel London preached and the harmonium was played by Mr Thomas Eastlake while Mr James Richards was choirmaster. Records show that it had 100 members in 1864. Restoration work was carried out in 1871. It was described very briefly in 1875 as "Chapel is a plain stone building erected in the year 1851 It accommodates about 700 persons and possesses an Organ."

Acc/to.Kelly's Directory 1884

The Congregational Chapel South Meyrick street, is a plain stone building for about 700 per sons, and was built in 1851

The Chapel was altered and renovated in 1899. New pitch pine pews were installed, a porch on the west side as well as a new rostrum.

Zion

A small society of Primitive Methodists originally meet in members houses around the 1840's. The built a small Chapel at the top of Park St in 1849 capable of holding about 50 people. It was built in a recess cut in the bank and the entrance was on the west side. The cause moved to an Calvanistic Methodist Chapel -- Gershom when that congregation built St Andrews 1867-8. The old Chapel was sold to a Mr Samual Sloggett who rebuilt it, raising it up to two stories, and opened it as the "Temple Bar" Hotel.

It had 40 members in 1850 although in the census of 1851 John Maylard (Minister) records that in the morning the average attendance was 40 scholars, the afternoon 150 + 50 scholars and in the evening 150. (It would seem that in the afternoon they were sitting on each others laps). Records only go up till 1907.

Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill

Long before Pater existed, John Wesley had visited Pembroke several times, and preached at St.Daniel's Church and in the Town Hall Main Street, about the year 1763.

Pembrokeshire and Brecknockshire were then divided into two circuits, really the only two in Wales.

Shortly after the formation of the Dockyard, the Wesleyan Methodists began to hold meetings in a house at Pembroke Ferry, under the leadership of Mr.Richard Allen, father of the late Richard Allen, shipbuilder. Mr. R, Allen senior was the first follower of John Wesley in the immediate district, and was a man of strong personality. Among others who preached at the Ferry was the notable Billy Dawson, who, detained there on his way to Haverfordwest by the inclemency of the weather, gave his memorable sermon from the subject, 'Death on the Pale Horse'.

Ebenezer

A 'society' which consisted of sixteen members was formed, and afterwards met in the house of Mr.James Allen, Front Street until Ebenezer Chapel was built, when this small band joined themselves to the Wesleyans who worshipped in the little 'Chapel on the Hill'. ' This Chapel was built on a piece of ground at TreOwen, now known as Wesley Row, very shortly after the Baptists had erected Bethany. The Wesleyans obtained their lease from Sir John Owen on the same terms as the Baptists, and when the ground was taken over by the Government £30 was given to the trustees of the Chapel in lieu of the lease.

This small Chapel, which was named Ebenezer, was opened for Divine worship in 1820, having been in building about two years. . All the work that could be possibly done by those interested in it was voluntarily given.

At its opening it had a Church-roll of something like sixty members. The singing was a special feature in the services. Mrs. John Rixon, of Pembroke, widow of the late Mr. John Rixon, Mayor of the borough 1899-1900, sang as a girl in the choir, which was led by a band of instrumentalists. Every effort was put forth by its members to be in their places in time, for to be five minutes late or to be absent without leave meant a possible penny fine. The preachers who at first conducted the services in this little Chapel were itinerant ministers, who rode Long distances from one mission station to another, and whose property oftentimes consisted of but little more than was contained in their saddle-bags.

.....

Other Methodists who had come to work in the dockyard from Cornwall first met in 36 King St in 1818. At that time their numbers totalled 16. Public worship was established in this house as was a Sunday School and their numbers increased. It was decided to build a Chapel but they were unable to obtain a site in town due to Mr Meyrick's policy regarding leasing land for building non Conformist Churches.

They obtained the lease of a piece of land were the on the north side of what is now Preselly View at its junction with Tregennis Hill. Sir John Owen granted the lease from 1820 for 99 years at an annual rent of 1shilling. The building was small plain and rectangular with a gallery at the one end for the choir and musicians. The Chapel was opened in 1820 by the Rev J Wood, Phillip Rawlins and Samual Dunn. The Musicians consisted of

Mr John Dyer; first violin and leader,
George Lifton; violin,
Thomas Chunn; cello,
James Bateman and William Davies; flutes,
Thomas Phillips; (who kept a grocery shop), clarionet,
John Bolch, double bass.

The Choir included

Miss Jane Tregenna,
Mary A Nicholls,
Mary Fender,
Ann Roads,
Betsey Reynolds,
Mary Jackett,
Jane Allen,
Bessie Lifton,
Elizabeth Seccombe,
M and J Thomas ,
E and M Davies,
Mr Thomas Blake,
William Bateman,
W Tapp,
Samual Tregenna,
William Saunders,
George Bateman,
William Lifton and John Adams.

The number of Church members was 54. A Sunday school was also formed at the new Church and Mr Richard Tregenna was the superintendent. Originally the ministers who took the services came from Pembroke but as the importance of the Chapel grew they lodged in Mr Phillips house near the Chapel.

By 1843 the congregation had grown to such an extent that the Chapel was too small. There was ample ground to enlarge the Chapel on the present site under the lease granted by Sir John Owen but the War Department had purchased the land on which the Chapel stood subsequently to the granting of the lease and were in the course of construction of the Defensible Barracks. This needed, according to the original plans a clear field of fire with no buildings encroaching on it surrounding the Barracks. The War department drew up proposals to clear all building to Llanreath at the west, to the stream of water running at the south and east of Cross Park, to the road at Tregennis Hill (all the houses built on the west side) and down to Victoria Rd on the north. Mason suggests that the Chapel Committee found difficulty in getting approval for any extension to be carried out, from the War Department, and were offered £350 compensation by the War Department to move. They looked round for a new site and one was found in Meyrick St. There were no longer any problems with leasing from the Bush estate so the new Chapel was built and the old one demolished by the War Department.

Wesleyan Methodist Chapel -- Meyrick St

Wesley Chapel Meyrick St Mrs S Peters

In space of time the worshippers at Ebenezer increased to such an extent that sufficient sitting accommodation could not be found It was therefore thought advisable to build a more commodious place of worship, so in 1846 a site was obtained in Meyrick Street North. The foundation-stone of the new Chapel was laid by Mrs. John Road, and it was opened for Divine worship on April 21 (Good Friday), 1848, the Revs. Mr. Wood and Dr. Beaumont officiating on the occasion. During the erection of the Chapel a prominent Wesleyan, Mr. John Bolch senior, who gave gratuitous labour on the building, fell from the scaffolding and was killed.

The first marriage in Wesley Chapel took place on August 27, 1850. Mr. and Mrs. Jones, the bride and bridegroom, were presented with a Bible, a hymn-book, and one sovereign on the occasion. In the year 1865 Wesley Chapel was extended westwards. At the time the foundation-stone of this extension was being laid which ceremony was performed by Mrs. Jonas Dawkins - an accident occurred. The platform which had been erected for the purpose gave way, and many were precipitated to the ground. A few people were slightly hurt, but, happily, no serious results followed from the mishap.

It was thought wise to get a renewal of the lease at this time, and it was granted by the trustees of the Bush estate for ninety nine years.

The enlargement of the Chapel was not completed until 1867.

The Chapel was further improved between the years 1882 and 1885 by the construction of a new entrance-lobby, by the alteration of the old fashioned high-backed seats, and in many other ways, which rendered it more comfortable for the worshippers. It is the largest place of worship in the town. The ministers, according to the Wesleyan system, remain only three years in the Church. The present pastor is the Rev. Isaac Newton. Miss Jenkins, daughter of the late Mr. David Jenkins, who was a prominent Wesleyan, is the Chapel organist.

The Chapel was 74 feet Long by 57 feet wide with galleries at one end and on both sides. It could seat 856 and apart from those seats reserved for the choir and Army and Navy most of them were rented in advance of the Chapel being completed. There were a schoolroom ,three vestries underneath and a house for the Minister on the south side. The total cost was less than £1800 but much of the work was done by volunteers many Dockyard tradesmen who gave their time free

Rev Josiah Evans described the times and the men who built this Chapel.

It was the day of the smaller wages and longer hours of dearer provisions, the time of the duty on corn – I well remember seeing the road menders sitting by the roadside eating their black barley Bread. It was the day when tea was 8s or 10s a pound, and sugar and salt were taxed and they had to look round to see how far a shilling would go. They gave nobly and sacrificed to give. They gave and raised upwards of £1300 in cash but they gave considerably more in work. The working day was Long but they managed to put in time before and after work in the Yard. As early as 4am some of them were on the spot, whilst in the evenings as soon as they could they were they were busy. The walls, slating and plastering were all given out to contract but all the woodwork – flooring, pews, pillars, etc. was sawn, planed and fitted up by them. While working on the roof one, Mr Bolch fell to his death but his death only seemed to inspire the workers to work on.

A communion service of silver was given by Mrs Rodgers the wife of a Dockyard Official and was inscribed accordingly. The clock from the old Chapel made in 1820 by J Barrett of Pembroke was placed in the Schoolroom and the two communion table candlesticks which had held the dip candles at the old Chapel were also preserved and locked away in the plate chest of the new Chapel.

In 1848 had 200 members and this had risen to 255 by 1867

According to the census of Religious Buildings 1851 it had 346 free seats and 574 others. The average congregation is given as 389 +191 scholars in the morning and 545 + 80 scholars in the evening

Gas lighting was installed in the Chapel in 1852 and in 1862 the Organ

It was enlarged in 1867. There had been much discussion about extending but the Chapel had a debt of £433 so until this could be cleared there was little possibility of proceeding. In 1866 the way was clear and a committee was set up who undertook the responsibility if the work. An extension of the lease was obtained for 99 years at a rent of 1s 6d per foot. The Chapel was extended westward by 32 feet to provide extra vestries, an Organ gallery at the back of the pulpit and additional gallery space. Increasing the seating from 856 to 1,348. The cost was £1,669. 9s .6d of which £779 9s 6d had been raised. The outstanding debt was cleared by 1876

The feathered mahogany panels used as part of the front of the rostrum are part of the first pulpit which was removed during the extensions

In 1875 Findlay says the within the last few years it has been considerably enlarged. It is well fitted up internally and has spacious galleries It possesses a good Organ . It is capable of accommodating 1400 persons.

Further renovations and improvements were carried out between 1881 and 1885 and in 1889 the heating system was installed.

Acc/to .Kelly's Directory 1884

The Wesleyan Chapel, Meyrick street, erected in 1848, is very large and will seat over 1,400 persons this: denomination also has a Chapel at Pennar, which was erected in 1870

St Alban's Chapel

Bush Camp – suspect that this was the one sold by Rev Prosser for £23

St Martin's Chapel

Llanion Barracks dedicated January 9th 1916

St Lukes Church

Military Hospital dedicated February 20th 1916

Temperance Hall

At various periods the Temperance Hall was used by different religious denominations for short periods.

Mormons

In the 1850's the Mormons help open air meetings at the bottom of Bellvue Terrace, The farmyard of Pennar Old Farm Ferry Rd. and in Albion Square. They made some converts who left the town and joined the cause in America.

Mormans – Very active Pembroke Dock certainly from 1847 onwards when Elder Evans was baptizing said to have held meetings at Albion Square.

Plymouth Brethren

A small body of the Plymouth Brethren meet for worship in an anteroom of the Temperance Hall and also a few of the same denomination hold meetings in a room in the lower part of Commercial Row which they call the Gospel Hall.

A group of members of this sect came to work in the Dockyard on the closing of the yard at Woolwich in 1870, The leader was Mr Edward Parrett. Originally they met in the Temperance Hall till 1905 when they moved to a house in High St. Another branch used to meet in the “Gospel Hall” Commercial Row.

Salvation Army

The Salvation Army's advent to this town took place on January 21, 1883. The first Captain's name was Henry Gover.

For many years the Army held their meetings in the Albion Hall which had formerly been the old Tabernacle of the Congregationalists. The Hall has now disappeared, and houses have been erected on the site. The Salvation Army now hold services in a large room attached to the Albion House.

On May 1, 1883, General Booth visited the town, and spoke in Albion Square Chapel. The building was so crowded that many failed to gain admission. Since the formation of the Army in the town it has done, and is still doing, much good.

January 1883 Commissioner Cooms, Captain Harry Gover and his wife set up a Salvation Army Barracks in the Albion Hall (the old Tabernacle Chapel). Quickly the number of converts grew until the building was packed to overflowing at services. The town was visited by General Booth and his staff in 1886 and although the Albion Chapel was borrowed for the Service at which the General preached, such were the numbers that although it would hold 1500 people, many who wanted to, could not get in. After the Albion Hall was pulled down, the meetings were held in the Temperance Hall.

Cemetery's.

Kelly's Directory 1884

The New Cemetery, at Waterloo, has two morituary Chapels : it is four and a half acres in extent, and was opened in 1869 : it is under the control of a burial board of nine members.

Kelly's Directory 1884

The Old Cemetery occupies half an acre, . contains a Chapel : it is closed and under the control of vicar.

Kelly's Directory 1884

The Military Cemetery is situated to the east of the Hut Encampment, a short distance from it, and is appropriated to the garrison.

Education

Until the creation of the Dockyard the only schools in the area would have been in Pembroke. A Grammar School was established there in 1690 and was housed in part of the old Town Hall (pulled down in 1820). It was a "free" school usually the schoolmasters were clerics and was described as "excellent" in the eighteenth century.

With the new influx of population in the early nineteenth century, there rose a demand for education. Several small private schools were set up including two by what is now Bethany Corner but which used to be Bethany Square

1847 There was an inspection of all the Schools in Wales (Report on The State of Education in Wales)

Mr. John Allan's School

1815 school opened by Mr. J Allen assisted by his son John and daughter Elizabeth , who taught the girls, in King's St

The first schoolmaster in the town was a Mr. John Allen, and his school was started in the following way: After the Battle of Waterloo in 1815, the prospects of the farmers were gloomy indeed. Mr. Allen, who at that time farmed the whole of Mr. Barlow's parklands at Lawrenny, seeing that his agricultural occupation was but a waste of time and energy, moved into the small town of Pater, and opened a school in Middle or King Street, assisted by his son John and his daughter Elizabeth, who took charge of the girls.

The school flourished well, and the tuition given to the scholars was much in advance of the times. Very many were the boys who were taught at Mr. Allen's school that afterwards passed into the Dockyard and successfully, John Allen junior, after the death of his father, continued to run the school

In 1847 the Inspectors report says:-

A Long room of the master's dwelling house on the first floor is the place where this school is kept, and is exceedingly well adapted for the purpose. The master is experienced in teaching but his course is very limited.

The furniture consisted of one desk for the master with four Long desks and twelve benches for the scholars but no blackboard or maps of any description.

The house is in good repair but the schoolroom and furniture had the appearance of having been much used . The parents of his scholars were tradesmen, mechanics, farmers and a very few of them labourers. Matthew 5 was Read well by many of his pupils and questions answered. Some arithmetic questions were worked out and many of the copybooks were exceedingly well written and clean.

School at the bottom of Charlton Place Mr. Issacs

School in very large room built for the purpose opposite Bethany Chapel by Mr. Tregenna, premises later used by a Mr. Jane and then a Mr. Whale

Then Mr. Tregenna opened a school in a very large room built for the purpose opposite Bethany Chapel. His school-room at that time was the largest building in the town; temperance festivals, Chapel tea-meetings, and other large gatherings, were held there. A Mr. Jane afterwards occupied the premises and kept a school of some note; he dignified the place by giving it the name of 'Jane's Academy'

Also a Mr. Whale conducted a school for a short time in the same place.

Mr. Barclay's School

Mr. Barclay was a man of scientific and advanced ideas. His school was where the Caledonian Inn, High Street, now is. He had a galvanic battery which he used occasionally to allow the boys to try. He oftentimes talked to them about electricity, and told them that this force had great possibilities which he would never see come to light, but that they might.

In 1847 it was inspected.

The school was held in Mr. Barclay's dwelling house in a back room. The furniture consisted of 3 desks, 1 table 6 benches 1 small map of the world and a blackboard. He said that he had more maps, a pair of globes and astronomical apparatus. Mr. Barclay had received a good education and had, many years ago, been delivering lectures on astronomy and natural philosophy in the principal towns of Great Britain and Ireland.

His scholars are limited to twenty and consisted of farmers, trademen and mechanics sons. There was one adult here studying navigation who seemed to have made considerable progress considering the short time he had been under instruction. The manners of the lads were very rude and they amused themselves by mimicking their Master

All in the school Read Matthew Chapter 4 The copybooks of some of them were exceedingly well written Could answer questions on Astronomy and navigation as well as trigonometry. Some of them exhibited a good taste in linear drawing.

Following these schools were other minor ones kept respectively by Miss. Copplestone, Miss. Harrison, Miss. Furlong, Miss. James, and Mr. Hitchings.

A quaint old schoolmaster, Mr. Newman, kept a school for boys in North Park Street. He had a wooden leg, having lost his own in the American War during an engagement between the British frigate Shannon and the American vessel the Chesapeake, which proved one of the most noted naval duels ever fought, and which terminated in a victory for the British.

A dame-school conducted by a Mrs. Bennett flourished, too, at this time in the Middle Street.

Mr. Tom Morris kept a school near the old Fountain Well in Upper Park Street; he afterwards removed to Queen Street, and there a large loft at the bottom of his garden was used as his schoolroom, and was approached by a ladder from the back

Mr. William Thomas also kept a school, and was sometimes assisted by his brother, who afterwards became a well-known preacher in the Calvinistic Methodist denomination - the late Rev. John Thomas, B.A., of Liverpool. The school was situated in Middle Prospect Place, and was of superior standing.

Mrs. Raynes kept a mixed school in Commercial Row.

Miss. Pearn had a school for girls.

Mrs. Ellard also kept a school for both boys and girls in Princes Street.

Technical knowledge, apparently, was not unknown in those Long ago days, for the children taught by Miss. Slocombe, North Park Street, were expected to 'Ball' her fire, and to assist in the washing-up of dishes and other household duties.

Mr. Gayton, also, who lived in Laws Street North, in the house of his brother-in-law (who was a retired boatswain from the Royal Sovereign), is remembered to have imparted knowledge in the same practical way. His boys sometimes helped to mix the culm and slime by way of profitable exercise.

In the house immediately next Wesley Chapel, where for many years the Wesleyan ministers resided, a man named James formerly kept a school for boys.

Other private schools were those of Mrs. Groves, Bellevue Terrace; the Rev. W.B. Bliss; Miss Canham, afterwards Mrs. Venning; the Misses Burgess, in Bush Street; and Miss. Christie. Some years later, upon the retirement of Mrs. Raynes, the daughters removed to the house occupied by Dr. Reynolds, then known as Macfarlane House, and opened a high-class boarding and day school. The Misses Raynes subsequently kept their establishment in the house where Lipton's shop was. In the same house at one time there was a boys school with a Mr. Quatermain as master.

For some time a Miss King kept a school in Meyrick Street, and afterwards in Queen Street East.

A good school was conducted by the Misses. Edwards at the bottom of Tregenna's Hill. They subsequently removed it to Lower Meyrick Street.

In the same street, also, Miss Barclay, daughter of the Mr. Barclay already mentioned, had a flourishing school.

Well-known schools for girls were presided over by Mrs. Eastlake, in the upper house in Charlton Place; Miss Ruth Allen, in Lewis Street; Miss Rowe, in Laws Street, subsequently in Bush Street; also by the Misses Davies of Upper Meyrick Street, as well as the Misses Davies of Cleddau House, Bush Street, who afterwards removed to Water Street.

Mr. Hickson kept a boys' school in Water Street for a short time.

Miss Capplestone's School 1847

The schoolroom was part of a well built house, in excellent repair. The furniture was composed of a square table, 5 benches and three chairs also in good repair. Neither maps, prints nor lessons on a boards were to be seen.

The scholars were tradesmen and mechanics children but not one was capable of reading in the Scriptures. Those present were mere infants.

Miss Furlong's School 1847

This is held in the room of an inn, which is in good repair. The furniture in the schoolroom consists of three tables, six chairs, five benches and a sofa but no maps of any description. The mistress is the innkeepers daughter. The scholars are for the most part tradesmen's children and very young. A part of the Romans chapter 4 was Read. The copybooks were tolerably well written considering that the scholars were so young.

Miss Harrison's School 1847

This school is conducted in the first-floor room of a well-built and substantial house ; but the room is by far too small to contain all the scholar . Few were present, in consequence of the severe weather.

The furniture consisted of one large box, one square table, and six benches, but no maps of any description, nor lessons on boards.

Tradesmen and mechanics' children were the scholars. Considerable time is devoted in this school to sewing. Writing is not taught.

'The 5th chapter of Romans was Read, but not with ease.

George Hitchin's School

.-This school is kept in a very dirty room on the first floor of the master' house. The grate and many parts of the wall were very much out of repair.

The furniture consisted of a small desk for the master, three broken desks for the scholars, and five equally bad benches, at the sides and in the middle of the room. The master made great exertions to keep his scholars quiet and silent, while I was there, but they cared little for him, though he used the flat ruler upon some of them. The scholars were the children of mechanics and labourers. ·

They Read the 12th chapter of Romans. There are 12 months in a year-- named them correctly, and the number of days in each month, but did not know the number of days in February when it is leap-year--nor the reason of leap-year.

Only one copy- book of those I saw was well written.

Miss James School. 1847

This school is kept on the ground-floor of a dwelling-house, here the mistress lives with her mother. Sewing and reading only are taught. Very few were present, in consequence of the severity of the weather.

The furniture consisted of seven chairs, two benches, and many kitchen articles, but no cards, lessons on boards, prints, nor maps of any kind.

The greater part of the scholars are of the labouring class.

A part of the second chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel was Read, but imperfectly and no answer could be had to any question proposed by the mistress or myself upon it. Writing is not taught.

The scholars present were young children

Mr. Neuman's School. 1847

This school is held on the ground-floor room in the master's dwelling-house. The house and especially the schoolroom were in bad repair. I found the master who has a wooden leg, without a coat, and four scholars without shoes sitting near a small fire.

The school furniture consisted of two tables and four benches; in another part of the room were jugs;, fuel, baskets, turnips, and many other miscellaneous articles.

' The scholars were labourers' children; none present could Read in the Testament. copy- books were very ill written.

Miss Pearn's School 1847

This school is held on the ground -floor in a well-built house.

The school furniture consisted only of a few low benches, a large table, but no maps nor any lessons for the use of infant-schools.

The mistress is a young woman living with her parents, and teaches sewing as well as reading.

There was not one present that could Read in the Testament, and, on my requesting, the mistress to put some questions to them her mother said "They are little bits of things they cannot answer any questions."

Miss Pinch's School. 1847

A back room in her parents' dwelling-house is the schoolroom. Five small benches composed all the furniture.

Mechanics and labourers' children were the scholars, with one or two tradesmen's.

None present could Read the Scriptures, or answer any questions except repeating a few religious sentences by rote, and reciting some short pieces of poetry, which last they did correctly. Writing is not taught.

Miss Slocombs School. 1847

When I entered this school I saw the mistress busily engaged with a trowel in her hand, plastering the partition- wall, which was quite out of repair, and the scholars, without any books in their hands looking at her. The schoolroom is a ground room in her father's dwelling-house. One table, two benches, three chairs, and a coffer made up the furniture.

The scholars were labourers' children. None present could Read the Testament; those who were reading in the Spelling -book had a variety of books, and no class could be formed. The mistress said they were too young to be questioned, and declined putting any questions to them.

Mr. Wm. Thomas 's School . 1847

This school is kept in two rooms at the back of the dwelling- house in which the mother of the master lives. The furniture consisted of four tables, two small benches, three chairs, but no maps or lessons on boards of any kind.

The master commenced his vocation of teaching at the early age of thirteen, in consequence of his father's death. He continues to attend Mr. Barclay's school in the evening. He had a good control over his pupils, and is assisted by his mother when all his scholars are present.

His scholars are tradesmen, mechanics, and labourers' children many of them are very young. ; A part of the 1st chapter of St. John was read tolerably well by many.

1870

In the 1870's Mr.Nathan John, B.A. Lond., started a commercial and preparatory school for boys, which had been a much-felt need ever since Mr.Bliss's school had been closed. Mr.John first opened his school in Meyrick Street North; from thence he removed to the house which was once the Victoria Hotel; subsequently he transferred his school to Meyrick Street South. He afterwards gave up his private school. When the Intermediate School was established, he was appointed one of the classical Masters, where he continued until he was elected Headmaster at Brecon County School.

In 1905 there were only four private schools in the town namely, one kept by Miss. Radmore, established many years ago in Laws Street South; also in the same street Miss. Jenkins conducted a school for girls; and Miss B.Grieve had a school for small children in Bush Street. In an anteroom of the Temperance Hall there was a school for boys; Mr.F.Bowden was the master.

Sunday Schools.-

Bethel School. 1847

I visited this school on the 27th December, in the after noon. It appeared well conducted, and the teachers of a superior class. I saw hardly any lads above 13 or 14 years old among the scholars. I was told that at that age they expect, to become teachers directly, and left in disgust if not appointed. They appeared all to be reading They showed a good deal of Scriptural knowledge in their answers, but not much intelligence.- The school appeared to be well conducted.

Tabernacle School 1847

I visited this school, after leaving Bethel - Sunday-school, from which it differed little.

Wesleyan School. 1847

I visited this school, in the morning The business of the school was commenced at 10 minutes past 9 by singing a hymn. The 18th Psalm was then Read, and an extempore prayer delivered, as such prayers always are, very fluently ,by one of the teachers. nearly, if not quite, all the children could Read. I saw no ill-clad children. those who cannot afford decent. or even good, clothes for their children, will not send them to school: there are a good many such.

National Schools

From what has been stated, it will be seen that good private schools were not lacking from an early period in the history of the town; but it came to be felt more than sixty years ago that there was a necessity for an efficient public elementary school, and a movement was set on foot to establish such. Accordingly, committee was formed, and to this committee, which included Captain S.Jackson, who was the Superintendent of the Dockyard at that time, Messrs. William Edye (the Master shipwright), Thomas Pretious, John Adams, the Revs.R.Bloxham, C.Phillips and others, the Government granted the lease of a piece of land at the base of the Barrack Hill for the purpose of erecting a National School. The deed of conveyance was, made on June 1, 1841, and the ground was let at a peppercorn rent for 1,000 years.

When the Superb was launched on September 6, 1842, a grand bazaar was held in the Dockyard in order to raise funds towards the building of this school. Captain Jackson and Builder Edye were the principal promoters of this bazaar, and interested themselves in it accordingly.

A Long single story building the old National school had a large basement underneath and a playground to the rear.

In or about the year 1845 the National School was opened. The first master of the boys was Mr.Francis Allen, and the first mistress of the girls was Mrs .Maria Allen, his wife, with a staff of monitors to assist them.

From this time the educational state of affairs in the town made great progress, and from this school many lads were turned forth who subsequently gained high positions in life. Many of the Kensington students obtained their successes through the grounding received in the National School.

This was a Public Elementary School and the Committee consisted of:

Captain S Jackson (Superintendent of the Dockyard)

William Edye (Master shipwright)

Edward Laws (Storekeeper)

Thomas Pretious (Timber Inspector)

Thomas Cook Jones (Naval Surgeon)

John Adams

Rev. C Phillips (Vicar of St Mary 's Pembroke)

James and E B Soden

The Education Department voted a Grant of £462 and the Lord's Commissioners of the Admiralty supplemented this with a grant of £200. The rest of the cost was raised by public subscription largely from the officials of the Dockyard and the workers with the local townspeople. A large bazaar was held which raised a considerable sum to help clear the debt.

The school was very popular and soon became overcrowded partly because of the belief that as the Dockyard Officials had so much influence in the running of the school future apprentices would be selected from among its pupils.

From 1844 to 1848 Church of England services were held in the schoolroom.

1847 The inspection into The State of Education in Wales 1847 recorded I visited these schools (for the boys and girls separately) on the 18th of January. The Schoolhouse, which is of two stories, is built against the Hill on which the Barracks stands. The ground being higher on one side of the building than on the other rooms which appear from the front to be upon the ground-floor appear from the back to be upon the first floor, and those which from the back appear to be upon the ground-floor from the front are underground. Hitherto the two schoolrooms have occupied the upper floor, one at each end with separate entrance, and the master and mistress have lived on the ground-floor; a change was however being made by which the whole of the upper floor will be appropriated to the boys' schoolroom, what is now the Master's house converted into a girl's schoolroom and a new house for the master erected on the east side of the present one. The ground at the back is terraced, and contains the master's garden, the out buildings (which are very inconvenient) and a small-enclosed yard for the children.

Boys School. I was present when this school was opened for the day. A hymn was sung, having been first repeated by a couple of lines at a time, from the master's dictation. The prayers were few and short and the manner of the children very good. The numbers present at prayers were then taken. Such as had arrived too late for the commencement were admitted into the school and noticed. The business of the day began (in the senior class) with a spelling lesson conducted by monitors. This lesson had been learnt at home. Places were taken, and general animation prevailed. The same class Read a chapter from the History of the land ' published by the Christian Knowledge Society, about 'William Rufus. They then spelt and explained different words occurring in it. The mode of spelling followed was for each boy to repeat a syllable of the word ; when each syllable, had been in this way repeated separately, the next boy repeated the entire word: the succeeding boys spelt and repeated the word syllable by syllable, and then the entire word, in the same manner and order as the preceding - ones had repeated it. The writing from dictation, which follows, was in general well done;

The Twelve monitors all Read extremely well and answered with intelligence questions from early English history

I attended a little to some of the other classes while at their work. They appeared to be going well The master had a good method of conduction the school. All the scholars were kept employed. The master's manner appeared to me to be rather confused and nervous at times.

After the monitors had collected books and slates, and given in the numbers present of their classes some explanation of absence was asked and the school class by class dismissed.

The school has some tendency to become a preparatory school for the Apprentices school in the Royal Dockyard. Many of the scholars are the children of shipwrights as such are eligible to be apprentices.

The boys school could accommodate 295 with an average attendance in 1904 of 180. The Headmaster in that year was Mr H Hinchliffe assisted by Mr H M Milburn, J Griffiths, W G Griffiths, and H Williams.

Girls School 1847

The 1847 Inspection records:-

I was present at the opening of this school in the afternoon The girls entered very slowly and quietly. They began by repeating Grace after meat. The afternoon was given up entirely to sewing except for the teachers who sew for the first hour and a half-then cipher and write for the last hour. I hear 24 girls read from Acts they Read slowly, distinctly and well. They answered questions well especially their senior teacher who appears to me in every way qualified to make an excellent schoolmistress. A few sums were worked both on slate and mentally quickly and correctly. They sang in very good time. Nothing could exceed the neatness and regularity, which appears to pervade this school.

The girl's school was held in the downstairs or basement area of the building and will accommodate 225 girls. In 1904 the average attendance was 153. The headmistress was Miss D Edwards and the assistant mistresses Miss M Fisher, E Griffiths, and E Davies.

Infants School

Mason says that this was held in a new wing that had been built in the playground in 1894. He describes it as a spacious room partitioned off for the convenience of teaching and it would accommodate 220. Miss M Jenkins was the headmistress assisted by Miss M Grimes, C Roch, M Ogleby.

British School (Coronation)

Partly because of overcrowding at the National school where very many boys under the age of seven had to be sent home for want of room - and partly because the Church of England principles taught at the National School were disturbing to the minds of many Nonconformists, steps were taken to establish a British School. The suggestion of forming this school was heartily taken up, especially by the workmen of the Dockyard. A committee was formed, with Mr. Bonniwell at its head. A site was secured in South Meyrick Street, where the Coronation School now stands (later used as a further Education Centre) and the British School was erected together with the school house. The Dockyard men gave voluntary labour, and in addition to this subscribed money according to their means, which money was collected fortnightly.

On May 1, 1846 a concert, at which several selections from Handel and other Masters were rendered, was given in the Temperance Hall in order to aid the funds of the proposed new British School. The concert was conducted by Mr. John Radmore. It is recorded that there was a large audience present, including Mr. Davies, then Mayor of the borough of Pembroke.

Bethel Chapel was in building at the same time as the school, and between the site of that and of the school two sawpits were made respectively for each place, where planks were sawn for the erection of the buildings. The school was built with ordinary stone and mortar. During the latter part of the year 1847 a terrific storm raged over the town, and the west pine end of the British School fell down; owing to the roof not being completed and the newly-made mortar not being dry, the wind had full play to loosen the wall, and caused this catastrophe. But willing hands soon repaired the damage, and the school was opened in May 1848. Mr. John Adams was the head master of the boys, and Mrs. Adams headmistress of the girls. Sliding shutters divided the boys' part of the school from the girls'.

Mr John Adams had a reputation of being very quick tempered and fond of the use of a ruler although regarded as an excellent headmaster. There were four pupil teachers, Thomas Watkins, John Jenkins, Ebenezer Jones and Henry Roach. Mrs Adams was headmistress of the Girl's school assisted by three pupil teachers, Jane Phillips, Jane Thomas and Jane Thomas.

When inspected by Mathew Arnold, then Inspector of Schools, it was pronounced the first school in Wales in maths.

In 1854 Mr Adams was appointed headmaster of the Goat St School Swansea and Mr and Mrs Cocks replaced the Adams's. Mr Cocks was appointed Postmaster of Pembroke Dock in 1871 and Mr William Williams became Headmaster and Miss Mumford headmistress. In 1872 the British schools (but not the National school) became Board schools under the provisions of the Education Act of 1870.

It was found that the numbers of children in the area who had been excluded from education because of the lack of funds was quite large when the numbers in Pembroke were taken into consideration. Until 1889 the syllabus at this and the National school, especially for the boys, was built around the subjects required to pass the examination papers set in the dockyard for entering as apprentices. In 1889 the Schools Board, despite great opposition, introduced a wider syllabus to include more commercial subjects as not all pupils were able to gain employment in the dockyard.

During the autumn of the year 1901 the old British School in South Meyrick Street was taken down, and the freehold of an adjacent house was purchased with a view to erect on the enlarged site. This became necessary on account of the inadequate accommodation in the Albion Square School, which is proved by the fact that for some time many of the children of the higher grade were taught in the schoolroom of Albion Square Chapel.

The new school was designed by Messrs. George Morgan and Son, Carmarthen. The contractor was Mr. C. Young, of Gwyther Street, and the cost of the building was rather over £9,000. During the time this school was in course of erection the girls and infants were instructed in Wesley and Meyrick Street Congregational Sunday schools respectively, until the new building was completed.

The structure, which is named the Coronation School, was opened on May 4, 1904, by Miss. Grace Smith, daughter of Mr. William Smith, chairman of the Pembroke borough Education Committee. The building is of a handsome character, and consists of two stories. The upper one is given to the higher grade section, and the lower one to the junior portion of the school.

On the day it was opened the children of the various schools, wearing distinctive ribbons, assembled in Albion Square, from whence, accompanied by the teachers and headed by the temperance band, they marched in procession to Meyrick Street, where they were presented with round tins of chocolate which bore a portrait of the King. After receiving these children dispersed. The Mayor of the borough (Mr. W.M. Griffiths, 1903-1904), the members of the Corporation, as well as many of the members of the old School Board, marched from the Council-chambers in the Market house. Upon their arrival the opening ceremony took place. Brief speeches were made by the Mayor and others, amongst whom were Sir Lewis Morris and Mr. Bancroft, H.M. Inspector of Schools. Sir Lewis Morris presented medals to some of the children for regular attendance.

Mr. A.J. Adams and Mr. W. Williams are the headmasters of the Coronation School. After the opening of the new school, the girls and the infants were transferred to Albion Square, and the boys to the Coronation School

Education after 1873

By January 7, 1873, the borough of Pembroke School Board had taken over the British School. On account of the increase in the population of Pembroke Dock and its neighbourhood, it became necessary to erect more schools; consequently a girls' and infants' school was opened in Pennar on January 5, 1874, and in 1877 a school, with several class rooms, was opened for boys only, in Albion Square.

1892, a school was built in Llanion, which has proved of great service to that district.

After the boys left the British School in Meyrick Street for Albion Square, the British School was improved and enlarged for the girls and infants. Miss. Rogers, of Church Street, was for many years been headmistress of the infants' school.

1890 Albion Square School became so crowded that it was thought expedient to divide it into two sections, and the upper standards were made into a higher grade school. The school was enlarged in 1896, and it was further enlarged at a later date.

County Intermediate School

This was founded under the Welsh Intermediate Education Act of 1889. Despite massive fundraising by way of bazaars, concerts etc. insufficient funds were available to build a new school at first and it was agreed to utilise the old assembly rooms of the Victoria Hotel near the National School at the top of Pembroke S. These rooms were fitted out and refurbished but were not ideal. There was no proper playground although the stable yard below the building and the Barrack Hill provided a substitute. The school was opened in January 1895 and the Headmaster was Mr T R Dawes M.A.(Lond), the senior mistress was Miss I A Perman M.A. (Lond).

A new school was built at the east end of Bush St and opened on the 27th June 1899. The cost was £3000. It consisted of an assembly Hall chemical and physics laboratories, science lecture room, six classrooms, kitchen and manual workshop. The grounds extended to approximately two acres with facilities for hockey, football, cricket and tennis. It was built to accommodate 250 pupils and in 1904 the average attendance was 170. The premises were also used in the evenings for the Evening Technical and Science Schools which had been based at the Mechanics Institute in Meyrick's St.

Pennar School see under Pennar

Albion Square School

Built by the School Board in 1876 and opened in 1877. This was one of the schools built to cope with the large numbers of children who had not been able to obtain education due to financial reasons. It had originally been intended to build it in Upper Gwyther St to cater for the children from the east end of the town but suitable arrangements for the land could not be agreed on and the present site was offered by the Admiralty for a sum of £240. Originally this was a boy's school. In 1889, when the School Board introduced the new curriculum, this school was divided in two. The "Higher Grade" for boys, with Mr W Clemmow B.A. as Headmaster, included among the subjects taught were book-keeping, French, shorthand, and chemistry. The Junior school again for boys, had Mr W Williams as Senior Master. It was enlarged eastwards in 1896. With the building of the Coronation Schools the boys were transferred there and Albion Square School became a Girl's School. The part used by the senior girls will accommodate 180 with an average attendance in 1904 of 162. Miss C J Griffiths was the Headmistress and Misses A C Cullen, E Eynon and A R Evans were the assistant mistresses. The infants portion could accommodate 230 with an average attendance in 1904 of 167 Miss P C Rogers was the headmistress and Misses F Devonald and F Davies were the assistant mistresses.

Albion Square School -- extracts from the Log Book

EXTRACTS FROM THE LOG BOOK OF THE PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOL FOR GIRLS 20TH December 1877

1877 School opened - Mary Anne Edwards Headmistress Myra E Rowe appointed pupil teacher - 66 pupils

22ND March 1878 - Little boy from first class died after a short illness.

12th April 1878 - Half day holiday Wednesday - Launch in Dockyard.

2ND August 1878 - 152 children.

14TH - 18TH October 1878 - Songs sung before Inspector - Twinkle twinkle little star; Little Bo Peep; Children go; The North wind.

9TH - 15TH December 1878 - Small attendance due to frost and snow.

16TH - 19TH December 1878 - Severe weather - Broke up for two weeks.

12TH - 16TH MAY 1879 - Small attendance - Circus in Town.

11TH - 15TH August 1879 - Half holiday Wednesday - Regatta in Town.

1ST - 5TH September 1879 - 185 children.

17TH - 21ST November 1879 - New stove at further end of school.

15TH - 19TH December 1879 - Public entertainment given by children on Thursday night.

12TH December 1879 - Report " One fire is hardly sufficient to heat the room in very cold weather; and it would be desirable to have a stove or fireplace at the furthest end from the present fireplace.

26TH April 1880 Muriel J. Davies and Myra Rowe guilty of insubordination. They failed to bring me an exercise which they were requested to reproduce owing to the slovenly way in which it was first executed.

6TH - 10TH September 1880 - 223 children.

20TH - 23RD December 1880 - Broke up for Christmas holidays. On the night of the 23rd. children gave annual entertainment at the Temperance Hall. Prizes for regular attendance were distributed.

10TH - 14TH January 1881 - Frost and snow - small attendance.

17TH - 21ST January 1881 - Severe weather - small attendance.

24TH - 28TH January 1881 - Severe weather - small attendance.

23TH ~ 17TH March 1882 - Visit to Pembroke Dock of Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh.

9TH - 13TH October 1882 - Attendance slack on Tuesday owing to Fair in Pembroke.

20TH - 24TH November 1882 - Holiday on Wednesday afternoon owing to launch.

30TH April - 4TH MAY 1883 - Holiday on Tuesday. Visit to town of General Booth.

27TH th April - 1ST MAY 1885 - 250 children.

1ST - 8TH February 1886 - Snow.

10TH September 1886 - 317 children.

20TH - 24TH September 1886 - Attendance not so good this week owing to the Sports and black-berrying.

10TH - 14TH October 1887 - A very wet cold week of weather.

21ST - 28TH November 1887 - Fever still raging. School smaller through Dockyard discharges.

9TH - 13TH January 1888 - During the school holidays four or five boys broke into the school and did considerable damage to the apparatus and windows.

7TH - 11TH MAY 1888 - Attendance reduced on Thursday afternoon owing to the Circus.

31ST August 1888 - 300 children.

October 1889 - The Teachers have difficult work through the great irregularity through sickness, half day holidays in the Town and Market days.

23TH - 29TH November 1889 - Half holiday Wednesday afternoon because of snow.

13TH - 17TH January 1890 - Great deal of sickness in town Whooping cough and Influenza.

11TH - 18TH August 1890 - Practiced the Japanese Fan Drill.

6TH - 10TH October 1890 - The Mistress from the Hut Encampment likewise visited to see the Drill.

18TH - 19TH December 1890 - Prizes on Friday. Half day holiday.

26TH - 30TH January 1891 - Find the Staff sufficient in number but very inefficient.

4TH - 8TH MAY 1891 - Holiday on Thursday - launch of the Empress of India.

18TH - 22ND MAY 1891 - Small attendance - measles - 80 children.

28TH - 29TH MAY 1891 - School closed Tuesday afternoon by order of the Medical Officer - measles.

8TH - 12TH June 1891 - School re-opened by order of Medical Officer - 140 children in attendance out of 300.

31ST August - 4TH September 1891 - Holiday on Monday owing to the introduction of FREE EDUCATION.

30TH November 1891 - Report on Meyrick St. School. The room is greatly overcrowded and unless the opening of the new school relieves the pressure the classroom should be enlarged.

11TH - 15TH January 1892 - Severe weather - frost and snow.

18TH - 22ND January 1892 - Holiday Wednesday morning - Funeral of the Duke of Clarence.

18TH - 22ND April 1892 - Epidemic of Smallpox. Some fearing to come fearing they may come in contact with children from infected homes. Am very careful to investigate and sent all such children home.

13TH MAY 1892 - Letter from School Board to send all children home from Front Cottages and from all houses where Smallpox existed.

17TH - 21ST October 1892 - Mr. Harries and Mr. Hancock visited Monday. Mr. Hancock, Sanitary Inspector, visited on Tuesday. desired us to ascertain if any children were suffering with their throats. If so to send them home as Diphtheria was prevalent and a little child in class four has died with it.

30TH January - 3RD February 1893 - Closed at 3.45 p.m. owing to the launch.

24TH - 28TH April 1893 - 274 children.

8TH - 12TH MAY 1893 - Circus in town on Monday afternoon.

12TH - 16TH June 1893 - The attendance not nearly so good as before Whitsuntide owing to the Diphtheria. A report having been current that the drainage was defective caused many parents to absent their children.

18 January - 1ST February 1895 School closed all week except Tuesday due to very severe weather.

6TH - 10TH MAY 1895 - Half holiday Wednesday - launch of Renown.

20TH - 24TH MAY 1895 - Dismissed children at 11 a.m. on account of The Review.

16TH - 20TH March 1896 - Sent home a number of children suffering from Ringworm.

23RD - 27TH March 1896 - Half holiday Wednesday - Circus.

27TH April - 1ST MAY 1896 - Half holiday Wednesday - Launch.

18TH - 22ND MAY 1895 - Holiday Wednesday - Queens birthday.

17TH - 21ST October 1898 - Absent on 18th at the trial of Mr. W.C. Harries at Haverfordwest.

8TH - 12TH MAY 1899 - Holiday on Tuesday - Launch of the Royal Yacht and Royal visit.

28TH January - 1ST February 1901 - Half day Tuesday - Proclamation of King.

8TH - 12TH April 1901 - Circus in Town.

17TH - 21ST June 1901 - Half holiday Wednesday - Circus.

23RD - 27TH September 1901 - A holiday given to children on Friday. Teachers were engaged all day removing all books and apparatus from the old school.

30TH September - 4TH October 1901 - Commenced work in the Meyrick St. Congregational Sunday School.

4TH - 8TH November 1901 - Schools closed - Epidemic of measles. Closed two weeks. Opened but again closed. Reopened 3rd December - 80 present.

22ND - 26TH June 1903 - Half day holiday Thursday - Circus.

Half day holiday Friday - Kings birthday.

1ST July 1903 - Control of school passed to Town Council.

30TH September 1903 - 162 children.

18TH November 1903 - Inspectors report: This School is conducted in temporary premises which makes the work very difficult .

2ND - 6TH MAY 1904 - Holiday given - Opening of Coronation School all children took part in the procession.

30TH MAY - 3RD June 1904 - Commenced duties at the Albion Square Council School.

22ND June 1904 - 168 children.

16TH - 20TH January 1905 - Order from Council - Opening time 9.30 a.m. and 2 p. m. Registers closed 10.15 a.m. and 2.30 p.m.

16TH - 20TH October 1905 - Order from Council to amass the children on Saturday at the Market House to commemorate the Centenary of Lord Nelson.

22ND December 1905 - 8TH January 1906 - Christmas holidays.

14TH - 18TH December 1908 - Medals distributed on 17th. by Committee.

4TH April 1911 - Small fire.

19TH - 23RD June 1911 - School closed for one week from Tuesday afternoon - Coronation.

1ST - 19TH January 1912 - Distribution of medals on Wednesday.

26TH - 30TH August 1912 - The Board of Education have recommended the Education Committee to retain Standard one boys in the Infants school as they are of the opinion that male teachers are not suitable to instruct children of such tender years.

16TH - 20TH December 1912 - Distribution of medals and prizes on Wednesday afternoon.

Children presented with oranges on Friday morning.

27TH June 1913 - End of first book.

SECOND BOOK

1STH - 19TH December 1913 - Distributed oranges Friday morning.

23RD - 27TH February 1914 - Dismissed at 3.40 on Monday - Launch.

16TH - 20TH March 1914 - Mr. Grieve visited relative to the fixing of a new stove.

21ST July 1914 - Broke up through epidemic. Returned August 4th.

23RD November 1914 - 138 children.

14th - 18th December 1914 - Distribution of medals, prizes and oranges.

19TH March 1915 - 197 children.

16TH July 1915 - Holiday - French Flag Day.

7TH October 1915 - School closed by Dr. Morgan for three weeks -Scarlet Fever.

19TH November 1915 - Half day on Friday - Russian Flag Day.

22ND December 1915 - Distribution of oranges.

21ST March 1917 - Miss Edwards resigned and left - Mrs. Wright appointed.

19TH - 23RD February 1917 - The Mayor and Sanitary Inspector visited to form a War Savings Association.

4TH February - 2ND April 1918 - School closed - Measles.

3RD - 7TH June 1918 - The Tank and War Loan Certificate week.

12TH August 1918 - Bessie Susan Jenkins - Head Teacher; Mrs Owen uncertificated; Mrs Wright - uncertificated; Miss Allen - supplementary.

18TH November 1918 - On November 11th the Armistice was signed. As school was closed that week we celebrated the same today by singing Patriotic school and Music Hall songs - children contributing solos and recitations and experiences of the day.

November 1918 - School closed until 7th January 1919 influenza. 1919 - Staff - Bessie Susan Jenkins; Rosa J. Luly 29-1 97; Clara E.R. Brooks 30-3-90; Mary H. Brock 3-S-96; Gwen Allen 2S-7-9?; Elizabeth A. Gibby 27-7-91; P.M. Jones 29-6-00 student; Winifred Llewelyn student.

28TH MAY 1919 - 1st Battalion Welsh Regiment received colours.

1ST September 1919 - Rosa Jane Luly temporary Head Teacher.

24TH September 1919 - Elizabeth Ann Gibby Head Teacher.

29TH September 1919 - 149 children.

5TH November 1919 - School closes for YMCA "OLLA PODRIDA" 1ST March 1920 - Patriotic songs and talk.

25TH March 1920 - 149 children.

28TH June 1920 - Early closing for Circus. 30TH June 1920 - YMCA Eisteddford.

14TH July 1920 - Half day holiday - YMCA "OLLA PODRIDA".

4TH November 1920 - Leakage in gas pipe - reported and repaired.

23RD December 1920 - The children had a party and concert this afternoon including dramatisation, dancing etc. and a Christmas tree was provided for the babies and third class.

11TH - 21ST January 1921 - Children had been in school during the holidays and tampered with desk and cupboards.

22ND February 1921 - School closed until 7th March - influenza.

27TH July 1921 - YMCA fete in Bush grounds.

30TH August 1921 - Dismissed early baptist Sunday School Singing Festival.

13TH October 1921 - Assembled and dismissed early - Pembroke Fair.

16TH December 1921 - The children took part in a collection in aid of the Mayor's Unemployment Fund.

23RD December 1921 - A special program had been prepared for the closing day and much pleasure was derived from a surprise visit from Santa Claus who was sent along to us from the Girls Department together with a number of Christmas fairies to help him.

January 1922 - School closed for one month - Whooping cough and influenza.

28TH February 1922 - School closed - marriage of Princess Mary .

3RD April 1922 - Closed on account of snowstorm.

4 TH MAY 1922 - Report - Premises consist of a main room and two classrooms. In the room three distinct classes taught. The lighting in the main room is not good.

24TH MAY 1922 - Empire Day celebrated.

27TH September 1922 - Fete and Gala for Nurses Home.

24TH November 1922 - School opened at 9 a.m. to allow children to assemble to place their pennies on the line for the Half Mile Fund in aid of the Mayor's Unemployment Fund.

13TH December 1922 - School closed in afternoon - Fete and Gala for the Unemployment fund.

20TH December 1922 - Held a Mother's Day and Christmas Concert when a collection of £1-5-0d. was taken in aid of the Mayor's Unemployment Fund.

22nd December 1922 - The children had gifts distributed among them from the Teachers and the Christmas tree was a great success.

6TH MAY 1923 - Closed for Festival.

6TH June 1923 - Closed 3 p.m. - YMCA Fete and Gala.

21ST December 1923 - Christmas celebrations.

1ST August 1924 - Albion Square Treat

19TH December 1924 - Christmas concert December 18th.

19TH February 1925 - School closed for one week - measles.

23RD December 1925 - The usual concert and Christmas celebrations and the children much enjoyed finding their gifts in giant crackers.

27TH JANUARY 1926 - 32 new dual desks.

28TH April 1926 - School closed - United Choral Festival.

7TH July 1926 - Front Street Mission Treat.

19TH July 1926 - The attendance today is very bad indeed owing to the stormy weather and the demoralising effect of the terrible thunderstorm of yesterday. Several panes of glass in the front classroom were shattered by the hailstones but otherwise the school escaped damage.

13TH September 1926 - Circus in town - dismissed early.

22ND September 1926 - 196 children.

22 ND DECEMBER 1926 - Each child was given an apple and orange in addition to the gifts from the Staff. A concert was held on Wednesday afternoon.

6TH MAY 1927 - A number of four year olds were admitted.

29TH July 1927 - St. Andrews Treat on Wednesday.

23RD December 1927 - On Wednesday afternoona concert was given to which the Mothers were invited and a collection taken for the Boot Fund.

3RD - 10TH February 1928 - Several children excluded for Ringworm and Scarlet Fever by Nurse Henry and Dr. Saunders.

7TH December 1928 - School closed on 20th November for Jumble Sale in aid of local Boot Fund.

21ST December 1928 - Christmas celebrations as usual on the 20th.

11TH February 1929 - Attendance not very good - A heavy snowstorm in progress.

12TH February 1929 - Attendance is again so badly affected by the frozen condition of roads that only 62 children are in attendance - school closed.

13TH February 1929 - Only 75 children present - register not marked.

14TH February 1929 - Only 78 present a.m. and 82 p.m.

15TH February 1929 - Another snowstorm - Morning 18, afternoon 17.

22ND February 1929 - Attendance very bad this week

10TH April 1929 - Closed - Annual Choral Festival.

20TH December 1929 - Concert - "A celebration of the Season". Closed until the 6th January.

30TH July 1930 - Coronation Sports - half day holiday. 10TH October 1930 - Pembroke Fair - half day holiday.

? December 1930 - The usual Christmas concert was held on Wednesday afternoon and gifts distributed today.

28TH January 1931 - School Holiday - Attendance for past 3 months is 90

July 1931 - Empire Day Celebrations - half day holiday.

June 1931 - holiday.

3RD July 1931 - holiday.

31ST July 1931 - Coronation School sports - half day holiday.

22ND December 1931 - The Christmas concert will be held this p.m.

23RD December 1931 - School closed for Christmas.

21ST December 1932 - Christmas concert.

23RD December 1932 - School closed for Christmas.

19th July 1933 - School closed - Coronation School sports.

10TH October 1933 - Closed 2.30 p.m. - Pembroke Fair.

20TH December 1933 - The Christmas concert was held this afternoon and a large number of parents attended. Mrs. Finn loaned us the Christmas tree and a collection was taken for a Gramophone Fund. This raised 17/-.

22ND December 1933 - Closed for Christmas.

21ST February 1934 - 151 children.

14TH March 1934 - Bethany Eisteddford - Closed early.

18TH April 1934 - Wesley Bazaar - Closed early.

2ND MAY 1934 - St. Andrews May Fair.

24TH MAY 1934 - The school closes this afternoon for the Air Pageant at the RAF Base, HM Dockyard. Empire Day this a.m.

10TH October 1934 - Dismissed 2.30 - Pembroke Fair.

28TH November 1934 - School closed tomorrow - Marriage of Prince George, Duke of Kent to Princess Maria of Greece.

20TH December 1934 - Concert held yesterday and gifts distributed today.
 5TH March 1935 - Mr. Harding the dentist attended today for the first time.
 20TH March - 29TH April 1935 - Closed - measles.
 2ND MAY 1935 - School paraded to the Park at 3.00 p.m. - rehearsal of parade for Jubilee.
 3RD MAY 1935 - School closed on 6th and 7th - Silver Jubilee Children to assemble on Monday at 2 p.m. for distribution of Jubilee Medals.
 MAY 1935 - School closed - Rural Church Festival.
 29 TH June 1935 - Dismissed early - St. Andrews Rose Fair.
 3RD July 1935 - Percentage half day holiday - Bethel and Bethany Treats. ..
 17TH July 1935 - Half day holiday - Coronation School Swimming Sports.
 22ND July 1935 - Closed 23rd July - Coronation School Sports Four weeks Summer holiday.
 28TH October 1935 - Miss Jones leaves today - promoted to Headship of Llanion Girls School.
 Presentation yesterday afternoon - Jean Carr presenting a bouquet; Fred Butcher an engraved umbrella and Miss Allen a handbag on behalf of the children and Staff.
 30TH October 1935 - St. Johns Bazaar.
 6TH November 1935 - School closed - Wedding of the duke of Gloucester.
 14TH November 1935 - General election.
 18TH December 1935 - The usual Christmas concert was held today and the Parents turned up in excellent numbers - a collection being taken for the Gramophone Fund though this did not realise as much as was hoped.
 20TH December 1935 - Closed for Christmas.
 28TH January 1936 - Funeral of King George V - Dismissed 11.30 a.m
 6TH MAY 1936 - Assembled early for the Church Missionary Pageant.
 1ST October 1935 - Note received from Office that children of three may now be admitted and several have been entered today.
 9TH November 1936 - Miss Gibby attending Mayoral Banquet.
 22ND DECEMBEF 1936 - Christmas concert - so many children absent that Parents not invited.
 December 1936 - Proclamation of King George VI - half day holiday.
 23RD December 1936 - Children received Christmas gifts.
 29TH January 1937 - ..Attendance today has been very bad because of a fall of snow which has made the roads bad and as many of the children are affected by the unemployment of their Fathers they have not the boots or clothing to face this weather.
 11TH February - 1ST March 1937 - Closed - infiuenza and measles epidemic.
 11TH MAY 1937 - Coronation gift mugs presented by Miss Gibby in place of Mr. W. Smith.
 12TH - 19TH MAY 1937 - Holiday - Children will parade at 2.30 tomorrow to March to the Parade in the Park.
 30TH June 1937 - Half holiday - Rose Fair in Market.
 25TH July 1937 - Coronation School Sports.
 14TH - 18TH October 1937 - Half term holiday.
 2ND November 1937 - Funeral of R.D. Lowless.
 23RD December 1937 - Christmas vacation.
 9TH February 1938 - A number of children had to leave school for isolation against typhoid - due to the orders of the Military Medical Officer.
 25TH February 1938 - Low attendance - sickness and inoculation illness.
 18TH MAY 1938 - Dismissed early - St. Andrews May Day Fair in Market Hall.
 26TH MAY 1938 - Half Day - Deanery Festival at St. Johns.
 9TH June 2938 - School closed on 10th - schools excursion to Bristol.
 11TH November 1938 - Armistice Day celebrated.
 16TH December 1938 - Dismissed early for Christmas Party Celebrations in Girls department.
 22ND December 1938 - School closes for Christmas.
 23RD June 1939 - Closed Friday for the United Schools Educational Outing.
 8TH June 1939 - Coronation School sports

3RD August 1939 - School closed mid-day - not opened until 2nd October - National emergency - all children under five excluded - some unofficial evacuees admitted.

6TH December 1939 - Dr. Jones and Nurse Merriman examining children - list of twelve children for Cod liver oil and malt.

21ST December 1939 - Closed for Christmas.

8TH January 1940 - Under fives not admitted - several returned.

19TH January 1940 - Very wintry weather - bad conditions of roads through snow and ice.

10TH MAY 1940 - One week Whitsun holiday.

14TH MAY 1940 - Distributed milk under the milk scheme.

16TH MAY 1940 - Deanery Festival - half day.

5TH July 1940 - First air raid warning.

10TH July 1940 - The first actual raid occurred this morning.
The children remained in school and took cover beneath their desks. Community singing kept them happy and there was no panic. Both Staff and children behaved splendidly. Teachers have resolved to work extra time to make windows more protective by covering with net.

15TH July 1940 - Air raid in afternoon.

17TH July 1940 - Warning given in dinner hour.

18TH July 1940 - School closed due to Air Raids.

4TH November 1940 - School opened - under fives excluded. Sixty four children present out of one hundred and ten.

6TH November 1940 - A severe air raid occurred early this morning only six pupils arrived - fifteen in the afternoon.

11TH November 1940 - Miss S.O. Davies is absent suffering from shock following the destruction of her home on the night of November 9th.

25TH November 1940 - School assembled 10 a.m. - air raid alert last night.

5TH December 1940 - Children proceeded to shelters 11.45 a.m. - air raid alert.

20TH December 1940 - Closes today for Christmas after Christmas celebrations.

20TH January 1941 - Hail, sleet and snow.

23RD January 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night.

13TH February 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night.

1ST February 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night.

4TH March 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night.

11TH March 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night. Alert 10.24 a.m. - all clear 10.34 a.m.

12TH March 1941 - Alert 10.10 - 10.30 a.m.

13TH March 1941 - Alert 3.29 - 3.55 p.m. - Children in shelter.

14TH March 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night.

17TH March 1941 - Assembled 10.00 a.m. - air raid alert during night.

26TH March 1941 - Alert 3.50 - 4.15 p.m.

27TH March 1941 - Alert just before playtime - in shelters until 11.40 a.m.

28TH March 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Alert at 2.00 p.m. parents called for children - all collected by 5.15 p.m. - all clear 6.15 p.m.

1ST April 1941 - Alert 10.03 - 10.48.

4TH April 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Easter holiday.

21ST April 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Alert 10.50 - 11.05.

22ND April 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Alert

23RD April 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Alert

28TH April 1941 - Alert 2.58 - 3.50 p.m.

29TH April 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Alert 2.45 - 2.28.

30TH April 1941 - Alert 2.20 - 2.40 p.m.

1ST MAY 1941 - Alert 9.55 - 10.25 a.m.

2ND MAY 1941 - Assembled at 10.00 a.m. - Alert last night.

5TH MAY 1941 - School hours altered (Double summer time). Morning 10.00 - 12.34 Afternoon 2.30 - 4.30.

9TH June 1941 - On account of a very heavy air raid on May 11th, the LEA decided in view of the conditions locally to close the schools. They have remained closed until today. (29 children in attendance) The time of assembly has reverted to 9.30 a.m.

11TH June 1941 - There was another heavy raid last night and as only two pupils attended this morning we were instructed to close the school.

12TH June 1941 - Seven pupils - meeting at 3.30 at Coronation School to discuss evacuation.

18TH June 1941 - Registration for evacuation took place on Friday and Saturday 12th and 13th.

Examination of clothing on Sunday p.m. Medical inspections on Monday and the evacuation took place yesterday (Tuesday). From this Department 24 children have officially evacuated. School has re-opened today and 15 pupils are in attendance. Miss S.O. Davies has proceeded with one section of the evacuees to Amroth. Thirty children remain on the school roll (27 have self-evacuated).

1ST August 1941 - School closed for two weeks - holidays in two parts this year.

3RD September 1941 - 44 children.

12TH September 1941 - Closed for two weeks holiday.

20TH September 1941 - 73 children.

19TH December 1941 - Christmas holidays.

11TH February 1942 - The Wardens examined childrens gas masks. Alert 2.35 - 2.50 p.m.

6TH July 1942 - Alert in early hours of morning.

7th July 1942 - Alert in early hours of morning.

8TH July 1942 - Alert in early hours of morning.

12TH October 1942 - School meals began today - 10 children proceeded to the Coronation School for dinners.

19TH October 1942 - 11 dinners.

2ND NOVEMBER 1942 - 26 dinners.

24TH NOVEMBER 1942 - Alert 2.35 - 2.50.

27TH November - 90 children.

23RD December 1942 - Christmas holiday.

17TH MAY 1943 - The Savings Association for this Department have set a target of £350 for a propeller in the Wings for Victory Campaign this week.

24TH MAY 1943 - The final total was £1,610 (membership 108?).

25TH June 1943 - 108 children.

23RD December 1943 - Christmas holidays - The children received gifts of sweets from the American soldiers stationed in the area.

1 ST DECEMBER 1944 - 151 children .

22ND December 1944 - Christmas holiday.

23RD January 1945 - Heavy snow.

24TH January 1945 - Heavy snow.

26TH January 1945 - Heavy blizzard of snow.

29TH January 1945 - Heavy drifts of snow made school yard impassable and there is no access to the lavatories so school has been closed.

9TH April 1945 - Pembrokeshire County Council took over - Education Act 1944.

10TH MAY 1945 - V.E. Day on 8th May. School closed for V.E. and V.E.+ days. Children attended at Llanion Barracks for tea yesterday.

14TH MAY 1945 - Children given a Victory Party by the teachers following school hours.

24TH MAY 1945 - Empire Day - Children assembled in the playground to watch the Royal Canadian Air Force parade and salute on the square.

21ST December 1945 - 100 children have been invited to a party at Llanion Barracks on Thursday

27th December given by the 8th Battalion Manchester Regiment.

4TH June 1946 - Headmistress attended Royal Garden Party as school savings representative. Had the honour of meeting Queen Elizabeth.

3RD July 1946 - Coronation School Sports.

20TH September 1945 - Terrible storm - Miss S.O. Davies was blown down on the way to lunch - strained wrist and bruises.

27TH November 1946 - Miss M.H. Brooks absent this afternoon after getting wet through in the storm that burst as the children were taken to the Coronation School to dinner.

5TH February 1947 - Snow falling steadily.

7TH February 1947 - A bitterly cold day with a further fall of snow has ended a week of very wintry weather. The average temperature in the school was 42 degrees though first thing in the morning the thermometer registered 38 degrees. The percentage attendance for the week was 38

5TH March 1947 - A heavy blizzard of snow which began to fall yesterday has severely impeded roads. Only three children have arrived but there are no fires lit and in the absence of fires the Assistant Director has permitted the closure for today.

6TH March 1947 - The fires are still unlit and the closure of school is again permitted. Mrs. E. Lewis the recent Caretaker has been dismissed for failure to carry out her duties and has decided not to work her notice.

18TH June 1947 - United Choral Festival at Wesley.

2ND July 1947 - P.T. demonstration at the Drill Hall Pembroke.

14TH JULY 1947 - Jacqueline John fell down in the playground and is detained at the Nurses Home for Xray for suspected concussion, 31ST July 1947 - Measles epidemic - 69 cases.

1ST August - 9TH September 1947 - Holidays.

19TH November 1947 - Closed - Marriage of Princess Elizabeth to Philip Mountbatten.

19TH December 1947 - School closed today for Christmas Vacation after celebrating a week-end concert.

3RD March 1948 - Bethany Eisteddford - Half day holiday.

30TH April 1948 - Miss I H. Brock retired - Member of staff since 30th August 1918 - To show their appreciation of her services Miss Brock received a presentation from the staff and scholars, the gifts consisting of a silver cake basket, a case of fruit spoons and forks with server and a beautiful bouquet of tulips and narcissi. Iona Jones, Elwyn Coleman, Jacqueline Hay and Gordon Payne made the presentation scholars and Miss M.G. Allen on behalf of the staff, she having served during the whole of Miss Brock's service.

5TH MAY 1948 - Short session because of the visit of the Dagenham Girl Pipers to the Garrison Theatre.

1STH June 1948 - Combined School Sports at Bush Camp.

14TH July 1948 - Half day - St. Patricks Fete.

28TH July 1948 - Half day - St. Patricks Sunday School Outing.

30TH July - 10TH September 1948 - Holiday.

1ST December 1948 - Area Music Festival at Garrison Theatre.

16TH December 1948 - Concert and party.

17TH December 1948 - School closed for Christmas.

1ST - 22ND February 1949 - Half term.

16TH June 1949 - District School Sports at Bush Camp - Short sessions. - 9.15 - 11.15 and 12.15 - 2.15.

15TH June 1949 - Music Festival - Short sessions.

18TH July 1949 - Short sessions - County Sports at Bush Camp.

27TH July - 13TH September 1949 - Holidays.

13TH September 1949 - Coronation status altered to Modern Secondary School - Boys and girls transferred to " Upper Department " which has become a Mixed Junior School.

30TH November 1949 -- Short sessions - Bethany Eisteddford.

20TH December 1949 - Christmas party.

17TH March 1950 - Received one ton of Coke.

31ST MAY 1950 - Short sessions - Crowning of May Fair Queen.

21ST June 1950 - Short sessions - District School Sports Postponed because of heavy rain.
 22ND June 1950 - School Sports as above.
 28TH June 1950 - Short sessions - District United Festival.
 28TH July - 8TH September 1950 - Holidays.
 16TH November 1950 - One ton of Coke delivered.
 8TH December 1950 - One ton of Coke delivered.
 18TH December 1950 - Fall of snow during the night.
 19TH DECEMBER 1950 - Christmas concert.
 20TH DECEMBER 1950 - Christmas party.
 21ST December 1950 - Closed for Christmas.
 18TH - 29TH January 1951 - Closed because of epidemic.
 19TH FEBRUARY 1951 - One ton of Coke.
 23RD February 1951 - One ton of Coke.
 9TH March 1951 - Showers of sleet and snow on Wednesday and today.
 19TH April 1951 - Staff - Miss E.A. Gibby; Miss C.E. Treivena; Miss I. Thomas ; Miss M.G. Allen; Miss E.G. Davies.
 6TH June 1951 - Short sessions - Area School Sports - Bush Camp.
 July 1951 - Short sessions - Choral Festival at Wesley. - School Festival of Britain Celebrations.
 13TH September 1951 - Stormy weather and during the afternoon a strong gust of wind removed several slates and damaged the partition which divides the main room.
 September 1951 - Report - ...all the classrooms except one which has an open fire are heated by closed stoves.
 18TH December 1951 - Christmas party.
 19TH December 1951 - Christmas concert.
 6TH February 1952 - two minutes silence - Death of King George VI.
 8TH February 1952 - The School assembled to hear the Proclamation by the Mayor, J.R. Williams, of the Accession of Queen Elizabeth - Proclaimed from the steps of Albion Square Church.
 11TH March 1952 - One ton of Coke.
 20TH March 1952 - One ton of Coke.
 April 1952 - Nurse Williams the District Welfare Nurse attended the school this afternoon. She has taken the place of Nurse Merriman who has resigned.
 28 MAY 1952 - Half day - Schools Area Singing Festival.
 29TH MAY 1952 - Half day - Junior and Infants School Sports.
 11TH June 1952 - Short sessions - School Area Sports at Bush Camp.
 25TH June 1952 - Short sessions - United Singing Festival at Wesley.
 9TH July 1952 - Half holiday - St. Patricks Church Fete.
 17TH July - 2ND September 1952 - Holiday.
 18TH December 1952 - Christmas concert and party. " In spite of the snowstorm the attendance was reasonably good ".
 3RD March 1953 - Ferry boat not sailing - Fog.
 4TH & 5TH March 1953 - Ferry boat delayed by fog.
 May 1953 - The Mayor (Darrel Rees), Mayoress, Town Clerk and several Councillors presented a Coronation Mug to each of the Children.
June 1953 - Alderman E.B. Davies presented souvenir propelling pencils. Half day - Junior and Department Sports.
 15TH June 1953 - Entry in the log book - " I left this School in 1904 for the Coronation School " signed by J.B. Munro.

 23RD June 1953 - The School attended the Cinema to see the Coronation Film.
 24 TH June 1953 - Short sessions - United Choral Festival.
 19TH July 1953 - Short sessions - Royal visit to Wales.
 16TH July - 1 ST SEPTEMBER 1953 - Holiday .

18TH DECEMBER 1953 – School party on Wednesday p.m. - preceded by Concert.

5TH February 1954 - Severe wintry conditions.

8TH February 1954 - Pipes burst during the week end.

1ST March 1954 - St Davids Day celebrations - Snow falling steadily all morning.

16TH June 1954 - Short sessions - Junior School Sports.

22ND June 1954 - Short sessions - Area School Sports.

23RD June 1954 - short sessions - United Choral Festival.

16TH July - 1ST September 1954 - Holidays.

1ST September 1954 - Staff - E.A. Gibby; C.E. Trevena; P.E.B. Lodge; J.E.H. Chick; M.G. Allen.

16TH November 1954 - Short session so that children can parade for the arrival of the First Welsh Regiment.

30TH November 1954 - Severe storm during the night damaged roof part of the play-ground barricaded off - Slates from Co-op. Window panes also broken. Ferry not running and busses hampered by fallen trees.

3RD December 1954 - Miss Lodge absent due to a fire at her home.

14TH December 1954 - Christmas concert in which every child took part.

4TH January 1955 - Snowstorm and bitterly cold weather.

25TH February 1955 - Heavy snowstorm.

19TH December 1955 - Christmas concert - By courtesy of A. J. Morgan it was held in the main room of the Junior Department.

20TH February 1956 - Snowstorm.

30TH MAY 1956 - Early sessions - Choral Festival.

6TH June 1956 - Early sessions - School sports.

13TH June 1956 - District School Sports.

10TH July 1956 - Presentation - Assembled in Albion Square Hall schoolroom for presentation to Miss M.G. Allen who retired after forty years service. A log effect fire and a toaster were presented.

17TH December 1956 - Christmas concert.

18TH December 1956 - Christmas party.

5TH April 1957 - Miss Trevena appointed Headmistress - to take charge after Summer holiday.

29TH June 1957 - District sports.

26TH June 1957 - Choral singing festival.

4TH December 1957 - Electric light on for first time. A Smith's electric clock has been installed.

4TH SEPTEMBER 1962 - New lobby - Four wash-hand basins - Extension to Cloakroom to take seventy pegs. Play ground has been re-surfaced.

10TH January 1963 - Christmas holidays extended by two days because of severe weather.

1ST October 1963 - Mr Evans 19 Arthur Street is the new caretaker.

27TH January 1964 - No coal delivered - school closed early.

April 1964 - School broken into - much damage done to Locks etc. money and Bicos missing.

27TH AND 28TH MAY 1965 - Mrs Downes absent a half day each day attending successful interview for headship in Pembroke. (Golden Manor). Left 16th July 1965.

22ND November 1965 - Bad roads - snowy weather.

14TH July 1956 - Retirement of Miss Trevena. Assembly of Parents and friends. The Mayor. J.R. Williams and school managers present Presents - Nest of tables from parents, a tea trolley from the children and a "wonderful wall electric clock " from the Staff of the Junior and Infants schools. Mr. A.F. Morgan will be the Headmaster of both Departments from the 1st September 1956.

Staff - Miss E.M. Nash, Mrs N. I. Jones, Mrs M.S. Oliver, Miss G.M. Richards and Mrs L.M. Rees.

Acc to Mrs S Peters

The school was built on the London Rd. in 1892 for girls and infants. In 1904 Mason records that children from as far away as Cosheston and Slade used to attend this school and that it had a very good reputation. The school was built to accommodate 140 pupils in the girls school and had an average attendance of 127, while the infants which was built to accommodate 80 actually had an average attendance of 82. The infant's school was enlarged at about that time. The Headmistress in 1904 was Miss M C Beer and the assistant mistress was Miss M Howell.

Coronation Council School

This school was opened on the site of the old British School May 4th 1904. At the time Mason described it as “a magnificent building of commanding proportions composed of trimmed limestone and ornamented with bath stone mullions.

It occupies the site of the old British school's, Meyricks, Street south. The rooms are capacious and calculated to promote all the conditions of health, necessary in keeping the brain active for teaching and learning. The playground is rather small for a large number of boys but the street outside happens to be a very wide one, providing room to relieve the crowding inside. The school bears on its front the date 1902, but it was not opened for teaching until the 9th May 1904. The upper portion of the school allotted to the senior boys will accommodate 400 The average attendance in 1904 was 322. Mr A J Adams the headmaster and Messrs J R Norris, J S James, W W Winbury, E Griffiths, W Smith, and G F Davies the assistant Masters.

The junior boys take the lower part of the building capable of accommodation 400. The average attendance was 290 in 1904. Mr W Williams is the Headmaster and Messrs G P Davies, G L Edwards E L P George and J Fisher are the assistant Masters. If the Central Hall is brought into use then a total of 1200 boys could be accommodated”.

The 1970s also witnessed a re-organisation of secondary education in the area. Pembroke Grammar School and the Coronation Secondary School, Pembroke Dock, merged to become a comprehensive school on the Bush site, where there is also now a sports centre. Most of the Coronation School building in Argyle Street was demolished and the pupils and staff of Albion Square and Llanion Junior Schools were moved there to a new purpose-built school

Hospitals and Sickness

Hospitals

Sick and injured workers at the Dockyard were hospitalised aboard the Saturn, a ship moored in the Haven. What conditions were like on this hulk is anybody's guess. Even in the nineteenth century, amputations took place without a general anaesthetic, nursing care was perfunctory, and the state of medical science (while improved) was primitive by today's standards.

The appointment of a medical officer to the Dockyard was not an unmixed blessing for the men. His duties included checking absences from work claimed through ill-health. During potato time, some employees would absent themselves from work at the Dockyard and work on their own plot of land. It is easy to imagine the confusion caused by the arrival of the medical officer in circumstances where absence was due to a need to dig the garden!

Pembroke Dock grew rapidly and delivered prosperity to the south side of the Haven. Conditions for the residents of the new town, however, were far from ideal. In common with many towns that underwent rapid expansion, Pembroke Dock's infrastructure was not up to supporting the speed of initial development.

Water supplies in the town were eventually drawn from storage reservoirs, but some areas still depended on communal wells for their water supply. Conditions in Bush Street were so foul that the area became known as Pig's Parade.

The Dockyard Surgeon's office was within the dockyard walls. During the Crimean War, an army camp was built at Llanion. This also had a hospital and an attendant medical officer. It is Fair to say, however, that the next big step forward was the opening of the Pembroke, Pembroke Dock and District Infirmary in 1862 at East Back Pembroke. It was supported by voluntary contributions and public subscription. Later known as Pembroke Cottage Hospital until its closure in 1961, the hospital provided services for the people of Pembroke and Pembroke Dock. It had beds for approximately 20 patients. Other facilities existed at the workhouse in Pembroke which provided the only welfare available for the desperate and needy.

Used from 1866 until 1895, the Nankin replaced the old Saturn as hospital ship. This facility was only available for the treatment of Dockyard employees, and chiefly dealt with industrial injuries. Such injuries proliferated as industrial practices evolved from the use of wood and nails to build ships to the use of metal and rivets.

While falling from the ships on which they worked remained a common cause of injury and death for the workers, there were now the additional risks associated with the use of machinery. After the Nankin was sold and broken up in 1895, those taken ill or injured while working at the Dockyard were cared for in a small hospital within the Yard.

In this period, the unsanitary conditions of life contributed greatly to the spread of disease. Terraced housing built communities, and improved transport links ensured prosperity - but they also made it easier for sickness to spread rapidly. To control the dissemination of dangerous diseases, much depended on the vigilance of the public health officers and the vaccination doctor,

Following the spread of vaccination programmes, smallpox is now extinct in Britain. Before Edward Jenner's pioneering work, however, smallpox was a disease that could kill, permanently scar or blind its victims. The disease broke out in Pembroke Dock on three separate occasions. The first outbreak centred on Queen Street in the 1850's, and was thought to come from the sale of secondhand clothes brought from Swansea.

The Pennar district of the town seems to have been particularly affected by poor social conditions and inadequate sanitation. There were severe outbreaks of Cholera in the mid-1860's.

Writing in 1905, Mrs. S. Peters colourfully notes that:

"So malignant was the complaint that mourners not infrequently returned from the funeral of one relative to find another of the family had been stricken by the dread disease."

Scarlet fever shortly followed and, in 1892, smallpox broke out.

A parish magazine dating from January 1880 reports, in relation to an outbreak of typhoid,

"We are most thankful to be able to state that this district is now convalescent. By God's mercy we have been saved from any fatal ending to a most pernicious fever."

Pennar was struck heavily by the influenza epidemic of 1919 that followed the end of the First World War. A record of baptisms carried out at St Patrick's Church Pennar shows that, most unusually, two were carried out by a nurse rather than a minister.

The private dockyard situated at Jacob's Pill went bankrupt in 1885 and part of the buildings were later used as an isolation hospital. This facility was particularly busy during the mid-1920's, when diphtheria struck Pennar. The isolation hospital closed before 1940, and the site is now derelict,

Meyrick Hospital

1898 To commemorate the late Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee at Pembroke Dock, the Nurses' Home and Meyrick Wards were erected in North Park Street. Alderman S.J. Allen, of Cresswell Buildings, was Mayor at that time, and to him the credit of the institution must chiefly be given. The foundation-stone of the building was laid on April 12, 1898, by Sir Thomas Meyrick, who gave the wing of the building which bears his name. Three memorial stones were also laid at the same time, which are engraved with the names respectively, of the following ladies: the Lady Victoria Lambton, sister of Earl Cawdor; Mrs. Burges-Watson, whose Husband was at that time Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard; and Mrs. S. J. Allen.

Its design was obsolete before its completion. Furthermore, with sixteen beds, the hospital was scarcely adequate to meet all the town health needs. In fairness, however, its builders never perceived it as likely to fill that role and such accommodations as existed provided a much needed inpatient facility in Pembroke Dock. After its closure as a hospital in 1961, the building was used as a clinic for some years until these functions were taken over by more modern facilities. Eventually, however, the hospital building itself suffered the fate of much of Pembroke Dock's Victorian heritage. Unused, and becoming increasingly dilapidated, the property was sold, the building demolished and the site redeveloped. Today the place where it stood is occupied by sheltered accommodation for the elderly.

South Pembrokeshire Hospital

1902 The hospital, on the Fort road, stands on an area of 6 acres 13 perches.

It was completed in 1902 at an estimated cost of £17,500 and was the property of the Admiralty. Before it was erected, the sick and injured Dockyard men, who were hurt or taken ill during service hours, were attended to in a small hospital in the Yard, which was used after the old Nankin was discarded. The Nankin was a wooden two-decker fifty gun frigate. It displaced the old Saturn, which had formerly been used as a hospital ship. In 1867 the Nankin was docked and fitted up for hospital purposes, and was used to this end for many years; lying off in the stream, she was Long a familiar and picturesque object. The Nankin was eventually sold out of the service to Mr. George Harris, broker, of Bristol, for the sum of £2,200, and left her old Moorings on April 18, 1895, for Milford where she was dismantled.

Four years after the foundation stone was laid at Park Street, the Admiralty began work at Fort road in constructing the building that was eventually to become the South Pembrokeshire Hospital. The hospital is now a much-loved part of the town. But at the time of its construction, members of the Pembroke Town Council objected to the public losing the right of access to a popular walk to the sea

The site of the hospital has an interesting story. When the original Dockyard walls were built in 1844 the workmen discovered many skeletal remains during their excavations. These remains certainly very old may have belonged to the families which owned the property of Paterchurch but apart from one old damaged stone in St Mary's Church Pembroke I could find no records. The workers' grisly finds were interred opposite the walls on the area subsequently covered by the old gasworks, adjacent to the hospital site: their resting place marked by an inscribed plinth. These remains were probably moved by the Admiralty when they levelled the site to make the ground for the hospital. Whatever happened, it is certain that no trace of the bodies or the memorial plinth remained by the time Mason wrote his guidebook to Pembroke Dock in 1905.

In the same guidebook, Mason recounts the fascinating story of how workers digging the foundations uncovered a paved road and claims to have spoken to eyewitnesses to this remarkable discovery. In an act of astounding Archaeological vandalism, he relates that the workmen broke up the road's remains.

The hospital, completed in 1902, covered an area of approximately six acres. Writing a few years later, Mrs. Peters reports that the estimated cost of construction was £17,500. Modern, and using state of the art nursing methods, the hospital was then the most advanced health care facility in Pembrokeshire.

It is important to remember that the hospital replaced hospital provision for Admiralty employees. The new facilities were not available for the population of Pembroke and Pembroke Dock. Despite the Dockyard's closure in 1926, the Fort road hospital remained under Admiralty control. In 1930, part of the hospital was used as an isolation unit for scarlet fever and diphtheria patients. During the war, when Pembroke Dock became a target for German bombing raids, patients treated at the hospital (and at the Sir Thomas Meyrick Hospital) were transferred to Pembroke Cottage

Hospital and Riverside. The Fort road hospital was then used as a Royal Navy hospital, while the RAF used treatment facilities within the Dockyard walls.

From 1948 until the site's redevelopment in 1959/60, facilities at the hospital enter a period of comparative neglect. The building that had been sufficient to care for those injured at the Dockyard was unable to cope with the demands placed upon it. In 1953, after the transfer of maternity care to Riverside, the hospital housed female chronically sick patients in its 16 beds. A succession of forlorn entries in the annual reports of the West Wales Hospital Management Committee throw the condition of the hospital into stark relief.

Things changed for the better at South Pembrokeshire Hospital when the west Wales Hospital Management Committee took note of the condition of public health care in the south of the county. The Thomas Meyrick Hospital, Pembroke Cottage Hospital, South Pembrokeshire Hospital and Riverside Joint User Institution, while admirable in their own way, were scarcely sufficient to deal with the needs of the population of Pembroke and Pembroke Dock in the second half of the twentieth century. Apart from the South Pembrokeshire Hospital, all these buildings were of nineteenth century origin and South Pembs itself was built at the century's turn,

At that time, the prevailing trend in hospital provision was to centralise health care in larger institutions, In terms of development potential, only Riverside and the South Pembrokeshire Hospital could be expanded. For some time, the Hospitals' Management Committee deliberated upon the merits of both sites, but finally plumped for South Pembrokeshire Hospital on grounds of cost and available space. When redevelopment came to the South Pembs site, it was rapid and considerable. Whereas, in 1958, the hospital had sixteen beds that were hard pushed to cope with the demands upon them, the redeveloped hospital had eighty-three. The "new" hospital, which was opened September 1961 by the Minister of Health J. Enoch Powell, received outpatients, maternity cases and some acute patients and was equipped with a new operating theatre.

In the 1970's, both the building of WithyBush General Hospital and the concentration of non-acute outpatient care in community-based clinics posed a threat to the South Pembrokeshire Hospital's future, Despite its extensive refit at the start of the previous decade, the running costs of South Pembs were higher than those of the new unit, The fight to retain maternity facilities failed. But in January 1977 the vigorous campaign by the Friends of South Pembrokeshire Hospital wrung out a promise to retain hospital facilities at Fort road.

It remains standing now: a familiar redbrick building on the approach to the sea. The site has had many additions made to it in recent years. The Pater Close Units and the Psychiatric Unit at Haven Way perform important functions for the local community, the interior has been redecorated and a new boiler house built,

No operations are performed there, and acute care now takes place at WithyBush Hospital, but it remains a focus for the community, held in great affection and staunchly defended by its many friends.

Sickness

Smallpox 1857

There was an outbreak of Smallpox in 1857. Eight people died in Pembroke Dock, the first being Mrs Evans of Queen St. An investigation was carried out by Medical and Senior Officers from the Dockyard into the causes of the outbreak and the conclusion was reached that all those who died had acquired second hand clothing from a street hawker who had originated in Swansea.

Cholera 1853,1866

Pennar from the 1850's seemed to have been hit by several epidemics of infectious diseases.

Cholera in 1853 which was so severe that a public letter was written on the subject by Lord Palmeston, Cholera struck again in August 1866 spreading throughout Pennar, but is alleged not out of the area because the people of Pennar sealed themselves off . The first person to die was a man named Peter Morris age 48. The victims had to be buried within twelve hours and such was the rapid spread of the infection that on 29th August 1866 as well as Peter Morris, also buried were Emma Jones age 28, Margaret Griffiths 11 months, and I .Day age 29. On the 2nd September Thomas Charles Powell age 32 months, Seth John Stephens, age 12 months, and George Jenkins age 12 months were buried. The next day only one, William Wilcox age 25yrs, and Ann Reese age 40 on the 5th, but by the sixth of September the death toll had again risen, Maria Morgan age 6 years, Anne Stephens age 26 years, and John Ormond age 28 months. The Ormond family was again bereaved with Elizabeth Ormond being buried the next day. The 8th of September was the worst day with five victims being buried, like all the others in Park St Cemetery by the Curate of Pembroke Dock, Rev. George Edward McHugh, they were Michael Birmingham age 5 years, Mary Williams, age 57, George Davies age 5 months, Elizabeth price age 75years and Mary May age 56 years. This was the peak but there was to be still more bereaved families as on the 10th September Ann Jones age 39, Stephen Morgan age 9years, and Jane Preese age 59 were buried. The Jones family suffered more losses with Ann Jones age 48 being buried on the 14th, John Jones age 72 on the 15th, Mary Ann Jones and Fanny Jones both age 14 years on the 16th and Mary Ann Jones age 74 as well as Elizabeth Vault on the 17th. The last two of the victims to be buried were Thomas Mabe age 62 and Mary Griffiths age 23 on the 19th September .

Scarlet Fever 1854

A year [1854] later scarlet fever raged, it struck again in 1909.

Typhoid 1879

Typhoid was present in 1879/80 with over twenty people being affected but fortunately all recovered and the Curate of the time records in the Church Magazine that the problem with the health in Pennar was, that, although these diseases were preventable and that warnings had been given both after the 1853 and the 1866 outbreak, " We would again call attention to the water supply, which is generally admitted to be the viaticum of typhoid fever , and which we hear is in a worse state than ever". Findlay wrote in 1875 of the water supply to the town in general that "save that of the Government dwellings, occupying two or three small Streets near the dockyard, and which are supplied from the reservoirs the water supply is furnished by wells in different parts of the town, and by Tanks attached to most of the houses. This supply is believed to be adequate to the wants of the community (remarks made by members of the Town Council at a meeting to discuss the sufficiency of the water supply of Pembroke and Pembroke Dock) but it is fairly open to doubt whether it would be found equal to the demands of exceptional dry seasons, which may reasonably be expected, and for which it should be the object of the Town Council to provide"

Smallpox 1892

In 1892 smallpox was present, many children, and parents who could, went away, others were re-vaccinated.

Measles

With the turn of the century came measles and influenza.

Influenza

the latter was exceptionally severe in 1915 and 1919 when the Baptismal Register for St Patrick's Church records young babies being baptised by the Nurse.

Diphtheria

in the 1920's after the closure of the Dockyard the area was hit with a diphtheria epidemic - The old offices of the Shipbuilding Company by Jacob's Pill being used as an isolation Hospital. After that time these scourges seem to have been less violent, probably because of better health care and an improved water supply.

Railway

Originally Brunel planned to lay his main railway line to the small village of Fishguard, on the north coast of the county, while to serve the southern parts a branch was planned from near Whitland to the town of Pembroke. Tenby was then little more than a village, but this too was to be served by a branch line connecting with the Pembroke line.

The Irish potato famine of 1846, coupled with a general trade depression, caused the company to reconsider its proposals, and after several changes of plan it was decided to proceed with the main line, but to take it through the county town of Haverfordwest to Neyland, where a harbour was to be built on the shores of Milford Haven. There was, at that time, no provision made for a line to the south part of the Haven

The line reached Haverfordwest in January 1854, and the extension to Neyland was opened on 15th April 1856, harbour works being established there as planned. The new terminus at Neyland was named New Milford by the SWR, and remained the Irish port of the GWR until the building of Fishguard Harbour in 1906,

In 1853 the SWR obtained an Act to build a line to the south of the county serving the holiday resort of Tenby and the dockyard town of Pembroke Dock terminating at Pennar Gut but no work was carried out

In 1859 a Company was formed the South Wales, Pembroke and Tenby Junction Railway and an Act of Parliament to build was obtained on 21st July 1859

The title was later shortened to Pembroke & Tenby Railway. The intention was to link Pembroke Dock, Pembroke and Tenby with Brunel's line near Narberth and Mr J S Surke was appointed Engineer. The intention was to build a standard gauge line rather than broad gauge

It was two years before the company was able to raise sufficient capital to start the work

David Davies a reputable contractor who had worked on what was later called the Cambrian Railway formed a partnership with Ezra Roberts, to construct the line for £106,000. The agreement was signed on 4th July 1862, with a completion date of 21st July 1864. Construction started in September 1862

The stretch between Pembroke and Tenby was completed by 30th July 1863 with the first train to Pembroke departed at 7.30 a.m, the final train of the day left Pembroke at 9.10 p.m.

There was a coach connection from Pembroke station to Hobbs Point where passengers could board the ferry Neyland and the SWR terminal.

Work was in progress on extending the line to Pembroke Dock and on by the end of December 1863 a breakthrough had been achieved in the tunnel between Pembroke and Pembroke Dock however it took some time before work on the tunnel was completed.

The first station at Pembroke Dock was near the route to Hobbs Point The first train reached Pembroke Dock on 9th August 1864

From the first the line proved profitable In 1865 the present Pembroke Dock station was opened and became the largest station on the line with two platforms, a turntable and loco shed

An Act of Parliament was obtained in June 1864 to extend the line from Tenby to Whitland and work started in August 1864, The contract for £200,000 was again awarded to Davies & Roberts.

Work included a siding to Moreton Colliery enabling coal to be transported to Pembroke and Pembroke The official opening took place on 4th September 1866. Because of the differences in gauges of the two railway systems it was not possible to physically link the two systems.

By 1st June 1868 the GWR had converted one line from Whitland to Carmarthen from broad gauge to the standard gauge and goods trains started to use this new section. Passenger traffic was allowed from August 1869

Pembroke & Tenby trains could now use the GWR station at Whitland where arrival and departure bay platforms were provided for their use.

Not Long after the opening of the line to Whitland that their Lordships approached the P&T with regard to extending the line into the Dockyard, agreement was reached and an Act of Parliament of 1870 authorised the construction of the line, to run from the Railway station, through the town into the Dockyard where sidings were to be constructed. This involved the demolition of some of the Properties in the town. The new extension was worked and maintained by the Pembroke and Tenby Railway Company and carried coal, iron steel and timber for the Dockyard

. In 1891 the Admiralty decided to purchase the line and work it themselves, paying the Railway company £23000

In 1926 the Royal Dockyard Pembroke Dock closed and the rail traffic through the town for a time ceased only to start again on a smaller Scale with the re-opening up of the area as a RAF seaplane base.

After the closing of the Seaplane base in 1955 the extension fell into disuse and in 1969 the connection with Pembroke Dock railway station was taken up and in subsequent years much of the old track removed.

Originally the Pembroke and Tenby Railway company intended to build a wharf at Hobbs Point and in 1868 authority was given for this line, and a wharf as well as permission to dredge. The Railway line which opened in 1872 ran from the original terminus to a stone-built wharf jutting out into the Haven, Sidings were laid out and a wagon turntable built. There were three steam cranes and the majority of the freight using the line was coal shipments which were transferred to lighters. Later freight for the army garrison at Llanion was carried but with the closing to the Barracks this trade ceased and the track also removed in 1969

Negotiations began in 1894 to sell the line to the GWR and a lease was signed effected from 1st July 1896, and Pembroke & Tenby Railway ceased to exist from 1st July 1897. In 1902 Pembroke Dock Railway station had a new turntable installed as well as new sidings and signal box. Before the First World war there were six passenger trains a day in each direction between Pembroke Dock and Whitland as well as goods trains. In 1905 a halt was opened at Llanion. There were further extensions in 1942 to cope with the military traffic

In 1953 the Pembroke Coast Express was introduced, a daily service between Pembroke Dock and Paddington

In the Winter of 1963 a new service of diesel multiple units was introduced running between Whitland and Pembroke Dock with no through trains from Paddington. Brin Hall (Councillor Brian Hall's father) was the engine driver of the last steam passenger train out of Pembroke Dock on Sunday 8th September departing at 5.55pm. With the departure of the steam trains came the closure of Pembroke Dock loco shed and one of the platforms.

End of the Dockyard Era

Over the course of the century Pembroke Dock's population grew far outstripping the neighbouring town of Pembroke. It had a very mixed population in terms of origin in that while a large part of it was drawn from the locality - born and bred Pembrokeshire people - there were significant numbers of families from much further afield, particularly those with craft skills who had come from other dockyards in Britain, and those who were billeted at the barracks and remained.

1914 However, all was not well in 1914, when the centenary of the town was marked by a programme of celebrations, which included the unveiling of a monument in Albion Square on 15 July.

It seemed likely to many that Pembroke Dock would join what was to become a very large band of towns in Britain which had experienced sustained investment and development in the nineteenth century but, faced with changed circumstances in the twentieth century, were, sooner or later, to decline. Fundamental changes were occurring in the British fleet which were to have severe repercussions locally. Large dreadnought battleships came into favour and supplanted the lighter gunboats and smaller vessels associated with Pembroke Dock. The facilities of the old dockyard were inadequate to handle these new battleships, and the Royal Navy looked to its own and other commercial yards elsewhere.

Encouraged by the Great War, there was a continuing - albeit smaller - demand for cruisers and a call for submarines, to which Pembroke Dock responded, but that was a short-lived fillip to its fortunes.

1925 The announcement was made on 2 September 1925 that the dockyard would close and, despite protests and deputation's, the closure order was implemented the following year. The impact was considerable - the raison d'être of the settlement had been eliminated.

The closing of the Yard in 1926 hit Pembroke Dock hard. Many of the skilled craftsmen left the area, unemployment was rife and there was less opportunity for the trade training of the young men of the area as well as the loss of the educational excellence of the Royal Dockyard School. Even before that time the reduction in employment had been so drastic that the Mayor had organised events such as half a mile of pennies and Fete's and Gala's to raise money for the unemployment fund

Some skilled tradesmen were taken on by other dockyards while many others drifted away in search of work.

Amongst those who remained, unemployment was rife, for there was no real substitute for the dockyard. Partial salvation came in the early 1930s with the establishment of an RAF flying-boat base there. But, even in 1937, the number of insured persons registered at the Labour Exchange was 2,590 and of these 53.7 per cent were unemployed. The whole town had looked to the Dockyard and only three areas in South Wales had higher percentages of unemployment

The New Era

Fortunately, the military presence was retained, and strengthened in one respect with the conversion of the eastern part of the yard into a flying boat base by the Royal Air Force in 1930.

Lord Haw Haw

The town attracted one visitor who we probably could have done without He stayed awhile was the German Spy William Joyce (Lord Haw Haw) who lodged at 26 London Rd. How much knowledge of the towns capabilities and lack of defences did he pass on and how many died because of the knowledge he gained. He lodged overlooking the main road into the town and near the entrance to Llanion Barracks. The old dockyard being converted to an RAF flying base was clearly visible as was the massive Tank farm at Pennar and there were little or no defences. At the Flying Boats Photographic exhibitions we saw many examples of the detailed aerial maps that were supplied to German aircrew.

The Second World War consolidated the town's military role with all of the armed services using it as a base or as a fuel depot. This military function was a double-edged sword for it attracted the attention of the German airforce, and the town and its fuel Tanks suffered badly from bombing.

Pembroke Dock, with Swansea and Cardiff, was repeatedly and savagely attacked by the Luftwaffe.

The war left the town with many scars; 122 houses were not rebuilt out of 203 severely damaged by bombing.

Considerable repair work was carried out with the help of the War Damage Commission

Royal Air Force

A portent of the military flying use of the Haven came in May 1912, when the Royal Navy brought a unique monoplane to Dale. This was the Burney X2, an advanced design equipped with hydrofoils. Tests were carried out through out the summer in the sheltered Haven waters, these coming to a premature end in September when the aeroplane, with Lieutenant G. Bentley Darce in the cockpit, stalled and crashed while being towed aloft, happily without injury to Darce. The following summer an improved version, the X3, was brought to Dale and initial tests proved satisfactory. However, while engaged in taxiing trials the X3 was wrecked on a Haven sandbank, so effectively ending these experiments - the first recorded uses of the Haven for military aviation. The outbreak of war in August 1914 brought a new menace to the fore, namely, the efficient and ruthless German U-Boat fleet which had great success against Britain's maritime trade. To counter this major threat and to protect the merchantmen - and later the convoys - close to shore, air stations were set up all around the British coast. Pembrokeshire, strategically located at the junction of some of the most vital sea trade routes, was well placed to provide a measure of protection to shipping, and the war years saw the establishment of two Royal Naval Air Stations within the County's boundary.

MAS Pembroke 1916

First to be set up was the air station at Sageston, near Milton - this became known as MAS Pembroke - and it provided much needed air cover over the south-western approaches.

1916 Initially equipped only with airships, the station became operational in early 1916, the first ascent being made on 25 April by Commander Fuller as observer and Midshipman Colson as pilot.

MAS Pembroke operated various types of non-rigid 'blimps', the first Submarine Scout (SS) type being equipped with an aircraft fuselage slung underneath as accommodation for the crew of two. Later, the more efficient and better equipped Coastal type airships - with twin engines and a purpose built 'car' for the crew of three - were introduced at the station.

1917 land planes were added to the complement, the first flight being made by Sub Lieutenant Allaway on 29 April in a Sopwith 12 Strutter biplane. Allaway became a casualty later in the year, lost on a flight from the station, and there were also losses among the airships, both aloft and on the ground.

Fishguard

The second air station was established at Fishguard in 1917 and operated seaplanes initially Fairey Hamble Babies and Short 184s - on similar patrols.

Attacks on U-Boats were made by aircraft from both stations and in May 1918 Pembroke's airships flew 15,000 miles of patrols. An additional type of aircraft was introduced at Pembroke in 1918, namely, DH6 training machines which, although unarmed, added to the deterrent against the U-Boats. MAS Pembroke had a complement of over 400, plus a contingent of some fifty women personnel. With the Armistice, both Pembrokeshire air stations were run down and subsequently closed, but it was not until March 1920 that the last servicemen left the Pembroke station. The site returned to agriculture, only to be re-claimed for service use as another great war loomed less than twenty years later.

Military Aviation post World War 1

During the lean post-war years of the 1920s Pembrokeshire saw little aviation activity, the occasional flights through to the newly-Independent Ireland providing some local interest. As the decade progressed speculation grew locally on the use of the sheltered Milford Haven waters for military 'sea planes', this term being used instead of the more correct flying-boat.

1925 Pointers to the future came in September 1925 when one of the first of the Royal Air Force's new Southampton twin-engined flying-boats visited Pembroke Dock on trials. After leaving the Haven the flying-boat forced landed in the sea off Ireland and had to be towed into Belfast.

1927 In November 1927, the West Wales Guardian was confidently predicting that in the near future a seaplane base would be established at Pembroke Dock with a RAF strength of about a 1,000, speculation fuelled by the arrival of flying-boats on exercise that same month and in June the following year.

1929 County MP. Major C.W.M. Price, in the House of Commons in March 1929, prompted the Financial Secretary to the Admiralty to disclose that negotiations were in progress for the transfer of the Dockyard from the Admiralty to the RAF.

The Air Base question rumbled on in the newspapers Throughout 1929, it becoming something of a local issue in the General Election in which Major Price was defeated by Major Gwilym Lloyd George. The new M.P- warned in the August that "the civilian population (of Pembroke Dock) will not find compensating employment in the substitution of the air base for the Dockyard".

1930 The local Press quoted the Observer in April as saying "Pembroke Dockyard will henceforth be an RAF station .. The Air Ministry will use the place as a base for flying-boats and seaplanes".

1930, April the new RAF Pembroke Dock station was established under the RAF's Coastal Area. The embryo station had an engineering officer, Flight Lieutenant Bill Liniker, as its first CO. A small contingent of RAF airmen, several RAF Police and Air Ministry officials made up the rest of the RAF's initial presence. From these small beginnings RAF Pembroke Dock was to develop into a major flying-boat station, responsible for guarding the vitally important western Approaches to Britain. The neutrality of Eire meant that the vital trade Routes had to be protected from the western seaboard of Britain, and Pembroke Dock and the Haven Waterway proved to be ideal for the operation of flying-boats. Conditions were primitive and accommodation for the men was initially found in the dirty and derelict sail loft. With true service ingenuity the airmen soon made themselves at home and the town of Pembroke Dock - so hard hit by the closure of the Dockyard - welcomed its new service residents with open arms.

1931 Pembrokeshire s Press, quoting no less an authority than a June 1931, issue of the London Times, reported that a flying-boat squadron, No. 210, had been 'temporarily removed from Felixstowe, Suffolk, to Pembroke Dock where it will be based until 30th September

1931 June a newly-formed squadron, No 210, moved from Felixstowe to Pembroke Dock, bringing two Southamptons to the Haven. These were permanently moored off the station as there were no slipway facilities to bring the machines ashore. The temporary nature of 210's move became permanent late in the year and Wing Commander Robert Leckie, a pilot with a distinguished war record from the 1914-18 conflict, assumed command of both the squadron and the station. This squadron was to look upon Pembroke Dock as its main 'home base' for more than a decade, finally bidding farewell to the West Wales RAF Station in the dark days of 1943.

1931 March 1931, figures were being quoted, £107,000 for the accommodation of flying-boats at Pembroke Dock. The 'Labour Notes' column in the Guardian commented: "The sum is not a large one to a town that has been used to receiving £200,000 a year from the Admiralty, but the really important point about it is that this is a beginning".

When the main contingent of No- 210 Squadron arrived in June it was met at the railway station by a large number of town's people, anxious to see the new men in blue. The RAF, as with all servicemen, soon settled into their new surroundings, forming sports teams and beginning a series of dances at the Temperance Hall. These were immediately popular, attracting patrons in their hundreds, with the Arcadian Dance Band (directed by Roy Roberts) providing the music.

1932 No. 210 Squadron's 'temporary stay was, in January 1932 made permanent and soon afterwards the unique floating dock, used for maintenance of flying-boats on the water, was towed into the Haven. It was to be a feature of the waterway for over six years.

1932 September, the Guardian was able to report that tenders were being invited for new barrack blocks at the station, This work requiring considerable demolition of old Dockyard buildings. The much-needed slipway was built the following year and the first of the huge hangars, was to rise above the waterfront soon after.

There was a gradual rise in the numbers of personnel at the station which in its early years, was commanded successively by:-

Wing Commander Bob Leckie,

Wing Commander Arthur Harris (Later famous as Bomber Harris) and Wing Commander R.H. Kershaw.

1934 May Pembroke Dock's first Empire Air Day was held at the RAF Station and attracted a very encouraging attendance of over 5,000

1935 Singapore and Southamptons took part in the 1935 Empire air Day attended by 2,000 people, the floating dock being one of the main attractions. The Long-promised second squadron, No. 230, had by now joined 210, but the new unit was soon to leave, ultimately for the Far East, and towards the end of the year only one flying-boat remained at PD.

1936 With war clouds looming on the European horizon the pace of activity quickened at RAF Pembroke Dock with much building work being carried out. Late 1936 saw the emergence of No. 228 Squadron, a unit which was to be Long associated with PD. Also 'back in commission in 1937 was the Dockyard Chapel located within the RAF station and which was to become well-known to thousands of servicemen as the Garrison Theatre. The Church had been closed since 1926.

1937 Empire Air Day attracted between 4,000 and 5,000 people, many of them travelling in the 500 cars which passed through the Dockyard gates.

1937 August Caledonia, one of the first of the Empire Class of flying-boats, touched down on the Haven during a proving flight around the U. K. The large metal Seaplane was the forerunner of her military sister, the Sunderland, which itself was soon to make a maiden flight. Caledonia made PD's biplane flying-boats look old fashioned.

1938 March the Guardian reported the arrival of four of the latest type of flying-boats Supermarine Stranraers for No. 228 Squadron.

1938 Empire Day first Sunderland, which had been at Pembroke Dock during the previous week, returned to the station on Air Day morning and took off and landed several times.

The Air Day Sunderland left PD soon after and was delivered to No. 230 Squadron in Singapore, on the way breaking all records for the flight.

1938 September A Sunderland of No. 210 Squadron crashed in the Haven with the loss of two lives. Later that year the Commanding Officer of 210, Wing Commander W. N. Plenderleith, collapsed and died suddenly age of 39. The military funeral was held at Llanion Cemetery.

1939 Empire Air Day the Sunderland and one of the RAF new eight gun fighters - the Hurricane - stole the show. The Hurricane approaching from the Llanion Barracks direction, "roared low over the station at over 300 m.p.h., and then a few minutes later returned at its lowest safe speed .. Many spectators would have liked to have seen more of this plane ." reported the Guardian.

1939 June the Press recorded that "the new wireless station near Imble Lane is nearly completed. The towering pylon have had lighting equipment fixed and can now be seen for miles on both day and night", just in time as in September war was declared.

8th September 1939

Afar so many days of tension the announcement on Sunday morning did not come as a surprise. So reflected the West Wales Guardian of 8th September 1939 as Pembroke and Pembroke Dock geared themselves for war.

1939 September 18th RAF Pembroke Dock's first fatal wartime Sunderland night time crash of the 210 Squadron aircraft on 18th September was not reported at all because of censorship, but the succession of funerals with full military honours at Llanion Cemetery, were reported in the Press.

1939 October. Rescue of the 34 man crew of the steamship, Kensington Court, in October 1939. Two Sunderlands landed in the open sea to pick up the crew from a lifeboat, after the vessel had been shelled by a German U-Boat, the pilots Flight Lieutenants Thurston Smith (228 Squadron) and Jackie Barrett (204 Squadron), were awarded D.F.C.s.

1939 December 200 Australian airmen who arrived at the RAF Station PD to join the new Aussie-manned Sunderland 10 squadron.

"Gee, it's cold in this place' said one Aussie . ' we don't mind the rain but this frost, ugh! .. 'Then there's this crook blackout -that's one of our grouses', commented another. 'But for all that I sampled a few of the 'beauties' of the locality these last few nights".

The declaration of war on 3 September 1939 saw RAF Pembroke Dock already on a war-footing, its Sunderlands engaged on patrols to protect the newly-organised convoys. Pembroke Dock was no longer Pembrokeshire's only air base; just five miles to the east the former World War One airship station at Milton was being hastily transformed into RAF Carew Cheriton. This was the first of several land stations to be built within the county during the war years. Yet, for all its military importance, the Haven - with its flying boats, naval base, fishing fleet and convoy assembly point - was totally undefended. No anti-aircraft guns were in position locally as the war progressed to its first anniversary, a fact cruelly exposed by the Luftwaffe

1940 19 August three Junkers Ju88 dive bombers flew with impunity up the Haven and bombed the Admiralty oil Tanks at Llanreath. The resulting conflagration was the largest oil fire ever seen in Britain, and cost the lives of four firemen as it raged for many days. WW2

Quote from Churchill's Speech on the Eire Bill May 5 1938

" If we are denied Berehaven and Queenstown, and have to work from Pembroke Dock, we would strike 400 miles from their effective radius out and home. These ports are, in fact, the sentinel towers of the western approaches, by which the 45,000,000 people in this Island so enormously depend on foreign food for their daily Bread, and by which they can carry on their trade, which is equally important to their existence.

The Navy still retained a small presence at the Yard and combined with Fliers from all over the world and Army Barracks at Llanion and Pennar, Pembroke Dock had a very busy and cosmopolitan war.

Wartime was also unkind to the town. The Luftwaffe found Pembroke Dock to be both a prime and easy target, and during August 1940 the oil Tanks at Llanreath were bombed, starting one of the most serious oil fires ever witnessed in Britain. Many civilian casualties were suffered, and the housing stock was severely affected with over 200 houses destroyed.

The town was the main Atlantic Sunderland flying boat base plus part of the dockyard used for ship repairs Atlantic convoys assembled much minelaying, minesweeping, and escort work co-ordinated from Dockyard HQ. It is estimated that some 17,000-cargo vessels sailed from Haven It was also an important storage fuel storage depot and had sizeable garrison which attracted enemy bombing attacks causing great destruction and loss of life in the town particularly between July 1940 and June 1941

19 Aug 1940

About 2 o'clock on Friday July 5th, 1940, the air raid siren sounded in Pembroke Dock. It was the first air raid warning to be sounded in earnest, the vast majority of people seemed convinced that Pembrokeshire would never hear a bomb explode. The West Wales Guardian stated:- "On a certain afternoon recently an air raid warning was sounded in a certain town". At the time there was no reason to think the siren was anything other than a genuine warning of the approach of enemy aircraft. From early July, 1940, until June, 1941, Pembrokeshire was subjected to many air raids. Throughout the period Pembroke Dock was the centre of the attack. The damage inflicted in Pembroke Dock was as great as that in any blitzed town in the country, every house in the place was damaged to some extent, while the death roll for one raid was as high in proportion as that of most of the big towns. On Wednesday, July 10th, 1940, at precisely 10.12 a.m. without any warning, the whole town was rocked by a terrific explosion. Then, at 10.20, all speculation was ended-by the sounding of the siren in the R.A.F. Station. It was an air raid all right. A few minutes later the raider came in again across the town. There it was for all to see, a big, black Junkers 88, flying from east to west, high. During the next few minutes there were further explosions. Some ten minutes later the Junkers flew away down south to return to its base, where, according to a later German news bulletin, the pilot reported "a heavy raid on Pembroke where large fires were started. The first bomb which so shook the town, fell in the harbour between Neyland and Pembroke Dock. The ferry-boat with a full complement of passengers had just passed within a few yards of where the bomb hit the water! People at Hobbs Point and the Neyland pontoon were dazed by the explosion.

The other bombs, four or five in number and of smaller calibre, fell in and around Llanreath. The enemy was evidently after the oil Tanks and, one bomb found its Mark but it was a dud.

The anti-aircraft defences in Pembrokeshire were almost non existent and that the system of warning was to take many months to become efficient

On Monday, July 15th, 1940, the enemy made his second visit. Shortly after noon a 'plane could be heard, flying very high, but, if it was the enemy, it must have continued on its way, for the all-clear went without event. An hour afterwards, however, when most people had just finished their lunch, a noisy 'plane was heard coming in low across the town, followed in a few seconds by three or four explosions in quick succession. The bombs had exploded and the intruder was well on his way out of the locality before the siren was heard, and then it was the siren belonging to the R.A.F. The town's public siren came into its own half-an-hour later to sound the all-clear.

The bombs fell in the field by the Birdcage Walk and did no damage; they were probably aimed at the railway bridge over Ferry Lane or at the railway line itself

At the meetings of the borough Council demands were made for defences for the area and for the scheduling of Pembroke Dock as a danger zone so that Anderson shelters could be obtained with Government assistance. Because of the tremendous losses at Dunkirk the whole country, including was practically defenceless; it was decided to urge the County Council to delegate powers to the local authority so that the matter of air raid shelters, etc., could be proceeded with without delay. It was also decided that Mr. Kavanagh, the engineer, should carry out an inspection of houses for the purpose of strengthening domestic air raid shelters.

On July 22nd, a week after the attempted bombing (presumably) of the Ferry Lane railway bridge, the ex dockyard town experienced its first night raid. It was a Monday night, according to one report, at least eighteen bombs were dropped that night;. One bomb dropped between Front Street and the dockyard railway causing a great deal of damage in nearby houses. A large, gaping hole was blasted in the dividing wall between two houses in Front Street. In the house most damaged the family with friends, numbering nine altogether, sheltered beneath the staircase while the building tottered about them. They escaped unhurt.

Another bomb came down between King Street and the railway and a third exploded in the gardens between Market Street and Pembroke Street., Other bombs fell in the Haven, some near the R.N. Mines Depot, and two at Hobbs Point; five exploded between Carew and Cosheston; four at West Williamston; another behind Lawrenny Castle, and two on Mr. Rock's farm at Waterston.

After the first night raid people began to go out of the town to sleep. It started in a small way but as the raids grew in severity developed into a veritable exodus until in May, 1941,. In August, the then Fire Chief, Mr. Arthur Morris, reported to the Council that five members of the Auxiliary Fire Service had failed to turn out upon a "red" message. Four of the men appeared before the Council and three gave explanations, which were accepted. The fourth said he had to see that his wife and children were all right, He also contended that there was insufficient protection and said frankly he was not prepared to turn out in a raid. His resignation and that of the fifth fireman, who wrote that his wife had collapsed when the warning was given, were accepted.

At a meeting of the County Council on 23rd July, the programme for the construction of public air raid shelters in the county was presented and approved. This provided hope to Pembroke Dock people as there was concern at the absence of public shelters. At one meeting of the borough Council early in August the complaint was made that public shelters were almost complete in raid-free Haverfordwest while in Pembroke and Pembroke Dock they had hardly been started.

The next raid was just over a week later. There was a hit and run raid on August 1st by a lone 'plane which dropped ten bombs across Llanion Barracks. Although the bombs fell right across the barracks, surprisingly little damage was done. One bomb, however, killed a soldier. The unfortunate soldier, twenty-year-old Ronald Johnston, of Manchester, was standing up at the time and was struck in the stomach by a piece of shrapnel. This was the first fatal casualty to have occurred by enemy action in the county.

Pembroke Dock had not been deemed worthy of much consideration in the country's defence arrangements or even of a mention in the national news bulletins-until on Monday, August 19th, a German `plane flew up the harbour and dropped a bomb plumb on one of the Llanreath oil Tanks. Two local children living in Bufferland actually waved to the pilot whom they could see and whom they believe waved back. The blaze, which followed, was one of the biggest in the history of Britain and consequently anti-aircraft guns began to arrive in the locality and barrage balloons appeared in the sky over Pembroke Dock. The raid occurred about 3.15 on the Monday afternoon and was made by three aircraft. They flew up the harbour very low and in quite leisurely fashion, turning south before reaching Pembroke Dock and then coming in again to approach the Tanks from the direction of Monkton.

Workmen engaged on trenching around the Tanks looked up at the approaching `planes and thought they were British. Then the bomber dived in and the men ran for shelter. Firebombs were dropped and a hit was obtained on a Tank holding 12,000 tons of oil. A great tongue of flame shot up and clouds of black, thick, oily smoke billowed high into the sky. Within seconds it was obvious for many miles around that the Tanks were burning. The flames and smoke could be seen from as far away as Haverfordwest. The workmen escaped without injury, the only initial casualty was Mr. Fred Phillips, who was treated for shock. The people living in Military road right alongside the Tanks had a severe fright and worse was to come as the wind carried flames and great volumes of smoke in the direction of their homes.

The walls of some of the houses became too hot to touch and the oil-laden smoke percolated into many rooms leaving a trail of ruin. Some of the residents of Military Rd and Owen St worried that the fire would spread during the night and set the street alight took to leaving their houses when darkness fell and snatching as much sleep as they could out on the Barrack Hill.

Very soon after the attack the Pembroke Dock Fire Brigade was on the scene under Mr. Arthur Morris, tackled what they knew was going to be a formidable task with insufficient resources. . The Pembroke and Pembroke Dock brigades were largely responsible for preventing the flames spreading to the nearby houses. .Help was requested from all parts of the country and brigades from many areas came to join in the fight.

Acc to Mr Richards

The Tanks fire raged in full fury for eighteen days. During that period over six hundred firemen from all parts of the country fought the flames; eleven Tanks each with a capacity of 12,000 tons were destroyed; and firemen lost their lives; the enemy made further savage but fruitless attacks, and the whole town and countryside bore traces of oil carried by the smoke which billowed far and wide. Auxiliary firemen from all parts of the county were on the scene a few hours after the attack and within the next two or three days they were re-enforced by brigades from Carmarthen, Swansea, Cardiff, Bristol, Birmingham, Newport and other parts of the country. Altogether twenty-two brigades took part in the colossal task. These men faced one of the grimmest fights of their lives. No battlefield ever presented a more ghastly picture. Flames sprang hundreds of feet into the air and, every few minutes, shot outwards treacherously from the Tanks in great enveloping sheets; the heat was overpowering and the smoke blinding, choking, stupefying. Yet the firemen stuck to their task, and in that terrible holocaust sweated and strained until at last, at Long last, they got control of the great conflagration. Even on the eighteenth day, when success was in sight, the pumps broke down and an alarming situation developed for several hours. A Tank collapsed causing a terrific flare-up which led to the explosion of an adjoining Tank. Eventually, when the oil became exhausted the flames died down and at last the fire was under control.

Five firemen lost their lives all belonging to the Cardiff Brigade. They were Clifford Mills (31), 118 Brunswick Street, Canton, a son of Mr. Jack Mills, the Welsh Rugby Union referee; Frederick George Davies (31), 6 LlanbrAdach Street; Ivor John Kilby (29), 44 Gelligaer Street; Trevor Charles Morgan (31), 46 Mey Street, and John Frederick Thomas (30), Elaine Street. These men were working a jet on the Tanks just after 1 p.m. on 22nd August, when a large burst of flame enveloped them. Capt. Tom Breakes, Chief Inspector of the Fire Brigades Division of the Home Office, who was standing twenty feet behind the men, stated afterwards that when he last saw them they were trying to retreat. The spurt of flame was caused by a big quantity of oil escaping from the Tank where the heat had caused the metal wall to become soft and burst.

On the Tuesday morning less than twenty-four hours after the blaze had been started a German `plane dived through the pall of thick black smoke and dropped four bombs. Fortunately the bombs exploding half a mile away. A few minutes later the `plane returned and machine gunned the firemen. There was a stampede for safety, most of the firemen diving beneath the fire engines. A dozen men crouching beneath one engine saw a large number of holes appear in a piece of zinc lying a few feet from them. The zinc had been completely riddled with machine-gun bullets! One fireman was taken to hospital with an injury which was not serious.

On Wednesday, the third day of the fire, an enemy machine approached Pembroke Dock from the south-west but three Spitfires went up to intercept and it was driven off. Again, two days later the enemy was in the vicinity but due to our fighter interception no raid developed. . On the night of Saturday, August 24th, bombs were dropped and caused damage to hose lines and appliances. There were also some minor casualties but no serious interruption of operations

There were air raids on the town on September 1 st and 2nd but no attempt was made to bomb the Tanks.

Of the seventeen Tanks at Llanreath, holding approximately 45,000,000 gallons of oil, eleven were destroyed, representing a loss of 33,000,000 gallons. The twenty-two brigades in attendance used 600 men, 53 pumps, nine miles of hose and 2,000 gallons of water per minute. Feeding the men during the eighteen days cost £840. Apart from the five fatal casualties, the numbers receiving treatment were as follows:-

Serious cases treated in hospital, 38;
minor cases (mostly eyes), 241;
burns to the hands, face and neck, 180;
sprains and strains, 12;
septic feet, 2;
foot treatment {due to oil entering boots), 560;
cuts and Abrasions, 22;
gastric cases, 13-
a total of 1,153.

Every man who helped to fight that fire was a hero; certain it is that they all shared the tremendous hazards and they all contributed to the splendid combined effort which saved eight oil Tanks and possibly a part of the town from destruction. Who, then, decided that certain firemen's services were more valuable than others, that their bravery was greater, that their daring was more glorious? Who decided that George Medals should be awarded to a handful of firemen out of the six hundred? If awards for gallantry had to be made in connection with such an epic battle action -for such it was - the only Fair way to have done it would have been to present the chief officer of each brigade engaged with a medal in recognition of the services of his unit. It was no wonder that the deepest dissatisfaction was occasioned locally when the Tank fire awards were announced later on.

Pembroke, evidently unable to pull the right strings, received no recognition, but a George Medal and a British Empire Medal went to Milford Haven. The indignation of Pembroke and Pembroke Dock people was expressed on all sides and in no uncertain terms, especially with regard to the B.E.M. award to a Milford official who, it was alleged, spent only a short time at the scene of the fire. There was an insistent demand for recognition for Pembroke's Fire Chief Mr. Arthur Morris, and there is no doubt that if anyone was deserving of a medal it was Mr. Morris who, with his men, was the first on the scene, and did not go to bed for seventeen days. All who were there agreed that he worked without relaxation and regardless of personal risk, setting a splendid example to all. Yet all he received was some minor certificate commending him for his gallantry. Those who attended a special meeting of the Pembroke borough Council a week after the Tanks were bombed will never forget the appearance of Mr. Morris, who took an hour off from his grim task to report to the Council. Beneath the grime which he had not had time to wash off, his pale, drawn face, told eloquently of the ordeal the men were suffering. He was unshaven and his eyes were heavy and red-rimmed. As the meeting progressed it was noticed that on several occasions he almost fell asleep. Next to the yeoman service of the firemen, perhaps the greatest feature of the historic fire was the magnificent response of the townspeople and members of the Civil Defence Services to the needs of the unprecedented emergency. Wherever one turned men and women of Pembroke Dock were giving their services eagerly -providing accommodation for the firemen, helping feed them, wash them, dress their burns and provide them with a score of needs. There were ample gifts of towels, soap clothes, linen, etc., while some ladies, mostly those of the local Red Cross Detachment and St. John Ambulance Nursing Division, spent hour after hour, day and night, carrying out first-aid work at St. Patrick's Schoolroom, They were described as Angels of Mercy, which, indeed, they were, The following message which the officer in charge of the Bristol contingent asked the Guardian to publish at the time provides an indication of how much the local people's efforts from Bristol feel. "The reception we had and the attentions which have been showered upon us by you wonderful people have really been stupendous. When we left Bristol we knew we were going to a difficult and dangerous task. We expected that we would have to endure all kinds of hardships, that we would have to sleep out 'on the job' in all sorts of conditions and that we would have to exist on the iron rations which we had with us. Instead, we were given the most overwhelming hospitality. Everything was done for us, we were given every comfort and the good ladies even went so far as to bathe our feet. In all our experience we have never known such kindness and we do ask you to accept thanks which come from the very bottom of our hearts".

A memorial service to the five unfortunate men was held in St. Patrick's Church, within a few hundred yards of the blazing inferno, on the following Sunday. There was a large attendance of firemen and of Pembroke Dock people, who felt deeply the loss of the five brave men.

Tank Fire Memorial

On August 19th, 1940, the oil Tanks at Pennar were attacked by Junkers 88s, starting a huge fire which burned for 17 days and left a pall of thick oily smoke over the town.

55 years later in August 1995 a memorial was unveiled to the five Cardiff firemen who lost their lives fighting the fire on Friday 23rd August 1940 on the site of the Tank farm. The names were:-

Fredrick George Davies age 31

Ivor John Kilby age 29

Clifford Mills age 31

Trevor Charles Morgan age 31

John Fredrick Thomas age 30.

Vemon Scott has described this event graphically in his book Inferno 1940. Pennar was heavily involved many houses were destroyed or damaged, Both the School and the Church Hall where occupied by Firemen fighting the fires at the Tanks despite the fact that if the Germans attacked either of those buildings there were no Air Raid Shelters at the time although part of the room underneath the stage at the Church Hall was reinforced so as to provide some sort of shelter. In fact when the school classes did resume the senior pupils attended in the mornings and the junior's in the afternoon because of lack of Shelters, although a committee had attended the school to consider plans for shelters on September 25th 1939.

Despite several Air Raid alerts the shelters were not completed till February 1941 and for the next few months, until May, pupils spent much time in those shelters, After the bombing of the Town on May 12th the school was closed for 6 weeks. Attacks and alerts continued for quite a period with many houses damaged, people killed and children having to be evacuated.

Another author W L Richards gives a very detailed description of these events in his book Pembrokeshire Under Fire.

On May 12th the following year, 33 people lost their lives and 21 were injured in a savage raid on the town with the Streets of Gwyther, Laws, Bush, Market and Melville being the worst hit. Indeed, up to May 1943, Pembroke Dock had 253 air raid warnings and 19 bombings.

The war years saw the town packed with personnel from all three Services and of many nationalities, including the Dutch Australians, Canadians, New Zealanders

And, with the war came new and strict regulations over and above the blackout. One who fell foul of these was keen amateur photographer Albert Williams, of Chapel Street, Hakin, Milford Haven, who in May 1940, was fined £3 for 'making a photograph of a seaplane without a permit from the Secretary of State for War . Mr. Williams got off lightly, he could have been fined up to £100 or gone to prison for three months!

Also before the courts in that momentous summer of 1940 was a 16 year-old youth who on a June Sunday had persisted in a story that he had seen two parachutists land near Trewent, Freshwater East. This had resulted in all the defence forces in the county being called out. The un-named lad was fined £3 and “severely” reprimanded.

From the skies in 1940 came danger for Pembrokeshire and Pembroke Dock in particular. Veiled stories in the local Press of air raids over a town in west Wales' or 'a dock town' were all that was allowed, but they were the forerunners of much more dramatic incidents and indeed Pembroke Dock's most testing ordeal.

The Western Telegraph headlined 'Dock Attacked by Bombers -One Tank Set on Fire' over its lengthy report of the 19th August, 1940, raid when oil Tanks at Llanreath were set ablaze by Junkers Ju 88s. The 'dock' location was not mentioned, but the towering pall of black oily smoke over South Pembrokeshire testified to the success of the raid and the intensity of the huge fire.

Oil Investigation Tank Fire 1940 Pembroke,

INTERIM REPORT.

INTRODUCTION.

This interim report is issued at the request of the farmers and others concerned. It will be appreciated that no scientific investigation can be conducted to a time-table; and in this particular instance, the unprecedented nature of the case has necessitated a more than usual amount of specialised and prolonged study.

From the strictly scientific and academic points of view the investigation is not yet concluded, but it is considered that sufficient data have been collected to justify the issue of this interim statement.

HISTORY.

The Tanks were bombed at 3 p.m. on the 19th August, 1940; the fire resulting therefrom burned for 18 days being extinguished on September 5th. From August 19th to August 24th, the direction of the wind varied between north and north-west, with the result that oil and smoke were carried, and deposited over, a belt of land extending across South Pembrokeshire in a south-westerly direction.

This area (which will be referred to as the "oil belt") was comparatively well defined, and measured approximately 6 miles in length by 1 1/2 to 2 miles in width.

In the oil belt, buildings, agricultural machinery, gate-posts, and vegetation of all kinds, were heavily bespattered and contaminated with oil. Produce of Market gardens was entirely spoilt, and the leaves of such vegetables as sugar beet were severely damaged in the fields. Serious losses of sheep occurred Throughout the belt, and a number of cattle also died. The condition of the surviving animals which had been on "oiled" pastures was markedly reduced; and the milk yield dropped suddenly and heavily.

The weather had been excessively dry for many weeks previous to the bombing; and the first real rain fell during the night of September 19th-20th.

summary

OF RESULTS OF INVESTIGATION.

Chemical analyses and animal feeding experiments were carried out by Mr.R.O.Davies, M.Sc., University College of Wales, Aberystwyth; and general observations in the field, postmortem, pathological and bacteriological examinations were conducted by the writer.

Contents of Tanks:- Crude Fuel Oil.

Origin of oil:- Trinidad. (as stated by the Admiralty)

Analysis (as supplied by Admiralty):

Specific Gravity @ 60 F. 0.9565.

Flash point (Pensley-Martens) 194 F.

Viscosity (Redwood. in secs.

60 F 194 @ 32 F. 919. .

Sulphur 1.17% .

Water. 0.5 %

Degrees of Contamination:

Contamination of vegetation in Market gardens and fields was, of course, particularly severe in the immediate vicinity of the Tanks; but stock were removed from the pastures as quickly as possible. Deposition of oil drops commenced on the day of the fire, and continued for 24-72 hours, the Longest period of downpour being at a distance of 3-5 miles from the Tanks.

At 3 miles distance the produce of a large Market garden was completely ruined in spite of a 12 foot high wall surrounding it. At a distance of 6 miles, i.e. towards the end of the belt, deposition persisted for several days

On certain farms in the oil belt a number of fields escaped the oil fall. This could be verified by observation of the unspattered appearance of the gate-posts and fences; and the fact would appear to be of some significance in connection with animal losses (see below).

Scale:-

Quantities of grey-blue, flaky 'Scale' were deposited with the oil up to a distance of 5 miles from the Tanks. This material consisted of iron,iron oxide, and paint; but special analysis revealed small proportions of lead and copper. There was no trace of arsenic

Premises Involved

Mrs Jenner. Pennar.

N, B. In this case stock were lost by fire and a claim has been entered in that respect. The case is included so that the list of premises concerned may be complete.

Mr T.Phillips, 54, Military road, Pennar.

Mr. G.M,Donovan, 10, Ferry road, Pennar.
Mr Reg Lewis, Glenavon Pennar.
Mr. R.W.Jones, west Grove
Mr J,Ll Morris, Brownslade.
Mr W G Wynne, Mellaston.
Mr J. W Morris Bowett.
Mr A.Hitchcox, Orielton Gardens.
Mr J.M Thomas West Orielton.
Mr A.H.Richards.Valasthill.
Mr L.B.Roberts.Lyserry.
Mr E.C.Roberts.Loveston.
Mr F J.Jones,Sampson.
Mr W. James Carew.
Mr W Henton, Glebe, Cosherston.
Mr T.H.Griffiths,Style.
Mr Murray, Buckspool.

Note:- , The above list is in order (as far as possible) of proximity to the Tanks; not in order of importance from point of view of losses .

DAMAGE TO CROPS ETC .

Fu11 details will be given in the final report, but the following facts have emerged during the investigation:

Apart from the immediate vicinity of the Tanks, the greatest contamination of crops took place at Valasthill, some 4 miles from them.

Barley after threshing was dark in colour, and difficulty was experienced in disposing of it. This matter was, however, further complicated by the fatal effect of oil contaminated food on experimental guinea-pigs. In view of these experiments, it was considered necessary to notify all concerned that feeding stuffs contaminated by oil must be considered unsatisfactory for stock-feeding, if not actually dangerous.

Note ;

It must be pointed out that the oil used in the above experiments was obtained from a Tank, the greater part of the contents of which had been burnt.

Germination tests of barley were carried out at Aberystwyth in October. The results were satisfactory, but further tests were advised nearer sowing time, in case of possible "delayed action" on the part of the oil.

In view of the feeding experiments, and other evidence which accumulated in connection with losses of farm animals, contaminated grain could not be conscientiously recommended for anything but seed; and then only if further germination tests proved satisfactory, Considerable quantities of grain (chiefly barley) were affected Throughout the oil belt.

On the leaves of vegetables such as sugar beet, the, oil appeared to exercise a corrosive and withering effect. This was very evident on a field of sugar beet at Buckspool (inspected on October 18th) where the oil had fallen on only one part of the field. The contaminated leaves showed distinct withering, the affected area being noticeable on the first glance over the field.

On close inspection the leaves seemed to be "eaten" in places. The holes appeared to be due to the oil drops, as many showed a shining black oily rim. No parasites could be found.

Rain appeared to have practically no effect in washing the oil off the herbage. Grass taken on November 26th from part of a field which had remained ungrazed since the oil fell, was found to be contaminated to the extent of over three per cent, in spite of extremely heavy rain during previous weeks.

EFFECT OF OIL ON ANIMALS.

Condition:

Within a few days after the bombing, sheep and cattle Throughout the oil belt began to lose condition, and became progressively, and fairly rapidly, emaciated. This loss of condition was quite obvious in October, even after supplementary feeding.

Milk Yield:

The milk yield dropped within 3 days from the bombing to from one-half to one-third of the previous total.

Owing to the excessively dry summer, the yield had been gradually diminishing, but such a sudden and severe drop could not be attributed to the same cause.

Examples :-

At Valasthill, the gallonage dropped from 283 gallons in August to 86 gallons in September.

At Bucks pool, 12 gallons were sent off on August 18th and only 3 gallons on the 21st

At Sampson the gallonage sent down from 19 gallons to 10 gallons during the same Period
Compararable diminution occurred on other farms in the area,

ANIMAL LOSSES

Again, the following is a summary of results.

General :

The most serious losses occurred among sheep. These began in September and cases had been examined by Mr.E.P.M. Drewett, M.R.C.V S., Pembroke, and Mr Watson, M R.C.V.S., Haverfordwest, who had come to the conclusion that the condition was of an obscure nature, but were inclined finally to suspect the oil. For some time, however, the oil was not suspected, and the actual investigation was not commenced until the beginning of October; but cases were still occurring, so that it was possible to observe the course of the condition, and to make postmortem and other examinations, Affected sheep all showed similar symptoms and postmortem appearance A number of cattle also died in the area concerned. These did not show the same symptoms exactly as did the sheep, but all showed identical and somewhat unusual post-mortem appearances.

1. Sheep Losses:

The following points are worthy of note :

(a) No similar cases have occurred within the experience of local farmers or veterinary practitioners; nor, indeed, within the experience of the writer.

(b) No case showing the characteristic symptoms occurred outside the confines oil the oil belt.

(c) In the case of adjacent farms where one escaped the oil, and the pastures of the other were contaminated only the sheep on the contaminated farm were affected.

(d) In the case of farms on which certain fields escaped the oil, only those sheep in the contaminated fields were affected. The difference in condition between sheep on 'clean' and 'oiled' fields was particularly well marked on the farm of Brownslate.

(e) All sheep in the oil belt were reported to have been in good, saleable condition previous to August 19th. This statement was substantiated by inspection of the flocks on Brownslate and other farms.

(f) The most serious losses occurred on the farm of Valasthill where analysis had shown the greatest crop contamination apart from the immediate vicinity of the Tanks, from which area stock were removed.

(g) A slight reorudescence of the condition occurred on the farm of Lyserry after some trouble-free weeks, subsequent to the pasturing of sheep on part of a field which had remained ungrazed since the oil fell.

Analysis of grass from the part of the field in question revealed 3.12% oil contamination

Sheep involved:

Ewes, lambs and rams were affected. Out of a total of 223 deaths, the proportions were as follows:

Ewes 90

Lambs 123

Rams 5

The above figures are affected by the findings in para (d) above

Percentage losses:

On 8 farms in the oil belt the percentage losses varied from 2.4% to 80.8% in flocks numbering from 30 to 194. sheep. The higher percentage refers, of course, to Valasthill, where 76 sheep were lost out of 94. (see above).

The losses diminished from Valasthill south-eastwards, as the oil fall lessened. (see Page 2).

Limits of "outbreak":

As far as could be ascertained by questioning farmers and veterinary practitioners, and by reference to diaries etc., the condition was first observed on September 3rd, i.e. 15 days after the oil commenced to fall; again at Valasthill.

Approximately three-quarters of the losses occurred during September, before the investigation actually commenced; but information from the most reliable sources left no doubt that the sheep examined in October were similarly affected to those of the previous month; indeed, a considerable number of the former first showed symptoms towards the end of September.

The condition had practically disappeared by the end of the third week in October. Two sheep developed typical symptoms on November 26th, after spending 14 days on pasture ungrazed since the oil fell.

The flock had been personally inspected on November 11th, when all sheep appeared normal, except for loss in condition. They were put on the pasture in question the next day.

Apart from the above cases, a few isolated ones were encountered in November and December, but these were not quite typical in certain respects (see below),

Course of Condition:

The period between the appearance of symptoms and death was variable. A comparatively small minority died within a week, but others took 4 weeks and even longer. The average interval might be put at 14 days. Some animals recovered spontaneously, and others after treatment.

Symptom:

The principal symptom was ascites (accumulation of fluid in the peritoneal cavity). This was, indeed, almost the only symptom, apart from evidence of jaundice in the later stages. There was no evidence of pain, fever or nervous disorder; nor was there diarrhoea. The ascites was progressive, and the amount of fluid varied from one to between 3 and 4 gallons; but even severely dropsical sheep were remarkably lively and difficult to catch. The swelling was confined to the abdomen, there being no sub-maxillary or sub-thoracic oedema.

Acceleration of pulse and respirations was observed as the ascites progressed. Generally speaking, death supervened within 24 hours from the time the sheep was unable to rise.

Post-mortem:

The fluid was quite clear, almost colourless and germ-free. There was no peritonitis. The liver was the chief Organ affected. The capsule was smooth, with no evidence whatever of injury. There was some enlargement of the gall bladder in the later stages. On incision of the liver, the cut surface showed, as it were, a network of blood-red 'threads' Throughout the tissue. Microscopic examinations revealed an extensive focal necrosis.

It may here be mentioned that, after returning to Cardiff the writer submitted a stained liver section to the Pathology Department of the Welsh National School of Medicine, with a request for diagnosis. No personal opinion, and no history or backg round of any kind were given. The report concluded with the following statement;

“The liver lesion may be regarded as a toxic focal necrosis of the type prodmcbed by chemical poisoning. It especially resembles the lesions produced by some of the toxic hydrocarbons”

In some of the older ewes, slight gastritis was observed. Only portions of the edges of the abomasal (4th stomach) folds were involved. In the case of an apprently recovered animal, which was later killed, scars were present on the edges of the folds.

The blood and lymph glands showed no apprent changes, and the renaining organs were comparatively normal. The kidneys were pale in cases of comparatively Long standing.

The attempts on the part of the body to repair damage in the case of both liver and stomach lining were noticed almost exclusively in the sheep examined in November and Decenber.

Determination of Cause:

The following possible causes would appear to have been eliminated by analytical and other examinations:

- 1 Bacteria.
- 2 Metallic poisons, including lead.
3. Plant Poisons, including ragwort.
4. Internal Parasites, including Liver Fluke and Stomach Worms.

Special attention was paid to the possibility of fluke, in view of' the dropsical condition.

2. Cattle Losses:

Post-mortem examinations were conducted on a number of cattle which died during October and November, after showing; sympton of liver trouble.

In every instance, enlargement of the liver and gall-bladder and enlargement and impaction of the omasum (3rd stomach), were constant features.

The enlargement of the gall-bladder was very marked; in one instance, the contents amounted to just under one gallon of bile. The macroscopic appearance of the liver was not similar to that in the sheep; and, for various reasons, it was not possible to make microscopic examinations; but the general appearance was that of fatty degeneration, rather than "liver rot". In some cases, but not in all, biliary cirrhosis was evident; and in those cases a few flukes (not more than 12) were found. The enlargement of the omasum was also very pronounced, as well as the impaction; and this was present in 11 cases, irrespective of flukes or apparent fluke damage.

In one case, scars similar to those in the abomasum of the sheep above mentioned, were observed,. There were no dropsical symtoms; but, as no cases with similar post-mortem appenrances were encountered outside the oil belt, either by the writer or, from all accounts, by local veterinary practitioners, they were regarded with considersble suspicion.

DISCUSSION.

The following is a summary of the collected evidence relating to the various possible causes; with special reference to sheep.

. NB The facts that

- (a) no similar cases had previously occurred; and that
- (b) All cases were confined to the oil belt, should be borne in mind.

I. Bacteria:- The distribution and course of the condition, as well as the general condition of affected sheep, and absence of pathogenic organisms, are against this cause.

2. Metallic Poisoning:

In view of the possibility of poisoning from the 'Scale' analyses of various organs were carried out special attention being paid to lead.

No lead was found in any sheep liver; and under 2 parts per million of copper in one case (i.e. within normal limits).

Minute quantities of lead and copper were found in the liver of a bullock, but, again, the copper was within the normal limits, and there was reason to suspect that the lead might have come from the metal container in which the sample was sent. '

Sheep were affected beyond the limits of the 'Scale' deposition.

3. Plant Poisoning:

No poisonous plants likely to cause the condition were found in the area, (either fresh or dried). The two points in the introduction to this section of the report, are also against this cause.

4. Internal Parasites:

(a) Fluke. No flukes, either mature or immature, and no fluke eggs, could be found either macroscopically or microscopically; with the exception of two November cases. In one of these 6 parasites were found; and in the other, a single fluke only was found.

There was no damage to the liver capsule, and no biliary cirrhosis; nor was there any sub-maxillary or sub thoracic oedema. The absence of depression, the remarkable retention of vitality in many cases, and the recoveries, are against this cause.

Furthermore, the condition occurred on farms previously considered 'safe' and which on personal inspection did not seem in the least likely to harbour the intermediate hosts of the parasites.

It is well known that massive infestation with immature flukes may cause comparatively sudden and decidedly severe, ascites, with death after a fairly short interval; but such a state of affairs postulated a previous mild winter and wet summer, whereas the opposite was the case in this instance. The condition of the liver and ascitic fluid, were also opposed to this theory; and it is impossible to believe that any fluke, however immature, could have escaped detection.

(b) Stomach Worms. The number of these parasites was negligible. routine dosing against them is generally practised in the district; and this was certainly carried out at Valasthill on August 28th.

5. The Oil and or Products of its Combustion:

The distinction is an important one, to which full reference will be made in the final report; and it is in this connection that the investigation is still in progress.

In this sub-section, the term "oil" will imply both the oil and/or products of combustion.

(a) Circumstantial evidence:-

(b) The circumstantial evidence against the oil appears almost conclusive as far as the sheep are concerned. .most of it has already been given, but will be recapitulated here:

(c) I. Absence of previous cases with the characteristic symptoms and post-mortem appearances.

Cases entirely confined to the oil belt.

In the case of adjacent farms where one escaped the oil and the pastures of the other were contaminated, only those sheep on the contaminated fields were affected.

In the case of farms on which certain fields escaped the oil, only those sheep on the contaminated fields were affected.

The most serious losses occurred on the farm where analysis had shown the greatest crop contamination, (apart from the immediate vicinity of the Tanks, from which stock were removed) .

Recrudescence of the condition in sheep pastured on heavily "oiled" grass, ungrazed since the oil fell; after the flock had been normal (except for loss of condition) for several weeks.

Diminution in losses as oil fall lessened.

No other cause discoverable.

(b) Direct Evidence:- Work to this end is still in progress; but oil from one of the Tanks, in which the bulk of it had burnt away before the fire was extinguished, has proved fatal to guinea-pigs. The entirely ex parte statement of the Pathology Department of the 'Welsh National School of Medicine concerning the nature, and implications, of the liver lesion, is significant. Some delay was experienced in obtaining sample of oil for experimental purposes, but this was overcome, and experiments are now being conducted on sheep.

CONCLUSION

In view of the evidence, incomplete though it is and on consideration of all the factors involved, the conviction that the oil and /or products of its combustion, is the cause of the losses among sheep would appear to be conclusive

The responsibility of the oil for the cattle losses is not so definite; but, in view of the apparent predilection of the oil for the liver in the case of sheep, one is inclined to regard it with grave suspicion.

The rapid loss in condition of animals on contaminated fields, and the sudden and heavy drop in the milk yield can not, as far as can be ascertained, be attributed to anything but the oil, '

The oil damage to crops and vegetables is obvious; and the feeding experiments point the danger of the Contamination

FINANCIAL LOSSES TO THE AREA

This matter was thoroughly gone into in the course of the investigation; and it is quite evident that the financial losses will seriously handicap food production in the area concerned

Some farmers have lost several years rent, and have been forced to purchase cake and other supplementary feeding stuffs to try to restore condition and milk production. Others cannot afford to buy artificial manure necessary for certain crops: and others, again, who would have normally bought cows in order to keep up the milk supply, are now unable to do so.

In view of the urgent necessity for food production of every kind at the present time and of the impracticability of producing even peace-time quantities in the area concerned, owing to the losses, one would emphatically suggest that compensation would be, sound investment on the part of the -----(document torn)

N.B. This interim report has been so urgently requested, in order that claims may not be prejudiced by undue delay, that there has been no time to communicate with Mr R.O. Davies, who is responsible for a considerable part of the investigation. Some of his work (from preliminary report) is contained in this statement i.e. those parts relating to analyses and seeding experiments .

Signed Norman Russell(?)

M.R.C.V.S, Veterinary Investigation Officer for South Wales and Monmouthshire.

University College of South Wales and Monmouthshire

Cathays

Cardiff

February 14,1941. ~

Acc to Mr Richards

That day, August 22nd, was the most critical of the eighteen days. The death of the five men greatly distressed their colleagues and the spread of raging flames which followed the escape of oil did nothing to re-assure anyone. In fact, there was near-panic for a short time and this spread to the civil population as the fire ran with devilish speed across adjoining countryside, making Military road impassable and damaging extensively a cottage, farm buildings and crops. In the evening there was another large escape of oil to add to the almost unbelievable difficulties under which the men worked. This produced another wave of alarm amongst the townspeople and started a rumour that another sixty firemen had been burnt to death, So much credence was placed upon this rumour that ambulances rushed to the scene, as well as police, firemen who were off duty and scores of townspeople. Assurances that there had been no further deaths restored public confidence, and the arrival shortly afterwards of re-inforcements from England was a Godsend to the men on the job whose stupendous task was almost beyond endurance.

While the firemen went about their hazardous work in the 1st hours of the fire they realised acutely that heat and flames and boiling-oil were not the only dangers which beset them. They knew that at any moment the enemy might return to try and exact a toll of death from their ranks.

The Germans described it as a great success by the Luftwaffe. It was a serious blow to Britain's war effort, probably the most serious of the early air raids. The fire destroyed an immense quantity of precious heavy oil. Lord Haw Haw, who used to live in the town, gloated over it and threatened that the whole town would be destroyed by fire. The Germans said that the pilot was only sixteen and that he had failed to return.

On the afternoon of Sunday, August 25th, when the great Pennar fire had been burning for six days, a German `plane flew over and dropped two bombs in the vicinity. It was a bold attack, evidently aimed at producing confusion and adding difficulty to the firemen's great task, but again the enemy's bad marksmanship proved a blessing. Both bombs fell near the Tanks but caused no military damage although a few firemen received injuries and had to be treated at the Meyrick Hospital. The first bomb fell near a gate at the top of Military road and uprooted a telegraph pole which flew through the air and, by a freak, landed point downwards a few yards away where it resumed its upright position. The other bomb exploded harmlessly in an open space. Ground defences opened up spiritedly and after unloading its cargo the intruder made hastily out to sea. People who were in Dimond Street as the plane flew over witnessed a very unusual occurrence. An army officer was walking down the street and as the bombs whistled down he stopped, unslung a rifle he was carrying over his shoulder, loaded it and took a shot at the `plane. What he expected to gain by this action is difficult to imagine unless he had hopes of a lucky shot striking a vital part of the aircraft and bringing it down. If he expected to gain the plaudits of the onlookers for a brave act of defiance he was disappointed, for the majority were openly critical of his "sniping" and moved away quickly in case raider flew round to seek revenge for the lone rifle shot, which in the excitement of the moment they thought to be a distinct possibility !

The Tanks fire gave rise to the first suspicions that spies were lurking in South Pembrokeshire, Inevitably there were many wild and exaggerated stories of suspicious characters flashing lights, secret transmitting sets, raids and arrests by the police, mysterious midnight movements and so on.

Ninety per cent of such assertions can safely be written down as being pure assumption produced by the general uneasiness of the times; the remaining ten per cent might have had some foundation in fact. There is every reason to believe, for instance, that enemy agencies were at work during the time of the Tanks fire. One night when the blaze was at its height a big car coming from the direction of the Tanks pulled up beside half-a-dozen local residents who were talking at the bottom of Military road. A man, a complete stranger, put his head out of the window and said "Isn't it terrible, twenty men have been burnt to death up there". Then he drove away, never to be seen by any of that half dozen people again. His story was entirely without foundation. It could not have been due to confusion with the incident in which the five Cardiff firemen lost their lives for it was before that occurrence. Of course, it might have been due to a misunderstanding or a mishearing or it might have been one of those stories which start mysteriously but quite innocently upon such occasions. But those who saw the man in the car were unanimous that there was something suspicious about him. In any event the story he told was one well calculated to produce distress and weakened morale. It was well in keeping with the Goebbels formula later to become so well-known. One spy story which gained much credence a few weeks later concerned lights which some people vowed they had seen flashing a few miles south of Pembroke on nights when enemy aircraft were in the vicinity. Indeed there were people who began to see lights everywhere, even in Freshwater East, a Haven of safety for scores of Pembroke Dock folk. On one memorable night towards the end of the year a few privileged people at The Grotto, that cosy Freshwater rendezvous, where so many from Pembroke Dock were wont to spend their evenings, were let into the secret that two or three Army officers were going out into the darkness to settle once and for all the matter of the lights said to be winking skywards at the bottom of the village. To add drama to the occasion one officer showed his loaded revolver round before buttoning up his trench coat and venturing forth. It was rather in the nature of an anti-climax when they returned to their expectant friends with nothing to report. They had not seen a soul and the black-out was perfect everywhere!

Pembrokeshire people and those in the south of the county in particular were getting precious little rest at nights at this period. Nearly every night the sirens would sound and even if no attack developed the drone of aircraft almost invariably followed which, though it might be in the distance, was sufficient to keep people on the qui vive. And when the sirens were silent sleep was still an uneasy thing, in Pembroke Dock at least, where it had been learnt by grim experience that it was upon such occasions that real attacks occurred. Then there were the 'planes which flew round and round sometimes for an hour and more on end, without any object apparent to the uneasy folk below, unless it was to keep them awake. More often than not, the siren not having sounded, no one knew whether the plane was friendly or hostile, and people used to stand on their doorsteps hoping for the best and staring up into the sky watching the Long, pointing fingers of the searchlights as they "passed the sound" from one to the other. Upon one such occasion a 'plane flew back and fore over Pembroke Dock quite unmolested for surely an hour. Then someone's patience must have snapped because an anti aircraft gun went off with a great bang-and the 'plane was not heard again. These, presumably, were the nuisance raiders. They undoubtedly served a purpose.

People's nerves were beginning to get ragged, as was evidenced by the demand made towards the end of August for the removal of the flag flying over Pembroke Castle which, it was contended, might help enemy 'planes to locate Pembroke Dock ! Looking back, the absurdity of the request is apparent. While the Castle itself, the harbour and a dozen other aids to navigation remained the flag itself was of no consequence as a guide to the enemy. It is probable that not one enemy airman ever noticed it.

During August a number of bombs were dropped on open spaces and caused no harm. Several fell in the marshland and at Caswell, outside Tenby, on August 17th, while on the last day of the month Morvil Mountain, near Maenclochog, in North Pembrokeshire, was a target. Three of these bombs straddled the Fishguard-Maenclochog road about four miles from the village.

Pembroke Dock's lucky star must have been well in the ascendant on Monday, September 2nd, 1940. In the early hours of that morning a raider roared in from the east and, with utter indiscrimination, unloaded a cargo of incendiary and high explosive bombs which completely demolished a number of houses, extensively damaged scores of others, wreaked havoc along the main thoroughfares, scored a direct hit on the Temperance Hall but did not kill a soul! It was the enemy's second visit that night and the majority of Pembroke Dock people had fallen into uneasy sleep when, some time after 1 o'clock, without any warning siren, the low flying `plane awakened them. Almost immediately the bombs crashed down. In Gwyther Street people were scrambling out of bed and running for shelter downstairs when a breathstopping, air-splitting explosion threw them against walls, on to floors, downstairs and, in some cases, out of beds, as their houses heaved and tottered. One bomb had scored a direct hit on the wing at the back of No. 23, Lower Gwyther Street, and another had dropped on No. 32 on the opposite side of the road. No. 32 was completely demolished while the houses each side of it, Nos. 30 and 34, were reduced to shambles, as also was No. 23 on the other side. By remarkable good fortune three of these four houses were empty and the fourth was occupied by only two people who had reached shelter beneath the staircase and escaped unscathed,

No. 32 was the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Young, who had left on the previous Saturday for a holiday by the sea. Had they been at home they could not have escaped death or serious injury. The house next door above, No. 34, was the home of Mr. Roch, a lighthousekeeper, his wife and two children. Mr. Roch was away on duty while his wife and children were staying with friends in another district. The house below, No. 30, was occupied by Mr. W. J. J. Phillips, the Pembroke Dock stationmaster, and a former member of the Pembroke Town Council. Mr. Phillips, a Special Constable, was out on duty, but Mrs. Phillips and their daughter were in the house, and when they heard the `plane they rushed down and under the stairs in their nightclothes -just in the nick of time. No. 23, on the other side, was the home of Mr. Wyrriot Owen, who with his family was staying out of the town.

Neighbours rushed out and stumbling through debris and blinding dust reached the wrecked houses where they immediately commenced rescue work. Mrs. and Miss Phillips were soon located and with little difficulty were brought to safety. White with dust from head to foot, they were taken to Mr. and Mrs. Hordley's house opposite where they soon recovered from their unnerving experience. Later they were joined by friends in the street who, satisfied there was nothing more they could do until morning, spent the remaining hours of darkness singing popular songs with Mr. Fred Hordley, home on leave from the Army, at the piano. Had not the three houses been empty there would almost certainly have been a death roll, which would have added dismay, confusion and difficulty to the havoc of the attack, Yet there were people who continued to campaign bitterly against those who sought safety outside the town.

While the town was still rocking to the explosion of the Gwyther Street bombs, more H.E.'s were falling in the Lewis Street area. One exploded alongside No. 8 Lewis Street, another at the rear of the Bird-in-Hand and another scored a direct hit on the Temperance Hall. The raider's machine guns were blazing but, miraculously no one was hit, Hundreds of small marks noticed next day on the Lewis Street wall of the Temperance Hall were thought to be caused by machine-gun bullets. In the Temperance Hall a number of firemen engaged on the Tanks fire were sleeping and eighteen of them received injuries. Two were seriously injured. Fortunately the bomb which struck the Hall was a small one and the four main walls of the building withstood the blast. All the same, it was nothing but sheer luck that prevented a heavy death roll. On the other side of the road. the Bird-in-Hand and the houses below it were practically wrecked. Alderman Joe Gibby, landlord of the inn, was trapped by falling masonry, etc., and it was some time before he was released. However, he suffered nothing more than an injury to the foot from which he recovered within a few days. Police and A.R.P. rescue workers performed excellent service that night, especially at the Temperance Hall where the casualties received quick and efficient ; attention. It was reliably reported that the only mishap occurred when a well known doctor engaged in giving injections to the wounded had a hypodermic ' needle accidentally (?) driven into a tender part of his anatomy by a layman assistant standing behind him!

A number of bombs had been dropped previously, a direct hit being scored upon Mrs. Lemon's house on the left hand side going up Tremeyrick Street. Mrs. Lemon, a middle-aged lady, was in the house and when she heard the bomb coming dived under the table for shelter. The house collapsed around her with a sickening crash and she was trapped beneath the debris. Rescue workers were quickly on the scene and after a Long and difficult task, made all the worse by the uncertainty as to whether Mrs. Lemon was alive or not, the lady was brought to safety. She was injured and badly shaken but could hardly believe her luck in being alive when she saw the ruins of her home which had been levelled to the ground.

The incendiary bombs used were of the oil type but they did little damage. One fell in the park and another on the corner of Argyle Street-Bush Street, where for months afterwards the walls were covered with black, smelly oil.

The enemy had been busy in the Tenby area earlier that night. Approximately a hundred incendiary bombs were dropped on KingsMoor Common - miles away from any military objective. Hayricks were set on fire at Enox Hill Farm, Saundersfoot, and Little Kilowen, while between thirty and forty incendiaries were dropped near Netherwood House, Saundersfoot. The Narberth Fire Brigade was soon in action and the fires were extinguished.

Three nights later "Jerry" came again a `plane flew over Pembroke Dock and dropped a number of bombs which fell in a field on Bierspool Farm, killing three cows and injuring nine others, the property of Mr. Edward Gibby. Some of the bombs fell quite near to Bierspool House, but did little damage. Mr. and Mrs. Gibby were away from home for the night. Another bomb exploded on the other side of the road near Llanion School and smashed all the windows, while another did similar damage to a number of Llanion houses.

Pembroke borough continued to call out for adequate air raid shelters. While the shelters being erected for the schools were described as the best in Wales there was the utmost dissatisfaction at the County Council's communal shelters. It was stated in responsible quarters that they could be knocked over with a seven-pound hammer and spirited protests were made to the appropriate quarters.

Discontent at the arrangements for sounding the siren reached a critical pitch in Pembroke Dock following two raids which occurred without warning, within an hour of each other on the night of Wednesday, October 16th. The first raid was shortly before 9 o'clock. It was made by a single `plane which after dropping a number of flares released a string of high explosive and incendiary bombs. Some people in the Streets had seen the flares and were prepared for trouble but to the majority the sickening crash of the bombs, now all too familiar, was the first intimation that "'Jerry' was over again". A devil's chorus of explosions and machine gun fire continued for several minutes and then there was silence. After half-an-hour or so the more venturesome left their shelter, persuaded by the quietness which then reigned, that it was all clear. But within ten minutes the raider was back and caught scores of people in the Streets as he released another load of bombs.

Again there was hurrying into shelters and in the absence of anything to assure them that the danger was over many people remained in refuge, cold, shivering and apprehensive, for hours, some until the first streaks of dawn had shot across the sky. The next morning irate citizens went to the A.R.P. report centre to know why no siren had been sounded, firstly to give warning of the raid and secondly to show that the raid was over. They were told that officially there had been no raid, an answer which provoked some interesting comment as the enquirers made their way home through the glass strewn Streets. If this was an unofficial raid what, asked one, would an official raid be like? Other suggestions were that the siren should be taken down and presented to the nation as disused iron and that other uses should be made of the materials which went to build the public shelters as the doors of these much maligned little structures were found to be padlocked when people ran to them during the second attack. Another suggestion, and one that was made quite seriously, was that the County A.R.P. headquarters should move from Haverfordwest to Pembroke Dock which was obviously the centre of attraction to the Germans. It was thought that the town's grievances would then have some attention!

So great was the public discontent that the borough Council decided to communicate with the Prime Minister, the Minister of Home Security, the War Office and the Regional A.R.P. Commissioner on the matter. A public protest meeting in Pembroke Dock was also arranged but it had to be abandoned because no suitable building with an adequate black-out was available. While there is no doubt that Pembroke Dock had every reason for its concern, in retrospect it is obvious that a system permitting warnings at local discretion, which was much in demand, would not have been a satisfactory solution of the problem. On the contrary it is possible that such a system would only have produced greater confusion and added to the perils of the people. There was a general tendency to blame the County A.R.P. system for all the troubles, but the fact was that the County officials were quite powerless, being entirely under the control of Cardiff. In turn, Cardiff, was dependent upon Fighter Command who should have been in a better position than anyone in Pembroke Dock to know the movement of enemy planes over the country. That Fighter Command "fell down on the job" on so many occasions in the early days was doubtless due to the fact that the system had not by then adjusted itself to the unexpected conditions caused by the French surrender. Between twenty and thirty H.E. bombs, some of them of the delayed action type, and several incendiaries fell at widespread points that Wednesday night. Several Long bursts of machine-gun fire featured the attack and it is thought that on one occasion at least, the raider was firing into the Streets. But it was another night of good fortune: no one was killed; only one man was slightly injured, no damage of military importance was done and damage to civilian property was comparatively slight. The explosive bombs landed in King Street Lane, Wellington Street, Milton Terrace and the top of the town, one in the cemetery in Upper Park Street and another (delayed action type) in Hawkestone road. The Bomb Disposal Squad set to work on the time bomb without delay and the following day it was driven away on a lorry before a little crowd of spectators, very interested and still just a little apprehensive!

If the raider had dropped a bomb on Albion Square during its second visit, Pembroke Dock would have lost several distinguished inhabitants. Quite a crowd of people, including a few members of the Town Council who had been inspecting the damage caused by the bomb which fell at the top of Wellington Street half an-hour before, were gathered about the square when the 'plane returned. Indeed, all over the town people were standing on the pavement talking about the raid and, it can safely be surmised, making caustic comments about the siren arrangements. Then came the roar of aero engines again and there was a stampede for shelter into doorways and gutters, under walls and out into the open. On the strength of the fallacious theory that a bomb never drops in the same place twice, a number of people, including the author and at least one member of the borough Council, Alderman J. R. Williams, jumped into the crater at the top of Wellington Street and there lay face downwards as hell broke loose around. As the bombs whistled somebody shouted a warning and girls crouching in the doorways down Wellington Street began to scream. The 'plane, big and black against the moonlit sky came tearing low overhead, its machine-guns blazing. At the same time a lively defence was put up by the guns in the Air Station, the tracers streaking up and down the sky, creating a pattern at once beautiful and terrifying. Then the raider was gone and all was quiet again. Another attack on Pembroke Dock occurred on the following Sunday night. Only incendiaries were dropped, and two houses were set on fire, one at the corner of Bush Street and Gwyther Street and the other in Laws Street. The other incendiaries were quickly and effectively dealt with, some in the Streets, others in gardens and fields and one or two on doorsteps. On the same night some explosive bombs fell harmlessly between Monkton and Hundleton and incendiaries at Monkton, West Pennar, Hakin and Hayscastle, all without any serious effect. On the previous Sunday six high explosives were dropped at Milton Aerodrome, damaging one hangar, the N.A.A.F.I. buildings and some huts, A Dutch officer received some injuries ,

Pembroke Dock's almost phenomenal run of luck in sustaining repeated air attacks without any fatal civilian casualties came to an end on November 6th 1940. Shortly after 6 o'clock that morning a number of 'planes raided the town and killed three civilians and one Serviceman. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. W. Kinton who carried on an old established grocery business in Bush Street, Mrs. Harvey, whose Husband, Dr. Harvey, had only just taken over the practice of the late Dr. Rufus Rees and who lived next door; and a young R.A.F. man who was lodging with Mr. and Mrs. Kinton. Dr. Harvey was seriously injured but their small baby had a miraculous escape. The trail of death left by the raid created a profound impression Throughout the borough. Mr. and Mrs. Kinton were well known inhabitants of advanced years whose old-world charm and kindliness had endeared them to scores of friends. It was indeed a cruel twist of fate that the violence of war should end two such serene and peaceful lives,

The chill and darkness of a November morning had not begun to dissolve when the siren wailed its mournful warning. Almost at once the drone of aeroplanes filled the air. It was a peculiar sound; the note of the engines seemed different from that heard on previous occasions and later there was considerable speculation as to what type of aircraft was used, some suggesting that they were Italian machines. Whatever they were, there were several of them, and they carried out a violent and indiscriminate attack. It is estimated that nearly thirty high explosives were dropped and most of them were of heavy calibre, causing huge craters. Eight of these bombs fell in the County School playing field, three in the Memorial Park and one (unexploded) near the Llanion Tanks. Others dropped in Bush Street, scoring a direct hit on Mr. and Mrs. Kinton's house, in the Co-op. Lane, Prince's Street, Dockyard Avenue and alongside the Military Hospital, where there were some casualties and considerable damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinton's house was completely demolished, burying them beneath the stairs where apparently they were sleeping. Demolition and rescue workers rushed to the scene and worked feverishly for over two hours to extricate the unfortunate people. It was hoped that Mrs. Kinton would be saved as she was heard to speak when the rescue work was in progress, but when extricated it was found she had passed away. By this time a large crowd had gathered and the people watched silently and with bowed heads as the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Kinton were carried away to the mortuary. The body of the young Air Force man, in night clothing, was found on the pavement outside the premises. He was beyond human aid. Another lodger, Mr. T. H. Clement, a clerk in the Pembroke Dock branch of Barclays Bank, escaped with serious injuries and was taken to the Meyrick Hospital.

Heroic work by rescuers failed to save Mrs. Harvey next door, where a fire was burning, due, it is thought, to the domestic fire in the house spreading when the house collapsed. Dr. Harvey was extricated badly injured and was removed to hospital, while the baby escaped unscathed due to the presence of mind of Mrs. Harvey, who although partly buried by the debris, and on the point of collapse, threw the child clear of the fire into the passage. There it was found uninjured hanging by its clothing to a clothes peg on the wall! Bush Street from the junction of Park Street to Albion Square, was a veritable shambles. All the shops and houses around were extensively damaged, windows being shattered, doors blown in and roofs crushed by falling stones. People living in the locality had wonderful escapes, many being unhurt although parts of their houses fell in on them. The bravery of A.R.P., fire-fighting and police personnel in the Bush Street rescue efforts won the commendation of everyone and two police officers, Sergt. Bodman and P.C. Humphreys, subsequently received decorations for their outstanding work.

On the following Sunday night, November 10th, when the enemy made his next visit, a local Civil Defence worker, exasperated at what he considered to be red tape obstructing common-sense procedure, put the siren off without permission - and got into hot water with the authorities. But he was on perfectly safe ground. The voice of the people rose up in his defence and he was acclaimed a hero. His unauthorised action undoubtedly saved several people from injury or death and had the threats of dire punishment, including imprisonment, been carried out there would most assuredly have been a public revolt on an unprecedented Scale. The central figure of this interesting incident was Alderman J. R. Williams, one of the most vociferous advocates of reform of the siren system. At that time Alderman Williams, the vice-chairman of the old Fire Brigade Committee of the borough Council, slept most nights at the Fire Station at the Market Hall. He was there on Sunday night and when, about midnight, the familiar discordant note of enemy `planes was heard, he ordered a fireman, Mr. Harry Baker, to press the button. A few minutes later bombs crashed down on houses which had just been vacated by persons who had run for shelter upon hearing the warning. It is understood that Alderman Williams subsequently received some serious letters on the matter, but he remained unperturbed and with everyone stoutly defending his action, nothing came of it.

All the bombs in that Sunday night raid fell in the top part of Pembroke Dock. A direct hit was scored on 19, Owen Street, Pennar, but the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Scourfield, were sheltering beneath the stairs, and had a wonderful escape. On Bethany corner three bombs fell together, the point of impact forming an isosceles triangle. One of these bombs completely destroyed an empty fish and chip shop next door to the Caledonia public house and tore away part of the inn. The landlord, Mr. Beynon, with his wife and members of the family were sitting in their kitchen and were unhurt. Undeterred by the extensive damage to their premises and the loss of a lot of stock, the Beynons opened again for business without loss of time, an action much appreciated by the many local patrons of this old established house. The second bomb struck No. 11, just opposite the chip shop, the residence of Mrs. Emmet, who, fortunately, had run for shelter to the cellar of a neighbour's house nearby upon hearing the siren. Mrs. Griffiths next door and Mr. Joe Davies and members of his family from next door to the chip shop had also gone to the neighbour's cellar and thus escaped. "thank God for the siren", was the fervent expressions of these people the next day. The third bomb fell on Bethany Baptist Chapel and caused considerable damage. Members of the Pembrokeshire Constabulary had narrow escapes. The Police patrol car had only just passed Bethany and was going up High Street when the bombs dropped, It "bounced" with the explosion and it can be safely assumed that the speed cop then put on a bit more speed! A constable on foot, P.C. Greenslade (later Sergt. Greenslade, who died in February , 1965) was standing in the narrow street running up alongside the Chapel when he heard the warning whistle. He lay flat and was uninjured. Other bombs, H.E. and incendiary, fell around Cross Park and Pennar and caused some damage but no casualties.

Although no concentrated attack occurred between November 6th, 1940, and May 12th, 1941, the night skies over Pembrokeshire were hardly ever free of the hum of aircraft and the flash and crack of ack-ack fire during that period. It was a period of uneasiness. Night after night the sirens wailed, followed in a few minutes by the sound of aircraft approaching from the south. Sometimes a bomb or two or a single parachute mine or a bunch of incendiaries would be dropped at random; sometimes the metallic rattle of a machine-gun would provide a sharp contrast of sound against the deep note of the bombers, sometimes a low flying raider would fly round and round as if in an intense search. But no major attack developed, As the weeks of 1941 wore on the bombers became more and more inclined to leave Pembrokeshire alone, flying high over the area in their hundreds to attack Merseyside, the Midlands and Northern Ireland.

This, however, did not ease the minds of the local people who almost every night, at about the same hour, had to leave their beds or their firesides to go to shelter or out on A.R.P. duty. As the hordes came over, the big guns down the harbour would start firing and between the scores of searchlights, ack-ack bursts like splashes of gold dust would add colour to the beautiful lattice pattern in the sky. Sometimes, but not very often, an aircraft would get caught in a searchlight beam and, small and glistening thousands of feet above the earth and looking so pretty and harmless, it would turn and twist while all the guns for miles around opened up. For hours the all-pervading drone of the 'planes with the intermittent crack of the guns and the zip of falling shrapnel would go on until at last the final flight had passed on its mission of death to the north. A lapse of perhaps half-an-hour and the performance would start all over again as the bombers hooked it for home, obviously in less orderly flight and some of them making ominous noises which spoke of rough handling by our ground defences and night-fighters. The next morning the news bulletins would tell which town had received the bombardment. Liverpool and Merseyside were attacked time and again. Swansea had its merciless three nights blitz. Midland towns were bombed. Belfast had its turn and even Dublin, neutral and well lighted, became an objective on one occasion. All these nights Pembrokeshire watched, listened and waited. There was an inescapable feeling that one night it would be Pembroke Dock's turn and, sure enough, it came on May 12th, when the town was almost reduced to a shambles under the terrific bombardment.

The sirens had sounded on sixteen out of the eighteen nights preceding May 12th, sometimes twice within a few hours. It was not out of the scheme of things, therefore, when a "red" message set the banshees wailing again at a minute after midnight on the night of May 11th-12th. Almost at once the sound of aircraft filled the sky. It was soon apparent that these were not the usual high flyers winging their way northward. They were at comparatively low altitude and wheeling round the area. Everybody waited in grim expectancy. Was this it? Nearly an hour passed without the circling 'planes having given any indication of friendship or hostility. Not a gun had been fired at them. The optimists were cheerfully proclaiming "They're ours" and some had indeed gone back to their warm beds when about 1 a.m. a sharp whistle ripped the air and the rear of Mr. T. P. Owen's premises in Park Street went up in the air as a bomb exploded with a great crash in his garden.

So began a night of terror, the story of which will be told as Long as Pembroke Dock exists. High explosives and incendiaries rained down and, between them came many land mines, their parachutes flapping softly in the light night breeze. It was the first time land mines had been used in a local attack of any scale and they proved a terrifying weapon. While the ordinary bombs whistled down and exploded in a matter of seconds, the land mines rustled down slowly over the town, struck earth with a dull thud and then, after a few moments of ominous silence, went off with a mighty crack, wreaking havoc all around. One of the first of the mines to fall, its Long, round container swinging back and fore, was mistaken for a parachutist, whilst another swishing over Park Street was thought by Mr. W. G. Munro, crouching beside his house, to be a 'plane coming down with its engines cut out. It is estimated that fifteen land mines were released over Pembroke Dock that night. A number of them including some that fell in the mud off the bottom of Water Street failed to explode but those that did caused tremendous havoc.

When at last the full cost of the raid was counted up it was found that the town had suffered grievously. The death rate was practically five per thousand, which was much higher than that suffered in one raid in most of the bigger towns. The next day it was found that thirty civilians and two servicemen had been killed, four were missing and a large number injured. Parts of three human bodies could not be identified. Nearly 2,000 houses were damaged. A similar death roll would have given London 40,000 dead in one raid. Glasgow and Birmingham about 5,400, Liverpool 4,280, Cardiff over 1,000 and Swansea over 800.

The raid revealed very vividly the lack of preparation for a raid of such extent. One regrettable feature was the lack of feeding arrangements by the County Council Public Assistance Committee. It is on record that when large numbers gathered at the Wesley Hall to be fed only one small spirit stove was available to boil water. Later in the day the feeding arrangements were improved with the arrival of the Queen's Mobile Canteens. In this connection, mention must be made of the excellent work of the local W.V.S. mobile canteen which proved a veritable boon in the confused and frightened hours immediately after the raid. Started in the winter of 1940 by the County W.V.S. organisers, Miss N. Thomas, J.P., and Mrs. Salmond, Saundersfoot, this canteen had performed grand service in the Haven but it was after the big blitz that its full value was felt. A telephone message in the middle of the night to the then Mrs. Burleigh Leach, at the time the W.V.S. Centre Organiser for Castlemartin area, resulted in the prompt arrival of the mobile canteen in Pembroke Dock where it remained until about 4 to 5 p.m. the following afternoon. The canteen, in charge of Mrs. Burleigh Leach and Mrs. Pinchard, operated on its own until about mid day when it was joined by other mobile canteens. The total absence of an information bureau was also keenly felt. Many hundreds of people who had suffered in some way or another were at a complete loss to know what to do for sustenance and advice. Had there been a central bureau much confusion would have been avoided. A compensating feature, however, was the wonderful way in which the surrounding areas rallied to the aid of the stricken town. They showed their sympathy in a thousand practical ways, the wonderful help-your-neighbour spirit which has never failed to reveal itself amongst British people in an emergency being a bright and steady beacon in those dark, desperate days. The heavy raid of May 12th developed according to the familiar Goering formula of incendiaries followed by high explosives. Most of the explosives were of very heavy calibre (for those days) and levelled several buildings completely to the ground. One fell right on the Pier Hotel, burying the proprietor, Mr. Rhys Morris, formerly of Haverfordwest and a native of the Solva district, and a number of people who were staying there, The Criterion Hotel across the road was almost completely demolished while along Pier road the roofs of all the buildings were blown off and the windows shattered, There was extensive damage in the Ordnance Factory, caused it is believed, by a mine which exploded in the water near Hancock's Yard. Other devastation in this area was at the Gas Works, which received a direct hit. The Laundry was destroyed while Squibbs' photography premises on the other side of the road also went up in flames and was burnt out completely. Meanwhile, a mine had parachuted down behind lower Laws Street and, exploding with a terrific detonation, laid in ruins a number of houses. Several old, respected and loved residents perished beneath the ruins. Amongst the houses destroyed was the Three Crowns, one of the most popular and cosy inns of pre-war Pembroke Dock. But the landlord, Mr. Alf Bowen and his good wife were brought out alive from the beneath the debris the following day. They recovered slowly but life was never the same for them again. Having regard to the devastation in the street and to the Three Crowns itself, it was a remarkable rescue, aided to no small extent by the steadfastness with which Mr. and Mrs. Bowen faced the terrible ordeal.

Another public house, the Prince Albert, also received a direct hit, the landlady, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Treharne Evans, and several residents being killed. The Market House was extensively damaged as also were the new houses up at Park View Crescent where a mine touched down only ten yards away from the rear of the premises. The residents of these the town's newest Properties had a really amazing escape. But they were undaunted, their spirit being typified by Mr. P. Castle, who, immediately after the raid, hoisted a Union Jack over his shattered home where it fluttered proudly during the sombre weeks which followed.

It would require a large volume to describe in detail all the scores of incidents of this savage raid. Death and destruction were abroad that night in their fullest fury but providence was there too, for numerous were the hairbreadth escapes and great were the strength and courage which, flowing steadily from a source beyond the control of man, enabled the aged, the weak and the young to bear the ordeal, and the brave to go forth into the holocaust to perform their matchless deeds of rescue. It is certain that the civil defences met the crisis with unflinching steadfastness and performed their work in a manner which left no room for criticism. With so much heroism crammed into so few hours it would be an impossible task to select fairly those deserving of special commendation. Many heroes there were whose work became known and was rightly praised but doubtless many brave deeds will for ever remain untold. It is better, therefore, to refrain from mentioning the names of many gallant people which come readily to mind. Sufficient be it to say that that night they were put to the test and were not found wanting.

The raid interrupted the gas and electricity supplies and for some time the ferry boat was stopped from running owing to the danger of mines in the harbour. For several days afterwards a minesweeper swept the path of the ferry boat before it crossed to and from Neyland.

A ghastly spectacle was presented by the light of Monday's dawn. Buildings lay in ruins, debris inches thick covered most Streets and here and there on heaps of rubble rescue workers, pale, drawn and haggard, continued their task with infinite care knowing that at any moment they might find a human body. Everywhere there was devastation and people stood in little knots about the street talking in shocked tones about the events of the night. As the day wore on and the full extent of the tragedy became known residents, sick at heart, attempted to set about their own affairs, striving desperately to reconcile themselves to the terrible loss the town had suffered in life and property. But concentration in such chaos was an impossible thing and sadly people gathered their valuables together and prepared to leave the town for the night.

The Luftwaffe had been making a habit for some weeks to raid the same town on two or three successive nights and Pembroke Dock had not forgotten this fact when, early in the afternoon of May 12th, a great exodus from the town began. There was a real and understandable fear that the raiders would come again that night and thousands sought refuge outside the town, the complaints and criticisms about "fleeing to the mountains", so frequent a week before, being forgotten in the overwhelming crisis of the moment. It was not only the rank and file of the civilian population who feared another attack on the second night. Hundreds of Servicemen billeted locally were given the order "Get out of the town. Sleep where you like, but keep away until to Morrow morning". As dusk gathered military trucks went round the Streets and men, women and children piled into them to be carried away from the danger area.

Refugees fleeing along the roads of France a year before could hardly have presented a more pathetic picture than the people of Pembroke Dock as they poured out of the town that bright Spring evening. An unforgettable scene was witnessed at the Mill Bridge, Pembroke. Down over the Hill from Pembroke Dock they came in an endless stream, in cars, lorries and overloaded buses, on motorcycles, bicycles and horse-drawn carts and wagons. Hundreds came on foot, weary mothers with infants in arms and little boys and girls hardly of school age running behind, wonderment written plain on their pale faces; old men on sticks, young men with grim expressions, subdued boys and frightened girls. Nearly every person clutched tightly some valued possession. Many of the vehicles were piled high with articles of furniture and household ware. Dogs, cats, caged birds and Parrots accompanied their owners. Many of the older folk obviously found it difficult to get along. Women bit their lips and some failed to stem the tears that filled their eyes. Children's noise and chatter and high spirits were nowhere to be found. There was no spark of gaiety, no sign of happiness in that motley, unending procession. Dusk fell and still they came, and Long after the stars had studded the sky there were stragglers hurrying from a devastated town. Where did they go? Hundreds stayed in Pembroke where good people threw open their homes in a grand gesture of neighbourliness, and schools and schoolrooms and vestries were quickly converted into sleeping quarters by many willing hands. Probably the population of Pembroke was doubled for that memorable night and, in fact, for many nights to come. Tenby took in scores and so did Freshwater; many went to Haverfordwest and Neyland while others were given sanctuary in the villages and farmhouses of South Pembrokeshire. But not everybody found shelter. There were those who, with no friends or relatives outside the town and no money with which to pay for a roof over their heads, had to face the night in Pembroke Dock or flee to the open country. It is a fact that many people slept in the open in Bush Woods and the surrounding fields and hedges for nights after May 12th,

Pembroke Dock was a dark, deserted, dismal town that night. No more than a few hundred remained to face whatever the midnight hours held and the few who walked the Streets had no company except the echo of their own footsteps through the empty houses. And so it was the next night and for many nights after until gradually with the general slackening of the air attacks, people began to return to their shattered homes.

As was expected the raiders came again in the early hours of May 13th, but no bombs were dropped on Pembroke Dock. The target that night was Milton Aerodrome, several high explosives falling in and around the village, two at Ratford Farm, one on the road outside Milton House and another (unexploded) in the drive.

When the Germans made their next-and last-big raid on Pembroke Dock, on the night of June 11th, 1941, the town was still largely unpopulated and thus a second heavy death roll was avoided.

Although several high explosives were used, this was really an incendiary attack. Locally it is still referred to as "the fire blitz" which is an accurate and expressive description of a memorable night. Thousands of incendiaries were showered over the town and fires sprang up at scattered points. As the flames gained hold, high explosives crashed down, hindering the work of the fire fighters who turned out very quickly and performed valued service.

Several 'planes took part in the attack. They were over the area almost before the last note of the siren had died and immediately the air was filled with a curious hollow, rattling sound. It was a sound which could not be localised or identified. It started in the distance and quickly grew louder and more intense until the whole sky was filled with it and the drone of the 'planes was subdued. "It was like the rattling of ten thousand dry bones" a resident stated afterwards, an apt description. Startled citizens staring skywards were not left Long to wonder. Fires broke out all round them - and they knew that the unusual sound was caused by falling incendiaries.

Pembroke Dock was ringed with flame and the horizon was soon shimmering with bright, White, intense light. Inside the circle of fire the following formations of raiders poured their bombs with the usual lack of discrimination. The explosives were mostly of the smaller type and they fell on empty houses, in gardens and open spaces, and a few in the Streets. But the town did not escape without paying a toll in life, The whole of the borough was deeply grieved to learn the next day that two lads of tender years, Arthur Kavanagh, aged 13, and Cyril Jenkins, aged 18, of Bufferland, both A.R.P. messengers, had been killed by blast. These lads, with the grand exuberance of youth, were energetically extinguishing incendiaries in a field alongside Bufferland when a stick of explosives fell right alongside them. A well-known resident, Mr. Jack Baskerville, High Street, was killed in the same area while helping his children out into the fields. The blast caught him but the children were saved. Down in Pembroke Street an R.A.F. man sacrificed his life to save his wife. The couple were hurrying to shelter when a bomb screamed down beside them. The Husband threw himself upon his wife on the ground, was caught by the blast and killed. His wife, protected by his body, was uninjured, except for shock. On the Neyland side a house received a direct hit killing the four people in it-Mrs. Margaret Evans and her daughter, Mrs. E. M. Evans; Mrs. Esther Griffiths and her daughter, Miss Esther Griffiths.

When the siren sounded many people left their homes and hurried out along the Top road, rightly or wrongly the practice of seeking shelter in cellars, etc., having become very unpopular since the May raid. There was quite a crowd on the road just outside Pembroke Dock when a bomb was heard - "coming straight at us" one of them said afterwards. The distant whine grew to a rushing, tearing screech and the frightened people threw themselves into the hedges and on to the road, sure that their last moments had come. The bomb landed plumb in the middle of the road but failed to explode! There were many other escapes just as lucky.

Watched from Pembroke, this raid was an awesome spectacle. Fire appeared completely to envelop the town, and through it dark clouds of smoke billowed and played, Every few moments there would be a bright flash against the red glow as the bombs exploded, The darkness above was broken by the golden, rippling stars of anti-aircraft fire and the dot-dot-dot of machine gun bullets as one plane after another tried to shoot down the barrage balloons which obstructed their path. The whole scene was a confusion of darkness and light and noise, awesome and well-nigh overwhelming. "Pembroke Dock is burning to the ground" was the word that went round, and no one thought it an exaggeration. After the phantasmagoria of the night people were surprised next morning to find Pembroke Dock so little changed. Traces of fire, of exhaustion, of tragedy there were, but the town still stood with no widespread havoc left behind by the vicious assault. The borough's fire fighting and A.R.P. services had again performed grand service, They and civilians, extinguished innumerable small fires and dealt successfully with some big ones as well, including one in Commercial Row where a shop was completely destroyed and a number of houses extensively damaged. On the following day, the German High Command communique stated "Minor formations of the German Air Force last night attacked harbour installations at Pembroke on the Bristol Channel. Two large and three small fires were observed", One night in March several bombs fell in and around Pembroke Dock, but little damage was done. One raider flying low over the town met a terrific barrage and it later crashed into the sea

The Second World War, however, was to have a dramatic military targets; there were oil Tanks at Llanion and Pennar; RAF Coastal Command and the Royal Navy in the Dockyard, and the Army at Llanion and Pennar Barracks.

Bombing was to play a significant part in the war and the strong German Luftwaffe was soon able to make great use of the airfields of Northern France to attack Britain.

Critical air battles over Southern England, now immortalised as the Battle of Britain, were followed from afar by readers of the Pembrokeshire Press. And at a meeting of Pembroke WI in that crisis month of August, Mrs Jones, wife of the Pembroke Stationmaster, showed a piece of a German Domier which had been brought down in this country. And, Mrs Andrews exhibited copies of leaflets which had been dropped by German and British aircraft.

Everyone at this time loved a Spitfire, rather forgetting its sister fighter, the Hurricane, which bore the brunt of fighting in the Battle of Britain. And, in common with many areas in the U.K., a number of 'Spitfire Funds' were set up in Pembrokeshire, one of them being the 'Pembroke borough and District Spitfire Fund'. Milford for example, also had a fund.

Sadly, it appears that none of the local funds reached their targets; had they all joined together to be, say, the 'Pembrokeshire Spitfire Fund' then this County could well have funded its 'own' Spitfire. However, monies were sent towards new Spitfires. A cheque for £1,400 from the borough Fund was despatched in February 1941, to Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Aircraft Production. Call-ups, weddings of Service personnel and the sad deaths of so many local servicemen in the line of duty. were the Bread and butter of the censored, and small newspapers of the war years. Medal awards were also reported in depth for example, the award of the D.F.C. to Flight Lieutenant E.J. Brooks, a Sunderland pilot, announced in January 1941, received page one treatment in the Guardian.

The early months of 1941 were grim ones for Pembroke Dock which received a hammering from the Luftwaffe operating under the cover of darkness. In March, the Guardian reported that several bombs were dropped in and around a 'Welsh dock town' without causing casualties. There were also reports of German aircraft being shot down; perhaps such statements were necessary to bolster morale in an area which was getting a pasting.

That some Luftwaffe machines failed to return to base is borne out by the fact that the bodies of at least three German airmen were washed ashore locally. The burial of the first, a 24 year-old Al N.C.O., with full military honours (complete with Swastika flag over the coffin) prompted an outcry in the letters column of the papers; 'Maudling sentiment indulged' being the comment of one irate letter writer.

By September 1942, Pembroke Dock could boast a new Flight of the Air Training Corps, formed at the County School under the direction of the Headmaster, Mr. H.M. Dowling.

The year 1943 was to be a decisive one in the Battle of the Atlantic, a battle waged on the doorstep of Pembrokeshire and with PD's flying-boats as major contributors in a relentless war of attrition. Yet the dramatic events happening out in the Atlantic and in the Bay of Biscay, Junkers' Alley, were hardly reported by the censored Press. However, the people of Pembroke Dock and Pembroke's wholehearted commitment to the cause can be judged by the fact that in April 1943, they set themselves a target of raising £90,000 in 'Wings for Victory Week', enough to buy 'one Sunderland, two Catalinas and four Typhoons'.

1940 October RAF Carew Cheriton, too, received the attention of Luftwaffe bombers, a hangar and three aircraft being destroyed in October 1940, and there were further raids in 1941.

1941 May Pembroke Dock town, so vulnerable near its dockyard and air station, was severely hit in sustained raids in May 1941; it was said the community was one of the hardest hit per head of population in the whole of the British Isles.

The Luftwaffe raids prompted the construction of an airfield in the remote south-western corner of the county, near Angle village. From here a succession of fighter squadrons - mostly with Spitfires and Hurricanes but also at one time operating the rare Whirlwind twin-engined fighter - were based from late 1941 onwards.

Both Carew Cheriton and Angle initially were entrusted with maritime protection, and many fruitless patrols were made over the sea, often in marginal weather conditions.

1942 Maritime protection was also the principal role of the second generation of airfields. Talbenny and its sister, Dale, opened in mid-1942 and each for a time operated a squadron of Wellington bombers operating under Coastal Command. One was manned by warlike Czechs, the other by equally warlike Polish airmen.

1943 Two more airfields, at Haverfordwest (WithyBush) and Templeton, open. Neither was to adopt an operational role.

1943 Autumn St David's airfield opened

1944 Brawdy opened

These two in partnership undertook operational tasks using Halifax bombers of Coastal Command units.

Pembroke Dock had a continual flow of aircraft into and out of the Haven, many returning for major servicing at a station which became, in the mid-war years, the largest operational flying-boat base in the world. On one occasion ninety-nine flying-boats were on the water or in servicing areas around Pembroke Dock and Neyland on the opposite shore. Part of the railway yard at Neyland was converted for such a purpose and a slipway specially built.

Pembroke Dock played a key role in the Battle of the Atlantic, its flying boats helping to turn the tide against the U-Boats whose successes threatened the very ability of Britain to fight a total war. The flying-boat station was credited with many U-Boat sinkings from mid-1943 onwards, but the cost was very high in both men and machines. As a station it was known through out the Service simply as 'PD' and it is always remembered with great affection by those who had the privilege of being posted to this Haven base. Men of many nations flew from Pembrokeshire air stations, and Pembroke Dock had the distinction of welcoming the first US Navy squadron to operate in the European theatre when VP-63 flew their Catalina flying-boat into the Haven in May 1943. History was also made the same month when an Australian-manned Sunderland made a successful landing on Angle airfield after sustaining a damaged hull in a take-off at sea.

Although principally a county of RAF stations the Fleet Air Arm, operated from local air bases too. For a time they used Angle and in 1943 took over Dale. They also established a seaplane training station at Lawrenny, operating Walrus amphibians and later Kingfisher floatplanes from the upper reaches of the Haven from 1941 to 1943.

The last wartime Christmas at PD brought light relief for the RAF station's personnel when the 'Pembroke Dock Gremlins' staged Aladdin and his Aldis Lamp at the Garrison Theatre. Man behind this sell-out panto was a 228 Squadron pilot, Flight Lieutenant George Bunting.

The warmth of the festive season was soon dispelled by the cold weather of the New Year. Snow blanketed the county and severely disrupted flying-boat operations. The RAF loaned a snowplough to help clear roads from Pembroke Dock, a gesture which brought thanks from the borough Council to the Station's C.O., group Captain Guy Bolland.

VE Day

With V.E. Day in May 1945, came a new beginning and No. 228 Squadron, a Long term resident at PD, celebrated peace in style with a Gala Day at Hill Farm, Pembroke Dock. The people of the borough joined in in force, some 6,300 of them passing through the gates during the day. And there was a big attendance at the dance in the evening; 700 crowded in to dance to the RAF (BBC) broadcasting Band, leaving another 1,000 hopefuls having to listen from the outside.

Pembroke Dock had been wedding knots tied in the early weeks after the war ended but and even in peacetime sadness and death were not far away. Just days after the war ended an R.C.A.F. officer, Flying officer Benjamin Hunt, died in hospital after being struck by a lorry on a slipway in the RAF Station.

Throughout the last months of the war, men of No. 422 Squadron, R.C.A.F. had made PD their home base and on May 24th, the Canadians celebrated their third anniversary with a big parade through the town. Led by 'Pilot Officer Straddle', a black Cocker Spaniel, the Canadians smartly marched at the head of the several hundred officers and men column from Llanion Barracks to the RAF Station.

Then, in the afternoon, the Squadron played its sister unit. No. 423 Squadron, at baseball and fittingly the home team won. And a memorable day was rounded off with a dance in Llanion Gymnasium, music being provided by the R.C.A.F. Streamliners No.1 Band.

The Canadians, soon to depart from PD, were again in the news in June when sisters Margaret (Rene) and Clarice Thomas, Alberta House, Water Street, Pembroke Dock, married two Canadian servicemen at Bethel Chapel. Theirs were just two of the many marriages

The wartime secrets of Pembroke Dock were on view in September when the RAF Station staged its first 'At Home' open day. The many visitors showed particular interest in the mighty Sunderlands, which they could visit, and the radar section.

Two months later came an impressive ceremony in the RAF Church, the old Dockyard Chapel, when the Chaplain-in-Chief of the RAF dedicated a magnificent stained glass window in memory of those who flew out of Pembroke Dock during the war. Sadly, PD no longer has this fine window- it was taken from the Chapel in 1958 to the Officers' Mess at RAF Mountbatten, Plymouth but later a copy was made which was installed in public library Pembroke Dock

Peacetime

Peacetime saw reduced activity at the base, although the displays continued and Sunderlands were active in many 'Mercy missions'. In 1954 four Sunderlands of 230 Squadron carried home the Scientists of the Greenland Expedition, including some very odd passengers.. Husky dogs 1949 January 1949, PD welcomed back two squadrons of Sunderlands No's 201 and 230. These units were to remain at Pembroke Dock for eight years.

For the Sunderlands the round of exercises and training continued from PD and at times they were involved in major searches for missing ships or aircraft.

1949 July In July 1949, several Sunderlands took part in the search for a weather-recording RAF Halifax missing 500 miles west of Ireland.

1949 September Pembroke Dock re-established the traditional open day at the station. The Guardian reported: "A flight of six Spitfires from Pembrey thrilled the crowd with aerobatics performed against a perfect background of a blue afternoon sky. Mosquitoes snarled t low level over the Yard, banked and then flew in again, followed by buzzing trainer planes, thundering Lincolns and other heavies!".

1950 display suffered badly at the hands of the weather but a Vampire jet did manage a "thrilling display of aerobatics".

1951, July four 201 Squadron Sunderlands left Pembroke Dock at the start of the Longest training flight since the war, to Iceland, America, Bermuda and Jamaica. The flight was led by Squadron Leader P.A.S. Rumbold, 201's C.O.

A 230 Squadron Sunderland made headlines in August that yeas with a dramatic 1,000 mile mercy flight from inside the Arctic Circle to Dundee carrying a sick baby girl. Piloted by Wing Commander G.G.N. Barrett, AFC, the aircraft had flown scientists to Greenland in advance of a large expedition the following year.

1952 Battle of Britain air display but, as the Press recorded, the weather again intervened preventing the flypast of Washington bombers (American B-29's in RAF service) and other aircraft. However, Meteor and Vampire jets, and the noisy piston engined Harvard trainers, did perform.

Pembroke Dock's Sunderlands were to play vital roles through three summers in the success story of the British North Greenland Expedition both 201 and 230 Squadrons being involved at different times.

1953 August local Sunderlands helped in the aftermath of the devastating earthquakes in the Greek Islands, the big boats being used to bring in much-needed supplies.

Pembroke Dock's post war safety record was an enviable one but it was inevitable that flying accidents did occur from time to time, and 1954 was to be a bad year.

1954 February , Flying Officer B.S.M. Jones and his six-man crew abandoned their blazing Sunderland after making an emergency landing in Angle Bay. Five of the crew were picked up by another Sunderland (Flying Officer D.A. Austin) while the other two were rescued from the freezing waters by a marine craft.

1954 March Sunderland 'Baker' of 201 Squadron crashed in the Haven, killing seven of the 11 men on board. Flight Sergeant E.T. 'Darkie' Evans three times dived into the sinking aircraft and personally rescued two survivors, This was the worst peacetime crash at Pemboke Dock and townspeople in their hundreds attended the military funeral at Llanion Cemetery of the pilot and co-pilot.

1954 May three local Sunderlands provided escort to the Queen and the Royal Family aboard the Royal Yacht Britannia aircraft being captained by Wing Commander J.W. Louw, Flight Lieutenant Stan Bowater and Flying Officer 'Shorty' Bartram.

1954 July New air arrivals in July. These were American Navy twin-engined Marlin flying-boats which came with the US Navy's seaplane tender. USS Currituck.

The year 1955 was a royal one for Pembrokeshire and the RAF at Pembroke Dock made a special contribution to the young Queen's first visit as Sovereign to the County. The local newspapers reported the Royal visit in great detail.

1955 September RAF Pembroke Dock's last 'At Home' display, in September 1955, was perhaps the best ever, including the new Valiant jet bomber, but the home-based Sunderlands still stole the show. ...

End of the Flying boat Era

1957 RAF Pembroke Dock continued its association with the mighty Sunderland until 1957. The flying-boat squadrons, which had carried out such a variety of tasks in the post-war years, finally left the Haven early in 1957, and the station reverted to the Admiralty in 1959.

1961 It was not quite the end of the Sunderland saga locally as, in March 1961, a Sunderland latterly operated by the French Navy was donated to The Sunderland Trust for preservation and display at Pembroke Dock. This grand old lady was displayed just inside the old RAF station wall until 1971, the salt-laden atmosphere of its external location having taken a great toll of the airframe in that time. The aircraft was transferred to the RAF Museum at Hendon, London, where today it is on permanent view.

For many years until age caught up with everyone, there was a Sunderland reunion – a week Long event organised in Pembroke Dock by the RAFA club which welcomed back the multinational fliers from New Zealand, Australia, Holland and Canada were warmly remembered and welcomed by the townspeople. Among other things there was a massive exhibition of old photographs displayed in the upstairs room of the Pater Hall. John Worley was the organiser and I was an assistant. John Evans has written several books about the Sunderland. Recently the Sunderland Trust at PD (Pembroke Dock) have been endeavouring raising parts of a Sunderland from the Haven bed

Remnants of the past and memories

RAFA

In May 1948, the Pembroke Dock branch of RAFA. officially formed and took over their new HQ, a hut in Cumby Terrace given by the Station, CO. group Captain R.V. Brougham. The building was named 'Brougham Hall' after the C.O.

In the grounds of the Health Centre is a small stone plinth with the legend P & T R C commemorating the Pembroke & Tenby Railway Company in 1864,

In the middle of the roundabout, is a small brick building which contained pumping machinery, Later to be used by the Quakers. Next to the police station is the Criterion corner. 'two hotels, the Pier and the Criterion, stood here. One night during the last war, an aerial mine demolished both buildings, with great loss of life.

General Gordon stayed in Lewis Street as a young Officer.

Old Grammar School (1904) -- the Coronation

Old Town Cemetery, Park St headstone (in the north west corner) of Captain Cumby, who fought with great valour at the battle of Trafalgar, in which Nelson was killed.

Co-Op Building (1892).

1856

from record D/LLO in County Records Office Haverfordwest

The Orielton estates in Pembroke Dock (Pennar and Llanreath) and Monkton formerly the possessions of the Owen Family were purchased in 1856 & 1857 by Miss Jane Martha Jones of Cilwendeg, with part of the compensation money paid by the Government for the Skerries Lighthouse of Anglesey (D/LLO/284)

These estates and the Cilwendeg estate passed to her niece Margaretta Sutton Saurin wife of Mark Antony Saurin

1947

In March 1947. during a dreadful winter, Pembrokeshire was lashed by hurricane strength gales, 90 mph gusts being recorded at RAF Pembroke Dock. A Sunderland was one casualty after, it is believed, a collision with a small craft

1948

The New Year of 1948 was ushered in at the Garrison Theatre at a dance organised by the RAF. Music was by the Blue Stars Band and 'Miss 1948', daughter of Flight Sergeant Henry, made her appearance.

And in September 1948 the RAFA's Battle of Britain Ball was held in the RAF sports hangar. The Battle of Britain Queen that year was Miss Rona Hill,

End of Another Era

2008 The flag of the Royal Maritime Auxiliary Service (RMAS) has been lowered for the last time at its Pembroke Dock Headquarters, and establishments around the naval bases, and on its ships.

Formed in September 1970, the RMAS provided harbour tugs and pilots at naval bases in the UK and Gibraltar.

It also supplied fuel, ammunition, victualling and other stores in purpose built vessels to ships in harbour and ferried personnel to and from ships at anchor.

The RMAS also provided specialist vessels for tasks like salvage and mooring, torpedo recovery, underwater research and development and degaussing.

In 1996 the running of Marine Services was managed by Serco Denholm under a government owned/commercially operated contract. However, the RMAS continued to provide support to trials around the world with RMAS Newton, range safety and support vessels on the Raasay ranges in north west Scotland, and salvage and mooring vessels that have operated around the world.

Serco Denholm will now run all marine services for the Royal Navy following the award of a 15-year £1 billion Private Finance Initiative contract by the Marine Services team in 2007

Just an afterthought

"U-861's" Link with Pembroke Dock

This "U"boat survived a Long voyage to Penang and back in 1944 and sank five Merchant ships on route.

This submarine under Captain Jurgen Oesten then amazingly finished her active days in the Royal Naval Dockyard at Pembroke Dock.

After leaving Penang she became a "blockade" runner for the return voyage to Europe.

Upon Surrender in May 1945 at Trondheim, Norway, the Navy took her to Pembroke Dock with 20 of her German crew and proceeded to unpack her keel which was still full of contraband. She was carrying 144 tons of wolfram, iodine, tin and rubber, all desperately needed by Germany

The "U" boat was thrown open to the public from 15th to 20th of June 1945. Finally on 21st June she was officially visited by the Mayor and Mayoress of Haverfordwest and the Chairman of Milford Haven Urban District Council, with the respective District Councillors.

"U-861's" last voyage was to Lisahally, Northern Ireland where she was due to be scuttled on New Year's Eve 1945. She managed to have her tow slipped and with more defiance, had to be sunk by gunfire from the Polish destroyer "Vlaskawica" with acknowledgements to Captain Oesten of "U-861", Mr Walter Irland of Milford Haven and Dr Arthur Banks.

.....

Names associated with Pater, Pembroke Dock and Pennar

Paterchurch Names

Bastide Lt Col 1756 Director of Engineers surveyor fort Paterchurch Later
Pembroke Dock

Boston Capt 1791/2 (tenant) Pembroke St Mary's Paterchurch CRO Land Tax
Records

Bowling Mrs 1786 Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Bradley Bessy 1814 Pennar Point looked after boats for Milford Dockyard workers at Pater Dockyard

Byam Edward Antiquan Merchant Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke
Dock

Ferrior Mr 1786 Pennar Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Ferrior Mrs 1786 Pennar register of Land Tax land owned by Sir William Owen

George Meares 1665 gent Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Grenville C F 1790 Hon Paterchurch Tower Pembroke Dock Act 30 George III c
5a section 2a 26 survey

Gwynne Richard	1702 died-trustee Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Gwynne Thomas	1718 son of Richard Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Herriot ? Captain	1759 survey to purchase land at Paterchurch point
Hobbs Nicholas	4th May 1728 buried -- Paterchurch estate Pembroke Dock
Hobbs William broke Dock	1698 Eastermost House west Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Holcombe	1751- 63 family Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Hugh Lloyd	November 1701 and his wife Joan sitting and kneeling in a seat of Llanion in St Mary's Church Pembroke Hugh Lloyd and his wife Joan tenants Llanion 1710 Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock see Adams Elizabeth
John ?	1698 Cuckoos Wood Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Justley Watson	1750s Lt Col fort Paterchurch Pembroke Dock
Kinaston Thomas Pembroke Dock	1786 rented land Llanion from J F Meyrick Paterchurch estate later
Meare Margaret	1698 lent money Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Meyrick John,	who married Miss Adams , the heiress of Patrickchurch , now known by the name of Pater , in the county of Pembroke , whose son sold to the government the ground since converted into one of the royal dockyards
Meyrick J F	1791/2 owner various Properties owner occupier 1786 Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock CRO Land Tax Records
Meyrick J G	1786 Pembroke Buyerspool land tax 1786
Meyrick ? broke Dock	1813 March 10th sold land to Admiralty Paterchurch later Pembroke Dock
Owen Arthur	1704 05 24 28 Sir Pembroke Mayor son of Sir Hugh Owen and Anne was MP 1708 he died in 1753 purchased Paterchurch estate 1716 1718 W Tucker was related to his spouse Ottley MS 510 WWHR 1915
Owen George	1718 received money Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Owen John	1698 lent money Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Owen John	1760 Sir sold Paterchurch land to Board of Ordinance
Parry Jane Tax Records	1791/2 Mrs tenant Pembroke St Mary's Paterchurch CRO Land
Paterchurch David Old Pembrokeshire Families G Owen	1362 Paterchurch also held land at Sageston and West Williamson
Paterhouse David Families G Owen	1447 Paterchurch recorded as serving on a jury Old Pembrokeshire
Paterhouse Elen Adams of Buckspool Old Pembrokeshire Families G Owen	1422 Paterchurch father was David Paterhouse she married John Adams
Pilkington ? Pembroke Dock	October 12th 1812 Col Ordnance Department Paterchurch later
Roberts W Tax 1786	1786 Buyers Pool Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock Land
Stone William Dock	1812 of Plymouth Master shipwright Paterchurch later Pembroke
Tewing ? Crown	1786 Capt Pater Church Land tax 1786 Tenant land owned by the
Walker ?	1759 Captain survey to purchase land at Paterchurch point
Webb ?	1786 Mr Brewhouse Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Whelling Nicholas	1698 Ferry Hill Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
White Francis	1812 Paterchurch Farm Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
.....
Pembroke Dock and Pennar names
Abethell R	1850 Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock a leading figure in the founding of the Mechanics Institute
Ackland M Book 1895-1941	22 June 1920 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Ackland Martha 25 March 1921 9 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Adams Miss of Holyland descended from the Adams of Paterchurch married
Loring William Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock

Adams A J May 4 1904 Mr headmaster Coronation School Pembroke Dock

Adams Albert Victor 28 July 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Pembroke Dock

Adams Charles September 21 1846 foundation stone Church of St John Pembroke
Dock

Adams Eric L 23/4/1918 par Daniel & Mary Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Adams Henry Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Adams John Lady Day 1898 30 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Adams John 1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill
Pembroke Dock

Adams John May 1848 Mr headmaster quick tempered and fond of the use of a ruler British School Pembroke Dock

Adams M E Lady Day 1898 Mrs 60 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book 1895-1941

Adams Mrs 18 June 1833 of Holyland HMS Rodney christened on Pembroke
Dock

Adams ,Nora 5/10/1915 Daniel & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Albury Thomas Lady Day 1898 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Albury Thomas H 19/5/1912 par Albert & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Allan Elizabeth 1815 assistant School Middle or King Street Pembroke Dock

Allan John 1815 School Middle or King Street Pembroke Dock

Allen Lady Catherine 1843 of Woodfield was mother of the Allen Rev John Seymour M A curate of Pembroke Dock and she laid the foundation stone of St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock May 1 1894

Allen S J 1897 Alderman of Cresswell Pembroke Dock Volunteer fire brigade Deputy Mayor March 1897 Pembroke Town Council Water Committee Mayor April 12 1898 Nurses Home and Meyrick Wards North Park Street Pembroke Dock

Allen S J Mrs Nurses Home and Meyrick Wards North Park Street Pembroke Dock

Allen & Lewis E M & R 25 March 1931 Miss & Mrs Land Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen Elizabeth Jane 05 January 1926 87 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen F J L 29 September 1910 25 March 1925 73 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen George Lady Day 1898 16 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen George Lady Day 1898 Glynavon Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen Gwen 1919 teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Allen J E Lady Day 1898 25 March 1926 25 March 1941 5 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen Jane 1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Allen M J 1924 Mrs- Allen Mary Jane 16 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1924 25 March 1924 Land Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1924 16 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1938 Glyn avon Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1938 Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen Miss 12th August 1918 supplementary teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock and Albion Square School Pembroke Dock till 28th October 1935

Allen Richard 1850s senior had a shipbuilding yard on the west side of Water St Pembroke Dock Allen Richard Mr senior first follower of Wesley John in the immediate district lived Pembroke Ferry

Allen Richard Jnr shipbuilder Wesleyan Methodists Albion Square Congregational Church

Allen Ruth 1814 Miss Lewis Street early schools Pembroke Dock

Allen Ruth 1 Jan 1817 Pembroke Dock, Pembrokeshire Died 8 Feb 1881 Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah Married to Reeves, John Edward on 21 Apr 1846 at St George Street, Liverpool, Lancashire, England Married to Pollard, Joseph on 30 May 1863 at Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Allen Samual 1844 from Bethany Baptist formed Bethel Baptist Pembroke Dock admitted into the Baptist Association

Allen William Lady Day 1898 82 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March
1926 Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Allen William Lynn 1914 Oct 28 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Pembroke Dock

Anderson Cadwell 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914--19 Memorial

Anderson James E 11/7/1927 par James & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Anderson Ronald J 27/4/1928 par Harry & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Anderson Lillian G 2/11/1920 par James & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Anderson Violet M 30/9/1919 par James & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Andrews Cyril H 2/6/1896 par Robert & Hannah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Andrews D A Tuesday June 22 1897 conductor Pembroke Dock Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee

Angel John Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 10 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Angel William Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 9 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Appleby L	pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Arlow John Kellys Directory	1884 Railway Inn Llanion Terr Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Arundell Leslie Book 1895-1941	25 March 1941 5 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Ashmore Bertie Thomas Pembroke Dock	1915 Aug 10 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Ashton Tom Pembroke Dock	1915 May 13 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Astett Jean D Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	29/5/1923 par Reginald & Lily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Auckland Lord Church of St John Pembroke Dock	September 21 1846 First Lord of the Admiralty foundation stone
Augel William leyan Methodist Chapel records	1877 Ironmonger Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan Methodist
Austin D A ing Officer B S M and crew	Flying Officer RAF Pembroke Dock Sunderland rescued Jones Fly-
Austin Edward Book 1895-1941	25 October 1921 10 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Aveston Alfred W Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	4/6/1924 par William & Muriel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Aveston Robert J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	4/7/1916 par William & Muriel Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Ayres W J	1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Badger Elizabeth Jane	7 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Badger J H Lady Day 1921 10 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Badger William Lady Day 1898 25 March 1926 7 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Bageley? Olive M 27/11/1928 par Jack & Laura, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Baker Hannah 26/2/1924 par Henry & Rachel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Baker Harry November 10th 1940 fireman broke regulations and sounded air raid warning Pembroke Dock

Balfor Chas J Captain Superintendent H M Dockyard Pembroke Dock

Balfour Georgiana Caesar Pembroke Dock 21 July 1853 Lady daughter of the Earl of Cawdor launch HMS

Ball James Edgar broke Dock Dec 5 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Ball John 25 March 1926 25 March 1941 11 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Ball Samuel Ellis Cockchafer Pembroke Dock 19 February 1881 age 54 shipwright died from a fall HMS

Barnes? Derek 1953 Corporal Milford Haven RAF Pembroke Dock football team Captain

Banfield Steward A G 22/3/1914 par Charles & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Banfild William C S 30/4/1911 par Charles & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Banner Arthur Henry 03 January 1924 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Banner E H Miss Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Banner Henry ectory	1884 Swan Inn Pennar Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory
Barclay Mr Education in Wales 1847	1847 School Bufferland Pembroke Dock Report on The The State of
Barclay W Major Book 1895-1941	25 March 1941 30 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Barlow Charles J	Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Barnes Frank W, Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	25/6/1912 par Fredrick & Esther , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Barnes, Lydney J, Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	18/5/1915 par Fredrick & Esther , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Barnes, Marjorie Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	2/1/1914 par Fredrick & Esther , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Barnes Mr Records	1791/2 (tenant) Pembroke St Michs house & Garden CRO Land Tax
Barnett P J Book 1895-1941,	Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Barnikel Albert E, nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	9/1/1906 par Albert & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Barnikel T	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Barr, Betty nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	3/8/1926 par John & Ethel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Barret Miss	Wesleyan Methodists Pennar Wesley Chapel Pembroke Dock
Barrett G G N Dock 1000 mile mercy flight	August 1951 Wing Commander AFC 230 Squadron RAF Pembroke
Barrett Jackie	October 1939 (204 Squadron) awarded D F C rescued crew of the steamship Kensington Court in October 1939 RAF Pembroke Dock
Bartlett DD Rev War	Vicar St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock during the Second World

Bartlett Walter Directory 1884	1884 F C Fleet Surgean HM Dockyard Pembroke Dock Acc to Kellys
Bartley W	14 January 1941 Mrs 3 Orielson Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Bartraham?,Albert E, Pennar, Pembroke Dock	20/2/1900 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Baser Edith Annie 1934 Orielson Rent Book	29 September 1919 45 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock -25 Mar 1895-1941
Baser Marjory , Pennar, Pembroke Dock	13/9/1910 par Frederick & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Baskerville Jack	June 11th 1941 High Street Pembroke Dock killed enemy action
Baskerville P W S Mrs Rent Book 1895-1941	29 September 1927 4 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Bassett C	pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Bastide Lt Col broke Dock	1756 Director of Engineers surveyor fort Paterchurch Later Pem-
Bateman George Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke
Bateman James Dock	1820 flute Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke
Bateman William Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke
Bates L	pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Bearne R	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Beaumont Rev Dr	1848 Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock
Beavil Edward John Pembroke Dock	1915May 13 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Beazley Mr 31st December 1923 High St Sexton St Patricks Church Pennar
Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Beddoe John 25 March 1925 03 July 1925 8 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Beddoe John 25 March 1925 03 July 1925 94 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke
Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Beddoe William John 30 March 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Pembroke Dock

Beddoes Lilian M, 13/11/1906 par John & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Beech Frederick 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Beed J A 1889 Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette

Bell Ethel G, 6/10/1925 par James & Elsie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bellerby D 18 March 1941 10 Orielson Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson
Rent Book 1898-1941

Ben Albert P, 28/5/1912 par Joseph & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ben Joseph 25 March 1941 16 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Book 1895-1941

Ben Lyon S , 10/8/1909 par Joseph & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ben Olwen P , 14/2/1915 par Joseph & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ben, Reginal J , 15/10/1907 par Joseph & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ben Wilfed H , 23/5/1911 par Joseph & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Benchley Dorothy L M 2/1/1912 par Henry & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bennett A 1814 1847 dame school Middle Street early schools Pembroke Dock

Bentley William G 30/6/1931 par James & Eva, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Berkeley Captain Dock September 21 1846 foundation stone Church of St John Pembroke Dock

Berry A J Lady Day 1898 58 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Berry A 1893 trustee (who was also Chapel Steward) Wesley Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock

Berry Lorne 20 7/1920 par William & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Besant Albert 30/10/1917 par Ralph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Besant Beatrice M 3/1/1911 par Frank & Mary Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Besant F 25 October 1921 40 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Besant Ivor E 30/10/1917 par Ralph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Besant Levenson F 30/10/1917 par Ralph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Besant M A Mrs 13 January 1942 40 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Besant William W F 3/1/1911 par Frank & Mary Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Besant Winifred M 3/1/1911 par Frank & Mary Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Betsey Reynolds 1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill
Pembroke Dock 1820

Bettis David T J C 19/12/1933 par Cecil & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bevans William George Nov10 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Pembroke Dock

Beynon David F C 7/7/1931 par Albert & Rosina, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Beynon John Lady Day 1898 76 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Beynon Joseelyne C K 17/6/1930 par Rosina & Albert, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Beynon Mr November 10th 1940 and family Caledonia public house Pennar Pembroke Dock unhurt – premises badly damaged-enemy action

Beynon Rees Lady Day 1898 3 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Book 1895-1941,

Beynon Ronald A J , 2/6/1896 par Alfred & Susan , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bickford Miss 1895 Organist St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Bickford Thomas Lady Day 1898 33 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Book 1895-1941,

Biggs William J 25 March 1941 4 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Biggs William G 5 Jan 1926 5 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book
1895-1941

Birmingham Michael 8th September 1866 age 5 died Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Birmingham Thomas , John 1915 September 28 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Blackmore Olwyn M , 2/9/1934 par Robert & Muriel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Blackwood J G Lady Day 1898 17 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Blake T Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock

Blake Thomas 1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock 1820

Bliss W B October 1855 Rev early schools Pembroke Dock 1814 1847 Bethel Chapel Pembroke Dock Minister of Bethel Baptist Church Pembroke Dock 1860s

Bloomfield George 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Blunsden Margaret N ,12/6/1900 par Albert & Lene, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Blunsden J 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Blunt J Deceased before 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Bodman Sergt November 6th 1940 Police received decorations for that night enemy bombing Pembroke Dock

Bolch John 1820 played double bass Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock –New Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock was being built in 1848 died during construction

Bolland Guy Jan 1945 group Captain CO RAF Pembroke Dock RAF loaned snowplough to clear roads

Bolt H 04 January 1912 11 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent Book 1895-1941

Bond Olive 10/7/1919 par Joseph & Olive , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 * Baptism by Nurse

Bond Stanley C 25/8/1908 par Charles & Bertha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bonniwell Richard Pembroke Dock	Major Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force
Bonniwell R	burial Board Pembroke Dock
Bostock Harry 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Bostock Hugh K , Pennar, Pembroke Dock	31/12/1933 par Basil & Dorothea , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Bowden F	1905 Mr Temperance Hall school for boys Pembroke Dock
Bowen Alice Orlton Rent Book 1895-1941,	06 January 1925 Mrs 31 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Bowen D	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Bowen David Rev	1877 Jul 11 an architect Vicar Monkton Priory Church Bowen David Rev of Monkton Deputy Provincial Grand Master Past G C of England Ancient Order of FreeMasons Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock 1877 Jul 11 Monkton Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 238, Bowen Rev David 1900 Hamilton House, Pembroke Arch Camb 1900
Bowen Mr	1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Bower Samual 1914--19 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Bowling	1842 Major – The only surviving officer of the Castlemartin Yeomanry Cavalry present at the surrender French Landing at Fishguard – E Laws – Arch Camb 1883
Bowling Orlton Rent Book 1895-1941,	Messr Lady Day 1898 , 80 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Bowling A G Rent Book 1895-1941	21 August 1942 , 53 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Bowling A 1895-1941,	Lady Day 1898 Mrs Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Bowling E A	21 January 1941 31 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock , 4 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock , 9 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock 25 March 1934, 15 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock , Raymond House Llanreath Pembroke Dock 24 March 1942, Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Bowling Elizabeth Ann	21 January 1940 Bermuda House Llanreath Pembroke Dock ,
Bowling Mrs	1786 Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Bowling T G 1941,	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-
Bowling T L	25 March 1937 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Bowling T Rent Book 1895-1941,	Lady Day 1898 Mrs Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Bowling Thomas	25 March 1923 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Bowling W broke Dock	1904 of Dimond Street Lieutenant Ist V B Welsh, Regiment Pem-
Bowman Victor K nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	12/5/1931 par James & Elsie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Bowmaker Edward Pembroke Dock	1914Oct 26 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Boycott Harry 1914-18 Memorial	1915 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Boyle Neil Wales Pembroke Dock	P M P P G P Ancient Order of FreeMasons Loyal Welsh, Lodge of
Bramble ? stable at Tenby	1846 coach driver Pembroke Dock to St Clears hanged himself in a
Brassington Thomas , N 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Bray W Book 1895-1941,	Lady Day 1898 4 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Breakes Tom	22nd August 1940 Capt Chief Inspector of the Fire Brigades Divi- sion of the Home Office oil Tanks fire Pennar Pembroke Dock
Breeze Ernest 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI

Briant Mary K , 17/5/1914 par Arthur & Agnes, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Brick John 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Brighty G M 25 March 1941 84 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Brinn Stanley T P, 20/2/1923 par Thomas , & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Brinn Winifred M P , 20/2/1923 par Thomas , & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,

Brinsley George 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Broad Donald 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock Left sick before 1976 Died 1976 Asbestosis

Broad Sheila A 19/12/1933 par Thomas , & Ruth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Broad T C 25 March 1941 28 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Brock Mary H 1919 teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Brooks Clara E R 1919 teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Brooks E J 1941 Jan Pembroke Dock Flight Lieutenant based at RAF Pembroke Dock Sunderland pilot awarded the DFC The Guardian Newspaper Pembroke

Brooks Fred Nov 3 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Brooks Lilian M 6/6/1928 par Charles & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Brooks Richard L , 28/12/1930 par Charles & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Brougham Group Captain R V May 1948 Pembroke Dock branch of RAFA hut in Cumby Terrace Pembroke Dock

Brown Mr Dock 1900 Kingswood stone free to build St Teilos Church Pembroke

Brown D Hughes 1900 Solicitor Pembroke Dock Arch Camb

Brown A Ernest Book 1895-1941 25 March 1925 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Brown Alice Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 25/6/1912 par Gilbert & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Brown E 1904 assistant mistress Pennar School Pembroke Dock

Brown E M Rent Book 1895-1941 25 March 1941 Miss 13 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson

Brown Ernest Book 1895-1941 28 January 1925 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Brown G B J Book 1895-1941 25 March 1911 4 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Brown J L Book 1895-1941 2 Jan 1923 Mrs 7 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Brown Dorothy Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 18/3/1924 par Gilbert & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Brown Gladys M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 25/10/1921 par Gilbert & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Brown Hilda L nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 7/7/1911par Gilbert & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Brown Percival D Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 25/8/1918 par Gilbert & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Brown Lilian 03 Book 1895-1941 January 1939 4 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Brown Margaret Book 1895-1941	25 March 1926 13 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Brown S J Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1941 Mr 11 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Brown T Dock	Feb 9th 1904 gave alms dish to St Teilos Mission Church Pembroke
Brown Thomas Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records	1877 Gent Bush St Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan Methodist
Brown Thomas admitted into the Baptist Association	1844 from Bethany Baptist formed Bethel Baptist Pembroke Dock
Brown Thomas torical Sketches	1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist His-
Brown W J Mrs society	July 16 1892 wife of the president Pembroke Dock Co operative So-
Brown William G P 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Browne Margt Mrs elton Rent Book 1895-1941	08 January 1926 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Bryan R	1893 Rev Minister Wesley Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock
Bryant James Dr	of Pembroke the Ancient Order of Druids Pembroke Dock
Brynne Harriet Book 1895-1941	1 July 1926 77 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Bull Alfred Henry Pembroke Dock	1914 Oct 28 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Bullen Chas fought at Trafalgar	Captain who was the first Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock
Bunt Albert Hugh Church Pembroke Dock	September 12 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns,

Bunt Eleanor 21/5/1929 par William & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bunt Frederick James July 7 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Bunt Frederick G, 6/10/1931 par William & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bunt Sheila 4/10/1933 par William & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Bunting George 1944 Flight Lieutenant 228 Squadron Aladdin and his Aldis Lamp at the Garrison Theatre Christmas

Burden William Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Burgess Misses 1814 1847 Bush Street early schools Pembroke Dock

Burges Watson Mrs Wife of Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard Nurses Home and Meyrick Wards North Park Street Pembroke Dock

Burgin L Pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Burgwin Charles E 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Burleigh Leach May 12th 1941 Mrs W V S Centre Organiser for Castlemartin Heavy enemy bombing raid Pembroke Dock

Burnell G W 25 March 1935 and wife 44 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Burnell Jessie M 03 January 1939 Mrs 20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Burns William T , 2/6/1914 par Thomas , & Gertie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Burton Mrs 25 March 1940 land Upper Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book 1895-1941

Butcher Fred 28th October 1935 Albion Square School Pembroke Dock

Butler Hurbert Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	11/1/1916 par Jesse & Adeline , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Butler John broke Dock	secretary Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society Pem-
Butterworth A	pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Buxton George W, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	13/4/1915 par Gertrude , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,
Buxton Sidney J, broke Dock 1895 to 1934	12/3/1930 par Freda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pem-
Byam Edward Dock	Antiquan Merchant Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke
Byren Harriet Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1939 77 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Calnon Howard John Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1935 24 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Calnon Howard J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	13/2/1913 par Howard & Edith , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Calver Reginald Dock Acc to Frank Owen	1923 Mr Royal Dockyard Chapel Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Estate Agent Pembroke Dock 1974
Cambell William Force Pembroke Dock	Acting Captain Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence
Canham Miss	1814 1847 afterwards Mrs Venning early schools Pembroke Dock
Canton Lewis Pembroke Dock	16 July 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Canton W G Book 1895-1941,	25 March 1937 8 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Canton W J Book 1895-1941,	Lady Day 1898 8 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Carr Jean	28th October 1935 Albion Square School Pembroke Dock

Carter Coates	18th August 1923 architect designed processional Cross and Missal Stand St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Carter William 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Cartwright Reid	July 16 1892 H C E architect Pembroke Dock Co operative Society
Cashion Ernest 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Casnodyn William	Minister Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Catherall Cyril E	14/11/1899 par Edward & Margaret , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Cavill (Caville) C A	9 Jan 1940 Mr & Mrs 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori- elton Rent Book 1895-1941
Cavill Frank W	13/6/1933 par Cecil & Winifred , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Cawdor Countess	June 1863 Mechanics Institute Pembroke Dock
Cawton Alfred J	17/10/1919 par Gilbert & Naomi , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Cawton William G,	10/12/1914 par Gilbert & Florence , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Chamberlain Austen	August 13 1896 Civil Lord of the Admiralty Hobbs Point Pembroke Dock
Channon Emily	21/3/1899 par James & Mary Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Channon Margaret A	17/7/1900 par James & Mary E , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Chapman Helen	29 September 1932 Mrs 4 Orielson Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Chappell G T	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941,

Chappell James 1884 South Wales Hotel London Rd Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Kellys Directory

Chappell Joyce E 25/6/1922 par Frederick & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Chappell Vera W A 19/8/1913 par Fredrick & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Chapple John 1824,1826,1827 originally of Devonport Ancient Order of FreeMasons Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock

Charles M 1904 assistant mistress Pennar School Pembroke Dock

Charles Thomas 12 Oct 1917 34 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Chatfield Alfred J 1884 Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock

Chatfield Mrs 1884 wife of Chatfield Alfred J Captain Superintendent very concerned about the conditions that the workmen had to eat at lunchtime and through her work a dining room was built with a recreation and reading room attached

Chevalier Edgecumbe 1859 Captain 2nd Pembrokeshire Rifle Volunteers Pembroke Dock(Name Changed of Unit to) *Pembroke Dock Volunteer Artillery*1861

Chevalier Mr 1850 Mechanics Institute Pembroke Dock

Childs John 05 January 1926 2 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Chiles George Major Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Chivers William Stephen 1915 May 28 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Christie C A Captain 1884 disbanded Pembroke Dock Volunteer Artillery

Christie Miss 1814 1847 early schools Pembroke Dock

Chunn Thomas cello Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock
1820

Clark E A A Rent Book 1895-1941	14 January 1941 Mrs 15 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori- elton
Clark E A A Book 1895-1941	25 October 1926 1 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Clark E A A Rent Book 1895-1941	25 October 1921 15 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Clark E A A Rent Book 1895-1941	14 January 1941 Mrs 1 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Clarke Frederick Book 1895-1941	13 January 1942 7 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Clarke Kathleen	21 1/1913 par Arthur & Eunice , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Clarke P J Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1922 44 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Clarke R	pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Clarke Walker Rent Book 1895-1941,	Lady Day 1898 16 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Clayton F G Rent Book 1895-1941	25 October 1921 42 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Clement T H	November 6th 1940 Mr a clerk in the Pembroke Dock branch of Barclays Bank injured by enemy action Pembroke Dock
Clements John Pembroke Dock	Jan 22 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Clemmow W broke Dock	1877 B A Mr Headmaster Higher Grade Albion Square School Pem-
Clerk George D J	13/4/1924 par Frederick & Esther , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Cloughers	1834 book shop Pembroke Dock

Clun Mr 25 Sep 1814 (Issuer of Stores) first houses Thomas , St (Front St)
Pembroke Dock

Cockburn Mrs 1844 of Rhoscrowther launch of the two decked HMS Centurion
Pembroke Dock

Cocks Captain April 10 1869 burial Board Pembroke Dock St Andrews Calvinistic Methodist Chapel Pembroke Dock a master mariner and timber Merchant 1860 died age 89 in 1891

Cocks Mr and Mrs May 1854 headmaster and mistress British School Pembroke Dock

Codd David W, 31/10/1916 par Thomas , & Florence, Baptisms at St Patricks
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Codd George S, 25/2/1914 par Thomas , & Florence, Baptisms at St Patricks
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Codd James S 16/1/1912 par Thomas , & Florence, Baptisms at St Patricks
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Codd, Lilian I 16/1/1912 par Thomas , & Florence, Baptisms at St Patricks
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cohen Mr Apr 24 1923 of Milford Haven addressed the Scouts St Teilos Mis- sion Church Pembroke Dock

Coldrick Amy R 11/8/1914 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Dorothy M 20/3/1918 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Francis J 17/1/1905 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Francis J 24/10/1911 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Harry D 16/4/1907 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Helen E 9/12/1902 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Joseph 25 October 1914 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock sidesman
St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 31st December 1923 Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941
Church Minute Book

Coldrick Louisa, 25/5/1909 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coldrick Margaret A 18/12/1900 par Joseph & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cole Ada M , 13/4/1897 par Walter & Ada, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cole E Miss 12 January 1942 2 Gothic Cottages Owen St Pennar Pembroke
Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Cole Esther Lady Day 1898 28 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book 1895-1941,

Cole George 25 Oct 1920 10 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Cole Henry Lady Day 1898- 25 March 1941 67 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke
Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Cole James 1844 Mason worked on the Defencible Barracks Pembroke Dock still alive Aug 1914 – Vernon Scott

Cole Stella M R, 2/12/1930 par Henry & Gertrude, Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coleman Margaret R 4/4/1920 par Charles & Dorothy, Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coleman Michael K 5/6/1923 par Charles & Dorothy, Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Coles Winifred M 26/3/1912 par Edward & Annie, Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Collen Gwendoline M 1/11/1910 par Montague & Edith, Baptisms at St Patricks Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Colley Clara E , 24/11/1896 par Thomas , & Mary J, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Colley Mary Mrs 29 September 1915 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Collins D H Lady Day 1898 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Collins Daniel 1884 Chief Inspector of Police Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock Acc to Kellys Directory

Collins Ruth M 29/5/1923 par Henry & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Collins R G 25 March 1926 1 Gothic Cottages Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941

Collins R School Board Pembroke Dock

Collins W H 25 March 1926 1 Gothic Cottages Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941

Constantious II 337 to 361AD Roman coin found Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock

Cook Arthur G S 11/4/1916 par George & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cook H Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock

Cook Jane 25 March 1941 Mrs 2 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941

Cook William 1824 of Devonport Worshipful Master Ancient Order of FreeMasons Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock

Cookson J W 1976 Pembroke Dock H M Marine and Salvage Depot

Cooley E Jane Lady Day 1898 15 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Cooley E Jane Lady Day 1898 16 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941,

Cooley W F & W J Book 1895-1941	25 March 1941 15 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Cooley W F & W J Book 1895-1941 25 March 1941	25 March 1941 16 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Coombes B	1976 Pembroke Dock H M Marine and Salvage Depot
Coombes William 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Cooms Dock	Commissioner 1883 Salvation Army January Albion Hall Pembroke
Copplestone Miss	1814 1847 early schools Pembroke Dock
Copplestone William Vallick	1877 Foreman H M Dockyard Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records
Cork Sidney A	4/2/1928 par Sidney & Violet , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Cornes William E 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Cornish Martha Annie Rent Book 1895-1941	25 Mar 1907-1935 16 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Cornish Richard broke Dock	president Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society Pem-
Correl I James H 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Cory Richard Room Pennar Pembroke Dock	1877 esq. of Cardiff --foundation stone Gilgal Baptist Chapel School
Cotton Joseph 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Courtney R W	Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock
Cousins F	1976 Pembroke Dock H M Marine and Salvage Depot

Cousins George 1884 Dock Gate Inn Melville St (also a Baker) Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Cox Clara M W 1/5/1917 par Henry & Mary , Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cox F H 1893 Pembroke Dock CRO Haverfordwest St Patricks minutes

Cox Josiah August 12 1880 Rev Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock

Cozens Alfred station master at Lamphey printed The Pembrokeshire Times Bush Street Pembroke Dock

Craddock H Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock

Cronin Maurice 25 March 1939 46 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Crooker E J 25 March 1941 3 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Rent Book 1895-1941 25 March 1926

Crooker, Joyce I 19/3/1922 par Edward & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Crosby Olive B 30/4/1912 par Norman & Olive, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cross K G 1894 Lord Conservative Club Bush Street Pembroke Dock

Crowther Walter 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Crutchley Elizabeth A 7/10/1930 par Herbert & Gladys, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Crutchley Stanley 25 March 1936 12 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Cullen A C 1904 assistant mistress Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Cullen Patrick 26/6/1934 par Christopher & Marguerite, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cullen W 1904 assistant mistress Pennar Infants School Pembroke Dock

Cullin E 31 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Cullum Jessie 1922-1936 Mrs 41 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Cullum Mary E 27/3/1923 par Thomas , & Jessie, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Cumby Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock buried in Park St Cemetary had fought at Trafalgar

Cutler Janet M 28/8/1928 par Joseph & Florence, Baptisms at St Patricks Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Daniels Robert 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Darlington T A J 25 March 1925 23 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Darlington Alfred 8/8/1916 par Thomas & Lily Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Darlington Arthur T 17/11/1908 par Thomas & Lily Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Darlington Edwin G 15/2/1910 par Thomas & Lily Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Darlington George J 15/1/1907 par Thomas & Lily Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Darlington Stanley C 7/5/1912 par Thomas & Lily Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Darnell K A Mrs 09 August 1941 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Davey William Dock 29 September 1909 Roseven Samble Cottage Llanreath Pembroke

Davidson John Pembroke Dock Captain Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force

Davies & Bessant J H & Mrs E M 25 March 1941 9 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941

Davies known as Morgan Evan C 18/3/1907 par Sarah Ann Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Albert S 10/5/1898par Harry & Maria Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Alfred E 10/11/1914par Henry & Maria Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies and Bessant J H & Mrs E M 01 April 1941 9 Grove St Penner Pembroke Dock

Davies Benj Book 1895-1941 Lady Day 1898 10 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent

Davies Claressa M 28/2/1905 par Richard & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies D T 1916 Rev pastor Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock died age 37 1927

Davies Daniel Directory 1884 Foresters Inn Kings St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys

Davies David 1893 Rev Minister resign 1899 died Swansea September 27th 1900 Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Davies David H G 18/8/1931 par David & Hamental Kazia Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Dennis M 6/11/1900 par Evan & Agnes Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Dennis R 11/2/1930 par Norman & Francis Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Dianne F 24/9/1931 par Norman & Francis Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Doris F 5/8/1923 par Richard & Amy Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Dorothy M 12/7/1910 par William & Ellen Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Dorothy G 1/9/1896 par Richard & Sarah E Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Dorothy K 10/1/1899 par Richard & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies E 24 May 1937 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Davies E 1904 assistant mistress National School Pembroke Dock

Davies E 1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Davies Edward P 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Davies Edwin Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 1 & 2 Orielson Rent Book
1895-1941

Davies Effie M E 17/1/1915 par Stephen & Ethel Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Elizabeth Lady Day 1898 2 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Davies Evan Rev BethelChapel Pembroke Dock

Davies F 1904 assistant mistress Albion Square Infants School Pembroke Dock

Davies Florence A 16/5/1916 par William & Ellen Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Francis 1791/2 Mrs tenant Pembroke St Mary's Banjeston(Now Pembroke Dock) CRO Land Tax Records

Davies Fredrick W 1/8/1899 par David & Margaret Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies G F May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Pembroke Dock

Davies G P Dock May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Juniors Pembroke Dock

Davies G V Rent Book 1895-1941 25 March 1941 33 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Davies George Book 1895-1941 25 March 1935 15 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies George Book 1895-1941 01 April 1935 29 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies George Book 1895-1941 01 April 1935 37 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies George Book 1895-1941 01 April 1935 6 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies George Book 1895-1941 25 Oct 1918 9 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies George Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941 01 April 1935 37 & 29 Owen St +6 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock

Davies George Dock 8th September 1866 age 5 months buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Davies George H 1844 from Bethany Baptist formed Bethel Baptist Pembroke Dock admitted into the Baptist Association

Davies George Price broke Dock Oct 9 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns Church Pembroke Dock

Davies George Theobald Methodist Chapel records 1877 Postmaster Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan

Davies George Theobald	Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress
Davies Gladys Victoria Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1926 33 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Davies Henry Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Davies J Ben March 1926	Lady Day 1898 Fern Cottage Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25
Davies James H Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	9/1/1912 par Thomas & Kate Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Davies James Chapel Pembroke Dock died aged 61	28th September 1900 deacon St Andrews Calvinistic Methodist
Davies James Walter	of Pembroke Dock window in Bosheston Church
Davies Jean P Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	1/10/1929 par James & Winifred Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Davies Joe escaped injury	November 10th 1940 Bethany Corner Pembroke Dock enemy attack
Davies John 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 Upper Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Davies John W Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	26/11/1927 par Evan & Margaret Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Davies John Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 63 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Davies John Rent Book 1895-1941	02 January 1923 80 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Davies John Methodist	Rev of Mead Lodge Gershom Chapel Pembroke Dock Calvinistic
Davies Joseph Thomas Book 1895-1941	26 March 1926 20 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies Leslie H 17/5/1932 par Arthur & Gwendolene Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Lewis September 7 1868 killed in an attack against pirates off the coast of Borneo memorial St John's Church Pembroke Dock

Davies Lily Mrs Fern Villa Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941 25 March 1926

Davies M A 14 January 1941 Mrs 20 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Davies M 1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Davies M M Mrs 15 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Davies Margt Lady Day 1898 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Davies Martha 13/1/1918 par William & Martha Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Mary C 20/8/1929 par Rev Rhys Davies & Gwyneth Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Mary February 8th 1889 of Bentlass 13 year old died Bentlas to Pennar Ferry Pembroke Dock servant to Griffiths Mary Ann

Davies Misses 1814 1847 of Cleddau House Bush Street and of Upper Meyrick Street early schools Pembroke Dock

Davies Muriel J 26th April 1880 insubordination Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Davies Olwen C J 24/2/1915 par William & Ellen Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Owen June 22 1897 Mrs of Waterloo House Pembroke Dock Queen Victorias Diamond Jubilee on Tuesday June 22 1897

Davies Owen 1976 Wife had Mark's Curtain Shop Queen's St Pembroke Dock-- electrician H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Davies Rev Oct 4th 1951 of Llangwm pastor Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke
Dock

Davies Rev Dr Albion Square Congregational Church

Davies Richard 26/11/1927 par Richard & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Richard 26/11/1927 par Richard & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Robert George 9 3 1952 par Robert & Harriet baptism St Petrox Church

Davies Ronald I 17/2/1930 par Ivor & Iris Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar
Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies S O November 9th 1940 Miss teacher Albion Square School Pembroke
Dock absent suffering from shock following the destruction of her home by enemy action

Davies Spencer rigger H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock 1976

Davies Stanley E 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Davies Susannah 80 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Davies Sydney J 7/5/1901 par Richard & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Tom 1976 fitter H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock 1976

Davies T G 25 March 1941 30 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Book 1895-1941

Davies Thomas 25 March 1926 12 Fleet St Penner Pembroke Dock

Davies Thomas C 30/1/1900 par John & Susan Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Thomas J 8/2/1934 par William & Marjorie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Thomas Book 1895-1941 05 January 1926 9 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies Thomas Kellys Directory 1884 Landshipping Inn Queens St, Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock

Davies Thomas Charles Rent Book 1895-1941 14 January 1942 80 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Davies Thomas Henry Book 1895-1941 14 January 1941 30 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Davies Thomas Lewis Rent Book 1895-1941 29 September 1914 98 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Davies W 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Davies W G elton Rent Book 1895-1941 14 January 1941 Mrs 2 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-

Davies W H 17 March 1941 9 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Davies W J Distress 1860s Queen Street East Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of

Davies W broke Dock 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pem-

Davies Wilfred G 12/6/1900 par Henry & Maria Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies Wilfred G 18/8/1931 par David & Hamental Kazia Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies William J 7/5/1901 par John & Elizabeth Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies William M 28/4/1896 par William J& Mary Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Davies William Dock 1820 flute Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke

Davies William E Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 24/3/1908 par Thomas & Elizabeth Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Davies William G Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 19/1/1906 par John & Elizabeth Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Davies William 1867-1878 Rev pastor of Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock

Dawe Thomas Kellys Directory 1884 Schoolmaster Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock Acc to

Dawes Queene nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 25/4/1916 par James & Selina Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Dawes James T nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 6/3/1918 par James & Selina Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Dawkins Gladys M Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 23/2/1915 par William & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Dawkins John Henry Pembroke Dock May 27 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns Church

Dawkins Jonas 1865 Mrs Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock

Dawkins Percy W Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 9/3/1916 par Percy & Ada Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar

Dawkins William burial Board Pembroke Dock

Dawkins William 1860s of Albion House Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Dis-tress

Dawson Henry 19 February 1881 Staff Surgeon Pembroke Dock

Deakin Albert J nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 2/10/1928 par Albert & Annie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Deakin Albert C nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 19/4/1932 par Albert & Annie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Deakin Arthur A 5/7/1921 par Henry & Freda Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Deakin Edna May 25/5/1920 par Henry & Freda Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Deakin Gwendoline E 2/10/1923 par Henry & Freda Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Deakin William J 22/10/1930 par Albert & Annie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Denison John Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock

Denyel Philip 1327 -1328 reeve Kyngiswode Ministers Account 1208 No 5 52-NB old manor of Kyngiswode now included in Pembroke Dock

Denzey F E 25 March 1921 18 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Denzey? Francis J 2/11/1920 par Frederick & Margaret Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Denzey John 3 Feb 1921 Mr 18 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Detheridge Freda M 6/1/1912 par Thomas & Kezia Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Devereux Gabriel Rev first pastor of Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock died January 12 1833 age twenty six years buried in the graveyard of the Chapel

Devonald F 1904 assistant mistress Albion Square Infants School Pembroke Dock

Devonald W Lady Day 1898 9 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Dibble A 29 September 1921 Mrs 3 Front St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Dibble R H Lady Day 1898 Gardens Owen St Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Dier Stanley Pembroke Dock	1914 Oct 19 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns Church
Disney M	and others 17 Military Rd Pennar
Dobornson R Book 1895-1941	25 March 1921 5 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Dobornson W G	January 24 1901 Pembroke Dock Journal
Donovan M	25 March 1906 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke 10 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1933 Land Upper Pennar Pembroke Dock was farmer Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941
Donovan G M	22nd August 1940 Mr 10 Ferry road Pennar Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941
Donovan M & D E Book 1895-1941	25 March 1934 Pill House Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
DooLey M E	5 Mar 1913 25 March 1939 34 Owen St 35 Owen St 36 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941
Dowling H M formed September	1942 Headmaster County School Flight of the Air Training Corps
Driscoll F	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Drury Gordon 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Duckworth H elton Rent Book 1895-1941	25 Mar 1939 Upper Llanreath House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Ori-
Dunmall Henry Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady day 1898 14 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Dunn A V Book 1895-1941	12 Jan 1926 14 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Dunn Annie Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1940 Mrs 14 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Dunn George Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 8 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock 242 Orielton
Dunn Dunn J broke Dock 1895 to 1934	7/6/1934 par Frederick & Dunn Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Dunn James Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 3 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Dunn Samual	1820 Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock
Durnford William Dock Kellys Directory	1884 Rose and Crown Queen St East Inns and Hotels Pembroke
Dutton Catherine B Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	20/8/1907 par Henry & Amelia Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Dutton Edward Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	20/8/1907 par Henry & Amelia Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Dutton William H Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	27/4/1909 par Henry & Amelia Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Dutton Mrs Dockyard	3 May 1922 launched Royal Fleet Auxiliary Oleander Pembroke
Dyer John Hill Pembroke Dock	1820 first violin and leader Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack
Dyke Mrs Book 1895-1941	25 March 1925 4 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Dyke G M Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1939 Mrs 4 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Dyke James Book 1895-1941	06 January 1925 3 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Dyer Winifred I nar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	21/3/1905 par Sydney & Elsie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Dyson Frank J Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	16/6/1903 par John & Margaret Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Dyson Fredrick 29/3/1910 par John & Margaret Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Earwaker Elizabeth Sarah Oct 1 1848 daughter of William and Jemina Earwaker baptized – St John's Church Pembroke Dock

Eastlake Thomas 1851 played harmonium Trinity Chapel Meyrick St Pembroke Dock

Eastlake Mrs 1814-1847 girls school in the upper house in Charlton Place early schools Pembroke Dock

Edie W Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock who was one of the original committee that formed the Dockyard School

Edmond , Arthur J 28/3/1899 par Edward? & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Edmond William C 22/1/1901 par Leaward & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Edmunds G 1907 Organist St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock St Patrick's Church Record's

Edwards B D J 31 March 1942 13 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards B 25 March 1939 Garden Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards C Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards ,Cyril 28/5/1931 par David & Myra, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Edwards D 1904 Miss Headmistress National School Pembroke Dock

Edwards David 25 March 1940 2 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards Eileen A M 30/5/1920 par Thomas , & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Edwards ,Ernest C 29/7/1933 par Joseph & Agnes, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Edwards Esther 16/5/1933 par Joseph & Agnes, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Edwards F pre1976 Deceased Pembroke Dock H M Marine and Salvage Depot

Edwards F W 25 March 1934 New Swan Inn 4 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards G L May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Juniors Pembroke Dock

Edwards George 25 March 1923 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards George Lady Day 1898 13 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941 25 March 1926

Edwards Ivan Mrs 69 Military Rd Pennar Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards J H 27 April 1942 15 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Doc Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards James Lady Day 1898 24 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards John Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards John Lady Day 1898 6 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards John September 14 1904 laid memorial stone of a new schoolroom Beth-any Chapel Pembroke Dock

Edwards M & R 25 March 1925Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards M 1904 assistant mistress Pennar Infants School Pembroke Dock

Edwards M Jane Lady Day 1898 3 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Edwards M elton Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1940 Miss 32 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Edwards Mary & Robert Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori elton Rent
Edwards Mary Anne broke Dock	20th December 1877 headmistress Albion Square Girls School Pem-
Edwards Miriam elton Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1926 Miss 32 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Edwards Miss(Sketch) any Chapel Pembroke Dock	September 14 1904 laid memorial stone of a new schoolroom Beth-
Edwards Miss	22 March 1917 resigned Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock
Edwards Misses	1814 1847 bottom of Tregennas Hill early schools Pembroke Dock
Edwards ,Phyllis M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	28/8/1900par Edwin & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Edwards Robert Rent Book 1895-1941	29 September 1924 23 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori elton
Edwards S J Rent Book 1895-1941	25 Mar 1941 Mrs 13 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori elton
Edwards T J Book	25 Mar 1941 3 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori elton Rent
Edwards Thomas Dock Ori elton Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 Pembroke House Military Rd Pennar Pembroke
Edwards Thomas James Book 1895-1941	25 March 1926 3 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori elton Rent
Edwards V	1976 Pembroke Dock H M Marine and Salvage Depot
Edwards W Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 6 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori elton Rent
Edwards W A Rev	pastor Upper Meyrick Street Congregationalists Chapel

Edwards William Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 1 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Edwards William J nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	5/11/1898 par Edwin & May, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Edwards William Book 1895-1941	25 March 19266 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Edwards William George 1895-1941	6 Jan 1925 3 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Edye Mrs	26 April 1843 Foundation Stone National School Pembroke Dock
Edye William Dock	26 April 1843 the Master shipwright National School Pembroke
Eggleton V	pre1976 Pembroke Dock H M Marine and Salvage Depot
Eisenhower Dwight D Regiment at Llanion Barracks	1944 General Supreme Allied Commander inspected 110th Infantry Pembroke Dock
Eldridge ? a new Church Pembroke Dock	1840 had previously a rope walk – Bush Estate site for the erection of
Ellard Mrs	1814 1847 mixed school Princes Street early schools Pembroke Dock
Elliot A George Rent Book 1895-1941	25 Mar 1941 Edgefield House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton
Elliott A George 1895-1941	25 March 1926 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Elliot Henry Kellys Directory	1846 Railway Hotel Gwyther St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Elliott George Rent Book 1895-1941	15 Jan 1926 Edgefield House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton
Elliott Sidney Thomas Pembroke Dock	March 20 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Ellis R G 25 March 1940 Lily Cottage Llanreath Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941 Pembroke Dock

Elsey Gladys M E 3/2/1920 par William & Maud, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Emment Arthur G 25/3/1924 par Reginald & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Emment Mrs 25 Mar 1941 7 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Emment Mrs November 10th 1940 Bethany Corner Pembroke Dock escaped injury

Emment Thomas , 7 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Emment Thomas , 1919 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Emmerson J T 1874 JP Jacobs Pill Pembroke Dock Dir Milford Haven Shipbuilding Co

Emmerson William 1884 Prospect Tavern 16 Prospect Place Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Essery Ivor T S 16/9/1917 par Thomas , & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Evans ?W 27th September 1911 Rev 97 Laws St minister Llanreath Calvanistic Methodist Chapel

Evans A 25 Mar 1941 Mrs 58 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Killed by enemy action

Evans A R 1904 assistant mistress Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Evans Alfred 25 March 1925 3 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Evans Allan V 23/5/1916 par Charles & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Evans Annie B M 8/3/1929 par David & Beatrice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Evans Annie 24 January 1941 Mrs 58 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-elton Rent Book 1895-1941

Evans Benjamin F 29 September 1904 33 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-elton Rent Book 1895-1941

Evans Benjamin T 25 March 1933 33 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-elton Rent Book 1895-1941

Evans C P 17 December 1925 19 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-elton Rent Book

Evans Daniel 1902 15 May new Infirmary Pembroke Union Workhouse

Evans David Edgar Nov 13 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Evans Denis B 20/2/1923 par Charles & Doris, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Evans Donald 20/3/1927 par Charles & Doris, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Evans Dorothy E M 17/11/1912 par John & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Evans E T “Darkie” Flight Sergeant rescued two survivors from crashed Sunder-land RAF Pembroke Dock

Evans Elias Minister Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Evans George 31 May 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Evans Helena 04 January 1926 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-elton Rent Book 1895-1941

Evans Henry 1870 shipwright Baptist local preacher later minister Gilgal Baptist Chapel – Rev pastor Gilgal Baptist Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock died November 22 1904

Evans J C Book 1895-1941	05 January 1926 19 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Evans J R Rent Book	05 January 1926 6 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Evans Jack	1 April 1944 Pembrokeshire Constabulary
Evans James 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Evans John Martin Pembroke Dock	Feb12 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Evans Lewis Methodist died October 16th 1863 aged 41 years	1861 Rev Neyland Church Zion South Pembrokeshire Calvinistic Gershom Calvinistic Methodist Chapel Pem- broke Dock
Evans Mary Elizabeth Treharne	1941 May 12th Pembroke Dock landlady of the Prince Albert public house killed when it received a direct hit from an enemy bomb Vernon Scott
Evans Mr	1885 pastor Llanreath Calvanistic Methodist Chapel
Evans Mrs in the town	1857 of Queen St Pembroke Dock first of the eight to die of smallpox
Evans Mrs Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock	November 10 1879 of Trinity Wharf Wesleyan Methodists Trinity
Evans Neville R Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	18/11/1930 par John & Winifred , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Evans Pansy J nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	15/10/1918 par John & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Evans Prunella Y A Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	1/6/1927 par John & Winifred , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Evans S A Mrs Book	25 March 1908 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Evans Sarah Church Zion South Pembrokeshire Calvinistic Methodist	1859 Mrs nee Williams Bufferland Pembroke Dock Neyland

Evans Sidney Howell Book 1895-1941	25 Mar 1939 3 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Evans Thelma J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	23/5/1916 par Charles & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Evans Thomas 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Evans Violet M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	27/6/1905 par James & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Evans W Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 13 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Evans W	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Evans William Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 5 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1940
Evans William E Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1926 72 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Evans William M A Rev Dock	St Andrews and Gershom Calvinistic Methodist Chapel Pembroke
Evans William	1860s Rev M A Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress sec- retary Pembroke Dock auxiliary of the Bible Society
Evans William Chapel Pembroke Dock	September 14 1904 laid memorial stone of a new schoolroom Bethany
Evans William E Rent Book	08 January 1926 74 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Everest Eileen R Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	20/8/1912 par William & Emily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Everest Lydia D Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	15/8/1911 par William & Emily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Eynon E	1904 assistant mistress Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock
Eynon George Book	25 Mar 1941 4 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Eynon Mary Lady Day 1898 11 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Eynon Rufus Lady Day 1898 14 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Eynon W Lady Day 1898 4 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Fairfax George E 2/10/1923 par Tom & Deborah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Falcon Gordon Thomas June 1st 1848 Colonel 1st Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard
Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Farley Stanley H 19/12/1926 par Herbert & Anne, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Farrant Peter H 16/5/1929 par Albert & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Farrant Sheila F 31/1/1933 par Albert & Freda, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Farrington Edward Dec 5 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pem- broke Dock

Faukner F W 25 March 1938 41 Military Rd & 43 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke
Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Faulkner Geffrey D 2/11/1932 par Frederick & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Fender Mary 1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke
Dock

Fernaess John 25 March 1926 Old Farm House Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke
Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Ferrier Simon 1815 son of Ferrier James Pennar died at the Battle of Waterloo leading his regiment the 1st Lifeguards in a charge for the eleventh time although already badly wounded

Ferrior Benjm 1791/2 tenant Pembroke St Mary's Pennar CRO Land Tax Records

Ferrior Charles	13 June 1863 Col died, he had served in India for 28 years Pennar
Pembroke Dock	his father was Col Simon Ferrior who died at Waterloo
Ferrior Jenkin	1739 Pembroke Mayor WWHR 1915
Ferrior Jenkin	1751 Pembroke Mayor WWHR 1915
Ferrior Jenkin Pembs WWHR 1915	1769,71,74,80 Pembroke Mayor Monument inscribed at St Brides
Ferrior Mr	1786 Pennar Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Ferrior Mrs	1786 Pennar register of Land Tax land owned by Sir William Owen
Fester Thomas	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Field William James	1899 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Fields William James	25 March 1927 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 7a
Figg Albert J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	18/3/1932 par Arthur & Maggie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Fincham J L	1850s Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock who lived in Bush St when he retired His son in law was McHugh Rev G curate of St Johns, Church Died after being thrown from his horse opposite the Pier Hotel and is buried at Cosheston
Fisher J Dock	May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Juniors Pembroke
Fisher M	1904 Miss assistant mistress National School Pembroke Dock
FitzGerald Charles Penrose Pembroke Dock	1893 -95 Admiral Captain Superintendent of the Dockyard
FitzPatrick J P Book 1895-1941	25 March 1924 12 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Fleming Henry 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Fletcher William H 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI

Folland F 1976 rigger H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Follett Robert 4/2/1908 par Robert & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Forman ,John S 3/11/1903 par Charles & Jane, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Forster Hilda M 25/1/1898 par Walter & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Forward Isaac T 10/5/1898 par John & Eliza, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Foster George 25 Mar 1941 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Foster O E P 14 January 1942 Miss 31 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Foster Ruby 28/7/1914 par May, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Foster W G 14 January 1942 New Swan Inn 4 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Fox William 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Francis James 25 March 1904 30 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Francis Thomas 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Frise Samual 1884 Star Inn 17 Water St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Froyne J C 1834 Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock Pembroke Dock-yard Apprentice Born 1834 After he retired in 1895 lived Pembroke, Mayor also JP

Fulcher John 1884 Globe King St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Furlong Miss 1814 early schools Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales 1847

Furlong Miss's 1847 School Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales 1847

Furness Joan M 17/7/1917 par Frank & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gaddie Fredrick C, 25/2/1903 par Fredrick & Henrietta, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gammack Douglas J A 16/5/1925 par Douglas & Alberte, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Garbett Cecilia E M , 8/6/1915 par Thomas & Lucy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gardner Thomas V, 8/3/1910 par William & Blanche, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Garlick Haydn Edward 26 7 1964 par Edward & Sylvia baptism St Petrox Church

Garrett J J 25 March 1941 14 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock & 9 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Garrity Edith M 25/10/1898 par William & Harriet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gascoigne Mary A E 28/7/1896 par William & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gascoigne Lilian G 22/12/1903 par William & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gascoigne William C B 21/2/1899 par William & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gascoyne Robert T H 10/9/1901 par William & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gaviett J J 25 March 1926 9 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Gaviett J J Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1939 Mr 14 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Gay David broke Dock	November 11th 1862 Deacon Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pem-
Gay Martha Rent Book 1895-1941	03 January 1922 Mrs Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Gay Mrs Church Pennar Pembroke Dock	31st December 1923 District Visitor Poor relief Fund St Patricks
Gayton ?	1814 1847 Mr Laws Street North early schools Pembroke Dock
Geach Ivy E Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	10/5/1921 par Frank & Bessie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
George E L P Dock	May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Juniors Pembroke
George , Edward nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	11/5/1915 par David & Clare Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
George Eli Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	29/1/1918 par Eli & Mary Jane , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
George Ernest James Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	17/3/1896 par Robert & CAmelia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
George Gwendolene A M, 22/12/1914 par Eli & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
George H	pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
George Hitchins	school Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales
George Iris M Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	31/3/1920 par Eli & May , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,
George Maud Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	11/2/1896 par William & Martha , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
George Victor E Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	22/8/1922 par Eli & Mary Jane , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

George William T H 10/6/1913 par Eli & Mary Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

German Jane E Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book,

Gibbs George 1825 double bass music for Services ---Tabernacle Congregational Chapel Pembroke Dock

Gibby ? 1903 Mr carted stone free St Teilos Church Pembroke Dock

Gibby Catherine 18846 Salutation Inn Lewis St Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Gibby Edward September 5nd 1940 Bierspool House damage by enemy action - no injuries Pembroke Dock

Gibby Elizabeth A 1919 teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Gibby Elizabeth Ann 24th September 1919 Head Teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Gibby Dunn K , 12/12/1911 par Richard & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gibby Joe 1940 Alderman landlord Bird in Hand trapped by falling Masonry injured foot during Air Raid

Gibby ,John R, 12/12/1911 par Richard & Alice Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gibby W H Lady Day 1898 20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book,

Gibby ,William L 12/12/1911 par Richard & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gibby Winifred A 13/8/1918 par William & Winifred, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Gilbert Lewis J 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Gilbertson R D 1923 Rev MA Chaplain Royal Dockyard Chapel Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock

Giles Dean 17 7 1977 par Brian & Diane baptism Bosheston Church

Gillas M E 25 March 1918 Mrs 27 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book,

Gillas Walter Lady Day 1898 27 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book,

Gillie Walter Lieutenant Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Gillies E J 5 Jan 1926 1 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock & 3 Nelson St Pen- nar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Glanville James 1861 Quit notices Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Glanville Louise C Lady Day 1898 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book,

Glanville ? December 11 1845 Objected to site use of the Park St Cemetery stated other ground should be selected for the Church Pembroke Dock

Goddard Evelyn M 16/2/1898 par Edward & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Goddard George 17/2/1904 par Edward & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Goffin J W 25 March 1920 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Gold Sydney L 26/2/1913 par Job & Kate, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,
Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Golesworthy S A 25 March 1908 Mrs Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Good ? Mr master Dockyard School for apprentices

Goodenough ? Feb 9th 1904 Rev MA RN gave Candlesticks to St Teilos Mission
Church Pembroke Dock

Goodrick Rosina A 12/5/1931 par Robert & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Goodridge Mary Ann Rent Book 1895-1941	29 September 1903 24 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Goostry Herbert 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Gordon ? 1855 Lt Royal Engineers [Roman Coin] Gothicus Claudius	Paterchurch Battery Pembroke Dock 268 to 270 AD Coins found Pennar
Gover Harry broke Dock	January 1883 Captain and his wife Salvation Army Albion Hall Pembroke Dock
Goward Charles broke Dock	Rev pastor Upper Meyrick Street Congregationalists Chapel Pembroke Dock
Graham A elton Rent Book 1895-1941	13 January 1942 Mrs 48 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Graham R	1976 Fitter H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Grant Jones Frank	1919 Organist St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Greaves N	25 March 1939 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Green James H 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Green John Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Green John Methodist Chapel records	1877 Grocer Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan
Green John	Wesleyan Methodists Pennar Chapel Pembroke Dock
Green Miss Ferry Pembroke Dock	November 10 1879 Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke
Greenland ,Arthur D nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	18/5/1915 par Henry & Ethel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Greenland Blanche nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	10/1/1911 par Henry & Ethel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Greenslade H F Book 1895-1941	25 Mar 1941 12 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Greenslade ? Dock escaped injury from bomb blast-- died February 1965	November 10th 1940 Police Constable Bethany Corner Pembroke
Grenville C F 5a section 2a 26 survey	1790 Hon Paterchurch Tower Pembroke Dock Act 30 George III c
Gribbell ? Pembroke Dock	October 12 1842 Independent Order of Rechabites Friendly Society
Grice Harold 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Grieve A F Book 1895-1941	25 March 1934 12 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Grieve B	1905 Miss school for small children in Bush Street Pembroke Dock
Grieves Norman	11 January 1939 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Griffiths A T	31 December 1918 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Griffiths A J	25 March 1933 Mr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Griffiths Alice M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	11/8/1914 par Howard & Sarah Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Griffiths C J	1904 Miss Headmistress Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock
Griffiths Cath Jane Rent Book,	Lady Day 1898 72 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Griffiths Cath Jane broke Dock	Lady Day 1898 Orielton Rent Book , 74 Military Rd Pennar Pem-
Griffiths , Daisy nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	6/4/1909 par James & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Griffiths Douglas J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	9/9/1930 par Thomas & Annie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Griffiths E	May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Pembroke Dock
Griffiths E	assistant mistress National School Pembroke Dock
Griffiths Elizabeth Rent Book 1895-1941	05 January 1932 Mrs 31 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Griffiths Ezer Rent Book 1895-1941	29 September 1902 garden Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori- elton Rent Book 1895-1941
Griffiths FA Book 1895-1941	25 March 1921 22 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Griffiths Fredrick G , Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	4/1/1910 par James & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Griffiths Fredrick J, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	25/12/1917 par Stanley & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Griffiths George Book,	Lady Day 1898 22 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Griffiths George Rent Book,	Lady Day 1898 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Griffiths George L Directory	1846 Kings Arms Front St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys
Griffiths Grace E Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	29/10/1918 par James & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Griffiths Harold C N Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	12/6/1922 par Frederick & Rosetta , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Griffiths Henry Book 1895-1941	25 October 1904 31 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Griffiths Hurbert S, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	4/4/1920 par Stanley & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Griffiths J Rent Book 1895-1941	06 January 1941 82 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Griffiths J E Rev	Albion Square Congregational Church Pembroke Dock

Griffiths J M Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1941 82 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Griffiths J	National School 1904 Pembroke Dock
Griffiths James Rent Book 1895-1941	29 September 1905 96 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Griffiths John Alfred Pembroke Dock	13 March 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Griffiths John Rev	St Andrews Calvinistic Methodist Chapel Pembroke Dock
Griffiths John torical Sketches	1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist His-
Griffiths ,Keith Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	8/8/1933 par James & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Griffiths M Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1902 Mrs 19 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Griffiths M	1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Griffiths Margaret	August 28th 1866 11 months died Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Griffiths Mary	19th September 1866 age 23 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Griffiths Mary Ann Dock	February 8th 1889 servant died Bentlas to Pennar Ferry Pembroke
Griffiths Mavyn?T Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	12/6/1924 par Thomas & Gertrude , Baptisms at St Patrick's
Griffiths ? broke Dock	Miss head mistress girls school Albion Square School Board Pem-
Griffiths Morris Book,	Lady Day 1898 41 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent
Griffiths ? raid -escaped injury	November 10th 1940 Mrs Bethany Corner Pembroke Dock bombing

Griffiths Ormond 26/3/1927 par Harry & Grace, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Griffiths Rhoda A M, 8/8/1915 par Frederick & Rosetta, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Griffiths Rich H Lady Day 1898 18 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock, 20 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock ,22 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book,

Griffiths Robert Court 1884 Commercial Inn Pennar Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Griffiths Sidney T 1926 par Frederick & Charlotte, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Griffiths T H 22nd August 1940 Style Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock

Griffiths T J 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Griffiths , Thomas J 6/4/1909 par James & Eliza, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Griffiths W G 1904 National School Pembroke Dock

Griffiths W J 25 March 1933 9 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Griffiths Walter 1846 Swan Inn Queens St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Griffiths William G, 2/9/1926 par Frederick & Charlotte, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Griffiths William J 02 February 1933 9 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Griffiths William 1868 of Park Street Temperance Hall Pembroke Dock

Grimes M 1904 assistant mistress National School Pembroke Dock

Grimshaw Harry 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Grove Adeline	1858 Miss played harmonium St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock
Groves ?	1814-1847Mrs Bellevue Terrace early schools Pembroke Dock
Gullon Henry Pennar Ferry Pembroke Dock	February 8th 1889 Bankers Row Pembroke age 15 died Bentlas to
Gwilliam George Arthur Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1929 53 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Gwynne Richard	1702 died-trustee Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Gwynne Thomas	1718 son of Richard Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Gwyther AA Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941	25 March 1929 2 Gothic Cottages Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock
Gwyther I	1976 MS04 Eng H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Gwyther James Kellys Directory	1846 Clarence Inn 1 Victoria Terr Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Gwyther Lilian E Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	26-11-1912 par William & Margaret , Baptisms at St Patrick's
Gwyther Ruby	1904 Miss assistant mistress Pennar School Pembroke Dock
Gwyther William Rent Book 1895-1941	06 January 1925 20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Gwyther William Directory	1884-6 Rising Sun Queen St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys
Gwyther William J Book 1895-1941	25 March 1925 20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Haddon David 1914-19	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Hagel Alan K nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	6/9/1927 par Robert & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-

Haley Arthur 19/4/1927 par Arthur & Ellen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Haley Margaret J F 19/4/1927 par Arthur & Ellen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Haley Marianne D 19/4/1927 par Arthur & Ellen Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hains Richard Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 7d Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Hall Francis 25 Mar 1898 10 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Hall J 22 June 1920 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Hall J 1874 Jacobs Pill Dir Milford Haven Shipbuilding Co

Hall James 1920 5 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Hall James 25 October 1930 6 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Hall John Temperance Hall Pembroke Dock

Hall ,Maureen B 28/9/1926 par John & Eileen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hall ,Maureen V 23/12/1932 par Herbert & Violet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hall Percy 13/3/1906 par Francis & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hall Richard 1884-6 Mr Hearts of Oak Front St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Kellys Directory

Hall Robert Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock his wife was very interested in helping the poor of the town

Hallan Samual 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Ham A H Rent Book 1895-1941	25 October 1921 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Hancock James Mr	Albion Square Congregational Church
Hancock John	of Queen Street Organist Bethel Chapel Pembroke Dock
Hancock Mary Kellys Directory	1884Mrs Charlton Inn South Park St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Hancock ? Pembroke Dock diphtheria	21st October 1892 Mr Sanitary Inspector Albion Square Girls School
Hancock T G merce	secretary Pembroke Dock and Milford Haven Chamber of Com-
Handcock Thomas Mr yard Chapel	of Cheriton House Water St choir master and Organist Royal Dock-
Handley Fredrick Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	8/11/1898 par George & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Handley William J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	24/1/1911 par George & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Hanna Cyril S J nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	20/1/1920 par James & Lucy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Hanne,Evelyn J nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	8/2/1921 par James & Lucy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Hanscombe W R	25 March 1939 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Harding John	October 10th 1850 Private Royal Marines killed by falling into the en- trenchment at the Fort Barracks Pembroke Dock age 32
Harding ? Dock	8th March 1935 Mr dentist Albion Square Girls School Pembroke

Hargraves Emily Jane 3 July 1925 Mrs 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock, 16 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harries Annie 25 March 1921 33 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harries Frederick 20/12/1930 par Frank & Rebecca, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Harries F E 05 January 1926 9 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harries J 8 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harries J 1919,1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Harries ,Lilian 19/3/1927 par Frank & Rebecca, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Harries M 25 March 1941 Mrs 3 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harries Margt 33 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941 Lady Day 1898

Harries Thomas 05 July 1928 8 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harries W C 18 Oct 1898 trial at Haverfordwest Albion Square Girls School
Pembroke Dock

Harries William 1859 of Walwyn House 2nd Pembrokeshire Rifle Volunteers Pembroke Dock

Harrington D 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 62 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harris Elizabeth 26 Jan 1909 16 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harris Ann Lady Day 1898 25 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book 1895-1941

Harris Arthur	Wing Commander Bomber Harris CO RAF Pembroke Dock
Harris Charles Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 25 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Harris Cyril R J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	18/1/1920 par John & Mabel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Harris Dorothy M, Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	9/8/1910 par William & Florence , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Harris Elizabeth Book 1895-1941	26 Jan 1909 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Harris George Dock for breaking up	April 18 1895 broker of Bristol purchased the Nankin from Pembroke
Harris Jane Mrs Dock	February 8th 1889 died Bentlas to Pennar Ferry disaster Pembroke
Harris Louisa M nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	23/1/1912 par John & Maria , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Harris Thomas Rent Book 1895-1941	17 December 1924 76 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Harris ,Winifred nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	23/1/1912 par John & Maria , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Harrison ? tion in Wales	1814 1847 Miss early schools Pembroke Dock The State of Educa-
Harrison ? 1830	pre1976 Mr mate H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Hart Eileen R nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	1/3/1923 par Robert & Julia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Hart J Book 1895-1941	25 Oct 1903 3 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Hart Robert 1926 33 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book 1895-1941	05 January 1926 29 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March

Hartfield Archibald H A 24/10/1895 par Adkin & Alice Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934 ,

Hartfield Stanley H 28/12/1920 par Archibals & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Harvey ,Alfred G 16/9/1913 par Charles & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Harvey ? November 6th 1940 Dr seriously injured Pembroke Dock Harvey baby survived – no injuries mother killed father Dr Harvey Pembroke Dock November 6th 1940Harvey Mrs Wife of Dr Harvey killed blitz Pembroke Dock November 6th 1940

Harvey Thomas W 16/9/1913 par Charles & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Harwood Richard formerly manager of the London and Provincial Bank, Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress

Harwood Robert Acting Captain Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Haskley W 1893 trustee Wesley Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock

Haver Henry J 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Haverford Evans 1791/2 owner Pembroke St Michs CRO Land Tax Records

Havington D Lady Day 1939 Mr 62 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Rent Book 1895-1941

Hawgood Anne Jane 1851 age 6 474 scholar born 1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Eleanor 1851 age 11 474 scholar born MilFord1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Henry 1851 age 13 474 scholar born Dale1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Henry 1851 age 5 406 scholar born Dale 1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood John 1851 age 10m 406 born Marloes 1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Margret 1851 age 3 406 born Walwns Castle 1851 Census Pembroke Dock

Hawgood Martha	1851 age 38 474 wife born Dale 1851 Census Pembroke Dock
Hawgood Mary Ann	1851 age 26 406 wife born Milford 1851 Census Pembroke Dock
Hawgood Susannah	1851 age 8 474 scholar born 1851 Census Pembroke Dock
Hawgood Thomas Dock	1851 age 34 406 Tailor Master Lewis St 1851 Census Pembroke Dock emigrated to USA in 1856
Hawgood William	1884 London Coffee house Picton Terr Neyland Kellys Directory
Hawgood William Pembroke Dock	1851 age 37 474 shipwright 23 Dimond St born Dale 1851 Census
Hawkes Chas Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1898 19 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Hawkes J	Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock
Hay ,Charlotte Pennar, Pembroke Dock	10/3/1924 par John & Harriet , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Hay ? Dorothy M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	14/2/1921 par John & Harriet Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Hay F A C	25 March 1941 Mrs Fern Villa Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Hay H	pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Hay John M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	8/4/1924 par John & Dorothy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Hay John Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941	Lady Day 1897 Grove Cottage 9 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock
Haynes George 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Haynes Jesse 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Hayward Rosie J Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	11/3/1929 par Morgan? & Gwendoline , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hazell R G 43 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hazell Dorothy E M 17/10/1915 par Robert & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hazell Edgar V T 11/8/1925 par Robert & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hazell Edward Glyn 19/10/1920 par Robert & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hazell Robert W 10/3/1914 par Robert & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hazell Rowland H 8/10/1918 par Robert & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Headrick Catherine C 13/3/1906 prev Rogers, par Martha Jane, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Helyer Laurain I 17/2/1915 par William & Lily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Henderson Esther Lady Day 1898 Mrs Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Henderson J 1895 Pembroke Dock Painter CRO Haverfordwest St Patricks Minutes

Henderson ? 1844 Mr contractor for Pembroke Dockyard Boundary wall

Henderson ? 16th March 1831 of Bangeston Pembroke Dock son and daughter died on the wreck of the Frolic at Nash Sands

Henry Harriet C N 9/6/1925 par William & Maria, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Henry ? 3rd-10th February 1928 Nurse Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock Ringworm and Scarlet Fever

Henry Turner 31/1/1928 par William & Maria, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Henry William E A 17/10/1919 par William & Maria, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Henshall Albert 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18

Heppell Alfred L 1/4/1902 par Alfred & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Herbert Edwin J 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18

Herbert William Kellys Directory 1884-6 Prince Albert Market St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock

Herriot ? Captain 1759 survey to purchase land at Paterchurch point

Hichborn Philip USN Naval Constructor Pembroke Dock

Hicks F Rent Book 1895-1941 25 March 1935 Mrs 10 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Hicks J G Book 1895-1941 25 March 1921 12 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Hicks W J Book 1895-1941 25 March 1935 12 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Hickson ? Dock 1814-1847 Mr boys school in Water Street early schools Pembroke

Higgins John W 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18

Higgs F 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Hill A & C E Book 1895-1941 25 March 1941 9 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Hill Albert 31/3/1908 par Charles & Hannah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hill Charles E 6/3/1910 par Joseph & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hill Edward A 1810/1932 par Joseph & May, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hill George S 29/5/1926 par Thomas & Doris, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hill Mabel 22/5/1912 par Charles & Hannah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hill T 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Hilling Richard 1670 Pembroke Town H Castlemartin Hundred Hearth Tax

Hinchliffe H 1904 Mr headmaster National School Pembroke Dock

Hingard Charles W 2/11/1926 par John & Caroline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hird Maria February 8th 1889 of west Grove died Bentlas to Pennar Ferry Pembroke Dock

Hire W B Lady Day 1899 Land Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hitchings E A 25 March 1941 Mrs 29 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hitchings F G 25 Mar 1912 30 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hitchings Howard 25 March 1935 15 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hitchings Joan Mrs 14 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hitchings ? 1814 1847 Mr early schools Pembroke Dock

Hitchings W G 25 Mar 1921 14 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock -- 2 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock 29 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hitchings William George 5 Jan 1926 29 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hobbs Arthur 4/4/1920 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hobbs Gwendoline 4/7/1927 par George & Mary Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hobbs Arthur 4/4/1920 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hobbs Gwendoline M 4/7/1927 par George & Mary Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hobbs Lavinia 7/4/1925 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hobbs Nicholas 4th May 1728 buried --Paterchurch estate Pembroke Dock

Hobbs William 1698 Eastermost House west Lanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Hobbs William George Jan 25 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Hogg J 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Holcombe 1751- 63 family lived at Llanion Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Holcombe William 1751 8 July of Llanion purchased Llanrheithan Pemb Hist 1971 p72

Hopkins ,Henry F 1/5/1917 par Frederick & Gwendoline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hopkins Patricia K M 20/3/1921 par Frederick & Gwendoline Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hopla George Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 4c Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Hordley Fred September 2nd 1940 on leave when street bombed Lower Gwyther
Street Pembroke Dock

Howard John 25 May 1920 3 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Book 1895- 1941

Howell Bernard I G 10/10/1930 par Walter & Everline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell Dorothy M 16/11/1909 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell ,Edward G 16/5/1899 par Thomas & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell Edwin F 7/3/1899 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell ,Elenor R 5/1/1909 par Thomas & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell Elijah June 13 1903 of Queen Street East Bell from steamship the Ben Nevis
St Teilos Church Pembroke Dock

Howell , Fredrick C 21/5/1901 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell George J A 9/8/1898 par Alexander & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell ,Hilda 20/6/1911 par Fredrick & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell ,Idwell J S 28/10/1924 par Frederick & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell James burial Board Pembroke Dock

Howell ,Ivor R T 16/5/1911 par Thomas & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell M 1904 Miss assistant mistress Llanion School London Rd girls and in- fants

Howell , Percy S 9/11/1909 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell Rayner V A 10/8/1897 par William & Mary Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell , Thomas H 7/8/1900 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell Walter J G 16/11/1909 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howell William 25 March 1904 30 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells Catherine 25 March 1940 Mrs 7 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells D 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Howells ,Edith D 12/11/1907 par Thomas & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howells , ErnestC V 29/7/1902 par Thomas & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Howells Frederick 25 March 1937 Mr Garden Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells George Morgan 25 March 1903 23 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells George Morgan 25 March 1931 23 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells J 1976 HM Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Howells J 15 February 1941 Mrs 69 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells Thomas 25 March 1921 7 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells Thomas 17 5 1893 par Thomas & Elizabeth baptism Bosheston Church

Howells Thomas 25 March 1927 Hilton House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Howells Violet M 31/1/1905 par Thomas & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hugh Lloyd November 1701 and his wife Joan sitting and kneeling in a seat of Llanion St Mary's Church Pembroke Hugh Lloyd and his wife Joan tenants Llanion 1710 Pa-terchurch estate later Pembroke Dock see Adams Elizabeth court case

Hughes A R 25 March 1906 Mrs 20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Hughes Arthur J 25 March 1918 36 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book 1895-1941

Hughes Basil H J 1976 shipwright H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Hughes Brown D 1897 Pembroke Dock Volunteer fire brigade

Hughes Brown D January 1905 died ---solicitor legal advisor Pembrokeshire Perman- ent Benefit Building Society Pembroke Dock

Hughes Constance 1940 trustee Trinity Wesley Chapel Pembroke Ferry

Hulm William December 11 1845 suggested new Church built on old burial ground
Pembroke Dock

Hunt Benjamin 1945 Flying officer R C A F officer RAF Pembroke Dock died in hospital

Hunt George 05 January 1926 27 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book 1895-1941

Huntington ,Arthur H R 3/2/1920 par Hugh & Harriet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Hurley Isabella 25 March 1925 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Hurley J Mrs 25 March 1939 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Husband George Thomas 1861 Pennar Quit Notice

Husband J	1976 rigger H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Hutching , Lavinia Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	17/8/1897 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Hutchings Norman W Pennar, Pembroke Dock	9/8/1896 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Hutchings James Methodist Chapel records	1877 Draper Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan
Hutchings William of Wales Pembroke Dock	1824 of Devonport Ancient Order of FreeMasons Loyal Welsh,Lodge
Hutchings William Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock	1830 Worshipful Master Ancient Order of FreeMason s Loyal Welsh,
Huzzey James	1834 the lessee of Pembroke Ferry
Hyde William Kellys Directory	1884 Navy Inn Queen St west Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Instance William	October 11th 1834 died Pembroke Dock
Isaacs A M Rent Book	25 March 1932 Mrs 18 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Isaacs R A Book	25March 1926 31 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Issacs ?	1814-1847 Mr School Charlton Place early schools Pembroke Dock
Issacs R A Book	5 Jan 1926 31 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Ivemey ? Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock	14 January 1926 Mrs 2 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock , 3 Ferry 25 March 1941 Orielton Rent Book
Jackson Samuel	Captain the Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock
Jackson Thomas	1840 contractor Defencible Barracks Pembroke Dock Vernon Scott

Jackson William 3 Aug 1832 born Pater Pembroke Married to Wooley, Ann Esther on 21 Dec 1853 at open sea, On The Ship, Falcon Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Jacob David 1670 Llanstadwell P Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Jacobs James 25 March 1902 25 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Jacobs M Mrs 05 January 1926 25 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Jade William Wade 25 March 1917 74 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Jago H J 25 March 1926 Miss 68 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 70
Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jago Selwyn Lady Day 1898 68 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 70 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

James , Ada Muriel 4/8/1896 par William & Marina, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Alf Fredrick? Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

James Arthur Thomas 19/11/1895 par Arthur & Amelia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James ,Brenda E 3/2/1930 par William & Flora, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Charles Lady Day 1898 11 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

James E S W 25 March 1941 34 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

James ,Edith E 14/8/1900 par William & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Edward 13/7/1912 par Thomas & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James ,Eleanor H 29/7/1913 par Abel & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Elizabeth Estnes? 16/2/1896 par Charles & Mary Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Elizabeth 10 January 1925 30 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

James Elizabeth 25 March 1939 Mrs 30 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book

James Elsie M 12/9/1899 par William & Marena?, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James , Esther SW 4/8/1896 par George & Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James F F Lady Day 1898 30 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

James F 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pem-
broke Dock

James ,Flora M 7/12/1933 par William & Flora, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Frank 1923 Mr Royal Dockyard Chapel Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke
Dock acc/to Frank Owen

James H 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

James Ivor 25/2/1914 par Robert & Ellen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James Ivor G 12/5/1921 par Ernest& Freda, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James J S May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Pembroke Dock

James ,James 6/3/1910 par David & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James James Lady Day 1897 North Lodge Orielton Rent Book

James Jemima Mrs	69 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
James John Mr	Albion Square Congregational Church Pembroke Dock
James M J	1904 Mrs headmistress Pennar School Pembroke Dock - Hilton House Llanreath Pembroke Dock
James M	1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1919
James Mabel W	7/7/1896 par Fredrick T& Lizzia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
James Mark	69 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
James ?	1847 Miss School Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales
James ?	1814 - 1847 Mr a school for boys next to Wesley Chapel - early schools Pembroke Dock
James ?	31st December 1923 Mrs District Visitor Poor relief Fund St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
James ,Murial B I	19/11/1916 par Frank & Constance , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
James N	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
James Stephen	25 March 1918 69 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
James T	1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
James Thomas	Lady Day 1898 30 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock , 31 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
James ,Thomas G	25/2/1914 par Robert & Ellen , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
James W	Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock 3 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock 87 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
James W	22nd August 1940 Carew Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock

James W R G 01 January 1926 & Miss Esther S W 34 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

James W 1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock & 31st December 1923

James ,Wallace J 4/8/1925 par William & Lucy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James William G 28/2/1899 par Fredrick & Lorna?, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James , William R G 5/9/1899 par George & Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James ,William H 25/2/1914 par Robert & Ellen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James William 25 March 1925 3 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock 27 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

James William J 25 March 1937 13 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

James William 25 March 1936 Mrs 27 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

James ,Winifred 28/8/1917 par William & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

James William J 05 January 1936 Mr 13 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jane ? 1814-1847 Mr Janes Academy opposite Bethany Chapel early schools Pembroke Dock

Jeans T T Rear Admiral was a young doctor at Pembroke Dockyard

Jenkin ,Dorethy 18/8/1908 par John & Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins A J 25 Oct 1921 1 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jenkins A M 22 June 1920 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock 7 Ferry Rd
Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jenkins Arthur J 27/5/1913 par William & Mary, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins Bessie Susan 12th August 1918 Head Teacher Albion Square Girls School Pem-
broke Dock

Jenkins ,Brenda W 27/2/1933 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins ,Cyril M 8/1/1923 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins Cyril June 11th 1941 aged 18 Bufferland Pembroke Dock A R P messen- ger killed air raid

Jenkins David 1877 draper Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan
Methodist Chapel records

Jenkins David 1905 late Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock

Jenkins David July 12 1880 owner Emporium drapery establishment in Bush Street
Pembroke Dock destroyed by fire

Jenkins David secretary Pembroke Dock and Milford Haven Chamber of Commerce

Jenkins E 1904 assistant mistress Pennar School Pembroke Dock

Jenkins ,Edna J 27/6/1926 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins ,Ernest 6/9/1919 par William & Mary baptised by a nurse , Baptisms at St
Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins ,Ethel G 13/2/1912 par George & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins ,Fredrick E 24/1/1922 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins George	Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book
Jenkins George broke Dock	2nd September 1866 age 12 months buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Jenkins ,Glenys M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	17/2/1924 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Jenkins H O	02 February 1937 Golden Hill Field Pembroke , Upper Pennar and Military Rd Land Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book
Jenkins ,Iris May Pennar, Pembroke Dock	4/6/1918 par William & Henry , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Jenkins Issac broke Dock	November 11th 1862 Deacons Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Jenkins James Oriulton Rent Book	Lady Day 1899 Old Farm House Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock
Jenkins Jane Rent Book	4 Jan 1912 Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Jenkins John	May 1848 pupil teacher British School Pembroke Dock
Jenkins ,Lawford George Pennar, Pembroke Dock	13/1/1921 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Jenkins M Dock	1904 Miss headmistress Infants School National School Pembroke
Jenkins Mabel Pennar, Pembroke Dock	23/12/1916 par William & Mary baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Jenkins ?	1905 Miss School for girls Laws St Pembroke Dock
Jenkins ? Dock	Miss Organist Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke
Jenkins ? Pembroke Dock	June 28 1865 Mrs of London Albion Square Congregational Church
Jenkins O & H J broke Dock Oriulton Rent Book	25 March 1926 Mr & Mrs Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book

Jenkins O H 06 January 1926 3 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Jenkins ,Owen 2/12/1902 par George & Jane, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins Samuel 1857 Victoria Hotel Pembroke Dock Alderman Ancient Order of FreeMason s Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Grand Master Loyal Prince Albert Lodge of Oddfellows Victoria Hotel leased land 1857 Kellys Directory

Jenkins ,Sidney J 29/7/1913 par Albert & Beatrice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins ,Wallace S 29/1/1928 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkins ,Winston?J 2/4/1912 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jenkns Albert Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Jenkns Jane 25 March 1912 Mrs Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Jenkns Owen & H J 12 January 1926 Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Jenner C 28 June 1927 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Upper Pennar Meadow Pennar Pembroke Dock 28 June 1927 Land Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1928 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 19 August 1940 Bombed and Burned out Orielson Rent Book

Jenner ? 22nd August 1940 Mrs Pennar Lost Stock Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Jennings James 12 October 1848 Mr Chemist & Druggist Church Warden St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Jermin T H 25 March 1941 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Jermin Thomas 08 January 1926 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Jermin Thomas & E Jane 25 March 1926 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

John H A Lady Day 1898 30 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

John prevJames , Letitia 6/3/1910 par David & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John ,Alfred 21/1/1931 par Sidney & Susan, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John ? 1698 Cuckoos Wood Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

John David Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

John E 1893 trustee Wesley Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock CRO Haver- fordwest

John Edwin 25 March 1918 30 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

John ,Elsie 21/1/1931 par Sidney & Susan, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John Ethel 31st December 1923 Miss Organist St Patricks Church Pennar
Pembroke Dock

John G W 1893 Trustee Wesley Chapel Pennar CRO Haverfordwest

John H A 25 March 1926 Mrs 30 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

John Henry Lady Day 1898 7 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

John , Ivy D 10/11/1914 par Herbert & Lizzie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John ,Linda L 11/1/1921 par Thomas & Lettia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John J E 29 September 1921 4 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

John J I 1951	1948 Rev pastor Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock until June
John J R Book	25 Oct 1923 28 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
John J broke Dock	31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pem-
John Jas elton Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 8 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock 4h Ori-
John L	1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
John Lousa Agnes Rent Book	29 September 1901 53 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
John Mary	September 1917 Miss Organist Llanreath Calvanistic Methodist Chapel Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette
John Narbeth Pembroke Dock	14th May 1814 Carpenter Pembroke started building first houses
John Pandy	Rev pastor Gilgal Baptist Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock
John ,Peter Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	6/3/1923 par Thomas & Letitia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
John , Richard H Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	15/8/1899 par Thomas & Blance , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
John Richard	September 1917 Mr precentor Llanreath Calvanistic Methodist Chapel Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette
John Robert Book	25 March 1941 1 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
John Robt Book	Lady Day 1898 1 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
John ,Ruby M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	12/7/1910 par Thomas & Letitia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

John ,Stanley R 4/6/1907 par William & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John ,Sylvy I 19/7/1911 par Thomas & Letitia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John T Pandy 1868 Minister Rev Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock -- former Pastor Returned from America became pastor again Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock

John ,Thomas 12/7/1910 par Thomas & Letitia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John Thomas H 25 Feb 1899 Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book

John W Lady Day 1898 65 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Rent Book

John W pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

John W B Lady Day 1898 9 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orierton
Rent Book

John W G Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock - School Board Pembroke
Dock Orierton Rent Book

John W H Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent Book

John W J SunnyHill Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent Book

John W 1844 junior from Bethany Baptist formed Bethel Baptist Pembroke
Dock admitted into the Baptist Association

John W 1844 senior from Bethany Baptist formed Bethel Baptist Pembroke
Dock admitted into the Baptist Association

John W Wade 25 March 1941 74 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Rent Book

John ,William James 11/1/1921 par Thomas & Letitia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

John William Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 died by 1925Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton
John William	1899 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
John William elton Rent Book	14 January 1942 deceased Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
John William torical Sketches	1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist His-
Johns ,Cecil I	25/8/1914 par William & Edith Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns ,Colin W	11/6/1911 par William & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns ,David L	7/12/1919 par William & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns ,Dorothy M	23/2/1921 par Harold & Maud , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns Elizabeth elton Rent Book	07 January 1927 Mrs 88 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Johns Horatio ings of Devonport	Assistant Constructor in H M Dockyard grandson of William Hutch-
Johns J E	25 March 1936 4 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Johns , Margaret A	25/10/1898 par William & Esther , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns ,Maurice R W	21/5/1901 par William & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns ,Sidney G	31/5/1910 par William & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Johns ,Winifred R	28/4/1914 par Richard & Ann , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Johnson Albert J 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Johnson ,Betty 18/10/1926 par Albert & Jane, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Johnson ,Francis E 4/2/1919 par William & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Johnson John W 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Johnson ,William S 10/2/1921 par William & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Johnston Ronald 1940 Aug 1 Pembroke Dock "from Manchester, soldier, ""killed at Llanion Barracks in and air raid, struck in the stomach by a piece of shrapnel, First fatal casualty by enemy action in the county," Vernon Scott

Jolly ,Derek W 6/10/1929 par ?Clark& Winifred, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones & Lowless, R & O F 03 January 1939 20 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones A pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Jones Alf Lady Day 1898 39 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Jones Ann 10th September 1866 age 39 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Jones Ann 14th September 1866 age 48 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Jones ,Brinley E C 29/7/1930 par Elsie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones David 1862 Deacon & Gilgal Sunday School Suprintendent CRO Haver-
fordwest

Jones David Lady Day 1898 23 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Jones David broke Dock	November 11th 1862 Deacon Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pem-
Jones David	1860s Deacon of Bethel Baptist Church Pembroke Dock
Jones ,Dorothy	B27/9/1921 par Frank & Winifred , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Jones ,Dorothy M	22/5/1910 par John & Nelly , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Jones ?	6th December 1939 Dr examined Children Albion Square School Pembroke Dock twelve children for Cod liver oil and malt
Jones Ebenezer	May 1848 pupil teacher British School Pembroke Dock
Jones ,Edith Maud	23/4/1918 par John & Freda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Jones Eliza Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 78 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Jones Eliza	30 6 1861 par Thomas & Ann baptism St Petrox Church
Jones Eliza	04 January 1926 Mrs 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock , 63 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Jones , Elsie M	10/5/1913 par John & Freda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Jones Emma	August 28th 1866 age 28 died Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Jones F J Sampson	Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock 22nd Au- gust 1940
Jones Fanny Dock Orielson Rent Book	16th September 1866 age 14 years buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke
Jones Frederick James Pembroke Dock	Dec 27 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Jones Gilbert John Pembroke Dock	Sept17 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Jones ,Haydn F J 7/3/1933 par Douglas & Beatrice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones Henry Mrs 2 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones J D September 14 1904 Mrs laid memorial stone of a new schoolroom Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock

Jones J D Rev pastor of Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock

Jones James Lady Day 1898 1 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones Jessie Miss Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock married Rev T Williams pastor Gilgal

Jones John 14th May 1814 started building first houses Pembroke Dock

Jones John Lady Day 1898 30 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 63 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 78 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones John February 8th 1889 ferryman died Bentlas to Pennar Ferry Pembroke Dock

Jones John 15th September 1866 age 72 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Jones ,Kenneth T 2/10/1923 par Jonah & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones Lloyd H B 25 March 1922 Mrs Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Jones M A Lady Day 1898 5 Owen St Pennar 6 Owen St Pennar, 7 Owen St Pennar 8 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones Martha Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones Mary Ann 16th September 1866 age 14 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones Mary Ann 17th September 1866 age 74 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book

Jones ? 26 June 1862 Miss of Pantglas a Carmarthenshire lady HMS Prince Consort christened Pembroke Dock

Jones ? 28th October 1935 Miss promoted to Headship of Llanion Girls
School -Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Jones ? August 27 1850 Mr and Mrs married Wesleyan Methodists
Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock

Jones ? Mr Porter Stores Tregennas Hill Ancient Order of Freemason s Loyal
Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock

Jones ,Norman J 27/1/1920 par John & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones Owen 1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist His- torical Sketches

Jones P M 1919 student teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Jones R 1976 fitter H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Jones R W 22nd August 1940 west Grove Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar
Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones Roger Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Jones ,Ronald C 12/4/1921 par John & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones ,Ronald LL 9/2/1921 par Leslie & Violet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Jones Sarah 05 January 1926 30 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Jones Sarah 25 March 1941 50 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Jones Sarah 25 March 1926 Mrs 50 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book

Jones William Nov 6 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town* St Johns, Church
Pembroke Dock

Jones ,William F 12/3/1930par William & Agnes Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Josephs John S 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Joyce William Lord Haw Haw lodged at 26 London Rd 1930s Pembroke Dock

Justley Watson 1750sLt Col fort Paterchurch* Pembroke Dock

Kavanagh Arthur June 11th 1941 aged 13 Bufferland Pembroke Dock A R P messenger killed blitz

Kavanagh ? 1940 July Pembroke Dock Pembroke Dock borough Council engineer "ordered to carry out an inspection of houses for the purpose strengthening domestic air raid shelters," Vernon Scott

Kelly Edward Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock

Kelly George Fitzroy 1844 Nov13 Rev first incumbent of the parish of Pembroke Dock
Pembroke Dock Vicar first Vicar of Pembroke DockKelly George Fitzroy Dr died January 25
1878 aged seventy seven years Act 6 and 7 Victoria chap xxxvii 1843 1844 WWHR Vol3 P 239

Kelly J V 1900 Very Rev Dean St Mary's Church Pembroke Dock

Kelly William 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Kent Harrod Edward , 17/12/1895 par Arthur & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Kerr Frederick Lady June 1863 Mechanics Institute Pembroke Dock

Kershaw R H Wing Commander CO RAF Pembroke Dock

Kew John 25 July 1939 Garden Llanreath

Kinaston Thomas Pembroke Dock	1786 rented land Llanion from J F Meyrick Paterchurch estate later
King Albert Llewellyn	25 March 1917 Raymond House Llanreath Pembroke Dock
King Archibald T Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	12/12/1916 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
King, Joseph C G nar, Pembroke Dock	15/6/1924 par Arthur & Lily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
King Joseph Monkton Cemetary	10th June 1829 first Boatswain Pater Yard Pembroke died buried
King Joseph Nesbit	24th March 1824 son of Joseph married Ann Gale in Pembroke
King Maria Book	25 March 1941 18 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
King ? Dock	1814 1847 Miss school in Meyrick Street early schools Pembroke
Kneebone Richard Pembroke Dock	Captain Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force
Knight Fredrick G , Pennar, Pembroke Dock	12/12/1916 par Charles & Letitia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Knight Gertrude M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	17/10/1915 par Charles & Letitia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Kniverton George 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Ladd K W Dock	borough Surveyor architect for the board burial Board Pembroke
Ladd ? Mr leyan Methodists Trinity	architect Neyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records architect Wes- leyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock
Lang O W Yacht	Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock designed the Royal

Langford John W 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Larkin Jenkin Henry Kellys Directory	1884 Hawthorne Inn Clarence St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Latham John T 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Latter William A V Pennar, Pembroke Dock	31/5/1910 par Harry & Annie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lavender Donald M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	7/12/1915 par Bennett & Elsa , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Lavender Sylvia May Pennar, Pembroke Dock	7/12/1915 par Bennett & Elsa , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Lavis T E	25 March 1926 6 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Lawley George E 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Lawrence C W Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress	1893 Trustee of Wesley Chapel Pennar CRO Haverfordwest Pem- broke Dock Society for the relief of Distress
Lawrence J	Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress
Lawrence ? Mr Dock	Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke
Lawrence W Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock	November 10 1879 Mr of Queen Street East Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock
Lawrence W Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock	November 10 1879 Mrs Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pem- broke Ferry Pembroke Dock
Lawrence William	Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress

Laws Edward 1843 Naval Storekeeper of Pembroke Dockyard trustee of the Bush Estate Mayor of the borough chief magistrate for Pembroke Dock 1843 occupier 1841 tithe Pater-church Pembroke Dock trustee Bush Estate site for the erection of a new Church Pembroke Dock 1843 Pembroke Mayor 1839 Carew non resident owned 1167 acres died in 1854 A Tablet in memory was placed on the south wall The Dockyard Chapel Pembroke Dock destroyed before the 1970s but later the pieces were restored WWHR 1915 Pemb Hist 1972

Leais ? early 1900s Miss coal yard top of Pembroke St Pembroke Dock

Leathlean Mary Ann 1846 Mrs Red Lion Inn Lower Commercial Rd Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Leaver Victor 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Leckie Robert 1931 Wing Commander June CO 210 sqdn and RAF Pembroke Dock

Lee Mary J 13/10/1896 par Moses & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lemon Doris E 30/11/1909 par James & Maud, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lemon Howard E 24/1/1905 par James & Maud, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lemons ? September 2nd 1940 Mrs injured - house destroyed air raid TreMeyrick Street Pembroke Dock

Lennox L J & S J 25 March 1941 6 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Leonard Mervyn T G 3/3/1926 par William & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Leonard Robert Aug 21 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Leonard William G 22/8/1911 par Robert & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Levitt A	Pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Lewis A E	1894 Rev B A curate Parish of Pembroke Dock
Lewis A J Book	25 March 1939 22 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Lewis Albert W E	20/2/1901 par William & Clarisa , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Lewis Alexander G A	23/4/1916 par John & Catherine , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Lewis Arthur T	8/3/1924 par Edwin & Martha , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Lewis David Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Lewis David Book	Lady Day 1898 14a Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Lewis David Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 6 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Lewis Dd Book	25 March 1941 14 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Lewis Dora Book	13 January 1942 7 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Lewis E	6th March 1947 Mrs caretaker dismissed Albion Square School Pembroke Dock failure to carry out her duties
Lewis F R	29 September 1905 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Lewis Fredrick Dock Kellys Directory	1884 Bell and Lion Commercial Row Inns and Hotels Pembroke
Lewis George Book	25 March 1921 2 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Lewis Hilary O E 26/8/1917 par William & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Hilda A 14/6/1910 par William & Eliza, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Horace W 14/6/1910 par William & Eliza, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Hurbert K 9/5/1922 par Hubert & Jessie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Dunn M 15/10/1907 par George & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Iris G 27/11/1910 par George & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Iris M 10/2/1929 par Howard & Louise, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Ivor G 14/6/1910 par William & Eliza, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis Ivy Miss Royal Dockyard Chapel Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Acc to Frank Owen

Lewis J P Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Lewis John H B 7/9/1915 par Edwin & Amy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis John K J 28/3/1922 par John & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lewis John aged fifty six Established Labourer No 595 fell fractured his skull invalided 16 Apr 1901 H M Dockyard Pembroke Dock

Lewis Joseph Lady Day 1898 29 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Lewis Joseph Hewell 25 March 1903 Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Lewis Joseph Hewitt	25 March 1917 Belgrave House Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Lewis Joseph	Mr Albion Square Congregational Church
Lewis Lettice	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 10a Orielton Rent Book
Lewis Margaret M nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	9/8/1898 par George & Ann , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Lewis Margaret Rent Book	Sep 29th 1908 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Lewis Martha Rent Book	29 September 1921 7 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Lewis Mary Book	Lady Day 1898 8 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Lewis Mary Ann Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 Bermuda House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton
Lewis ? Mr Rev	Tabernacle Congregational Chapel Pembroke Dock
Lewis ? Mr	Temperance Hall Pembroke Dock
Lewis ? Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock	1923 Mr verger and Bell Ringer Royal Dockyard Chapel Her
Lewis Norman R Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	14/6/1910 par William & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Lewis Norman T J Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	13/5/1924 par William & Gertrude , Baptisms at St Patrick's
Lewis Phyllis M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	14/6/1910 par William & Eliza , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Lewis R J	6 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Lewis R Rent Book	25 March 1939 Mr 14 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Lewis R Rent Book	25 March 1939 Mr 9 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Lewis R	25 March 1939 Mr Land Lower Pennar
Lewis Reg Pennar Pembroke Dock	22nd August 1940 Glenavon Pennar Lost stock because of Tank fire
Lewis Reginald Book	08 August 1939 9 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Lewis ? 1845 Rev	Father Roman Catholic priest St Mary's Church Pembroke Dock
Lewis Sarah E A Pennar, Pembroke Dock	26/9/1899 par William & Martha J , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lewis Theresa Rent Book	29 September 1921 7 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Lewis Thomas 1926 25 March 1941	Lady Day 1898 38 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March Orielson Rent Book
Lewis Victor G B nar, Pembroke Dock	7/8/1900 par George & Ann , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934
Lewis W A elton Rent Book	25 Mar 1941 & wife 76 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Lewis W R Rent Book	29 September 1919 57 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Lewis W T Rent Book	10 January 1925 60 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Lewis William J Pennar, Pembroke Dock	31/5/1931 par Howard & Laura , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lewis William	1862 Deacon of Gilgal Chapel Pennar CRO Haverfordwest
Lewis William Rent Book	September 1901 49 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson

Lewis William broke Dock	November 11th 1862 Deacons Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Lewis William H	burial Board Pembroke Dock
Lewis William H T	9 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Lewis William	1872 draper of Pembroke St Magistrate Pembroke Dock
Lilly Stephanie A Pennar, Pembroke Dock	28/8/1923 par John & Roberta , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lines Cecil 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Liniker Bill Coastal Area	April 1930 Flight Lieutenant CO RAF Pembroke Dock RAFs
Llewellyn J O	14 January 1941 & Mrs 5 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Llewellyn Jos Rent Book	29 September 1900 37 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Llewellyn Alwyn W Pennar, Pembroke Dock	14/7/1927 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Llewellyn Beryl W Pennar, Pembroke Dock	29/5/1932 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Llewellyn David	25 March 1926 9 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Llewelyn Dorothy GM Pennar, Pembroke Dock	21/4/1896 par Richard & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Llewellyn Dorothy R K nar, Pembroke Dock	1/9/1908 par David & Sarah , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934
Llewellyn Eunice G M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	28/7/1933 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Llewellyn Joseph any Chapel Pembroke Dock	September 14 1904 laid memorial stone of a new schoolroom Beth-

Llewellyn Mervyn W 19/2/1931 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewellyn Roy W 22/8/1929 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewellyn Sarah I M 3/5/1910 par David & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewellyn Violet M 27/9/1896 par David & Jane, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewellyn William H 9/8/1921 par Arthur & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewellyn Winifred B 30/6/1931 par Charles & Ivy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewellyn Winifred J 1/11/1904 par David & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewelyn Winifred 1919 student teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Llewhellen Richard 25 March 1941 86 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Llewhellin David 05 January 1926 9 Orielson Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Llewhellin Elizabeth 1884 Mrs --Rose and Crown Queen St Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Llewhellin, Ivor R 27/6/1899 par Richard & Alice M, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Llewhellin Marg Lady Day 1898 25 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Llewhellin Rich Lady Day 1898 86 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Lloyd A 1904 Miss head mistress Pennar Infants School Pembroke Dock

Lloyd Albert S April 19 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Lloyd Charles J 20/11/1900 par Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lloyd Daisy E 15/1/1924 par George & Daisy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lloyd Gwynne L 30/12/1924 par Sidney & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke

Lloyd David 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Lloyd David A 8/11/1932 par William & Helen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lloyd E A Lettice Book Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Lloyd Emma Book Lady Day 1898 5 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Lloyd F Book 25 March 1940 13 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Lloyd Frederick Rent Book 09 January 1940 13 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson

Lloyd George J 20/12/1898 par John & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lloyd Henry Book Lady Day 1899 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Lloyd Henry Pembroke Dock Nov 25 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Lloyd Isobel M 4/5/1934 par Helen & William, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lloyd J 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Lloyd John 18/3/1907 par James & Anne, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Lloyd John	Lady Day 1898 10 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Lloyd John Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 7 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Lloyd M	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Lloyd Mary Pennar, Pembroke Dock	12/3/1933 par George & Martha , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lloyd Minnie Pennar, Pembroke Dock	30/7/1918 par George & Daisy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lloyd Owen I T nar, Pembroke Dock	1/9/1927 par Sidney & Mabel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934
Lloyd Richard 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Lloyd W B Book	Lady Day 1898 5 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Lloyd W H	sergeant major Pembroke Dock Volunteer Artillery
Lloyd William G Pennar, Pembroke Dock	19/10/1926par George & Daisy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Lo Faith Stackpole Elider Church	15 4 1963 to Carl F Donald Smith of Pembroke Dock marriage
Logan ,Gladys E M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	6/4/1909 par Bernard & Ethel , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Logan J	School Board Pembroke Dock
Long Arthur Book	25 March 1940 22 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Long Edith E nar, Pembroke Dock	9/12/1919 par Arthur & Jane , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934

Long Samual Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock He and his wife Organised fundraising activities for National School

Longmate Arthur 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Longrigg J W September 29 1902 Rev M A chaplain of the Dockyard

Lorane Phyllis 6/1/1928 par Percival & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Loring William Captain Superintendent Pembroke Dock married at Pembroke Dock Miss Adams of Holyland descended from the Adams of Paterchurch

Lort Phillips? spring 1901 Mrs christened HMS Drake Pembroke Dock

Lowe Alfred H 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Lowless ? 14th May 1814 Mr started building first houses Pembroke Dock

Lowless, & Jones O F & RD 25 March 1939 20 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book

Lowless James 1877 Draper Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records

Lowless R D Mr clerk of the Board-- School Pembroke Dock

Luly C P Lady Day 1898 29 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book

Luly Rosa J 1919 teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Luly Rosa Jane 1st September 1919 temporary Head Teacher Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock

Luther Edward 16 Apr 1901 Fleet Surgeon Pembroke Dock

Lynch M M 25 March 1941 Mrs 85 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori- elton Rent Book

Mabe Thomas 19th September 1866 age 62 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Mabe Thomas	1861 Pennar Quit Notice
Macdougall Harry 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Macey Alice M Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	13/8/1910 par Samual & Emily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Macey Doris E Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	13/8/1910 par Samual & Emily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Macheny Alfred Rent Book	29 September 1920 11 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Mackeen B R Book	25 March 1921 6 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Mackeen C L E elton Rent Book	14 January 1941 Miss 18 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Manning Mackeen E M Rent Book	25 Mar 1941 Mrs 10 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Macken Alfred Book	22 June 1920 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Macken C L E Rent Book	25 Mar 1941 Miss 18 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Macken David J E Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	19/9/1933 par Frederick & Francis , Baptisms at St Patrick's
Macken F	Pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Macken Francis Rent Book	25 Mar 1933 Mrs Farm House Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Macken John Book	Lady Day1898 19 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Mackenzie Percy 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI

Mackin Alfred Book	25 Mar 1933 11 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Mackintosh A	secretary Pembroke Dock auxiliary of the Bible Society
Mackintosh Hugh broke Dock	1829 of Bloomsbury Square London contractor Hobbs Point Pem-
Mackworth A W ectory	1884 bart Sir Major and Brevet Colonel Pembroke Dock Kellys Dir-
MacNaughton H	1976 fitter H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Magall Owen Pembroke Dock	Nov 5 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Maire Joan A Pennar, Pembroke Dock	29/1/1918 par Hedley & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Maire,John N D Pennar, Pembroke Dock	13/11/1913 par Hedley & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Maires? Freda L nar, Pembroke Dock	4/8/1912 par Hedley & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934
Malcolm Margaret P Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	6/9/1910 par Johnathan & Margaret , Baptisms at St Patrick's 1895 to 1934
Mallet J H Religious Buildings	1851 Chaplain of Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock census of
Malley Michael Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book	25 March 1941 Mr 27 Castle St Pennar & 28 Castle St Pennar
Malpas G A Kellys Directory	1884 Constructor Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock Acc to
Maney James 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Manning Frank Pembroke Dock	June 7 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Manrtelow? Anthony J 18/1/1934 par Charles and Freda, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mansfield Joan M M M 20/12/1921 par Joseph & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mansfield MiriamE F 27/1/1924par Joseph & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Maple C H Lady Day 1898 2 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock 4a Orielton Rent Book

Maple John James 25 March 1939 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Maple R H 25 March 1941 2 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Marryat Frederick 1816 Captain commanded HMS Ariande author of Mr Midshipman Easy served at Pembroke Dock

Marsden J 1976 Welder H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Martin Constance M 25/7/1933 par Ronald & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Martin Eric F H 17/12/1924 par John & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Martin F Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock

Martin G E 25 March 1941 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Martin G E 25 March 1941 Mrs 78 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Martin Geffrey 17/12/1924 par John & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Martin Joan N 2/11/1920 par Arthur & Muriel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Martin Margaret K E 17/12/1924 par John & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mason George Lady Day 1898 12 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 14 January
1941 Orielton Rent Book

Mason John Oct 21 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Pembroke Dock

Mason ,Lilian E 21/4/1925 par Edward & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mason W J P 1860s of London road chairman Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress

Mason W 1840,s Mr roof and pillars for the Chapels The parish of Pembroke
Dock – Silas T Phillips 1898

Masters T J Lady Day 1898 21 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1926 25 March 1941 Orielton Rent Book

Masters T 1935 Mr a senior Church Deacon Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke
Dock

Mathias A M 29 September 1919 9 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March
1933 Orielton Rent Book

Mathias Albert 03 July 1928 49 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Mathias Caroline D 11/4/1911 par Fredrick & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mathias Florence N 28/1/1913 par Fredrick & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mathias James 25 March 1926 Crofton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock 25 March
1941 Orielton Rent Book

Mathias Jane Lady Day 1898 25 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Mathias? John M 6/11/1900 par Maurice & Florence Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mathias John	05 January 1926 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Mathias John	13 11 1808 par James & Elizabeth baptism St Petrox Church
Mathias L J Rent Book	25 March 1926 Miss 26 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Mathias ? Dock	November 11th 1862 Rev Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke
Mathias S J Book	25 March 1940 26 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Mathias T D	Rev pastor Gilgal Baptist Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock
Mathias W Pembroke Dock	1880's secretary Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society
Mathias William Rent Book	25 March 1929 47 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
May Edith	Pembroke House Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
May Mary Dock	8th September 1866 age 56 years buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke
McAlpin Alister Andrew broke Dock	Lt Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pem-
McAlpin K	July 6 1893 fireworks Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock
McAlpin ?	1859 Lieutenant 2nd Pembrokeshire Rifle Volunteers Pembroke Dock
McBean James A Pennar, Pembroke Dock	12/5/1903 par Arthur & Emily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
McBean John broke Dock Kellys Directory	1884 Sun Inn Queen St East also boot maker Inns and Hotels Pem-
Mc Bean Stuart J nar, Pembroke Dock	2/7/1901 par Arthur & Emily , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934

McCaffery Frank A 5/12/1911 par Herbert & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

McCallum Francis Lady Day 1898 85 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

McCarthy William John 1915 May 13 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

McCloghrie Thomas 28 March 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

McColl A August 13 1896 Pembroke Town Council Water Committee

McColl J P Alderman C C Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress

McColl ? 1897 Mr Pembroke Dock Volunteer fire brigade

McCormick Ronald W 5/7/1910 par Florance, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

McDonnel ? 1847 the Rev Father St Mary's Church Pembroke Dock

McEnteggart B 1900 Rev Meyrick Street, Pembroke Dock Arch Camb 1900

McGrath Patrick M 25/7/1933 par Myles & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

McHugh George Edward 1853 Rev Pembroke Dock CRO Haverfordwest Curate of Pembroke Dock married Miss Fincham lived at 1 Military Rd Pennar

MClaren C A 25 March 1936 Mrs 6 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

McLean James 1860s Milford Haven bank in Commercial Row later the South Wales Bank then London and Provincial Bank Pembroke Dock

McMaster Thomas , Mrs St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

McMurren Frederick J 20/1/1932 par Frederick & Vera, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Meare Margaret 1698 lent money Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Mercer Geoffrey F 10/8/1920 par Francis & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Merriman E J 25 October 1911 7 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Merriman Fredrick J B 1/2/1916 par Henry & Teresa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Merriman F W 1904 of the firm of Messrs George Thomas , and Merriman solicitors Pembroke Dock 1905 solicitor 1904 Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress solicitor legal adviser March 18 1905 Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society Pembroke Dock solicitor secretary Pembroke Dock and Milford Haven Chamber of Commerce

Merriman Gwendolyn N 14/11/1922 par Henry & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Merriman Hugh B 7/7/1914 par Henry & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Merriman Joseph 1859 Neyland Church Zion Pembroke Dock auxiliary of the Bible Society secretary South Pembrokeshire Calvinistic Methodist

Merriman ? 6th December 1939 Nurse examined Children Albion Square School Pembroke Dock twelve children for Cod liver oil and malt

Meyhew A Pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Milburn H M 1904 Mr master National School Pembroke Dock

Miles? Elizabeth B 3/5/1932 par Ellen & Arthur, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Miller David Lady Day 1898 35 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Miller ,Ernest J J 17/11/1914 par Sidney & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Miller ? Mr Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock

Mills A W Orlton Rent Book	25 October 1937 Mrs 68 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Mills Alfred Rent Book	16 February 1942 64 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Mills Clifford	22nd August 1940 age31 118 Brunswick Street Canton Cardiff died oil Tanks fire Pennar Pembroke Dock
Mills George 1925 Orielton Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 8 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March
Mills G Rent Book	25 March 1939 Mr 8 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Mills John Orlton Rent Book	29 September 1919 43 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Mills Thomas 1931 Orielton Rent Book	25 March 1903 64 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March
Mills William W Book	25 March 1941 6 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Milne J	pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Mirehouse ? -Pembroke Dock yard	26 November 1867 Miss of Angle christened HMS Gnat in the dark
Mingard Fredrick J Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	26/11/1912 par John & Caroline Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Mingard Henry C Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	26/11/1912 par John & Caroline , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Moart W F Street Congregationalists Chapel	February 12 1851 esq. London foundation stone Upper Meyrick
Mockler J Mrs	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 454a Orielton Rent Book
Moffatt Albert John Pembroke Dock	July20 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Molland John Historical Sketches	1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist
Moore Isaac Pembroke Dock	October 14 1868 Colonel 13th Depot Battalion Military Cemetary
Moore Maggie May	1872 Miss Albion Square Church Pembroke Dock
Moore	1834 the Chemist Pembroke Dock
Morant George Digby	Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Morcombe D V Commerce	president Pembroke Dock and Milford Haven Chamber of
Morcombe Jno Book	Lady Day 1898 30 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Morehen ?Brenda P Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	16/6/1932 par Leslie & Annie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Morgan W J Book	Lady Day 1898 3 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Morgan Albert H Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	8/3/1927 par Thomas , & Charlotta, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Morgan Ann Rent Book	25 Mar 1911 Mrs 22 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Morgan Chas Book	Lady Day 1898 5 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Morgan ?	7th October 1915 Dr scarlet fever Pembroke Dock
Morgan E C B Rent Book	25 March 1939 Mrs 9 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Morgan Evelyn L F P Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	5/7/1910 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church

Morgan Henry James	1851 Front St Pembroke Dock Minister Sardis Chapel Burton
Morgan Ivor George Pennar, Pembroke Dock	7/5/1922 par Bertrand & Beatrice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Morgan J A elton Rent Book	25 Mar 1937 Golden Hill Field Land Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Morgan J H Rent Book	25 March 1926 13 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Morgan J T	Rev Vicar St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock reputation of being vitriolic and not at all tolerant
Morgan James Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 89 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Morgan John H Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	8/3/1927 par Thomas , & Charlotta , Baptisms at St Patrick's 1895 to 1934
Morgan John Book	Lady Day 1898 22 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Morgan John	1867 pastor of Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock powerful preacher with strong views which angered some of his congregation in the 1840s who left to formed Bethel ,
Morgan L A	Lady Day 1898 89 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1926 25 March 1941 Orielson Rent Book
Morgan Maria Dock	6th September 1866 age 6 years buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke
Morgan Mary Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 89 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Morgan Michael Pembroke Dock	1825 cello - music for Services Tabernacle Congregational Chapel
Morgan Rose E Pennar, Pembroke Dock	4/3/1919 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Morgan Stephen Dock	10th September 1866 age 9 years buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke

Morgan Thomas Book	Lady Day 1898 29 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Morgan Trevor Charles Pennar Pembroke Dock	22nd August 1940 age 31 46 Mey Street Cardiff died oil Tanks fire
Morgan Vivian W J Pennar, Pembroke Dock	9/1/1906 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Morgan W Dock	Pre1976 shipwright H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke
Morgan William Book	25 March 1926 10 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Morgan William	1861 Pennar Deeds Quit Notice
Morgan William George Rent Book	5 March 1925 & wife 9 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Morgan William	1861 Quit notices Pembroke Dock
Morgan William Book	25 March 1941 10 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Morgans Elizabeth Martha Kellys Directory	1884 Mrs Caledonian High St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Morley Lionel J 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Morris ? Leslie J R Pembroke Dock	8/5/1923 par John & Ada , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, 1895 to 1934
Morris A M Rent Book	Mar 13 1906 Mrs 1 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Morris A M	20 Jan 1922 Mrs 11 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1922 25 March 1936 13 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 20 Jan 1922 25 March 1922 25 March 1936 Orielton Rent Book
Morris Ann Kellys Directory	1884 Mrs Foresters Arms Kings St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock

Morris Arthur August 19th 1940 chief Pembroke Dock Fire Brigade --enemy raid on Monday August 19th 1940

Morris Charles T 1/1/1925 par Alfred & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Morris Elizabeth M 13/10/1925 par Frederick & Violet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Morris George Lady Day 1898 7 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock 25 March 1926 25 March 1941 Orielton Rent Book

Morris J pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Morris J L 22nd August 1940 Brownslade Lost stock because of Tank fire Pen-nar Pembroke Dock

Morris J W 22nd August 1940 Bowett Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock

Morris Margaret S R 14/7/1925 par John & Ada, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Morris Michael 1850s coal yard top of Pembroke St Pembroke Dock

Morris ? Miss of Laws Street North secretary Ladies Association of the British and Foreign Bible Society Pembroke Dock

Morris Peter August 28th 1866 age 48 died Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Morris Rhys Pier Hotel Pembroke Dock demolished Morris Rhys 1941 May 12th Pembroke Dock "born Solva but lived for many years in Haverfordwest," " proprietor of the Pier Hotel buried when the hotel received a direct hit and was totally destroyed," Vernon Scott

Morris Tom 1814 1847 Fountain Well Upper park Street early schools Pembroke Dock

Morris William 1884 Bird In Hand Lewis St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Morrison Mary A E 30/8/1904 par John & Agnes, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Morrissey W 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Morse Arthur J 20/7/1913 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Morse F 1919 Treasurer sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Morse G 1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Morse W R 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Morse William T J 12/8/1930 par William & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mortimer Elizabeth 29 September 1921 Mrs 10 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-elton Rent Book

Mortlock ,Peggy 24/9/1930 par Henry & Henrietta, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Moulton James Louis Major General of Pembroke Dock The CB and DSO were earned by Major General James Louis Moulton, born at Pembroke Dock on 3 June 1906. He was the son of Captain J.D. Moulton, the King's Harbour master, and was brought up in the Royal Dockyard. This most distinguished sea officer from the Dockyard town joined the Royal Marines in 1924 and rose to command 48 Commando in North-west Europe in 1944-45 and 3 Commando Brigade in the Middle East in 1952-54. He ended a brilliant career as Chief of Amphibious War fare

Mount Gordon R J 14/6/1922 par Lancelot & Elsie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Mules B J W Ancient Order of FreeMason s Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock

Mumford John 1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist Historical Sketches

Mumford John secretary Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society Pembroke Dock

Mumford ? May 1871 Miss headmistress British School Pembroke Dock

Munro W G come down	May 12th 1941 Mr Park Street Pembroke Dock saw the land mine
Murphy Margt Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 35 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 454 Orielton
Murphy Margt Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 36 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 454 Orielton
Murphy Oliver Dock	14th March 1894 Rev Father died St Mary's Church Pembroke
Murphy W H 25 March 1939	25 Mar 1914 42 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1925 Orielton Rent Book
Murray E	Pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Murray T C Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book	22nd August 1940 Buckspool Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar
Murray William T E Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	16/7/1921 par William & Amy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Naish Audrey	1998 organist at St Teilo's Church wife of Mervyn
Naish Julie Stackpole Elider Church	4 10 1964 par Mervyn & Audrey of Pembroke Dock baptism Stack-
Naish Mervyn	1976 Waterloo Pembroke Dock Charge man shipwright and with the other H M Dockyard shipwrights pieced together memorial tablet to Edward Laws found smashed outside Dockyard Chapel 1983 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Naish Mervyn	22 10 1960 to Audrey Phillips marriage Stackpole Elider Church
Naish Nigel Stackpole Elider Church	29 10 1961 par Mervyn & Audrey of Pembroke Dock baptism
Nash James elton Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Nash Sarah elton Rent Book 5 Jan 1926	25 March 1926 Mrs 39a Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-

Nash William R 18/3/1924 par William & Daisy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Nathan John broke Dock 1870 B A Lond commercial and preparatory school for boys Pembroke Dock

Neale Stanley Purchased Upton Castle His Daughter who inherited served in the WRAF at Pembroke Dock She married Canon Skelton

Neuman ? 1847 Mrs School Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales 1847

Newcombe Gordon J 13/1/1924 par Alfred & Catherine, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Newman J pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Newman ? 1814 1847 Mr school for boys in North Park Street had a wooden leg -early schools Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales 1847

Newton Isaac Dock 1905 Rev pastor Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock

Nicholas David 1884 kept the Royal Oak public house Pennar Pembroke Dock

Nicholas Frank Rent Book 26 March 1926 63 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton

Nicholas Frank elton Rent Book 25 March 1941 and wife 5 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-

Nicholas George 14 2 1829 to Mary O'Bryan marriage Stackpole Elider Church

Nicholas Ivor J 30/10/1906 par John & Matilda, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Nicholas John Book Lady Day 1898 31 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent

Nicholas John	1861 Rev curate St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock
Nicholas M E Rent Book	25 March 1941 Mrs 26 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Nicholas ? Pembroke Dock	February 8th 1889 Mrs of Newton died Bentlas to Pennar Ferry
Nicholas Trevor Pennar, Pembroke Dock	25/1/1928 par Frederick & Ada , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Nicholas W Book	Lady Day 1898 19 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Nicholas W Book	Lady Day 1898 26 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Nicholls Dorothy Johns, Church Pembroke Dock	October 1 1848 baptism, daughter of John and Elizabeth Nicholls St
Nicholls Mary A Pembroke Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill 1820
Nickoll Frederick William Acc to Kellys Directory	1884 M A Rev Chaplain Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Nightingale Albert H Pennar, Pembroke Dock	23/6/1903 par Albert & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Noakes Fredrick Dock Kellys Directory	1884 Mr Duke of York Pembroke St Inns and Hotels Pembroke
Noakes Kathleen , Pennar, Pembroke Dock	25/9/1930 par George & Martha , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Noakes Lilian B Pennar, Pembroke Dock	28/6/1932 par George & Martha , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Noakes William J H Pennar, Pembroke Dock	26/4/1934 par George & Martha , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Noakes ?	1850 Mr under foreman father of Mr Noakes High Street 1851 con- struction Martello towers Pembroke Dock

Noble Edwin 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Noot ,Arthur J 26/9/1911 par Thomas & Gladys, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Noot ,Eileen , 14/9/1915 par Thomas & Gladys, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Noot ,Hilda 5/1/1913 par Thomas & Gladys, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Noot T J 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1 91
Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 17 January 1928

Noot ,William J 22/10/1918 par Thomas & Gladys, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Norbury M J 25 March 1941 Mrs 9 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Norris Emest September 20 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Norris J R May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Pembroke Dock

Norris James 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Norris W J 25 March 1939 18 Military Rd Pennar 20 Military Rd 25 March 1939 22 Military Rd 25 March 1939 Orielton Rent Book

Norris William Thomas 18 Military Rd 25 March 1925 20 Military Rd 25 March 1925
22 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1925 Orielton Rent Book

Norton Alice A E 17/1/1928 par Reginald & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

O Pell Watkyn Sir Captain Superintendents Pembroke Dock -had a wooden leg

Oakes R H 28 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Obray George born 1 Sep 1815 Pater St Mary Pembroke Dk Pembrokeshire died Oct 1880 Cache County Utah married to Edwards, Maria or May Elizabeth on 13 Feb 1836 at St Mary s, Pembroke, Wales Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obray John born 8 Jan 1822 Pembroke Pembrokeshire Wales married to Palmer, Tamar on Abt 1845 at Pembrokeshire? brother of Thomas "Lorenzo" Obray was baptized by Elder Evans at Pembroke Dock before 1851, ordained an Elder on 8 June 1851 at the Deptford Branch, London Conference emigrated to Utah mid-1850s but back in Britain by 1861 Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obray Maria Mariah? born 8 Sep 1814 Pater Pembroke Pembrokeshire died 15 Nov 1879 Hooper Weber Utah , married to Roberts, Phillip on 2 Feb 1843 at Pembroke Dock, Pembrokeshire Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obray Mary Jane born 7 Jan 1840 Pater Pembroke Pembrokeshire died 23 Jan 1900 Paradise Cache Utah married to Thomas William Nash on 1 Jan 1872 at Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obrey Robert born 6 Oct 1824 Pembroke Dk Pembrokeshire died 3 Sep 1867 - Kidney Failure University College Hospital London married to Downs, Ann on 25 Dec 1847 Pembrokeshire? - son John Robert Obray christened at St Mary 's parish, Pembroke Dock, on 6 October 1824 His parents were John and Elenor Allen Obray His father a shipwright at the Royal Dockyards Robert was joiner's apprentice lived at Queen Street baptized into LDS Church 15 Nov 1848 Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obrey Samuel William born 18 Jun 1828 Pembroke Dk Pembrokeshire died 5 Jun 1910 Paradise Cache Utah Left Liverpool on 1 Feb 1851 aboard the Ellen Maria Arrived in New Orleans on 7 Apr 1851 married to Harris, Margaret on 23 Nov 1856 at St Mary's, Pembroke, married to Bainbridge, Eleanor at St Louis, Missouri married to Preator, Mary Deborah on 25 Apr 1870 at Salt Lake City Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obrey Thomas Lorenzo born 23 Jul 1821 Pembroke Dk Pembrokeshire died 21 Oct 1899 Paradise Cache County Utah married to Shelton, Louise on 24 Jun 1854 at Fort Leavenworth married to Shelton, Martha on 17 Oct 1854 at Salt Lake City married to Brenchley, Caroline on 2 Aug 1857 at Salt Lake City married to Bradshaw, Ruth Nuttall on 30 Apr 1864 at Salt Lake City Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Obray Thomas William born 11 Apr 1848 Pembroke Dk Pembrokeshire died 12 Nov 1912 Paradise Cache Utah Left Liverpool on 1 Feb 1851 aboard the Ellen Maria Arrival, Arrived in New Orleans on 7 Apr 1851 married to Kay, Margaret Chatterley on 21 Mar 1868 at Salt Lake City His mother refused to emigrate and stayed behind with younger son Father was Samuel Obray , Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

O'Brien ,W Mrs Lady Day 1898 18 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Ogden Charles 18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-
Ogleby M	1904 assistant mistress National School Pembroke Dock
OHara Cecelia March 1924 25 March 1938	10 Jan 1924 Miss Samble Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock 25 Orielton Rent Book }
Oliver Charles 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Oliver John Kellys Directory	1884 Chief Boatswain Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Orford ,Dunn M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	4/7/1928 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Orford ,William R Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	24/2/1931 par William & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's 1895 to 1934
Ormiston T	School Board Pembroke Dock
Ormond Elizabeth	7thSeptember 1866 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Ormond John Dock	6thSeptember1866 age 28 months buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke
Osmond B Wesley Chapel Pennar	Lady Day 1898 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 1893Trustee CRO Haverfordwest
Osmond B J Rent Book	25 March 1935 48 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Owen ,Alice R Pennar, Pembroke Dock	24/3/1908 par Thomas & Edith , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Owen B Dock	1895 13 Military Rd Sexton St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke
Owen Edward H 18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-

Owen Elias Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 84 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Owen Frank	1920's Estate Agent Pembroke Dock choir boy Dockyard Chapel His Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Owen George Book	25 March 1941 35 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Owen George	1718 received money Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Owen James ist Chapel Pembroke Dock	20th June 1902 died aged 55 years St Andrews Calvinistic Method-
Owen John	1822 Sir Orielton sold 51 acres of land at Paterchurch to Admiralty
Owen John	1698 lent money Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Owen John	Mr vice chairman School Board Pembroke Dock
Owen John	1818 Sir of Orielton land for Bethany Chapel
Owen John	1760 Sir sold Paterchurch land to Board of Ordinance
Owen Martha Rent Book	25 March 1922 Mrs 27 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Owen ? SchoolPembroke Dock	12th August 1918 Mrs uncertificated Albion Square Girls
Owen Nathaniel	1834 general shop Pembroke Dock
Owen John	1822 Sir Govenor of Milford Haven and Vice Admiral of Pembroke-
Owen T L Book	25 March 1926 13 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Owen Thomas Book	Lady Day 1898 27 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Owen William	1786 Sir Orielton owned Pennar Land Tax 1786

Owen Wyrriot house destroyed by bomb no injuries	September 2nd 1940 Mr 23 Lower Gwyther Street Pembroke Dock
Owens Ellen Rent Book	10 January 1928 55 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Owens George Rent Book	29 September 1926 35 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Owens ,T L Book	25 March 1941 13 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Owens T P exploded with a great crash in his Garden	1941 Mr Park Street Pembroke Dock went up in the air as land mine
Owens Thomas Book	05 January 1926 13 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Owens William Robert Rent Book	29 September 1901 55 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Oxford ,William R Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	7/12/1929 par William & Annie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Oyns? Albert E nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934	11/3/1906 par Ernest& Sarah , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
Padmore Alfred Rent Book	25 March 1941 72 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Page Thomas Kellys Directory	1884 Mr White Hart Pembroke St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Page William Kellys Directory	1884 Mr Alexander Inn Water St -Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Paget C ing Co	1874 Admiral Lord Jacobs Pill Chairman Milford Haven Shipbuild-
Pagett William	April 29 1844 the Ancient Order of Druids Pembroke Dock
Palmer M	1976 Crane driver H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Palmer Tamer born abt 1820 Pembroke Dock Pembrokeshire died 1 Feb 1907
Pembroke Dock Pembrokeshire Married to Obray, John on Abt 1845 at Pembrokeshire? Mor- mon Records for Pembrokeshire

Parkin War George H very keen on fundraising activities for the National School

Parrett Edward 1870 Plymouth Brethren Pembroke Dock

Parry F H 25 March 1941 32 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Parry John Lady Day 1898 32 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Parry ? Mrs 1786 Pembroke N Hook Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

Parry Patricia 8/9/1931 par Thomas , & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's
Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Parry Sarah 25 March 1926 32 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Parry Thomas Henry 18 October 1939 32 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Pasley Thomas Sabine 21 July 1853 Sir Captain Superintendents Pembroke Dock he was very involved with the early days of the National School the Captain Superintendent at launching HMS Caesar Thursday Pembroke Dock addressed on history of the Dock Archaeologia Cam- brencis 1851

Paterchurch David 1362 Paterchurch also held land at Sageston and west Williamson
Old Pembrokeshire Families G Owen

Paterhouse David 1447 Paterchurch recorded as serving on a jury Old Pembrokeshire
Families G Owen

Paterhouse Elen 1422 Paterchurch father was David Paterhouse she married John Adams of Buckspool Old Pembrokeshire Families G Owen

Paxton Hood E June 28 1867 Rev Albion Square Congregational Church

Payne Betty G 12/11/1931 par George & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Payne Lionel J W 12/11/1931 par George & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Payne,Muriel G L 12/11/1931 par George & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Payne Samual Book 25 March 1941 23 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Payne Samual Orielton Rent Book 5 Jan 1926- 25 March 1941 21 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock

Payne Samual Book 25 March 1941 24 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Peace J Dock Deceased before 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke

Pearce Marjorie B Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1/9/1929 par Reginald & Marjorie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Pearn Charles Napier Directory 1884 Accountant Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock Kellys

Pearn ? 1814 Miss school for girls early schools Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales 1847

Peek Fredrick JM Pennar, Pembroke Dock 24/11/1896 par Amos & Fanny Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934,

Penfold Alfred Dock Kellys Directory 1884 Secretary to Superinterdent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke

Penfold J 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Perkin Isabella Ellen Pennar, Pembroke Dock 7/1/1896 par Alfred& Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Peters Stuart 1905 Pembroke Dock Mrs-- wrote History of Pembroke Dock

Phillips Fred 1940 Aug 19 Pembroke Dock "working trenching round the oil Tanks at the Llanreath Tank farm when it was bombed," "Was the only casualty – treated for shock, (33 million gallons of oil destroyed)" Vernon Scott

Picton Annie F 4/10/1904 par Thomas , & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton Frederick 1/5/1917 par James & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton Harold F 25/2/1914 par James & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton Kathleen M 2/4/1912 par James & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton J 25 March 1926 Mr 87 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book

Picton Leo D 23/12/1919 par James & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton Margaret K 25/6/1922 par James & Emily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton Mary 25 March 1939 14 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Picton Mary Jane Mrs 61 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Picton Richard 25 March 1926 14 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book

Picton Susan M 9/3/1922 par Charles & Fanny, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Picton T 25 March 1941 87 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Picton Thomas 29 September 1921 2 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Pilbeam Freda 17/6/1905 par Ambrose & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Pilkington ? Pembroke Dock	October 12th 1812 Col Ordnance Department Paterchurch later
Pinch H	Mr Albion Square Congregational Church
Pinch ? Wales	1847 Miss's School Pembroke Dock The State of Education in
Pinchard ?	May 12th 1941 Mrs W V S helper Pembroke Dock
Pinnegar Gwendoline M C	25/6/1918 par Bertram & Beatrice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock	1895 to 1934
Pinneger Elsie E	10/1/1922 par Bertram & Beatrice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock	1895 to 1934
Pinniger Bertie Theodore	May 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pem-
broke Dock
Plenderleith W N	1938 Wing Commander Officer of 210 died age 39 buried Llanion
Cemetery
Polkinghorn G	pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Pope A J	25 March 1941 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Pope Alfred John	26 March 1926 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Pope M E	25 March 1941 25 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Book
Porteous Freda J	6/11/1923 par Tom & Freda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock	1895 to 1934
Potter Emily	1884 Miss Commercial Hotel Queen St Inns and Hotels Pembroke
Dock Kellys Directory
Potter James	Lt Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock
Potts F A E	Society for the relief of Distress Pembroke Dock
Powell A	27 February 1906 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock

Powell A 1976 shipwright H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Powell Alan 10/9/1930 par Frederick & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Ann Mrs was appointed sextoness and carried out those duties for 33 years St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Powell Beryl E 26/8/1930 par Albert & Winifred, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Charles Lady Day 1898 20 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Powell Douglas 10/8/1920 par RodErick? & Agnes, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Edward G 12/4/1922 par Frederick & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Frederick Glyn Montague 1878 Rev MA Vicar St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Powell F G M 15 September 1879 Rev 2nd Vicar of St Johns, Church and former naval officer Pembroke Dock contemplated the building of a Mission Hall at Llanreathresigned 1879 St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Powell Francis E 8/2/1927 par Frederick & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Frederick 25 March 1941 7 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Powell G 1976 fitter H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Powell H M F 15 September 1879 Miss six year old daughter of Pembroke Docks Vicar launch HMS Tickler and Griper Pembroke Dock

Powell Joan M 13 /5/1922 par Frederick & Agnes, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell John 5/4/1933 par Frederick & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Lilian E 6/12/1923 par Frederick & Louise, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Llewellyn Pembroke Dock and Pembroke Gazette

Powell Marian L 12/4/1921 par Frederick & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Ronald G 6/1/1925 par Frederick & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Thelma I 1/7/1930 par William & Doris, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell Thomas 1862 Deacon of Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar CRO Haverfordwest

Powell Thomas Book Lady Day 1898 3 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Powell Thomas Rent Book Lady Day 1898 52 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Powell Thomas Rent Book Lady Day 1898 73 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

Powell Thomas broke Dock November 11th 1862 Deacons Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Powell W H 10 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Powell William C 26/8/1930 par Albert & Winifred, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell William H Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 3/11/1903 par William & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Powell William John 26 March 1926 4 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Powell William Rev Dock of Pembroke Gershom Calvinistic Methodist Chapel Pembroke

Powell William F 1899 Hilton House Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Power D	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Pratty G Dock	Deceased before 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Preator Mary Deborah Samuel William	born abt 1828 Pembroke Dk Pembrokeshire Married to Obray, Samuel William on 25 Apr 1870 at Salt Lake City Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire
Preece Phillip 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Preece R	pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Preese Ann 5th September 1866	age 40 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent Book
Preese Jane	10th September 1866 age 59 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Price Ann	died 1804 August of Pennar St Florence Church Records married to John price she was 104 when she died
Price C W M to the RAF	March 1929 Major MP transfer of the Dockyard from the Admiralty to the RAF
Price David	1813 kept the Dolphin Inn at Llanreath Point he died aged 96
Price Elizabeth	1843 12 4 Pennar St Florence Church Records she died age 56
Price Elizabeth Dock	8th September 1866 age 75years buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Price Elizabeth	2 11 1765 to Faithful Rossiter marriage Stackpole Elider Church
Price George	1804 Nov Pennar St Florence Church Records
Price George H 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Price James	1839 July Pennar St Florence Church Records
Price Jane Louisa Kellys Directory	1884 Mrs Three Crowns Laws St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock

Price John	1803 Feb Pennar wifes name was Ann he was 102 when he died she outlived him St Florence Church Records
Price Margaret	1772 Jan 24 Pennar St Florence Church Records
Price Morrice Tax	1670 of Pennar Pembroke Town P Castlemartin Hundred Hearth
Price Richard	13 April 1842 Pennar buried age 99 – St Florence Church records
Price Thomas	1666 of East Pennar was mayor of Pembroke
Prickett Abraham Book	Lady Day 1898 18 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Prickett Lily M H Pennar, Pembroke Dock	19/12/1917 par John & Francis , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Prickett Philip W O	8/6/1910 par John & Francis , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Prior ? Mrs Book	05 January 1926 10 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Propert ? Mr	Albion Square first Magistrate Pembroke Dock
Prosser David	1909 Aug 19 sold one of the little camp churches built on War Depart- ment ground letter written January 19th Pembroke Dock Vicar 1924 Bishop of St Davids d 1950 WWHR Vol3 p 240
Pugh Harry Pembroke Dock	April 18 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Pughe D L	1845 Rev first minister in Bethel Chapel Pembroke Dock
Purser Ivor	1976 Cosheston H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Quatermain ?	1814 1847 Mr boys school early schools Pembroke Dock
Quinland C D Rev	curate St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Quinland? Elizabeth L 8/11/1904 par John & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Radmore John May 1 1846 Mr concert for British School Pembroke Dock

Radmore ? 1905 Miss school Laws Street South Pembroke Dock

Ramsay Harriet 7 March 1860 Miss christened HMS Howe Pembroke Dock

Ramsay ? Mrs June 7 1862 Mechanics Institute Pembroke Dock

Ramsay ? Rev Mr pastor Upper Meyrick Street Congregationalists Chapel

Ramsey George Captain Superintendents Pembroke Dock instrumental in the forming and building of the Mechanics Institute. His son died young buried in Park St Cemetery

Rawlins Phillip 1820 Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Raynes ? 1814 1847 Miss's Macfarlane House high class boarding and day school early schools Pembroke Dock

Raynes ? 1814 1847 Mrs mixed school in Commercial Row early schools Pembroke Dock

Redman Gertrude M 19/10/1920 par George & Elsie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Reed E 1874 J P Sir K C B MP Jacobs Pill Dir Milford Haven Shipbuilding Co

Reed Rose 1877 Miss daughter of Sir E J P Reed laid foundation stone of the present Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock

Reed Wallace 19/2/1924 par Robert & Leonora, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Reed William Grant 26/10/1920 par Robert & Lavinia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees A 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Rees A F F 06 January 1931 24 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Rent Book

Rees Blanche E A 11/8/1925 par Albert & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Edna L P 2/8/1910 par Albert & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Ellen Lady Day 1898 21 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Rees Gladys May 6/5/1896 par Thomas & Margaret , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Iris C M 5/10/1915 par Albert & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees James 25 March 1941 29 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Rees John 1844 Rev of Upton preached Bethel Baptist Pembroke Dock

Rees M 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Rees Mary Lady Day 1898 16 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Rees Maude E M 17/4/1923 par Norman & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Olga T 5/10/1915 par John & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Roland L 11/7/1916 par William & Ruby, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Ronald 9/2/1929 par William & Lilly, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees S 25 October 1908 23 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Rees S pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Rees Stewart J 27/10/1912 par William & Lily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees Thomas V 22/6/1915 par William & Lily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees William J F 29/4/1928 par Albert & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rees William 14 January 1941 Pembroke House Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Rees William 25 March 1941 Pembroke House Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Reynolds Clarence J 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Reynolds H D 1905 Dr Pembroke Dock

Reynolds James B 2/9/1923 par Charles & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Reynolds John C 7/4/1925 par Charles & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ribbon Joyce 6/4/1926 par Ralph & Ethel, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte —George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Rice ? Mr H M London and Provincial Bank Pembroke Dock

Rice W M Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock

Richard Clifford A 1/3/1929 par Thomas & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke

Richards ? July 12 1880 died fire Emporium drapery establishment in Bush Street Pembroke Dock

Richards A E Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock

Richards A H 22nd August 1940 Walasthill Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar
Pembroke Dock

Richards Anne D 30/12/1924 par Thomas & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards D H Lady Day 1898 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Rent Book

Richards Elizabeth Mary born 12 Apr 1821 Pater Pembroke Dock Pembrokeshire Married to Maiben, John Bray on 4 Nov 1855 Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Richards ,Elsie L 6/1/1928 par Thomas & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards George Lady Day 1898 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Book

Richards George Bailey Mr 13 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Richards , George B 4/10/1904 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards J T 25 March 1928 Mr 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock 16 Nel- son St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Richards , James F 9/4/1898 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards James 1851 Mr choir master Trinity Chapel Meyrick St Pembroke Dock

Richards John 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Richards Joseph Mr chairman School Board Pembroke Dock

Richards , Lucy E E 9/4/1898 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards Marjorie E 17/12/1924 par George & Hannah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards Peter Captain Superintendents Pembroke Dock

Richards Sydney I 28/2/1906 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards ,William T 29/9/1914 par Fredrick & Hilda, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richards William H 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Richardson Cyril P 4/8/1921 par Henry & Maggie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richardson Florence E 28/8/1917 par Henry & Maggie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richardson J Captain Pembroke Dock Volunteer Artillery

Richardson Lorraine 4/8/1921 par Henry & Maggie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Richardson Reymond 28/8/1923 par Harry & Maggie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ridout Thomas Arthur E 1915 Aug 27 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Rigby Charles 1850 1851 contractor Martello towers Pembroke Dock

Rigby Joseph 1850 1851 contractor Martello towers Pembroke Dock

Rimmer William 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Ring 1880 Aug 23 Pembroke Dock Rev Dr Chaplain H M Dockyard Pembroke Dock Historical MSS Commission Arch Camb 1880 Page 324

Rixon John 1820 Mrs of Pembroke Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock

Roach Henry May 1848 pupil teacher British School Pembroke Dock

Road Henry Temperance Movement Pembroke Dock

Road John	1851 Mr a draughtsman in the Dockyard designed Trinity Chapel
Meyrick St	and plans for other Chapels The parish of Pembroke Dock – Silas T Phillips 1898
Road John broke Dock	1848 Mrs Pembroke Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pem-
Roads Ann broke Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pem-
Roberts Ann Book	Lady Day 1898 34 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Roberts,Dorothy E Pennar, Pembroke Dock	24/12/1916 par Arthur & Anne , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Roberts E C Pembroke Dock	22nd August 1940 Loveston Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar
Roberts E elton Rent Book	25 March 1941 Mrs 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Roberts E	came in 1869 Rev and left in 1873 Bethel Chapel Pembroke Dock
Roberts Elizabeth Book	25 03 1912 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Roberts Elizabeth elton Rent Book	25 March 1926 Mrs 93 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Roberts Ezra broke Dock	August 1865 Mrs St Andrews Calvinistic Methodist Chapel Pem-
Roberts,Fredrick T Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	11/8/1925 par James & Gwendolene , Baptisms at St Patrick's 1895 to 1934
Roberts George H 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Roberts,Gwendoline M nar, Pembroke Dock	8/4/1919 par Arthur & Annie Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934

Roberts,Ivy C 20/1/1925 par James & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Roberts,James E 4/10/1921 par James & Gwendoline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Roberts James 29 September 1901 51 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Roberts John G 21/8/1923 par James & Gwendoline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Roberts L B 1940's Lyserry Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock

Roberts Phillip born? Johnston Pembrokeshire died 6 Feb 1901 Ogden Weber Utah Married to Obray, Maria Mariah on 2 Feb 1843 at Pembroke Dock, Pembrokeshire Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Roberts R C 1876 Rev BethelChapel Pembroke Dock

Roberts Roy 1931 Arcadian Dance Band Pembroke Dock

Roberts Samual Lady Day 1898 6 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Roberts T H 25 March 1929 land Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Roberts T H & E 13 January 1942 Mrs Bad Debt irrecoverable land Upper Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Roberts W 1786 Buyers Pool Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock Land Tax 1786

Roberts,William J 26/7/1910 par William & Evelyn, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Roberts William 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Robinson Joan 29 January 1942 Mrs 14 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Robinson William	1830s Shipbuilding Yard Front St Pembroke Dock
Robinson William Mrs	of Church Street Treasurer Ladies Association of the British and Foreign Bible Society Pembroke Dock
Roblin ? broke Dock	Mr Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pem-
Roblin S	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Robson Ernest R Pennar, Pembroke Dock	5/2/1901 par William & Fanny , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Roch C	1904 assistant mistress National School Pembroke Dock
Roch ? Mr destroyed by bomb	lighthouse keeper 34 Lower Gwyther Street Pembroke Dock house
Rogers F	1920 Water Street Pembroke Dock Baker
Rogers Jane	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Rogers John Hubert Pembroke Dock	31 May 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Rogers Kathleen M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	31/5/1910 par Thomas & Alice , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Rogers ? broke Dock	1919 Mr 3 Sycamore St Sexton St Patricks Church Pennar Pem-
Rogers P C Dock	1904 Miss headmistress Albion Square Infants School Pembroke
Rogers S A elton Rent Book	13 January 1942 Miss 28 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Rogers Thomas Book	21 June 1923 2 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Rogers Thomas Book	Lady Day 1898 20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Rogers Thomas H J	25 Mar 1917 94 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
Rogers W Book	Lady Day 1898 2 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Rogers W H Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 66 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rogers William Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 28 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rollings E M Rent Book	29 September 1908 Mrs Front St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rollings J	Lady Day 1898 Executors 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock 16 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Rollings J L	25 March 1925 15 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock 16 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Ross J	24 April 1940 21 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 41 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 43 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Rossant D Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rossant G	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Rossiter I	1976 MS04 Eng H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Rowe Myra E broke Dock	20th December 1877 pupil teacher Albion Square Girls School Pem-
Rowe Myra broke Dock	26th April 1880 insubordination Albion Square Girls School Pem-
Rowe Thomas Chapel Pembroke Dock	1825 Mr violin music for Services Tabernacle Congregational
Rowlands J	School Board Pembroke Dock

Royal Muriel O 10/7/1917 par William & Effie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rufus Gladys L 1926 par William & Gladys, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rufus John D 16/5/1899 par William & Mary Ann, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rumbold P A S July 1951 Squadron Leader 201s C 0 for 201 Squadron RAF Pembroke Dock to Jamaica

Russan ,AnnieI 1/5/1900 par William & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,Florence M 29/10/1910 par William & Florry, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,Frances M 27/11/1917 par George & Francis, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,Gordon T 9/3/1919 par Albert & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan G 25 March 1926 Choir Master Pennar Pembroke Dock 1919 6 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book St Patricks Church Minute Book

Russan , George R 24/8/1897 par William & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan James 1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 18 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 31st December 1923 25 March 1926 14 January 1941 25 March 1941 deceased Orielton Rent Book

Russan Jas Lady Day 1898 18 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Russan Joyce E A 29/7/1917 par James & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan J 1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Russan ,Lilian V 19/3/1912 par George & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan Margaret E 19/3/1912 par George & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,Martha J 19/3/1912 par George & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,Raymond F 4/3/1919 par George & Frances, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,Thomas J 9/4/1918 par George & Francis, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan ,William G 19/3/1912 par George & Francis, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russan W Lady Day 1898 40 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Russant Ivor C 15/7/1928 par Thomas & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russant Sylvia J 30/6/1931 par Thomas & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Russell G H M 1976 Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Russell Gerald W Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock

Russell John 16/5/1911 par Edward & Francis, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Rutledge Dorothy M 1/2/1916 par George & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Ryder Jeffery 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Salmon William G 8/4/1925 par William & Olive, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Sambells Lydia Lady Day 1898 Samble Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Samuel Isaac	June 21 1899 Mr treasurer Albion Square Congregational Church
Samuel Jenkins	1870 ex Dockyard official landlord of the Victoria Hotel and Mayor
Sanders Fred	June 22 1897 Pembroke Dock Queen Victorias Diamond Jubilee
Saunders ? 3rd check for Ringworm and Scarlet Fever	10th February 1928 Dr Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock
Saunders E A	1905 Dr M R C S L S A Pembroke Dock
Saunders George James Rich	September 26 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock
Saunders R P yard Apprentice; Captain Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock	Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock Ex Pembroke Dock-
Saunders S	pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Saunders William Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke
Savage E J 1829	Captain R E Hobbs Point Pembroke Dock
Savage J W	25 March 1925 Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Savage J W	06 January 1925 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock
Sawyer John J 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Saxby Albert broke Dock Kellys Directory 1884	1884 Pembrokeshire Arms Lower Meyrick St Inns and Hotels Pem-
Scorfield John George Rent Book	25 March 1925 66 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Scourfield David Book	25 March 1941 14 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Scourfield David Rent Book	25 March 1925 Garden Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton

Scourfield Dorothy Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 64 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Scourfield E Rent Book	25 March 1941 Mrs 10 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Scourfield Henry Book	25 Mar 1917 66 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Scourfield J	builder Pembroke Dock
Scourfield J G elton Rent Book	25 March 1939 Mr 66 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Scourfield J H Rent Book	13 January 1942 Mr 8 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Scourfield J Rent Book1895	25 March 1937 Mr 11 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Scourfield J Rent Book	25 March 1937 Mr 22 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Scourfield John Book	Lady Day 1898 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Scourfield John Book	25 March 1924 15 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Scourfield John Book	25 March 1924 2 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Scourfield John Book	25 March 1924 22 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Scourfield John Book	25 March 1915 3 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Scourfield John Rent Book	25 March 1924 4 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Scourfield John George Book	7 Jan 1925 66 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Scourfield John 25 March 1938 Mr Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield ? November 10th 1940 Mr and Mrs 19 Owen Street Pembroke Dock survived – house destroyed Air Raid

Scourfield Thomas 25 March 1925 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield Thomas 22 June 1924 22 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield Thomas Abraham 25 March 1929 100 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield Thomas Abraham 25 March 1929 34 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield Thomas Abraham 25 March 1929 71 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield Thomas Abraham 25 March 1929 71a Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield Thomas 25 March 1925 frequently in arrears 22 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scourfield William 25 March 1940 19 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scurlock Benjamin 1851 Pembroke Dock trustee Bethesda Chapel Neyland Baptist Historical Sketches

Scurlock C A 25 March 1941 Mrs 16 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 16a Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 92 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Scurlock Frederick John 1919 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Scurlock O J 25 March 1926 16 Military Rd Pennar 16a Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Sealey K	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Searle Albert Victor Pembroke Dock	31 May 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Seccombe Elizabeth Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel Barrack Hill Pembroke
Seccombe William Edward	Lt Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock
Seccombe William	1887 Mayor -1889 seats on Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock
Senitock Colin G Pennar, Pembroke Dock	6/5/1928 par Reuben & Margaret , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shaddick Phil	Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 12 Orielton Rent Book
Shadrach Eliakim Church aged 64 years	died April 8 1869 Rev Tabernacle and Albion Square Congregational
Shanahan John	6 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Shapcott , Albert E Pennar, Pembroke Dock	28/10/1902 par Robert & Rhoda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shapcott ,Alice E M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	27/3/1906 par Robert & Rhoda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shapcott ,Anthony I E Pennar, Pembroke Dock	1/8/1933 par Charles & Annie , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shapcott ,Charles E Pennar, Pembroke Dock	28/3/1905 par Robert & Rhoda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shapcott ,Harry H Pennar, Pembroke Dock	5/1/1904 par Robert & Rhoda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shapcott ,Norman W Pennar, Pembroke Dock	6/12/1910 par Robert & Rhoda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Shapcott ,Robert W J Pennar, Pembroke Dock	16/5/1901 par Robert & Rhoda , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934

Sharlack? Brigine? 7/10/1928 par Edward & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Sharpe Anna 1884 Mrs Queens Hotel Queen St East Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Shears Beryl M 30/5/1928 par Frank & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Shears Dilys E 12/12/1926 par Frank & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Shears Dorothy M 22/6/1933 par Frank & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Shears Emily G 4/11/1923 par Frank & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Shears Norma M 21/5/1931 par Frank & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Sheperdson E Mary Lady Day 1898 Lily Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Sheperdson H G Lady Day 1898 Lily Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Shepherd Cyril W 30/1/1923 par Henry & Gwendoline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Shepherdson E M 25 March 1925 Lily Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Sheppard Frederick O 24/7/1934 par Richard & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Sheppard Charles E 19/4/1932 par Richard & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Sheppard Francis E 5/11/1929 par Richard & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Sillence Wilfred 16/5/1916 par John & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Simes E L Rent Book	25 March 1939 Mrs 4 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Simmonds Percy 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Skelton W	1893 Trustee Wesley Chapel Pennar CRO Haverfordwest
Skerme Arthur J Pennar, Pembroke Dock	19/9/1928 par William & Violet , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Skilton Ada	Mrs 7 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton Rent Book
Skilton C S Rent Book	25 March 1939 73 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Skilton E V elton Rent Book	10 January 1942 Mr 35 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Skilton M B Rent Book	25 March 1938 35 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orierton
Skilton M L elton Rent book	29 September 1909 Mrs 23 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Skilton M L elton Rent Book	25 March 1919 Mrs 35 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Skinner, Arthur G nar, Pembroke Dock	20/8/1918 par Arthur & Julia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934
Skinner Eva F Pennar, Pembroke Dock	13/10/1914 par Arthur & Julia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Skinner Hilda D Pennar, Pembroke Dock	13/10/1914 par Arthur & Julia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Skinner Ivy M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	19/12/1911 par Arthur & Julia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Skinner Margery R nar, Pembroke Dock	12/6/1917 par Arthur & Julia , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- 1895 to 1934

Skone Robert Lady Day 1898 Upper Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton
Rent Book

Skyrme Edwin September 26 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Skyrme John B 1877 shipwright Meyrick St Pembroke Dock signed the leaseNeyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records

Skyrme ? 5th May 1877 Mr trustees Neyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel re- cords

Slade Albert F 20/5/1913 par Herbert & Louise, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Slade William D 1/8/1922 par George & Louisa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Slocombe ? 1814 1847 Miss North Park Street early schools Pembroke Dock

Sloggett George sergeant major Pembroke Dock Volunteer Artillery

Sloggett Mary Ann 25 March 1926 Llanreath Pembroke Dock 204 Orielton Rent Book

Smart Robert Captain Superintendents Pembroke Dock Colonel Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Smedley Isaac 1887 esq. J P Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of DistressThe Liberal Club Water Street died June 12th 1896 aged 55 years

Smith H E F Lady Day 1898 Executors 1 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book

Smith Alfred W 20/10/1914 par Alfred & Marian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Smith Clifford R A S ?/6?/1904 par Henry & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Smith Daniel Lady Day 1898 15 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Oriulton Rent
Book

Smith F W Lady Day 1898 Mrs 11 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book

Smith F W Lady Day 1898 Mrs 13 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book

Smith Grace May 4 1904 Miss Coronation School Pembroke Dock

Smith Gwendoline W 15/10/1912 par Frederick & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,

Smith Henry I 26/1/1915 par Henry & Laura, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Smith Jane 25 Oct 1912 15 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Smith Joyce 2/11/1920 par Clement & Lily, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Smith Margaret L 13/12/1910 par Frederick & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Smith Margaretta L 26/1/1915 par William & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Smith ? Feb 9th 1904 Mrs kneeling cushions St Teilos Mission Church Pembroke Dock

Smith Thomas 25 March 1941 102 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 103 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 104 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Smith Thomas 25 Mar 1933 3 New Houses Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 4 New Houses Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Smith W May 4 1904 and assistant master Coronation School Pembroke Dock School Board Pembroke Dock trustee Wesley Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock 1893

Smitham Alfred G 7/12/1930 par George & Victoria, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Snell Ellen M 7/5/1912 par Reginald & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Southerton William 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Spriggs Ann Elizabeth October 3 1848 of Pembroke Dock and James Thomas of Haverfordwest married by licence St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Spring Thorpe J pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Spurr John Lady Day 1898 77 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Spurr ,Margaret R 9/12/1931 par Bert & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Spurr ,Mary E 25/5/1933 par Bert & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church
Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Spurr ,William J 21/12/1930 par Bert & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar,
Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

St Albans August 1st 1915 Chapel Bush Camp Pembroke Dock dedicated It is suspected that this was the Chapel sold by the Rev Prosser in 1924 for £15 letter with St Patrick's Church minute book CRO Haverfordwest

St Lukes Church February 20th 1916 in the Military Hospital dedicated now South Pembroke-shire Hospital Pembroke Dock

St Martins Chapel January 9th 1916 Llanion Barracks Pembroke Dock dedicated

Stacey, James W J 18/5/1920 par James & Eva, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Stacey Margaret A 2/4/1918 par James & Eva, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen-
nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Stamper Geoffrey 1904 Dr Pembroke Dock 1905 gave Communion Service to St Teilos
Mission Church Pembroke Dock 1904

Stamper James F died May 22nd 1900 Dr M D JP aged 52

Stamper ? Feb 9th 1904 Miss gave an Altar cloth to St Teilos Mission Church
Pembroke Dock

Stamper ? 1904 Mrs gave altar cross and vases to St Teilos Mission Church
Pembroke Dock

Stephen Arthur Benjamin Pembroke Dock	1915 May 13 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Stephens Ada	Mrs 7 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Stephens Anne Dock	6th September 1866 age 26 years buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke
Stephens Frederick 1914-18 Memorial	1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Stephens J	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock
Stephens Royston W Pennar, Pembroke Dock	7/2/1928 par James & Lilian , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Stephens Seth John broke Dock	2nd September 1866 age 12 months buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock
Stevens D J Rev	Vicar St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock
Stevens J pre fore 1976	1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock Deceased before 1976
Stewart Walter	Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock
Stockton William 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Stone William Dock	1812 of Plymouth Master shipwright Paterchurch later Pembroke
Storer A T ory	1884 Lieut Col Commananding R E Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory
Stovall ?	1850 1851 Mr chief foreman Martello towers Pembroke Dock
Stowe? Sylvia E M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	13/12/1932 par Donald & Agnes , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Stuart G & S Dock Orielson Rent Book	29 September 1931 Mrs & Mrs 21 Owen St Pennar Pembroke

Suchon John R 1914-18 Memorial	1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Sudbury Alfred John Pennar Orielson Rent Book	25 March 1940 London Rd 12 Fleet St, 79 , 81, 83,Military Rd Pennar Orielson Rent Book
Sudbury Frank	25 March 1941 Hillton House Llanreath
Sudbury Frank	29 September 1934 12 Fleet St 2 Military Rd 3 Military Rd 51 Military Rd 81& 83 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Sulten ?	1867 Mr of London architect Albion Square Chapel Pembroke Dock
Sumpter Charles Dock	1851 was the Deacon Tabernacle Congregational Chapel Pembroke Dock
Sumpter J fellows Pembroke Dock	January 29 1837 Dr Grand Master The Loyal Victoria lodge of Odd-fellows Pembroke Dock lost his life by accidently falling over the trench of the Defensible Barracks Pembroke Dock
Sutton R C	June 28 1865 esq. architect Albion Square Congregational Church
Sutton V J broke Dock	25 March 1925 Executors Upper Llanreath House Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Symonds Harold W 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Tapp W Dock	1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock
Tasker Jemima Book	25 Mar 1898 17 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Taylor E	1893 Secretary of the Wesley Chapel Pennar CRO Haverfordwest
Taylor F W Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 Edgefield House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book
Taylor George	31 12 1876 to Elizabeth Adams marriage St Petrox Church
Taylor H	of Dimond Street Organist St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Taylor John 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Taylor Wallace 1914-18 Memorial	1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
Taylor William Powell re burial at Pembroke Dock	30 July 1844 Church of Rhoscrowther faculty removal of the body
Teasdale J H Chamber of Commerce	1882 president 1882 to 1884 Pembroke Dock and Milford Haven
Templeman Norman R Pennar, Pembroke Dock	14/5/1923 par Fred & Florence , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Tewing ? Crown	1786 Capt Pater Church Land tax 1786 Tenant land owned by the
Thomas A V & S E Rent Book	05 January 1911 Rev 4 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Thomas Alan	1977 Rev St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock appointed Vicar
Thomas Albert	25 March 1935 Treffgarne House Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Thomas Albert J	24/5/1910 par John & Lucy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Thomas Alfred J	18/3/1919 par George & Elizabeth , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Thomas Arthur G	2/5/1899 par James & Lucy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pen- nar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Thomas Augustus Dock Orielton Rent Book	07 January 1941 Revd Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke
Thomas Benjamin J	6 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas Betty L	23/2/1931 par John & Kate , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Charles 13/3/1906 par George & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Charles Powell 2nd September 1866 age 32 months buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Thomas Clarice 1945 Alberta House Water Street Pembroke Dock married a Canadian Bethel Chapel

Thomas Colin Stanley 4/6/1918 par George & May, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas D 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Thomas Dav Philip 05 January 1926 29 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Thomas David Lady Day 1898 11 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Thomas David Philip 25 March 1926 28 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Thomas ? Dr Officers Row first Magistrate Pembroke Dock

Thomas Edith M 10/12/1912 par George & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Elizabeth N 6/2/1919 par William & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Elizabeth 1833 Mar 3 Pennar St Florence Church Records

Thomas Elizabeth 2 Gothic Cottages Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Thomas Emma Lady Day 1898 69 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Thomas Ernest 1916 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Thomas Ernest J R 14/9/1919 par Reginald & Jennet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Evelyn M 27/9/1910 par Henry & Esther, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Fredrick 13/3/1906 par David & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas G 24 January 1900 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Thomas G 24 January 1900 Upper Pennar Meadow Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book

Thomas Garry 24 9 1961 par William & Kathleen baptism St Petrox Church

Thomas George L 13/9/1916 par George & Alice, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas George 1861 Quit notices Pembroke Dock

Thomas Gus February 1932 retired 1944 Rev pastor Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock died lived Rose Cottage Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1941 Orielton Rent Book

Thomas Henry J 12/4/1925 par John & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Henry 29 September 1910 12 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Thomas Henry 29 September 1910 52 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Rent Book

Thomas J 1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Thomas J 31st December 1923 choirmaster St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Thomas J J pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Thomas J M 14 February 1921 west Orielton Lost stock because of Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock 22nd August 1940

Thomas James	22 June 1920 Lower Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas James Snow	21/4/1896 par James & Lucy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Thomas James Book	25 March 1941 12 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas James Book	25 Oct 1904 13 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas James Rent Book	25 October 1908 23 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas James	June 22 1897 Eastlake marshal Pembroke Dock Queen Victorias Diamond Jubilee on Tuesday
Thomas James John Rent Book	September 2nd 1924 8 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas James	1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Thomas Jane	May 1848 pupil teacher British School Pembroke Dock
Thomas John R Pennar, Pembroke Dock	30/3/1923 par John & Margaret , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934
Thomas John Book	25 March 1926 1 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas John Book	Lady Day 1898 13 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas John Book	25 March 1926 5 Grove St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas John Book	25 March 1941 7 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas John Book	Lady Day 1898 9 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Thomas John	B A Rev of Liverpool born King Street Pembroke Dock

Thomas John Frederick Pembroke Dock 22nd August 1940 30 Elaine Street Cardiff died oil Tanks fire Pennar

Thomas John Kellys Directory 1884 Navy Tavern Pembroke St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock

Thomas ? 1824 to 1826 JP Dr of Officers Row Worshipful Master Ancient Order of FreeMason s Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock

Thomas Kenneth I 4/6/1918 par George & May, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Lewis James Pembroke Dock Oct 23 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church

Thomas M A Rent Book Lady Day 1898 2 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson

Thomas M Pembroke Dock 1820 Choir Wesleyan Chapel – Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill

Thomas Margaret Rene 1945 Alberta House Water Street Pembroke Dock married a Canadian Bethel Chapel

Thomas Martha Rent Book 05 January 1926 Mrs 28 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson

Thomas Maud 1904 Miss played harmonium moved from St Johns, at St Teilos Mission Church Pembroke Dock

Thomas ? broke Dock 1907 Mr of Swan Row Sexton St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Thomas ? St Front St Pembroke Dock 25 Sep 1814 Mr foreman of BlackSmiths first houses Thomas later

Thomas Olwen R M 11/12/1917 par John & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Percival H R 6/6/1905 par Arthur & Gwendoline, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Reginald George July 9 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Thomas Richard National and Provincial Bank Pembroke Dock

Thomas Rosalie M G 18/4/1911 par Albert & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Sheila M 25/2/1926 par WinFord & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas Stewart Oct 4 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Thomas Sylvia M 29/7/1926 par William & Maud, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas T 1854 Rev Bethel Chapel Pembroke Dock

Thomas Thomas of Queen Street East builder

Thomas W H 1844 Rev of Water Holmes BethelBaptist Pembroke Dock

Thomas William G J 17/9/1916 par Reginald & Jennet, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas William J E 2/1/1923 par William & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas William J H 7/11/1923 par James & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas William J 25/10/1910 par George & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Thomas William 1814 1847 Mr a school Middle Prospect Place early schools Pembroke Dock

Thomas William 1847 Mr School Pembroke Dock The State of Education in Wales 1847

Thompson Samual 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Thurlow Henry 25 March 1926 15 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Thurston Smith October 1939 Flight Lieutenant 228 Squadron awarded D F C rescued crew of the steamship Kensington Court RAF Pembroke Dock

Tiller Lilian E 13/1/1917 par Rowland & Edith, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Tinkler George Superintending Civil Engineer Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock Acc to Kellys Directory 1884

Toogood Dorothy M 6/1/1920 par William & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Toogood Thomas 25 March 1920 Rent in arrears Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Toogood W C A 25 March 1939 57 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Torrington Dennis C 9/8/1921 par Charles & Florence, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Trayler Arthur 1877 Draper Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records

Trayler Edwin 1877 Draper Pembroke Dock signed the lease Neyland Wesleyan Methodist Chapel records

Trayler ? November 10 1879 Miss Wesleyan Methodists Trinity Chapel Pembroke Ferry Pembroke Dock

Tregenna Jane 1820 Miss Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Tregenna ? 1814 1847 Mr School opposite Bethany Chapel early schools Pembroke Dock

Tregenna ? Mr Temperance Hall Pembroke Dock

Tregenna Richard 1820 Sunday School superintendent Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Tregenna Samual 1820 Choir Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Tremain Henry Lt Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Trevena Henry January 13 1863 of Laws Street founded Pembrokeshire Permanent Benefit Building Society Pembroke Dock

Treweeks ? Captain 1904 C Company 1st V B Welsh, Regiment Pembroke Dock

Trotter Joan 7/7/1929 par Joseph & Freda, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Truscott Frederick George Apr 23 1918 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Truscott H G G M 1904 Ancient Order of FreeMasons Loyal Welsh, Lodge of Wales Pembroke Dock

Tucker Joseph of Commercial Row fireworks Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Tucker P M 25 March 1939 Mrs 3 Gilgal Terr Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Tucker Tegloyn M 12/3/1934 par Bertram & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Tunsdall John 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Turner George J 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI 1914-18 Memorial

Turner James 25 March 1935 Commercial Inn Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Turner ? 1857 Naval Gunner Paterchurch Battery Pembroke Dock

Turner P A 25 March 1939 Mrs Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Turner Samuel George July 16 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Turner Walter W T 24/5/1904 par James & Phoebe, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Tuthill Frederick Robert Lloyd Rear-Admiral USNR of Pembroke Dock Perhaps the most unlikely Pembrokeshire sea career was that of a corporal of the Pembroke Yeomanry who became an admiral in the United States Navy. Corporal Frederick Robert Lloyd Tuthill, born in Pembroke Dock on 23 January 1898, served in the Dardanelles and Palestine and on de-mob trained at the Marconi College at Cardiff. He later emigrated to the United States and joined the US Naval Reserve as a lieutenant (jg) in 1928. Tuthill was called to active service in October 1940 and served with distinction as a radio specialist. He became Communications Officer to the Naval Task Force Commander in the allied invasion of the south of France in August 1944 and later held key posts with the Chief of Naval Operations, Commander Naval Forces Europe and with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Fred Tuthill retired to Williamsburg as a rear admiral USNR (retired), corporal Pembroke Yeomanry (retired), a unique record of service.

Twigg Bernard A 29/7/1924 par James & Julie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Vaughan Mary 14/2/1921 par George & Christiana, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Vaughan William 8/3/1927 par George & Christina, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Vaulk Elizabeth 17th September 1866 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Venable W 1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Venables Thomas 25 March 1935 10 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Venning John Lt Officer of the 8th Battalion Royal Dockyard Defence Force Pembroke Dock

Vincent James W 3/3/1928 par Thomas , & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Vincent Richard 3/3/1928 par Thomas , & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Vincent Sarah M 5/1/1933 par James & Annie, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Vincent Thomas , J 26/11/1927 par Thomas , & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Violet Constance Mabel Dock July 16th 1895 baptised St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Wainwright F Pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Wakerell P J Book 25 October 1920 7 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Wakersell P J Book 22 June 1920 Lower Pennar Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent

Wakorell? Henry G H 21/6/1921 par Peter & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Walker Calin Flight Lieutenant an R A A F Sunderland. Attacked by eight Ju 88s in the Bay of Biscay

Walker ? 1759 Captain survey to purchase land at Paterchurch point

Walling Evelyn A 10/2/1903 par Henry & Maude, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wallis Mildred J 15/6/1920 par William & Cicilia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Walter John 1860s secretary Pembroke Dock auxiliary of the Bible Society

Walter John 1860s secretary Pembroke Dock Society for the relief of Distress

Walton James T 1914-18 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI

Ware Rowland Mark 26/7/1928 par Charles & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Warhurst Walter 1914-18 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI

Warlow James D Book	25 March 1925 17 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent
Warlow M E Rent Book	25 March 1941 Mrs Hill House Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielson
Warlow M L Rent Book	Lady Day 1939 Mrs 17 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Warlow ? broke Dock	1867 Mr of Pembroke Dock contractor Albion Square Chapel Pem-
Warren E C	Chief Constructor Pater Yard Pembroke Dock
Warren E J launched HMS Tickler and Griper	15 September 1879 Miss daughter of the new Chief Constructor Pembroke Dock
Watkins Martha Rent Book	29 September 1921 Mrs 8 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson
Watkins Samual Kellys Directory	1884 New Cambria Prospect Place Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Watkins Thomas	May 1848 pupil teacher British School Pembroke Dock
Watson Burges wife was involved with social work especially the Nurses Association and Home	Captain Superintendent Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock His
Watson Joseph George Church Pembroke Dock	1915 September 25 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns,
Webb Gertrude Chapel Pembroke Dock	Miss of Bush Street Organist St Andrews Calvinistic Methodist
Webb ?	1786 Mr Brewhouse Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock
Webb ? Records	1791/2 Mr owner Pembroke St Mary's Brewhouse CRO Land Tax
Webb ? Loyal Welsh , Lodge of Wales	Mr shoemaker Meyrick Street North Ancient Order of FreeMason s Pembroke Dock
Webb R	Pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Webb Sydney 1884 Prince of Wales Laws St also photographer Inns and Hotels
Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Webb William 25 March 1925 24 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Webb William 25 March 1939 Mrs 24 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Webster Gladys M 2/12/1919 par Charles & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Webster J R Rev Albion Square Congregational Church

Webster William G 2/12/1919 par Charles & Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Welby Patrick W 14/4/1931 par Sarah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Welsh Audrey A B 27/11/1914 par James & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Whale ? 1814 1847 Mr school opposite Bethany Chapel Pembroke Dock

Whelling Nicholas 1698 Ferry Hill Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

White,Cynthia R 5/12/1911 par Walter & Julia, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

White David 1884 Vine, Melville St Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

White Francis 1812 Paterchurch Farm Paterchurch estate later Pembroke Dock

White George Dock 12 October 1848 Church Warden St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

White Margaret 1670 Dale H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

White Margret 1670 Rhoscrowther P Castlemartin Hundred Hearth Tax

Whitford J Pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Whitley Dunn G solicitor for the board burial Board Pembroke Dock

Wickland G 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Wiele A M 1884 Storekeeping & Cashier Her Majestys Dockyard Pembroke Dock Kellys Directory

Wilby A Pre 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Wilcox ,Beatrice M 25/10/1921 par Henry & Gertrude, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilcox David Lady Day 1898 37 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Wilcox Dorothy E L 17/3/1932 par Henry & Dorothy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilcox Gertrude A M 14/5/1927 par Charles & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilcox Gladys M 19/11/1918 par Hurbert & Elizabeth, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilcox G E J Lady Day 1898 4 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Wilcox H V 25 March 1926 84 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock - Wilcox H V Bad debt 84 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Wilcox Iris V 28/12/1915 par Henry & Gertrude, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilcox W 1907 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Wilcox William 37 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 18 February 1907 25 March 1907

Wilcox William 25 March 1902 25 March 1930 38 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book 461b

Wilcox William 3rd September 1866 age 25yrs buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Wilde ? February 1902 Barrack Sergeant -lodge of the Good Templars opened in Pembroke Dock

Willcocks Henry C 27/8/1928 par John & Norah, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

William Henry broke Dock July 1827 Prince Duke of Clarence launched HMS Clarence Pembroke Dock

William Thomas Rent Book 19 January 1935 Mrs 3 Front St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton

William William Dock May 1871 Mr became Headmaster pupil British School Pembroke

Williams & Lowless, S A & O F 14 January 1941 17 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 39 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 14 January 1941 17 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1941 39 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock 25 March 1941 Orielton Rent Book

Williams A of Commercial Row clerk of the Burial Board Pembroke Dock

Williams A J Book 25 March 1925 20 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent

Williams A K Hilton House Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Williams Absolom elton Rent Book 25 March 1929 Mr 59 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-

Williams Albert Edwin broke Dock 1915 Oct The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Williams Alfred H Pennar, Pembroke Dock 18/10/1910 par Henry & Evelyn, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Alice E H Pennar, Pembroke Dock 6/12/1910 par Henry & Evelyn, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Arnold Lady Day 1898 Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Williams Arnold Dock 25 March 1925 25 March 1940 Steynton Villa Llanreath Pembroke

Williams Ben 25 March 1925 14 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Williams Bertha 22/10/1912 par Henry & Evelyn, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Bronwen R 7/4/1914 par William & Rosa, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams C 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Williams Charles George 1914 Oct 28 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Williams Chas Henry 1887 of 4 Charlton Place stone Mason Carved stone work in St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock 1907Minute book St Patrick's Church PRO Haverfordwest

Williams Cornelius clerk of the board burial Board Pembroke Dock

Williams D 25 March 1926 & others 19 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Williams D Aubrey 26 July 1916 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Williams David 25 March 1941 & Mrs 19 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Williams Dinah born 23 Jun 1841 Pembroke Dock Pembrokeshire died 14 Aug 1917 Evanston Wyoming Married to Osborne, Richard William on 12 Feb 1860 at St Simon, Liverpool, Lancs, England Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Williams Donald C 15/2/1910 par William & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Dorothy M 20/12/1910 par Henry & Evelyn, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams E E 10 Jan 1933 SunnyHill Cottage Llanreath Pembroke Dock

Williams Eiddwen C 13/8/1918 par William & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Elizabeth A 25/2/1914 par Alfred & Eleanor, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Esther 1940 Entry Deleted Miss 25 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
elton Rent Book

Williams G 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Williams George 25 March 1939 17 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon
Rent Book

Williams George 25 March 1939 39 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon Rent
Book

Williams George 25 March 1938 decd Llanreath Orielon Rent Book

Williams George 25 March 1926 New Swan Inn 4 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielon Rent Book

Williams George 29 September 1909 decd Llanreath Pembroke Dock Orielon Rent
Book

Williams George Arthur 29 June 1929 53 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon Rent
Book

Williams George H 1917 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18

Williams Gordon 13/11/1930 par Thomas & Winifred, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams Gwaldys R 5/2/1915 par William & Martha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams H National School 1904 Pembroke Dock

Williams Hilda M 4/11/1913 par Martha & William Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams J D	1865 to 1868 Rev Bethel Chapel Pembroke Dock
Williams J H L	25 March 1941 8 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock 36 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Williams J L H Orielton Rent Book	25 March 1925 deceased 8 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Williams J R	Wednesday October 16th 1940 Alderman took shelter during a raid, in a bomb crater at the top of Wellington Street Pembroke Dock
Williams J broke Dock	31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock
Williams Jacob	pre1814 cottage near Jacobs Pill Pennar
Williams James Dock	June 1868 Rev Minister Gilgal Baptist Church Pennar Pembroke
Williams John Kellys Directory	1884 Kalwentage Inn Pennar Inns and Hotels Pembroke Dock
Williams John Sketches Rev R C Roberts 1907	1835 of Bethany Pembroke Dock preacher Baptist Historical
Williams John	1884 the Kilwentage Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book
Williams Josephus	Rev pastor Upper Meyrick Street Congregationalists Chapel
Williams Kathleen M Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock	26/11/1927 par Thomas & Winfred , Baptisms at St Patrick's 1895 to 1934
Williams M E Book	25 March 1920 2 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Williams Mark Book	25 March 1921 8 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent
Williams Mark Rent Book	Lady Day 1898 91 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton
Williams Mary	8th September 1866 age 57 buried Cholera Pennar Pembroke Dock

Williams Mary	29 September 1915 Mrs Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Williams Mervyn Dock	1919 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke
Williams ? Dock	May 4 1904 Mr W headmaster Coronation School Juniors Pembroke
Williams ? broke Dock	Feb 9th 1904 Mrs gave altar desk to St Teilos Mission Church Pem-
Williams Olga M Pennar, Pembroke Dock	8/2/1927 par Herbert & Dorothy , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Williams Reginald A Pennar, Pembroke Dock	18/7/1914 par Henry & Evelyn , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Williams S A elton Rent Book	25 March 1940 Mrs 15 Military Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Ori-
Williams S A Rent Book	09 January 1934 Mrs 7 Ferry Rd Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon
Williams Stanley Pennar, Pembroke Dock	6/12/1910 par Henry & Evelyn , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church 1895 to 1934
Williams T Howard Pembroke Dock	Oct 30 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church
Williams T J Book	Lady Day 1941 25 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon Rent
Williams T M E	25 March 1926 5 Orielton Terr Llanreath Pembroke Dock
Williams T Gilgal Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock	1904 Rev pastor Gilgal Mayors Chaplain married Miss Jessie Jones
Williams Thomas Pennar Pembroke Dock	Sep 12 1941 29 Owen St Pennar Pembroke Dock , 37 Owen St Pen- nar Pembroke Dock 25 October 1935 Orielton Rent Book
Williams Thomas Book	25 March 1935 3 Fleet St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon Rent
Williams Thomas George	20 Castle St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielon Rent Book

Williams Thomas 25 March 1903 Miss 25 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielson Rent Book

Williams Thomas 1824 Rev of Neuaddlwyd Tabernacle Congregational Chapel Merrivale Templeton Tabernacle Congregational Chapel Pembroke Dock

Williams Thomas 1905 Rev pastor Gilgal Baptist Chapel Pennar Pembroke Dock

Williams Vivian F C 14/11/1911 par Benjamin & Anne, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams W broke Dock 1877 Mr as Senior Master Junior Grade Albion Square School Pembroke Dock

Williams W broke Dock 31st December 1923 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Williams Walter E 7/4/1916 par Walter & Bertha, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams William J N 13/8/1918 par William & Rose, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Williams William 22 May 1900 aged forty five Labourer No 1899 Bush Street H M Dockyard Pembroke Dock Discharged Dead

Williams William Mr teacher School Board Pembroke Dock

Williamson E 1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Willing George 1840's Mr plans for various Chapels The Parish of Pembroke Dock – Silas T Phillips 1898

Willmore Stanley G 3/12/1912 par Arthur & Mary , Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilson A Rev was Curate St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Wilson Bernard E W 30/1/1921 par Arthur & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilson Eileen N 8/5/1923 par Arthur & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilson Kathleen A 1/7/1919 par Arthur & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilson ?(Tug) 1976 Mr Master on Shore H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Wilson Terence 16/4/1918 par Arthur & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wilson William A R 13/3/1917 par Arthur & Kathleen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Winbury W W May 4 1904 assistant master Coronation School Pembroke Dock

Winter Dorothy M 20/8/1925 par Bertie & Lillian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Winter Fredrick B 26/2/1918 par Bertie & Lillian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Winter Harolds W 4/5/1920 par Bertie & Lillian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Winter Joan K 7/9/1932 par Bertie & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Winter Pearl G 17/4/1923 par Bertie & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Winter Robert H 27/5/1902 par John & Ellen, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wolley Edward D 26/3/1918 par Edward & Daisy, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wood J 1820 Rev Wesleyan Ebenezer Chapel – Barrack Hill Pembroke Dock

Wood James Aug 5 1917 The Roll of Honour of the Town St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock

Wood Francis A L 3/2/1920 par John & Lilian, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wood J? 1848 Rev Mr Wesleyan Methodists Ebenezer Chapel Pembroke Dock

Woodhouse E J 25 March 1941 Lyndon Villa Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock
Orielton Rent Book

Woodley G 1919 sidesman St Patricks Church Pennar Pembroke Dock

Woodley John Lady Day 1897 Highgate Orielton Rent Book

Woodruff Richard 1918 Memorial Panels St Johns, Church Pembroke Dock KSLI
1914-18 Memorial

Wright Damond V 22/7/1924 par James & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wright F pre1976 H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Wright Marion 15/2/1926 par James & Margaret, Baptisms at St Patrick's Church Pennar, Pembroke Dock 1895 to 1934

Wright ? 22 March 1917 , Mrs appointed Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock uncertificated Albion Square Girls School Pembroke Dock 12th August 1918,

Wynne W G 22nd August 1940 Mellaston Lost stock Tank fire Pennar Pembroke Dock

Yolland ? October 22nd 1970 Alderman Chairman of Pembrokeshire County Council Pennar Junior Mixed School opened,

Young Lewis Lady Day 1898 5 Nelson St Pennar Pembroke Dock Orielton Rent Book

Young M 1976 ,rigger H M Marine and Salvage Depot Pembroke Dock

Young ? September 2nd 1940 Mr and Mrs 32 Lower Gwyther Street Pembroke Dock house destroyed by bomb no injuries,

Young S E 1904 , assistant mistress Pennar School Pembroke Dock

.....

Pennally, Penally

Village SW of Tenby on slope of eastern end of Ridgeway overlooking the burrows and the sea.

The ancient Church has undergone restoration, in 1851 and 1884. It is believed built on the site of an earlier 6c Celtic Church and contains a 13c altar tomb of William de Haunton and his wife, a Norman font and two squints at the Angles between the chancel and the transepts.

Acc/to Old Parish Churches - Salter.

The village is on a spur overlooking Tenby golf-course and the sea. The Church is of interest, particularly for the elaborately-decorated Celtic Cross now located in the south transept. Behind the Penally Arms Hotel are the ruins of the medieval St. Deiniol's Chapel. St. Teilo, one of St Davids contemporaries, is thought to have been born here, and there was once an important Monastery somewhere in the vicinity.

Penally St Nicholas SS 118992

The nave, chancel, and transepts with squints are all 13th century. The porch is 14th century and the tower is probably 16th century. Inside is a late 13th century altar tomb with an incised cross on the top with heads. The Church, dedicated to St Nicholas has a 10c wheel headed cross and two broken shafts of 9c and 10c crosses. 13c barrel vaulted ceiling, Norman font, squints, tomb to the de Nauntons [1260 - 90] in alabaster. Alter tomb with two small heads carved in marble and let into a covering stone under the arms of a cross. Copy of the inscription which runs round the stone was made about 1700 by Edward Lhuyd, Keeper of the Asmolean museum "William de Hamton et Isemay sa femme gesent ici. Dieu de lour alme e}^ merci. Amen".

St Teilo's Cross.

This slender cross is said to Mark the birth place of St Teilo one of the earlier Bishops of Llandaff Cathedral and was held in so much reverence that nearly 20 churches in Wales were dedicated to him. When he died 3 Churches insisted on receiving his body. To settle the dispute the body is said to have miraculously divided into 3 separate corpses. Consequently each Church had the honour of burying his remains, but the Church at Llandaff has always claimed to contain the body of the real St Teilo.

Behind the Penally Arms Hotel are the medieval ruins of St Deiniols Chapel
Celtic monastic establishment which was dissolved or moved elsewhere before 1500.

Acc/to Welsh Churchman Aug 1997.

Work has been completed on the restoration and preservation of the crosses
The work was carried out by Alun Teagle, Building Conservation of Ruperra Castle, Lower Macheny, Newport.

Acc/to George Cavill.

Holy wells - one listed in 1301 - site now lost dedicated to St Teilo. Another one opposite St Deniol's Chapel - known as St Deniol's well.

Pembrokeshire Parsons.*

The advowson of Penally Church was, with a perch of land in Penally, granted to the Prioress of the Convent of Acornebury by John de Barry with consent from the King on 1 March , 1301. - Pat Rolls. This John de Barry was the son and heir of David de Barry (see Harley charters, No. 45, G. 13), and granted two mills and five carucates of land in St.Dogwells to Sir Richard Simond, who endowed the Bishop of St Davids with the manor of St.Dogwells. - Stat. Menev.

In 1535-6 the rectory of Penally was leased by the Convent of Acornebury to — Launteley at the clear yearly rent of £10 13s. 4d. - Valor Eccl.

On 6 Feb., 1541, a lease of Pennaley Rectory, co. Pembroke (lately owned by the Convent of Acornebury), was granted by the Crown to Rice ap Morgan and Richard Merden of Cranebroke, Kent. - State Papers.

In 1291 this Church was assessed at £16 for tenths for the King, the sum payable being £1 12s. - Taxatio.

Penale Vicaria. - Vicaria ibidem ad coUacionem epis-copi Menevensis unde Willielmus Jenyns est viearius valet per annum c8. Inde sol archidiacono pro pro-curacione et sinodale quolibet anno xixd. Item pro ordinaria visitacione quolibet tercio anno vijd. De Clare £4 17s. lOd. Inde decitna, gs. gid. - Valor Eccl.

Under the headings livings Discharged:- Penally V. Archidiac. quolibet anno Is. 7d. Ordinaria quolibet tertio anno 7d. Nunnery of Aconbury Propr. Bishop of St Davids Patr. Clear yearly value, £22 10s. Od. Kings Books, £4 17s. lid. - Bacon's Liber Regis.

On 21 September., 1872, a faculty was obtained for the removal of the body of Dr. John Robert Read

Coulter from Penally churchyard to Mount Jerome Cemetery in the City of Dublin.

Names connected with Penally

Penalie Parish. Hearth Tax 1670

Thomas John	Penally	H
Lewis William	Penally	H 3
Waters Thomas	Penally	H 2
Prickard Thomas	Penally	H 2
Rowe Thomas	Penally	H 2
Phillip Katherine	Penally	H
Prickard Thomas	Penally	H 2
Reede Humphrey	Penally	H
Williams Evan	Penally	H
Millard Charles	Penally	H
Jenkins Henry	Penally	H
Cooke Jennett	Penally	H
Powell Thomas	Penally	H 3
Bull Rowland	Penally	H 2

Wilkin Rowland	Penally	H
Lloyd Thomas	Penally	H
Jones Francis, Miller	Penally	H
Barsie John	Penally	H
James John	Penally	H
Lewis Thomas .	Penally	H 2
Bowen Thomas , esq.. of Trefloyn .	Penally	H
Rowe Richard	Penally	H
Wogan Elthred, clerk .	Penally	H 2
Harries Nicholas.	Penally	P
Rice Beynon .	Penally	P
Thomas Nicholas	Penally	P
James Rowland	Penally	P
Griffith John	Penally	P
Martin Richard	Penally	P
Cowart Thomas .	Penally	P
Hughes Thomas	Penally	P
Cooke John	Penally	P
Rotheroe .Thomas	Penally	P
Williams Henry.	Penally	P
Thomas Francis.	Penally	P
Griffith Evan	Penally	P
Mason John	Penally	P
Rice James	Penally	P
Bowen Thomas .	Penally	P
Phillip David	Penally	P

Synnet Thomas	Penally	P
Child John	Penally	P
Wilkin Catherine.	Penally	P
Philkin Maude.	Penally	P
Jenkin Richard.	Penally	P
Child Elizabeth.	Penally	P
Dauids Anne.	Penally	P
Cooke Catherine.	Penally	P
Reede Sage. .	Penally	P

Land Tax 1791

Penally	Cook	Lawrens (owner)
Penally	Griffiths	Stephen (tenant)
Penally	LLewhelling	Geo. (tenant)
Penally	Williams	Richd. (owner)
Penally several tenements	Waters	Thos (owner)
Penally Ahons Land	Browe	Miss (owner)
Penally Ahons Land	Smith	James (tenant)
Penally Bubbleton	Bowling	Geo. (owner)
Penally Bubbleton	Cook	Lawrens (owner)
Penally Bubbleton	Fennmenbec	G. (tenant)
Penally Bubbleton	Griffiths	Stephen (tenant)
Penally Bubbleton	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Bubbleton	Smith	James (tenant)
Penally Carswell	Davies	Robert (tenant)
Penally Carswell	Tenby	(owner)

Penally Cathings close	LLewhelling	Geo (tenant)
Penally Cathings close	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Court	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Court	Rowe	Thomas (tenant)
Penally Crackwell	Millar	Thos (owner)
Penally Druselton	Lewis	Benjamin (tenant)
Penally Druselton	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Frankliston	Eynon	John (tenant)
Penally Frankliston	Fender	Widow (tenant)
Penally Frankliston	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Frankliston	Owen	Sir Hugh (owner)
Penally Frankliston	Scale	George (tenant)
Penally Frankliston	Williams	James (owner)
Penally Glebe	Thomas	Rev Jn (owner)
Penally Glebe	Williams	Elizabeth (tenant)
Penally Great Tar	Dun	Miss (tenant)
Penally Great Tar	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Holiway	Owen	Sir Hugh (owner)
Penally Holiway	Williams	Arthur (tenant)
Penally Holiway tenements	Waters	Thos (owner)
Penally Lidstep	Barlow	Hugh (owner)
Penally Lidstep	Meyrick	(owner)
Penally Lidstep	Parsel	Miss (tenant)
Penally Lidstep	Roach	Nicholas (tenant)
Penally Marshes	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Marshes	Scale	George (tenant)

Penally Newhouse	Grant	Widow (owner)
Penally Newhouse	LLewhelling	Geo. (tenant)
Penally Palmerslake	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Palmerslake	Williams	John (tenant)
Penally Penhobway	Lock	Widow (tenant)
Penally Penhobway	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Penhobway	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Penhobway	Rowe	Thomas (tenant)
Penally Pepper Park	Griffiths	Stephen (tenant)
Penally Pepper Park	Cook	Lawrens (owner)
Penally Pigpark	Saisco	Wm. (owner)
Penally Pigpark	Waters	William (tenant)
Penally Town Land	Tenby	(owner)
Penally Town land (Tenby)	Rowe	Thomas (tenant)
Penally Troloyn	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Troloyn	Scale	George (tenant)
Penally west Tar	Gwither	John (tenant)
Penally west Tar	Milford	Lord (owner)
Penally Whitewall	Barlow	Hugh (owner)
Penally Whitewall	Cook	Lawrens (owner)
Penally Whitewall	Parsel	Miss (tenant)
Penally Whitewall	Rowe	William (tenant)
Penally one third tythe	Thomas	Rev Jn. (owner)
Penally two thirds tythe	Milford	Lord (owner)

Penrieth, Penrith and Castellan

A Topographical Dictionary of Wales 1849.

PENRIETH (PEN-RHYDD), a parish, in the union of Newcastle-Emlyn, hundred of Kilgerran, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 7 miles (S. S. E.) from Cardigan; containing, with the hamlet of Castellan, 390 inhabitants. This parish is situated in a mountainous district in the north-eastern part of the county, and comprises a moderate portion of arable and pasture land which, though light and poor, is inclosed and cultivated, and a considerable tract of uninclosed Moor not susceptible of profitable culture: the total area is 2300 acres. VrenniVawr, which, with only one exception, is the highest mountain in the county, is comprehended within the limits of the parish. The surrounding scenery is bold and striking, but contains few features of picturesque beauty. The living is a discharged rectory, rated in the King's Books at £4, endowed with £400 royal bounty, and in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor; present net income, £100: the tithes have been commuted for £107, of which £71 are payable to the rector, and £36 to Lord Milford the impropiator of Castellan. The Church, dedicated to St. Cristiolus, is not remarkable for any architectural peculiarities. In the hamlet of Castellan is a Chapel; it is now in ruins, but the incumbent receives one guinea per annum from the impropiator on account of the Chapel.

A substantial school-house was built by the late rector, the Rev. John Jones, which is used both for a day and Sunday school.

A Topographical Dictionary of Wales 1849.

Castellan, a Chapelry, in the parish of Penrith, union of Newcastle-Emlyn, hundred of Kilgerran, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 6 miles (S. by E.) from Cardigan; containing 141 inhabitants. It forms an extensive portion of the parish, and is situated at the northern foot of the Vrenni-Vawr mountain, the second in height in the county. The Chapel is in ruins, but the incumbent of the parish receives an annual payment of a guinea from Lord Milford the impropiator. There is a small place of worship for Baptists, on the borders of this Chapelry and the parish of Llanvihangel Penbedw.

The Parish Church dedicated to St Cristiolus RCAM

This Church was rebuilt in the year 1841 and restored in 1911. It contains nothing of archaeological interest. The bowl of the old font, now used to catch the rain water at the south east corner of the building, has an external diameter of 25in and a internal of 21in, and is 7in deep chamfered off to the pillar. It is quite plain and has been whitewashed –visited 10th September 1914.

A survey by Dyfed Archaeological Trust in 2011 describes the present churchyard as "...suboval/subrectangular, now poorly defined..."and the Church as "...small, comprising chancel, nave and west porch. It is now in private hands...".

The Church was described in about 2012 as abandoned

Pembrokeshire Parsons
Church St Christiolus

This benefice seems to have been originally in the patronage of the Earl of Pembroke, by 1594 it had come into the hands of the Crown.

Penrith. - Ecclesia ibidem ex presentacione dicte domine Regine. unde Thomas Ap Richard est rector valet communibus annis £4. Inde decima 8s. - Valor Eccl.

Under the heading "Livings discharged":- Penreth alias Penrydd R. The Prince of Wales. Kings Books, £4 Clear yearly value, £18, £30 - Bacon's Liber Regis.

In the parish of Penrieth is the site of the old Church or free Chapel of Castellan, which was granted about the year 1195 by William Marshal, Earl of Pembroke, to the Knights Hospitallers at Slebech. -

Anselms Confirm. charter.

Described as the Church of Castelthan, it was assessed in 1291 at 10s. - Taxatio. In 1535-6 it appears under the name of Castellan Chapel in the list of churches appropriated to the preceptory of Slebech, when it seems valued at 13s. 4d. per annum. - Valor Eccl.

In 1591 it was in the hands of the King and was described as a free Chapel. - Owens Pem.

So far as is known there is no record of the names of any early incumbents of Castellan, the earliest reference being in 1709, when Evan Evans is stated in the Visitation Book to have been rector of Penrieth with Castellan. It appears, however that the Chapel was served by a curate about the year 1591. But few traces are now left of what must at one time have been a flourishing Church with a burial ground for a large district. Castellan Chapel was apparently abandoned prior to 1721.

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire J T Evans

Penrith (S. Ckistiolus). — An Elizabethan Chalice and its Paten cover differing in some details from the Amroth type.

There are no Hall marks but the date "1574" is engraved on the foot of the paten cover within a band of decorated strap-work. The chalice measures 6 in. in height ; diam. of bowl, 3 in.; depth, 3 in.; weight, 6 oz. 10 dwts. The upper band on the bowl is of interlaced strap-work and encloses the conventional foliation, a spray appearing above and below each of the four points of intersection. Within the lower band is inscribed " POCVLVM ECLESIE DE PENRETH " with leaf ornament between each word. There are no reed mouldings. The knob which has a fillet above and below divides the stem equally. The Paten cover is 3 in. in diam., 1 in. high, . There is also a pewter Plate 8 in. in diameter, with four marks on the rim, viz. T C ; a fleuri-de-lys; a (?) Griffin rampant; [?] - Beneath is another stamp, the name Thomas and a rose & crown being alone legible.

Nonconformist Chapels:

Blaenffos, in Blaenffos village [Baptists, 1785]. Built 1765, restored 1805 and/or rebuilt 1807; rebuilt as the present Chapel 1855. Still open 1998

The State of Education in Wales 1847

Penrith

An agricultural parish in which labourers receive 6s per week on their own finding. There is no resident Clergy nor landed proprietor but 3 farmers pay over £100 each per annum in rent. Some of the parishioners could read but not write-- Rev Hugh Howell, Rector of Penrith Newcastle Emlyn

Parish of Penrith –Village school.

The schoolhouse stands in the churchyard and was erected at the sole expense of the late Rector, the Rev John Jones. It is a substantial building, and in good repair, with the exception of the windows.

It contained only three small tables and ten benches. There were no maps.

The Rev Hugh Howell, the present Rector, subscribes £8 and the Rev W James of Capel Colman £1 annually towards the education of the poor of the parish. The master could not speak English correctly. The scholars are the children of farmers, mechanics and labourers.

The 2nd chapter of the first Epistle of St John was read but very imperfectly; and few answers could be had respecting it, partly in Welsh and partly in English; chiefly the former.

There were none present learning arithmetic, and with the exception on the writing in one copy book there was very little to praise about the school Wm Morris Assistant 26th January 1847.

Sites of Interest Penrith (Penrhudd)

A group of sepulchral tumuli occupies the culminating point of the Prescelly range known as Y Frenni Fawr. Three of the mounds stand in a Row on the boundary line of the parishes of Penrhudd and Llanfihangel Penbedw while a fourth is just within the parish of Castellan. From external appearance only one appears to have escaped disturbance. Fenton (tour p 509) gave them his attention, and his unfortunate methods of operation are only too sadly evident today.

The mound to the north west of the Castellan is apparently undisturbed; it is 150 ft in base circumferenced, almost 10ft high and is grass grown.

60 ft to the north west the next one has a base circumference of 195 ft and is 5 to 6ft high and grass grown . It has been opened from the top.

About 150ft to the north west is another. In the like manner opened from the summit; its base circumference is 135 ft present height 4ft –visited 10th September 1914.

Ffynnon ddwysant

A cottage of this name about 50yds south east of the parish Church where are two wells. "A woman living in the cottage known as Ffynnon Ddwysant, informed us that the holy well was not her cottage well, but a spring that rose in a cornfield just over the way to the south of the road, and the name "Two Saints" was derived from "Ddwy fenydda" (two good or holy women) who had lived there by the well" (Pem Arch Survey). Apart from this tradition the springs do not call for notice –visited 10th September 1914

Penrith —Castellan

RCAM – Ruined Church

The ruins of the Chapel of Castellan which was annexed to the parish of Penrhudd, stand remote from any habitation nearly 600ft above sea level. They show a building 26ft by 17ft. A fragment of walling about 5ft in height marks the east end of the little Church –visited 20th August 1915.

Note – The Chapel of Castellan was granted by William Marshal Earl of Pembroke to the Knights Hospitallers of Slebech, and is returned in the Valor Ecclesiasticus as paying 13s 4d per annum thereto. Soon after the dissolution of the Monasteries it was annexed to Penrhudd.

In 1685 the rector and churchwardens of "Penrith and Castellan" presented "the Chappell of Castellan to be out of repair.... The beer[bier] belonging to the said Chappell was stolen about 28years last past, but by whom we cannot tell" (MS Presentment, Diocesan Register)

Oct. 30, 1863. Lost Churches In Wales. To The Editor Of The Arch. Camb.

The Church of Castellau, near Clydey, is also in ruins, and has been so for more than a century : the tithes are improprieate.

The Old Parish Churches of South West Wales by Mike Salter (1994).

Not much of this building stands above the foundations.

Church Plate of Pembrokeshire JT Evans 1905

Castellan (S.). — A ruined Chapelry in the parish of Penrieth. The following is a copy of an interesting document in the possession of E. Lewis-Bowen , esq., Lord of the Manor of Castellan which shews how the holy vessels (which are in an excellent state of preservation) came to be deposited at Clynfiew ; —

" LORDSHIP and MANOR of Castellan.— AT a COURT LEET and View of Frankpledge with the COURT BARON of William Henry Lewis esquire Lord of the said MANOR, held there on the 36th day of May in the seventeenth year of the Reign of our Sovereign LADY VICTORIA by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland QUEEN Defender of the Faith &c. and in the year of our Lord 1854.

BEFORE Asa Johnes Evans Steward there, and there duly Sworn before the said Lord. The Bailiff William Jones appeared. THE JURORS for out Lady the Queen, Thomas Marsden Foreman, David Morgan, William James, John Owens, Daniel Luke, David Jones, James Jenkins, William Evans, John Richards, Thomas Thomas , Abraham Davies. John Thomas SWORN.

THE JURORS aforesaid upon their Oath present, that, after solemn deliberation they are of Opinion it would be highly desirable and proper, that the Ancient SILVER CHALICE belonging to the Chapeliy of Castellan, should be deposited in some suitable place for safe Custody and preservation ; and they request Mr. David Morgan of Moifa, the only Freehold Tenant of the said Lordship within the said Manor, to convey the said Valuable relict bearing the Inscription ;— " POCVLVM CAPELLE DE Castellan " to the said William Henry Lewis, with the Humble prayer of the said Homage, that he be graciously pleased to allow the same to be deposited in some convenient place at his mansion at CLYNFIEW ; and report the result at the next Court. EXTRACTED from the Record of the said Court by Asa J, Evans, Steward."

The "said Valuable relic" is a beautiful little Elizabethan Chalice with its Paten cover Like those belonging to the mother Church of Penrieth, they bear no Hall marks and are apparently the work of a provincial silverSmith. The cover of the latter cup however is inscribed 1574 and probably both chalices were procured in the same year. The Castellan cup is of more elaborate workmanship than that at Penrieth. It measures 5 in. in height ; decoration of this cup corresponds with the Amroth example except that the knop on the stem carries no hyphen marks. Within the lower band on the bowl is engraved " * POCVLVM * CAPELLE * DE « Castellan". The Paten cover is quite plain weighs 3 oz.

Names connected with Penrith and Castellan Clergy

Vaughan, Jacobus		Curate
Vaughan , Maurice	1633	Rector
Jones, Howellus	1669	Rector
Jones, Howellum	1669	Rector
Prichard, Gulielmus	1683	Rector
Jones, Hoellus	1692	Rector
Evans, Evanus	1709	Rector

Jones, Griffinus	1709	Curate
Evans, Evanus	1709	Rector
Evans, Evanus	1714	Rector
Price, David	1714	Curate
Lloyd , David	1716	Curate
Evans, Evanus	1717	Rector
Lewis, David	1717	Curate
Jones, Johannes	1720	Curate
Evans, Evanus	1720	Rector
Evans, Benjaminus	1725	Curate
Brock, Georgius	1732	Rector
Brock, George	1756	Vac (Death)	Rector
Davies, John	1756	Rector
Davies , Owen	1765	Stipendiary Curate
Jones , David	1768	Curate
Bowen Paul	1769	Rector
Bowen Samuel	1769	Rector
Davies John	1769	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Evans Daniel	786	Rector
Jones Evan	1788	Curate
Evans David	1793	Curate
Evans Daniel	1793	Curate
Davies David	1797	Rector
Davies David	1804	Rector
Jones James	1818	Stipendiary Curate
Jones John	1821	Rector
Davies David	1821	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Williams John	1825	Stipendiary Curate

Castellan Parish Hearth Tax 1670

Jenkins Richard	Castellan	h1
Morgan Susan	Castellan	h1
Phillip David	Castellan	h1
Jenkin John Rees	Castellan	h1
Morgan David	Castellan	h1
Thomas Nicholas	Castellan	h1
John Phillip	Castellan	h1
John Lewis	Castellan	h1
Bevan Thomas	Castellan	h1
Griffith John David	Castellan	h1
Phillip Gwenllian	Castellan	h1
George Rees	Castellan	h1
Thomas David	Castellan	h1
Rees Albert	Castellan	h1
Griffith John	Castellan	h1
Griffith David	Castellan	h1
Evan David	Castellan	p
James John Griffith	Castellan	p
John Evan	Castellan	p
Phillip Morice	Castellan	p
Rouland John	Castellan	p
Morice David	Castellan	p
Richard Richard ap	Castellan	p
Evan Thomas ap	Castellan	p
Owen Hugh John ap	Castellan	p
William James	Castellan	p
David Alice widow	Castellan	p
David William	Castellan	p

Sites of Interest

Frenni Fawr Tumulus

This tumulus is placed on the summit of Y Frenni Fawr, at an altitude of 1204 ft above sea level.

The meeting place of the parishes of Castellan, Llanfihangel Tenbedw and Penrhudd. It was opened by Fenton, whose account is as follows :--

We made a large section, and had not penetrated above 2ft from the summit before we discovered marks of cremation, generally and infallible criterion of the sepulchral character. Within another foot and a half of the surface we came to several flat stones tilted over each other, which induced us to dig more cautiously. Having removed the earth from about them, we found a receptacle of the size and shape of a common oven two feet in diameter, and as much in depth; being opened, it was found full of water; there was a course flag at the bottom and stones of similar sort lined the sides. After ladling out the water we came to fragments of a large urn of very rude Pottery, and half burned bones in a thick black sediment, seemingly of decomposed charcoal, which was most carefully searched in hopes of containing beads, amulets, bone utensils, arrowheads or other relics but nothing of the kind was discovered (Tour 508)

The mound is now 5ft high and 180 ft in circumference –visited 10th September 1914.

Picton, see Slebech

Pontfaen,

Settlement in the Gwaun valley with a tiny celtic Church St Brynach rebuilt in 1860s. There are memorials to Arden family of Pontfaen house and four 9c memorial stones in the churchyard. The Dyffryn Arms in the Gwaun valley is a public house, famous for its home brew. The newly, opened Gwaun valley Trail to Tregynon starts in Pontfaen.

1839 Pontvaen (Pont-Faen) Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

PONTVAEN (PONT-FAEN), a parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Kemmes, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 5 miles (S. E.) from Fishguard; containing 52 inhabitants. It lies on the turnpike-road leading from Haverfordwest to Newport, and has a diversified surface, enlivened by the river Gwayn, which runs through it. Pontvaen House, formerly the residence of the Laugharnes, and now by purchase, together with the estate, including the whole of the parish, the property of Henry Rees, esq., is a handsome mansion, pleasantly situated, and surrounded with thriving plantations. The neighbourhood is supposed to afford some of the best grouse-shooting in the county. The soil is in general fertile; the substratum is slate, which, however, has not yet been worked. The living is a perpetual curacy, rated in the King's Books at £3. 6. 8., and endowed with £1200 royal bounty, and £400 parliamentary grant; present net income, £72; patron and impropriator, Mr. Rees. The Church, dedicated to St. Bernard, is not remarkable for any architectural details of importance.

Pembrokeshire Antiquities Arch Camb 1865 St Brynach Church Pontfaen.

The Church of this parish was, in 1859 one of the humblest and most ruinous of any in Pembrokeshire; but it still had attached to it several objects of antiquity worthy of record The Church itself consists of a nave 20ft by 15ft internally; a chancel 12 ft by 9ft 6in and a Chapel on the north side 11ft square, connected with the chancel by a low passage 6ft wide. The nave had a single doorway on the south side and a single square square window near the pulpit The chancel had one sashed window in the east end, with one of two lights in the south side ; and a two light window, trefoiled, was in the north wall of the Chapel. All was of the later part of the 15th century; but the Church had been much mutilated, and badly treated at various times, specially by the insertion of square windows.

The whole was at the time in a ruinous condition, the windows broken, the door unhinged, the roof of the north Chapel fallen in, the rails of the communion table broken down, the font a plain octagonal bowl on a shaft uncovered, and filled with dirt; no seats remained within the Church; everything was in a state of the most lamentable ruin and abandonment; and no service had been performed in it for a considerable period.

This Church, however, still contained three stone altars, two of them in situ in the north Chapel and the third, the covering of the high altar, reared up against the wall of the side passage into the chancel. It is so unusual a circumstance to find such adjuncts of ancient Catholic service still remaining. They were perfectly plain – in fact rude of form – supported on bases of rough masonry.

These, the font, the remains of the modern communion table, and the pulpit were all that indicates any purpose of worship in this “neglected spot”

The Church was dedicated to St Bernard, and one of the altars may have referred to him, while a second would probably be that of the Virgin.

The Parish Church dedicated to St Brynach RCAM.

In 1861 this Church is described as “ruined, with its three stone altars still remaining within the abandoned walls and its font open to all the birds of Heaven” (Arch Camb p211) .

Later the little building was reverently restored, only the upper portions of the walls being rebuilt to carry the new roof. It consists of nave 23 ¼ ft by 15ft, Chancel 12 ft by 9 ¼ ft north transeptal Chapel 11 ½ ft by 10 ¾ ft and south porch. There is a single Bell cote above the west gable. The windows are modern.

The chancel arch which is plain and pointed, is only 8ft across. A passage 5 ¼ ft widening to 12ft connects the chancel with the the Chapel. The font basin is square , with slightly chamfered Angles, and stands upon a circular shaft and square base,

Two of the three stone alters mentioned in Arch Camb for 1865 (p179) have disappeared”two of the were in situ in the north Chapel, the covering of the high altar, reared up against the wall of the side passage into the Chapel... They were perfectly plain – in fact rude in form – supported on bases of rough masonry”. The high alter slab, it is said, “ now forms the sill of the entrance door.”

Old Parish Churches – Salter.

The Church was a ruin in 1861. The small nave and chancel with a plain pointed arch between them are probably of c1200. The north transept and squint are later.

Pembrokeshire Parsons

Pontfaen Rectory was part of the possessions of Pill Priory. In 1594 it was in the hands of the Crown. – Owen's Pem.

Pontvayne. - Ecclesia ibidem ex collacione prioris de Pulla unde Griffinus Lloid est rector valet communibus annis 66s. 8d. Inde decima 6s. 8d. Valor Eccl.

Under the heading “Livings Discharged”:- Pont Faen R. (St. Bertlard). Prior de Pulla olim Patr.; The Prince of Wales. Clear yearly value, £7. £20 King's Books, £3 6s 8d. – Bacon's Liber Regis. On 18 Nov. 1903, a faculty was granted for the removal of a cottage.

Grants

Parish of PONTFAEN, St Davids diocese 1861-1863

Grant Reason: Reseating/Repairs Outcome: Approved

Notes:

Grant appears to have been obtained on false pretences; scheme purportedly included repairs to roof and walls.

Church of St Brynach, Cwm Gwaun Grade: II Date Listed:30 July 2002

1406 Episcopal Registers p 369

This Church is mentioned in 1406 in a mandate addressed by the Bishop of the diocese to the prior and convent of Pill

The priory, although greatly oppressed with debt was inter alia “overcharged with superfluous and useless men” whom the prior was enjoined to expel within fifteen days. Among the delinquents was Thomas Newport, who had been presented to Pontvaen on the 28th March 1406, “because they are talebearers and sowers of discord among you ...and also because the said Thomas Newport lightly laid violent hands on.... Sir Robert Martyn , rector of the Church of Pontfaen

Pembrokeshire Church Plate J T Evans

Pontfaen (S. Brynack). —A tulip-shaped Chalice with its Paten cover, both pieces bearing the Hall marks of 1759 with maker's Mark RG for Richard Gosling. The cup is 7 in. in height; diam. of bowl, 3 in.; depth, 3 in.; diam. of foot, 3 in.; weight, 8 oz. 5 dwts. On the bowl is engraved in script "Poculum Ecclesiae De Pontuayn", The stem is divided by the rudiments of a knop. The Paten cover is 4 in. in diam.; height, 1 in.; weight, 4 oz. 7 dwts.

A small Credence Paten is of earlier date and bears the Hall Mark of the Britannia standard for 1710 with the maker's Mark IS for Thomas Issod ; diam., 6 in.; height, 1 in.; weight, 8 oz. It bears the following inscription "Doaum J L in usum Ecclesiae Pontvane Aimo Dom : 1710". The donor James Laugharae was the grandson of Francis Laughame of St. Bride's who married Lettice daughter and co-heiress of James Vaughan of Pontvaen.

There are also two glass Cruets.

1851 Pontfaen Parish Church "The Church has been some time in a dilapidated state"
Lewis Davies, Perpetual Curate, Temple Druid, Nr Narberth

1929 St John Baptist Morvil & Parish Church (Pontfaen) & St Benno (Llanychllwydog)

Incumbent and Curates; M H Jones

Nonconformist Chapels: None found

Incised Crosses RCAM

Erect and secured in the churchyard are two stone crosses. The taller stone 7ft high carries an bears incised Latin cross on nearly the entire length of its exposed face. It had lain prostrate and well nigh hidden in the soil for some years, until in 1901, it was re-erected by the parishioners. The shorter stone which also a similarly incised cross with a small circle at the crossing of the limbs, Long served as the post on which hung the entrance gate to the churchyard –visited 4th June 1915.

The State of Education in Wales 1847 No Report

Names connected with Pontvain
Clergy CCED

Rees, Theophilus	1673	Curate
Jones, David	1692	Rector
Morris, Hugo	1717	Curate
Morris, David	1720	Curate
Morris, David	1728	Curate
Llaugharne Allen , John	1765	Perpetual Curate
Morris , David	1765	Vac (natural death) Perpetual Curate
Davies , Thomas	1774	Stipendiary Curate
Davies , Thomas	1774	Stipendiary Curate
Foley , John	1785	Curate
Higgon , William	1788	Stipendiary Curate
Higgon , William	1801	Stipendiary Curate
Laugharne Allen, John	1804	Curate
Allen , Laugharne	1809	Vac (natural death) Perpetual Curate
Higgon , William	1809	Perpetual Curate
Davies , Howell	1813	Perpetual Curate
Higgon , William	1813	Vac (natural death) Perpetual Curate
Davies , Howell	1813	Perpetual Curate
James , John	1815	Stipendiary Curate
James , John	1815	Stipendiary Curate
James , James William	1815	Perpetual Curate
Davies , Lewis	1825	Stipendiary Curate
Davies , Lewis	1831	Perpetual Curate
Davies , Howell	1831	Vac (natural death) Perpetual Curate

Pontvain Hearth Tax 1670

Lloyd John	Pontvain	H5
Edward David	Pontvain	H
Owen John	Pontvain	H
Dedwith Elizabeth	Pontvain	H
Nicholas Henry	Pontvain	H
John David	Pontvain	H
Lloyd John	Pontvain	H
John Thomas	Pontvain	H
Rees Thomas	Pontvain	P
Morgan Griffith	Pontvain	P
Rees Thomas	Pontvain	P
Owen Thomas	Pontvain	P

Pontfaen: An attractive commodious mansion standing near the parish Church on a steep slope above the upper waters of the river Gwaun which flows for some seven miles to reach the sea at Fishguard. Behind the mansion, the land rises to the north-east, to the Hill tops of Mynydd Morfil and Mynydd Cilciffeth, and before it, across the river the land rises to Mynydd Melyn in Llanychlwydog and Mynydd Dinas in the parish of that name. The original mansion stood there in early medieval days, and, with a few architectural changes, has retained its status to the present day. The house is protected by a copse of well grown trees.

In 1811 Fenton observed: "Pontvaen which was inhabited by a family of considerable influence in this country within these sixty years, of the name of Laugharne, the heiress of which married Rowland Philipps esq., of Orlandon, whose son John Philipps Laugharne esq., my old friend and school-fellow, is the present proprietor."

Some thirty years afterwards S. Lewis wrote, "Pontvaen House, formerly residence of the Laugharnes, and now, by purchase, together with the estate, including the whole of the parish, the property of Henry Rees, esq., is a handsome mansion, pleasantly situated and surrounded with thriving plantations."

In 1863 the Pontfaen estate in Pontfaen, Morfil, Llanychlwydog, and Llanychaer parishes, was advertised for sale, and we are informed the demesne having been in the proprietors (Henry Rees) own hands for some years, has been farmed, drained, and improved at a very considerable outlay, under the best system of Husbandry, and is now in splendid condition. The mansion and offices having been built of late years and in thorough repair .

Pontfaen had been the house of three successive families for many centuries. The first known proprietors descended from the Dyfed princeling, Gwynfardd Dyfed, whose arms were: azure a lion rampant or between an orle of eight roses of the second, was borne by his descendants.

In the years 1350-1400 the owner was Rhys ap Robert ap Owen, said to have been the first of his line to settle at Pontfaen, and was followed by his son Gwilym Vychan who was there in the 1440s. His son Llewelyn, succeeded him and the estate passed to his only Child, the heiress, Llenca. She married shortly before 1491, John Vaughan of Abergavenny descended from the Breconshire chieftain, Moreiddig Warwyn whose coat of arms was: gules three boys heads each with a snake proper entwined around each neck.

John settled at his wife's house, and was the first of the Vaughans there. In those days Pontfaen was a substantial building, and in 1670 contained five hearths. Six generations of Vaughans continued at Pontfaen which eventually passed to the ultimate heiress, Lettice Vaughan who married in 1625

Francis Laugharne, younger brother of Major General Rowland Laugharne, who took a prominent part in the Civil War in west Wales. Ann Vaughan, granddaughter and heir of the said John and Llenca, married her kinsman, John Laugharne of St. Brides. Six generations of Laugharne lived at Pontfaen until the marriage of the ultimate heiress, Anne Laugharne in 1750, to Rowland Philipps of Orlandon a cadet of the Picton Castle family, who there upon adopted the surname Philipps Laugharne. Later descendants inherited the baronetcy of the Picton Castle family, the last of them being Sir Godwin Philipps who died aged 17 in 1857.

Most of the Properties of the Laugharnes lay in St. Brides and Haverfordwest, and the later generations took little interest in their Pontfaen inheritance and in 1823 the Pontfaen estate was sold to Henry Rees of Roch parish. Thus after over five and a half centuries, Pontfaen passed to a stranger.

Some time after 1845, Henry Rees sold Pontfaen to the Gowers of Castle Maelgwyn in North Pembrokeshire. In 1863 it was sold to Richard Arden, a wealthy London lawyer. It eventually came to the Buckinghamshire family called Camm. In 1941 C.B. Camm sold Pontfaen and part of the estate to Major John Francis D.L. of Carmarthen, father of Captain John Francis, O.B.E., D.L. whose daughter is the owner at the time of writing.

Refs: Pembs. RO, LT 1786; Dwinn, ii, 172-3, 244; NLW, Poyston Deeds; Francis Jones, 'Pontfaen in. Journal NLW ?977; Fenton Tour Pembs. 1812; S. Lewis Top. Dictionary of Wales.

St Brynach's Church, Pontfaen Set in the grounds of Pontfaen House, St Brynach's Church dates right back to the saint himself, who settled for while in the valley before going on to NeVERN.

The Church was first established here by St Brynach in the year 540 A.D., but unfortunately there are no surviving records dating from its early years. What is known is that the state of the Church deteriorated badly during the 17th century, until, in 1684, there was no cloth on the altar, no cover on the font, and no sort of land whatsoever owned by the Church.

RUINED

In 1859-61, the Church was described as "Ruined with all three altars still remaining within the abandoned walls, and its font open to all the birds of heaven". It was near to ruin – the windows were broken, the roof had fallen in, the communion rails were broken, the font, a plain basin, was full of mud, and no service had been held in the Church for quite some time. The only signs that it had some religious purpose were the filthy font, what was left of the communion table, and the pulpit.

At this time the Church was shaped very much the way it is today. It consisted of a main body, a chancel, and a small Chapel on the right connected to the chancel by a low tunnel-like passage called a squint or hagioscope. This word is from 'hagios', Greek for glory, and the purpose of the hagioscope was for people in the chancel 'to see the glory', i.e. to be able to see the Bread and wine being consecrated on the altar.

RESTORED

This would have been the end of St. Brynach's, had it not been for the Arden family who bought the estate of Pontfaen. When Mr. Percy Arden saw the state of the Church, he decided that restorations should be made at once, and a Vicarage built. When the restoration work began in the late 19th century, it was found that the floor of the Church had at some time been filled in with earth to a depth of two feet. Under the supervision of Mr George Morgan & Sons of Carmarthen, the floor of the Church was sunk and a new tiled floor put in. Also, the roof was repaired and rebuilt where necessary, the walls painted, the drainage system improved, the whole building strengthened, and a new porch built in an early English style.

That was the end of the restorations until 1987, when it further work was undertaken – rewiring, replastering, repairing the wooden dado panelling, and rebuilding of the porch as the sandstone had weathered badly. The work was completed and on a beautiful Sunday morning in October 1987 the Church was re-opened by the Archbishop of Wales.

The Church also owns an elaborately embroidered set of vestments which were given by the Arden family, but had also deteriorated badly. They have also been restored and can be seen in the glass display case in the hagioscope.

The painting, or icon on the Church wall has also been restored. It is a copy of “The Tabernacle of the Madonna of the Stars” by Fra Angelico, made by R. Cipriani (Florence) in 1902. He was one of the numerous Italian copyists who made a living copying famous pictures for collectors, and sometimes for ecclesiastical use. It was probably given to the Church by the Ardens in the 1900's.

Who was St. Brynach?

St Brynach was an Irish nobleman who, after being converted to Christianity, went to Rome in 418AD, then Brittany, and from there to what is now Milford Haven. From there he made his way to Pontfaen, where he is said to have cast out many evil spirits and founded the Church here. He soon moved on and ended up in Nevern, where he established another Church. Carn Ingli, or “Mountain of the Angels”, was the place where he is said to have had many angelic visions. Among his converts was Brecan (an Irish chief), the ruler of South Wales, about the year 425, and this Brecan founded numerous churches in Brecknockshire, Carmarthenshire, Pembrokeshire, Denbighshire, and Anglesey. From the Welsh “Lives” we learn that St. Brynach died 7 April 570 AD, on which day his feast is celebrated.

Pillar Stones

Two 6-9th century pillar stones with inscribed Latin crosses (perhaps near-contemporary with the Saint himself) stand in the circular churchyard, which is a characteristic feature of the earliest Christian settlements in Pembrokeshire.

Sites of Interest

Pontfaen House, Pontfaen RCAHMW

17th century stone, Roughcast, South East elevation, has 4 gables with 19th century barge boards, slate roof, 2 and 3 storey. South west elevation has hipped roof.

Pontfaen House, Farmbuildings

Yard surrounded by whitened stone farm buildings. Probably late 18th century. All openings with arched heads and keystones.

Kilkiffeth, Pontfaen RCAHMW

Remains of vaulted building, partly below ground level. No superstructure. Adjacent farmhouse considerably rebuilt.

Vault has a flattened semi-circular profile with three deeply splayed openings in the lateral wall and one in the gable. The present farmhouse has been rebuilt; a large square chimney has been demolished. A.J. Parkinson. 2/12/2004

Pillar Stones, Pontfaen Church

Two cross-inscised pillar stones in Pontfaen churchyard dated to the 7th-9th century, 2.0 and 1.1m high. One stone bears the stigmata of a former gatepost, and so is not in situ. RCAHMW J.Wiles 15.03.02

Caer-Wen, Pontfaen

Earthworks of a field system and probable deserted rural settlement, which may date back to medieval times, approx. 100m south of Caer-wen farm, on the lower northern slopes of Mynydd Cilciffeth. Heavily denuded earthworks of field boundaries and enclosures are evident, with suggestions of house platforms. The northern-most boundary is overlain by a minor road, The site was discovered during aerial reconnaissance by RCAHMW (December 15th 2008) and has not been visited on the ground. L. Osborne, 11th May 2012.

Porthgain,

Porthgain: A place full of character crammed with relics of the local Industrial revolution.

Mining (quarry)

Porthgain Village Industries was largely responsible for the development of the old slate quarry and for the workings of the igneous stone quarry out on the open coast. In the first two It decades of this century Porthgain was a hive of activity, with the little harbour heavily used and, with steam coastal vessels exporting slate, bricks, and various grades of crushed stone to many of the ports of southern England. By 1931 all operations had ceased. But you can still see the Quays, the stone hoppers, the remains of the stone-crushing plant, the ruined engine shed, the traces of clifftop railway tracks, and much else besides. Note also the lime-kiln and the beautiful little Row of quarrymens cottages. Now in the care of the NPA.

Prendergast,

At the north-east side of the town of Haverfordwest, was a village named, it is believed, after a Flemish settler from Bronteggeist, near Ghent. Maurice de Prendergast was one of the Pembrokeshire knights who crossed, under Richard Strongbow, to occupy Ireland in 1169. Prendergast was later the residence of the Stepney family, after whom the "Stepney wheel" was named, and of which was George Stepney, diplomat and writer, who was buried with great pomp in Westminster Abbey.

1811 Prendergast Fenton, Tours

named from a family of that name, lords of the Ville, one of whom Maurice de Prendergast, gave the advowson and tithes of its Church to the Commandery of Slebech, and following the standard of Strongbow transplanted his name and family to Ireland from which time we hear no more of them on this side of the Irish channel.

Their successors in the property of Prendergast were the Joyces then the Cadarnes or Cathernes, then the Stepneys who sold it of late years.

The Church is a low mean building, yet boasts a tower, and the nave has a side aisle separated by round arches resting on round clumsy pillars with circular capitals. It contains no ancient monuments but its chancel has three mural marble tablets of rather modern date to some of the Picton family, and one to Lady Philipps wife of the first Sir John Philipps.

I descend to the margin of rich meadows whose banks the Cleddau washes, to see the small remains of the mansion called Prendergast Place from the time of Elizabeth inhabited by the Stepneys till about the reign of Charles II where nothing is left but the shell of a spacious barn and one fragment of a portion of the old house with a few small apertures by way of windows cased with freestone, and a part of lofty garden or orchard.

Prendergast Family -- Pembrokeshire Owen

Today Prendergast is a suburb of Haverfordwest but where did the name come from?

The name appears on the Roll of Battle Abbey of those who fought on William the Conquerors side. but his army was a cosmopolitan group of men from many parts of France including Flanders. It could be that the Prendergast family were Flemish. Thierry says (Conquest of England by the Normans book iii)"In Henry the First's time , Richard Count of Eu, conquered the Welsh province of Diot, or Pembrokeshire" Maurice de Prendergast who held land near Haverfordwest was one of the Norman who supported the part of the Invasion of Ireland led by Fitz- Stephen. Actually he and his followers of "ten gentlemen of service and a good many archers" is recorded as landing at Bannow Bay on the day after Fitz –Stephen 1169. According to Giraldus who would have known him personally he was "a lustie and hardie man, born about Milford". He was awarded a large area of land in Wexford which his son Philip de Prendergast inherited and whom married the heiress of De Quiency one of Stongbow's supporters and his standard bearer. Maurice de Prendergast in 1177 gave his Castle at Prendegast in Pembrokeshire to the Knights of St John of Jerusalem and eventually joined that order becoming Prior of Kilmainham near Dublin. He died in 1205

The family died out through lack of a male heir although the name lingered on through the younger son of Philip who acquired land in Tipperary until in Cromwell's days they moved to Connaught .

1895 Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire

“ approach the town of Haverfordwest by its long, transpontine suburb of Prendergast.”

St David Church Prendergast

The Church at Prendergast is dedicated to the patron saint, St David.

Howel Davies, the Methodist leader who was known as "the Apostle of Pembrokeshire" lies buried there.

Prendergast Church 1899

1915 The Parish Church dedicated to St David RCAM

This Church was entirely rebuilt in 1867 with the exception of the west tower. The tower (16ft square) is of four storeys, surmounted by a corbel table and plain battlements which have been renewed. The lights are mere slits. At mid height is a plain string course of granite. There is no batter. The west doorway has been renewed; above it is a three light Perpendicular window. The lowest story is vaulted, and opens to the nave by a plain pointed arch. The font bowl of the cushion type has been redressed and spoiled – visited 23rd July 1915.

The living was appropriated to the Knight's Hospitallers of Slebech by Wizo, Lord of Wiston, and his son and grandson.

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire. Evans, John Thomas ,

Prendergast —The following entries appear in one of the Parish Registers which shew how the Prendergast Elizabethan Chalice got transferred to the parish of Lambston together with the details relating to the purchase of a new Chalice and Paten at the commencement of the reign of George 1

Memorandum that the Hon. Lady Philips of Picton Castle was pleased to give ye sum of three pounds five shillings towards paying for the Chalice & Paton ye above mentioned and ye saide John Pember paid the remaining two pounds seven shillings and six pence for ye Chalice formerly belonging to the Church of Prendergast which Chalice John Pember gave to Lambston Church in ye yeare of our Lord 1715 in witness whereof we hereunto subscribe our names

The new Chalice acquired is a Bell-shaped vessel bearing the Hall Mark of the Britaimia standard for 1713 with maker's Mark F A surmounted by a crown for Wm Flawdery 7in high.; diam. of bowl, 4in. ; depth, 4in.; weight, 13 oz. The bowl is decorated with the sacred monogram, cross and nails within a "glory". The mouth of the cup immediately above this ornamentation is slightly indented to form a lip which is an unusual feature. The stem is divided by the rudiments of a knop. Beneath the base is engraved the date " 1715" . The Paten cover bears the same Hall marks The knop or handle of the cover is ornamented with I. H.S., cross and nails within a "glory".

—An ewer shaped Flagon, 9 in. in height and weighing 13 oz. 10 dwts; Hall Mark 1868 and it carries a spout, handle and thumb-piece. The bowl is prettily chased and rests upon a six-splayed base. The mouth and base are ornamented with beaded mouldings.

—There is also a handsome brass Alms-dish.

1869 The former vicarage for Prendergast was built of stone from WithyBush quarry, with external stone from Haroldston quarry and dressings of Doultling stone from Somerset. It is of Gothic style, L-plan with the main front to the garden and entrance in to rear wing. It has mullion-and-transom windows, slate roofs and red terracotta ridges.

Nonconformists

Hill Park Baptist Chapel Prendergast .Built 1855, in the sub-Classical style, long-wall entry plan. In 1888 the Chapel was replaced by a new one alongside and was converted to a vestry and Sunday School.

By 2000 Prendergast Baptist Chapel had been demolished.

Names connected with Prendergast

Prendergast Clergy CCED— Clergy lists

Vaughan, Ludovicus Gwin	1665	Curate
Vaughan, Ludovico Gwin	1665	Curate
Prichard, Johannes	1667	Rector
Pritchard, Johannem	1667	Rector
Thomas , Eignon	1668	Curate
Pritchard, Johannis	1668	(Resignation) Rector
Thomas , Eignon	1671	Rector
Bowen , Arnoldus	1687	Rector
Bowen , Arnold	1687	Vicar
Bowen , Arnoldus	1692	Rector
Powell, Josua	1694	Rector
Pember, Johannes	1696	Rector
Martin, Hudson	1735	Rector
Pember, John	1735	Vac (Death)	Rector
Andrews, John	1743	Rector
Martin, Hudson	1743	Vac	Rector
Jones , William	1760	Rector
Jones , William	1777	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Roch , John	1777	Rector
Roch , John	1777	(Dispensation)	Rector
Philipps , George	1788	Curate
Lloyd , Thomas	1790	Rector
Gibbon , Benjamin	1790	Curate
Lloyd , Thomas	1790	Rector
Lloyd , Thomas	1790	(Dispensation)	Rector
Philipps , George	1791	Curate
Cullis , George W.	1814	Curate
Philipps , George	1818	Curate
Lloyd , Thomas	1825	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Watts Harris , William	1825	Rector

Stephney Family – Prendergast

The connection between Prendergast and the Stephney or Stephneth family came about through Stephney Alban 1565 .marrying the daughter of Thomas Gaddarn or Catharn, of Prendergast Plas Alban sat in four Parliaments for Haverfordwest and the counties of Cardigan and Pembroke and was High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire for several years . By his first wife, he had no children for his second partner he chose a daughter of William Philipps , of Picton Castle, who bore him two sons and three daughters. Alban was succeeded by his son Stephney John 1621 , who was created a baron in 1621.

Stephneth Johannes 1620 of Prendergast. Justice of the Peace in Pembrokeshire in 1620.

Stephney Thomas 1621? Knight, was once instrumental in saving the life of James I. he was also cupbearer to Charles I. He married the daughter of Sir Bernard Whetstone, of Woodford, Essex, and became ancestor of the famous George Stepney.

Stephney, or Stepney John 1643, the third baronet, nephew of the second, who it is said only enjoyed the title for three years, was Sheriff of Pembrokeshire and had to enforce the of the hateful 'ship-money." In 1643, he was Governor of Haverfordwest, and was surprised by the Parliamentarians, made prisoner and not released without much personal discomfort and financial vexation. The tithes of Little Newcastle were in 1645 owned by Sir John Stepney of Prendergast, Pems. Bart., who was MP., for Haverfordwest in 1640. Sir John had been taken prisoner at the capture of Hereford in December 1645 by Col. Birch, the parliamentary commander and was imprisoned in the Compter, Southwark. Sir John alleged that he had not been in arms against the Commonwealth but had arrived in Hereford three week before his capture, and was waiting there for a pass from the wife of Major General Laugharne. This defense however proved of little avail, and Sir John was fined £1230. He represented Pembroke in the "Short" and Haverfordwest in the ' Long' Parliament.

Stephney John the fourth baronet, married a daughter of the great Painter, Sir Henry Vandyke, Bart., a portrait of whom, painted by himself, is still in the possession of the family. Two of his family became nuns and afterwards abbesses of a Brussels Convent.

Another of the Stepneys—

Stepney Theodora — married the grandfather of the poet Cowper.

Stepney Arthur Sir was the lineal descendant of Patrick Ruthven, son of the Earl of Gowrie and is thus related to the Royal family through the Tudor line by descent from Henry VII. He was also of Royal descent by the marriage of Stepney Thomas ,1744 Sir the fifth baronet, with Margaret Vaughan, of Llanelly, daughter of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk Sir Thomas died in 1744.

Stepney Thomas 1697 Sir of Prendergast High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

A distinguished member of this family was Stepney George 1663, scholar, poet and diplomatist. He was a friend of Leibnitz. Walpole alluded to him as "that accomplished minister and poet." He was buried in Westminster Abbey and a Latin epitaph records his many excellences an English poet and statesman, was a member of this ancient family settled at Prendergast, in Pembrokeshire. He received his education at Westminster school, whence he removed to Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1682, and there, being of the same standing with George Montague, afterwards Earl of Halifax, a strict friendship grew up between them.

After the revolution he was nominated to several embassies. In 1692, he went to the court of the Elector of Brandenburg, as envoy in 1693, to the Imperial Court, in the same character in 1694, to the Elector of Saxony and two years after, to the Electors of Mentz, Cologne, and the congress at Frankfort. He was employed in several other embassies and in 1706, Queen Anne sent him as envoy to the States General. He was very successful in his negotiations, which occasioned his being constantly employed in the most weighty affairs. He died at Chelsea, in 1707, and was buried at Westminster Abbey, where a fine monument was erected to his memory.

Stepney Alban 1573 of Prendergast High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney Alban of Prendergast - second son of Thomas Stepney married Mary daughter and co- heiress of William Philipps of Picton and they had children –

Stepney Alban 1590 of Prendergast High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney Alban 1591 November 1 Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660.1605 High Sheriff

Stepney Alban 1594 . patron Walton west Church son in law of Thomas Catharne

Stepney John 1617/8, March 4 . Sir Letter from Thomas Howard and other Commissioners to Sir John Stepney, knight and bart., deputy steward of His Highness's lordship of Narberth, concerning the receiving of rents from the tenants. Slebech Estate and Family Records

Stepney John 1614 of Prendergast – afterwards Bart married Frances daughter of Sir Francis Mansel of Muddlescombe John Stepney was the son of Alban Stepney by his second wife Mary - died 1637 -- High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney John of Prendergast 1636 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire----

Stepney John April 13, 1640 of Prendergast was elected for the Pembroke boroughs, in the Parliament to meet King Charles on This Parliament for once and all declared that the levying of ship money was illegal.

Stepney John Sir of Prendergast, Pembrokeshire, Pembrokeshire Gentlemen Who Compounded For Their Estates In The Time Of Cromwell Arch Camb 1887

Stepneth John 1649 52 Sir Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660. Stepneth ? 1600 Mr Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660. Stepneth ? 1585 Mr Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660. Stepney John 1636 Sir Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660.

Stepney John 1651 September 26 Sir Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660. Stepney John 31 May 1649 of Prendergast Bart tithes Sir Pembrokeshire Parsons.

Stepney John 1674 Sir ordered to repair the Chancel roof under threat of losing his rectorship Rosemarket Church.

Stepney John 1659 December 9 Sir bart Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660.

Stepney John 1670 Sir bart Prendergast H 9 Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax . Stepney John 1645 . Sir of Prendergast Pems tithes Little Newcastle

Stepney John 1625 Sir of Prendergast rectory of RhosMarket Inq P M of Sir John Stepney 2 Car I.

Stepneth Elizabeth 1591 Sister of Alban Stepneth married John Vaghan of Llansanfrede claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth Francisca 1591 Daughter of Robert Stepneth the Younger claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

George Stepneth Fraunces 1591 daughter? Of Robert Stepneth the elder claimants to the estate of

William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth John 1591 son of Robert Stepneth the elder – mortuus claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth Jone 1591 daughter? Of Robert Stepneth the Younger claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth Mary 1591 Daughter of Robert Stepneth the Younger claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth Polle 1591 Daughter of Robert Stepneth the Younger claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth Robert the elder 1591 Prendergast brother of Alban Stepneth claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth Robert the younger 1591 Prendergast brother of Alban Stepneth claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Stepneth (Stephney)Alban 1591 Prendergast second wife was a daughter of William Phillipps of Picton Castle sister of Elizabeth wife of George Owen claimants to the estate of William

Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Other Names connected with Prendergast

Cadarn Thomas of Prendergast Place 1565 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire Stepney Alban of Prendergast 1573 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire Stepney Alban of Prendergast 1590 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney Alban of Prendergast 1605 - second son of Thomas Stepney he married Mary daughter and co-heiress of William Philipps of Picton and they had children – 1605 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney John of Prendergast 1614 – afterwards Bart married Frances daughter of Sir Francis Mansel of Muddlescombe John Stepney was the son of Alban Stepney by his second wife Mary - died 1637 -- High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1614

Stepney John of Prendergast 1636 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney Sir Thomas of Prendergast 1697 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Stepney John 1640 Prendergast 2nd Bart Members of Parliament for Haverfordwest town

Adams Thomas 20 December 1771 Walwyn's Castle Yeoman Offence Riot and assault on prosecutors. Prendergast Date 20 December 1771 Prosecutor White Ann, White William the Younger & White Eliz Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Allen Elizabeth 11 August 1816 Prendergast Single woman Offence Theft from the dwelling house of prosecutor of food and spoons, Haverfordwest Prosecutor Marten, Elizabeth Haverfordwest, gentlewoman Verdict Guilty to the value of 2/6d Punishment Fined 1/- and 6 months imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Anderson John 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dongleddy

Barlo John 1579, September, 9 of Slebech John Wogan of Wyston, esq., Cicill his wife,, esq., Alban Stepneth of Prendergast, esq., and Thomas Woogan of Antisladd, gent, Agreement following a fine Levied of the messuages and lands called Clerkenhill, Dunstrete, Arnoldeshill and Buckeshill touching lands (tenants specified) in Wiston, Slebeche and Ambleston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

Barlow John 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax for mill Prendergast H Dongledy

Bevan John 20 December 1771 Walwyn's Castle, Yeoman Offence Riot and assault on prosecutors. Prendergast, Prosecutor White Ann, White William the Younger & White Eliz Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Bowen Evan 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H 2 Dongledy

Bowen John 20 December 1771 Prendergast, Shoemaker Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of White William the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Prendergast, Prosecutor Mathias John, Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Bowen Richard 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dongledy

Breucer Edward 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dongledy

Broune Thomas 1588 of Prendergast Michaelmas Haverfordwest Records 1539—1660.

Brown William 20 December 1771 Walwyn's Castle, Yeoman Offence Riot and assault on prosecutors. Prendergast, Prosecutor White Ann, White William the younger & White Eliz Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Cadarn Thomas 1565. of Prendergast Place High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire - Cardarn Thomas of Prendergast accused Sir John Perrot of treason.

Collins D Ormond 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Collins Elizabeth 14 September 1810 Prendergast, Spinster Offence Theft of household goods, a bucket, One recognizance refers to stealing a brass pan belonging to Make Joseph Prendergast, Yeoman, Prendergast, Prosecutor White, Jane, Prendergast, widow Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Collins Jane 14 July 1808 Prendergast, Single woman Offence Theft of coal and culm, Prendergast, Prosecutor John,Thomas , Prendergast, lime Merchant Verdict Guilty, Punishment 1 month imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

David Griffith 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Davies David 20 December 1771 Prendergast Hatter Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of White William the elder arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias John Walwyn's Castle farmer/bailiff Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Davies Lewis 23 September 1816 Prendergast Labourer/pig drover Offence, Theft from the dwelling house of money pocket books and books Prisoner aged 25 Prendergast Prosecutor Owen David Prendergast Verdict No true bill Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Dawkins Elenor 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Dean Edward 7 August 1790 Prendergast Cotton manufacturer Offence Assault Prendergast Prosecutor Davies Mary Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

de Prendergast Maurice 1177 Prendergast gave his Castle of Prendergast in Pembrokeshire to the Knights of St John of Jerusalem and joined that order – he became Prior of Kilmainham near Dublin the chief seat of the Brotherhood in Ireland and died in 1205- had a son Philip de Prendergast Arch Camb 1865

Edmundus Pierson 1534 rector Prendergast Valor Ecc

Esmond Francis 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax . Prendergast H Dungleddy

Esmond Richard 16 August 1769 Prendergast Yeoman Offence Assault. Prendergast Prosecutor Gwynne John Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Greefeild Elizabeth 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Griffiths John 30 March 1784 Prendergast/Narberth, Yeoman Offence, Forgery of deed purporting to be in the name of Thomas David, Castlebythe, deceased, with the intent of defrauding Thomas David. Indicted twice for the fact – the other alleging the forgery took place at Narberth. Prendergast, Prosecutor Williams Robert, Haverfordwest, Yeoman Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Griffith William 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H 2 Dungledy

Griffiths David 1 March 1818 Prendergast, Labourer Offence Theft of a sheep, Prendergast, Prosecutor Markin, John Prendergast, esq., Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Gwyn Elenor 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy

Harry Rice 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy

Hasel William Pur 6 January 1813 Haverfordwest Gent, Offence Sodomy, Prendergast 6 January 1813 Prosecutor Adams Francis --- 2 accusation William Pur Hasel Haverfordwest Gent, Offence Sodomy, Prendergast Prosecutor Evans, William Prendergast, carpenter Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Hempson Henry 20 December 1771 Alias Henry Empson Prendergast Excise officer Offence Assault on bailiffs and rescue of White William from their custody Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias Mary Verdict No true bill Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Hempson John 20 December 1771 Alias John Henson, John Emso Prendergast Excise officer Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of White William the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother Prendergast Mathias John, Prosecutor Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Higday Owen 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy

Hoare Mary 1670 Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy Hundred

Hopkins John 20 December 1771 Prendergast Shoemaker Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother Prendergast Prosecutor John Mathias, Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff

Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Howell John 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dungleddy

Hugh William 20 December 1771 Walwyn's Castle Yeoman Offence Riot and assault on prosecutors Prendergast Prosecutor Ann White, William White the Younger & Eliz
Verdict no true bill Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Hughes Edward 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dungleddy

Hughes Edward 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H 3 Dungleddy

Jackeston Henry 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

James Richard 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Jenkins Catherine 28 November 1778 Prendergast Widow Offence Theft of carcasses of Mutton from prosecutor's slaughterhouse. Prisoner confessed. Prendergast Prosecutor White William, Prendergast Verdict Guilty to the value of 1/- - partial verdict Punishment To be whipped
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Jenkins Mary 28 November 1778 Prendergast Single woman Offence Theft of carcasses of Mutton from prosecutor's slaughterhouse. Recognizance refers to receiving the same. Prendergast Prosecutor White, William Prendergast Verdict Guilty to the value of 1/- - partial verdict Punishment To be whipped Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

John David 1670 Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy Hundred

John Thomas 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Jones Ellinor 9 September 1820 Haverfordwest Spinster Offence Uttering forged 10/- banknotes drawn on the Swansea Old Bank to prosecutor and Thomas Scowcroft, Haverfordwest Prosecutor Lewis, John Prendergast, shoemaker Before the Pembrokeshire

Courts 1730-1830

Jones Martha Haverfordwest Servant Offence Theft of household goods, a brass pan. Prendergast No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Jones Mary 23 June 1822 Prendergast Married Offence Theft from a shop of household goods - cutlery, tea caddies, looking glasses - and of personal goods – necklace, tobacco box, shaving brush, razor - and food and wearing apparel, According to recognizance prisoner to be charged with burglary of prosecutor's shop, Prosecutor Barnasconi, Francis Haverfordwest, hawker Verdict Guilty, Punishment 6 months imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Lawrence Richard 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy

Lewis William 30 March 1760 Prendergast blacksmith Offence Assault on prosecutor's son, Williams John the Younger. Prendergast Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Llewelin William 20 December 1771 Prendergast Carpenter Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of White William the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias, John Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Lloyd Rowland 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy

Maddocke Alban 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dungledy

Maddocke Margret 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dungledy

Mathias John 20 December 1771 Walwyn's Castle Yeoman Offence Riot and assault on prosecutors. Prendergast Prosecutor Ann White, William White the Younger & Eliz Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Nash John 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungledy

Nicholas Mary born 2 Mar 1842 Prendergast Haverfordwest Pembrokeshire
Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Owen Evan 1670 Prendergast P Dungleddy Hundred Hearth Tax .

Palmer Mary 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Parry Arnold 1670 Smith Prendergast H 2 Dungleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

Parry Evan 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast H Dungleddy

Powell Lewis 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Prendergast Francis 1820? Hubberston Labourer Offence Theft of wearing apparel and packets of silk. Two other similar counts of stealing shirts and silk belonging to Thomas , Dillon and Hugh Stokes., Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Price William Prendergast Labourer Offence Theft of sheep, Prendergast 2 July 1818 Prosecutor Peel, Jonathan Haworth esq., Verdict Guilty to the value of 5/-, Punishment Death Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Rice Elizabeth 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Rice Richard 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Rogers Gwenlleean 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Rogers James 12 May 1795 Prendergast Gent. Offence Neglect of duty in refusing to undertake his appointed duty as overseer of the poor. Prendergast Prosecutor William Bowen , esq., JP Punishment Small fine Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Sinnett Rowland 20 December 1771 Walwyn's Castle Yeoman Offence Riot and assault on prosecutors. Prendergast Prosecutor Ann White, William White the Younger & Eliz

Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Smith Thomas 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax . Prendergast P Dungleddy

Sparkes William 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax . Prendergast H5 Dungleddy

Stephney John 1639 Jan 6 Sir Prendergast HW Corp MS 239

Stepneth Alban 1579, September, 9 ,John Wogan of Wyston, esq.,, Cicill his wife esq.,, Alban Stepneth of Prendergast, esq.,, and Thomas Woogan of Antisladd, gent, agreement following a fine Levied of the messuages and lands called Clerkenhill, Dunstrete, Arnoldeshill and Buckeshill touching lands tenants specified in Wiston, Slebeche and Ambleston, Slebech Estate and Family Records

Surman Thomas 27 July 1756 the younger Prendergast Offence Breaking and entering closes in order to catch and destroy fish in the Dungleddau river and treading down and consuming grass. Haverfordwest Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Symins Francis 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Tackry Thomas 20 December 1771 Alias Thomas Tackery Prendergast Shoemaker Offence assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias John, Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Warren Elizabeth 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax . Prendergast H4 Dungleddy

Webb William 30 March 1784 Prendergast/Narberth Yeoman Offence Forgery of deed purporting to be in the name of David Thomas Castlebythe, deceased, with the intent of defrauding Thomas David. Indicted twice for the fact – the other alleging the forgery took place at Narberth. Prendergast Prosecutor Williams Robert, Haverfordwest, Yeoman Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

White Ann 20 December 1771 Prendergast Married Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Indicted with her husband, son and daughter. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias John, Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

White Elizabeth 20 December 1771 Prendergast Spinster Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias, John Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

White William 29 April 1769 Prendergast Yeoman Offence Assault. Wiston Prosecutor David Lloyd Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

White William 20 December 1771 Prendergast Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias, John Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730- 1830

White William 20 December 1771 the elder Prendergast Butcher Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of himself from their custody following his arrest for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Indicted with his wife, son and daughter. Prendergast Prosecutor Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

White William 20 December 1771 the younger Prendergast Butcher Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Indicted with his parents and sister. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias, John Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

White William born 19 Jan 1794 Prendergast Pembrokeshire died 19 Nov 1874 Paradise Cache Utah Left Liverpool on 29 Jan 1849 aboard the Zetland Arrived in New Orleans on 2 Apr 1849 Married to Griffiths, Martha on 25 Oct 1825 at Fishguard, Pembrokeshire, South Wales Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Whittoe George 1670 Hundred Hearth Tax Prendergast P Dungleddy

Williams John 20 August 1753 the younger Prendergast Shoemaker Offence 2830

Assault. Prendergast Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Williams John 16 February 1757 Prendergast Butcher Offence Theft from a ship of barley and wheat from The Expedition lying in Lawrenny Creek. Carew Verdict Guilty Punishment Transported for 7 years Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Williams John 30 March 1760 Prendergast Alehouse-keeper Offence Assault. Prendergast Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Wise John 20 December 1771 Prendergast Yeoman Offence Assault on prosecutor and other bailiffs and rescue of William White the elder, arrested for debt due to prosecutor's mother. Prendergast Prosecutor Mathias, John Walwyn's Castle, farmer/bailiff Punishment Fined 6d Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Farming

According to Pembrokeshire in Bygone Days Francis Green

Alban Stepneth of Prendergast, rented to Moris Hancocke ' 40 good sufficient lambs ' with their wool for a term of five years at the yearly rent of 13s. 4d., and the tenant was to deliver up to the lessor at the end of the term the like number of lambs or 2s. 6d. for each Lamb at the option of the lessor.

Education

The Parish of Prendergast 1847

The Rev William Watt Harris, rector, informed me that (besides the private schools in the suburbs of Prendergast) the children in this parish are at liberty to go to the National school held in St Mary's parish, to which he and others in the parish of Prendergast are yearly subscribers – that the respectable farmers were well educated, and the smaller ones mostly, could read and write a little – that among the labouring classes ignorance to some extent prevailed, but that there were schools enough, and near enough to all who wished to avail themselves of the opportunity. I was informed by several in the village that there are many who never attend any place of worship.

January 7th 1847 WM. Morris Assistant.

Mr Bowen 's School

This small school is held in a very dirty room of the master's dwelling house. His wife used to keep the school for 30 years, and when she was obliged to give it up in consequence of blindness and old age (77 years) he took it up, five years ago. They get 2s a week relief from the parish, and seem miserable poor. The master said that he would rather be a labourer again than keep school, if his health allowed him, and if he had someone to take care of his wife in her illness. Nothing beyond reading and writing are professed to be taught. He could not speak English correctly. January 7th 1847 WM. Morris Assistant.

Mr Griffiths's School

This is held in a schoolroom erected by Thomas Morgan, esq. solicitor of Haverfordwest, for which the master pays £4 a year. The Baptists and Independents also pay a small sum to the master for the use of the room to preach in; the former twice a week and the latter once a week. There is no Sunday school held in it by either denomination nor indeed in the parish. The furniture, which is the property of Mr Morgan, consists of one master's desk, one large table, three long desks five benches and seven chairs. Tradesmen's mechanic's and labourer's children compose the scholars. The master has but lately changed his employment of tailor for that of schoolmaster. He told me "the women's schools in this neighbourhood ruins my school; they takes children at such a low rate."--January 7th 1847 WM. Morris Assistant.

Mrs Hughes's School

A room on the ground floor of the mistress's dwelling house was the school room. It was in good repair. The mistress (a blacksmith's widow in low circumstances) receives 2s a week from the parish towards her support. She could not speak English correctly. In the room were three benches, four stools, an old coffer, and some few other articles for domestic use. Her scholars were mostly labourers' children and judging from their dress, appeared to be very poor. They conducted themselves quietly during my stay in the school. A part of the 10th chapter of revelations was read, but not well; and the scholars could answer no questions on the portion read. Nothing beyond reading is taught in this school – no writing nor sewing.---January 7th 1847 WM. Morris Assistant.

Miss Lloyd's School

This school is conducted in a ground floor room in the house of the mistress's father. The mistress appeared to be an intelligent young woman and knew English well. The furniture in the room consists of four tables and five benches. No maps of any kind were to be seen on the walls. The copy books were taken home by the scholars, who are mechanics' and labourers' children, except a few farmers' children from the country. – January 7th 1847 WM. Morris Assistant.

Mrs Smith's School

A small room on the ground floor of the mistress's dwelling house was the schoolroom. It contained one table, two benches, one chair and several old articles for domestic purposes. The mistress is a widow who had seen better days. She now receives 3s a week from the parish towards her own support and that of her son. She could speak English well. Nothing beyond reading is taught. – January 7th 1847 WM. Morris Assistant.

1877 Board School Prendergast

The former Board School on Prendergast Hill was built in 1877. It has been substantially altered and modernised and forms part of the present day Prendergast County Primary and Junior School.

1884 Sunday School, Prendergast, was opened since closed

Other Sites of Interest

Tump Field (Tithe Schedule No 100) RCAM

A field 250yds north west of Park House. There are no surface indications of any mound, sepulchral or otherwise having stood here

Puncheston

Puncheston is a small village situated approx 6 miles SE of Fishguard, Pembrokeshire, on the Afon Anghof. It lies on the western edge of the Presili Hills. The Scheduled Ancient Monument of Castell Mael is on the eastern edge of the village.

L. Osborne, 19th Nov 2010.

1839 Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

Puncheston, a parish, in the poor-law union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Kemmes, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 12 miles (N. N. E.) from Haverfordwest; containing 255 inhabitants. This parish is also called "Castell Mael," probably from an ancient encampment, of which there are still some vestiges. It comprises a considerable tract of arable and pasture land, the greater portion inclosed and in a good state of cultivation: the total area is 2200 acres. The surface is boldly undulated, in some parts rising into mountainous elevations; the soil is various, but in the low grounds fertile and productive. The living is a discharged rectory, rated in the King's Books at £5. 6. 8.; patron, the Rev. James Williams James: the tithes have been commuted for a rent-charge of £105; the glebe comprises forty-five acres, valued at £40 per annum, and there is a glebe-house. The Church, dedicated to St. Mary , is not remarkable for any architectural details. Here are meeting-houses for Baptists and Calvinistic Methodists, in each of which a Sunday school is also held; and the Society of Friends had formerly a place of interment in Puncheston. Of Martel, in the parish, the ancient seat of the family of Symmons, before their removal to Llanstinan, nothing now exists but the site. The remains of the encampment above noticed occupy the summit of a rocky eminence, inaccessible on one side by the precipitous steepness of the acclivity, and defended on the other sides by a deep intrenchment. The Rev. Mr. Gambold, father of the Bishop of that name, and compiler of a Welsh, Latin, and English Dictionary, was for some years rector of this place.

The Parish Church dedicated to St Mary . RCAM

The present Church is modern – a nave and chancel without structural division, and a single Bell cote above the west gable – visited 1st June 1915.

The Old Parish Churches of South West Wales -- Mike Salter 1994

Church on ancient foundations but has been completely rebuilt and lack old features

Pembrokeshire Parsons

According to the Valor Eccl. the rectory of Puncheston was in the patronage of divers persons, but George Owen states that it was appendant to the manor ad Puncheston, and that in 1594 the patron was Owen Johnes. - Owens Pems.

It is certain that Owen Jones [Johnes] of Trecoen owned the manor and advowsons of Puncheston till his death in 1622. - Inq. P.M. of Owen Jones, 21 Jac. I.

There is no doubt that the Church was held in 1326 by the Lord of Kemes, as in that year the advowson, being of the annual value of 8 marks, was assigned to James de Audeley , as kinsman and coheir of William, the son of William Martin - Close Rolls.

On 14 Feb., 1338 licence was granted by the King to James de Audeley to alienate in mortmain to the warden of the chantry of St. Mary , Punchardon, the adowson of the Church there (said to be held in chief), to find two chaplains to celebrate divine service daily in the said Church for the good estate of Philip le Dyere, Margaret his wife, William le Dyere, and Isabella his wife in life, arid for their souls after death, and for the appropriation of the Church by the said warden. - Rolls.

In 1291 the Church was assessed at £6 13s. for tenths to the King – Taxatio.

Ponchereston. - Ecclesia ibidem es collacione diver-sorum patronorum ibidem unde Willielmus Jenkyn est rector valet communibus annis 106s. 8d. Inde decima 10s. 8d. - Valor Eccl.

Under the heading "Livings Discharged": - Poynges-ton alias Puncheston alias Ponchardeston alias Castel Maul R. (St. Mary). Divers. Patron., 1535; John Vaughan, esq., 1728; Thomas Warren, esq., 1729; Thomas Williams, esq., and Anne his wife, 1762. Clear yearly value, £22. Kings Books, £5 6s. 8d. – Bacon's Liber Regis.

Pembrokeshire Church Plate

Puncheston —The only piece of silver now belonging to this Church is a Bell-shaped Chalice; height, 9 in.; diam. of bowl, 4in.; depth, 4 in.; diam. of base, 4in.; weight, 15 oz. 17 dwts. It bears the Hall Mark of 1725 with maker's Mark R B for Richard Baytey. The bowl is ornamented with a shield of arms with mantling—Concerning this coat Mr. C. F. Egerton Allen writes " I have no doubt that the Arms on the Puncheston Chalice are those of John Symons of Llanstinan, High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1713.

There are two pewter Plates, each 8 in. in diam. and bearing the maker's Mark, viz. a rose on a stem crowned, for Allen BRIGHT (London).

Smyrna Welsh Baptist Chapel, Puncheston

Smyrna Baptist Chapel was built in 1827, after Puncheston Baptists, led by Benjamin Davies and John George, pushed to create a daughter Chapel here from Beulah. A fracture came in 1870 when differences of opinion caused Smyrna to split from the mother Chapel, something that came a difficult time as the Chapel was in the middle of being restored. The new Chapel opened in 1871 desite still needing decoration and a lighting system, and was officially reopened May 1872. The Chapel was restored in 1928 when the current heavy concrete render was applied.

The Chapel is stone built with a concrete render, and is constructed in the gable entry form in the sub Classical style. the façade contains a central doorway with a simple round-headed fanlight with radiating bars and a mixture of plain and coloured glass. Above is a short, segmentally jheaded window and a dateplaque inscribed "SMYRNA CAPEL Y BEDYDDWYR 1827-1871-1928". There are tall round-headed windows flanking the door, and pronounced quoins to the corners. In the pediment is a narrow, round-headed vent.

Internally a platform pulpit is reached by a plain flight of steps to either side, while to the rear is a matchboarded arch topped with a winged pediment identical to that at Beulah, Little Newcastle. There are two pulpit windows flanking the pulpit on the rear wall, a late use of such a feature. The small sedd fawr and gallery front are of relatively plain moulded and fielded panels, the brass handrail to gallery having been added recently for health and safetey purposes. The ground floor pews are laid out in 7 blocks, there being two blocks facing towards the pulpit on either side instead of the more usual one.

In May 2014 the number of members is around 17 and services are held once or twice a month.

RCAHMMW May 2014.

Bethel Welsh Calvinist Methodist Chapel, Puncteston

Bethel Chapel was built in 1827 thanks to Shem Evans, son of the Rev. Arthur Evans, as members of the cause in Puncteston had to travel to Woodstock or Castlebythe for services. The cause soon flourished and by 1851 it was recorded as able to seat 100, with standing room for another 200. The Chapel was rebuilt in 1891/2 by Griffth Jones and Son of Penffordd who were also the designers.

It is built in the Simple round-Headed style with stone walls, a slate roof and a gable entry plan. The external walls are concrete rendered with inscribed lines to mimic ashlar stonework. The central door has a fanlight with marginal glazing,. This glazing with pattern galss to the centre panels and red glass to the margins is also used in the tall round-headed windows which flank the doorway and are in the side elevations, and the two, much smaller, windows above the doorway. In the pediment is a plaque "Bethel Calvinistic Methodists BUILT 1827 REBUILT 1891". In 1926/7 the trustees bought a plot of land and built a manse. A vestry was added 1949-51 at a cost of £1233-9s-11d.

The interior is unusual, with a low plain plaster ceiling and the internal walls similarly concrete render with inscribed 'ashlar' as the exterior and devoid of any memorials, plaques or other embellishment. The plain panel platform pulpit has only low level matchboard panelling behind it, and there are five blocks of plain panelled pews.

In May 2014 the Chapel is still in use with monthly services. RCAHMMW, May 2014

Quakers Burial Ground & Meeting House, Puncteston

Meeting house existed by 1700, discontinued in 1725, no remains. Burial ground was first mentioned in 1683 (ref., The Quaker Meeting houses of Britain, Vol. ii)

Names connected with Puncteston

Clergy CCED

LLewis, Jenkin	1661	Rector
Owen, Richard	1679	Rector
Owen, Richardus	1679	Rector
FFord, Alexander	1690	Rector
FFord, Alexander	1692	Rector
Phillips, David	1692	Curate
Gambold, Gulielmus	1709	Rector

Price, Gulielmus	1715	Curate
Gambold, Gulielmus	1717	Rector
Davies, Rodericus	1720	Curate
Davies, Rodericus	1721	Curate
Jones, Griffithius	1726	Curate
Price, David	1728	Rector
Gambold, Gulielmus	1728	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Thomas , Johannes	1729	Rector
Rees , David	1761	Curate
Evans , William	1762	Rector
Thomas , John	1762	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Evans , William	1762	Rector
Owen , Thomas	1784	Curate
Williams , Walter	1787	Curate
Davies , Howell	1795	Curate
Phillips , John	1796	Rector
Evans , William	1796	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Davies , Howell	1801	Curate
Phillips , John	1802	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Bateman , Thomas	1802	Rector
Davies , Howell	1804	Curate
Watkins Cullis , George	1818	Curate
Williams James , James	1825	Rector
Bateman , Thomas	1825	Vac (natural death)	Rector
Hughes , John	1831	Curate
Richard Griffiths , James	1834	Curate

1851 Puncheston Parish Church

William Davies, Curate

1929 St Mary & St Peter (Little Newcastle) Incumbent and Curates; D Morgan

Royal Commission of Ancient Monuments Quakers Burial Ground Puncheston

The Society of Friends once owned a meeting house and burial ground in this parish. The latter was situated about two thirds of a mile south west of the village, Midway between Puncheston and Little Newcastle. The field, known locally as “Parc back hen fynwent” exhibits the outline of a square enclosure, of about one acre in extent. The surface has long been ploughed over, and traces of the foundations of the enclosing wall are becoming faint. The meeting house is said to have stood on part of what is now the yard of Pen y graig farm on the southern outskirts of the village, but nothing remains above ground by which the actual spot can be identified – visited 21st October 1914.

The Puncheston Friends are alluded to in a MS presentation of 1684, preserved in the Diocesan Registry Carmarthen. “There are several persons called by the name of Quakers – viz.,

Hugh Symmins,

James Gwynne alias Symmins,

Thomas Symmins sen, and Mary his wife,

John Symmins.

Francis Symmins,

Whos live in ye parish and refuse communion with the Church of England “

1668 - Further references appear in Besse's Sufferings (p 752)

“ Thomas Simmonds of Pembrokeshire for suffering meetings at his house had his cattle taken away at one time, worth £24, which were sold for £8.

At another time some household goods of his worth 26s were sold for 7s.

And at a third time corn Hay and thatch taken from him to the value of £20 were sold for £5 of which one third was ordered at sessions to be given to the poor.

Some Quaker Records

Edwards David of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Edwards Henry of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Edwards Laurence committed to Prison for Absence from the National Worship, Edwards Laurence of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings– recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Edwards Margaret of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Ellis, Thomas 1683 of Puncheston , Quaker, emigrated- daughter married Lawrence, David Quaker, Immigrated to Pennsylvania Glenn's Welsh, Founders of Pennsylvania

Gambold Hector b Puncheston 1714 son of William Snr he emigrated to USA in 1742 and d. in Pennsylvania in 1788 Journal of the Hist. Soc. Presb. Church of Wales , September., 1961

Lawrence David of Puncheston, Quaker, married daughter of Thomas , Ellis, Quaker, Immigrated to Pennsylvania Glenn's Welsh, Founders of Pennsylvania

Simons Evan 1682 son of Thomas of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, He married Jane, the daughter of David John, died in 1682, buried at Puncheston The Persecution of Quakers

Simons Hugh son of Thomas of Puncheston married Anne Thomas of Llanddewi Velfrey, committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Simons Jane wife of Thomas of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Simons John son of Thomas of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Simons Thomas of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

Simons Ursula daughter of Thomas of Puncheston committed to Prison till the next Assizes refused to agree not to go to any more meetings – recommitted After eighteen Months

Imprisonment brought to Trial at the Assizes, where the Evidence was found insufficient to convict and acquitted, The Persecution of Quakers

[The Church of England Rector of Poncheston from 1679 to 1690 was the Rev Richard Owen who would have been the one to bring the charges]

Poncheston Parish, Hearth Tax 1670

Lewis Jenkin	Poncheston	H2
Edward Lawrence	Poncheston	H
Symins John	Poncheston	H
Symins Evan* and Cornockel John	Poncheston	H
Symins Thomas	Poncheston	H4
Symins Hugh	Poncheston	H
Cornocke John	Poncheston	H
Griffith William	Poncheston	H
Morgan John	Poncheston	H
William David	Poncheston	H
Thomas Morice	Poncheston	H
David Evan	Poncheston	H
Jenkins Evan	Poncheston	P
Griffith John	Poncheston	P
William Owen	Poncheston	P
Lewis Mathias * brother of Hugh	Poncheston	P

.....

Education

The State of Education in Wales* 1847

There is no resident Clergy. It is an agricultural parish with labourers receiving 7d a day with food and 1s a day on their own finding. There is no resident land proprietor and only one farmer paying more that £100 rent per annum. Many of the population can read but not write.

National School Opened 1855 — According to RCAM --A school house has been erected within the enclosed area of Castell Mael a horseshoe shaped work standing immediately east of the parish Church, and on the parish boundary,— visited 21st October 1914 RCAM
New School built 1953

Sites of Interest

March Mound

A Long narrow plot of ground near Marsh cottage is known as “Parc law [?lan] carn”. At its southern end is a low and circular mound, which from external appearance would seem to be sepulchral. It is slightly domed, with a base circumference of 180ft, and has not been disturbed – visited 1st June 1915 RCAM

Stones

In the field some 10yds south of the ruined farmhouse of Pen mynydd bach are two stones both erect, which are said locally to be all that is left of a small cromlech. The taller stone is 3ft above ground and is somewhat pointed; the shorter stone is distant from it about 6ft –visited 2nd June 1915. RCAM

Stone

In the western hedge of the field next to Parc Carreg is an erect monolith; height above ground 7ft 3 in. it is said that to a former generation, it is known as “Carreg quoitan” “the quoit stone” – visited 2 June 1915 RCAM

Stone

This is an erect monolith standing on the field called “Parc maen Llwyd” directly west of Capel Smyrna in the village of Puncheston. It has a clear height above ground of 10ft. Its broad sides 40 in and 54 in across, face north and south respectively – visited 21st October 1914 RCAM

Stones

In the field known as “Parc Maenhir” 150 yds north of the farm house of Fagwyr fran west is an erect and somewhat slender stone leaning slightly to the west. It has three sides 38,33 and 26 in broad, facing east west and north respectively. Its height above ground is 9ft.

In the adjoining field and distant some 260 yds north west of the above mentioned maenhir is a line of 5 striated boulders. Whilst they have evidently been placed in position by man, they can hardly be classed as an alignment. The stones, which have an average height of 2ft are not set in the ground but rather stand on it. They may possibly be the remains of a ruined cromlech, of which the capstone has vanished, and to which the standing stones may have been a “pointer” – visited 1st June 1915.

Castell Mael

This is a horseshoe shaped work standing immediately east of the parish Church, and on the parish boundary, near the river Anghof which skirts the steep slope that forms the boundary to the east. It is protected by a much disturbed rampart which rising at its best 6ft, falls about 12 ft to a ditch now largely filled in. the summit of the slope may have carried a mound of which faint traces may be detected. The length of the slope is about 220ft; the rock has been scarped in places. The entrance was midway in the rampart; it has been ruined. A school house has been erected within the enclosed area – visited 21st October 1914 RCAM

Pwllcrochan

Acc to Royal Commission on Ancient Monuments

Fenny Coome or Popton Camp

The insignificant remains of an earthwork on a field known as Fenny garn about 600 yds north east of West Popton farmhouse. Lt Col W Ll Morgan R.E. A former Royal Commissioner, examined this site about the year 1879 when there was considerably more of it in existence than is apparent; he says of it:-

“This work cannot be represented as a cliff Castle, for although situated on the shore of the Haven, it is only imperfectly protected on the sea side by a steep slope; the other side of the promontary being a steep slope – the side of an inland gully. Across the tongue of land is a rampart and ditch 220ft long much bowed out. The rampart is 4ft high, 12 ft fall to a ditch 4 ft deep. Beyond this, at a distance of 30yds is a second line 130yds long, parallel to the first. The northern half of this line has been destroyed. The bank is 4ft high, has a 7ft fall to a ditch 6ft deep. Both these banks two last banks have been very much destroyed by cultivation so that their original condition is only a matter for conjecture. The ground slopes towards the north”.

Apparently the entrance bisected the outer bank and lead to the north end of the main vallum where the bank seems to have sloped to the level ---visited 23rd May 1922.

West Pennar Rath

On a field known as Rath Park or Rath Hays 150yds east of West Pennar farmhouse are the remains of an earthwork now almost cultivated away. It seems to have been of horse shoe shape and to have faced north. The rampart has a length of 150ft, is about 5ft in height and falls 10ft to a ditch. This ditch must have been of fair depth, judging by the remains of the counterscarp, which rises to 10ft and drops 4ft to the surrounding level. The greater part of the rampart has all but disappeared, though there are slight traces of it to the north. At the eastern bend a line of several base stones is still in situ leading to the eastern rampart, which is 150ft in length, and somewhat lower than that on the western side. The enclosure is level. visited 23rd May 1922.

West Popton Cross

At a crossroads in the hamlet of West Popton stands the remains of Popton Cross – a stone base of three steps, the octagonal and plain shaft 48in high and the two diagonal arms of the cross 29in across; the upper member is missing. Some years ago the shaft and arms were found in the neighbouring hedges and were replaced. visited 23rd May 1922

St Mary Church Pwllcrochan

- Church closed.

The Church is supposed to have been erected by Radulph Benyer in the 14th century, whose effigy is in the south transept under a recess, inscribed, - Hic jacet Redulphus Benyer, hujus ecclesie.- Another inscription runs, - Erat ista ecclesia constructa de novo, cum capella ista per Redulphum Benyer qui rexit ecclesiam per annos A.D. 1342. this is in the north transept.

-ArchCamb. 1888 Ser. V., Vol. V, p. 127.

Acc to RCAM 1922

The Church consists of chancel 26ft 6ins by 15ft, nave 45ft by 9in, north transeptal Chapel 13ft 9in by 10ft 6in and a south tower 18ft by 16ft. The original south porch is now used as a storehouse. The present entrance to the Church is through a modern porch, and by a doorway in the north wall having a pointed arch. Several of the windows are blocked; the remainder are modern. In the north wall of the chancel is a low stone ledge; an aumbry occupies the south-east angle. The chancel arch and those leading from the tower and the north Chapel plain pointed. Sir Stephen Glynn in 1871 saw “ an original vestry north of the chancel, opening by a flat arch, and having a square headed two light label window” This vestry has been removed , the blocked doorway to it visible in the chancel wall. There is a squint between the chancel and the north transept. The east wall of the nave contains the corbels for the rood. In the north wall are two plain tomb recesses, now empty, and another recess occupies the south wall.

The tower of two storeys has a parapet and corbel table, and is surmounted by a graceful octagonal spire. The belfry is lighted by two small lancets. The lower story has a plain vault, and contains a blocked window of two lights. The font, of the cushion type, has been redressed – visited 23rd May 1922.

Acc to Old Parish Churches – Salter.

In a recess in the south wall is an effigy of Rector Ralph Beneger d1342, with an inscription saying that he built the chancel and Chapel. There are two other recess in the nave north wall which contains a 13th century doorway. The south transeptal tower with a plain corbelled parapet was built or remodelled when the north transept with a squint was added in the Tudor period. A north vestry was later removed. There are corbels for a rood beam in the nave.

Pwllcrochan Church originally formed part of the possessions of the priory of Pembroke, and on the transference of that priory to the abbey of St. Albans, the patronage became vested in the latter house until the dissolution of the monastic establishments, when it came into the hands of the Crown. In the 19th century the patronage was transferred to private hands.

Described as Ecclesia de Portcrachan, this Church was in 1291 assessed at £10 for tenths to the King, the sun payable being £1. -Taxatio.

Poullecrochon Rectoria.—Ecclesia ibidem ex collacione abbatis Sancti Albani unde Griffinus Lloid est rector habens glebam et mansionem. Et valent fructus hujus rectorie et glebe per annum x. Inde sol ordinari quelibet tercio anno xvjd et pro sinodalibus et pro-curacionibus vs ixd. -Valor Eccl.

Under the heading“Livings remaining in Charge”: - Pulchrohon alias Pwllychroehon R. (St. Mary). Ordinario quolibet tertio anno 1s. 4d. Syn. and Prox., 5s. 9d. Abb. St. Albani, olim Patr; The Prince of Wales. King's Books, £9 12s. 11d., Yearly tenths, 19s. 3d. -Bacon's Liber Regis.

During the Civil War, two companies of Royalists landed at Pwllcrochan, and took up their quarters in the Church until more suitable quarters could be provided for them. The next day they were surprised by a party of Parliamentarians under Poyer, but they resisted stoutly until allowed to March away and embark for Cardiff, after giving an undertaking not to land again in Milford Haven.

1794 circa [St Petrox].

Extract from a Letter from Cha[rle]s Pigott Pritchett, rural dean of Pembroke, to William Stuart Bishop of St David's.

List of subscribers to the fund for the sons of the Clergy
 Revd Mr Buckridge Pulchroan £1 1 0
Church in wales MS AD/AET 1209
Pembrokeshire life 1572 1843

It is now surrounded by oil refineries.

Names connected with Pwllcrochan

Land Tax 1791

Pwllcrochan Bullwill	Meares	John (owner)
Pwllcrochan Bullwill	Waters	James (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Combe Hill	Rogers	Thd. (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Combe Hill	Meares	John (owner)
Pwllcrochan East Popton	Williams	Wm. (tenant)
Pwllcrochan East.Popton	Meares	John (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Glebe	Buckeridge	rector (owner)
Pwllcrochan Glebe	Hicks	Mr (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Green Hill	Davies	Morgan (owner)
Pwllcrochan Green Hill	Webb	Eliz. (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Haull	Meares	John (owner)
Pwllcrochan Haull	Rixen	John (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Kiln Park	Cuny	In. (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Kiln Park	Meares	John (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Landbith	Meares	Hugh (owner)
Pwllcrochan Landbith	Philps	Geo (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Middle Popton	Meares	John (owner)
Pwllcrochan Middle Popton	Morgan	In. (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Naule	Meares	John (owner)

Pwllcrochan Naule	William	Mary (tenant)
Pwllcrochan Sautron	Meares	John (owner)
Pwllcrochan Sautron	Rixon	Stephn (tenant)
Pwllcrochan rectory	Buckridge	(owner)rector
Pwllcrochan rectory	Hicks	Mr (tenant)

Hearth Tax 1670

Adams	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Beavan	Thomas	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Bowen	Griffith	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Buckney	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Charter	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Coale	Elizabeth	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Codde	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Dalson	Saint John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Dowr	Richard	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Dugan	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Evan	Margaret	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Furlong	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Gronoe	James	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Harry	William	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Hay	Margret	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Hitchin	George	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth 1
Howell	Lewis	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Howell	Hugh	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Hurloe	Henry	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Husband	Rice	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1

Hutwell	George	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Jenkins	Richard	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Jones	David	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Keaston	Mathew	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Leach	Thomas	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Lewis	James	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Llewhelin	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Longdell	Giles	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Marchant	James	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Morgan	William	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Munt	Richard	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Oliver	Mathew	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Owen	David	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Phillip	James	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Phillipps	William	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Phillp	Lewis	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Price	David	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h3
Price	Thomas (clerk)	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h3
Purser	Rice	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Realy	Luke	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Rice	Joane	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Robinson	Adam	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Scurlocke	Lewis	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Smart	David	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Snap	Anne	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Stephen	William	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p

Stewart	Henry	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Tidd	Thomas	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Wade	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
Webbe	Griffith	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth p
White	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
White	Griffith	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1
Lewis	Anne	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Daniell	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h2
Filkin	John	1670	Pwllcrochan Hearth h1

Clergy CCED

Benyer present Church	Redulph	1342	Pwllcrochan reputed to have built the Cradok	Roger	1339	Pwllcrochan vicar le Dygher	Philip	1348	Pwllcrochan vicar
de Hedyndon	John	1348 Apr 26	Pwllcrochan vicar
Rowland	David	1349 Sep 2	Pwllcrochan vicar
Wrenche	Thomas	1349Sep3	Pwllcrochan vicar
Geffraye	John	1398Oct 20	Pwllcrochan vicar
Richard	William	1398 Nov18	Pwllcrochan vicar
Lloid	Griffin	1535-6	Pwllcrochan vicar
Woogan	Thomas	1554 Oct 6	Pwllcrochan vicar
Hughes	Richard	1556 jan 19	Pwllcrochan vicar
Trevor	David	1563 Feb 3	Pwllcrochan
Hughes	Henry	1564 Jun11	Pwllcrochan vicar
Smart	Humphrey	1630Aug 2	Pwllcrochan vicar
Edwards	Samual	1677 2847	Pwllcrochan vicar

Newton	Rice	1693Jul 24	Pwllcrochan vicar
Lewis	Stephen	1705Mar 26	Pwllcrochan vicar
Edwards	Thomas	1743Nov24	d 89 Pwllcrochan vicar
Buckeridge	Charles	1789Oct 14	Pwllcrochan vicar
Lloyd	James D P	1828Mar 31	Pwllcrochan vicar
Smith	John	1832Dec 25	Pwllcrochan vicar
Macaulay	John	1832 May30	Pwllcrochan vicar
Cartmel	George	1834Jan 28	Pwllcrochan vicar
Lang	Charles Seymour	1857Aug 5	Pwllcrochan vicar
Lukin	James	1865Dec 20	Pwllcrochan vicar
Eaton	Charles Pemberton	1869Apr 9	Pwllcrochan vicar
Thomas	David	1875Jul 27	Pwllcrochan vicar
Gabriel	David Thomas	1910Jan4	Pwllcrochan vicar

Some Pwllcrochan names

Beneger Ralph 1342 of Bangeston rebuilt Pwllcrochan Church in 1342 It contains two inscriptions recording his name, and an effigy of him in his canonical habit, as Rector

Dawes Henry, married Walters Lettice, daughter of Walters William of Roch (her brother's daughter, the famous Walters, Lucy went to France and there met Charles II, by whom she became the mother of the ill-fated Duke of Monmouth) Henry Dawes was the son of Dawes Griffith, whose widow Dawes Joan, daughter of Fletcher Richard, married White Henry of Henllan, near Pwllcrochan , who was Sheriff in 1592

Benyer Redulph 1342 Pwllcrochan WWHR Vol3 P 251, 4

Buckeridge Charles 1789 Oct 14 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 252,

Buckeridge rector 1791/2 (owner) Pwllcrochan Glebe CRO Land Tax Records

Buckridge Ch Revd 1791/2 --Pulchroan -- £1 1 0 subscriber to the fund for the sons of the Clergy rector (owner) Pwllcrochan rectory (owner) west borough Tythes CRO Land Tax Records Church in Wales MS AD/AET 1209

Cartmel George 1834 Jan 28 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 253, Cradok Roger 1339 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p254 , 2848

Cuny In 1791/2 (tenant) Pwllcrochan Kiln park CRO Land Tax Records

Davies Morgan 1791/2 owner Pwllcrochan Green Hill CRO Land Tax Records

Dawes Griffith 1592 whose widow Dawes Joan daughter of Richard Fletcher married Henry White of Henllan near Pwllcrochan now a ruin

de Hedyndon John 1348 Apr 26 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 254

Eaton Charles Pemberton 1869 Apr 9 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p253

Edwards Thomas , 1735 Aug 5 Carew Vicar 1735 Aug 5 Lamphey Vicar 1737 Apr 21 St Twinnels Vicar 1743 Nov24 d 89 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol1 p264*WWHR* Vol3 p 308 WWHR Vol2 p221

Gabriel David Thomas 1910 Jan4 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 253

Geffraye John 1398 Oct 20 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 254

Hicks ? 1791/2 Mr tenant Pwllcrochan Glebe tenant Pwllcrochan rectory CRO Land Tax Records

Hughes Henry 1564 Jun11 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 252

Hughes Richard 1554 Roscrowther Rector 1556 Jan 19 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 25*WWHR* Vol3 p 258

Lang Charles Seymour 1857 Aug 5 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 253

le Dygher Philip 1348 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 254

Lewis Stephen 1705 Mar 26 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 252

Lloid Griffin 1535 Pwllcrochan Vicar Lloid Grifiinus est rector Valor Eccl 1534*WWHR* Vol3 p 252

Lloyd James D P 1828 Mar 31 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 252

Lukin James 1865 Dec 20 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 253

Macaulay John 1832 May30 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 253

Morgan In 1791/2 tenant Pwllcrochan Middle Popton CRO Land Tax Records

Newton Rice 1690 Jan 13 Gumfresdton Rector ,1693 Jul 24 Pwllcrochan Vicar WWHR Vol3 p 252 WWHR Vol1 P 306 Pembrokeshire Parsons

Rixen John 1791/2 tenant Pwllcrochan Haull CRO Land Tax Records

Rogers	Thd	1791/2	tenant	Pwllcrochan	Combe Hill	CRO Land Tax Records
Smart	Humphrey	1630 Aug 2		Pwllcrochan	Vicar	WWHR Vol3 p 252
Smith	John	1832 Dec 25		Pwllcrochan	Vicar	WWHR Vol3 p 253
Thomas	David	1875 Jul 27		Pwllcrochan	Vicar	WWHR Vol3 p 253
Trevor	David	1563 Feb 3		Pwllcrochan		WWHR Vol3 p 252
Uoid Griffinus		1534	est rector	Pwllcrochan Church		Valor Eccl

Redberth,

The Church dedicated to St Mary has been described as a Lovely Little Victorian Church built in 1844 by George Brown and restored in 1913 by F.R.Kempson. It has doored box pews, a miniature two decker pulpit with adjacent reading desk, three sided communion rails and the Ten Commandment tablets on either side of the altar.

1653 Redbert Parliamentary Survey: Pembroke, No. 5.

There is no survey of this small manor earlier than that of 1653, of which the following is a transcript:-

Parliamentary Survey: Pembrolce, No. 5.

A Survey of the Manor of Redbert with the rights, members and appurtenances thereof in the county of Pembroke, late parcel of the possessions of Charles, Stuart, late King of England, made and taken by us whose names are hereunto subscribed, by vertue of a Commission granted to us by the Hon'ble the Trustees appointed by act of the Commons assembled in parliament for sale of the honours, manors and lands heretofore belonging to the late King, queen, and princes, under their hands and seals.

£ s. d.

The chief rents due to the Lord of the manor of Redbert by divers freeholders within the parish of Carew and Redbert holding of the said manor in fee and common socage, payable according to the custom and usage thereof at Michaelmas only, per Ann. £2 1s 1d

The courts leet and luv days, fines and amerciements of courts, waifs, estrays, deodands, felons' goods, goods of felons of themselves, of fugitives and of condemned persons, hawking, hunting, fowling, fishing, and all other royalties, jurisdictions, immunities, and profits, commodities, advantages, emoluments, and appurtenances whatsoever to the royalty thereof belonging or in any wise appertaining, we estimate to be worth, communibus annis

£1 0 0

Sum total of present rents and royalties are per Ann. ... £3 1s 1d

All which said manor and the rents and royalties thereof (as we are informed) were granted by letters patent dated the 29th April, x Car. inter alia unto James Houghton for 21 years, but forasmuch as no such patent was procured nor any claim made by verture thereof, therefore we return the said manor in possession, valued as abovesaid.

A rental of the free rents payable by the freeholders holding of the said manor payable at Michaelmas only according to the custom and usage thereof per Ann.

Col. .John Ashburton for Button's lands

Mr . Lewise Barlow for Price's lands...

The said Mr. Barlow for Stedman's lands

Phillip Ph'eep	for one tenement
Thomas Lark	for his tenement
Thomas Rasson	for one tenement
Roget Wacock	for one tenement
William Droane	for one tenement
George Meredith	for one tenement
Phillip Yong	of Castletown
David Mathew	of StackPoole
Mr. Thomas Adams	of Morgans
Mr. Henry White	of Hentland
Mr. James Price	of Rickerston
Mr. Adams	for Lady Phillip

Pembrokeshire Parsons

There appears to be no mention of this benefice in the Valor Eccl.

Under the heading “Not in Charge” - Ridpert alias Ridbert, Capel to Carew. Bishop of St Davids

Patr. £2 5s. 0d certified value – Bacon’s Liber Regis.

Listed by Erasmus Saunders in 1730 as a curacy with a value of £2 0s 0d yearly.

Redberth Clergy

Thomas	1543 Redbert Churchwarden
Llewelin John	1543 Redbert Churchwarden
Andrew John	1737 Aug2 Redbert vicar
Handcock Thomas	1785 Jun 18 Redberth vicar
Phelps John	1865 Feb 24 Redberth vicar
Devonald George	1829 Feb 12 Redberth vicar

Gibbon Hugh Harries	1878 Mar 15 Redberth vicar
Morgan John Popkin	1884 May9 Redberth vicar
Lewis Joseph Pollard	1891 Jun 2 Redberth vicar
Howell James Antony	1910 Nov 28 Redberth vicar

1839 Redbarth Rydbberth Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

REDBARTH (RYDBERTH), a parish, in the hundred of Narberth, union and county of Pembroke, South Wales, 4½ miles (N. W.) from Tenby; containing 117 inhabitants. The name was originally spelled Rhydbeith, from Rhyd, "a Ford," and Beith, "a brake." The parish is situated in the southeastern part of the county, and bounded on the west by that of Carew north by Jeffreston, north-east by Begelly, and south by St. Florence; and consists of about 300 acres, 50 of which are common land. The soil is clayey, and not very fertile; a little wheat, barley, and oats, are grown, but the principal produce is potatoes. Some of the inhabitants are employed in a colliery in the adjoining parish of Begelly. The mail-coach road from Carmarthen to Hobbs' Point passes through the place, which was formerly a hamlet in the parish of Carew. The living is a perpetual curacy, endowed with £1200 royal bounty and £200 parliamentary grant, and in the patronage of the Bishop of St Davids; net income, £66: the impropriation belongs to the Crown. The Church having fallen into a very dilapidated condition, was rebuilt, and opened for divine service in August 1841, the expense amounting to £200, part raised by rate, and part by public subscription and contributions, aided by the Church Building Society, which granted £20. It is in the early English style, in length 53 feet and breadth 24, and contains 200 sittings, including 110 free. There is a small place of worship for Wesleyans; and a day and Sunday school is held, under the active patronage and superintendence of Miss Thomas, of Redbarth Lodge, through whose exertions the schoolroom and the present parish Church were both built.

1847 Redberth The State of Education in Wales

Parish of Redberth – Mr John Athol, farmer informed me that labourers with food get 10d a day and 1s 4d without; farm servants from £4 to £8, and female servants from £2 to £3 a year. Most if not all children in the parish attend the day and Sunday schools

December 24th 1846 Wm Morris Assistant

National (Day) School – On the 24th day of December 1846, I visited this school. It is held in a new school room erected by subscription through the exertions of Miss Thomas of Redberth Lodge, towards which George L Phillips of Ashdale near Haverfordwest, gave £10; Mrs Barlow £5; Rev James Ware of Suffolk £10; and Miss Ford of Clifton £5; with other smaller subscriptions. The whole cost was £70. It is a substantial building, and there is a lobby at the entrance for holding bonnets and cloaks and a door from it to the coalhouse. The furniture consists of 1 desk for the master, 2 moveable desks, and fixed desks round the schoolroom, 24 benches, 4 monitors boxes, a table box, a blackboard and stand, a large map of the world, a map of England and Wales 3 maps of Palestine and a map of the British Isles; 12 lessons hanging round the schoolroom on natural history, 2 alphabet boards, 2 large scriptural boards and the rules of the National Society framed and glazed, hung above the fireplace. The master appeared well adapted for his duties and his pupils were kept in the best of order by moral means.

Most of the scholars are labourers and small farmers children. The girls devote two days a week entirely to learn sewing and industrial instruction. The 7th chapter of Acts was read. The children answered Readily and correctly the questions put to them by Miss Thomas and the Master.

Proposed by me :- Christmas Day is on December 25th; Lady Day the 25th March ; Midsummer day the 25th another 24th of June; Michaelmas day 29th of September. Days and Nights are the same length the 21st March and the 21st September Victoria is our Queen Prince Albert her consort

They sang “God Save the Queen” very well. Some of the copybooks were well written.

National (Sunday) School

I visited this school on the 4th January

The school commenced by Miss Thomas ,who called over the names, and marked down those present. She then read the 5th of Dr Watt’s Hymns and asked “For what we thank God in it”. It was then sung very well, Miss Thomas giving it out verse by verse. There is only one service in the Church on Sundays : the Sunday school in reality forms a second service. After the hymn, the master of the day-school read the Collect for the second Sunday in Advent, the Lord’s Prayer, and the Benediction, all present kneeling and repeating the Lord’s Prayer after him. The children then commenced their work in classes.

I heard the day-schoolmaster and a class of eight boys engaged upon the first chapter of Genesis. He questioned them exceedingly well. The following answers were given to his questions:- Genesis means creation. In asking for the work of each day, he required answers in their own language, saying “How would you tell a man if you met him on the road and you had not your Bible with you?” Firmament means heaven – referring to the first verses of Genesis, and the expression “Let us” to prove the Trinity – correct answers were given to his questions on this head – mentioned that we do not find any solemn expression like “Let us” in connection with the physical creation

– though three persons, there are not three Gods –“in God’s image” means “holy” – there is no image of God - - God is a spirit. (In answer to me) – The second commandment forbids us to make images of God – the next recorded sin to eating the forbidden fruit was the murder of Abel by Cain – there was no sixth commandment then – yet it was wrong – and Cain knew it – by his conscience – by which, as well as in his written word, God speaks to men.

Miss Thomas ’s class of girls had just finished reading in the Old Testament about Moses conversing with God. On my asking for some similar glorification of Christ, they mentioned the Transfiguration. I heard them say the Church catechism very well, and they seemed to understand it more than is usually the case. They answered a variety of questions from the New Testament, in general very well and intelligently. Two junior classes of boys knew the meaning of several words which I asked them, and seemed not to be taught by rote. The books were then collected. Before separating, Miss Thomas read to the school an answer from the secretary in acknowledgment of their subscriptions for the Church Missionary Society in the preceding year. They had raised 30s. Miss Thomas , from the words of the secretary’s letter, asked for the anecdote of the widow’s mite which was correctly given. She also mentioned that but for the subscriptions of those who had never seen them (meaning those present) she could not have raised or maintained the school. It was their duty, as far as they could, to do the like by the heathen. They could not explain the word “appreciate” for the meaning of which she asked them, in the secretary’s letter.

The school ended with prayer and singing

Altogether this appeared to me to be a truly excellent school, both in spirit and discipline. At The commencement Miss Thomas had to form her teachers as well as her school. She took the class of men and lads herself. I saw a very respectable looking collier in the school aged 34, who is now a teacher, and had learned to read at the same time as his little son.

One of the neighbouring Clergy called Miss Thomas “the chief civilizer of the neighbourhood” which description appeared to me, so far as I could see, to be perfectly just, - her tact in dealing with the people being equal to her earnestness. On the day that I first called upon her (31st of December) the wedding feast of one of her servants, who had been a teacher in the Sunday school, was being celebrated in her house. I have already spoken of the disgraceful proceedings which characterized such occasions, in my account of the adjoining parish of Begelly. The common word among the working-people for such a festival is “a spree” This was to be an example of a “sober Spree” retaining all its characteristic customs that were harmless. I found her house full of people, all very smartly dressed, and the men mostly smoking. In the evening the bride and bridegroom held the usual feast in their own house for “the bidding”. It is the custom for the Bridesmaids to go round with plates, and empty the collections into the White apron of the bride, who stands to receive them. On this occasion £8 was so collected, a greater sum (the collier –teacher in the Sunday school told me) than could have been realized had the newly married couple sold beer in the usual manner. Miss Thomas attended this gathering herself. In the course of it, some of the young fellows were once or twice disposed to sing the looser songs usually sung on such occasions. However, the girls who had been educated in the day and Sunday school with great tact, checked the attempt by beginning to sing some of their school tunes especially “Happy Land” which is a general favourite with all classes: as they could sing better than the “Mauvais Sujets” and the latter felt themselves to be in the wrong, after a little jeering at first, the whole company acquiesced, and the whole evening passed as pleasantly as if the common licence had been permitted. I was assured that the example thus set of purifying rather than abolishing an old custom had made a deep impression in the neighbourhood.

I cannot say how much I was struck with the success of Miss Thomson. Without any other than precarious assistance, and with no great resources of her own – living in a country and among a population which exhibits no picturesque nor in any way sentimental character, but very much the reverse – she had rebuilt the Church; established, and was maintaining, a good day and Sunday School; and was the centre of improvement and instruction among the poor in her neighbourhood.

The Dissenters commonly attend Church and Chapel indifferently. When Miss Thomas commenced her Sunday School, she availed herself of the services of the Wesleyan teachers. These however had gradually fallen away as the school advanced, and there were none of them in it at the time of my visit.

1923 RCAM Parish of Redberth

This small parish of about 300 acres has been formed out of a hamlet formerly part of the parish of Carew. The name appears as “Ridebard” in the Inq. post mortem of Robert Robelyn (died November 1361) and “Rodebart” in the Inq. post mortem of Wenthliana Berthot (died 1367). The Hospitallers of Slebech owned land here, and doubtless sustained the Chapel which Browne Willis calls Rhydbert Chapel. The name probably derived from perth, a Bush, with the secondary meaning of an orchard, and the particular Bush may have been situated on the banks of the little river Cresswell or a tributary thereof, where is a Ford (Welsh rhyd) called Norchard Ford at the present day. The Clergy list gives no dedication to the Church but the medieval Chapel doubtless conformed to that of the Hospitallers of St John to whom it belonged.

So little appears to be known of the early history of Rhydbberth, that the inclusion of the following transcripts of documents in the Public Records Office may be welcome; They present an interesting glimpse of the social to which the reformation had given rise in many parishes of the Principality. The relation of the Chapelry of Rhydbberth to the Church of Carew, which is illustrated by the documents, exhibits a condition of things frequently found to have existed in the parishes of Wales and the Chapels subordinate to them, and affords the explanation of a circumstance which has puzzled local antiquaries.

Star Chamber Proceedings Edward VI Bundle 3 No 73

To the King our sovereign Lord. Most humbly show unto your excellent highness your faithful and obedient subjects and daily orators, Robert, Bishop of Saynt Davyes [Robert Ferrar 1558-1554], Thomas Uprychard [Ap Richard], Steven Greene, Roger Owen, John Evans, clerk, and John Davyes, gentleman. That where our late sovereign Lord of famous memory your most dearest father was by good and just title seized as of fee and right of and in the rectory of parsonage of Carew in your Grace's county of Pembroke, and of and in the Chapel of Redbark in the same county, with alltithes, oblations, and other spiritual commodities in Redbarke aforesaid, unto which parsonage the said Chapel, with all the commodities and profits thereunto pertaining, is and of all the time whereof there is no man's memory to the contrary hath been annexed and used, reputed, known and occupied by the parson of Carew for the time being and his subtyents as parcel of the said parsonage. And our said late sovereign Lord, so being of the parsonage and Chapel with the appurtenances seized, in consideration that William late Bishop of Seynt Davyds with the chantor and the chapter of the same Church granted and surrendered by their deed under the common seal and enrolled in one of the courts of the said late King, the manor of Lantesey [Lamphey] with the appurtenances in your Grace's said county of Pembroke then being part of the same bishopric to your said most dearest father and to his heirs forever. It pleased his said late highness in full recompense for the said grant and surrender to grant to your said William then Bishop and to his successors for ever the said parsonage and Chapel with all tithes, oblations and other commodities and profits to the same belonging as by his Grace's letters patent thereof made and ready to be showed more plainly may appear by virtue whereof the said William late Bishop in his time was thereof seized as of fee and right, as in the right of his said bishopric: and yourf said orator Robert now Bishop after his translation, was of the said parsonage with the appurtenances seized of fee in the right of his said bishopric. And forasmuch as one Thomas Collyn, one of the inhabitants within the precincts of the said Chapel of Redbarke who of right ought to have paid his tithe and other spiritual duties to ine John Taylor late fermor of the said parsonage and Chapel with the appurtenances. And for non-payment of such tithes as the same John Collyn ought to have paid to the said John Taylor then fermor of the said parsonage, the same John Taylor made complaint to your said orators Thomas Prychard and Robert Owens, then and now your Grace's commissaries under the said Bishop, being lawfully authorised within the diocese of the said bishopric, your said orator Robert then and now Bishop at the complaint of the said John Taylor awarded process of citation in the name of your majesty against the said Thomas Collin, according to the Laws and statutes of your Grace's realm. Willing and commanding him by the same personally to appear before the said Thomas Prychard and Roger Owens to answer to the libel of the said John Taylor concerning the said cause of subtraction of tithes, as lawful was for him to do. Whereup on one Roger Barlow from malice which he then bare towards your said orators, surmising that the said Collynge detained and subtracted the said tithes wrongfully from the said Taylor which he ought to have paid to the same Taylor, and that by the commandment of the same

Barlow, he the same Barlow intending the grievous vexation of your said orators, at your Grace's Great Sessions holden in your Grace's county of Carmarthen before your justices in June last past there pursued your Grace's writ of premunire fac[ias] against all your said orators, some as principals and some as aiders and consorters, surmising by the same writ that your said orators had cited the said Collyns before them to answer to the taking away of certain corn severed from the nine parts and set out as tithe as for the tenth part, whereas of very truth there was no such libel made against the said Collyn before your said orators or any of them, but only a libel for subtraction of tithes that he, the same Collyns, ought to have paid to the said Taylor, as plainly shall and may appear upon the indifferent hearing and debating thereof. Nevertheless your said orators according to their duties, upon the return of the said writ of premunire personally appeared and had day over until the next Great Sessions there to be holden; and in the mean time, forasmuch as your said orators perceived the said country barren of well-learned men in the laws of this realm resorted up to London to use the advice of such as were substantially learned in matters of such great weight, who then refused to be of council with them unless they were thereto commanded by some of your highness' honourable council or by your justice of your said county of Carmarthen.

Whereupon your said orators made suit unto your highness's most honourable council in this behalf, who, perceiving the scarcity of learned men in those parts of Wales, and thinking meet that so weighty a matter should not be there determined, addressed their honourable letters to your Grace's said justice of Carmarthen, willing him to put as well your said orators as the said Barlow under sureties to appear here before your most honourable council in the Starred Chamber at Westminster this present term of St. Michael to the intent the circumstance of the premisses should be here heard discussed and determined according to equity. Wherefore your said orators most humbly desire your excellent highness that the said Barlow and his adherents may be commanded to this present bill to make answer before your excellent highness, and also that it may please your highness to appoint some learned in your laws of this your realm to be a counsel with your said orators in the said matter. And your said orators shall daily pray to God as it is their most bounden duty for the preservation of your highness in most prosperous reign Long to continue.

The answer of Roger Barlowe to the bill of complaint of Robert Bishop of Sainte Dauids and Thomas ap Richard, Stephen Grene, Roger Owen, John Evans clerk, and John Davies gent.

The said defendant sayth that the said bill of complaint untrue uncertain and insufficient in the law to be answered unto and the matter therein contained devised feigned and imagined only of malice to put the said defendant to unjust cost, vexation and trouble, and for none other cause nor intent, and the matter therein contained is matter determinable at the King's common law and not elsewhere whereunto he prayeth to be remitted. Nevertheless if the said defendant shall be compelled by the order of this honourable court to make any further answer to the said insufficient bill of complaint, the advantage of the insufficiency thereof to the said defendant at all times hereafter saved, the said defendant for answer saith That the late King -of famous memory, King Henry VIII, father to our sovereign Lord the King that now is, was seized in his demesne as of fee by the dissolution of the late Hospital of St. John's Jerusalem in England of and in the Commandery of Slebeche in the county of Pembroke in South Wales, as parcel of the possessions of the said late Hospital; and that the said town or hamlet of Redbart mentioned in the said bill of complaint, and all lands and tenements within the same were and have been time out of memory of man parcel of the said commandery, and so used, taken, accepted and reported, time out of memory of man; and that also all the tithes renewing and coming of corn, wool, lambs, or otherwise, within Redbart aforesaid, have been paid and answered unto the commander of Slebeche aforesaid, and to his fermor or fermors of the said tithes of Redbart for the time being as Parcel of the possessions of the said commandery, except the one-half of the tithe of Midsummer cheese renewing within Redbart aforesaid which hath been used heretofore to be paid to the said parsonage of Carewe mentioned in the said bill of complaint, in recompense for the burial of the inhabitants of Redbarte aforesaid within the parish Church or churchyard of Carewe aforesaid. And the said defendant that for and in consideration of the said tithes so paid to the said commander, his deputy or deputies, or to his fermors thereof, that the said commander or his said fermors have always used to find one Priest to minister sacraments and sacramentals and other divine service within the said Chapel or Church of Redbarte mentioned in the said bill of complaint to the inhabitants of Redbart aforesaid ; and that the said late King Henry VIII, so being of the said commandery seized, by indenture made betwixt his highness on the one part and the said defendant on the other part, bearing date the 6th day of April in the 32nd year of his reign [1541* This alleged grant is not enrolled upon the patent roll at the date here given; the grant to Roger and William Barlow of most of the Slebech Properties was made in 1546.] demised, granted and to ferm did let unto the said defendant the said commandery of the lordship and manor of Slebeche, with all their rights, members, and appurtenances in the said county of Pembroke being late parcel of the possessions of the said late hospital of St. John's Jerusalem in England, and all lordships, manors, lands and tenements, mills, Ineadows, feedings, pastures, commons, tenths, offerings, waters, [a blank], passages, fishings, rents, rent-services, courts hundreds, leets, issues, amerciaments, fines, profits, commodities, advantages, Possessions and emoluments whatsoever¹ they be to the said commandery belonging or of old time appertaining, To have and to hold the aforesaid commandery lordship and manor of Slebech and the aforesaid lands, tenements, and other premises, with all and singular the appurtenances to the said defendant and to his assigns from the feast of the Nativity of St. John Baptist last past before the date of the said indenture unto the end and term of 21 years from thence next ensuing and fully to be completed and ended, Yielding and paying therefor yearly £128 of lawful money of England, as by the said Indenture amongst other things more at large it doth and may appear. By virtue of which said lease the said defendant did enter into the said commandery and with and upon the said tithes in Redbarte aforesaid as parcel of the said commandery, and was thereof possessed accordingly. And the said defendant so being thereof possessed did demise, grant, and to ferro let all the tithes renewing ahnd coming within Redbarte aforesaid, except the said half of the said tithes of Midsummer cheese, unto the said Thomas Collyn mentioned also in the said bill of complaint, To have to the said Thomas Collyn from year to year at the will and pleasure of the said defendant, yielding and paying therefor yearly unto the said defendant 2s., and finding one priest to minister within the said Church or Chapel of Hedbarte aforesaid, by force whereof the said Thomas Collyn was of all the said tithes severed from the nine parts, except before excepted, accordingly. And forasmuch as the said John Taylor named in the said bill of complaint caused the said Thomas Collyn to be convented [convened] before the said Bishop or his deputy by virtue of a citation subscribed with the hand of the said Bishop at day and place appointed in the said citation in the court ecclesiastical, and at the said day and place when and where the said Collyn did appear by virtue of the said citation the said John Taylor did libel against the said Thomas Collyn in a cause of perceiving, having and detaining tithes, both predial and personal more and less, mixed and small, and especially for the tithe of sheaf, wool, Lamb, calf, cow, and pig, and other tithes within Redbarte aforesaid, being before that time severed from the nine parts, and that the said libel was admitted by the said Thomas ap Ric[hard] and Roger Owen, two of the plaintiffs aforesaid, judicially commanding the said Thomas Collyn to answer to the same, which must of necessity be taken and expounded to extend to those tithes which were divided, set out and paid by the inhabitants of Hedbart aforesaid, to the said Thomas Collyn as fennor unto the said defendant, before the said libel in the said ecclesiastical court exhibited contrary to the King's prerogative royal, and contrary to the form and effect of divers statutes and laws of this realm of England in such case ordained, provided and made. Therefore the said defendant pursued for the said writ of premunire against the said complainants for the condign punishment of their offence, as lawful it was and is for him and all other the King's true subjects for to do.[Defendant then specifically denies each several allegation of the bill of complaint, and that the tithes of Redbart, " other than the said half of the said tithes of Midsummer cheese," was lawfully possessed by the Bishop.]

The decree of the court has not been preserved, but it would seem that the grant to the Barlows was so far renewed that when George Owen, about the year 1600, drew up the list of Pembrokeshire Church patronage which appears in Dr. Henry Owen's edition of his literary remains (i, 309), the Church of Carew (and doubtless the Chapelry of Rhydherth) is entered as under the patronage of the queen (Elizabeth).

Mining Accidents

Redberth

1800 Cooks Grove Pit owned by James Hill Lawrenny Ferry

Reynaldston,

Not mentioned by Giraldus -- c1200 in his list of churches of the area

Church not listed in the Taxatio of 1291 -- therefore doubtful if it existed at that time otherwise it would have been assessed for tax.

The Old Parish Churches of South West Wales --- M Salter dedicated to St Oswald Tiny Church -- south doorway, south transept and vaulted west tower probably 16c main body walls probably earlier Font Norman.

R C A M 1915

The Parish Church (6 in. Ord. Surv. sheet, Pem. 35 NW) Ded St James

On plan the Church is a parallelogram (34 feet by 13 feet), with no structural division between nave and chancel; a south transept Chapel (92 feet by 9- feet) and a western tower (12 feet by 11 feet). All the windows are modern. The south doorway has a plain pointed arch. The south Chapel is approached from the nave through a plain and somewhat obtuse arch, at the eastern spring of which is a corbel. In the south-west Angle of the transept are the remains of the stairs to the rood loft the tower is of two storeys, the louver being faulted In the west wall is a modern two-light window The only opening is to the nave by a plain pointed arch. The font bond (20 inches square externally, and 14 inches internally, is of the ordinary cushion type; it stands on a circular shaft and modern base. The Church was appropriated to the Priory of St. Thomas Haverfordwest. visited, 26th May, 1915.

Acc to Pembrokeshire Parsons 1910

This benefice belonged to the priory of St. Thomas , Haverfordwest, and according to the account of the King's minister, the yearly value of the rectory was set down at £2 13s. 4d. in 1538-9. From the Crown the patronage came into private hands.

The following under the heading of churches appropriated to the Priory of St. Thomas , Haverfordwest, is the only reference to this benefice in the Valor Eccl(1534).—

Ecclesia de Reynoldon per annum 3s. 4d-

Under the heading ' Not in Charge ':—Reynoldston Cur. Chapel to Begeley. Lord Milford . £2 certified value.—Bacon's Liber Regis.

The vicarage of Reynoldston was united to that of Jeffreyston under an Order in Council dated 26 Nov.,1900.

Clergy CCED

1409. Philip Pencaer.

1409. Mar. 28. Thomas Loke vice Philip Pencaer

1562. Aug. 21 Thomas Hartley,a vice deceased. --- resigned.

1752	David Lewis.
1752. Aug. 24.	Evan Rice , vice David Lewis , deceased.
1802. Jan. 18.	John Evans vice Evan Rice , deceased.
1825. Aug. 17.	John Miles , vice John Evans . deceased
1831. Jul. 17.	John Dawkins Palmour , vice John miles , deceased
1895. Jul. 27. died on Jan., 1895.	James Joseph Philipps , vice John Dawkins Palmour , deceased, who died on Jan., 1895.
1901. Jan. 18. 26 March , 1900.	John Lloyd , D.D., vice James Joseph Phillips , deceased, who died on 26 March , 1900.
1903. Dec. 18. 1903	William Williams , B.D., vice John Lloyd . D.D.. resigned on 30 September., 1903

Listed by Erasmus Saunders in 1730 as a curacy with a value of £2 0s 0d yearly-- only one other (Redberth) is listed with such a low value.

A Topographical Dictionary of Wales (S. Lewis, 1839.

Reynoldston, a parish, in the union and hundred of Narberth, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 4 miles (S. by W.) from Narberth; containing 103 inhabitants. This parish, which is situated in the south-eastern part of the county, and on the turnpike-road leading from Narberth to Pembroke, comprises a very small tract of arable and pasture land, inclosed and in a good state of cultivation. The village has every appearance of antiquity, and in all probability was originally inhabited by a portion of the Flemings to whom Henry I. assigned territories in this part of the principality, with a view to strengthen his interests in the country, and for the greater security of the possessions which the Normans had usurped from the natives. Though now fallen almost into decay, some of the cottages have still the round chimneys that usually distinguish the Flemish dwellings. The place was formerly a hamlet in the parish of Begelly. In this vicinity, the Saundersfoot and Tenby railway will quit the Pembroke branch of the Great South Wales railway, should these lines of communication ever be carried out. The living is a donative, endowed with £600 royal bounty, and £200 parliamentary grant; total net income, £62; patron, Lord Milford . A tithe rent-charge of £33 is payable to the incumbent. The Church is a small ancient edifice, with a low tower.[It would appear that this date the Church had not been moderised.]

1851 Reynoldston Parish Church James Dawkins Palmour, Incumbent

1929 Parish entry for Jeffreyston with Reynoldston from The Welsh Church Year Book, 1929 St Jeffrey & Parish Church (Reynoldston) Incumbent and Curates; H Morgan

Nonconformist Chapels:

Chapel , in Reynalton village [Independents, c 1866-70]built 1867, rebuilt 1906 Still open 1993

The Independent Chapel The cause started about 1866 and a schoolhouse was built about 1870 in which Sunday Services were held. No records seem to be available but it is believed that in 1873 it had 80 members.

On The State of Education in Wales 1847.

PARISH OF Reynalton. - on the 9th day of December, 1846, I visited this parish, and was reliably informed by the Rev. J. D. Palmour, the Rector, that there is no school of any description whatever held in it. There was a day-school held here until these last two years at a dwelling house rented and paid for by himself. The average attendance was from 12 to 15. The population of the parish is only about 100 souls. A schoolmaster cannot be supported there. Day-labourers get 10d. a day with food, and 1s. 2d. or 1s. day without; masons 2s. 6d. a-day on their own finding, and carpenters 2s; farm servants wages average from £3 to £6, female servants from 30s to £3. With rare exceptions, the people are industrious, steady, and sober. Most of the respectable farmers can read and write; the humbler class of farmers and the labourers are illiterate. ----WM. Morris, Assistant.

Mining Accidents

1917 Reynoldson no date when it opened but it was in existence in 1901.
In 1919 it produced over 11000tons of coal. Closed 1921

Rhoscrowther,

A little hamlet now totally dominated by the Texaco and BP Oil installations. The Church, in a cluster of cottages, old rectory and Council houses, is of Norman origin, with a corbelled tower. There is a little annexe to the Church which was possibly once the cell of St. Decuman. On the edge of the Texaco refinery is Eastington Farm, an ancient building with a square tower and parapet, probably of Norman age. This was Eastington Manor, one of Little England's minor fortresses.

Church St Decuman

The Saint was said to have been born here and built his cell here. It was once one of the seven bishops houses of Dyfed associated with St David's before the Norman Conquest. Its Church has a bellcote and later typical South Pembrokeshire tower. The porch floor is cobbled and there is a grotesque figure above the doorway. 12ins high it is said to have been brought from Angle and is possibly medieval, could it have come from the Chapel destroyed by the sea?

Restored in 19c and again by W.D. Caroe in 1910.

Nave and chancel probably 13c, 14c transepts and a Chapel south of the Chancel as an annexe on SW side under a separate roof is a much earlier building. W.D. Caroe suggests the possible site of St Decuman's cell. Under the tower are two inscribed cross-slabs and a female effigy. The north transept or Hendleton Chapel contains the pedestal of a 15th century shrine and is the same size as the vaulted north porch bearing shields inscribed EL and Mary .

Font Norman is of Caen stone and there is a 14c richly decorated monument on the North wall of Chancel.

Nearby is St Decuman's Well where the Saint after he is alleged to have had his head cut off, brought it back to his home country here in Pembrokeshire and where he placed it on the ground holy water has flowed ever since. He was martyred 706AD near Dunster in Somerset .

The 1715 memorials of the Powell family of Greenhill brought here after the closure of Pwllchrocan Church

St Decumanus Parish . This rectory appears to have belonged to the Earl of Pembroke, in the 14th century.

On 20 September., 1526, a grant of the next presentation to the rectory of St Teguinus, Roscrowther, South Wales, was made by the King to William Owen, and Stephen Feltwell, grocer, of London. - State Papers.

In 1291 the Church was assessed at £13 6s. 8d. for tenths to the King, the sum payable being £1 6s. 8d. Taxatio of 1291.

Rosecrowther Rectoria. - Ecclesia parrochialis ibidem ex regia collacione unde Thomas Bewike clericus est rector habens rectoriam et glebam. Et valet hujusmodi fructus singulis annis xvj- inde sol in visitacione ordinaria quolibet tercio anno svjd. Et insinodalibus et procuracionibus archidiacono quolibet anno v ixd. Et remanet elare £15 12s. 11d. Inde decima 31s. 3d. - Valor Eccl.

Under the heading "livings remaining in Charge":- Roscrowther alias Rhos y Cryther R. (St. Decumanus). Ordinaria quolibet tertio anno, 1s. 4d. The Prince of Wales. King's Books, £15 12s. 11d. Yearly tenths, £1 11s. 3d. - Bacon's Liber Regis.

The tower pinnacles are a modern addition to the tower of the Church.—Arch. Camb. Ser. V., Vol V., p. 130.

On 30 July, 1844, a faculty was granted for the removal of the body of William Powell Taylor, from the churchyard of Rhoscrowther, and its reburial at Pembroke Dock.

1324 Rhosecrowther Church and rent in the possession of Aymer de Valance.

1794 circa [St Petrox].

extract from a Letter from Cha[rle]s Pigott Pritchett, rural dean of Pembroke, to William Stuart Bishop of St David's.

List of subscribers to the fund for the sons of the Clergy

Revd J Bowen , Rosecrowther £1 1 0

Church in wales MS AD/AET 1209

Pembrokeshire life 1572 1843

1582

Griffith White of Henllan had raised crops on some land at Rhoscrowther which was in some dispute between him and Sir John Perrot who seems to have been the villain of the Piece. Perrot allowed the crops to grow, but at dawn on the 28th August some twenty or so of his retainers, armed with pitchforks and daggers, travelled with eleven carts to the land in dispute with the intention of carrying away the crops to the nearest Perrot farmhouse. They were spotted and soon encountered Griffith White who tried slashing the traces of the horses. He was overpowered and held to the ground at the point of a pitchfork, though the intervention of his sons Harry and George saved him from injury. White, a JP., now ordered the constable of Roscrowther parish, one of his own men, to call on his opponents to disperse in the Queen's name, and at the same time he exhorted his neighbours to intervene with their arquebuses, bows and arrows. Perrot's men fled upon the appearance of the latter, thereby terminating what could have been a very nasty incident.

Names connected with Rhoscrowther

Dawes Ann, married White Griffith, son of White Henry of Henllan, who was Sheriff in 1658 White Griffith of Henllan, three times Sheriff, was buried in Rhoscrowther Church The Whites were a very old Tenby family, and acquired Henllan through Eynon Jestina, daughter and heiress of Eynon John of Henllan, who married White John

Bewike Thomas 1535 6 Roscrowther Rector , Bewike Thomas , clericus est rector Church of Rhoscrowther 1534 Valor Eccl WWHR Vol3 p 258

Bowen James Rev 1791/2 (owner) Rhoscrowther Glebe CRO Land Tax Records

Butler John 1791/2 (tenant) Rhoscrowther Hilton CRO Land Tax Records

Campbell John 1766 Stackpole, Cambell John esq. N L W M S 1352 B ff 333 9 1796 March 29 Pembroke Campbell John esq. 1760 Bacons Liber Regis esq. Propr Castlemartin Church 1787 Bacons Liber Regis Various Properties CRO Land Tax Records 1791/2 (tenant) Rhoscrowther Kitewell CRO Land Tax Records 1791/2 1794 Stackpole CinW MS SD LET 1209, 1795 Dec 9 NLW MS 1352b ff310 14,

Caroe W D 1910 restored Church of Rhoscrowther

Cockburn George Alexander 1842 Oct 7 Roscrowther Rector WWHR Vol3 p 258, Cockburn Mrs 1844 of Rhoscrowther launch of the two decked HMS Centurion
Pembroke Dock

Cosens John 1791/2 (tenant) Rhoscrowther TreBowen CRO Land Tax Records

Cuny John Powell 1791/2 , esq. (tenant)Rhoscrowther Eastington CRO Land Tax Records

Davies Benjamin 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Neith CRO Land Tax Records

Eleanor ? Elen daughter and sole heiress of Merchion ap Rhys ap Rhydderch ap Jestyn of Jestynton Eastington by Rhoscrowther South Pembrokeshire M Mirehouse

Feltwell Stephen 20 September 1526 grocer of London grant Church of Rhoscrowther — State Papers

Filkin Phillip 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Newton CRO Land Tax Records

Filkin Richard 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Newton CRO Land Tax Records

Griffiths Thomas 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Newton CRO Land Tax Records

Gwyther Thomas 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Hoplas CRO Land Tax Records

Harold Alice c1378 daughter of Sir Richard married Peter Perrot esquire of Eastington Rhoscrowther Pembroke squire to her father Charles E Sinnett

Henry Russell 13c land Ystinstone Eastington by Rhoscrowther

Hitchings Griffith 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Cheveralton CRO Land Tax Records

Hood Benjamin 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Kilpason CRO Land Tax Records

Hopley Katherine 1670 Rhoscrowther P Castlemartin Hundred Hearth Tax

Howell Catherine 23 May 1812 Monkton Married Offence Theft of a cow, Prisoner aged 23, NLW MSS 206D records that contrary to the belief of the Judge, one of the jury
'said it was believed they thought she was insane because she took it in the day time', Monkton
Prosecutor Evans, Margaret Rhoscrowther , widow Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Owen William 1662? September 19 Rhoscrowther co Pembroke S T P
Rector of Rhoscrowther vice ----Phillipps deceased (12 Chas II p1 No140) S T P-Sanctae
Theologia Professor Ecclesiastical appointments Patent Rolls Charles II Arch Camb 1886

Owen William 20 September 1526 grant Church of Rhoscrowther — State Papers

Owens Mary 16 July 1818 Alias Mary Owen Rhoscrowther married Offence Theft of food - milk - milked prosecutor's cow, Prisoner aged 35, Rhoscrowther Prosecutor Butler George, Rhoscrowther, farmer Verdict Guilty to the value of 6d Punishment 6 months imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Powell Elizabeth 1791/2 tenant Rhoscrowther Newton CRO Land Tax Records

Scourfield Katharine who married Meares George of Eastington Rhoscrowther

Taylor William Powell 30 July 1844 Church of Rhoscrowther faculty removal of the body re burial at Pembroke Dock

Thomas Griffith 3 April 1820 Hamlet of St Thomas Labourer Offence Theft of wearing apparel belonging to prosecutor, also John Phillips, James Morgan and James Lewis, being servants to prosecutor, from an ox house, Prisoner aged 30, Rhoscrowther Prosecutor Furlong Dinah, Verdict Guilty, Punishment 1 year imprisonment with hard labour Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Ystin John 13c , granted land Eastington by Rhoscrowther

White family Henllan – Pwllcrochan and Rhoscrowther

White Griffith of Henllan Castlemartin son of James White by Margaret daughter of John Herbert of Laugharne married 1st Margaret daughter and heiress of Thomas Watkins had children Henry and three other sons and married 2nd Mary daughter of Sir Owen Perrot by whom he had two daughters 1561 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Griffith of Henllan 1570 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Griffith of Henllan 1581 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Henry of Henllan Castlemartin son of Griffith married Jane daughter of Rich Fletcher and had children High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1592

White Henry of Henllan Castlemartin 1604 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Griffith of Henllan Castlemartin 1626 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Henry of Henllan Castlemartin 1657 & 1658 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Lewis Sir William of Bristol but Henllan connection 1708 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Dawes Pheobe 1671? Bangeston daughter of Griffith Dawes and Alice she married Griffith White of Henllan WWHR 1915

Lort Thomas succeeded to East Moor he married White Elizabeth of Henllan, but died without issue. A few references have been found to East Moor. In 1670 Thomas , Lort was assessed at seven hearths, indicating it to have been a commodious residence.

Lort Thomas 1641 East Moor Manorbier 1641 son of Sampson married Elizabeth White of Henllan – no children. - 1687Probate Peasant Houses in Stuart Pembrokeshire Brian and John Howells 1980

White of Henllan, Rhoscrowther .

The Whites were a very old Tenby family, and acquired Henllan through Jestina Eynon, daughter and heiress of John Eynon of Henllan, who married John White. One Griffith White of Henllan, three times Sheriff, was buried in Rhoscrowther Church in 1589. Griffith Dawes of Bangeston only daughter and heiress, Ann, married Griffith White, son of Henry White of Henllan, who was Sheriff in 1658.

White Griffith 1577 May 14 Rickaston in Roose "of Henllan -- free tenant who held of the Queen as of her Castle and Lordship of westHaverford by knight service, suit of court at the Castle gate and relief without paying rent" Survey of the Lordship of Haverford in 1577- H Owen- Arch Camb 1903

White Griffith 1550's of Henllan Castlemartin son of James White by Margaret daughter of John Herbert of Laugharne married 1st Margaret daughter and heiress of Thomas Watkins had children Henry and three other sons one was George and the another Harry---and married 2nd Mary daughter of Sir Owen Perrot by whom he had two daughters 1561-1570 -1581 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire ----White Griffith of Henllan JP Rhoscrowther 1582. land at Rhoscrowther .three times Sheriff buried Rhoscrowther Church 1589. recorded in the Port Books of Milford The Elizabethan Squirearchy in Pembrokeshire B. Howell,s. Pembrokeshire Historian Vol. 1 p 25

White Henry 1592 of Henllan Castlemartin son of Griffith married Jane daughter of Rich Fletcher and had children 1592 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire White Henry of Henllan near Pwllcrochan The second son John of Henry White of Henllan was born in 1590. White Henry of the Whites of Tenby lived at Henllan Pwllcrochan Lewis Dwnn Deputy Herald of Wales 1613

White Henry 1604 of Henllan Castlemartin High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White John 1590 The second son of Henry White of Henllan in Pembrokeshire was born in 1590. John White studied at Jesus College Oxford and then moved to the Middle Temple where he became a Barrister and later one of the Masters of the Bench.He held very strong feelings against the orthodox Clergy which he expressed both in his written works and when he was elected as one of the Committee for Religion which committee he was served as chairman. In 1640 he was elected to represent Southwark in the Long Parliament. Four years later on January 29th 1645 he died and was buried in the Temple Church

White Griffith 1626 of Henllan Castlemartin 1626 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Henry of Henllan Castlemartin 1657 1658 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

White Henry 1651 Feb 18 JP 1652 May 13 JP HW Corp MS 286, White Griffith 1670 Pwllcrochan H Castlemartin Hundred *Hearth Tax*1671?

Henllan married Pheobe Dawes, WWHR 1915

White Jenkyn or John 1498 who was mayor of Tenby in 1498 and married as his second wife Christina -heiress of Eynon John of Henllan

White Griffiths 1626 of Henllan Castlemartin who was Sheriff of Pembrokeshire in 1626 married a daughter of Lort Richard of Stackpool

White Roger 1626 the eldest son of White Griffiths of Henllan Castlemartin who was Sheriff of Pembrokeshire in 1626

White Francis 1698 born at Studdock near Henllan in 1698

Whitte Gruffethe 1620 of Henllan. Justice of the Peace in Pembrokeshire

Rosecrowther Parish Hearth Tax 1670.

Marchant Abraham.	Rhoscrowther	H.
Watkins Thomas	Rhoscrowther	H
Owens Dr. William.	Rhoscrowther	H
Meare William	Rhoscrowther	H 5
Watkins Walter. .	Rhoscrowther	H 2
Nash John. .	Rhoscrowther	H
Howell Thomas . .	Rhoscrowther	H
Owen Sir Hugh, bart.	Rhoscrowther	H 2
Welsh William.	Rhoscrowther	H.
Bryan Widdowe.	Rhoscrowther	H
Gwither William.	Rhoscrowther	H.
Proute Jane. . .	Rhoscrowther	H
Marchant Thomas .	Rhoscrowther	H
Phillipps Phillip.	Rhoscrowther	H

Roch John, senior	Rhoscrowther	H 2
Tucker Widdowe	Rhoscrowther	H.
Oriell Hugh. . .	Rhoscrowther	H
Mace William.	Rhoscrowther	H
Codd Thomas .	Rhoscrowther	H
Codd Henry. .	Rhoscrowther	H .
Poyer George. .	Rhoscrowther	H
Machan Hugh. .	Rhoscrowther	H 2
White Henry, esq..	Rhoscrowther	H 8
Howell Valentine.	Rhoscrowther	H 2
White Phillip	Rhoscrowther	H
Roch John, junior	Rhoscrowther	H
Lawrence George.	Rhoscrowther	P
White John.	Rhoscrowther	P
Hammond Thomas	Rhoscrowther	P
Watkins Thomas .	Rhoscrowther	P
Atkins Walter	Rhoscrowther	P.
Nicholas .?	Rhoscrowther	P
Husband John	Rhoscrowther	P
White Margret. .	Rhoscrowther	P
Machan John	Rhoscrowther	P
Hendy Anne	Rhoscrowther	P
Thomas Elenor	Rhoscrowther	P
Griffith William	Rhoscrowther	P
Jones Thomas .	Rhoscrowther	P
Welsh Maude	Rhoscrowther	P

Codd Elenor	Rhoscrowther	P
Richard William	Rhoscrowther	P
Roch Phillip	Rhoscrowther	P
Hopley Katherine	Rhoscrowther	P
Welsh Phillip	Rhoscrowther	P
John Owen	Rhoscrowther	P
Gwither Phillip	Rhoscrowther	P
Tasker David	Rhoscrowther	P
Knethell Jennett	Rhoscrowther	P
Williams Charles	Rhoscrowther	P
Williams Margret	Rhoscrowther	P
Thomas John	Rhoscrowther	P

Land Tax 1791

Rhoscrowther Cheveralton Meares	John (owner)	Hitchings Griffith (tenant)	Rhoscrowther Cheveralton
Rhoscrowther Eastington		Cuny esq.	John Powell (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Eastington		Meares	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Glebe		Bowen	Rev James (owner)
Rhoscrowther Hilton		Butler	John (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Hilton		Meares	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Hoplas		Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Hoplas		Gwyther	Thomas (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Kilpason		Hood	Benjamin (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Kilpason		Owen	Sir Hugh (owner)
Rhoscrowther Kitewell		Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Kitewell		Campbell	John (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Kitewell		Phips	George (tenant)

Rhoscrowther Lower Hentland	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Lower Hentland	Mirehouse	John (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Neith	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Neith	Davies	Benjamin (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Filkin	Phillip (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Filkin	Richard (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Griffiths	Thomas (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Owen	Sir Hugh (owner)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Owen	Sir Hugh (owner)
Rhoscrowther Newton	Powell	Elizabeth (tenant)
Rhoscrowther TreBowen	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther TreBowen	Cosens	John (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Upper Hentland	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Upper Hentland	Dawkins	Thomas (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Windmill	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Windmill	Gwyther	Thomas (tenant)
Rhoscrowther Woagaston	Campbell	John (owner)
Rhoscrowther Woagaston	Gwyther	Thomas (tenant)

Rickeston and Scotsborough,

Names and information connected with Rickeston and Scotsborough,

John ap Rice of Rickeston married Katherine Perrot [born in 1530] daughter and sole heiress of John Perrot of Scotsborough, a large mansion in Gumfreston parish, near Tenby, owner of a valuable estate in South Pembrokeshire. The Perrots had held Scotsborough since the latter half of the fourteenth century.

In 1405 Thomas Perrot of that place negotiated a truce with Owen Glyndwr, and eight years later served as Mayor of Tenby; his descendants intermarried with the families of Verney, Wogan of Wiston, Wyrriot of Orielton, and Lloyd of Tenby. This union allied John up Rice to some of the best known houses in west Wales. As JP he took part in suppressing popish practices to which many Pembrokeshire People still adhered, and in 1592, together with George Owen and Alban Stepneth, caused St Meugan's Chapel on the border of Cemaes and Emlyn to be denuded of superstitious relics and monuments and prepared to prosecute all people still attempting to use the place for religious purposes. He died in 1598 and was buried in Brawdy Church. His wife survived him by nearly 16 years and was buried with her Perrot ancestors in Gumfreston Church, where an inscribed slab records that -Katherin Parat wife of John Apris esquire died on 17 September 1614. They had the following children:

Thomas ap Rice of Rickeston and Scotsborough was High Sheriff of the county in 1610, and a JP. In 1598 he married Margaret daughter of William Mercer of Lancashire. She died in childbirth on 1 May 1610 in her 30th year after she had lived 12 years in wedlock with him and borne 10 children of which 7 survived, he then married Alice daughter of Lewis Thomas ap John of Cwngwili near Carmarthen but they had no issue. His will was dated 1650.

His eldest son Perrot ap Rice died during his father's lifetime - last reference found dated March 1640 and his eldest son James ap Rice succeeded his grandfather to the Rickeston and Scotsborough estates.

James ap Rice He was High Sheriff in 1655 and a JP, will dated June 1 1658 proved on 26th July 1660. His wife Anne ap Rice daughter of Sir Rice Rudd of Aberglasney. children and after Anne's death in 1673 the estate passed to James's brother John ap Rice.

John ap Rice had married Elizabeth daughter of Thomas Newsham of Abersannan, Carmarthenshire. John was responsible for inviting the Rev Stephen Hughes who had been evicted from his parish at Meidrin in 1662 for Nonconformity to preach near Brawdy Church. 1660 he was indicted for pulling down Causeway Mill bridge over the road from Gumfreston to Tenby and in August 1662 sued by the rector of Tenby for non payment of Tithe as he had a messuage and 200 acres of land in the parish on which he grew corn. In 1667-8 he was summoned to appear in the Grand Sessions for non-payment of rent for Park House and the White Close of Kingstowne in the "out-liberties of Tenby" belonging to James Lewis and his wife Anne of Abernantbychan. John ap Rice died on 2 June 1670 age 37. He was buried in St Mary's Church Tenby. Elizabeth had difficulty in securing her dower 1670-1 claimed from William Rochford a third of the lands she was entitled to as widow of John ap Rice. The heir was James ap Rice, eldest son of John and Elizabeth.

James ap Rice was Bailiff of Tenby 1678 and in 1681-2 Mayor of Tenby. Whilst Mayor he committed a Quaker schoolmaster of Tenby to goal for refusing to take the oath of allegiance, was also a JP. August 6th 1681 he mortgaged Scotsborough and Cornish Down to Griffith Dawes of Bangeston and on 3 Oct 1681 James ap Rice granted Cornish Down and Causey Park except for the quarry and limekiln in the Clicketts to Tenby Corporation. He was then involved in several law suits and quarrels.

1681 July 20 attacked in Tenby by Thomas Davids, gentleman, Thomas Meyrick corviser of Tenby, and Isaac David of Martletwy.

1682 secured from John Owen of Orielton a lease of the tithes of Rickeston - but failed to pay rent sued by Owen 1690.

1684 sued for damages by Arthur Laugharne for slander.

1689 sued by Griffith Dawes for a sum of money.

James ap Rice died suddenly in 1692 and was survived by his widow Eleanor daughter of Captain William Powell of Ludchurch and related through her mother Marie Vaughan to the Earls of Carbery.

James and Eleanor's son

James ap Rice inherited the estate but it was in a financial mess with property mortgaged twice to different people by his father.

John Rickson Merchant of Pembroke paid off the mortgages on the understanding that all the estates were conveyed to him absolutely.

Scotsborough was later conveyed by Willian Rickson in 1764 to his brother-in-law Revd. Hugh Thomas who left it to his son William Thomas. His widow who later married Matthew Campbell cousin of the first Lord Cawder settled it on her nephew Richard Parry.

1810 3 September. Richard Parry sold Scotsborough to John Owen of Orielton.

1817 Feb 13 John Owen of Orielton sold Scotsborough to Jacob Richards of Tenby.

By this time Scotsborough was largely ruinous. The west front was Converted into Cottages for working people but about 1824 an epidemic of smallpox broke out in these tenements and the occupiers fled. The building soon after became a total ruin.

Rickeston has totally vanished, the site is now part of Brawdy airfield.

Robeston west, Robeston west

1839 Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

Robeston (west), a parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Rhôs, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 3 miles (N. N. W.) from Milford; containing 97 inhabitants. It lies a few miles to the north of Milford Haven, on the old turnpike-road leading to Old Milford or Haking; and comprises a moderate tract of arable and pasture land, all inclosed and in a profitable state of cultivation. Robeston Hall a good family mansion, is pleasantly situated, and with its grounds, which are well laid out, forms an ornamental object. The living is a rectory, rated in the King's Books at £6. 6. 8., and in the patronage of the Crown: the tithes have been commuted for £187. 10., and the glebe comprises three acres and a half, valued at £6 per annum.

1870-72, John Marius Wilson's Imperial Gazetteer

of England and Wales described Robeston west thus:

Robeston (west), a parish in Haverfordwest district, Pembroke; 2½ miles N W of Milford railway station. Post-town, Milford-Haven. Acres, 1, 100. Real property, £1, 770. Pop., 159. Houses, 29. Robeston Hall is the seat of the Scourfields. The living is a rectory in the diocese of St Davids. Value, £169. Patron, not reported.

Church St Andrews

Of red sandstone, tower and north Chapel reputed to be early, Chancel and nave added 14c, a broken effigy of a lady dates from c1350.

Acc/to Salter Old Parish Churches.

A tower with features of c1500 but probably older masonry lies between the north Chapel and porch. A female effigy lies under an arch of the Chapel arcade and on the pier is a brass inscription, with symbols of death, to Thomas Cozens and four of his children who died in infancy. The font is Norman. The nave and chancel are probably 13th century. It is unlikely that the Chapel formed the original nave as is claimed.

The Parish Church Dedicated to St James – other sources say St Andrew

RCAM

This Church consists at present of a short northern aisle to the chancel and eastern portion of the original nave, terminating in a tower of the regular Pembrokeshire type ,and a considerably larger chamber now forming the nave and chancel of the edifice. It is clear that the northern body has been enlarged by the addition of a more elaborate and dignified southern chamber , to which the principal altar of the Church has been moved. There is a much worn effigy of a lady which dates circa 1350;

and this may point to the period of the Church extension, the Norman cushion font marking the date of the original edifice – visited 26th August 1920

Pembrokeshire Parsons

This rectory was appendant to the manor of Robeston, which was formerly owned by the Perrots of Haroldstone. –Owen's Pems.

The advowson of Robeston was in 1531 owned by Thomas Perrot, esq.. -Inq. P.M. of Thomas Perrot, 23 Hen. VIII.

The patronage was probably forfeited to the Crown on the condemnation of Sir John Perrot.

Robeston.—Ecclesia ibidem ex collacione Johannis Parret unde Willielrnus Stradlinge est rector et habet ibidem unam mansionem et terras. Et valet fructus et emolimenta hujus rectotie per annum et sic commuaibus annis vjxi xiijs iiijd. Inde sol in sisitacione ordinaria quolibet tercio anllo xijd. Et in visitacione archidiaconi quolibet anno pro sino (lalibus et procuracionibus allnua-tim v8 ixd. Et remanet Clare £6 6s. 8d. Inde decima 12s. 8d.—Valor Eccl.

Under "Livings in Charge":- Robeston alias Robberton west Joun Parret, 1535;The prince of Wales. King s Books, £6 6s. 8d., £70 Yearly tenths, 12s. 8d. –Bacon's Liber Regis.

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire - Robeston west

The Chalices of the Restoration period and towards the end of the century are usually massive and rude in design. They are remarkable as showing an utter disregard of artistic beauty of any description. Though small, the Chalice, Robeston west (1697) belong to this group

A Chalice with plain resting on a trumpet-shaped stem. The Hall marks are of the Britannia standard for 1697, the maker's Mark being DI with a cherub's head winged above, and what may be a mullet between two pellets below, for Isaac Dighton. Height, 6.in.;diameter of bowl, 3in.; depth,3in.; diam. of foot, 3 in.; weight, 5 oz. 17 dwts. Inscription "The Gift of Martha Holland to the Parish of Robeston west 1698 ".—

A modem Paten, Hall marked 1900 and inscribed " The Gift of Thomas Erskine Holland K.C. to the Parish of Robeston west"; diam., 5 in.; weight, 3 oz. 18 dwts.

A pewter Plate, 8in. in diam., bearing the marks RB; Robert B—; harp; Griffin rampant; snake's head. —Another pewter Plate, 9 in. in diam., carrying the stamp of S. Duncumb (London).

Names connected with Robeston west

Robeston west Clergy CCED

Howell, Georgius	1673	Curate
-------------------------	------	--------

Powell, Timotheus	1681	Rector
Powell, Ludovicus	1683	Curate
Powell, Timotheus	1688	Rector
Evans, Audoenus	1710	Rector
Evans, Audoenus	1720	(resignation) Rector
Evans, Riceus	1720	Curate
Herneman, Johannes	1720	Rector
Herneman, Johannes	1726	(natural death) Rector
Harris, Johannes	1726	Rector
Harries, John	1733	(Death) Rector
Rock, William	1735	Rector
Williams, Frederick	1733	Rector
Williams, Frederick	1735	(cession) Rector
Cleaveland, William	1748	Stipendiary Curate
Murrow , Thomas	1771	Stipendiary Curate
Rees , James	1804	Rector

Scourfield William Henry 1776- 1843 was born in 1776 the only son of Henry Scourfield of New moat and Robeston Hall and Elizabeth daughter of Rt Rev John Ewer DD of Bangor. His first wife whom he married on 27th October 1804 was Maria Groate daughter of Lt Col Edward Groate of Brent Eleigh Hall Suffolk Maria died on the 2nd August 1835 and they had no surviving children. His second wife was Louisa Sarah Bowen daughter of Richard Bowen of Manorowen whom he married on 28th December 1837 and settling his Dewisland estate on his bride, to whom it reverted on his death in January 1843. He also left her the lease of his London house in Charles Street, Berkeley Square, and an annuity. Family heirlooms, however, were entrusted to his brother-in-law, the Rev. Joshua Rowley, and passed with The moat in 1862 to his nephew John Henry Philipps (1808-76) of Williamston, who assumed the name and arms of Scourfield.

He was Sheriff of Pembrokeshire in 1812 Captain in Pembrokeshire Militia and Capt commander of the Haverfordwest Fusiliers.

Although elected to Parliament in 1818 and again in 1820 he spent much of his time in Pembrokeshire where he was very fond of hunting with his pack of harriers

Mining His large estates of over 12,000 acres included coal workings.

Adams Thomas 17 January 1778 Robeston west Labourer Offence Aiding and abetting the murder of Wilkin Charles. Milford Haven Date 17 January 1778 Prosecutor Hugh Daniel
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

De Brian Family held Bride's, Hasguard, St Ishmael, Marloes, Dale, Herbrandston Hubberston, Talbenny, Haroldstonwest, Walton west, and Robeston west .-Old Pembrokeshire Families H Owen

Furlong Thomas 17 January 1778 Robeston west Labourer Offence Murder of Wilkin Charles by beating him with a stick. Milford Haven, Prosecutor Hugh Daniel
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts

Owen Francis 15 June 1779 Robeston west blacksmith Offence Assault with intent to ravish. Robeston west Prosecutor Williams Elizabeth Verdict No prosecution.
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Owen William 15 June 1779 Robeston Wathen Yeoman Offence Assault with intent to ravish. Robeston west Prosecutor Williams Elizabeth Verdict No prosecution.
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Wilkin Charles 17 January 1778 Elizabeth Roch Milford Haven Spinster Charged with Murder of Charles Wilkin by beating him with a paddle – Furlong Thomas Robeston west Labourer Charged with Murder of Charles Wilkin by beating him with a stick.
Adams Thomas Robeston west Labourer Charged with Aiding and abetting the murder of Charles Wilkin --- Roch Mary Milford Haven Charged with Aiding and abetting the murder of Charles Wilkin Milford Haven Prosecutor Hugh Daniel
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Education

I could find no information relating to a school in this parish. It is not mentioned in The The State of Education in Wales 1847.

Rickeston Rath - (Earth work Hill Fort) RCAM

An almost square, and now much obliterated work standing on Rath Park, a field of Lower Rickeston Farm. On its west side it overlooks a stream which is here the boundary between the parishes of Robeston west and Walwyns Castle, and confronting it on the opposite bank of the stream is the enclosure known as Capeston Rath. The side above the stream is unprotected; elsewhere the rampart, though wanting in places, has an average height of 3ft, with a fall of 5ft to a ditch which has well-nigh disappeared. To the east the ditch appears to leave the line of the rampart and to project northward; but as it is also much obscured, it is difficult to say whether this was the main defence, and the inner line supplementary to it. The entrance was in all likelihood to the east, with a width of about 30ft. The enclosed area has a diameter of some 350 ft – visited 26th August 1920

Robeston Wathen,

A Topographical Dictionary of Wales (S. Lewis, 1833).

Robeston Wathen, or EAST, a parish in the hundred of Narberth, county of Pembroke, 2 miles (W. by N.) from Narberth, containing 421 inhabitants. This parish is beautifully situated on the turnpike road leading from Narberth to Haverfordwest, and within a short distance from the Canaston or East Cleddy river, which is navigable to within a few hundred yards of its western boundary. It comprises but a moderate portion of arable and pasture land, which is enclosed and cultivated: the soil is fertile, and the inhabitants are employed in agriculture, and in the procuring of limestone, which is found in some parts of the parish of a very excellent quality, resembling that of Aberthaw in Glamorganshire, and for the exportation of which the river Cleddy affords every facility. The village is seated on an eminence, and with the lofty tower of its Church, rising above the thick foliage of the adjacent wood, forms an interesting and highly picturesque object, as seen from a distance. The surrounding scenery is beautifully and richly diversified, and the views over the adjacent country abound with interesting and romantic features.

Robeston Wathen House, the seat of the Rev. J.W. James, is a pleasing residence, surrounded with thriving plantations, which, with some neighbouring woods, form one of the few well-timbered spots with which the prevailing nakedness of the county is richly contrasted. From the churchyard is obtained a highly picturesque and beautiful view of the opposite hill, crowned with the magnificent ruins of Lawhaden Castle, apparently on the brink of a richly wooded precipice, overhanging the river Cleddy, which flows at its base, and on the margin of which is seen the Church of Lawhaden, in a romantic and sequestered spot. The living is consolidated with the rectory of Narberth, in the archdeaconry and diocese of St Davids. The Church, which is situated on elevated ground, is an ancient structure with a lofty square embattled tower. There are some trifling charitable benefactions for the poor, to whom also William Hawkins is said to have bequeathed an annuity of £11.10., of which no account can at present be obtained. In this parish are the remains of a small encampment, popularly called a Rhâth but nothing of its origin is known, neither do the remains possess any interest. The poor are supported by an average annual expenditure amounting to £78.

1851 Robeston Wathon Church Ancient Parish Church attached to the Rector of Narberth Wm Lloyd, Rector

Parish entry for Narberth with Robeston Wathen and Mounton from The Welsh Church Year Book,

1929

St Andrew & Chapel of Ease (Robeston Wathen) & Chapel of Ease (Mounton) Incumbent and Curates; W Evans (J R Williams) Rural Deanery of Narberth Acreage 3,468 & 1,425; Population 1,944

Nonconformist Chapels: None found

Sites of Interest

Robeston House; Robeston House Hotel, Robeston Wathen

Present building largely dates from circa 1780

The front elevation is of two storeys, three windows wide and has double brackets at the eaves. The windows are 12- pane sashes, one a modern replacement, the others with hornless sashes in recessed frames. To the right is a large mid 19th century projecting bay window. To the centre is a mid 19th century French window of sash type; there was formerly a porch in front of this opening. Cadw.

Bush Inn enclosure

The Bush Inn enclosure is set on SW facing slopes above a scarp edge, with a bank and ditch completing the circuit and an entrance to the SE.

Education

The former National School in Robeston Wathen was built in 1872 and has a dated plaque on the outside wall below the Bell housing.

Pembrokeshire Churches.

Robeston Wathern Dedication Unknown

The west tower is 13th century. The nave and chancel were mostly rebuilt in the 19th century, and the south transept and north aisle are also of that date. This benefice is a Chapelry with a parish of its own and appears to have been annexed to Narberth Rectory from the earliest date, and to have been served by the rectors of that rectory.

On 19 May, 1875, a faculty was granted for the restoration of Robeston Wathen Church.

Roch,

Once an attractive Anglo-Norman settlement centred around the 13th century Peel tower Castle, perched high on a crag of rhyolite. The Castle was one of the alleged birthplaces of Lucy Walter, mistress to Charles II and mother of the ill-fated Duke of Monmouth but it is doubtful as to whether it was inhabited at the time. The nearby Church, in its circular churchyard, and the fine farm buildings opposite the Castle, are also attractive, and there is a trace of a village Green. But the western end of the settlement is modern, with bungalow ribbon development all the way to the A487.

1839 Roch - Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

Roch, a parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Rhôs, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 6 miles (North-west by west.) from Haverfordwest; containing 835 inhabitants. It derives its name from a rocky mountainous ridge, rising abruptly from the plain, and the summit of which is occupied by an ancient Castle. This Castle, from its situation near the extremity of the district of Rhôs, was probably erected as a border fortress by some of the earlier Norman invaders, or by the Flemings who, in the reign of Henry I., settled in this part of the principality. The first possessor of it, of whom any notice is extant, was Adam de Rupe, or de la Roche, who is by some writers supposed to have been the founder, and to whom also is attributed the establishment of the Church, and of the priory of Hubberston Pill. Little is recorded of the history of the Castle, which appears to have been constructed equally with a view to military and domestic purposes. It is known, however, to have belonged to the de la Roche's till the reign of Henry VI., when the extensive estates of that family were divided between two co-heiresses, at which time it is thought to have been abandoned as a residence. It was garrisoned for the King during the civil war of the seventeenth century, and in 1644 was besieged by the parliamentarians, under the command of Captain Edwards, to whom, after a defence of two days, it was surrendered.

The parish lies on the eastern shore of St. St Bride's Bay, and on the turnpike-road leading from Haverfordwest to St Davids. It is of considerable extent, comprising a large tract of arable and pasture land, which, with the exception of Cyfern mountain, occupying only a small portion of it, and the cliffs to the west and south-west, bordering upon the bay, is enclosed and in a good state of cultivation.

Mining 1839

There is a culm colliery in the parish; and a breakwater has been formed for the protection of vessels arriving at Nolton Haven, whence a large quantity of culm is shipped by means of jetties.

Cyfern is a handsome residence occupying a pleasant situation. The living is a discharged vicarage, rated in the King's Books at £4. 13. 9., endowed with £200 royal bounty, and in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor; present net income, £137; impropriator, George Augustus Harries, esq.. The tithes have been commuted for £299. 17., of which £200 are payable to the impropriator, and £99. 17. to the vicar: a glebe of 2½ acres, valued at £6 per annum, belongs to the incumbent. The Church, dedicated to St. Mary, is a plain neat edifice without a tower, consisting only of a nave and chancel, and containing a chaste monument to the memory of the Rev. John Grant, a former vicar. There were anciently two Chapels of ease, both now in ruins; one at Hilton, a mile south of the Church; and the other, called Caradoc's Chapel, at Trevran, about a mile and a half distant from it, on the margin of the bay, probably erected to commemorate the spot where the corpse of St. Caradoc rested on its way for interment at St Davids. There are places of worship for Baptists and Wesleyan Methodists, and the Independents hold a Sunday school in a farmhouse. John, third son of the Rev. John Grant, bequeathed £500 for the endowment of a free school here, the interest of which sum, £18, is paid to the master of a day school for boys and girls, who receives also £2 in fees; the school is carried on in a cottage on the glebe-land, by the permission of the vicar, and the master is appointed by the vicar and churchwardens, who also nominate the children. Another school, for girls, is partly supported by subscription. Mrs. Fluerton, in 1700, bequeathed a rent-charge of £2 to the poor, but it is at present unproductive.

The remains of the Castle form an interesting and striking object. The structure originally consisted of one stately tower, divided into three stories, each composed of a large apartment, with an elegant smaller apartment, or retiring-room, having an arched roof and an oriel window, both enriched with tracery: the ruins consist of the shell of this tower in a very perfect state. The rock on which it is built is, on the south side, incorporated with the building for nearly half the height, and a huge mass protrudes into the lower apartment. A very extensive prospect is obtained from the tower, commanding the whole of St. St Bride's Bay, with a great part of the adjacent country, which, however, from the want of wood with the exception only of two or three small patches, is generally destitute of picturesque character.

1811 Fenton (Tours)

Visit Roch Castle or the Castle of the Rock, situated on a spot well calculated to command the most extensive view by sea and land, and therefore well adapted to the purpose for which it appears to have been built, as a Barrier fortress and specular by the Normans or Fleming's. The Castle is so called from its peculiar site, a circumstance that probably gave name to the first possessor of whom we hear of, Adam de Rupe who was likewise the founder of pill Priory. It occupies the south west extremity of one of those inland rocky ridges such as Pembrokeshire abounds with running nearly east and west a little to the northward of the Church of St Mary de Rupe; and as the ridge here rises considerably, and its summit broken into various irregular points, the building is formed to embrace them that the rock and the masonry seem thoroughly incorporated, giving it at once an air of great singularity as well as strength.

The Castle at a distance appears a very inconsiderable turret but closely examined it proves much larger than could be imagined, and had all the necessary circumvallations, if not a moated ditch to render it more inaccessible and almost impregnable, as it could not be commanded by any higher ground within such a distance as to be annoyed by it.

Though built originally without doubt for defence and observation, from the remains of its internal appearance, its window cases of wrought freestone, its spacious fireplaces, and the general arrangement, there is every reason to think that it was soon converted into a habitable mansion, and made to answer both ends.

The building to the west shows almost a semicircular form; to the north a plain front; to the east an irregular side, having the principal entrance with square projection to the south. It had three stories, each story consisting of one large apartment, perhaps divisible into two, besides smaller apartments in the southern projection, having elegantly groined roofs and handsome oriel windows looking out over a precipitous breeching, part of the foundation, and commanding a charming prospect, and serving for oratories or withdrawing rooms for the ladies. The average thickness of the walls was 5ft 10 in. At what time it was inhabited I never could learn, but it must have been prior to the reign of Henry VI; about which times the great possessions of the family of de la Roche , the lords of this Castle , fell between co-heiresses, one of whom married Lord Ferrers, the other Sir Thomas Longeville, who soon after sold the property.

The tradition is, that a former proprietor of the family of de la Roche having foretold (and in that age of superstition such predictions had great weight) that he should die by the bite of a viper, erected this Castle on a rock at a distance from any growth that might be liable to harbour any noxious creature and there immured himself for years; but that a viper concealed in a faggot of wood happened to be brought in, and was the cause of his death; and on the monument of a crusader in Langwn Church, said to be his they show you an almost effaced thong of his military boot that winds round the leg, for the viper,

An “inquisitio post mortem” of the possessions of de la Roche , I have seen, mentions the Castle as then ruinous and deserted. This inquisition was taken after the death of the last male possessor. Thomas de la Roche , so that it is probable it never was inhabited since the days of the crusader, whatever might have been his object for perching himself on this crag. In the civil wars it was garrisoned for the King and held out a smart siege under the command of a gallant officer , Captain Francis Edwards of Summerhill, a mansion house in that neighbourhood: and the tradition is that during the siege he threw from one of the eyelet windows of the Castle a javelin which cut the string of Oliver Cromwell's helmet, said to have been present, which fell to the ground, and obliged him to gallop off. To give some colour to the above tradition, there was a person living in the Brawdy parish in the year 1745, who declared herself to be at that time about one hundred and ten and who said that she perfectly remembered to have seen Roch Castle on fire, and observed a person ride by Roch Mill well mounted having a short stick (a truncheon probably) in his hand, and a chain round the horse's neck. He was dressed in scarlet and gold and was generally believed to be Cromwell hastily decamping after a narrow escape from a well directed javelin.

[It could not have been Cromwell as this siege took place in 1644 and Cromwell did not visit Pembrokeshire till 1648]

This Captain Edwards afterwards took command of some post in North Wales, where he was killed.

After passing through several hands in the lapse of 200 years this Castle , with part of the vast territory formerly annexed to it is now [1811] the property of Rees Stokes esq..

1872 From Annals and Antiquities

On a crag in the open and slightly elevated country near the sea between Haverfordwest and St Davids-a district now remarkable for nothing except the poverty of its soil and the depressed and backward condition of its semi-Flemish population-stands the beautiful and romantic structure, Roch Castle, so called from the rock (Fr., rothe) on which it is planted. Beyond doubt, it was built as a post of observation by the Flemish settlers. It sweeps far and wide the country of Pebydiog, then as Cymric and hostile as it could be, as far as the eye can reach, the ridge of Plumstone, and the bay of St. Bride's from the mouth of Milford Haven to St Davids Head. Its rocky site gave name to its earliest possessor known to history, Adam de Rupe ("Adam of the Rock"), founder also of Pill Priory, near Milford. The De la Roches in their earliest stages were of the first rank of Norman families, and of great possessions in Pembrokeshire. It appears probable that they had the province (now hundred) of Rhos (Roose) committed to their care by Henry II., when it had been peopled with Flemings, for one of the family was styled "Comes Littoris," which office was hereditary, and the extent of its jurisdiction was marked by the two castles of Roch and Benton, the latter being on the Haven, near Williamston, and nearly opposite Lawrenny. Roch Castle would be exactly suited for the residence of such an official, being in a commanding situation at the upper end of the Flemish province of Rhos, as Benton Castle was at the lower end. Fenton seems to think, from an "inquisitio post mortem" made after the demise of Thomas de la Roche, and mentioning the Castle as being then deserted, that it was never since his time inhabited; and he intimates an opinion that Thomas de la Roche lived in the time of the Crusades.

But we find from the pedigree of the family in Dwnn that there were in that family three of this name, the first and last living five generations apart-the first (probably the "Crusader") living circa 1250 for his daughter married William de Valence, for a short time earl of Pembroke (d. 1296); the second about the year 1420. This man died without issue male, and probably was the Thomas meant by the "inquisitio." It is clear, at least, whether the De la Roches dwelt at Roch Castle or not, during these generations, that they continued in the county, and their intermarriages with the Carews, Malifants, Flemings, &c., are evidence of the standing they maintained.

The name Roch still lives in Pembrokeshire, but is not traceable to this ancient Norman stock.

Roch Castle, during the civil wars, was put in a state of defence for King Charles I., under command of Capt. Francis Edwards, of Summerhill, but was as early as 1644 surrendered after a sharp siege and burning. The tradition, therefore, that Cromwell attacked it (Cromwell has been traditionally present wherever a Castle has been destroyed !) is at fault, because Cromwell only came to this county in 1648, to the difficult task of reducing Pembroke Castle. The Castle, never after restored, passed through various hands, and became at last the property of the Stokes family.

1898 Visit of Arch.Camb to Roch E Laws

Roch Castle and Church.— Here the Vicar, with Mr. Massey and others awaited the party. The Vicar had brought with him a number of old documents of interest, and the plate belonging to Roch and Nolton Churches ; and Mr. Massey showed a stone which had recently been found in Roch churchyard bearing sculptured figures.

Roch Castle was examined by some of the party. This Castle is said to have been built by Adam de Rupe, founder of Pill Priory. Mr. G. T. Clark, who accompanied the Association here in 1864, thought the Castle might date from the reign of Henry I, or early in the following one. The bonding stones in the tower show that the projected building was never completed. The Tudor windows are evidently later additions. About the middle of February , 1644, the Castle was garrisoned by the Royalists, under Lord Carbery, and two days after the fall of Pill Fort the garrison was summoned and they surrendered. Captain Francis Edwardess, of Summer Hill, hard by, was in command of the Castle. It was at this time owned by the Walters family, this family being connected with the Barlows, who were strong Royalists. After its surrender it was apparently garrisoned by the Parliamentary troops, as we read that on a Sunday night in the month of July following. Colonel Charles Gerard recaptured the Castle, taking as booty 500 head of cattle and 2,000 sheep.

1923 RCAM

This Castle is described by Mr G.T. Clarke as follows:--

It is built on one Horn of a double up-burst of igneous rock and consists of a D-shaped tower with prolonged sides, and may be of the reign of Henry III or more probably early in the following one. The lower floor is probably a barrack, although filled up to one quarter of its area by a mass of rock in situ which must have been very inconvenient. A straight staircase, marked by some broken steps and the rake of the loops, led from the floor, past a guard-robe to the front door and Chapel. The principal room occupied the square part of the floor, with three large openings to the west, north and east. South of this was a second room; and beyond this an oratory, which consisted of a small vaulted chamber occupying a projection from the south convex face of the tower. Above it is another small such chamber also vaulted but now inaccessible. The floors were of timber. Each stage had a fireplace. The stairs lay in the thickness of the wall; but the inner shell had fallen. The exterior door had no portcullis but was some little height above the ground. Certain stones in the tower indicate that it was at one time intended to enclose the other portion of the rock in a kind of court but that had never been carried into effect. At the foot of the rock are a double bank and ditch enclosing a base court or paddock. There are certain Tudor windows and other later alterations. (Arch Camb 1865 III, xi p361)

The present owners have transformed what was a 13th century Peel house into a modern residence. The Chapel, now used as a boudoir, retains its ribbed vaulting; it is 10 ½ feet in length and 7 ft in breadth. In the east wall is an opening which , if the Chapel possessed a Chapel, may have been an aumbry – visited 11th May 1921.

Note The Castle was probably built Adam de Rupe, founder of Pill Priory. Fenton speaks of an Inquisition post mortem of the estates of Thomas de la Roche , apparently temp Henry VI, which mentions the Castle as then being in ruins.

Roch Castle Chris Johnson 1996: Tony Roberts 1989

A few miles S of St David's, Dyfed, west Wales.

This 13th-century Castle is located off a dirt road, but is easily seen from the main road leading south from St David's. A sign on the fence at the entrance to the Castle informs visitors that the Castle is available for holiday lets, but is not open to the general public. The caretakers of the Castle live across the street, not far from a very interesting old Church.

Roch Castle stands on the northern edge of the boundary between the Welshry of north Pembrokeshire and the Englishry of South Pembrokeshire. This is a small Castle built on a volcanic outcrop with a commanding view over the wide countryside. The D-shaped tower originally had a Bailey and ditch, long since vanished. The Castle is generally attributed to Adam de la Roche, and there is an interesting legend concerning its construction. It is said that its builder chose the spot because a local gypsy had foretold that he would perish after being bitten by a poisonous snake. The Lord reasoned that it would be more difficult for such a prophecy to come true if his home was well elevated above ground. However, his greatly disgruntled wife sought revenge on her Husband by placing a poisonous snake in the Castle's kindling wood one day. Later, when the Lord was gathering wood for the fire, he was indeed bitten by the snake and died as a result, thus fulfilling the gypsy's prophecy. Another version claims the snake got in the Castle on its own.

The Castle played no recorded part in history and passed through various local families, including the Walters, Harries and Stokes. The Castle was modernized about 1900 when a new wing was added.

Legend also holds that there are at least two, possibly three, tunnels running underneath the Castle, one of which leads to - Victoria Cottage, - supposedly built for the Princess of Scotland. It is said that while visiting the area the princess fell in love with the view of the water from the Hill and spent much time there. The cottage still stands today, a short distance from the Castle and keeps company with a pub next door. The pub is found in what used to be the cottage stables, while a two-story house incorporates part of the original cottage.

Roche family were followers of Stongbow and invaded Ireland with him in the 12c.

2000 Roch Castle RCAHMW,

The Castle has a 'D' shaped plan and is a tall single structure with projecting chambers and stands on an isolated rock outcrop surrounded by a moated enclosure.

Roch Castle was first built circa 1200 by Adam de Rupe or de la Roche, founder of Pill Priory, Milford. The present Castle has been dated by G.T. Clark to circa 1270. Though built for defence, it appears to have been adapted to habitation with freestone windows and fireplaces. The de la Roche estates were broken up in the fifteenth century and the Castle was then ruinous. It was garrisoned for the royal cause during the Civil War and besieged in 1644. From 1901-4 it was restored and made habitable for Sir J. Wynford Philipps Bt of Picton, later Viscount St Davids, to the designs of D.E. Thomas of Haverfordwest. Further works were carried out in 1910 and circa 1918-20, the latter by D.F. Ingleton.

1811 Roch Parish Church Fenton, Tours Published 1811

The Church is a pleasing building, consisting of a nave and a chancel separated by a low unornamented round arch, and having but one window on the north side wrought with stone tracery. The entrance is by a porch having a roof ribbed with stone archway and chequered, and a very ancient doorway. The interior with pews properly ranged is neat and decent, and does credit to the care of the gentleman who unites the character of its vicar and rural dean, the Rev Moses Grant; to commemorate whose respectable parents I cannot resist noticing on the south wall an elegant monument of Coade's artificial stone, representing a female figure with a book in her hand, her arm thrown round an urn resting on a pillar, as it is made to speak a known truth in the following inscription at once appropriate and impressive:

Sacred To The Memory Of The Rev John Grant

Rector Of Nolton, And 47years Vicar Of This Church Who Died July 25 1767 Aged 75;And Of Elizabeth His Wife Daughter Of Gilbert Davies,

Who Died July 7, 1782 Aged 72

A Contented Happy Pair¹ Their Integrity Of Heart Of Simplicity

Of Manner; Their Regular Discharge Of Every Religious

And Social Duty; Their Strict And Unwearied A

Attention To The Education Of Their Children,All

Rendered Them Ornaments Of Their Age And Examples Worthy

The Imitation Of Posterity These Virtues They Lived To See Amply Rewarded, By The Extraordinary Success Of A numerous Offspring.

Near it is a brass tablet to commemorate a benefaction of their third son who died Jan 8th 1804, and left five hundred pounds to endow a school in this parish.

1921 The Parish Church dedicated to St Mary RCAM

With the exception of the porch the building is a modern one. The porch 10ft by 8ft has a ribbed vault and narrow seats on each side. Resting loose on one of the seats is a weathered canopied cross head 20in by 12 in by 9 in. the figures are very indistinct; but the figures seem to be

1] Crucifixion, with St Mary and St John

2] Virgin and Child

3] mitred Bishop with staff;

4] Indistinct? Good Shepherd and Lamb.

The font basin 22ins square externally, of the cushion type, has a circular shaft and a square base; the total height is 36 inches

The Church stands within a roughly circular burial ground, the level of which is some feet above the lane which surrounds it to the south , suggesting the site of an earthwork. visited 3rd May 1921

Church registers

The registers preserve a few items of interest pertaining to the earlier structure

1698 Chancel arch raised and the aisle taken down, and the seats thereof moved to the chancel.

1799 On account of the expense of keeping the roof of the aisle good, which was half a roof, but had originally evident marks of being double roofed, and having been connected, within the memory of Moses Grant, the present vicar (1767-1810) by a leaden gutter with the chancel, the said aisle was taken down, and Folkeston, Smith's part of Simston and Hilton seats were this year put up in the chancel and in[?] On] the site of the old division or partition wall between the nave and chancel which was taken away, and the present semi-circular arch turned over it. This improvement was made more convenient by means of a gallery having been erected in west end in 1795 by subscription.

Old Parish Churches. Acc/to Salter

The font is probably of c1200. The 15th century south porch has a rib-vaulted ceiling. The rest has been rebuilt since 1800 when the chancel arch was raised and an 18th century south Chapel demolished, its arches to the nave and chancel being blocked up. In the porch is a former churchyard cross-head depicting St Mary & St John, The Virgin & Child, a Bishop and what is probably the Good Shepherd with a Lamb.

1851 Roch Parish Church James Tasker, Curate, Nolton Rectory

1929 St Madog & St Mary (Roch) Incumbent and Curates; Ivor Evans

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire 1904

Roch . —A modern Chalice and Paten of medieval pattern, bearing the Hall marks of 1866 with maker's Mark Ib in a four-lobed shield. The cup which is of parcel gilt measures 7 in. in height; diam. of bowl, 4 in.; diam. of foot, 4 in.; weight, 10 oz. The sacred monogram appears on each of the six splays of the base. Inscription " Roch Parish Church 1867. John Bagnall Evans M.A., Vicar. John Stokes, Thomas Wade, Churchwardens ". The paten is 5 in. in diameter, and weighs 3 oz. 17 dwts, with IHS engraved in the centre of its six-lobed depression. Both these pieces were presented by the above mentioned incumbent.

A modern Flagon, 8 in. in height, and weighing 5 oz. 8 dwts: Hall Mark for 1885 . The lid is surmounted by a Latin cross and on the bowl is engraved the sacred monogram.

A Chalice of plated metal, 6 in. in height, the diam. of its egg-shaped bowl being 3 in.; inscription " Roch Parish. R. Rees esq. and W Roberts Churchwardens 1831 ".

There is also a pewter Plate, 8 in. in diam., upon which the marks are illegible.

St Caradoc's Chapel Trevan RCAM

Subordinate Chapels to Roch parish Church are said (parochiale wallicanum—Y Cymmrodor xxii

25) to have stood at Trevan and Hilton.

The site of that at Trevan is marked on the 6" Ordinance Map as being on Newgale sands, about half a mile north of Trefrane Colliery and close to culm pits, which have practically obliterated the site. It is probably to be identified with a shallow oblong depression which is traceable in dry weather. --visited 13th April 1921

1811 Fenton (Fenton was travelling along Newgale sands from St David's)

“Turned to the left and fall in with the trifling ruins of Cradock's Chapel which, with that of Hilton, was subordinate to the mother Church of Roch. The former, erected to commemorate the resting of the corpse of the hermit saint, to whom it is dedicated, on its way to St David's to be interred, was built of the large smooth pebbles from the neighbouring beach with mortar. It was a Long narrow building without transept; and if it was here the funeral procession stopped on its way from the vicinity of Haverfordwest, where his cell was, then the road to St David's must have taken a very different course from the present.”

Hilton Chapel RCAM

Of this building at Hilton there are no remains above the soil. Fenton speaking of Hilton “where formerly stood a Chapel of ease to the parish of Roch”.

Pembrokeshire Parsons

This Church was dedicated to St. Hilary, and was granted by Adam de Rupe about the year 1200 to the monks then of the Order of Byron, at Pill Priory. - charter, 25 Edw I, n 8. On the dissolution of the Monasteries in the reign of Hen. VIII., Pill Priory was granted to Roger Barlow and Thomas Barlow, but the rectory of Roch was not included in this grant, and the sight of presentation remained vested in the King. Orig., 38 Hen. VIII., p. 5.

In 1536-7 a lease for 21 years of the rectory of Roch was granted by the Crown to Edward Lloyd of the Household. - State Papers.

Described as Ecclesia de Rupe, this Church was in 1291 assessed at £13 6s 8d. for tenths to the King, the sum payable being £1 6s. 8d. - Taxatio.

Rupe. - Vicaria ibidem ex collacione dicti plioris de Pulla unde Johannes Barbor clericus est vicarius habens parvam mansionem sive glebam. Et valet communibus annis in omnibus emolimentis iiiijli. Inde sol in visitacione ordinaria quolibet tercio an1o ;iiij d ob . Et in visitacione archidiaconi quolibet an1lo pro sino (alibus et procuracionibus v8. Et remallet elare £4 13s 9d. Inde decima 9s. 4d. - Valor Eccl.

Under the heading “Livings Discharged”:- Rupa alias Rock alias Roch V. (St. Mary) Castellgraig Roch. Ordinario quolibet tertio anno, 1s. 2d. Archid. quolibet anno, 5s. Alans. cum gleb., &c. Pri. Pill olim Patr.; The Prince Of Wales. Clear yearly value, £17, £30 King's Books, £4 13s. 9d . - Bacon's Liber Regis.

1681 The oldest parish register of this Church was purchased, and contains a number of very interesting entries, among them being the following, which have been selected as throwing light on the history of the benefice and Church:-

1760. This Church [was] augmented by a Lot of Queens Anne Bounty in Bishop Ellises time. Soon after a purchase was made (of Wm. Trevannion, esq., of Corhays in Cornwall, and MP. for Tregony, who married Miss Barlow of Slebetch in this county) of lands in Grange in the parish of Llanvihangel Abercowin, in the County of Caermarthen, called Place bach, consisting of twenty-four acres with a cottage thereon.

In 1767 the Church was seated and paved, and a list is given in the register, showing to what farms the pews were allotted.

1795 A gallery at the west end [of the Church] built this year, by subscription. This year, 1798, the Chancel Arch was raised and the aisle taken down and the seats thereon moved into the Chancel.....

1799. The arch between Nave and Chancel completed and considerably raised, and Chancel floor raised, and seats that were in aisle (which is taken down) placed in the Church, viz, Folkeston, Hilton, and Simston.

1799, Apr. 15. Memorandum. On account of the expense of keeping the roof of the Ile [aisle] good, which was an half roof, but had originally evident marks of being double roofed, and having been connected (within the memory of Moses Grant, the present vicar) by a leaden gutter with the Chancel, the said Ile was taken down, and Folkeston, Smith's part of Simston, and Hilton seats were this year put up in the Chancel, and in the site of old division or partition wall between the Nave and Chancel, which was taken away, and the present semicircular arch turned over it. This improvement was made more convenient by means of a gallery having been erected in west End in 1795 by subscription.

The vicarage of Roch was united with the rectory of Nolton by an Order in Council, dated 20 July, 1868.

Subordinate Chapels are said to have been at Hilton and Trevran.

Nonconformist Chapels:

Penuel [Baptists, 1818]

1851 Penuel Baptist Erected in 1822 "Average number of congregation according to the total more or less as the weather permitteth. No Sunday School at present we are visiting the sick in the afternoon....." Elias Thomas , Minister

Penuel Baptist Chapel was built in 1822, modified in 1829, restored in 1850 and again in 1892. The present Chapel, dated 1892, is built in the Simple round-Headed style of the gable-entry type. RCAHMW,

Roch Methodist Chapel [Wesleyan Methodists, 1784], Church Rd, Roch was built in 1834 and converted for use as a private dwelling during the late twentieth century. RCAHMW,

1847 The State of Education in Wales

The Parish of Roch – On the 5th of January I visited the above parish. I found there one day school supported by the same means as that at Nolton, and a small dame school which was chiefly supported by Miss Stoke of Cuffern. The Boy's free school was held in a most miserable hovel, lighted by four small windows. Two tables and six benches (the only furniture there) were very bad repair. The floor was of bare earth and exceedingly damp. The door was in a very dilapidated state, and the rain was coming through the thatch when I was in the schoolroom. There were two Dissenting Chapels in the parish but no Sunday school held in either. Wages were 8d a day with food or 1s 4d without. The people were all very sober and industrious. – David Lewis Assistant

Names connected with Parish Roch

Clergy CCED Roch

Owens Johannes	1660 Vicar
Williams Georgius	1678 Vicar –1692
Lewis Erasmus	1692 Vicar
Davies Johannes	1694 Vicar – Death 1715
Bowen G Walterus	1715 Vicar – Natural Death 1719
Grant Johannes	1719 Vicar – Resignation 1767
Grant Moses	1763 Curate
Grant Moses	1767 Vicar – Natural death 1810
Row Thomas	1791 Curate
Dalton Thomas	1804 Curate
Harries George	1810 Vicar & Rector
William Thomas	1828 Curate
Crymes Amos	1833 Curate

Roch De Rupe de la Roche

Roch Nicholas 1675 Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Today Roch is a village near Haverfordwest well known for its Castle perched on its rock.

The rock gave its name to a family who held a large amount of land in Pembrokeshire. In French deeds the family are referred to as “de la Roche ” and in Latin deeds as “de Rupe” We know that family members took part in the Invasion of Ireland because both Adam who endowed Pille Priory Milford and Eustace were awarded large grants of land. It is probable that part of the family settled over there as in 1291 Sir Thomas de Rupe “de wallia” was residing on property that he held in Ireland according to records of the time. The residence of the Roche s in Ireland was at Astramount in the county of Wexford. From records of the mid 1200’s Sir Gerald Roche possessed 5 Knights fee’s in County Wexford and a large estate in County Cork. His descendants were the Viscount Roche ’s of Fermoy

Roch De Rupe de la Roche -According to Old Pembrokeshire Families Henry Owen

The family of the Rock were called in Norman French, de la Roche and in charter Latin, de Rupe. They took part in the Pembrokeshire conquest of Ireland, which has so often been referred to in these papers, and founded a family there who afterwards called themselves Roche and of whom the heads were the Viscounts Fermoy.

It was from one of the Irish family, de la Roche George 1299 that Sir John Wogan of Picton procured in 1299 a grant of his rights at Castle Maurice to found the Wogan chantry at St David's, de la Roche David 1358 Lord of Fermoy, appointed his Pembrokeshire kinsmen de la Roche William 1358

de la Roche David 1358

de la Roche Richard 1358

his bailifs, to take seisin for him of the manors of Manorbier and Penally, to which he had succeeded on the death of Avic de Barri this seems to be the same person as the David de Barri mentioned in the Barri paper, and in the Irish records we hear of a William Roche de Barri, which shows that the two families had got somehow mixed up. The Pembrokeshire family in time called themselves Roch and passed through Rickerston to Clareston to Butter Hill, Llether, and Paskeston.

Flemings took a large part in the conquest of Ireland, and it has been before observed that Fenton's statement that the colony consisted of the " lower orders " cannot be accepted, the men of rank among them speedily adopted the language and usages of their Norman allies.

Godebert, "a Fleming of Roose", held lands in that district in 1131, his two sons, Richard and Rodbert, took part in the Irish expeditions. Richard was one of the first invaders, and is called in the Norman-French poem, " The Song of Dermot and the Earl, a "Knight from Pembrokeshire." Rodbert, who gave lands in Roose to Slebech, acquired, according to the same authority, some Irish property which had originally been granted to Maurice of Prendergast, one of the numerous founders of Pembrokeshire families in Ireland.

Rodbert's three sons, David, Henry, and Adam, took the name of de la Roche as appears from the charter by which they gave the Bishop of Begerin in Wexford harbour , with the Church built thereon, to St. Nicholas Exeter, for the soul of their father Rodbert, the son of Godebert the Witnesses to the charter are Maurice above mentioned, and other Pembrokeshire allies.

There were two principal branches of the Pembrokeshire family, settled respectively at Roch Castle and Langum

Fenton has confused them they were united by marriage, as will be seen later on. Fenton also states that there is reason to believe that one of the family had charge of the province of Roose, and held the hereditary office of “Comes Littoris”, but as he does not give the reason, we need not believe.

The first of the Roch late 12c Castle family was Adam, who founded Pill Priory at the close of the 12th century in the general words at the end of his charter he gives the churches of all the lands he had acquired he must have added considerably to the family acres, for he gives to St. Mary , St. Budoc, and the order of Tiron, the land on which the Priory was built, other lands in Roose and at New moat, and the churches of St. Cewydd now St. Peter at Stainton, St. Mary of Roch, St David now St. Peter of Little Newcastle, and St. Nicholas of New moat. We learn from the charter that his wife's name was Roch Blandina. Late 12c he was a witness to Robert Fitz Elidor's grant to St David's , his charter to the Church and Canons of St David's , was witnessed by Peter de Leia, Bishop of that see from 1176 to 1198, who began the building of the present cathedral.

Roch David 1224 the son of Adam, confirmed his father's charter to St David's of a pension of 2s. yearly, payable on St David's Day, out of lands of Roch held by Wobald, the son of Ernebald, more Flemings. Among the Witnesses is William the Precentor the confirmation was soon after 1224, when the first precentor at St David's was appointed.

de la Roche Adam 1219 was witness to the Marshall charters to Haverford in 1219 and some eight years later he seems to have been Lord of Roch as the charter of Thomas mentioned below, suggests that there was an Adam the younger.

The next was de la Roche John 1251 but whether he was the son of David or of Adam the younger there is nothing to show, He held of the Earl in 1251 one fee and one third of another fee in the barony of Roch ." He married de la Roche Matilda 1251 the niece of Thomas Wallensis Bishop of St David's 1248- 1256 , who was a Carew and received from the Bishop a grant to himself and his wife, and their heirs, of the manor of Eglwys Cummin, which manor the Bishop himself held of Guy de Brian. It was to this marriage that the building of Roch Castle by Laugharne is due.

de la Roche Thomas 1274 the son of John and Matilda, confirmed and enlarged the charter to Pill of the founder, whom he calls Adam the elder his grant included lands at Suthoc, (South Hook in Herbrandston), Denant and a share in the mill there , Stodhaze, (Studdolph) , Windsor ,by Strickemers Hille, (Dredgman Hill) , Redeberch, (Redberth), now in Walwyn's Castle parish , Thorneton misspelt Porneton, villa Ledelini (Liddeston), and castrum Vydii, which seems to refer to the Castle Hill abutting upon Stainton Highway mentioned among the possessions of the Priory at the dissolution he also gave the right of wreck in the half carucate of land at “Neugol”, (Newgale) on which had been built the Chapel to St. Caradoc to commemorate the resting-place of that saint's body on its way to burial at St David's , also the churches of St David at Hubertston (Hubberston) and St. Madoc de Veterivilla (Nolton) .

One of the Witnesses to this charter was Nicholas Martin, Lord of Kemes, who died in 1284.

Thomas de la Roche held a carucate of land at 'Pill Rhodal" by Milford , and in 1274 a fine was made between him and Sir William de Boleville (Bulwell) as to lands at Westfeld held of the manor of Burton."

1295 William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, and Joan his wife brought a suit against the bailiffs of Queen Eleanor, lady of Haverford, alleging that they had forcibly taken the barony of Roche of which Monsier Thomas de la Roche was Lord from the earldom, the suit failed the Thomas mentioned in the pleadings was a minor in the custody of the Lord of Haverford. At the time of his father's death in 1301, he signed the barons' letter to the Pope as Lord of Roch. It is not clear whether the above documents refer to one Thomas or to two, father and son.

de la Roche John 1314 The will of John, the son of Thomas is extant, it is dated 1314 and proved in the same year, and he tells us something of the family history the testator of those days generally made his will on his death-bed, which was to the advantage of holy Church John seems to have postponed it rather late, as he says at the end that he cannot give any more thought to it, and his executors must dispose of the residue. Among the bequests are his soul to the blessed Mary and his body to be buried at Pill Priory he is careful to add with a due regard for economy 40 shillings to the convent of Pill, and a like amount to the Friars Preacher of Haverford

To his mother, the Lady de la Roche Margaret 1314 mother of John, half his farming stock at the manor of Pill, with the option of buying the other half at its Market value to his sisters de la Roche Elizabeth 1314 sister of John, de la Roche Johanna , 1314 sister of John de la Roche Thomas 1314 brother of John his armour which he had left at Pill there are also legacies to an old servant and of a book called The Sirculus to the Lady of Courtenay.

John had in 1313 grants from Sir John Wogan of Picton in Llysyfran and Lambston, which latter Wogan had obtained from John's father. John's successor was his brother

De la Roche Thomas who was Lord for some ten years in 1315 he obtained a grant, for himself and his wife Elizabeth, from Nesta wife of Roger Corbet, and one of the co-heiresses of Robert de Valle , of lands at Castell Loyth, Wolf's Castle and Rinaston in 1317 he was commanded to return apparently from Ireland to his domain in Wales for its defence

In 1319 there was a fine between him and John Cole in the court of Aymer de Valence, Lord of Haverford and Earl of Pembroke , as to land at 'ZeimsHille" (DeemsHill) in Steynton.

There are also two charters to Thomas one from Adam Baret of a Carmarthen family who held in the county , of land at Gibbrick's Ford now Ford by Trefgarn , in which his wife Nesta, who must have been a second wife, is mentioned, and the other from Philip, the son of Thomas Martin the fuller, of a fulling mill at the same place, therein called Gilbert's Ford. To the latter, William Martin, Lord of Eemes, is a witness.

It is stated in an ancient extent cited in the Black Book of St David's , that Vadum Gyhrygh (Gibbrick's Ford) was held by a Geffrey de Rupe as half a fee' And it may be mentioned here that George Owen gives two charters of lands in Roose to "Master Tankard de la Roche ", to one of which Gilbert of Musselwick, who was one of the executors of the will of John above mentioned, was witness Tankard was a witness to the grant of Redwalls by John, the son of Maurice to Adam, the son of Hugh Cole and Sarah his wife, the daughter of William Philbeach. But who Tankard was there is no evidence.

Thomas left a son

de la Roche William	1324 who succeeded him, also four daughters, the second of whom,
de la Roche Johanna,	1324? , married Sir David de la Roche of Langum .

Leland mentions a William de la Roche who married the daughter and coheirress of Peter Delamere he would be a contemporary, but there is nothing to show that he came from this county.

There are several charters referring to William, and we have now happily reached the time when these documents are dated, a custom which began about the reign of Edward II but some of these charters appear to refer to a second William. In 1324 he held of the Earl one fee at La Roche worth £20 in 1326 he held of the Bishop Lysurane (Llysyfran) in capite as one fee and half a fee at Oweynston. (Eweston) , and also at Neugol (Newgale) in 1327 he was one of the court of the conspiracy trial - in 1330 he founded a chantry in the Chapel of St. Thomas the Martyr by Pill Dead Man's Lake , for the souls of his parents and of his family generally in 1334 there was a fine in the court at Pembroke of Isabel, Lady of Clare the guardian of the earldom during the minority of Lawrence Hastings , between him and Walter Alex, clerk probably a trustee , as to land at Ayllwarston (Alleston) and Kingeston in 1336 John de Stackpole, chaplain, granted him £400 yearly rent out of the manors of Burton and Hodgeston , in 1353 he granted a lease of a messuage and land at Roch to John Baret the son of John and Johanna, his wife , in 1358 he was appointed one of the bailiffs of David, Lord of Fermoy, as above mentioned and in 1367 he granted a lease of another messuage and land at Roch to Henry, son of Thomas Baret, for life, at a nominal rent but Henry is to guard the Castle and the prisoners, to do all necessary Mason or carpenter work for repairs, and to dig stones for certain works, which then seemed to have been in progress there, the tenants of the manor to provide the carriage.

But it is probable that these two last documents refer to another William, a son and successor and in 1298 we have a grant from Philip of Angle to de la Roche William 1298 of lands at Angle, Sepin Ilond (Sheep Island) , and the windmill at Angle. The explanation may be that William the second left as his heiress his sister Margot, whose only child Margaret married Sir Roger de Clarendon, and died without issue in 1382, when the barony of Roche was divided among the representatives of the co-heiresses daughters of Thomas , and Roch Castle and some lands in county Tipperary fell to Thomas de la Roche of Langum, who was descended from the David above mentioned, who married Johanna, .

The barony of Roch consisted of the present parishes of Roch Nolton, Camrose and Trefgarn, and we have seen how widely their possessions were distributed in other parts of the county.

There was doubtless a fortress at Roch from early times, but the present Castle was built at the close of the 13th century there are later additions and some Tudor windows and there is evidence that the building was not completed. It does not appear that the de la Roche s lived there after they had attained to their great position, most of their charters are dated from Pill. They probably also occupied Benton Castle, a small fortress in their manor of Burton of the same as Roch .

There is ample evidence that the de la Roche s of Langum were a branch distinct from the lords of Roch until they were united by the marriage of David and Johanna, their residence was either at the Castle House at Langum or at a house where now Grant Nash stands. They were buried in the de la Roche Chapel in Langum

the family of Roch Castle

The first we hear of them is de la Roche Robert 1219 who was a witness to the Begerin charter, which shows that the three sons of Rodbert, son of Godebert, the Fleming, took the name of de la Roche .

It is not too much to conjecture that he also had adopted the Norman custom, and he may have been the son of Richard, Rodbert's brother, above mentioned but of this there is no evidence. This Robert was granted Talbenny by William Marshall, Earl of Pembroke, who died in 1219. His son was de la Roche Geoffrey, 1241 who granted lands at Penvey to the monks of Whitland, which he warranted against all lawful men, Normans, Flemings, English and Welsh, , which shews the mixed character of the inhabitants of the district in those days he was a witness to the charters of Thomas Wallensis and Tankard de la Roche and to a Kernes charter in 1241 he was one of the Pembroke magnates who, in 1244, sent to John de Monmouth, chief bailiff of South Wales, an account of their attack upon Cardigan, and in 1251 he held two fees of the Earl. His successor was de la Roche Gilbert 1268 , probably his son, who in 1268 was present at the fine between Philip de Stackpole and William de Crespyn, and in 1298 joined in the petition of the four co-heiresses of Robert de Valle one of whom he had married to the King's bailiffs at Haverford to do them right and justice as to Robert's property.

In 1287 Gilbert granted, by a deed dated at Langum, the farm called Russelsland to Philip, the son of Roger, and to Alice his wife for their lives. Among the Witnesses to this charter was David de St. Patrick.

Among the charters to which Gilbert's name appears as witness, are those of William de Valence to Tenby, and those of Philip of Angle, Roger Mortimer, Philip the son of Thomas Martin and Geffrey of Uzmaston, above mentioned in the later ones he is described as a Knight.

The heir of Gilbert was de la Roche David 1303 as appears from a charter of Geffrey Hascard in 1303 as to a right of distress at Johnston In the same year, as Lord of Landegam and Maynclochant (Langum and Maenclochog). He granted to the abbot and convent of Whitland the right of pasturage for seven years on his lands at Precelly and other mountains and deserts in part payment for a horse, the abbot would seem to have got the best of this deal, and in 1306 he granted to Alan, rector of Talbenny, a lease for his life of Talbenny Hall and a Garden at 'le Brodemore (Broad Moor) Alan was to keep the Hall in the same state of repair as it then was, and apparently that state was not good. David was also a witness to charters in 1324 he held of the Earl a tenth of a fee at OsbarNeston (Yerbeston) , and, about the same time, of the Bishop two carucates of land at Hendref Cradoc in the patria of LLawhaden.

He must have died soon afterwards, for in 1326 de la Roche Adam 1326 held of the Lord of Kermes three fees at Maenclochog, Monington and Llanychaer respectively. This is the only notice of Adam which I have found. It is probable that he was the eldest son of David, and that he was succeeded by his brother, the de la Roche David 1326 who married Johanna, de la Roche of Roch Castle.

The son of the last David was de la Roche Robert 1334 who was present at the above mentioned fine of 1334.

He was a Knight, as was also his son de la Roche John died 1376 who married Isabel de Bromwich, the heiress of Castle Bromwich in Warwickshire, and the widow of William de Peto. Dugdale, in his History of Warwickshire, gives a short pedigree of the de la Roche s.

Sir John died in 1376 his inquisition is extant and we can learn the possessions of the Langum family. He held of the Earl the manor of Ladayn ? in free burgage, and land at Yerbeston by military service of the Lord of Kemes, the Castle and 200 acres of land at Maenclochog of the Lord of Walwyn's Castle, the manor of Dale and lands at Snelleston (Snailston) and Raymes Castle (Ramas Castle), called by ignorant compilers of ordnance maps, (Roman's Castle) of the barony of Roch land at Freystrop, parcel of the lordship of Stackpole of the Lord of Haverford, the manors and advowsons of Langum and Talbenny, with other lands of the Lord of Carew land at Marteltwy, also parcel of Stackpole of Isabella, widow of Sir John Wogan of Picton , land at Guilford, near Langum also lands at Herbrandston.

de la Roche John elder son of John, died under age, younger son, de la Roche Thomas 1382 succeeded In 1382 the custody of Thomas and of the manor of Langum in Wales, and of his share of the inheritance of the barony of Roch by the death of Margaret de Clarendon, , was granted by the King to Sir Thomas de Bermingham, whose daughter Elizabeth afterwards married his ward. Margaret died on the 9th September 1382, and ten years afterwards Richard II, Lord of Ireland and Haverford, issued a writ to the sheriff of the county of Haverford to partition the inheritance of the Roche s, of Roch Castle, between the representatives of the four daughters of Thomas de la Roche of Roch Castle, that is to say, David Fleming, Thomas de la Roche of Langum, Sir Warine Archdekyn, and Eleanor, the wife of Robert Verney. From the extent of the property we learn that there were :-

in Roch Castle divers buildings in a ruinous state, and that the demesne consisted of seventeen messuages and six carucates of land worth eight pounds there were also six cottages, and the pasture of the moat was worth two marks. The buildings at the mansion of Castle Pill were partly standing and partly in ruin it had large Gardens, and the demesne there was four carucates and thirty acres that is to say, 158 acres . The demesne lands, rents, and services, were divided into four parts, and a share of "les colpyttes", the profits of Burton Ferry, and other dues, was allotted to each. From the pedigree given in the roll it appears that Eleanor was the daughter of Lucia de la Roche and William Levelance.

Roch Castle was held for the King in the civil war, and was even then called "a very considerable stronghold." It then became the property of the family of Walter , and eventually passed through Harries of Trevaccoon to Stokes of Cuffern.

Walter Family of Haverfordwest, Roch, Dale and Rosemarket

Walter John 1509? father of Morris Walter and Husband of Alson Mendus He or his father was Approver and Chancellor of Pembroke and west Haverford until 1509 His father was also called John Walter .

Walter John 1541 July 31 Haverfordwest Records 1539—1660.

Walter John 1581 of Roch Castle had a son Walter William Mayor of Haverfordwest 1581 and 1597 He had an elder son Morris Walter Arch Camb 1904

Walter Morris 1593 of Haverfordwest married Jane Warren had a son William Walter born about 1561 Morris died in 1593 and was buried at St Mary's Haverforwest on the 27 June 1593 His father was John Walter and mother Alson Mendus of Fishguard. Morris was Mayor of Haverfordwest 1579 and 1587

Walter Moris 1582- 3 January 11 Haverfordwest Records 1539-1660.

Walter Morice 1585 -1592 Haverfordwest Records 1539-1660. .

Walter Morris 1567 October 17 Haverfordwest Records 1539-1660.

Walter Morris 1588 January 20 then mayor 1587 Haverfordwest Records 1539-1660.

Walter Morris 1553-58 Haverfordwest Inquire into cases of "concealed Lands- ex prior of Haverfordwest Priory (in his 50's) -Witness Elizabethan Pembrokeshire -Rev James Phillips Arch Camb 1897

Walter Morris 1577 May 14 Stainton Rainsbottom Hill –free tenant – in Roch from him was descended Richard Walter of Roch Castle sheriff in 1657. Survey of the Lordship of Haverford in 1577- H Owen- Arch Camb 1903

Walter William 1581 was the son of John Walter of Roch Castle. William Walter was twice married, each time to a widow. His first marriage was to Alice whose first Husband had been John Dolben, of Haverfordwest. By him she had one son, William Dolben, Bishop- designate of Bangor, who died before he could be consecrated, in 1631. His son John Dolben was Bishop of Rochester and Archbishop of York 1683-1686.

His second wife was Alice Middleton, daughter of Sir Hugh Middleton, her brother Charles Middleton married Catherine Bateman daughter of Richard Bateman of Haverfordwest.--
Alice's daughter, Jane Dolben, married Richard Wogan, of Boulston Arch Camb 1904

Walter William 1611 May 18 Will of William Walter of the parish of St. Mary , Haverfordwest, alderman. His wife was Alice Middleton . 1593. mayor 1591 1592 1597
Merchant 1588 1589 1591 1593 .mercier chamber reeve 1596 mercier collector of the chamber rent 1585 gent 1589 1591 1596 . 1582 3 January 11 1588 1592 1597 1609 October 23 Haverfordwest
Records 1539—1660

Walter William about 1561 of Haverfordwest of Roche Castle married Jane
Laugharne of St Brides about 1585 St Brides? leased several areas of land and buildings around
Steynton and Rosemarket previously the chantries His will was d 10th April 1616 He died 12
April 1616 Had several children ---His father was Morris Walter and mother Jane Warren --Jane
Laugharne of St Brides born about 1565 probably at St Brides? Had several children

Walter William 1591 married Jane Lagharne claimants to the estate of William
Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS 1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Walter Mary 1591 parents William Walter and Jane Lagharne claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS 1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb
1854

Walter Elizabeth 1591 parents William Walter and Jane Lagharne claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS 1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb
1854

Walter George 1591 parents William Walter and Jane Lagharne claimants to the estate of William
Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS 1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

Walter Rowland Born 1586 Parents William Walter and Jane nee Laugharne at, Cwmgigfran, Carmarthenshire, - wife – Frances Griffiths Born Abt 1590 at Trevrane, Pembrokeshire, Wales Parents Father-Ap Thomas ap Rhys Griffith Married Abt 1604 at Trevrane, Pembrokeshire, Wales
Died 25 Jul 1619 RhosMarket, Wales although some records of the ancestors of Lucy Walters suggest he died at RhosMarket on 15 Nov 16

Children of Walter and Francis

Walter William Born 1605 at London, Middlesex, England -of Roche and Treffgarne
Some records suggest he was christened on 29 Mar 1605 in Mawgan, Meneage, Cornwall, England.
He died in Feb 1650 in London, Middlesex, England. He was buried in St-Giles-In-Feld, London,
Middlesex, England. Married Protheroe Elizabeth who was born 1606 at Hawkesbrooke
Carmarthenshire Parents Mother Eleanor Vaughan daughter of Walter Vaughan of Golden Grove father John Protheroe of Hawkesbrooke the Astronomer will d 20th Aug 1655 proved 8 Feb 1655/6 Grandfather James Protheroe High Sheriff of Carmarthen 1599 Grandmother Bridget
Birt daughter of Robert Byrt Mayor of Carmarthen in 1593

Children of William Walter and Elizabeth nee Protheroe

Walter Richard Born 1628 at Trevrane, Pembrokeshire, Wales Died 1671 Will dated. 21 Sep 1671

Walter Justus Born 1631

Walter ? Born Abt 1650 Pembroke, Wales, Wales

Walter Lucy Born 1630 at Haverfordwest, Pembrokeshire, Wales Died 1658 at Paris, Seine, France but other authorities suggest that Walters, Lucy the wife — or, as some say, the mistress — of Charles II, and mother of the Duke of Monmouth, was born at Rosemarket. The house known as "The Great House" was the conjectured place of her birth. She also used the name Barlow.

Arch Camb 1898

From Pepys Diary 27th Oct 1662 " There has been much confusion as to the name and parentage of Charles's mistress." Lucy Walter was the daughter of William Walter of Roch Castle, co. Pembroke, and Mr. S. Steinman, in his "Althorp Memoirs" privately printed, 1869, sets out her pedigree. Roch Castle was taken and burnt by the Parliamentary forces in 1644, and Lucy was in London in 1648, where she made the acquaintance of Colonel Algernon Sidney. She then fell into the possession of his brother, Colonel Robert Sidney. In September of this same year she was taken up by Charles, Prince of Wales.

Charles terminated his connection with her on October 30th, 1651, and she died in 1658, as appears, by a document administration entry in the Register of the Prerogative Court met with by the late Colonel Chester. William Erskine, who had served Charles as cupbearer in his wanderings, and was appointed Master of the charterhouse in December, 1677, had the care of Lucy Walter, and buried her in Paris. He declared that the King never had any intention of marrying her, and she did not deserve it. Thomas Ross, the tutor of her son, put the idea of this claim into his head, and asked Dr. Cosin to certify to a marriage. In consequence of this he was removed from his office, and Lord Crofts took his place
Steinman's "Althorp Memoirs".

In the History of Haverfordwest - John Brown writes "It is an historical question of unreal doubt" I am quoting the words of a gentleman who devoted a considerable amount of research to the matter "whether Lucy Walters was lawfully wedded to Charles II. There were some very singular circumstances connected with Court intrigues which favour the supposition.

That Charles, when questioned on the subject, gravely denied it, is true but His Majesty was not distinguished by a very strict regard to truth. It is matter of fact that the reigning house had lasting and grave doubts upon the subject. It is further recorded that Katharine of Portugal, the wife of Charles, had a firm conviction of the legitimacy of the unhappy Monmouth, and earnestly interceded with James II. for his life. There is another very remarkable circumstance connected with the affair. Some time antecedent to the middle of the 18th century, under high warrant from the Home Office, the marriage register of the Parish of St Thomas Haverfordwest, where the family of the Walter's resided for some time, was sent for to headquarters. No reason was assigned for the requirement by those who applied for these documents, but it was afterwards asserted, and with considerable confidence, by some who were likely to be well informed on the matter, that the register contained a record of a marriage which was solemnised a century before, which, if it had been proved, would have been of some consequence as regards the succession of the House of Brunswick. It is now, of course, only a romance of history, but the register was never returned!"

According to notes in The Diary of Samuel Pepys for October 1662.

"At that time there was speculation that young Croft is the lawful son of the King , the King being married to his mother." So even at that period of time there was suspicions as to the legitimacy of the future Duke of Monmouth.

James , the son of Charles II. by Lucy Walter , daughter of William Walter, of Roch Castle, was born April 9th, 1649, and landed in England with the Queen-Mother, July 28th, 1662, when he bore the name of Crofts, after Lord Crofts, his governor. He was created Duke of Monmouth, February 14th, 1663, and married Lady Anne Scott, daughter and heiress of Francis, second Earl of Buccleuch, on April 20th following. In 1673 he took the name of Scott, and was created Duke of Buccleuch.

Then there is a footnote to the Dairy entry saying that "There has been much confusion as to the name and parentage of Charles's mistress. Lucy Walter was the daughter of William Walter of Roch Castle, co. Pembroke,..... Roch Castle was taken and burnt by the Parliamentary forces in 1644, and Lucy was in London in 1648, where she, at the age of seventeen was the mistress of Algernon Sidney a Roundhead officer. In September of that year in the Netherlands she met his younger brother, a Royalist exile, Robert Sidney, and this same year she was taken up by Charles, Prince of Wales. A son was born in April 1649 called James whom Charles acknowledged as his. although as the relationship had been off and on during the period there could have been some doubts. Certainly there was over the daughter Mary born in 1651 as she had relationships with two other members of the Court at that time. Charles terminated his connection with her on October 30th, 1651. The Queen-Dowager taking charge of her two children.

In 1655 Lucy was pensioned off with an annuity of £400

In 1656, the year Richard Walters, was High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire, Lucy came to London, where she was arrested as a spy and put in the Tower. She was soon afterwards released, and eventually went entirely to ruin abroad. She died in Paris 1658 as appears by a document administration entry in the Register of the Prerogative Court aged about 28. She was buried in the Huguenot Cemetery Paris and Letters of Administration were granted 6 Dec 1658

As Pepys said – "How true this is, God knows"

- I certainly don't as there are so many conflicting records.

.....

Walter Margaret 1663? Pembroke married Henry Dawes they has a son Francis she was from Roch WWHR 1915

Walter Richard 1656 of Roach Castle descended from an Essex family intermarried with the Laugharnes and Warrens
– 1656 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Walter Henry died before 1727 wife Bridgett bequeathed the Roch and Rosemarket estates to eldest son Richard Walter

Walter Richard Sir eldest son of Henry and Bridgett inherited the estates of Roch and Rosemarket in 1727 Walter Richard Sir Kt of Rhos Market 1727 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire and died by 1733. He had a son and heir Joseph

Walter Joseph 1733 inherited the estates of Roch and Rosemarket in 1733 from his father Sir Richard Walter -Joseph married Elizabeth Barlow -- he died in 1746 She then married Alexander Eliot of Eareweare Amroth

Butterhill

de la Roche Richard 1358 --- his bailifs, to take seisin for him of the manors of Manorbier and Penally, to which he had succeeded on the death of Avice de Barri this seems to be the same person as the David de Barri mentioned in the Barri paper, and in the Irish records we hear of a William Roche de Barri, which shows that the two families had got somehow mixed up. The Pembrokeshire family in time called themselves Roch and passed through Rickerston to Clareston and to Butter Hill, Llether, and Paskeston.

Roch Thomas 1760 of Butter Hill High Sheriff of had son Roch George

Roch George 1841 of Butter Hill son of George Roch by Mary daughter and co-heiress of William Jones of Llether -High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1841-they had son William Francis

Roch William Francis 1841 of Butter Hill near Haverfordwest son of George Roch

Roch George 1841, March –George Lort Phillips of DumbleDale, Isabella Georgina Allen of Cresselly, spinster, John Hensleigh Allen of Cresselly, esq., Seymour Phillips esq., George Roch of Butterhill, esq., John Henry Philipps of Williamston, esq., and Henry George Fownes of the Middle Temple, London, esq., barrister at law, now residing in Haverfordwest. Settlement on the marriage of the said George Lort Phillips and Isabella Georgina Allen of the Lawrenny estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

Other Names

Allen John 10 August 1817 Labourer Offence Theft of sheep, Prisoner aged 27, Roch
Prosecutor Berry, John Roch, farmer Verdict Guilty to the value of 5/-, Punishment Death recorded Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830, Barbor Johannes 1534 clericus est vicarius Roch Church Valor Eccl.

Codd Thomas 1 June 1789 Woolcock Lettice, a servant, aged thirteen, by chance-medley. The girls employer, Nicholas Thomas, of Roch, was obliged to have his leg cut off, having broken it a year previously. In order to meet the cost he organized a meeting for shooting at a target for a bridle and a saddle. The girl crossed the prisoners path whilst he fired the gun. Roch, Prosecutor Davies William, Roch, constable Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Cole David 1489, 17 January On 17 January, 1489, by the said vicar one Sir David Cole was admitted to the vicarage of Roche and instituted in the same according to the form of the legatine constitutions etc. the vicarage being then vacant by the resignation of Sir Pery

Thomas , last vicar there, on the presentation of the prior of Pill and the convent of the said house etc.-----

Cole David deprivation 1491, 4 February . Vaghan Thomas , On 4 February in the year as above, at Llamphey, one Thomas , Vaghan , chaplain, was admitted to and instituted in the perpetual vicarage of the parish Church of Roch then vacant by the deprivation of Sir David Cole last vicar there, on the presentation of the prior and convent of Pill, patrons of the vicarage.

Grant Moses 1800 Jun 5 1799 Apr 15 Vicar Roch Church. Owen & Colby MS 2150.

Griffith Elizabeth 2 November 1807 Roch, Servant Offence Theft of wheat from the dwelling house of prosecutor, her employer, Roch, Prosecutor Williams John, Roch, farmer Verdict Guilty, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Lallis Richard 16 Dec 1782 Simpson Hill Roch Pembrokeshire died 17 Nov 1864 Haverfordwest Pembrokeshire Married to Thomas , Dorothy on 11 May 1830 at Haverfordwest, Pembrokeshire, Wales may have Immigrated. Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Lloyd Edward 1536 7 of the Household lease for 21 years rectory of Roch State Papers

Longueville Henry 1577 May 14 Langum Manor and Manor of de Rupe (Roch) "free tenant who held of the Queen as of her Castle and Lordship of westHaverford by knight service, suit of court at the Castle gate and relief without paying rent" Survey of the Lordship of Haverford in 1577- H Owen- Arch Camb 1903

Malefant Walter c1244 , who married de la Roche Avice, and as Upton was part of the great possessions of the de la Roche s, it may have come to the Malefants by this marriage.

Morgan Grace 6 May 1735 Roch Singlewoman Offence Infanticide of her bastard child. Roch Guilty. Pleads pregnancy Punishment , death, pardoned, transported for life Before the Courts Pembrokeshire 1730 to 1830

Owen John 1662?Nov 27 Roch co Pembroke MA Vicar of Roch (12 Chas II p1 No 45) Ecclesiastical appointments Patent Rolls Charles II Arch Camb 1886

Perrot John 1398 17 May steward of the barony of la Roche Patent Roll21 Richard II pt 3 m 18 Cal p 342.

Reed Martha born 8 Jun 1820 Milford Haven died 8 Aug 1904 Salt Lake City Utah Left Liverpool on 27 Nov 1854 aboard the Clara Wheeler Arrived in New Orleans on 12 Jan 1855 Married to Twiggs, John on 24 May 1845 at Roch Pembrokeshire Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Rees Henry 1823 of Roch Haverfordwest purchased Pontfaen Major Francis Jones late Wales Herald Extraordinary.

Roch Nicholas 1731 Roch 1 son and 2 daughters inoculated by Richard Wright A letter from Mr Evan Davies to Mr John Eames FRS concerning some Children inoculated with the Smallpox at Haverfordwest in Pembrokeshire Internet Archives Pembrokeshire

Thomas Stephen 14 February 1771 Roch Yeoman Offence Assault. Roch Prosecutor Griffiths Samuel Verdict Discharged?. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Twigg John born 6 Jul 1819 Roch Pembrokeshire died 24 May 1888 Salt Lake City Utah Left Liverpool on 27 Nov 1854 aboard the Clara Wheeler Arrived in New Orleans on 12 Jan 1855 Married to Reed, Martha on 24 May 1845 at Roch, Pembrokeshire Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Twiggs William born 22 Jan 1804 Roch Pembrokeshire died 15 Jan 1854 Milford Haven Pembrokeshire Married to Reed, Mary on 29 Sep 1840 at Rickson Mills, Milford Haven, Pembrokeshire Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Vaghan Thomas 1491, 4 February . On 4 February in the year as above, at Llamphey, one Sir Thomas , Vaghan, chaplain, was admitted to and instituted in the perpetual vicarage of the parish Church of Roch then vacant by the deprivation of Sir David Cole last vicar there, on the presentation of the prior and convent of Pill, patrons of the vicarage.

Wade Henry 1 September 1773 the elder Roch Labourer Offence Theft of wool from prosecutor's dwelling house. Roch Prosecutor John Lawrence, Roch, weaver Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Webb Roger Roch. 1623 . Peasant Houses in Stuart Pembrokeshire Brian and John Howells 1980

Woolcock Lettice 1 June 1789 -Thomas Codd Nolton blacksmith/Yeoman Charged with Murder of Lettice Woolcock, a servant, aged thirteen, by chance-medley. The girl's employer, Thomas Nicholas Roch, was obliged to have his leg cut off, having broken it a year previously. In order to meet the cost he organized a meeting for shooting at a target for a bridle and a saddle. The girl crossed the prisoner's path whilst he fired the gun. Prosecutor Davies William Roch, constable Verdict No true bill. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Wright Richard 1731 Roch inoculated 3 children of Nicholas Roch A letter from Mr Evan Davies to Mr John Eames FRS concerning some Children inoculated with the Smallpox at Haverfordwest in Pembrokeshire

Roch Parish Hearth Tax 1670.

Walter	William.	Roch	H .
Waters	John . .	Roch	H
Duggen	Walter . .	Roch	H
Tasker	Richard . .	Roch	H 4
Roblin	John . .	Roch	H
Griffith	Richard. .	Roch	H

Griffith	John . .	Roch	H
Higdon	Henry. . .	Roch	H.
Bevan .	Lawrence	Roch	H .
Lullocke	John . .	Roch	H
Bevan	Lewis. . . .	Roch	H .
Nash	William. . .	Roch	H.
Rees	John . . .	Roch	H
Webbe	William. .	Roch	H 2
Reede	Richard . . .	Roch	H
Thomas	William .	Roch	H
Moris	Thomas . . .	Roch	H 2
Evan	John . .	Roch	H
Goodman .	Thomas .	Roch	H
Gastred	Elizabeth.	Roch	H 2
Morice	William. .	Roch	H
Jenkin	Richard . .	Roch	H 2. .
Ormond	William	Roch	H
Thomas	Hugh . . .	Roch	H
Stokes .	Anthony.	Roch	H 4
Stephens .	Morgan.	Roch	H 4
Evans	Griffith .	Roch	H.
Edwards,	Jane widow .of Summer Hill	Roch	H 5
Reynbote	Thomas .	Roch	H 2
Tasker	Richard	Roch	H
Raymond	John . .	Roch	H
Evan	Thomas	Roch	H 3

Young	John. . .	Roch	H 3
Harris	Thomas . . .	Roch	P
Griffith	Francis	Roch	P
Griffith	John	Roch	P
Watkin	William.	Roch	P
Meredith .	Anne	Roch	P
Gwynne	Alice . .	Roch	P
David	Anne	Roch	P
Howell .	Rowland.	Roch	P
Warlow	John	Roch	P
Warlow,	Mary widow.	Roch	P
Owen	Thomas . .	Roch	P
Stephens	Rees . .	Roch	P
Jenkins .	Alban.	Roch	P
John	Thomas . .	Roch	P
Seare	Francis. .	Roch	P
William	Lewis . .	Roch	P
Thomas .	Thomas	Roch	P
Walter	Owen . . .	Roch	P
David	James	Roch	P
Bowen	John	Roch	P
Walter .	Luke. . .	Roch	P
Martin .	Elizabeth.	Roch	P
David	John	Roch	P
Sayce .	Katherine .	Roch	P
Bevan	Thomas . . .	Roch	P

Raynbote	Anne. , .	Roch	P
Bevan .	William. .	Roch	P
Lawrence	John	Roch	P
Thomas .	William	Roch	P
Summer	Thomas . .	Roch	P

.....

Places of interest

Kyffern [Cuffern] Fenton Tour 1811

Leave Roch Castle and after a short ride arrive at Kyffern the seat of its present proprietor, a handsom modern mansion, well placed with a rising ground to the north, and commanding in front a pleasing and not confined view of Haverfordwest, Picton Castle, and several shining reaches of Milford Haven; and to the west St Bride's Bay and the conspicuous fortress on the rock. Though much exposed to the sea breeze, the place is prettily wooded, with an exception of a few old trees , being not above thirty years growth, and of so flourishing appearance as to give the greatest encouragement to the spirit of planting; I am sorry to say almost extinguished in this country. Here under this hospitable roof I lose the fatigues of the day, and next morning

Summerhill Fenton, Tours 1811

[Heading to the road from St Davids south along St Bride's Bay]

In doing this I pass Summerhill, a mansion once the residence of a respectable branch of the family of Edwards, descended from Tubor Trevor. Of this house was the gallant captain who held out a siege in Roch Castle against the parliament forces.

2000 Summerhill, Simpson Cross

Built from remains of old manor. Rubble farmhouse, grouted slate roof, 2 storey, 4 windows, whitened outside, good proportions. An 18th century farmhouse with an earlier core. 2 storeys, 4 window front, the walls are of rubble in clay. The roof is of grouted slate and stone chimneys have projecting dripstones. Small pane sash windows. RCAHMW

Hilton Fenton, Tours 1811

[Heading to the road from St Davids south along St Bride's Bay after Summerhill]

Leaving Hilton to the left , where formerly stood a Chapel of ease to the parish of Roch.

Coal Mining Roch Parish

Topographical Dictionary of Wales – Lewis 1839 There is a culm colliery in the parish [Near Nolton]

Southwood colliery North East of Roch Parish probably sunk in 1850's

Southwood Colliery owned in 1869 by Walkers and Canton

Southwood Colliery Roch Estate accounts re work at 1859–1880 owned in 1878 by Canton and Roberts, manager D Canton

1879 23 July Mining accident John Powell collier age 15 killed by a roof fall

1880 Thomas Lallis age 42 killed in Mining accident.

Southwood Colliery Roch Estate accounts 1864–1882

Southwood Colliery Lease of coal seams at and use of the engine 1860s

Southwood Colliery 1884 owned by Thomas Walters

Eye pool Colliery (near Southwood)

Black Cliff Colliery – in 1899 employed 35 men. Coal was drawn to the surface along a tramline in drams. Four women were employed on the surface hitching and unhitching the drams. The last coal for sale dug in 1907.

Engine Pit, Colliery Roch Estate accounts re work at 1859–1880

Folkstone Pit coal mine-workings

Folkestone Colliery Lease 1840

Folkestone Colliery Accounts of 1848–1849

Rickets Head Colliery

Simsons Colliery 1836 Sale particulars of

Gouts Colliery Roch Estate accounts re work at 1859–1880

Gouts Colliery Roch Estate accounts 1864–188

Trefane Cliff Colliery

St Caradoc's Chapel nr Trevane Colliery RCAM [culm pits]

The site of that at Trevan is marked on the 6" Ordinance Map as being on Newgale sands, about half a mile north of Trefrane Colliery and close to culm pits, which have practically obliterated the site . It is probably to be identified with a shallow oblong depression which is traceable in dry weather. --visited 13th April 1921

Trefrane Cliff Colliery Coal mine opened in 1850's by Thomas and Canton. It had incline shafts 50 fathoms deep In 1896 was worked by Walters and Canton and employed 8 surface workers and 28 underground.

Trefrane Lease of mineral rights 1912–1914 – Roch Estate correspondence

2000 - Trefran Cliff Colliery ---Colliery surface features of Trefran Cliff Colliery including a chimney stack, a presumed engine house and spoil heap.

According to tradition, the workings at Trefran extend out beneath the waters of St Brides Bay and the colliers could hear the waves breaking on the cliffs in stormy weather.

1921 RCAM

Cromlech

In the field next west of Roch Casatle are two upright stones which would appear from their relative positions to be supporters of a cromlech. They stand about 5ft clear of the soil, and are 70 feet apart. The capstone could not be found - visited 11 May 1921

Slade Camp (Hill Fort)

A horse-shoe enclosure 100yds w west of the farmhouse of Middle Slade. It overlooks a gorge through which runs a little stream that here divides the parishes of Roch and Brawdy. The defences consist of a single rampart and ditch. The bank rises about 6ft from the level of the enclosure and falls 12 ft to the ditch which is seen at its best to the north east where it has a depth of 5ft and a counterscarp of 4ft. The side overhanging the gorge has a length of 250 ft. the entrance to the northeast has been disturbed, as has the rampart in several places – visited 5th May 1921

Lady Well

This is doubtless the well associated with the parish Church, which is dedicated to St Mary . There are no signs of stonework around it, and no traditions concerning its healing Properties could be gathered – visited 3rd May 1921

Cuffern Cromlech

Until a few years ago, when it colapsed, what was probably one of the supporting stones of a cromlech stood on the west side of Cuffern Rock, on the south eastern slope of Cuffern mountain.

It is described as having "rested on a single stone, the side being supported by a rock. It fell in the memory of men now living (Pem Arch Survey.) Many boulders lie scattered around – visited 29th September 1920.

Cuffern Manor; Cuffern Hotel

18th century large house. Stucco. 3 storey. Welsh slate roof. 7 windows. Central door with Doric portico and fanlight. Interior, room with early 18th century panelling. RCAHMW

Cuffern Mountain, Cropmark Enclosure

Cropmarks of a sub-circular ditched enclosure, in the region of 60m across, occupying a niche on the south-west facing slopes of Cuffern Mountain, with rising ground immediately to the north. RCAHMW

Cuffern Mountain, Enclosure; Slade Camp

A sub-oval earthwork enclosure, 90m north-east to south-west by 60m, resting on steep valley slopes to the north-west, defined elsewhere by a bank and ditch, having a south-west facing entrance. RCAHMW

Bathesland Church Hill

At the site marked on the 6in Ordinance Sheet as that of a Church is an oblong depression which may mark the foundations of a building. About 500 yds to the south west is a well known as "the holy well" and midway between the site and the well is another unnamed spring. Immediately due south is the farm of Bathesland. The name suggests a well of reputed sanctity, with a Chapel or well chamber pertaining to it – visited 3rd May 1921

Church Hill

The site of a Church at Church Hill has been variously noted during the twentieth century. RCAHMW aerial reconnaissance during March 2002 has revealed two denuded circular enclosures on the Hill with rectangular earthworks to the east, suggesting complex remains. RCAHMW

Roch Mill RCAHMW,

Roch Mill is a low rubblestone building, approximately 6 x 5 metres and probably dating from the late eighteenth/early nineteenth century, attached to the mill house. A mill existed on this site by 1297, when it belonged to the estate of Roch Castle. The mill was still working in the early 1950s, producing animal feed.

Most of the mill machinery appears to have been replaced in 1868, from a date on the very short wooden upright shaft. The 12ft (3.6 metres) diameter overshot waterwheel had six wrought iron spokes and was mounted on a 4-inch (0.1m) square iron axle.

Rosebush,

Rosebush Slate Quarry.

The only undertaking in the region to operate on a really large Scale (albeit briefly) and certainly the only one to have its own railway.

The early history is obscure, it does seem that T.R. Hutton also took rights to this land when he commenced at Bellstone in 1837. It is not known if he worked here or even if any quarrying had been done at this time, but it is unlikely that such obvious outcrops could have been ignored. In 1842 the land was bought by William Young but again we do not know what work if any was done and in 1862 he sold on to William Williams, a Narberth Draper. Williams must have died soon afterwards as in 1863 his widow, Mary, let it to John Davies and William Keylock.

In October the following year this item appeared in the Mining journal:

-There are several rather valuable veins of slate in the northern district of Pembrokeshire and some 20 or 30 years ago the extensive quarries on the breast of the Precelly mountains near Maenclochog were worked and an enormous capital sunk there. These quarries either from want of capital, bad management or some other cause have ceased working for a number of years until a short time ago they were started by a London company and a good many hands are now employed. The same company have taken or are in treaty for commencing to work other quarries in the same county including Llangolman, LLandilo, Tyrch &c. The extraordinary demand for slates has, no doubt, been the chief inducement in taking these quarries and it is to be hoped that they will turn out profitable to the enterprising speculators.

This report like so many in the Mining Journal at the time would have been submitted by the promoters and the style of this one is redolent of John Davies himself and refers to the Rosebush Slate Co. which he and Keylock set up, obtaining capital from amongst others, a Mr Hodges.

Serious work must have been intended as some trouble was taken to obtain a reduction in royalty from 1/8th ad valorem to 1/16th. A Benjamin Rees was manager. Shortly afterwards there was a further brief item in the Mining Journal naming the Rosebush company, saying that "An enormous amount of capital has been sunk a short time ago". Most of this enormous amount of capital was the £8000 which Davies and Keylock reputedly received for the lease!

In spite of a firm Market, transport costs and royalties meant they were on a loser. They did negotiate with a Josiah Thomas to take over their lease but this fell through and the company wound up in 1868.

In 1869 Edward Cropper, a retired Manchester businessman living in Kent heard of the quarry through his step-son Joseph Macaulay who had business interests in the county. In spite of advanced age and ill health he bought the freehold from Mrs Williams for £3750 and bought the plant, such as it was from the receivers of Rosebush Slate for £800. His purchase of the freehold not only freed him from rent and royalties, but also gave him security of tenure which enabled him to invest freely in infrastructure. With ample means and no shareholders hungry for instant profits he was able to take a long view on such investment, which notably included the Narbeth road and Maenclochog Railway.

He put Macaulay in charge, assisted by William Pritchard, by now the most experienced manager in the county, whose job at Cronllwyn had just fallen through. Wisely ignoring pre-existing work, an opening was made part-way up the hillside on new ground to the south, working on 4 terraces. All Tipping of waste was to the north, good block being taken to the south by tramways on each level. A self-acting incline brought material from levels 1 and 2 down to level 3 and another from 3 to 4. Roofing slate being made on levels 3 and 4.

It was on these upper levels that Macaulay's ingenuity over-rode Pritchard's experience when a windmill was erected apparently to drive dressing machines. The windmill was damaged in a storm before drive-gear could be devised and the dressing machines were never powered.

A further incline lowered finished product to the ground level stock yard and block to a mill which had 4 saws and 3 planers, driven by a Francis water turbine via underfloor shafting. A contemporary report said that: "This machinery did its work famously and required but few hands".

When working progressed downward below level 4, rubbish was removed via a tunnel on level 5, a tunnel on level 6 drained, carried block to the mill and rubbish to the tip. It also provided an exit for roofing slates made in the pit. Latterly, slates were made in the mill using a treadle operated slate dresser thus forming, albeit in miniature, the only example in south Wales of an Integrated Mill, processing both slab and roofing slate.

Water supply for the mill was obtained by damming the original working, fed by an inverted siphon from Mynydd Du to the north. The tailrace supplied the quarrymen's cottages as well as Macaulay's own house.

In 1878 no less a person than C.E. Spooner (of Ffestiniog Railway fame), was called in to advise on further development. It is a tribute to the soundness of the methods that the only advice he could give was to acquire more tipping ground adjacent to the level 6 tunnel.

The quarry was one of the best planned in Wales and after the opening of the railway, one of the very few able to load directly into standard gauge wagons. Its workforce of well over 100 and its near 5000 ton output dominated the Pembrokeshire scene. The principal product was slab said to have been in sizes up to 7 x 4 x 4. Offcuts were used to make items such as inkstands, letter weights and chessboards, which were sent to Langer, Powell & Magnus at Buckingham Palace road , London for enamelling.

The 26 cottages which still form Rosebush Terrace were models of their kind. Though having only one room above the other and a lean-to kitchen, with their slate roofs and flagged floors, they were much superior to the sort of earth floored hovel that most of the men must have been accustomed to, and let at £2 p. a. were much sought after.

Unfortunately even before the railway opened in 1877, the price of slate which had advanced almost every year since Cropper's purchase, collapsed. Besides which, with the Market moving into surplus, buyers became more choosy, opting for the more fashionable north Wales products. Up to the time of his death in 1879 it was estimated that Cropper had spent £22,000 at Rosebush and that his gross revenues had not greatly exceeded a third of that figure.

By 1880 the trade press euphemistically suggested that this quarry could do with more trade, as indeed also could the railway. Even at its peak, the quarry output would have scarcely filled 10 wagons per week. Under-utilised and burdened by the GWR's £500 p. a. charges at Narberth road (later Clynderwen), the railway closed in 1882. With both price and demand in a steepening downward spiral. Rosebush's brief glory was effectively over.

Edward Cropper's widow Margaret had married landowner Col. John Owen, son of Sir Hugh Owen. They tried to offset the quarry's decline by energetically promoting the health giving Properties of the Maenclochog air. They publicised the facilities of Precelly Hotel and put lakes and fountains, (fed by the mill supply) in their own garden to amuse visitors. The visitors may have been amused by the fountains, but the Colonel does not appear to have been amused by the visitors. Shortly after his death in 1890 Margaret wrote quoting him as having said: "Not one word can be said in favour of them. They cheat the nation, they defraud the Railway Companies of their fares, they bilk the turnpikes. No corn, no hay are wanted, no ostler to be paid, no posting, no coaching required. A pint of beer perhaps the only harvest of the town through which they pass".

These dreadful parasites were cyclists!

Some of them, it was alleged even propped their bicycles against the hotel wall to eat their sandwiches.

The re-opening of the railway in 1884 failed to restore the quarry's fortunes. Macaulay moved away. Cropper's elder son James was a professional soldier and his younger son Edward took little interest in matters at Rosebush. By 1887 William Pritchard's son Alfred had leased the quarry and moved into the 9 roomed manager's house, with the adjacent village shop being run by his two sisters.

By this time not all the cottages could be let and one was used as an office. Before the end of the 80s the railway had closed again and the quarry was idle. In 1889 an attempt was made to sell them both. There were no takers for the railway and the best that could be done with the quarry as a let at a nominal £1 p. a. as a source of tip material. In 1891 with the Market recovering, Pritchard investigated the prospects for a revival. It was estimated that there was a potential for 1300 tons p. a. of roofing slates, 500 tons of slab and 3500 tons of rough block. To produce this would require another tunnel to fully work the 6 levels and a second turbine in the mill would call for doubling up on the supply pipe. With the prospect of this costing £5000 and faced with cartage costs to Fishguard of 15/- per ton, nothing was done. By 1895 when the railway reopened as the North Pembroke and Fishguard Railway, Pritchard was busy re-opening Gilfach.

Most of the quarry property was now owned by Joseph Rowlands a Birmingham solicitor, although Rosebush Terrace was bought by the Rev. Albert and Mr Walter Hughes.

In the early 1900s the Misses Pritchard were still running the shop, but apart from renting a stable, Pritchard himself had severed all connection. Some desultory work was done until c.1905 by Griffith Williams who rented both Rosebush and Bellstone at £6. 5. p. a.

There was an amusing episode in 1904 when several women living in Rosebush Terrace, broke fences to extend their gardens onto quarry land. It appears from extant correspondence that Williams found these ladies intimidating neighbours and they may well have precipitated his departure.

In 1908 when this quarry and Bellstone came up for sale. Col. Owen's daughter Edith bought them for £720 with the intention of finding a tenant to work them. She was unsuccessful.

Remains: The site abuts Bellstone, the most obvious relic being the plastered walls of the fine mill building. In one corner the mill is the pit for the water turbine. The ruined loco shed on the other side of the railway track bed matches the style of the mill. Maps show a subsidiary building to the south of the mill and a range of buildings behind the engine shed, but almost all trace of these has been lost. Also prominent are the abutments of the bridge which carried the Tipping line from 5 tunnel over the railway.

On levels 3 and 4 most of the 10 or 12 dressing sheds survive, several paired back-to-back. Where such a layout, rarely seen outside north east Wales, was adopted they were normally of different sizes, the larger being intended for slab dressing, the smaller for roofing slate. These are of identical dimensions suggesting that roofing slate was worked in one or the other according to wind direction.

On the south side of the quarry are the three much degraded inclines.

Both tunnels are open at the quarry ends; however the one on level 6 which emerged on the level is blocked at its outer end. The level 5 tunnel has a nice arch at its outer end but being partly through waste is supported by crossbars and props of light railway rails which have collapsed at one point. There is a partly flooded tunnel entering the working face at level 4 which may have been a pre-existing metal mine. Above level 1 there is some trial working.

All trace of the windmill on the Hill above has been obliterated by forestry. At level 2, cut by the workings, is a leat which may have been an early water supply.

The access track to the original (pre-Cropper) working is prominent and the pit still holds water. Some pipework is visible, both here and up valley to the north. Some distances away on the flat ground to the west, a powder house survives.

The houses of Rosebush Terrace, along the rail line to the quarry, are still occupied, several with the original slates on the roofs. At the end is the manager's house, now a cafe, and abutting it is the Misses Pritchard's shop. Local legend has it that their customers were required to drop their coins through a hole in the counter into a basin of water, so that they were cleaned before the ladies handled them. Since 1972 the dwellings have been on mains water, a matter of complaint at the time as apart from having to pay, the occupiers complained that the public supply was inferior to the quarry water.

The corrugated iron Precelly Hotel, now renamed - Tafarn Sine - is still very much in business and the station partly reconstructed. Mr Gareth Williams, besides restoring the water gardens has at last, with his caravan park, succeeded in promoting the area as a tourist destination. Mr William's grandfather Griffith Williams was the quarry's maintenance man. When he took up his appointment he walked from Porthgain having sailed there from Porthmadog which he had reached by walking from Aberdaron.

In 1940, Pembrokeshire like the rest of the country was getting ready for imminent invasion. Panic measures were taken Throughout the area; all signposts were taken away and hid-in a safe place and people placed strips of adhesive on windows to stop flying glass in the event of an explosion.

Steel ropes, supported by barrels, were placed across the reservoir at Rosebush, to stop landings by enemy gliders and the reservoir itself was guarded by the Home Guard. The area was also used for shooting practice, whilst an anti-Tank ambush was constructed in a field above the New Inn. The figures 44, made of White stones, had been placed on a hillside by one of the regiments stationed at Rosebush and they were demolished by the police as they formed a landmark for enemy planes.

On a clear moonlit night, enemy planes used to follow the Welsh coastline on their way to bomb Liverpool and Merseyside. Searchlights were a familiar sight, and one these units was sited near Maenclochog, as well as an Observer Corps unit. There was always the threat of gas warfare and children had to carry their gasmasks with them to school.

Several planes crashed into the Preseli Mountains during the war including a Liberator and a Flying Fortress.

The highest peak, Foel Cwm Cerwyn, is only 1760ft above sea level but altitude instruments on those planes were not up to today's standards.

On the night of August 29/30th, 1940 German bombers dropped bombs on Morvil Mountain, including one time bomb which went off at 8 the following morning. Later on in the war the railway line between New Inn and Rosebush was used for practice bombing by the R.A.F. This was done to find out the extent of damage done to railways in France by British bombers.

Due to its geographical location Pembrokeshire played an important part in the Battle of the Atlantic and thousands of American troops were stationed at Rose Bush and nearby villages.

Rosemarket,

Iron age Hill fort, Celtic style Church

Under Norman rule the Pembrokeshire landscape underwent great changes, particularly in the south where large numbers of peasant settlers, many from Flanders, colonised the area in the twelfth century. New villages were established on a planned lay-out. Rosemarket, near Neyland, is one of several around Milford Haven founded on Norman lines, typically laid out along a main street, with a Church, village Green and nearby open fields which have now been enclosed. It was sited close to a circular Iron Age fort, possibly re-fortified at this time.

David Leighton, RCAHMW, 13 November 2008

Rosemarket . A large South Pembrokeshire village, overlooked by most of the guide-books. Once an important Market, the village has an Iron Age Hill-fort a Celtic-style Church, and (unusually) a network of village Streets.

1839 RhôsMarket (Rhôs-Market) Topographical Dictionary of Wales 1839 Lewis

A parish, in the hundred of Rhôs, union and county of Pembroke, South Wales, 4 miles (E. N. E.) from Milford; containing 473 inhabitants. This parish comprises a moderate extent of arable and pasture land, the whole inclosed and in a good state of cultivation; the surface is undulated, and in some parts hilly. Its situation, about half-way between Haverfordwest and Milford affords great facility for conveying its agricultural produce to Market. The living is a discharged vicarage, rated in the King's Books at £4, endowed with £200 royal bounty, and in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor; present net income, £106; impropiator, G. S. Roch, esq.: the vicar, in addition to the small tithes, has the tithe of hay. The Church, dedicated to St. Ishmael, is not distinguished by any architectural details of importance. There is a place of worship for Independents, with a Sunday school held in it. In the village are the remains of an ancient mansion, formerly the seat of the family of Walters, and in which was born Lucy, daughter of Sir Richard Walters, the favourite mistress of Charles II., and mother of the unfortunate Duke of Monmouth: the ruins of this mansion are now the property of Mrs. Owen Barlow, who is the principal proprietor of land in the parish

1895 Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire Timmins

Rosemarket, a primitive -looking village where, in the days of the Stuarts, dwelt a certain fair maid named Lucy Walters.

Here at the age of seventeen 'that browne, beautifull.bold but insipid creature,' as Evelyn calls her, was discovered by the gay Prince Charlie, who was so fascinated by the young lady's charms that he bore her away with him in his cavalcade.

Lucy's grandfather it is said constructed a fine genealogical tree, in which that gay lady figures as ' married to King Charles y" Seconde of England.'

The house where Lucy Walters' father lived has long since disappeared, the only relics of that period being probably the old stone pigeon-house east of the village, and the parish cockpit !

Rosemarket acc to RCAM

The parish is in the Welsh district or cantref of Rhos, which form is frequently converted into Ros, Rose, or Roose. The name means an unenclosed and uncleared area covered with heath and wild undergrowth, the Rhos usually formed the open ground where the tribal flocks of cattle and swine were depastured.

Pembrokeshire is a county of Rhosydd, and it is probable that the district to the north and west of Milford Haven was known particularly as Y Rhos by reason of its wide extent. The Welsh name Rhos commonly took the form of Rose in English documents, and Rose-Market doubtless denotes the site of a common meeting place for barter of stock and commodities within or on the border of the Rhos.

Fenton Tours P 197

Proceeding to Ros Market, a village now of very mean appearance lying on the edge of a cheerful little Valle well wooded and watered by a small stream, but which was once of more consequence than one would be induced to suppose from its present state, for in deeds which I have seen there are streets referred to in it. Here Sir Richard Walter had a mansion, whose remains speak it to have been highly respectable about a century ago, and possessing all the appendages of a great man's house in those days.

A daughter of the gentleman who resided here, the celebrated Miss Lucy Walter, was a favourite of Charles the Second, and mother to the unfortunate Duke of Monmouth.

In this village was born Doctor Zachary Williams, the father of Miss Williams, the blind lady who had for many years lived under Doctor Johnston's roof and survived all his other pensioners, died an inmate of his 6th September 1780.

The father was brought up to physic, but fancied that by an intuitive kind of penetration he had been fortunate enough to discover the longitude by magnetism, and fired by this idea and alluring prospect of splendid recompense, he quitted his business and his country, and accompanied by his only daughter, came to London about the year 1730; but soon his golden hopes ended in disappointment, and all he gained was admission into the charter House, which by some irregularity he soon forfeited, and was turned adrift on the wide world. In a narrative he published in 1749 he complains of his expulsion as injustice. In 1755 he published in Italian and English an account of an attempt to ascertain the longitude at sea, by an exact theory of the magnetic needle, written, as is supposed by Doctor Johnson, to whom he had imparted his afflictions, and translated by Baretti. Mrs Johnson became acquainted with his daughter, now totally blind, and found her possessed of qualities strongly recommencing her to her friendship. The effects of this friendship she enjoyed not long, for Mrs Johnson died; but it was more than supplied by a continuance of the doctor's regard for her, of which he gave the most convincing proof by getting Mr Sharp the surgeon to perform an operation on her eyes, usual in the case of cataracts; and during the time of its performance assigned her apartments in his own house, her own being small and inconvenient. The experience did not succeed, but she never after she left the doctor's house, their society producing mutual relief; the solitude of her blindness was cheered by his enlightening conversation, and the efficacy of this cheerfulness displayed in numberless soothing attentions on her part, served to alleviate his grief for the loss of his wife.

Before she became the object of the doctor's benevolence, she visited and was respected by, Lady Philipps and other ladies of her own country, who generally made her an annual present; but afterwards, by the co-operation of Mr Garrick, who gave her a benefit night at the theatre, and the produce of a subscription for a book of poems, a provision was made for future exigency, and her later days were rendered comfortable.

What the doctor thought of her living, and what he felt at her death, he briefly but forcibly expresses in a letter to Mrs Trale, dated September 22, 1780 "poor Williams has I hope seen an end of her afflictions; she acted with prudence and bore with fortitude.

Had she had good humour and prompt elocution, her universal curiosity and comprehensive knowledge would have made her the delight of all who knew her"

I had once the pleasure of passing a day in company with her and the great moralist, whom I found, contrary to my expectations from the character I had heard of him, affable, communicative, and not at all dictatorial; and making allowances for some awkward habits, peculiarities of gesture and dress, and a sort of constitutional characteristic growl, perfectly well bred.

Miss Williams, his blind protégée fully answered Lady Knight's account of her, for she displayed fine taste, a retentive memory, and strong judgement, and seemed to have various powers of pleasing.

She had all the nationality of her country, for finding I was a Welshman, she increased her attentions; but when she had traced me to Pembrokeshire, she drew her chair closer, took me familiarly by the hand, as if kindred blood tingled at her fingers ends talking of past times, and dwelt with rapture on Ros Market.

Rosemarket Church

The parish Church dedicated to St Ismael Acc/to Rhigyfarch's "Life of St David" an important member of the group of monks who founded the settlement at St David's Tradition and evidence of dedications suggest that he sailed from that area and landed at Monk Haven where he founded Eglwys Ismael, one of the seven "Bishop houses of Dyfed. From there he seems to have sailed further up stream to Westfield Pill. At Rosemarket he established a Christian site alongside the local settlement on "the Rings", a century before St Augustine came to convert the Saxons.

Present Church dates from the 12c. Built by the Norman/Flemish settlers who occupied the Welsh cantref of Rhos following the invasion of the area around 1108

Part of the development of a new Norman borough of "Romarche" the Rings was refortified as a Castle, a Market was established and it was linked by water with the Norman stronghold of Pembroke.

Church was rededicated to St Leonard

(acc to ecclesiastical records Tasker John 1489, 12 May . ----- On 12 May in the year aforesaid, at Lamphey the Rev. father collated to one Sir John Tasker chaplain the perpetual vicarage of the parish Church of St Leonard Rosemarket , vacant and in his collation by lapse and he instituted him etc. And he had Letters thereof etc.)

but later reverted to St Ismael Holy well alongside Barn Lane still called St Leonard's well

First written evidence of the Church 1145 but believed to have been completed 30 yrs earlier.

Simple "Celtic style" Nave almost certainly part of the original Church font of Norman design and may well be as old as the Church North Transept could well have been a late medieval memorial Chapel chancel may have been rebuilt

During restoration work in the mid 1800's an old tombstone was found in memory of a Walter Jordan was he a member of the Jordan family of Jordanston nearby (a Walter Jordan was Royal Attorney at the turn of the 14c with strong Pembrokeshire connections was he the founder of the townredd of Jordenston?)

Church and income given to the Knights of St John of Jerusalem by Alexander Rudapec at some time between 1115 and 1147 (one of the earliest recorded gifts to the Knights in Wales.)

A Commandery of the Order was established later in the century at Slebech , Robert , son of Godebert the Fleming of Rosemarket gave, with others, the whole vill of Rosemarket to the order. The Prior or Commander of Slebech became rector of Rosemarket and claimed the rectorial title tenth of all corn and hay from the parish was given to the Commandery. The Prior appointed a parish priest he and the Order were responsible for the upkeep of the chancel. Acc to A History of Rosemarket Church by Geoffrey Nicolle

This Church, together with the whole vill of ' Ros-marche,' mill and lands and all their appurtenances and liberties, was granted to Slebech Preceptory by the three barons, William, son of Haions, Robert, son of Godebert, and Richard, son of Tankard.—Anselm's Confirm. charter.

On the suppression of that house the patronage came into the hands of the Crown. In 1625 the rectory of RhosMarket was held by Sir John Stepney of Prendergast.—Inq. P.M. of Sir John Stepney, 2 Car. I. RhosMarke:

RoseMarkett.—Vicaria il)idem ex collacione precep-toris de Slebeche unde Willielmus Capriclie clericus est vicarius habens ibidem glebam et terras dominicales, Et valet eum fructibus et emolumentis communibus anais Clare £4 Inde deeima 8s.—Valor Encl.

On 10 July, 1656, the Commonwealth approved of the union of the parishes of Langwm, Rosemarket, and Freystrop—State Papers

Under the heading ' Livings discharged':—Ros Market alias Rosemarket V. (St Ishmael) Precept. Slebeche Prop.; The Prince of Wales. Clear yearly value, £15 King's Books, £4.—Bacon's Regis.

On 31 July, 1891, a faculty as obtained for the restoration of RhosMarket Church.

1920 The Parish Church dedicated to St Ismael RCAM

(The dedication is given in the Episcopal Register as Ecclesiastes parochialism Sc Leonardo de Mass-Market The Church was appropriated to the Hospitalises of Slebech by William the son of Haicons, Robert son of Godebert, and Richard son of Tankard, clearly members of a Viking family)

The Church consists of chancel 22 ½ ft by 15ft, nave 48ft by 20 ½ ft, north memorial Chapel 18ft by 13 ½ ft and a north porch. The chancel is connected with the Chapel by a plain vaulted passage lighted by a narrow slit' the round and plain chancel arch has taken the place of one that is described as having been low, rude and obtuse. On the south side is a plain squint. The arch between Chapel and nave is round headed. In the Chapel is an empty tomb recess, two ambreys and the remains of a mutilated piscina. The Norman font bowl of cushion type has been re-dressed and now stands on a modern base. The porch retains a stone bench on either side. In the restoration of 1891 a stone bench round three sides of the chancel was removed, as well as traces of the rood stairs.

visited 5th August 1920

Rhos Market (St. Ismael) 17 September. 1856. Glynne Arch Camb 1885

A very characteristic Church of the South Pembrokeshire kind. It has a nave and chancel, with no aisles; but a north transept, and a belfry at the west end ; a large north porch of rude construction, having a deformed outer arch ; and an ill-shaped, obtuse inner door, and stone benches. The windows are mostly wretched ; but at the end of the transept is a square headed one of Perpendicular character, and two lights. There are several original benches of stone against the walls. The arch to the north transept is rude and obtuse. The chancel-arch is also low, rude, and obtuse ; and there is a stone bench on each side of the chancel, returned, as at Marloes, on each side of the chancel arch. There is also the odd, vaulted passage of the lychnoscopic nature, from the north transept to the chancel, cutting off the Angle, and opening by a very flat arch. On the north of the chancel-arch are also the rood-steps. The transept is very long. On its walls are several stone brackets, and a square recess in the west wall. The font much resembles a cushion capital, upon an octagonal stem on three steps, but is not as early as Norman. The west end of the nave has no pavement, only the bare earth. The belfry resembles St. Ismael : a kind of shallow, oblong tower; the upper part, above the Church roof, perforated by two open arches for bells. The west window is much overgrown with ivy,

Rosemarket Arch Camb 1898 E Laws

Rosemarket Church. — Lucy Walters, the wife — or, as some say, the mistress — of Charles II, and mother of the Duke of Monmouth, was born at Rosemarket. The house known as "The Great House" was the conjectured place of her birth.

Here was also born Dr Zachary Williams, who invented the means for discovering the Longitude by magnetism. Dr. Williams was also the father of Miss Williams, the friend of Dr. Samuel Johnson, of whom the great lexicographer spoke so affectionately.

Rosemarket Church is entered by descending steps, and previous to its restoration steps also descended from the nave to the chancel. There are very remarkable double hagioscopes in the Church, and outside there is a cross which probably rested on a tomb in the interior.

The font is Norman, and of the same type as those at St. Twinnells and at Castle Martin, in the neighbourhood of Pembroke. The ground plan of the Church consists of a nave, chancel, and north transept. The building belongs to the smaller type of Pembrokeshire Church, without any Bell-tower.

Circa 1145, the three barons; William, son of Haion, Robert, son of Godebert, and Richard, son of Tancard, gave to the Hospitallers the whole vill of Rosmarche with, the Church, mill and lands, with all their appurtenances and liberties.

David, Bishop of St Davids (1147-76) confirmed to the Brethren the Church of Rosmache.

In 1230, Bishop Anselm confirmed the gift of the Church of Rosmarthe.

In 1338, the Preceptor of Slebech received from RosMarket rent of one water-mill ; £2 -rent of a fulling-mill ; and £24 from the Church and glebe-land.

The 1434 list repeats the above particulars of the original donation.

In 1535, the Knights were in receipt of £4 13s. 4. from their manor of RoseMarkett, and from the Church there. William Capriche was vicar "by collation of the Preceptor of Slebech", and his stipend amounted to £4, out of which he had to pay his tithe

As to the donors, William, son of Haion, was probably of the same blood as Robert Fitz Hamon, the invader of Glamorgan, and a near relative of William the Conqueror. I find that a certain William, son of Hamon, son of Vitalis, " one of them who came in with the Conqueror", built the Church of St. Mary Breden, in Canterbury, as his father, Hamon, had built that of St. Edmund, Ridigate, in the same city.

Robert, son of Godebert, the Fleming of Ros, was, I think, a nephew of Richard Fitz Tancard.*

For Richard, son of Tancard the Fleming, see under Garlandeston and Haverfordwest. (Fenton, p. 197 ; J. Rogers Rees, in the " Pembroke County Guardian".)

Non Conformist Chapel

Tabernacle Congregational Chapel was built before 1800, rebuilt in 1831 and restored in 1885. the present Chapel, dated 1831, is built in the Romanesque/Simple round-Headed style with a gable entry plan.

Names connected with Rosemarket

Clergy CCED and notes

1481 Sir John Tasker incumbent

1535 William Capriche

c1540 John Howell Involved in a court case John Baghe v John Howell re " Goods of complainant in the said vicarage

1579 Thomas Meredith

1613 Lewis Phillips MA

c1620 Harri Barbar MA

1627 John Prichard , Vicar

1634 Marco Carr , Vicar

1635 John Owens ejected on a charge of Drunkeness resumed the living c1660 resigned 1671

1640 Church in a "ruinous state." A Church rate was fixed by the wardens. According to some landowners it was fixed in more ways than one. Accusations were made that the assessment had been so arranged that the Churchwardens paid as little as possible. Some refused to contribute. Thomas Feild was eventually called before the Court of Arches to make him pay up.

1665 Thomas Price, Rector

1678 Richard Swain, Vicar

1674 Sir John Stepney was ordered to repair the Chancel roof under threat of loosing his rectorship

1709 Johannes Williams, Vicar Was this the grandfather of Anna Williams

1714 Johannes Williams, (Death)Vicar

1714 Thomas Davies, Vicar

1745 Thomas Davies, (cession)Vicar

1745 John Phillips, Vicar

1776 John Phillips , (natural death)Vicar

1776 Jordan , John Vicar

1778 Jordan , John (resignation)Vicar

1778 John Phillips , Vicar

1788 John Morris Stipendiary Curate

1795	Thomas Phillips ,	Stipendiary Curate
1802	John Phillips ,	(natural death)Vicar
1807	Church	was in "good order"
1802	James Saunders ,	Stipendiary Curate
1802	Benjamin Gibbon ,	Vicar
1811	William Lloyd ,	Stipendiary Curate
1813	Benjamin Gibbon ,	(natural death)Vicar
1813	Thomas Owen ,	Vicar
1825	Thomas Rees ,	Stipendiary Curate
1833	Thomas O Foley	MA
1835	William Edward Tucker	BA
1856	Silvanus Brigstocke
1875	John T Willis	BA
1879	Henry Davies
1883	Morgan Lewis Jones	BA
1898	John Henry Davies	MA
1903	T. Atterbury Thomas	BA
1935	Ifor James Jones	BA
1938	Arthur George Pettit	MA
1948	Cecil P Willis	BA
1951	J Oliver Evans	BA
1958	F V Stevens	BA
1964	David G Williams	BA also Rector of Freystrop
1974	Gwynfa Warrington
1978	John Hale	also Rector of Burton

RhosMarket

Stepney John
Stepney2 Car I

1625 Sir of Prendergast rectory of RhosMarket Inq P M of Sir John

Jenkins, Albert Edward: convicted at Shire Hall Haverfordwest on 2 Mar. 1950 of murder and sentenced to death.

The Notorious Case Of The Furze Hill Farm Murder 1949.

On 21st March 1950, the Rosemarket farmer Albert Edward Jenkins was convicted of killing his landlord, William Llewellyn. The jury at Pembrokeshire Assizes, consisting of two men and ten women, took less than two hours to reach their verdict.

Jenkins had denied the allegation. Throughout the trial, however the facts of the case were clear.

On the morning of 10th October 1949, Jenkins was visited by his landlord at his home, Lower Furze Hill Farm, in Rosemarket, Pembrokeshire. There was back rent owed and discussions were being held regarding Jenkins buying the farm. He claimed to have handed Llewellyn £1,050 that day: £50 for the rent, and the rest in order to purchase the farm. The cash was taken from a beam in the roof where Jenkins had kept it.

William Llewellyn never returned home and his wife subsequently alerted police. His body was found the next day, buried in a clay pit on Jenkin's land. The injuries to the body were terrible, revealing that he had been killed by a number of heavy blows.

According to the South Wales Evening Post, the judge pointed out to the jury that 'there was no evidence, no evidence of any eyewitnesses, but from the knowledge of affairs the jury would hardly expect in murder cases to find eyewitnesses. The evidence placed before them by the Crown was circumstantial and circumstantial evidence was often the best.'

The case for the prosecution was that Llewellyn was killed by Albert Jenkins. Despite what the accused man said about giving his landlord a considerable sum of money - and having a receipt to prove that the money did indeed pass hands - no cash was ever found on the body.

An officer of the Milk Marketing Board, Mr Cudd, had called at Lower Furze Hill Farm on the morning of 10th October and saw Albert Jenkins driving his tractor down the field. There was, he said, a large bundle on the box of the tractor, covered by tarpaulin and Jenkins 'looked rather wild.' Llewellyn's bicycle - on which he had arrived at the farm - was later found at nearby Neyland. Two Witnesses claimed that they had seen Jenkins riding a bicycle towards Neyland on the afternoon of 10th October, yet when he was later seen by a policeman, returning from Pembroke Fair, he was walking and there was no sign of the bicycle.

William Llewellyn's boots were also discovered buried in manure in the calve's cot at the farm, and leather laces on the murdered man matched two more laces found on Jenkins.

Earth taken from in front of Jenkin's house was, when tested, found to be saturated with human blood.

The prosecution case was clear. After obtaining a receipt for the money, Jenkins had clubbed the unlucky Llewellyn to death and reclaimed his money. He had then wrapped the body in tarpaulin and buried it in the clay pit. When the guilty verdict was given, Albert Jenkins gazed intently at the judge and remained unmoved during the proceedings.

With Albert Pierrepoint officiating, Jenkins was executed on the morning of 19th April 1950. At 9:25 a.m the main gate of Swansea Prison opened and two warders posted the declaration of the sheriff and a certificate from the surgeon at the door. A crowd of around thirty five local people stood outside.

Walter Rowland Born 1586 Parents William Walter and Jane nee Laugharne at, Cwmgigfran, Carmarthenshire, - wife – Frances Griffiths Born Abt 1590 at Trevrane, Pembrokeshire, Wales Parents Father-Ap Thomas ap Rhys Griffith Married Abt 1604 at Trevrane, Pembrokeshire, Wales
Died 25 Jul 1619 RhosMarket, Wales although some records The ancestors of Lucy Walters suggest he died at RhosMarket on 15 Nov 1645

Walter Lucy Born 1630 at great house RhosMarket, Pembrokeshire, Wales Died 1658 at , Paris, Seine, France

Walters, Lucy the wife — or, as some say, the mistress — of Charles II, and mother of the Duke of Monmouth, was born at Rosemarket. The house known as "The Great House" was the conjectured place of her birth. Also used the name Barlow.

Arch Camb 1898

From Pepys Diary 27 th Oct 1662 " There has been much confusion as to the name and parentage of Charles's mistress."

Lucy Walter was the daughter of William Walter of Roch Castle, co. Pembroke, and Mr. S. Steinman, in his "Althorp Memoirs" privately printed, 1869, sets out her pedigree.

Roch Castle was taken and burnt by the Parliamentary forces in 1644, and Lucy was in London in 1648, where she made the acquaintance of Colonel Algernon Sidney. She then fell into the possession of his brother, Colonel Robert Sidney. In September of this same year she was taken up by Charles, Prince of Wales. Charles terminated his connection with her on October 30th, 1651, and she died in 1658, as appears by a document administration entry in the Register of the Prerogative Court by the late Colonel Chester.

William Erskine, who had served Charles as cupbearer in his wanderings, and was appointed Master of the charterhouse in December, 1677, had the care of Lucy Walter, and buried her in Paris. He declared that the King never had any intention of marrying her, and she did not deserve it. Thomas Ross, the tutor of her son, put the idea of this claim into his head, and asked Dr. Cosin to certify to a marriage. In consequence of this he was removed from his office, and Lord Crofts took his place
Steinman's "Althorp Memoirs".

Lucy Walter took the name of Barlow during her wanderings.

Described as the "The RhosMarket siren" in "Rosemarket – A Village beyond Wales," a lecture by Geffrey Nicholle who suggests that she was born at the Big House,(but the big house is recorded by RCAM as a modern dwelling near the ruins of the Great House) Rosemarket.

Lucy was "wife or mistress" to Charles II, mother of the Duke of Monmouth, great granddaughter of Morris Walter and an ancestor of the late Princess of Wales Diana. He says Richard Fenton and all other established sources of Pembrokeshire history give Rosemarket as Lucy's birthplace.

More recently Roch Castle has been suggested, possibly because of its more romantic appeal to lady novelists. The Walter family owned both Properties, but the Roch claim does not appear to be based upon any fresh evidence. He gives a typical Pembrokeshire accepted view of Lucy Walter

In the History of Haverfordwest - John Brown writes "It is an historical question of unreal doubt" I am quoting the words of a gentleman who devoted a considerable amount of research to the matter "whether Lucy Walters was lawfully wedded to Charles II. There were some very singular circumstances connected with Court intrigues which favour the supposition.

That Charles, when questioned on the subject, gravely denied it, is true but His Majesty was not distinguished by a very strict regard to truth. It is matter of fact that the reigning house had lasting and grave doubts upon the subject. It is further recorded that Katharine of Portugal, the wife of Charles, had a firm conviction of the legitimacy of the unhappy Monmouth, and earnestly interceded with James II. for his life. There is another very remarkable circumstance connected with the affair. Some time antecedent to the middle of the 18th century, under high warrant from the Home Office, the marriage register of the Parish of St Thomas Haverfordwest, where the family of the Walter's resided for some time, was sent for to headquarters. No reason was assigned for the requirement by those who applied for these documents, but it was afterwards asserted, and with considerable confidence, by some who were likely to be well informed on the matter, that the register contained a record of a marriage which was solemnised a century before, which, if it had been proved, would have been of some consequence as regards the succession of the House of Brunswick. It is now, of course, only a romance of history, but the register was never returned!"

In her book "South Pembrokeshire" - another local author Mary Mirehouse, refers to Lucy Walters, as the daughter of Richard Walters of Treffgarn and Roch, - no mention of Rosemarket but says she became the mistress some say the wife of Charles II. She was then eighteen. There seems to be in my mind strong doubt as to where Lucy Walters was born but all agree she became the mistress or wife of the future Charles II. But how did a girl of respectable family in Pembrokeshire get to meet the future Charles II?

Again confusion....

Mary Mirehouse, says "In 1645, John Barlow of Slebech was taken prisoner in Pill Fort, near Milford Haven, by the Parliamentarians. Later, John Barlow accompanied the Marquis of Worcester to the Court of the exiled Charles II in Paris, and with him went his young kinswoman, Lucy Walters daughter of Richard Walters of Treffgarn and Roch, who assumed, on arrival in Paris, the name of Barlow" That she did use the name Barlow is an established fact.

Geffrey Nicholle suggests that, "Lucy's aunt, Margaret Gosfright, who after the Restoration took possession of some of the Walter land at Rosemarket, took her to Holland. Lucy's parents had separated and her aunt was married to a Dutchman. Whether Lucy and Charles met first in Holland or before is uncertain".

So many conflicting stories.....

According to notes in The Diary of Samuel Pepys for October 1662.

"At that time there was speculation that young Croft is the lawful son of the King, the King being married to his mother."

So even at that period of time there was suspicions as to the legitimacy of the future Duke of Monmouth. James, the son of Charles II. by Lucy Walter, daughter of William Walter, of Roch Castle, was born April 9th, 1649, and landed in England with the Queen-Mother, July 28th, 1662, when he bore the name of Crofts, after Lord Crofts, his governor. He was created Duke of Monmouth, February 14th, 1663, and married Lady Anne Scott, daughter and heiress of Francis, second Earl of Buccleuch, on April 20th following. In 1673 he took the name of Scott, and was created Duke of Buccleuch.

Then there is a footnote to the Dairy entry saying that "There has been much confusion as to the name and parentage of Charles's mistress. Lucy Walter was the daughter of William Walter of Roch Castle, co. Pembroke,..... Roch Castle was taken and burnt by the Parliamentary forces in 1644, and Lucy was in London in 1648, where she, at the age of seventeen was the mistress of Algernon Sidney a Roundhead officer. In September of that year in the Netherlands she met his younger brother, a Royalist exile, Robert Sidney, and this same year she was taken up by Charles, Prince of Wales.

A son was born in April 1649 called James whom Charles acknowledged as his. although as the relationship had been off and on during the period there could have been some doubts. Certainly there was over the daughter Mary born in 1651 as she had relationships with two other members of the Court at that time. Charles terminated his connection with her on October 30th, 1651. The Queen-Dowager taking charge of her two children.

In 1655 Lucy was pensioned off with an annuity of £400.

In 1656, the year Richard Walters, was High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire, Lucy came to London, where she was arrested as a spy and put in the Tower. She was soon afterwards released, and eventually went entirely to ruin abroad. She died in Paris 1658 as appears by a document administration entry in the Register of the Prerogative Court aged about 28. She was buried in the Huguenot Cemetery Paris and Letters of Administration were granted 6 Dec 1658

As Pepys said – “How true this is, God knows”
- I certainly don’t as there are so many conflicting records.

Her two children-

Crofts James later Scott was born in Rotterdam on the 9th April 1649 Charles Prince of Wales later Charles II acknowledged the Child as his and he was later given the title 1st Duke of Monmouth. but Charles never admitted that he had been married to Lucy in fact he denied it twice to the Privy Council. James Croft Duke of Monmouth married Anne Scott and by her had children -- He is also reputed to have fathered several bastards. After the Monmouth rebellion he was beheaded on Tower Hill 15th July 1685.

Walter Mary daughter of Lucy Walter born 6th May 1651 was never acknowledged as his Child by Charles and was born after he and Lucy had separated -- she was probably fathered by Theobald Taaffe 1st Earl of Carlingford although Lucy had a liaison with Henry Bennet 1st Earl of Arlington at the time .

Mary married first William Sarsfield and second William Fanshawe -- she died in 1693.

West Wales Historical review, The Transactions of the Honourable Society of Cymmrodorion The Diaries of Samuel Pepys etc,

Walter Richard Sir Kt of Rhos Market 1727 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire and died by 1733. He had a son and heir Joseph

ap Bevan James Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax 1670

ap Bevan Jane Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax 1670

Avery W G 1861 of Bramble a maltster of Rosemarket.

Avery William 1861 general manager lived Rosemarket.

Barbar Harri MA c1620 Rosemarket Church

Barnard Evan 1861 blacksmith of Rosemarket.

Barnard Margaret 1861 charwoman of Rosemarket.

Barrah Elizabeth	1861 farmer of Rosemarket .
Barrah Stephen	1861 housebuilder of Rosemarket .
Bowen Michael	1861 Butcher of Rosemarket .
Bowen William	Hearth Tax 1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred
Brigstocke Silvanus and immorality.	1856 Rosemarket Church described village as a hot bed of dissent
Carow John	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Cousins James	1861 cabinet maker of Rosemarket .
Cullum Mary	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
David Elizabeth	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
David John	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
David Mathew	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
David William	1728 Rosemarket old 'Noraway' keefe or boat
Davids John	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Davies Elizabeth	1688 Rosemarket .
Davies Henry	1879 Rosemarket Church
Davies John Henry	MA 1898 Rosemarket Church 1902 Sep 25 Vicar St Mary's Haverfordwest Pembrokeshire Parsons
Davies John	1682 of Basleford Rosemarket
Davies William	10 March 1788 Rosemarket Mariner Offence Perjury Wilfully implicating Rees Richard Rosemarket , James Garret , Griffith Furlong Lamphey all ship carpenters in stealing timber from Lord Milford 's Wood carrying it in prisoner's boat from Llanstadwell to Burton where prosecutor worked to make boats Burton Prosecutor Fields John Verdict No true bill Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830
Davis William	1670 Rosemarket H 3 Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Edward Thomas	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax .
Edwards John	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Evans Oliver	1951 BA Rosemarket Church
Foley Thomas O	1833 MA Rosemarket Church
Fosku David	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Gibbon William	1622 Rosemarket .
Gilford Phillip	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Godebert ?	the Fleming -Robert his son -of Rosemarket
Goodridge James	1861 sawyers of Rosemarket
Griffith Margaret	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Griffiths Ann	1861 grocer of Rosemarket .
Gronow John	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Hale John	Rector of Burton & Rosemarket Church
Hall James	1861 shoemaker of Rosemarket
Hay Ellenor	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred
Hay Margaret	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Hopkin John	1670 Rosemarket H 2 Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Husband William	6 January 1781 Rosemarket Yeoman Offence Assault on Sarah
Davies prosecutor's wife Rosemarket Prosecutor Evan Davies Verdict No true bill Before the
Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830
Hussey Thomas	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Istance Richard	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax .
John David	1670 labourer Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
John William	1861 sawyers of Rosemarket .
Jones Benjamin	1792 Rosemarket .
Jones Ifor James	1935 BA Rosemarket Church
Jones Martha	1861 Laundry woman of Rosemarket .
Jones Morgan Lewis	1883 BA Rosemarket Church
Llewelyn Henry	1861 innkeeper of the Barley Mow who was also a Chelsea
Pensioner of Rosemarket.
Low Anne	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Mabe John	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Mendus Ellenor	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Mendus George	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Meredith Elizabeth	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Meredith Thomas	1579 Rosemarket Church
Miln John	1447 son of John , granted to Sir Thomas , Perrot a burgage in Rosemarket. ' Old Pembrokeshire Families

Morgan Jennett	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Morgan Mary	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Morris John	1809 Rosemarket Church
Morris Stephen	1861 of the New Inn was also a publican of Rosemarket .
Mule Jane	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Mulligan Mary	1861 dressmaker of Rosemarket
Narbeit Anne	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Nash Thomas	1861 sawyers of Rosemarket .
Obra John	1810 Rosemarket Mariner Offence Assault, No indictment,
Rosemarket Prosecutor Davies Jane? Rosemarket Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830 ,
Owens John	1635 ejected on a charge of Drunkenness resumed the living c1660 resigned 1671 Rosemarket Church
Parry William	30 April 1811 Haverfordwest Tailor Offence Assault on James Hunt, Rosemarket , by beating him with stones, No indictment, Haverfordwest Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830 ,
Ramber Marmaduke	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Rees James	1861 sawyers of Rosemarket
Rees Lettice	1861 dressmaker of Rosemarket
Revell Henry	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Revell James	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Richards Thomas	1715 son of Richard Evans a pauper of Lledrod Carms Will and Inventory NLW Rosemarket Church .
Richards William	1773 Rosemarket Church -- never visited the parish.
Rowe John	1770 Rosemarket Church
Rudapec Alexander	1115 gave Rosemarket Church to the Knights of St John of Jerusalem
Russan Mary	1861 Laundry women of Rosemarket
Scurlock John	1861 sawyers of Rosemarket
Signett Richard	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Sinnett William	1765 Rosemarket
Smith John	1616 Rosemarket .
Smyth Elizabeth	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Smyth Peter	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Stepney John	1674 Sir ordered to repair the Chancel roof under threat of losing his rectorship Rosemarket Church .
Stevens F.V.	1958 BA Rosemarket Church
Stokes Anthony	1732 Rosemarket
Summers James	1773 Curate Rosemarket Church conducted one service per week.
Summers Thomas	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Summons William	1861 blacksmith of Rosemarket .
Tasker Francis	1670 Rosemarket H 4 Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Tasker John	1489, 12 May . ----- On 12 May in the year aforesaid, at Lamphey the Rev. father collated to one Sir John Tasker chaplain the perpetual vicarage of the parish Church of St Leonard Rosemarket , vacant and in his collation by lapse and he instituted him etc. And he had Letters thereof etc.
Taylor John	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Taylor John	1670 senior Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Thomas Richard	30 April 1811 Haverfordwest Shoemaker Offence Assault on James Hunt, Rosemarket , by beating him with stones, No indictment, Haverfordwest Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830 ,
Thomas T Atterbury	1903 BA Rosemarket Church .
Thomas Tasker	1697 Rosemarket
Truffit Thomas	6 June 1770 Rosemarket Yeoman Offence Killing a horse. Rosemarket Prosecutor Wray Thomas Rosemarket , blacksmith Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830
Tucker William Edward	1835 BA Rosemarket Church .
Vaughan Griffith	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Vaughan Griffith	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Vayle Robert	1670 Rosemarket H 3 Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Venables Martha	1861 dairywoman of Rosemarket .
Voyle Thomas	1670 Rosemarket H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Wade Dorothy	1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax
Walter William	about 1561 of Haverfordwest of Roche Castle married Jane Laugharne of St Brides about 1585 St Brides? leased several areas of land and buildings around Steynton and Rosemarket previously the chantries His will was d 10th April 1616 He died 12

April 1616 Had several children

Walter Lucy Born 1630 at Haverfordwest, Pembrokeshire, Wales Died 1658 at , Paris, Seine, France but Walters, Lucy the wife — or, as some say, the mistress — of Charles II, and mother of the Duke of Monmouth, was born at Rosemarket. The house known as "The Great House" was the conjectured place of her birth. Also used the name Barlow. Arch Camb 1898

Walter Henry died before 1727 wife Bridgett bequeathed the Roch and Rosemarket estates to eldest son Richard

Walter Bridgett 1727 widow of Henry bequeathed the Roch and Rosemarket estates to eldest son Richard Walter

Walter Richard Sir eldest son of Henry and Bridgett inherited the estates of Roch and Rosemarket in 1727

Walter Richard Sir Kt of Rhos Market 1727 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire and died by 1733. He had a son and heir Joseph

Walter Joseph 1733 inherited the estates of Roch and Rosemarket in 1733 from his father Sir Richard Walter - Joseph married Elizabeth Barlow -- he died in 1746 She then married Alexander Eliot of Eareweare Amroth

Warlow Elizabeth 1861 Laundry women of Rosemarket

Warrington Gwynfa 1974 Rosemarket Church.

Williams David 1728 Rosemarket

William Robert 1670 Rosemarket pauper Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Williams Anna Maria, 1706 – Sep 6th 1783, the friend of Dr. Johnson, (see Fenton Tour P197 quoted above) was the daughter of a surgeon and physician in South Wales, where she was born in 1706. Reputedly at Rosemarket where her grandfather was Vicar. Her father was Zechariah Williams. She moved with her father to London when she was twenty. Must have been quite old when Fenton met her as he was born in 1746/7.

Williams Caroline born 28 Jan 1853 Rosemarket Pembrokeshire died 18 Jul 1947 San Diego California Marriages, Married to Nicholas John on 27 Sep 1875 at Salt Lake City, Salt Lake, Utah Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Williams David 1964 BA Rector of Freystrop & Rosemarket Church

Williams John reputed father of Zachariah and grandfather of Anna Williams Rosemarket Church. (See Fenton, Tours)

Williams John 1747 Rosemarket Church.

Williams John 1861 joiner of Rosemarket.

Williams Mary 1861 postmistress of Rosemarket.

Williams William 1861 carpenter of Rosemarket.

Williams Zachary about c1673-1755 Dr born (it is said) at "The Great House"

Rosemarket. Invented the means for discovering the Longitude by magnetism. Dr. Williams was also the father of Miss Williams the friend of Dr. Samuel Johnson, of whom the great lexicographer spoke so affectionately surgeon and physician, and a native of South Wales, was a man of great ingenuity. Arch Camb 1898

Acc/to Arch Camb 1866 p161 the writer refers to Boswell i35 and I quote"

.....This pamphlet Johnston (Dr Johnson) presented to the Bodleian Library . On a blank leaf of it is pasted a paragraph cut out of a newspaper, containing an account of his death and character of Williams, plainly written by Johnson thus" On Saturday the 12th about twelve at night died Mr Zachariah Williams in his eighty third year, after an illness of eight months , in full possession of his mental faculties . He has been long known to philosophers and seamen for his skill in magnetism, and his proposal to find the longitude by a peculiar system of variation of the compass. He was a man of industry, indefatigable, of conversation inoffensive, patient of adversity and disease, eminently sober, temperate and pious ; and worthy to have ended life with better fortune"

He was born 1673 and died in 1755 his family were friends of the Philipps of Picton Castle and originally he was offered employment by them. His wife's name was Martha and their daughter Anna was born in 1706.

Willis Cecil P 1948 BA Rosemarket Church.

Willis John T 1875 BA Rosemarket Church.

1847 The State of Education in Wales Rosemarket

I visited the schoolroom of this parish on the 9th of January. The scholars were absent for the holidays. It is a substantial building , and was well supplied with desks , but very dark owing to the smallness of the windows. They could not however well be made larger, as the site is one of the bleakest and most exposed imaginable. The room was raised by subscription of the landed proprietors on a site allowed (whether secured I could not ascertain) by the representatives of the late Sir Wm Owen Barlow. The mistress is daughter to the master of the National school at Johnston who lives in Rosemarket. Though rather young to manage boys above ten years of age , she seems , on the whole , superior to the common run of dames. She expressed herself well.

Rosemarket

The Incumbent of Rosemarket pointed out to me how well the existing schoolroom at Rosemarket (at present only occupied by a dame) might be made conducive to the purpose of the trust. But it appears that the deed requires the school to be held in the parish of Llanstadwell though for the benefit of Llanstadwell and Rosemarket

RCAM Earthwork

In the field adjoining the parish Church styled “Encampment” in the Tithe Schedule is an earthwork having an east to west diameter of 450 ft and 300ft from north to south, The low plateau upon which it is placed is bounded on one side by a mill race and on the other by a nameless brook: these streams unite at the point of the promontory, and to them the land falls abruptly. To the north is the churchyard. The main bank has a height of about 4ft and falls some 20ft to an external ditch with a rise on the outer side of 10ft but along the margin of the slopes it averages about a foot. From 10ft to 12 ft down the slope is a terrace 15ft broad, the margin of which is protected by a bank of 3 ft with a steep drop to the streams. The entrance at the eastern side of the main earthwork has been considerably altered by farming operations. The local name for the earthwork is “Ring Meadow”; the Ord Survey calls it “Rath”

visited 5th August 1920

Rosemarket Rath is an oval enclosure, about 130m east-west by 97m, set on a south-facing spur-end above a stream confluence, defined by double banks and ditches on the north-east, elsewhere by scarps above steep natural slopes; the north-east-facing entrance appears to have been recently reconfigured.

A pipe trench dug across the north-east of the enclosure (Barnie 1975) provided a section through the defences. CADW

St Leonards Well. RCAM

By the road side a short distance from the parish Church, is a strong spring which goes by the name of St Leonards Well. No trace of local tradition is connected with it and there are no signs of masonry around the well-chamber Visited 5th August 1920

Old Pigeon House RCAM

About 200 yds south of Big House – a modern dwelling- are the remains of a dovecote which originally formed part of Great House of which some walls were standing within living memory
visited 5th August 1920

Cross Farm (or Rosemarket) Dovecote is a circular, rubble-built structure with a conical roof, containing some 200 Nesting boxes, possibly 13th-14th century. Rosemarket was granted to the Knights Hospitallers in the 12th century and after the Reformation the dovecote was associated with the 'Great House', which stood until the 19th century.

(Rees 1992 (CADW guide to monuments in Dyfed), 179-180).

Rosemarket dovecote Grade 2 listed building 13 December 1951 In the centre of a field known as Pigeon Hay some 100m NE of the crossroads near the Church of Saint Ismael

Cross farm Rosemarket

Built into slope. Vault below lower end. Superstructure seems modern. Vault appears medieval fragment.

Great Westfield is a gentry house of early origins, possibly 16th century, enlarged in the 17th century and with a formal range added in the front in the early to mid 18th century . The house was small, with 3 hearths in 1670 when owned by William Davies, but by the time of an inventory of 1728 there were 14 rooms, possibly the present house. The building is rendered with slate roofs, 2 storeys and attic, double-pile with rebuilt red brick end stacks to the front range. The front range is taller than the rear and probably of later date. The front has a 5-bay elevation with 15-pane hornless sashes and stone sills, and a centre fine timber Palladian window with an arched centre with radiating bars to the head of the upper sash. There are 2 slate-hung gabled dormers. To right set back is 20th century 2-storey addition.

Rudbaxton

1839 Rudbaxton Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

Rudbaxton, a parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Dungledy, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 3 miles (N.) from Haverfordwest; containing 649 inhabitants. This parish is situated on the turnpike-road leading from Haverfordwest to Fishguard, and is watered by the western Cleddy, as well as by the Rhâth brook, which flows into that river. It is surrounded by the parishes of Prendergast, Camrhos, Trevgarn, Spittal, and Wiston; and contains by computation about 4000 acres, of which 2000 are pasture, a large portion arable, and 60 acres woodland, the prevailing timber consisting of oak, ash, and fir. The surface is generally flat, and the soil of a good quality, producing the usual crops of wheat, barley, and oats. There are two small flour-mills. It is enlivened by two gentlemen's seats, of cheerful aspect; Wythy bush, a good family mansion pleasantly situated; and Poyston.

The petty-sessions for the hundred were held at the New Bridge in the parish, prior to their removal to Haverfordwest.

The living is a rectory, rated in the King's Books at £15. 4. 2., and in the patronage of the Lord Chancellor; present net income, £199. The Church, dedicated to St. Michael, consists of two aisles, with a square tower at the west end, of an unknown date, and is in length sixty-three feet, and in breadth thirty-three; in the interior is a freestone monument of the Haward family, of Heatherhill, the figures of which are nearly as large as life. Opposite to the entrance of the churchyard is one of those large mounds so frequently found in this part of the principality, but of which the use has not been clearly ascertained. There were formerly two Chapels of ease, one in honour of St. Margaret, and the other of St. Catherine; but both are now in ruins. Here are places of worship for Baptists and Independents, with a Sunday school held in each of them. A National day school is supported, for which a handsome schoolroom with a master's house has been lately built by means of grants from the Committee of Council and the National Society, together with voluntary contributions. There is also a day school connected with the Baptists, having an endowment of £4 a year. Thomas Haward, by deed, gave a rent-charge of £2, which is paid by the Corporation of Haverfordwest to poor housekeepers of Rudbaxton not receiving parochial relief; and children from this place have a claim to be received into Haward's or Tasker's free school at that town. About three miles north-east of Haverfordwest, within the limits of this parish, is a Hill on which is an encampment, called by the country people "the Rhâth."

Lieutenant-General Sir Thomas Picton, G.C.B., who fell in the battle of Waterloo, is generally supposed to have been a native of the parish, but, really, was born at Haverfordwest; the family mansion, Poyston, being in course of erection at the time.

11c The site where Alexander de Rudepac established a motte and Bailey fortress in early 11c.

Church St Michael

believed built on the site of an early Celtic Church dedicated to St Madoc.

St Michael's Church, Rudbaxton is an early 13th century building and is Grade 1 Listed.

Most of the Church early 13c restored 1870's. There is a holy well nearby dedicated to St Madoc.

Rudbaxton Church Glynne 1869 – Arch Camb 1888

A pretty good specimen of the Pembrokeshire Church, and in good repair. Consists of a nave and chancel each with south aisle, west tower and south porch. In the chancel arcade the arches are wider and the column smaller than in the nave. The roof seems to be new; the aisle begins east of the porch, as at St Martin Haverfordwest, and is extended along the chancel. The nave is divided from the aisle by two plain obtuse arches upon a central circular column with square capital. The chancel arch is a plain pointed one. The chancel opens to the aisle by two somewhat flat arches, on circular column with square capital. There is a single lancet on the north of the chancel. The east window is a new one of two lights; the other windows are labelled square headed , Perpendicular of three lights. There are head corbels on each side of the chancel arch. The tower arch is a plain pointed one. The font is of a common kind in this country. The bowl square, scalloped at its base on a circular stem set on a square pedestal.

At the east of the aisle the wall is occupied by a very large monument having three arched divisions

(1) containing the figure of a man (George Howard 6th May 1665 age 32)

(2) those of a man and wife (James Howard 29th November 1668 age 35 and his wife Joanna)

(3) the same (to the son Thomas Howard (7th July 1682) and the daughter Mary (1st January 1685) of James Howard and his wife Ioanna (Joanna)

All the figures carry a skull and are of the family of Howard.

The tower is of the strong military type with Parapet and corbel table, belfry windows of two lights, plain, west window of two lights and some other small slit like openings. Neither string course nor buttress, but again a stair turret at the north east. The porch is vaulted; in it is a circular stoup.

1923 The Parish Church RCAM

Dedicated to St Michael but formerly St Madoc (A spring outside the churchyard wall still goes by the name of St Madoc's Well)

This Church described as “Ecclesia de Rudepagstona” is included in the grant of Wizo, Lord of Wiston to the Knights Hospitallers of St John of Jerusalem.

The Church was well restored in 1892. The plan shows a chancel, nave, west tower and south porch all of the 13th century, to which in the late 14th century was added a south aisle to cancel and nave. The chancel arch has on either side a corbel, both of which have been renewed in parts. The windows, with the exception of that at the east end are Perpendicular with square headed labels; two are closed. The font basin, of the cushion type 26in by 21 in externally 19in by 15in internally stands upon a circular shaft with square base; the total height is 36 in. a huge monument to the family of Howard (1665-1685) characteristic of its period, occupies the whole of the east end of the south aisle.

The tower is of two stories with corbel table and plain parapet. In its north east angle is a vice of 24 stairs. The Bell is inscribed, "Thanks be to God AD 1610" The porch is vaulted and has a plain circular stoup.

On the south east angle of the outer wall is a stone sun dial dated 1689; the gnomonic had disappeared – visited 6th June 1920

St Michael's Church, Rudbaxton

Medieval fabric with surviving detail C15 or C16. Altered in 1845 and restored in 1892. Stone rubble construction with slate roofs. Consists of nave, chancel, west tower, South porch and South aisle. All roofs of 1892. Fittings include C12 font on round shaft, moulded base; C20 pine pews and chancel stalls; C20 pulpit with Gothic blind tracery. Stained glass C20 with mid C19 painted glass East window to nave. Notable C17 monument to the Hayward or Howard family in S aisle, featuring full length carved figures bearing skulls set into three recesses along East wall.

(Source CADW listed buildings database) RCAHMW

Churches of Pembrokeshire - Slater.

Greater Rudbaxton - St Michaels.

The long 16c south Chapel east of the older porch has a pair of four-centred arches to each of the 13c nave and later chancel. The whole of the Chapel east wall is filled with a monument to several late 17c Howards and Pictons. The west tower is 15c. Little remains of St Leonard s Chapel by the Castle.

Described as Ecclesia de Rudepagotona, this Church was granted by Wizo, Lord of Wiston, Walter his son and Walter son of the said Walter, to the Knights Hospitalers of St. John of Jerusalem Anselm's Confirm. charter.

On the dissolution of the Monasteries the rectory came into the hands of the King. The patronage is now vested in the Lord Chancellor.

1291 Under the name of Ecclesia de Rudepac, this Church was in 1291 assessed at ? 4d for tenths the King, the sum payable being £1 1s. 4d. - Taxatio.

Rudbackestan Rectoria. - licclesia ibiderl utlde Thomas Lloid rector ex cohaciotle predicte peceptorie de Slebeche tenet ihidem unam reetoriam mansiollem et gardinum que valent per annum v. Et fructus et oblaciones ejusdem ecclesie valent cum predictis v per annum xiiij- viijd. Inde sol in quadam pensione predicte preceptorie annuatim viij. st in visitacione archidiaconi quolibet anno pro sinddalibus et procuracionibus vs ixd. st remanet clare £15 4s. 0d. Inde decima 30s. 5d.— Valor Eccl.

Under the heading “Livings remaining in Charge”:- Rudbacston alias Rudbarston R. (St. Michael). Pens. Preceptorise de Slebeche, 8s. Ordinario quolibet tertio athlo, 2s 2id. Archidiac. quolibet anno, 5s. 9d. Precept. Slebeche olim Patr.; Prince of Wales. King’s Books, £15 4s. 2d., £150. Yearly tenths, £1 10s. 5d. — Bacon’s Liber Regis.

1892 On 8 Aug., 1892, a faculty was granted for the restoration of the parish Church.

There were two subordinate Chapels in the parish, called St. Margaret’s Chapel and St. Catherine’s

Chapel. —Paroch. wall. There was also a Chapel dedicated to St. Leonard.

Rudbaxton, St. Michael 1844-1846

Restored from a state of ruin by the Present Rector, who was appointed by the Lord Chancellor in Nov 1844. Parsonage and school built since.

1851 "The 2 Congregations [He is referring to the morning and afternoon congregations] do not consist of the same individuals, the Church being 2 miles from the bulk of the population. The only Church way being a very narrow Long lane nearly impassable the greater part of the year"

William Meyler, Rector

1929 St Michael Incumbent and Curates; A J Phillips

Alighting at Rudbaxton village, we step aside in order to visit the parish Church. Upon the south side of the chancel, a pair of flat limestone arches open into what is known as the Howard Chapel, the eastern wall of which supports a large, seventeenth-century monument, commemorating various members of that honourable family.

The male and female figures beneath the arched recesses are represented as nearly the full size of life, habited in the costume of the period, and painted in a somewhat crude and barbaric manner. As may every figure save one bears a human skull in its hand, thus recording in a suggestive way the decease of that individual. One effigy alone is minus this grim feature, as it represents the lady in whose lifetime the monument was erected.

The panel beneath the central group bears the inscription, 'To the memory of James Howard of this Parish, esq.. who lyeth before this monument, and departed this life the 1668, Aged 35 years. Also the memory of Joanna, the Wife of James Howard, who erected this monument for her Deare friends and children. with the intent to Joyne partner to this Monument, and left this life. . . '

The figure to the left represents George Howard, who died in 1665 ; those upon the right being Thomas and Mary , son and daughter of the central figures, who died, respectively, in 1682 and 1685. A sundial upon the outer south wall of the Howard Chapel bears the initials J. H. and the date 1665.

Rudbaxton Church Arch Camb 1898

Rudbaxton Church. — The advowson of the Church was once part of the endowment of the Commandery of Slebech, the gift of one Alexander Rudepac, from whom probably the place-name has come.

In the Church (which, by the way, is well kept through the munificence of the Owen family of WithyBush), there is a remarkable tomb erected to the Howards, dating from the seventeenth century.

Fenton makes a curious error in describing this tomb. He says that "there are grotesque human figures coarsely painted on the stucco of the wall", whereas the figures are sculptured and painted ; and, although they are examples of the decadent art of the seventeenth century, they afford good illustrations of the dresses of that period. One figure represents Mary Tasker, the donor of charities at Haverfordwest, who erected the tomb to the memory of the others and herself. The plan of the Church consists of a nave, chancel, south aisle, south porch and western tower. There is a holy-water stoup in the porch. The font is Norman, of the cushion capital type common in Pembrokeshire. Outside the Church is a mound which probably was a tumulus, afterwards used as the site of a small fortress.

c 1145, Wizo the Fleming, with the subsequent approval of his son Walter and his grandson

Walter, gave to the Brethren of the Hospital the Church of Rudepagston.

Afterwards, Alexander of Rudepac confirmed to the Hospitallers the advowson of the Church of St. Madoc in the vill of Rudepac.

This was one of the churches about which the Lawsuit took place between the Monastery of Worcester and the Knights Hospitallers.

Peter, Bishop of St Davids (1176-98) confirmed the gift of Wizo, as also did Anselm in 1230. Particulars of the original gift were repeated by Stillingflete in 1434.

In 1508 the Preceptor of Slebech granted a three years' lease of the pension of the Church to Thomas ap Philip of Picton.

In 1535 the Knights received their annual pension of 5s. from Rudbackeston Church, of which Thomas Lloid was rector, " by collation of the Preceptory of Slebech".

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire. Evans, John Thomas ,

Rudbaxton —The vessels which may have been used by Archbishop Laud when Rector of Rudbaxton have long since disappeared.

The present service consists of two modern Chalices and a Paten of plated metal.

—Besides two glass Cruets there is a pewter Plate, 8 in. in diameter, marked " MP" the other marks being illegible

Nonconformist Chapels:

Bethlehem Baptist Chapel Spital was built in 1820 and restored/interior refitted in 1874. This Chapel is built in the Simple round-Headed style with a gable entry plan and two storeys
RCAHMW,

Rawlins shows cause starting in 1818, 100 members in 1840

1851 Bethlehem Particular Baptist Erected in 1819 John Lewis of Ambleston, Deacon and Elder

Crundale Congregational Chapel was built in 1837, rebuilt in 1872, rebuilt again in 1882 and modified in 1930. The present Chapel, dated 1882, is built in the Simple round-Headed style of the gable entry type. RCAHMW,

Crundale , in Crundale [Independents / UR, 1838]. 1851 Cundale Ind. Henry

Mathias, Minister, WolfsDale

1847 The State of Education in Wales

Parish of Rudbaxton –

National School

The schoolroom at which this school is held has been but recently erected with a house for the master, nearly completed at the cost of £160 towards which the National Society gave two grants of £30 each, and the Committee of Council £58. The remaining sum of £42 is to be made by voluntary contributions. The school buildings are erected on glebe land near the Church, and, when the master's house is completed, they will be a handsome pile.

In the schoolroom I found one desk for the master , one desk for the scholars,(others are being made), 10 benches , a stove in the middle, maps of Palestine, British Isles, a small map of the world, a map of the journeying of the Israelites, and the definitions of land and water, black board, chronological table, and a large alphabet sheet hanging on the wall.

The master, considering the small advantages he has had appeared to be well adapted for his situation, and spoke English tolerably well.

The scholars were composed of labourers, mechanics, and farmers' children who pay 1d per week for their instruction. The other portion of the Master's salary is made up by the Rector. The school had been but newly re-opened after the Christmas holidays and few were present.

Those capable of reading the Scriptures read the 20th chapter of St Matthew, and answered the questions put to them by the Rector readily.

Questions on Arithmetic and Geography were answered readily. It was evident that much pains had been taken. The copy books were fairly written

Labourers wages averaged 8s per week on their own finding; farm servants get on average about £6 a year (did not know whether they attended Sunday Schools; none has been opened in the Church yet). The means of education is plentiful in this parish, and parents are anxious to have their children instructed. The respectable farmers can read and write well, and the small ones can read. The moral character of the people is good

January 6th 1847 Wm Morris Assistant.

Bethlehem Chapel Day School

This schoolroom is erected at the gable end of the Chapel, by the late Rev David Rees, who also bequeathed the sum of £66 towards purchasing land and the building of cottages, the rents of which are appropriated to support the minister at the Chapel, and the sum of £4 to be paid yearly for the instruction of 10 poor children of that connection. The trustees are the deacons of the Chapel, and the acting one at present is Mr William Morris of Church Hill Wiston. The master is a member of the Church of England, and has been engaged as a teacher for a great number of years. He seems well adapted for his duties. The furniture consisted of only two tables and eight benches. Farmers, Mechanic, and principally labourers children compose the scholars. Only eight were present, the school having been but recently re-opened since the Christmas vacation. A part of the 5th chapter of Acts was read with ease by one of the scholars, who also answered questions readily from the chapter

The copy books were fairly written. January 6th 1847 Wm Morris Assistant.

Names connected with Rudbaxton

Rudbaxton Clergy CCED

Vaughan, Ludovico 0	Preacher
Walter , Morgan	1607 Disp- Rector
Hudson , Franc	1624 Disp- Rector
Gwynne, Lewis	1661 Rector
Bowen , Jacobum	1671 Rector
Bowen , Jacobus	1688 Rector
Bowen , James	1692 Rector
Harries, Johannes	1700 Rector
Harries, John	1734 Vac (Death) Rector
Edwards, John	1734 Rector
Martin, Hudson	1734 Curate
Elliot, Phillip	1743 Rector
Edwards, John	1743 Vac (Death) Rector
Roch , John	1767 Rector
Elliot , Philip	1767 Vac (natural death) Rector
Roch , John	1777 Disp Rector

Turner , David	1790	Rector
Turner , David	1790	Prebendary
Philipps , George	1790	Curate
Roch , John	1790	Vac (natural death) Prebendary
Gibbon , Benjamin	1791	Curate
Turnor , David	1796	Disp Rector
Powell , Charles	1797	Rector
Ferrier , Robert	1799	Curate
Watkins Cullis , George	1801	Curate
Evors , George	1804	Rector
Watkins Cullis , George	1818	Curate

.....

Blakeman John 1397 14 February bachelor of Law.----Blakman John died 1408, July 14. On 14 July in the year above said at Haverford, the aforesaid vicar general admitted Raceton Adam, clerk, to the parish Church of Rudbaxton of the diocese of St David's vacant by the death of Master John Blakman, last rector of the same, on the presentation of the venerable religious man brother Grendon Walter , prior of St. John of Jerusalem in England, true patron etc., and instituted him in the person of brother Brisele John his lawful Proctor.

Bowen David 1754 Rudbaxton, Offence Theft of poultry, game cocks, belonging to Warren William, esq., Trewern, Nevern. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Brisele John 1408, July 14. On 14 July in the year above said at Haverford, the aforesaid vicar general admitted Raceton,Adam clerk, to the parish Church of Rudbaxton of the diocese of St David's vacant by the death of Master Blakman,John last rector of the same, on the presentation of the venerable religious man brother Walter Grendon, prior of St. John of Jerusalem in England, true patron etc., and instituted him in the person of brother John Brisele his lawful Proctor.

Cokworthy John 10 November 1415 Institution Rudbaxton.

de Rudepac Alexander 11c Rudbaxton motte and Bailey

Edwards Sarah 5 May 1838 born Kilnbarth, Rudbaxton, Pembrokeshire died 3 May 1914 Mendon, Cache, Utah Left Liverpool on 14 July 1868 aboard the Colorado Arrived in New York on 8 July 1868 Married to Lallis, John on 5 September 1868 at Malad City, Idaho
Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Evans David 8 August 1821 Alias David Evan Rudbaxton Labourer Offence Theft of a horse, Prisoner aged 62, Rudbaxton Prosecutor Gambold George Verdict Guilty,

Punishment Death, reprieved, 2 years imprisonment with hard labour, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Evans Morris 6 December 1822 Rudbaxton Labourer Offence Theft of sheep, Prisoner aged 28, Rudbaxton Prosecutor Martin Thomas, Verdict Guilty, Punishment 1 year imprisonment with hard labour Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Evans Thomas 16 March 1816 Rudbaxton clerk Offence Riotous assembly in the Church at night, and menacing and obstructing Williams John, Church Warden in the execution of his office, No indictment Rudbaxton Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Gambold William 11 January 1808 John, Martha Rudbaxton, Servant Offence Infanticide of her female bastard child by stabbing it with a knife, having concealed its birth. Second count of infanticide by strangulation. Rudbaxton, Prosecutor William Gambold Rudbaxton, farmer/ constable Verdict of infanticide, guilty of conceal Punishment 1 year imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Gambold George 8 August 1821 Evans David Alias David Evan, Rudbaxton, Labourer Offence Theft of a horse. Prisoner aged 62. Rudbaxton, Prosecutor George Gambold Verdict Guilty. Punishment Death, reprieved, 2 years imprisonment with hard labour. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Goddard Nicholas 20 May, 1567 Yeoman of Rudbaxton the tithes of the prebend and parsonage of Spital for 40 years at the yearly rent of £13 6s. 8d., the lessee to provide a curate to serve the Church.

Grendon Walter prior of the Hospital of St John of Jerusalem in England patron parish Church of Rudbaxton 10 November 1415.

Hawards of Flether Hill Rudbaxton

Haward Ursula c1668 of Rudbaxton of the tithes of the prebend and parsonage of Spital the second daughter of

Haward George c1668 senior, of Flether Hill in the parish of Rudbaxton the tithes of the prebend and parsonage of Spital deceased before 1668

Haward George 1660 September 28 esq. Haverfordwest Records 1539—1660

Haward James 1668 of Rudbaxton Pems, esq., the tithes of the prebend and parsonage of Spital for the lives of Haward Thomas of Rudbaxton son and heir apparent of said James Haward, at the yearly rent of £13 6s 8d, The tenant to find meat for the preceptor and a horse when he came to preach at Spital

Haward Mary of Rudbaxton daughter of said James Haward, at the yearly rent of £13 6s 8d, The tenant to find meat for the preceptor and a horse when he came to preach at Spital -- nephew of Haward James -Tanckred, Griffith of Easter Dudwell Pems, gent at the yearly rent of

£13 6s 8d, The tenant to find meat for the preceptor and a horse when he came to preach at Spital

Haward /Tasker Mrs Mary 1684 daughter of Thomas Howard of Flether Hall Rudbaxton late of Castle Pill in the parish of Steynton, a widow, bequeathed all her real estate to build an alms house in Haverfordwest for “the breeding and maintenance of poor children of both sexes” “that competent maintenance should be allowed them yearly until they should be put apprentice to convenient trades, and a sum of money at the completion of their apprenticeship” After 12 months on the foundation a boy was to be given annually “a blue coat turned up with red, waistcoat and breeches, two shirts, a pair of stockings, a hat, a pair of shoes, and a neck- handkerchief” A girl was to be given “a jacket and petticoat of cloth, a cap, a hat, two shifts, a pair of shoes and stockings, and an Irish cloth apron”

Haward Anne 1670 widow Rudbaxton H 4 Dungleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

Haward Joane 1670 widdow Rudbaxton H Dungleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

Jenkins John 31 January 1784 Rudbaxton Yeoman Offence Assault of John, Elizabeth prosecutor's wife. Rudbaxton Prosecutor John Jenkin Verdict No true bill.
Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

John David 20 January 1768 Eglwysrw Yeoman Offence Breaking and entering ox house of Mary Edwards, Rudbaxton, spinster and stealing a box containing money belonging to the prosecutor, John Hugh, Clydai implicated but not indicted. Rudbaxton Prosecutor Nicholas James servant Verdict Guilty. Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

John Martha 11 January 1808 Rudbaxton Servant Offence Infanticide of her female bastard child by stabbing it with a knife, having concealed its birth, Second count of infanticide by strangulation, Rudbaxton Prosecutor Gambold, William Rudbaxton, farmer/ constable Verdict of infanticide guilty of conceal Punishment 1 year imprisonment, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts

John Thomas 16 March 1816 Rudbaxton Labourer Offence Riotous assembly in the Church at night, and menacing and obstructing Williams John, Church Warden in the execution of his office, Rudbaxton Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Owen Susan 17 December 1814 Alias Susan Oliver? Rudbaxton Single-woman Offence Burglary of prosecutor's house and stealing food, a pot and a fowl, Rudbaxton Prosecutor Mackenzie, John Rudbaxton, Gardener Verdict Guilty, Punishment 1 year imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830, Raceton Adam 1408, July 14 . On 14 July in the year above said at Haverford, the aforesaid vicar general admitted Adam Raceton, clerk, to the parish Church of Rudbaxton of the diocese of St David's , vacant by the death of Master John Blakman, last rector of the same, on the presentation of the venerable religious man brother Walter Grendon, prior of St. John of Jerusalem in England, true patron etc. and instituted him in the person of brother John Brisele his lawful Proctor.

Reade Jenett 1608-9 Mar. 17 . Will of Jenett Reade of Newton, in the parish of Rudbaxton, widow. Pembrokeshire in By-gone Days.

Tasker Mary 1684 of Castle Pill Steynton daughter of Thomas Howard of Flether Hall

Rudbaxton bequeathed all her real estate to build an alms house in Haverfordwest

Williams John 1 November 1796 Rudbaxton Gent. Offence Assault on prosecutor as he walked on the road wielding a stick from his horseback. Had for several years refused to pay tithes of agistment to the prosecutor as curate of Rudbaxton, and the rector. No indictment. Prendergast Prosecutor Gibbon Rev. Benjamin, Wiston, Clergyman Punishment Fined Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Rudbaxton Parish Hearth Tax 1670.

Edwards Anne , widow	Rudbaxton	H
Fancocke John	Rudbaxton	H
Davis Widdowe	Rudbaxton	H 2
Grunnowe Thomas	Rudbaxton	H
Rowland John.	Rudbaxton	H 3
Jones John.	Rudbaxton	H
Smith Mary .	Rudbaxton	H 2
Symond William.	Rudbaxton	H
Edmund Elinor	Rudbaxton	H
Evans David	Rudbaxton	H
Edmond Morrice	Rudbaxton	H
Jones Arthur.	Rudbaxton	H 2
Haward Joane , widdow	Rudbaxton	H
Lord Edward	Rudbaxton	H
Grunowe George	Rudbaxton	H
Davids Thomas .	Rudbaxton	H 3
Lewis William	Rudbaxton	H
Higday Edward.	Rudbaxton	H
Haward Anne , widow	Rudbaxton	H 4
Moore Phillip	Rudbaxton	H
Phillip William.	Rudbaxton	H
David George	Rudbaxton	H
Cod David	Rudbaxton	H

Symins John	Rudbaxton	H
Sparkes William	Rudbaxton	H
Tasker William.	Rudbaxton	H 2
Griffith Thamas	Rudbaxton	P
David Thomas	Rudbaxton	P
Morse Anne	Rudbaxton	P
Rice Thomas .	Rudbaxton	P
Esmond Griffith	Rudbaxton	P
Voyle Mary	Rudbaxton	P
Rogers Thomas	Rudbaxton	P
Esmond John	Rudbaxton	P
Picton Gillian	Rudbaxton	P
Rice Griffith	Rudbaxton	P
Evan David	Rudbaxton	P
Lewis Eynon	Rudbaxton	P
Llewhelin Owen	Rudbaxton	P
Propert Thomas	Rudbaxton	P
Evan James	Rudbaxton	P
Griffith Lewis	Rudbaxton	P
John William	Rudbaxton	P
Evan Lewis	Rudbaxton	P
Lewis William	Rudbaxton	P

Sites of Interest

Rudbaxton Rath

a Hill fort sub circular banked, ditched enclosure measuring around 100m by 95m; resting within the western ramparts is a second enclosure of 50m by 32m.

The Raths Of Pembrokeshire, Arch Camb 1864

The largest of these works with which I am acquainted is, however, one that is situated on a farm called " The Rath," in the parish of Rudbaxton, near Haverfordwest, and upon an elevated spot overlooking Cartlet Brook and Wiston Mill. Its character is somewhat uncommon, from its containing within its exterior vallum an inner camp of smaller dimensions. It is considerably hollowed or depressed in the centre, and was defended by lofty aggers of earth and deep fosses. The whole surface of the interior has the appearance of having been raised above the level of the surrounding land and the inner, or smaller, rath is unquestionably raised very much above the surface of the outer camp. The inner camp is defended by a vallum and fosse : it resembles a kind of keep, and may have been intended for use as an inner defence of that character. Within the smaller camp there are indications of some irregularities in the ground that very probably mark the site of a tump or mount similar to that which exists in the rath at Down Patrick. The bottom of this inner rath is a partially formed ellipse, being hollowed out very slightly at the centre. The larger rath is entered at its eastern side by a capacious roadway, which at its narrowest part is eight feet wide, and widens towards its entrance, it being doubtless constructed for men and cattle. It is commonly said that, when standing in the centre of the rath, no portion of the country is visible from the interior, and that the heavens alone can be seen there from. There do not appear to be any traces of outworks to cover the main entrance, nor do I believe that any existed. It will be seen that the fort was protected by lofty aggers and fosses, and must originally have been a place of great strength.

On the north-eastern side of the rath, at no great distance from the entrance, a well of considerable size still exists, which yields a copious supply of water. Whether any connexion existed between this well and the fort cannot now be determined, though it is more than probable that some means existed of diverting the water into the rath, and supplying its defenders with water.

It is clear that water was readily obtainable, as another spring of water occurs at the distance of a few yards to the north-west of the entrance.

It will be clearly seen that considerable alterations have been made in the vicinity of the well, a road having been constructed through a portion of the outer vallum at the point which has been altered, though the spring continued to be retained, and was probably employed during succeeding centuries for the supply of the holy fathers, who subsequently dwelt or performed their duties in the adjoining Chapel of St. Leonards.

The ruins of this Chapel are now so limited in extent that they may well escape observation ; and on their discovery, a few years ago, a considerable number of bones were disinterred, and, it is feared, very irreverently dealt with. The Chapel of St. Leonards was at one period a Chapel of ease to the Church of Rudbaxton, and in the grant of it by Alexander Rudepac to the Commandery of Slebech.

William Llewellyn, F.S.A., F.G.S., &c. Glanwern, Pontypool.

The Rath RCAM

The following account is contributed by Lieut Colonel W.Ll. Morgan RE., FSA., a former Commissioner

This is a ringed enclosure with a ringed keep. The outer ring is 320ft north to south internal measurement ; 310 feet east to west. The rampart is 10ft high with 23 ft fall to a ditch 6ft deep. 2ft of which are artificially built up on the south; 8ft high, 16ft fall to a ditch 3ft deep on the north. The entrance is to the North. The inner ring is 150ft north to south and 100ft east to west. The rampart is 5ft high with 18ft fall to a ditch 5ft deep. Entrance to the north east The outer bank beyond the ditch of the outer enclosure commences at a steep declivity on the east. along the southern side it is of only moderate dimensions, but on the western side it is of considerable width, though no great height. Outside the entrance of the outer enclosure on the right hand side are the remains of a ruined Chapel. – visited 27th August 1915

Rudbaxton Rath; Crundale Rath; The Rath

Rudbaxton Rath is a sub circular banked, ditched and counter scarped enclosure, about 100m north- south by 95m, having a possible north-facing entrance; resting within the western ramparts is an elliptical enclosure, about 50m by 32m, presently ploughed-down, but depicted on OS County series (Pembroke. XXIII.13 1889), as banked and ditched, with a north-east-facing, causewayed entrance - thought to represent a medieval Castle. On the north-east St Leonard's well - associated with Chapel) impinges on the main rampart. The site is said to have been involved in the English revolution and finds of unspecified armour have been noted.

Possible Roman finds

Two twisted iron rings, about 20cm in diameter, possibly torcs and an approx. half-sized iron model of a hand, found 'at "the Rath"' about 1865, thought to be Iron Age, or possibly Roman, although the presence of a Castle, holy well and Chapel should be taken into consideration. Sources: Arch. Journal 22 (1865), 81-2;

British Museum 1925 'Guide to Antiquities of the Early Iron Age' 2nd ed., 149. RCAHMW

Rudbaxton Mount RCAM

To the east and closely adjoining the parish Church is a circular mound in a fair state of preservation. The diameter of its flat grass grown summit is 40ft; the fall to the ditch, now largely obliterated is 15ft . There is no Bailey. The mound was recently enclosed in the yard of Rudbaxton Farm. the original 1in Ord. Map marks it as a Tumulus – the modern issues are silent (but RCAM have listed it as Castle Mounts without enclosures) visited 6th May 1920

Newton Rath RCAM

About one third of a mile north west of Great Newton farm House is an originally circular enclosure some 180 ft in diameter; it is surrounded by a bank which is now represented by a slight rise on the east side only. This is hardly one foot high with a 2ft fall the remainder having disappeared under continuous cultivation. It was however traceable about the year 1870 when seen by Lieut Colonel W. Ll. Morgan RE though no signs of a ditch then remained. Possibly the entrance was to the west. The field is known locally as Rath Park –visited 5th May 1920

The Three Tumps RCAM

On a field known as the Three Tumps, half a mile north west of the parish Church, are three grass covered mounds from 2ft to 3ft above the surrounding level, each in circumference about 170 ft; they have every appearance of being undisturbed burial mounds visited 13th May 1920

Leech Pool Tump RCAM

On the field directly north of Leech Pool are faint traces of a mound which cultivation has almost entirely removed but which in all probability covers a burial. The adjoining field is known as Tump Park –visited 5th May 1920

The Tumps RCAM

A low mound some 160 ft in circumference, stands on a field south west of Tumps Smithy; it is probably a tumulus. It has been slightly disturbed on the east. The field is known as the Tumps – visited 5th May 1920

Greystone RCAM

A stone , now recumbent, but which is said to have been erect about seventy years ago, stands on a field of this name, near the Corner Piece Inn. It is 107ins high, 42in wide and 33in broad. visited 7th September 1920

Stone Park , North Stone Park. South Stone Park RCAM

A tract of land some 300yds west of Poyston, known formerly as Stone Park, now divided into three fields. A few large stones on the North Stone Park may denote the remains of a ruined cromlech. visited 6th May 1920.

Parc Maen RCAM

The undergrowth on this field may conceal traces of a fallen maenhir

St Catherine's Chapel RCAM

In 1398 the rector of “Rodeparkston” was granted 40 days indulgence in aid of the repair and building of a bridge called “Rebbrug” (Redbrugge – Rhyd brygge – the Ford at the bridge) and the Chapel of the same, with permission to celebrate or have celebrations in the Chapel (Episcopal Registers p84). The Chapel stood at the west end of what is still called St Catherine's Bridge on the Rudbaxton side of the western Cleddau, but no trace of it remains visited 6th May 1920.

St Leonard's Chapel RCAM

In the grant of this Chapel to the Commandery of Slebech by Alexander Rudepac it is styled Capella Sci Leonardi de Casto Symonis, and in 1398 permission to celebrate mass in St Leonard's Chapel was granted to the rector of “Rodepakston”

The Chapel stood on the north east slope of the rampart of the Rath. Some slight ruins of the little building remained to the middle of the 19th century, when a considerable number of bones were disinterred (Arch Camb 1864 III,x,13) but have since completely disappeared. (W Llewelling (Arch Camb 1864 p13 States that the ruins of this Chapel are now so limited in extent that they may well escape observation; and on their discovery a few years ago, a considerable numbers of bones were disinterred and, it is feared, very irreverently dealt with). He also mentions that there were two springs of water near this fortification.

A well adjoining the Chapel site was restored a few years since –visited 27th August 1915.

St Margaret's Chapel RCAM

A Chapel dedicated to St Margaret is said to have formerly existed in the parish, but no traditions of it have survived and some confusion with either the Chapel of St Catherine or that of St Leonard may have been made. There are a Church Hill and a Church Field in the neighbourhood.

Priory Hill RCAM

A field in Great Newton Farm is known as the Priory Hill – It may have belonged to Haverfordwest Priory

Quaker Park RCAM

It is possible that the two fields indicated were at one time owned by a member of the Society of Friends, or were the property of one of its meetings but no traditions survive and no reference to the property in this parish has been discovered in the historical literature of the Society

Great Rudbaxton, Building

The well-preserved foundations, or lower wall footings, of a rectangular building are located about 50m NE of Rudbaxton Church. It takes the form of a rectangular enclosure measuring 7m (North-South) by 3.5m within a broad stony bank up to 1m high externally, 0.75m internally. Although the S wall is marked by a line of six large stones (including the SE corner) there are no visible opposing edges to suggest the original dimensions to the structure, but overall the spread remains now measure 13m by 7.3m. There is no obvious entrance gap though the E wall is largely absent. The size of the banking and the clear presence of stone beneath the turf, indicated by probing, suggests a building substantially made of stone. Apart from a tree growing out of the SW corner, the structure appears to be undisturbed.

This site lies to the immediate East of the village earthworks of Rudbaxton . It is possibly, therefore, part of the medieval village, though it is unlike the earthworks located there. An alternative explanation is that it represents a stage in the contraction of the village to its present extent around the Church. visited: D.K.Leighton 14 October 1998 RCAHMW

Rudbaxton Mount

A mutilated motte, surviving up to 2.4m high. There is a surviving portion of ditch to the E, and the monument is placed adjacent to the churchyard. There is no trace of a Bailey. RCAHMW

Rudbaxton Airfield

The evidence for this satellite landing ground includes gaps in hedges; levelled platforms or aircraft hides; the mess, latrine and tractor garage building alongside the A40; a narrow concrete roadway; and a bungalow which was originally the two buildings which comprised the Watch Office.

Event and Historical Information:

During the war, in addition to the facilities listed above , the landing ground had a grass strip, two Nissen huts, tented accommodation and a Blister hangar. A series of fields to the east of the A40 had their hedges and fences removed to created the landing strip. These hedges were then repainted onto the ground to camouflage the site. Other hedges had gaps created in them to allow the tractor to tow aircraft to the hide locations (a series of platforms extended into the tree line at the eastern edge of the fields). Rudbaxton had only a short life because of its unsuitability due to frequent low cloud and its proximity to Haverfordwest, the main runway of which lay directly over Rudbaxton. It was designated as 4 Satellite Landing Ground in April 1941 and was used by 38 Maintenance Unit at Llandow until 25 September 1942 when it was released to the Ministry of Aircraft Production. Up to 30 aircraft are recorded as being stored here. The site was returned to its owner on 1 July 1943, with the hangar and Nissen huts being dismantled and re-erected at WithyBush. RCAHMW,

Poyston, Rudbaxton

18th century mansion, 3 different sized blocks, 2 or 3 storeys, hipped slate roof, rough cast. Birthplace 1758, of General Sir Thomas Picton, died at Waterloo 1815. (other records state he was born in Haverfordwest as the mansion was at that date under construction) RCAHMW

Roman Road Via Julia ?

Roman road west Of Carmarthen; Via Julia, Possible Section At Windy Hill

Linear crop Mark near Slough Mill. ?Via Julia RCAHMW

"Slouth Mill" is at SM 9458 1978

A c.220m linear crop-Mark feature, running west South west -East North East, from SM95031976 to SM95251986; less distinct features would extend this line c.160 to the East, on a rather more southerly bearing: a possible section of the Roman road W of Carmarthen , last seen North of Wiston, 7.75km to the East South East

St Issells (Saundersfoot), and East Williamston

East Williamston

The narrow 13c nave and chancel are divided by a plain pointed arch. A small turret is perched on the west wall. The Church has been heavily restored.

1867 Glynne Arch Camb 1897

A very small Church, in a wretched state, in a secluded site, buried in trees: a Chapelry to Begelley. It has merely chancel and nave, the outer walls of which are whitewashed, and over the west end an odd belfry – a kind of half tower supported on brackets – having a corbel table under its parapet , and pierced with an arch for a Bell

There are few windows and those are modern of the worst kind. The chancel arch is very rude, low and misshapen, with much walling about it. There are several stone brackets in the chancel. The font has a plain octagonal bowl. The interior is miserably dilapidated, and the capacity quite insufficient for the inhabitants.

1915 RCAM The Church dedication unknown

This Church with the exception of the west end was practically rebuilt on the old foundations about 1885, when the walls were raised one foot. It consists of a Chancel and Nave. The western gable was crowned by a small square erection which was doubtless intended for a Bell-cote; this, however, stands on a stout buttress erected to strengthen the west wall. The wall was pierced by a single light about 4 feet above the ground level, now blocked. On the eastern side another buttress was built, the lower part rounded. Above the curve are corbels from which rises a canopy, and on this stands the north, south and east walls of the belfry. The Bell chamber to it is by external steps following the line of roof. The whole is a curious example of the local restorations of the early 18th century. Sir Stephen Glynne, who saw it in June 1867, calls it “a kind of half tower”. The chancel arch is plain pointed; it probably copies the original. In the south wall of the nave is a blocked door. The present entrance is by a modern door in the north wall. The font has a circular bowl of tub form 89 inches in circumference, bound with an iron fillet; its upper margin is ornamented with an arcade of pointed arches. The bowl is of the Norman period: the base is modern. Several rude corbels remain in the walls of the nave and chancel. All the windows are modern – visited 14th April 1915. The Elizabethan chalice is inscribed: Poculum ecclesie de Williamstowne Elynor
NB This parish was formerly known as Williamston Eluard or Elnard.

St Issells (Saundersfoot)

Hean Castle

The name, hêngastell, may refer to an Iron Age Hill-fort on the site. The oldest part of the present house is the north-east wing, of about 1840. In 1863 the industrialist C. R. Vickerman acquired Hean Castle. He employed the Manchester architects Pennington and Bridgen to rebuild the house in 1875-6. The house was enlarged in 1926 by the addition of a north-west wing in similar style.

There is a main range of Victorian-Tudor buildings in an ambitious style which extends east/west. The outline in both plan and elevation is irregularly composed, but the east half of the main south front is advanced for extra emphasis. There are octagonal turrets at the corners and a high tower in a central position set back from the front. The parapets are all crenellated. There are return wings at the east and west and a rear service range.

The main building is of two storeys, in a masonry principally of small regular rock-faced courses of a red stone brought from Runcorn. All the stone dressings are in a lighter sandstone. A darker stone is used for aesthetic variation in bands and in a battered plinth beneath a string course at ground storey window-sill level. All the roofs are concealed behind parapets. The windows Throughout are dressed in a lighter coloured sandstone and are glazed in plate glass.

For the duration of the War the house was occupied by a school evacuated from Wandsworth.

Saundersfoot (Coal mining and coal exporting port) was known in medieval times as Llanussyllt and after the Norman Conquest as St Issels (sometimes Issells), both after the parish Church dedicated to the Welsh St Issell Its Bishop or abbot was considered one of the seven principal clerics of Dyfed under medieval Welsh Law. In 1870-72, John Marius Wilson described the village and parish as St Issells in his Imperial Gazetteer of England and Wales.

1764 Saundersfoot --Hean Castle estate plans shown in the area of the modern Saundersfoot

1810 Leach in his guide to Saundersfoot says that there were six cottages and two small hostels

1845 According to a Plan of the Tenby and South Wales Railway were 30 houses

1866 A branch of the Great western Railway reached the town.

To the majority of visitors Saundersfoot does not look like a former industrial town. In its heyday Saundersfoot was at the centre of the export trade of very high grade anthracite won from the deep pits and shafts of the Pembrokeshire coalfield. In contrast to the medieval Tenby, the town and harbour at Saundersfoot were largely developed during the nineteenth century. The local coalfield was first recorded in 1324, and by the middle of the seventeenth century some 30,000 tons were being exported annually from coal works around Saundersfoot, Begelly and Jeffreston to destinations as far afield as France and Holland. Despite this apparent boom, the infrastructure for mining and transport was still at its most basic, with cart loads of coal being hauled by oxen and horses along poor country roads to the sea.

Before Saundersfoot Harbour was built, the loading of coal mined at local pits was undertaken from the local beaches. The harbour was constructed in 1829-30 by the Saundersfoot Railway and Harbour Company for the export of anthracite. By 1837, the harbour had five jetties handling coal, iron ore, pig iron and firebricks from local companies and mines. The Saundersfoot Railway was built to link Bonville's Court Colliery amongst others and Stepaside Ironworks to the harbour. This is now given over almost entirely to the holiday industry, what was once a colliery site is now a caravan park

Nowadays the glorious sandy beach and the safe bathing and sailing waters of the bay are the main attractions, but Saundersfoot first came to prominence as a coal exporting port. Mining seems to have begun in the late 13c as the Earl of Pembroke was paid an annual fee for the sea coal mine at that time. This would probably have been a Bell pit although seams of coal can be seen running along the beach cliffs. The inland coalmines were connected to the harbour by railway lines that ran through the village, and from 1829 onwards there were sailing vessels (and later on, steam vessels) coming in on every tide. They departed with holds full of top quality anthracite and also pig iron from the Stepside iron works. Around 1864 up to 4000 tons of pig iron from the Stepside works were exported annually through the port. Coal shipments ceased at the onset of the Second World War, and since that time the harbour has gradually been given over to use by pleasure craft.

Traces of the areas industrial past are now difficult to find, but some of the old buildings of the old iron works can still be seen at Stepside, and there are still a few traces of the Bonville's Court (now the site of a caravan park) and other collieries. The tunnels which connect Saundersfoot, Coppet Hall and Wisemans Bridge are the old tunnels used by the railway to Stepaside and Kilgetty.

The most attractive buildings in the area today are the parish Church of St Issels, in a lovely sylvan setting not far from Coppet Hall and the imposing Hean Castle on the Hill to the north of Saundersfoot.

1810 Fenton, Tours

there was "some small remains of a baronial residence" site swallowed up by the tip of Bonville's Court Colliery.

This was the Norman Castle dating from the 12c. The Norman family de Bonville were in the train of the original Norman invaders and held their land from the Earls of Pembroke but all trace of them has been lost.

1839 Issel's St Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

ISSEL'S, St. (St. ISSELL), a parish, in the union and hundred of Narberth, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 3½ miles (N.) from Tenby; containing, with the village of Saundersfoot, 1552 inhabitants. The parish is situated at the western extremity of Carmarthen bay, and has its surface singularly diversified with abrupt and precipitous eminences and deep dingles, which, being richly wooded, form a striking contrast to the dingy and sterile appearance occasioned by the coal-mines in the immediate vicinity. But the greatest ornament of this part of the county is the wooded eminence on which stands the seat of Hean Castle. This house commands extensive marine views, embracing a great variety of beautiful and romantic scenery along the coast: the estate attached to it formerly belonged to the Wogans of Wiston, from whom it passed to its present proprietor, by marriage with one of the co-heiresses of that family. Kilgetty, an ancient mansion in the parish, in which the late Lord Milford was born, is now in the occupation of a farmer, and going to decay. The sands on the coast are extremely favourable for sea-bathing, and a few families, who wish retirement and tranquillity, resort hither during the summer season, preferring the humbler, but more peaceable, accommodations which the inns of this parish afford to the gaieties of Tenby. The beach abounds with most of the species of shells found at Tenby, and numerous fossil remains are discovered in the mines, at a great depth from the surface. The turtle, or "scorpion" stone, as it is here called, is frequently met with; it is susceptible of a beautiful polish.

The parish abounds with excellent coal and culm, of which great quantities are raised; the anthracite coal-field here contains ninety-five per cent. of carbon. There is also an abundance of ironstone and limestone. The ironstone was formerly wrought extensively by the Pembrey Iron Company; and from the improvements about to be made at Saundersfoot, it seems likely to be again worked by another company on a large Scale; if, indeed, operations have not already been commenced for working and smelting the ore. Saundersfoot is a thriving coal-port, picturesquely situated in a sheltered part of the bay: the harbour belongs to a company formed in 1829; it is artificial, protected by piers, and connected with the collieries of St. Issel's and the neighbouring parish of Begelly by tramways. In 1846 an act was passed for the formation of the Tenby, Saundersfoot, and South Wales railway company, who have power to purchase all the works at Saundersfoot, and intend to carry out important improvements. The line will commence at Tenby, have a short branch to Saundersfoot, proceed through the parish of Begelly, and terminate in junction with the great South Wales railway at Reynoldston. At present, however, its construction has not even been begun, owing to the delay that has taken place in the formation of the South Wales line, which is not likely to be brought into this part of the country for some time.

The living is a discharged vicarage, rated in the King's Books at £3. 17. 6., and endowed with £600 royal bounty, and £400 parliamentary grant; patrons and impropriators, the Dean and Chapter of St Davids: the vicarial tithes have been commuted for a rent-charge of £105, and those payable to the chapter for one of £140; attached to the vicarage are also a house, and a glebe of ten acres valued at £8 per annum. The Church is romantically situated in one of the richly-wooded dells with which the parish abounds, and is a neat structure in the early style of English architecture, with a square embattled tower, seen to great advantage above the wood in which it is embosomed.

There is a place of worship for Calvinistic Methodists.

John Jones, esq., in 1712, bequeathed £300 in trust for the gratuitous instruction of fifteen boys and fifteen girls, the children of poor parents in the parish; the interest is £15 per annum, and is applied towards the support of a National school, held in a school-house erected in the churchyard. Three Sunday schools are supported, one of them in connexion with the Church, another belonging to the Calvinistic Methodists, and the third to the Wesleyans.

1857

George Burrows stayed at the Hean Castle Hotel then called the Picton Castle Inn and described it as "a small straggling place on the bottom and declivity of a Hill there is a pier, coal works and a tramway.

1864 Saundersfoot

appears to have become as a coal mining and shipping centre, around 1864 up to 4000 tons of pig iron from the Stepaside works were exported annually through the port.

.

1891

Kilner described it as a "busy little port trading in the shipment of coal".

1895 Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire Timmins

Another pleasant excursion from Tenby takes the visitor past the little secluded creek of Waterwinch, giving him, en route, a charming glimpse of the town, rising above the wooded shores of the north bay. Thence a steep, narrow lane leads to the village of Saundersfoot, a favourite seaside resort with a diminutive harbour, an hotel and groups of lodging-houses.

The whole of this district has been, at some remote geological period, one vast forest, of which traces still exist upon the adjacent coast ; where submerged trees, and barks of timber encrusted with shells, are occasionally found. Tall chimney-shafts, rising amidst the woods, attest the presence of anthracite coal beneath our feet; this is raised from several mines in the neighbourhood, and sent down by tramway to Saundersfoot for exportation.

Pursuing a delightfully shady road that winds inland past the grounds of Hean Castle, we soon find ourselves amidst some of the loveliest sylvan scenery in all the countryside. Presently we get a peep at the Church of St. Issels, almost lost to view amidst Green aisles of embowering foliage.

As at Gumfreston, by footpaths only can the little edifice be approached ; while the stepping-stones across the rivulet are supplemented by a rustic foot-bridge, for use in times when the stream is in flood. This Church has lately been restored by some appreciative hand ; it has the characteristic tall Gray tower such as we have grown accustomed to in this locality, and contains a handsome font of respectable antiquity.

Hence the wayfarer may return to Tenby by way of Bonville's Court, a fortified manor-house of the Edwardian period, of which but a single dilapidated tower and stair-turret remain : or by fetching a compass round, and wandering through quiet lanes draped with Hartstongue fern, ivy and convolvulus, he may explore the country away towards Jeffreyston or Redberth ; returning over high ground beside the finely-timbered estate of Ivy Tower: and so home by the previously mentioned route through Gumfreston village.

.....

But it would appear that it was not until after the First World War that Saundersfoot really gained a reputation as a holiday resort

1913 South Wales Wade

Saundersfoot a village in Pembrokeshire (with a station 1m away) 3m N of Tenby. It lies in a hollow by the sea and is chiefly engaged in shipping the anthracite coal mined in the neighbourhood, though it makes some claim to be a watering -place. The parish Church, which bears the name of St Issel or Ussyllt, father of St Teilo, has been rebuilt with exception of the tower. The Norm. font is decorated with interlaced ornaments.

1943

In August 1943 the beaches were used for D-Day rehearsals. (Four Welsh Counties Kilner).

Old Houses RCAM

The parish contains the sites of several residences, the ruins of which existed until recently. Still to be traced are the remains of Bonville Court or Castle and Kilgetty House, the latter an ecclesiastical residence of the Canon of St Davids.

Stone Cross RCAM

A farm where, about the year 1888, a fine maenhir was broken up for building purposes.

Penrath RCAM

The name suggests the former presence of a mound or camp, but no indications of such are visible -- visited 17th May 1915

Kings Moor RCAM

This is an extensive common , part of the ancient possessions of the Crown within the country: it formed an item in the celebrated Ditchfield grant of Crown lands in 5 Chas I

Finds--Medieval Seal RCAM

At Moylands in the south of the parish "near a spring before it was utilised for Tenby water supply, were some ruined walls and in the vicinity a White cornelian seal was dug up while draining. On it was a mitre and a coat of arms; it was in the possession of the late W H Richards esq. of Croft House Tenby, but is now missing (Pem. Arch Survey).

Hean Castle is nearby.

ST ISSELLS Church

1864 Church of St Issels is not far from Coppet Hall. 13c renovated in 1864 and in 20c with a richly carved Norman font. Arch. Camb

1867 July 1, St. Issells Church Glynne acc to Arch Camb 1888

This Church seems to have been wholly reconstructed, save the tower ; but it is possible that the original plan may have been in some measure preserved, but made more regular and capacious, on account of the increased population. The present arrangement is nave with north and south aisles, chancel, south porch, and western tower. The nave has on each side an arcade of four pointed arches on octagonal pillars with plain cups. The chancel-arch is lofty and pointed, and, from its singularity, is probably original, having cylindrical mouldings carried down through the capitals. The windows of the nave are generally single and trifoliated, at the east of the aisles, of two lights, under an arch, with circle in the head.

The chancel rises very much towards the east, on account of the steepness of the ground. On its north side is a vestry. In its north wall is a plain flat arch. The south-east window is of two trefoil-headed lights under an arch, with circle in the head, and the sill forms a sedile. The font has a square bowl. The porch is new. The tower is of the Flemish sort, perhaps of Perpendicular period ; is embattled, with square turret, also- with embattlement rising high at the north-east ; corbel-table under the battlement ; has neither stringcourse nor buttress. The base slightly projects. The west doorway flat-arched with label ; the belfry windows square-headed, of two lights, of late form ; other openings are slits. The tower-arch to the nave is plain and pointed.

The churchyard is highly romantic, being of great extent, and the ground uneven and undulated in an extraordinary degree, some portions quite precipitous, and much covered with trees, in some measure recalling that of Llanfihangel, near Aberystwith. On the north side is the shaft of a cross, raised on several steps.

1923 RCAM St Issell Church

Parish of St Issells

The Parish Church dedicated to St Issell

This is a Church that has probably been enlarged by the addition of an aisle to the north side of what had hitherto been a single chamber. The earlier Church was of the type that is found everywhere Throughout the south part of the county, with the usual tall unbuttressed tower at the west end of the building; this part dates from the mid 13th century. About a century later came the addition of the north aisle, and, at a comparative recent period, a south aisle to the nave was erected. The Church has been much restored, the windows throughout renewed. The tower is of three storeys. The font basin, a square of 18 inches is of Norman type; its sides are decorated with conventionally treated scroll pattern of unusual character. One of the bells is of pre reformation date. In the churchyard is a restored medieval cross – visited 8th April 1915

Note – St Issells was one of the seven “Bishop houses” of Dyfed, which probably means that its incumbent exercised some form of Episcopal authority over the neighbouring clergy. On the authority of a late vicar, the Rev John Jones, it is reported that the ruins of walling said to have been that of an “old Castle” or “bishops house”, but more probably that of the medieval rectory were removed from a corner of the early churchyard within the memory of some who are still living. A closely adjacent field is called “Old Castle” in the Tithe Schedule.

RCAHMW

St Issel's Church is situated within a large, irregularly shaped churchyard, which has been extended to the south-east. A stream bisects through the churchyard from north to south, some 20m west of the Church building. The three pairs of churchyard gates, North Churchyard Gates Rear Churchyard Gates and South Churchyard Gates are Grade II listed. The gates were reportedly fabricated at the Kilgetty ironworks. A restored medieval churchyard cross stands to the immediate north of the Church.

The Church consists of nave, chancel, north aisle, south aisle, south porch, north vestry and west tower. The square, oolitic limestone font is thought to be twelfth-thirteenth century in date. It has a slightly different design on each face, with raised scroll faces and apparently randomly placed stars and crescents. Its limestone stem is thought to be two reused twelfth or thirteenth century column caps. The chancel arch is also medieval, as is the north arcade. The Church was restored extensively in 1862, to the designs of J.R. Kempson, Hereford. Only the tower was retained, with the rest of the building being rebuilt. The original layout was retained, but the floors were raised. A window at the south end of the chancel is dedicated to the Rev. John Jones, Vicar (1888-1912), and depicts the restored Church, held as a model in the hands of St. Issell. The Church reopened in 1864. The vestry was added in 1910 and the pews were renewed throughout. After the First World War a new pulpit, by Caroe, was constructed as a memorial, incorporating the roll of honour. It is carved in Perpendicular style and depicts St George and the dragon. The porch doors and a flight of curved- plan steps were added in 1978 in memory of the third Lord Merthyr.

Church Records

Considerable difficulty has been experienced in distinguishing between entries relating to the churches of St. Ishmaels and Issells in Pembrokeshire, and St. Ishmaels in Carmarthenshire.

Stat. Menev. See Vol. II., p.209.

This Church, which in the statute of Bishop Reginald de Brian is called St. Ursini, belonged to the abbot of Seys in Normandy, who granted it and the Church of Jeffreyston to the Canons of St Davids Cathedral, subject to the payment of 2s. by each of the two churches to the prior of Pembroke. -

Bishop Henry Gower in Aug., 1339, consolidated the two churches and ordained that a perpetual vicar should be appointed by the chapter to the Church of St. Issells, and that the Church of Jeffreyston should be served by a chaplain.

Under the heading of Deanery of Pembroke the Valor Eccl. gives the following entry - Vicaria Sancti Ismaelis. - Viearia ibidem ex eollacione Magistri Novi Collegii junta Meneven unde Hericus Stiffvowe clericus est inde vicarius habens ibidem mansionem. St valent fructus hujus vicarie per annum iiijU. Inde sol in visit-acione arch ri pro procuracionibus et sinodalibus quo-libet anno id vjd. let remanet dare £3 17s. 6d. Inde decima 7s. 8d.

From this it would appear that the master of St. Mary's College, St David's, was the patron of St. Issell's, but this seems incredible in view of the fact that in 1339 the patronage was vested in the Canons of St David's Cathedral and was still in their hands in 1564. The extract given above apparently relates to St. Issell's, but the ascription of the patronage to the College is erroneous, and the mistake probably arose from confusing St. Issell's with St. Ishmael's in Carmarthenshire, which latter Church was annexed by Bishop Adams Houghton to the College in question. Bacon's Liber Regis has apparently followed the Valor Eccl., as we seen by the following extract: p98 Pembrokeshire Parsons.

Under the heading "Livings Discharged":- St. Ishmael's alias St. Issell's V. Archidiac. quolibet anno, 2s. 6d. Col. near St Davids olim Patr.; Chanter and Chapter of St Davids, Patr. and Impr. Clear yearly value £12. King's Books, £3 17s. 6d – Bacon's Liber Regis.

Described as Ecclesia de Sancto Ussello, in 1291 - Taxatio.

According to a survey made in 1649 the living had a glebe, house, barn, yard, small garden, and 3a. 7291r. of arable land, with the endowment of the tithes of hay, wool, lambs, cheese, pigs, etc., and was estimated to be worth £12 per annum.

Non Conformist Church/Chapel Saundersfoot

Saundersfoot Methodist Chapel was built in 1892 in the Simple Gothic style of the long-wall entry type.

Bethany Methodist Chapel was built in 1868 in the Vernacular style with a gable entry plan and two storeys. By 1993 this Chapel had been converted into flats.

Hebron Baptist Chapel was built in 1854 and restored in 1881. The present Chapel, dated 1881, is built in the Simple Gothic style of the gable entry type.

Sardis Congregational Chapel was built in 1808, rebuilt in 1825 and rebuilt again in 1924. The present Chapel, dated 1924, is built in the Simple Gothic style with a long-wall entry plan, a hipped roof and hexagonal tower

Thomas Memorial Congregational Chapel was built in 1838 and rebuilt in 1899. The present Chapel, dated 1899, is built in the Romanesque style of the gable entry type.

Bethesda Methodist Chapel was built in 1826, rebuilt in 1864 and rebuilt again in 1894. The 1894 Chapel was built in the Simple Gothic style of the gable-entry type.

Names Connected with St Issells (Saundersfoot), and East Williamston

Clergy CCED

1492	John Lamb
1492	John David
1534	Henry Storbrow

1554	John Howell
1556	John Emlot
1559	Thomas Crane
1560	Maurice Wolcoke
1564	Rhesen Morris
1613	Griffith Johns
1625	Rice Thomas
1625	Henry Griffiths
	Nicholas White (no date)
1686	David Rees
1696	Thomas Nash
1721	David Lewis
1751	James Beynon
1782	Thomas Dalton
1839	James Dalton
1888	John Jones M.A.
1912	Howell Rosser B.A.
1924	E Owen Jones M.A.
1936	William J Williams B.A.
1955	Glyn Evans B.A.
1980	Michael Butler

St. Issells Parish Hearth Tax 1670.

Jenkin Lewis	St Issells H.
Smyth Lewis	St Issells H
Jenkin John	St Issells H3
Williams Thomas	St Issells H

Hurlo Thomas	St Issells H
Elliot William	St Issells H
Roach John	St Issells H
Levett John	St Issells H
Coale Phillippe	St Issells H2
Welsh Jane	St Issells H
Lowelinge William	St Issells H
Thomas Jenkin	St Issells H5
Morce Jane, widdow	St Issells H
Lloyd Izacke, esq.	St Issells H 7
Birch William	St Issells H
David Hary	St Issells H
Bartlett Peerce	St Issells H
Web Henry	St Issells H
Lewis Mr. Nicholas of	Hean Castle. St Issells H 8
Hancocke Widdow	St Issells H2
Hobert Phillipp	St Issells H
White Nicholas	St Issells H
Potter Richard	St Issells H
Child Grace	St Issells H
Thomas William	St Issells H.
Webb Thomas	St Issells H2
Hillin Richard	St Issells H
Browne Francis	St Issells H
Sherbane William	St Issells H
Jenkin Griffith	St Issells H

Whelin John	St Issells H
Lloyd Jane	St Issells H
Jermin Joseph	St Issells H
Browne Robert	St Issells H
Webb Henry	St Issells H
Jones William	St Issells H9 (Bonville)
Lewis Phillip.	St Issells H2
Jenkin James	St Issells H
William George	St Issells H
Meredith John	St Issells H
Lloyd Thomas	St Issells H
Eaton Jennett	St Issells P
Webb Phillip	St Issells P
David Lettice	St Issells P

(Please note these names are only those I am certain of as in many of the old records the name St Issell's can refer to Churches in other areas)

Baret Stephen 1359 St Issells Saundersfoot

Stephen Baret was charged with the sum of 50s yearly from 1359 as farm rent for the custody of a messuage and lands at St Issell's granted to him on the death of Vaughan David, whose heir was under age, as was also (John) the heir of Hastings Laurence, Earl of Pembroke. Stephen Baret sought to be released from the payment charged, and obtained a writ, d 1st October 1378, directing the barons of the Exchequer to do right under the circumstances set forth by an inquisition taken at Hereford (Haverford ?) on the 1st September then last, which shows the descent of the lands to Portan David, and further states that the lands for which Baret had been charged had been held by Wiseman John the son of Wiseman Andrew since the death of Nesta the Floyd MSS by Henry Owen DCL Oxon FSA 1902

Bishop Matthew 1560 of Portclew Pembroke Yeoman held tithes of St Issells Saundersfoot

Burrows George 1857 Hean Castle Hotel Saundersfoot then called the Picton Castle Inn

Callan James 1822 born Saundersfoot , Died 23 Oct 1847 Saint Issels, Pembrokeshire South Wales? Married to Proutt, Sarah on 15 Apr 1843 at Pembrokeshire, Wales
Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Callan Stephen 14 May 1846 born Saundersfoot Pembrokeshire Died 23 Sep 1908
Dayton, Franklin, Idaho Married to Boden, Mary on 24 Jul 1866 at Brigham City, Box Elder,
Utah Comments, Found a 2nd wife in AF, Marshall Sarah, 18 July 1888, Logan , Cache, Utah
Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Callen Martha 19/05/1830 St Issells Found dead on road from KingsMoor to Saundersfoot with no marks of violence Inquest report

de Bonville William 1315 who held lands from the Earl of Pembroke -half a Knights fee at Merrion in 1315 and one tenth of a fee at Coedrath 1324 Aug 20 Coytrath Saundersfoot area *I P M Edward II files 84 & 85*His wife's name was de Bonville Joanna pre1364 had died by 1364 Henry Owen Old Pembrokeshire Families

de Bonville Nicholas August 20 1324 Coytrath Saundersfoot area held one tenth Knights' fee held by worth yearly 26s 8d Inquisition on August 20 1324 before John de Hamptona King's Escheat at Pembroke

Frost Bill 1850-1935 from Pembs, he designed a flying machine that he claimed to have flown at Stammer Hill, Saundersfoot , on September, 1895 The machine hit a tree after take off documentary proof is missing [Lewis Arnold, Cecil Ewart, Private, 35027, Welsh, Regiment Arnold, was the son of Frost Elizabeth Married Lewis Benjamin, of Pontycymmer, Garw valley, Glamorgan Benjamin and Elizabeth were both from Saunderfoot, and had moved to Pontycymmer looking for work, which is where Arnold, was born. When Arnold, was just 6 years old his parents died from TB, and so Arnold, and his sister Elizabeth went to live with their Aunt and Uncle Bill and Ann Frost, in Stammers, Saunderfoot. Arnold, lived there until enlisting at Bridgend into the Army, and he was posted to the 15th Battalion, Welsh, Regiment The 15th Welsh, had been formed during October, 1914 as the Carmarthenshire Battalion, and moved to Rhyl for training They became part of the 114th Brigade, 38th Welsh, Division the following year, and moved to France during December, 1915 and moved to positions near Richebourg, in French Flanders This was known as the 'Nursery Sector' where new units were blooded into trench life, and after an initial, relatively quiet spell in the lines, the Division moved further south during the Spring of 1916, taking up positions near Ginchy It was here that Arnold, lost his life, when he was killed on the 9th March , 1916 Arnold, was just 22 years old, and is buried at Guards Cemetery, Windy
Corner, Cuinchy]

Frost William Bill 28 May 1848 – March 1935 was a amateur aviator, who, some believe, made a manned flight of considerable distance in a winged powered flying machine of his own design His father was John Frost and his mother Rebecca Frost Patent description

*"The flying machine is propelled into the air by two reversible fans revolving horizontally
When sufficient height is gained, wings are spread, and tilted by means of a lever, causing the machine to float onward and downward When low enough the lever is reversed causing it to rise upward & onward When required to stop it the wings are tilted so as to hold against the wind or air and lowered by the reversible fans The steering is done by a helm fitted to front of machine"*The patent seems to contradict itself slightly in the next paragraph which says, "The steering is done by a Rudder at both ends"

Howells Roscoe 1977 Saundersfoot wrote Old Saundersfoot

King Mary 1690 married name Windham widow of London with Isaac Houblon held tithes of St Issells Saundersfoot for 3 lives

Lewis John 1878, July 4 The Baron de Rutzen, John Lewis of Saundersfoot, hotel- keeper Lease for 21 years of the Rutzen Arms hotel, Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

Maleufaunt David 1324 Aug 20 Coytrath Saundersfoot area I P M Edward II files 84 & 85

Milford Lord 1815 held tithes of St Issells Saundersfoot till 1815

Morgan William 03-Sep1798 ----Thomas William St Issells Collier on Saundersfoot beach was driving a wagon - run over by a similar wagon in control of Isaac Thomas of Church Inn equipment property of William Morgan Inquest report

Stickings Thomas 1970 Saundersfoot Story of Saundersfoot

Thomas Isaac 03-Sep1798 -----Thomas William St Issells Collier on Saundersfoot beach was driving a wagon - run over by a similar wagon pulled by similar in control of Isaac Thomas of Church Inn as well equipment property of William Morgan Inquest report

Thomas James 17-Jun1822 St Issells Aged 10 he was waiting to cross road at Saundersfoot when a cart carrying culm passed by one of horses knocked him to ground and the wheel of the cart passed over his head killing him the cart belonged to John Williams farmer Inquest report

Thomas William 03-Sep1798 St Issells Collier on Saundersfoot beach was driving a wagon - run over by a similar wagon in control of Isaac Thomas of Church Inn - equipment property of William Morgan Inquest report

Vaughan David Died 1350 held of the manor of St Issel's for half a Knight's fee and a rent of 16s Stephen Baret was charged with the sum of 50s yearly from 1359 as farm rent for the custody of a messuage and lands at St Issel's granted to him on the death David Vaughan of whose heir Walter was under age, as was also John the heir of Laurence Hastings, Earl of Pembroke. Also had a daughter Isabella 1359 the FLoyd MSS by Henry Owen DCL Oxon FSA

Vaughan Isabella pre 1350 daughter of David Married Portan or Portcan and had a son David who inherited the St Issel property

St. Issell / Saundersfoot old Records

Tithes of St Issell Collectanea Meneversia.

In 1490 the tithes of St. Issell's were apparently let with those of Jeffreyston to David Wogan. Soon after the Reformation the tithes of St. Issell's were leased to William Philipps of Picton, esq.. This lease terminated about the year 1560, when they were let for 30 years to Matthew Bishop of Portclew [Pembroke] yeoman, at the yearly rent of £12 6s. 8d. In July, 1617, a lease of the tithes was granted to Philip King at the rent of £12 6s. 8d., for the lives of Henry King, archdeacon of Colchester (eldest son of John King, Bishop of London), and Dorothy, the daughter of the said John King. In 1663 the tithes were leased to John King (eldest son and heir apparent of Henry King, Bishop of Chichester) for the lives of the said John King, Henry King (brother of the said John King, and second son of the said Henry, Bishop of Chichester, and one of the gentlemen of the King's Privy Chamber), and Mary King (eldest daughter of the said Bishop Henry King), at the yearly rent of £12 6s. 8d.

In 1690 Isaac Houblon of London and Mary Windham of London, widow, were granted a lease of the tithes for the lives of Mary Windham (formerly Mary King), Henry Houblon (son of Isaac Houblon), and Dorothy Herbert (daughter of Mary Windham by her first Husband, Richard Herbert), at the same rent as under the previous lease.

In 1720 a lease of the tithes for 21 years was obtained by Nathaniel Morgan Chapter clerk at the same rent, and in 1741 John Philips of Kilgetty, Pems, esq., paid a fine of £150 for a lease for 21 years at the rent of £12 6s. 8d. The last leaseholder for lives was Lord Milford whose lease expired in 1815. He declined to renew it and subsequently the tithes of the Church were let annually for some years. In 1814 the tithes were valued at £156 10s, but no tenant could be found to rent them at that figure.

Extract from Old Pembrokeshire Families in the Ancient County Palatine of Pembroke from inpart the Floyd MSS by Henry Owen DCL Oxon FSA (High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire) 1902.

-There is preserved the record of a long and interesting suit relating to lands in St. Ussyls (St. Issels) which contains much local family history.

- Stephen Baret was charged with the sum of 50s, yearly from 1359 as farm rent for the custody of a messuage and lands at St. Issel granted to him on the death of David Vaughan, whose heir was under age, as was also (John) the heir of Laurence Hasting, Earl of Pembroke.

We have scattered notices of the Barets, who seem to have been originally burgesses of Carmarthen, and held of Guy de Brian in the lordship of Laugharne. Lewys Dwnn gives three pedigrees of branches of the family at Pendine (afterwards at Tenby), Philbeach and Gelliswick, Adam Baret, John the son of John Baret, and Henry the son of Thomas Baret, have been mentioned in the de la Roche paper.

In 1348 David Baret was chancellor of St Davids; in 1376 Adam Baret was a juror at Haverford, in 1378

John Baret at Pembroke, and in 1430 David Baret at Haverford, but what kin any of them were to our Stephen there is nothing to show.

The Vaghans had been settled in the district for some years.

Robert Vaughan was on a jury at Pembroke in 1302, when all the jurors were persons of good standing.

In 1324 and 1348 a John Vaughan held one-tenth of a fee at La Torre (Tarr), and in coparcency with John Emebald and William son of Nicholas de Barri, five bovates of land at Lanteg (Lanteague).

John had a son David who died about 1350, holding the manor of St. Issel's for half a knights fee and a rent of 16s. 8d.; his heir was

Walter Vaughan who held St. Issel's and died in 1361 leaving a daughter, Nesta, who died aged four years in 1364, when the property passed to David Portan or Portcan, who was the son of Isabella the daughter of David Vaughan.

Stephen Baret sought to be released from the payment charged, and obtained a writ, dated 1st October 1378, directing the barons of the Exchequer to do right under the circumstances set forth by an inquisition taken at Hereford (Haverford) on the 1st September then last, which shows the descent of the lands to David Portan, and further states that the lands for which Baret had been charged had been held by John the son of Andrew Wiseman since the death of Nesta.

The Wisemans were probably brought to the county from Scotland by Aymer de Valence. They gave their name to Wiseman's Bridge over the stream which divides St. Issel's from Amroth.

Andrew Wiseman held at the death of Earl Aymer half a knight's fee at Coytrath (Coedrath); his son John was born about 1336. There are a few later notices of the family; in 1383 John Wiseman (who in 1378 was one of the sureties given by John Harold for the custody of Stephen Perrot), and in 1392 Thomas Wiseman and John were jurors at Pembroke; in 1400 John Wiseman was one of the commissioners appointed to enquire into the King's debts at Pembroke.

East Williamston Names

Day William 11 January 1818 East Williamston Labourer Offence Theft of sheep Gumfreston Prosecutor Shears Lewis Gumfreston farmer Verdict Guilty Punishment Death Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Hall Thomas 06-Jul-1820 collier Jeffreston pit at East Williamston fell to the bottom

Inquest report

Philipps James Henry Alexander 1857 Rev MA late Gwyther of Picton Castle Vicar of St Mary's Haverfordwest was Vicar of Madeley Salop patron of the livings of Morvil, Llanycefn, Mynachlog-ddu, Llysyfran, Begelly, East Williamson, Llandower and Reynalton. Assumed the surname Philipps on succeeding his half brother Lord Milford in 1857. Born at Winkfield Wilts 1814 married Mary Catherine daughter of William Woolrych Lea of Ludstone Salop.

Bonville Names

The main stock of the Bonvilles settled in Somerset and Devon, and were of Wescomb and Shuts in the latter county. Pole says that John d Bonville was of Bonvileston in Plymlegh, co. Devon, 27 H. III and 50 Ed. III. They also gave their name to a village in Pembrokeshire. --Arch Camb 1868 de Bonville Elizabeth pre1400 married before 1400 Carew Thomas of Carew Castle born 1367 Henry Owen Old Pembrokeshire Families

de Bonville Joanna 1364 widow of Nicholas held half a fee at Gumfreston of de Carew John Henry Owen Old Pembrokeshire Families

de Bonville Sir John Williams eldest son was

Bonville Sir John who had a daughter

Bonville Elizabeth pre 1400 She married before 1400 Carew Thomas of Carew Castle who was born in 1367 With that marriage the Pembrokeshire branch name of Bonville died out de Bonville Nicholas inherited from his grandfather de Bonville William 1315 who held lands from the Earl of Pembroke -half a Knights fee at Merion in 1315 and one tenth of a fee at Coedrath 1324 Aug 20 Coytrath Saundersfoot area I P M EdwardII files 84 & 85 His wife's name was de Bonville Joanna pre1364 had died by 1364 Henry Owen Old Pembrokeshire Families

de Bonville Nicholas August 20 1324 Coytrath Saundersfoot area held one tenth Knights' fee held by worth yearly 26s 8d Inquisition on August 20 1324 before John de Hamptona King's Escheat at Pembroke

de Bonville William 1272 land from the Earl of Pembroke at what is now Saundersfoot seneschal of Pembroke in 1272 and in 1275 he was accountant for the lordship Haverfordwest which was entrusted to his care upon its surrender by Humphrey de Bohun to Queen Eleanor Bonville Court was probably erected by him His grandson Nicholas inherited According to the Roll of Battle Abbey Holingshed Chronicles one of those who came over with William of Normandy was called "Bondeville" There is no proof though as to whether the Bonville family of the west of England and Wales is descended from him Henry Owen Old Pembrokeshire Families –

The Castle and manor of Haverfordwest were restored to Humphrey de Bohun, (jun., who had livery in right of his wife, Eleanor, of the Castle and town of Haverford, 1251) in 2 Edward I 1274 but it appears that in the following year William de Bonville 1275 was receiver of the Castle and manor, then taken into the hands of the King; and they appear to have been afterwards granted, with the town of St. Clears, to Queen Eleanor

de Bolevill William 1290 November 6 Sir steward of Pembroke Charter Roll 18 Edward 1 m 1 Cal p 373 Clipston

de Bonville William son of de Bonville Nicholas inherited and in accordance with the settlement gave the manor of Jeffreyston to his brother de Bonville Hugh until he was provided with a suitable ecclesiastical benefice and then it would go to another brother probably John Henry Owen Old Pembrokeshire Families

Bonville Family of Bonville Court Coudrath (Saundersfoot) (acc/to Owen) According to the Roll of Battle Abbey (Holingshed Chronicles) one of those who came over with William of Normandy was called "Bondeville" There is no proof though as to whether the Bonville family of the west of England and Wales is descended from him. The de Bonville's held land from the Earl of Pembroke at what is now Saundersfoot Pembrokeshire west Wales. The family also held land in the west of England and near Swansea.

The Bonvilles first appear in Pembrokeshire records with Bonville William de 1272 who was seneschal of Pembroke in and in 1275 he was accountant for the lordship of Haverfordwest which was entrusted to his care upon its surrender by de Bohun Humphrey to Queen Eleanor. Bolevill William de 1290 November 6 Sir steward of Pembroke charter Roll 18 Edward 1 m 1 (Cal p 373) Clipston. Bonville Court was probably erected by him. He was succeeded by his grandson Nicholas who held lands from the Earl of Pembroke -half a Knights fee at Merion in 1315 and one tenth of a fee at Co-edrath (Saundersfoot) in 1324.

Bonvill Nicholas de 1324 Aug 20 Coytrath (Saundersfoot area) I P M Edward II files 84 & 85.

In 1364

Bonvill Joanna de widow of Nicholas de Bonvill held half a fee at Gumfreston of de Carew John.

Bonvill William de the son of Nicholas by his settlement, gave the manor of Jeffreyston to his second son

Bonvill Hugh de until he was provided with a suitable ecclesiastical benefice, and then to another son presumably the elder brother John --- Williams' eldest son was

Sir Bonville John who had a daughter

Bonville .Elizabeth before 1400 She married,

Carew Thomas , of Carew Castle who was born in 1367. Whether the Bonville property in the county passed to the Carews by that marriage is not known.
As far as I can ascertain with that marriage the Pembrokeshire branch name died out.

There is a record of a

Bonville Sir John de 1330 being summoned as a baron to Parliament in Ireland, but this would suggest that this was not the son of William, although it could have been a brother of Nicholas.

Many Pembrokeshire families at the time held estates in Ireland. He could have been one of the Glamorgan branch from the west of England who definitely held land there.

Note ---According to Leyland ----Bonville ---Lord Bonville had many bastards and whom he left some land to one whose issue male yet remaineth --- (whether or not this was one of the Pembrokeshire family I do not know)

c1500

Philip Elliot, the Husband of Jane Perrot, was of Erwer (now called Amroth Castle) in Pembrokeshire.

John Elliott, son of John Elliott by the second Jane Perrot, married Lettys, daughter of William ap David ap Griffiths of Kidwelly, by Alson, daughter of Richard ap Owain and his wife, Catharine Perrott, of the Pill, Devonshire. Who this Catharine Perrot was is uncertain ; but she seems to have been an heiress, for her daughter, Alson, had a son by her first Husband, Williams John of Bonville Court ; and this son quartered the Perrot arms.
Notes on the Perrot family. Rev. E. L. Barnwell Arch Camb 1865

.....

Sites of Interest

Williamston East

Extensive strip field system to west of Wooden and Moreton as far as East Williamston, recorded during RCAHMW aerial reconnaissance. T. Driver, RCAHMW, 7th October 2008.

Morton Methodist Chapel was built in 1851 in the Simple round-Headed style of the gable-entry type. RCAHMW, October 2010

Broad Moor - Ebenezer Baptist Chapel was built in 1861 in the Sub-Classical style of the gable-entry type.

Strip field system RCAHMW, October 2010

Well preserved medieval earthworks of a strip field system, south of Broad Moor. The s-curve of the field boundaries are evident from the aerial reconnaissance undertaken by RCAHMW on 29th Nov. 2007. The site is now truncated by the A477. L. Osborne, 15th Dec. 2010.

South Hill Cottage RCAM

Attached to this cottage is a circular pig-sty with thatched roof, one of the few remaining examples of a type common in the country a century ago – visited 14th April 1915

Castle Hill RCAM

A group of six fields about $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile from the parish Church, which still goes by the name of Castle Hill. They have Long been under cultivation, and the traces of an earthwork are more than doubtful. Nothing is known locally of such a work.

Hoarstone RCAM

Two fields to the south of the Castle Hill fields are called Hoarstone – visited 14th April 1915

moat Meadow RCAM

The name for two fields just west of the parish Church is now not remembered. Nothing of Archaeological interest is visible upon them, although a small motte Castle may have once occupied the site -- visited 27th May 1915.

Bonville's Court (or Castle)

1810

acc/to Fenton 1810 there was "some small remains of a baronial residence" site swallowed up by the tip of Bonville's Court Colliery

Norman family de Bonville were in the train of the original Norman invaders and held their land from the Bonville's Court (or Castle)

c1300

Bonville Court erected in the Forest of Coydrath eastern part of the Pembroke property of Lordship of Pembroke (the property around Amroth was part of the holdings of the Lord of Narberth) was so called from the Norman settler of that name, whose descendants were, according to Fenton, still existing in the time of Edward II. The building like that of Eastington seems to have been adapted for defence with many of the characteristics of a small Castle with its square tower from which a lookout could be maintained on Carmarthen bay.

1810

acc/to Fenton 1810 there was "some small remains of a baronial residence" site swallowed up by the tip of Bonville's Court Colliery

Norman family de Bonville were in the train of the original Norman invaders and held their land from the Earl's of Pembroke but all trace of them has been lost could have been a medieval Hall house.

1868 Arch Camb E L Barnwell Domestic architecture of South Pembrokeshire

In the parish of St Issel, about four miles from Tenby, is a building which approaches the Castle rather than a domestic edifice. It takes its name of Bonvil Court from one of De Bonville, its anglo Norman possessor; The date however, of whose arrival in there parts is uncertain. The building must be assigned to Edwardian time. The Pembrokeshire De Bonville may be an offshoot of the Glamorganshire family. According to Fenton Nicholas De Bonville was returned as possessing lands in Coedtraeth within which Bonville court stands, in the time of Edward II. He may, perhaps, therefore have been the builder.

The tower at the front of the house, like the square tower at Nangle, is provided with internal communication by a newel stair placed in an angle of the highest tower. The entrance on the right hand leads to the interior of the larger basement, and to the stairs which conduct to the upper chambers and the exterior of the roof. At the opposite end of the building is another entrance, which merely opens into a very narrow vaulted room of rather a wide passage, which was evidently intended for stores only. Over it and the adjoining basement is the large upper chamber which is vaulted in the same manner as the basements. As you enter there is a large fireplace on the right hand and beyond it a window: which, however is a later insertion, like the one beneath which lights the basement. The original windows were doubtless better adapted for defensive purposes than the present one.

In the middle of the building is an opening, the sill of which is level with the floor of the upper chamber. The use of this opening appears to have been the same as the one at Angle, namely the hoisting up of bulky articles, such as could not be easily conveyed up the stairs, There are no traces of any supporting corbels which might have supported a small projecting gallery such as might have commanded the entrances below on each side. At some period and additional building has been reared against the front, but has long since been destroyed. The fragment of a wall still remaining may have been connected with that addition, and which may have been made when the windows in the principal chamber were inserted, and the mansion in general been adapted for more modern requisitions.

Originally there were parapets all round the building; and as the rooms below the roof are stone vaulted, there was good footing for defensive purposes. There appears also to have been a square court which enclosed the building, one side of which seems to correspond with the present low garden in the front. The whole building is far inferior in size to those of Eastington and Nangle, but is nevertheless a valuable example of domestic buildings at a period when the country was still unsettled, and the security of such property depended more on the strength of the building and its occupants than parchment deeds,

Of its history little is known, except that a Welsh family of good descent came into the possession at an early period. The first who assumed the surname of Jones married an Elliot of Amroth. His son William married a daughter of Walter Philpin of Tenby whose mother was Jane sole heir of Thomas Perrot of Scotsborough: and, as in the time of L Dwinn, the owner of Bonville quartered Perrot, this coat may have been thus assumed.

1868 Barnwell --- It is in a very neglected condition, and appears to be an appurtenance common to some cottages at its foot, and which are occupied by miners. The walls, however, are in a tolerably sound condition.

1877 Arch Camb

Bonville Court is now degraded as a depository of rubbish

1895

In Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire (1895)

H Thornhill Timmins states of Bonville Court “ A fortified manor house of the Edwardian period of which but a single dilapid tower and stair –turret remains”

1920

Bonville Court farmhouse was covered over by the slag heap from the colliery in the 1920 and the site later converted into a Caravan park.

Bonville Court Colliery

Bonville's Court Colliery operated from 1842 to 1930, during which time it remained one of the most important collieries in Pembrokeshire. It produced anthracite of exceptional quality, which was particularly valuable in the malting trade, being used in SE England and overseas. Bonville's Court was one of the most organised and mechanised of Pembrokeshire's collieries. In 1925 it employed 3-400 men and was responsible for 82% of the coal output of the County. After closure in 1930 its screens continued in use for some years for coal from nearby pits. Several features from the colliery survive at the Tower Pit site, begun in 1847, now within the caravan park: including the heapstead, power house, weighbridge house, pay office, carpenter's shop, and former railway alignments.

Served by the Saundersfoot Railway from 1830 and later by a branch from the Pembroke & Tenby

Railway (GWR) from 1896. Mining ceased before World War 2. B.A.Malaws, RCAHMW, 09 June 2003

.....
Bonville's Court Colliery was opened first by Myers Mining Company in 1842 but then by the Bonville Coal Co Ltd. It operated till 1930, during which time it remained one of the most important collieries in Pembrokeshire. It produced anthracite of exceptional quality, in much demand for the Navy and which was particularly valuable in the malting trade, being used in SE England and overseas. Bonville's Court was one of the most organised and mechanised of Pembrokeshire's collieries. There were two shafts, one of which was known as the Tower shaft and had a depth of 522 feet and the other shaft west of the Tower shaft reached a depth of 738 ft. Output was around 1000tons per week which was conveyed by rail to Saundersfoot harbour initially but from just before 1900 by a branch linking it to the Pembroke and Tenby railway. In 1920's it employed around 300 men and was responsible for 82% of the coal output of the County but the problems with fractured seams and the reduction in demand for coal by Navy ships, many of whom had coaled at Pembroke Dockyard (closed 1923). Ships that had converted to the use of oil as fuel, with also the problem that the coal seams had only a thickness of 20 inches, lead to its closure in 1930.

Several features from the colliery survive at the Tower Pit site, now within the caravan park: including the power house, weighbridge house, pay office, carpenter's shop, and former railway alignments..

1920 The tower which had been used as a store for colliery tools and the Bonville Court farmhouse were covered over by the slag heap from the colliery in the 1920 and the site later converted into a Caravan park

2008

In 2008 there was an planning application to convert the power house to camping site facilities

Mining Accidents

St Issells	1866 Bonville Court
St Issells	1867 Bonville Court
St Issells	1875 Bonville Court
St Issells	1883 Bonville Court
St Issells	1886 Bonville Court	firedamp explosion
St Issells	1891 Bonville Court
St Issells	1906 Bonville Court
St Issells	1908 Bonville Court
St Issells	1918 Bonville Court
St Issells	1920 Bonville Court

Mine Fatilities

1867	Phillips David age 26 Roof fall
1875	Edwards James age 24 Roof fall
1883	Brinn William Albert age 15 Fell on railway line
1886	Childs John age 16 Explosion of fire damp – took top of safety lamp as they normally worked with naked lights
1891	Thomas George age 48 Roof fall insufficient shoring
1906	Hilling Thomas Henry age 14 Crushed between two trams
1908	Wilson William Phillips age 53 Caught in pit head machinery
1918	Prout John James age 18

St Issells Other Collieries Accident Records

St Issells	1793 Parsonage Pit owned by Rev James Dalton
St Issells	1795 Parsonage Pit
St Issells	1796 Stammers Pit owned by Lord Milford
St Issells	1796 Beacon Hill Pit owned by Messrs Stokes and Roberts
St Issells	1800 west Park Pit owned by Lord Milford
St Issells	1841 Woolstons

St Issells Morton -- sunk about 1770 – 100yds deep - Lord Milford ?- and according to the Picton Papers in 1777 employed 30 men and 8 women. 1839 lease taken over by the Moreton Coal company – it closed 1887

1841 REPORT by Robert Hugh FRANKS, esq., on the Employment of Children and Young Persons in the Collieries, Iron-Works, &c, South Wales

This Mine is not mentioned in this report but in the preamble it does state that some owners were not inclined to co-operate.

St Issells	1843
St Issells	1847 Moreton
St Issells	1847 Moreton all three killed age 13 but one was a girl and under the 1842 Collieries and Mines Act -- No female was to be employed underground and no boy under 10 years old was to be employed underground although Parish apprentices between the ages of 10 and 18 could continue to work in the mines
St Issells	1851 Morton
St Issells	1879 Morton
St Issells	1860 Moreton
St Issells	1880 Moreton
St Issells	1886 Morton gas explosion defective ventilation
St Issells	1853 Lower Level
St Issells	1855 Lower Level

Broad Moor COLLIERY AND OTHER MINING FEATURES Community

East Williamston Type of Site COLLIERY Features representing colliery portrayed as disused on OS County series (Pembroke. XXXV.14 1890), set in an area displaying numerous similar features.
RCAHMW

Ship wrecks Saundersfoot

1832. May 21st. CORNWALLIS (BT BRISTOL). Sloop. 45 tons. Lost in Saundersfoot Bay

1835 October. WHEATSHEAF (SUNDERLAND). Sloop. Saundersfoot Harbour. North Pier.

1839 February 23rd. DURHAM. Collier Brig. Saundersfoot. Just outside harbour.

1867 January. MARTHA. (Milford). Sloop. 31 tons Saundersfoot.

1872 December ANNE. (Aberystwyth). Sailing Ship. 83 tons. Saundersfoot roads Sank at anchor.

1880 October. HARRIET R. (LLANELLI). Brigantine. 130 tons Saundersfoot Stranded. Refloated a month later. Plymouth to Llanelli

History and Heritage Saundersfoot

The harbour in Saundersfoot was first built in 1829 and it transformed the small fishing village into a thriving industrial port exporting high quality anthracite by sea. Queen Victoria decreed that only coal from Saundersfoot should be used to power the first Royal Steam Yacht because it gave intense heat yet produced very little smoke.

Originally, there were many small, privately owned pits and the coal was transported by horse and cart to Coppid Hall Swallow Tree and Wiseman's Bridge where it was transferred to boats which were grounded on the beaches at low tide. When fully laden the boats would sail off when they were floated by the next high tide. The completion of the harbour and the opening of larger and deeper pits producing more coal, saw the construction of rail links bringing coal from the outlying areas of Begelly, Thomas Chapel and the more local Bonvilles Court, as well as Stepside and Wiseman's Bridge.

In 1870 the horses that had towed the "drams" into which the coal was loaded were replaced by steam engines. "The Rosalind" began the day by towing the drams filled with workmen going eastwards to Stepside, returning via Wiseman's Bridge through the tunnels along Railway Street as the Strand was then known and also along Milford Terrace to the foot of the Incline, eventually bringing back its human cargo at the end of the day. Another engine " The Bulldog" operated from the top of the Incline to Bonvilles Court, Begelly and Loveston. There were five coal chutes on the harbour to tip the coal into the waiting barges.

Permission to build the harbour was granted by Parliament in 1829 to the Saundersfoot Railway and Harbour Company for the export of anthracite coal from the many mines in the area, although coal was exported from the beach for centuries before this. The village grew up to serve the port which by 1837 had five jetties handling coal and iron ore and subsequently pig iron and firebricks from local sources. The course of the tramway from Bonville's Court mine bisects the village and ends at the jetty. The tramway from Stepside forms the sea front. The industry finally faded away in the early years of the twentieth century, and the village took advantage of the nearby Saundersfoot railway station to attract tourists from eastern Wales and England.

The Saundersfoot Railway and Harbour Company was formed in 1828 to build a harbour at Saundersfoot and a tramway connecting it to the collieries around Begelly and Stepaside. The tramway, which consisted of two main mineral lines and a number of small branches, originally used horses to pull up to three laden wagons along the tracks.

Of the two main lines, the first was built in two stages to connect collieries near Stepside and the later ironworks (a mile east of Kilgetty railway station) to Saundersfoot, running along the coast through a series of short tunnels and terminating in the centre of the village at the harbour.

The second line ran from the harbour to Thomas Chapel colliery, Begelly. The route, which traversed an incline of 1 in 5 approximately half a mile from the harbour, passed beneath the GWR station through a tunnel at KingsMoor.

As part of a modernisation project, the whole line was upgraded to a narrow gauge railway in 1874. The tramway was relaid with flat bottom rails on wooden sleepers allowing a locomotive to be used on the line to Stepside.

Following the cessation of large-Scale mining around Begelly, the track from the KingsMoor tunnel to Thomas Chapel was lifted in 1887. Around 1914 it was re-laid and a new 1.5 mile branch line built to support the opening of a short-lived colliery at Reynalton. A new engine was purchased for this purpose.

But by the late 1920s coal mining was in recession and the line closed. In 1932 a brief resurgence in local mining led to the lines being briefly reopened.

However, only seven years later, due to financial considerations and the workings becoming exhausted, the railway finally closed on the eve of the Second World War. Subsequently, the rolling stock along with the tracks scrapped for use in the war effort

Scotsborough(see also Tenby)

Scotsborough House,

The residence early in the 17c of Rhys ap Thomas whose monument is in Tenby Church.

Previously

a Perrot family home.

Edward Lluyd stayed there and in a letter dated 28th Feb 1697 records that he - discovered many undescribed zoophytes by dredging here, and many new sorts of figured fossils, among which a figure of a flat fish represents one of the greatest rarities hitherto observed by the curious (this was in the St Florence valley which was at that time tidal could the "flat fish" have been a Trilobite)?

The house was sold by the ap Rhys family early in the 18c.

Introducing west Wales Maxwell Frazer 1956.

Acc/to Medieval Buildings - published by Preseli District Council -

Near Tenby Ruins of Scotsborough - Late medieval mansion of some substance - once a Perrot family home 16c. It is interesting that the Royal Commissioners wrote in 1915 - "of this 16c house hardly one stone remains above another". One suspects they did not walk the full distance up the path to the ruined house.

Slebech and Picton

Slebech

Note - With regard to Slebech Records I am following Fenton for as he says

“It has been my good Fortune to have had a more intimate acquaintance with that curious collection, not only in my friend Mr Symmons's time by his kind favour and indulgence, but in the exercise of my profession as a barrister , since the place has changed masters”.

Also many of the records are old and over time the spelling of names etc. have changed, as far as possible I have used the original document spelling.

Slebech 1847 Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

Slebech, a parish, in the union of Narberth, hundred of Dungledy, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 4½ miles (East.) from Haverfordwest; containing 294 inhabitants. This parish is delightfully situated on the northern bank of the Eastern Cleddy, and on the turnpike-road from Haverfordwest to Narberth. It is bounded by the parish of Wiston on the north, by Lawhaden and Robeston-Wathen on the east, and by Uzmaston on the west; and comprises 4438 acres, whereof about 3000 are pasture, 1000 arable, and the remainder woodland, the timber consisting chiefly of oak, of which there is a great quantity of large growth. The surface is pleasingly varied, and the soil generally fertile, chiefly producing barley and oats. The rates are collected by the ploughland. Limestone is found at a great depth, and some quarries are worked to a limited extent; it is also procured at a small expense, in abundance, in the neighbourhood. On the Eastern Cleddy, at the eastern boundary of the parish, is a large mill and wharf, called Blackpool, where goods are landed for the town of Narberth and the surrounding country, as the river becomes navigable here for vessels of considerable burden. About four miles below, the Eastern joins the western Cleddy; and the two rivers, after flowing a short distance, form the magnificent expanse of Milford Haven.

The parish is enlivened with some gentlemen's seats, the grounds attached to which form a fine contrast to the want of variety and embellishment observable in other portions of the county.

The living is a perpetual curacy, endowed with £200 private benefaction and £800 royal bounty, and in the patronage of the Baron de Rutzen , who is impropriator of the tithes; net income, £50. The old parish Church, originally the Church of the commandery, and the only remaining portion of that establishment, is a venerable structure in the Norman style of architecture, pleasantly situated near the bank of the river, and embosomed in the luxuriant groves which surround it. It contains some ancient monuments, and also a handsome monument of modern erection to the memory of Sir William Hamilton, and his first wife. The building, however, is so much dilapidated that a new Church has been erected about a mile distant, and in a more central part of the parish, entirely of hewn stone, chiefly at the expense of the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen. It was consecrated in the year 1847, and forms a very handsome edifice, conspicuously placed on the side of the turnpike-road: the designs were furnished by H. Goode, jun., esq., of London.

There is a place of worship for Baptists; a day school is held in connexion with the Established Church, and the Baptists have a Sunday school. The commandery of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, according to Bishop Tanner, was established here prior to the year 1301, and endowed with lands by Wize and his son, Walter; it flourished till the Dissolution, when its revenue was estimated at £211. 9. 11.

1807 Slebitch The Scenery Antiquities of South Wales Malkin

The grounds of Slebitch unite with those of Picton Castle.

Slebitch was anciently a commandery settled on the Knights of St John of Jerusalem, with considerable allotment of lands, on the conditions imposed on the order of serving as champions for the recovery of the holy sepulchre. This place is very beautifully situated on the Clethy. There is here one of the best modern houses in South Wales now belonging to Mr Philips

1811 Fenton, Tours

Slebech, once a commandery of the knights hospitallers, or of St John of Jerusalem, though not a trace now remains of the former establishment of this Church militant but the Church itself. All their buildings have long since been swept away.

1815 Beauty of Wales Rees 1815

The elegant mansion of N. Philipps esq. pleasantly situated on its western shore. The present house is of modern date having been built by the late John Symmons esq., of Llanstinan who had come into possession of the property by marrying the heiress. On the decease of his lady without issue Mr Symmons sold the estate to William Knox esq. from whom it was purchased by the present proprietor.

But though Slebech Hall is of recent origin, the site is of ancient celebrity, having been occupied as the seat of a Commandery of the *Knights of St John of Jerusalem. The precise date of the first foundation of this religious establishment at Slebech has not been satisfactorily ascertained. It appears however to have been nearly coeval with the introduction of the order into England which is assigned to the year 1100; for David FitzGerald, Bishop of St David's, who was raised to that dignity in 1148, in a deed still extant confirms the grant of some churches in his diocese to the society.

This establishment appears to have acquired a high reputation at an early period; it was most liberally endowed from time to time by all the great land holders of this part of the principality. At the time of the Dissolution its annual revenues were estimated at £211 9s 11d or £184 10s 11d clear of all charges.

The possessions of this house were at this time sold to Roger and Thomas Barlow

Deed of Sale to Roger and Thomas Barlow. iiij die Junij anno r' r' Henr' viij xxxviij -

Solde by the Kinges Majesties Commissioners the seid day and yere, to Roger Barlowe of Slebeche in the countie of Penbrok gent., and Thomas Barlowe of Catfield in the countie of Norf, clerk.

Parcell of the Com'aundry of Slebich in the countie of Penbroke of the possessions of the late priorye of hospitall of Seint Joh'nes Jerusalem in England.

Mannor, lordship, or late Commaunderey of Slebiche in the countie of Penbrokew't the parsonage of Slebiche and all singuler thappurtenances to theym belonging and apperteyninge, the parsonages of Bulston and Martheltwy in the same countie, and also the Lord-ship or Mannor of Mynwere w't the parsonage of Mynwere in the seid countie, w't thappurtenances to the same belongings, valued by seuerall particulers of the premisses made by William Riggs, Auditor to be clere yerely

-- xxixli ijs iiijd .ob

Wherof in Tenthe and Rent reserued going oute of the seid Mannors, parsonages and oder premisses by yere , lixs iijd

And remayneth clere xxvjli iijs jd ob

Which, sold to the seid Roger Barlowe and Thomas Barlowe at xx'ti years purchas amounting to Dxxiiijli ijs vjd

The last representative of this family conveyed the property by marriage to John Symmons esq..

The remains of the Church which belonged to the House is still standing. It was a very respectable building and had contains some ancient monuments.

1909 Slebech Priory

Scanty are the relics of the celebrated Commandery from when the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem lorded it over the land.

Sir Roger Barlow purchased the estate from King Henry at the Dissolution, and his descendant, Mrs. Symmons, pulled down the Commandery in the latter part of the 18th century, replacing it with the modern house. In the 19th century Baron de Rutzen, then owner, completed the vandalism by desecrating the Commandery Chapel and erecting Slebech new Church in lieu thereof.

The ruined Church consists of nave and chancel (below which is the Barlow vault), North and South transepts, and a three-storied tower. A fine Perpendicular arch, old font, aumbrey and piscina are extant. The encaustic flooring tiles, patterned with heraldic devices, are weathered and worn away ; the beautiful effigies are now at Slebech new Church. On the other side of the water are the interesting, but somewhat mysterious ruins known as the " Sister Houses." Edwards, Emily Hewlett Castles and strongholds of Pembrokeshire Tenby 1909

Slebech Ruined Church

1546 Griffith Hiraethog gave a description of some of the stain glass windows in the Church of Slebeche contained in folio 156 of Peniarth MS 136 NLW and mentioned by Francis Jones in "some Slebech notes". They are not recorded by Fenton

The highest window on the right side The arms of Harry Wogan and of his wife Elizabeth Wogan

The window on the other side The arms of Sir Robert Derses (Sir Robert Eure commander at Slebech 1513)

Of the ancient commandery not a trace is left of any building coeval with it but the Church, a very respectable but not very large building. It is dignified with a tower, and consists of a nave, chancel, and transepts; the floor of the nave is paved with small painted bricks, such as those we find at Carew and in the chancel of the cathedral of St David's and that of of the chancel with black and White marble. The roof of the latter is ceiled with wood in square compartments, with a flower in each angle, and overlaid with the Barlow arms. On the south wall near the communion table is a plain black marble tablet containing an epitaph referring to Anne Vernon and George Barlow dated 1591. Near the above on the same side , under a rich canopy inlaid with white marble, are two recumbent figures in Alabaster, one a female, the other a male; the former seems of older date much than the later, being fitted to the niche, at first not intended for two, for the male effigy is placed without the canopy, being by measurement above six feet, if any reliance is to be placed on the dimensions of such figures, and therefore could not, without using Procrustes's stratagem (?), form a convenient bedfellow for the lady. He is in rich armour, having a collar about his neck, which inclines me to think it was intended for Roger Barlow, who for his great services to Spain might probably have been honoured by Charles the Fifth with that high Mark of distinction. His head rests on his helmet, on which was placed the crest, but ,though mutilated, discovers enough to shew that it bore no similitude to that the Barlows adopter for nearly two centuries. That part of the lady's dress below her waist is disposed in most elegant folds, she is tightly laced, has a cloak over all thrown back, hair loose, flowing, but confined round the head by a twisted roll or wreath, and the whole seems by its appearance to be of a date much prior to the man. Over the canopy, just in the centre, there is an escutcheon of marble, supported by angels, but without blazonry.

There is on the north side of the chancel an elegant mural monument of marble to Anne, wife of John Barlow, esq.. Eldest daughter of Simon Lord Harcourt, who die in 1731.

The achievements of Sir William Hamilton, since his late interment there deck the north wall, as does the achievements of Mr Symmons that of the south, commemorative of the late Mrs Symmons burial there.

The Church is entered by a porch, immediately over the door of which there is an escutcheon of arms in freestone, quartered first and fourth a fesse dauncette, second and third a lion rampant, and over a window higher up on another a plain cross. The arches are a little pointed. That to the north transept is older than the others and more ornamented, and in one of the pillars that it rests on there is a small cell or locker. The south transept has been modernized into a family pew.

The Church of Slebech is a vicarage and was endowed by George Barlow, grandson of Roger Barlow, the first of that name there.

1924 St John's Church; Slebech Old Church RCAHMW

Church, in the possession of the Knights Hospitallers from the 12th century to the dissolution, exhibiting 14th, 15th and 16th century features.

Associated with commandery of the Knights Hospitilers the Church is said to have become parochial at the dissolution. Deliberately ruined in the opening years of the 19th century, becoming a landscape feature in Slebech park/gardens); replaced by Slebech Church

[In the 1990's the Rev Colin Bowen of Pembroke organised some walks/pilgrimages following the old Pilgrims tracks. On one of them we visited the old church at Slebech and took part in a Communion Service there using a very old Chalice and Platen]

Slebech Hall RCAM

1776 The present house, built c. 1776, was built 'Castle wise' in that it once possessed castellated parapets and the rounded bays reflected the round towers of medieval keeps and gatehouses that occur throughout Pembrokeshire and beyond. The castellations were removed from the house some decades ago, but they remain on the outbuildings

The house is an imposing rendered block of three storeys, once painted yellow, with sash windows of twelve lights on the two principal floors and of six on the upper floor. The flat roof, which is still surrounded by a reduced parapet is leaded and there are multiple chimney stacks to either end. The main entrance is to the west-north-west; the door, which is reached up a shallow flight of steps, being protected by a semi-circular canopy. The canopy, which forms an open porch, is supported by four columns, two adjacent to the house and two associated with the steps. This porch is topped with a small castellated design which, presumably, echoed the parapet of the house. To the north and south of the building are the semi-circular bays mentioned by Jones.

The site of Slebech is one of established settlement. In the twelfth century the site was occupied by the Commandery for the Knight's Hospitallers. No views or plans of this building appear in the National Library of Wales but an internal wall, in excess of 1 m wide, is believed by the present owner to have been one of the original walls.

Following the Dissolution, Slebech became the home of the Barlow family and in 1773 Anne Barlow brought it to her Husband, John Symmons of Llanstinan. By then the house was obviously in considerable need of attention and Jones (1951) refers to a letter from Anne Symmons 1774 to her mother Mrs Barlow, written in 1774, in which she complains that the house is cold and they are unable to shut the door because the smoke would not then go up the chimney.

1776 another letter from Anne tells of building work which were being carried out under the direction of Mr Calvert. Plans, probably drawn up about 1760, are held in the National Library of Wales. These show the 'imitation Castle' referred to by Sir Christopher Sykes in 1796 and also alternative designs for the principle entrance and other features.

1783 Slebech was sold to William Knox. Two years later a visitor wrote in his diary for 1787 September 4th 1787 : 'In the way to H. west call at Slebech, a handsome house built Castle-wise, surrounded with fine Woods. The apartments are neat and pleasant. The estate is for sale, the purchase money £75,000. It appears to disadvantage from symptoms of neglect attending the family's leaving it'.

1791 In 1791 Mrs Morgan in her Tour of Milford Haven records: 'It is an exceedingly handsome house and has accommodations for a vast many people. I think they told us there were 25 bedrooms with each a dressing-room adjoining; and likewise two parlours, a study, a drawing room, a dining room and a billiard room, besides offices and accommodations of every other kind'.

1792 According to Jones (1996), the sale particulars of May 1792 of the 7,000 acre estate were very detailed, describing the interior of the house and the curtilage. He states that: 'The mansion had three regular fronts with flights of stone steps to the principle floor. The north and south fronts each extending to 88 feet with uniform semi-circular bows'.

1796 Slebech was eventually sold to Nathaniel Phillips, wealthy Jamaica Merchant. In 1796 Sir Christopher Sykes noted that : 'Slebech now Mr Phillip's but built by the Bowers (sic) now extinct. It is a beautiful Situation on the banks of the Clethy as is also Picton Castle between which places there is a fine Walk of 3 miles along the River side. It is a very good living house of 6 rooms, built in imitation tho a bad one of a Castle but altogether it is a very enviable Place, and capable of Improvement. It stands close to the inner angle of the River by which it commands two fine reaches, and when the tide is up it is very beautiful'.

1815 Estate maps from the Phillips occupation show the plan of the house very much as it is today, although some areas of the grounds were remodelled from c. 1815 onwards.

1822 to 1944, Slebech was the property of the de Rutzen family. John, Baron de Rutzen was killed in action in 1944. His widow, inherited Slebech, later married Lord Dunsany. Slebech was then sold to the Hon. William Philipps, C.B.E., fourth son of the 1st Lord Milford and although he made some internal alterations, the house is essentially the structure erected by Symmons.

To the north and east of the house are the service buildings and stables. One building, which has been referred to as the kitchen or dairy abuts the house to the north. This is an extremely humble building when compared with the adjacent house to the south. Of one and two storeys with an extremely low parapet and single pitched roof, it is dominated by the massive chimney which is at the junction between the higher and lower sections of the building. The stack appears to have been recently rendered and it is thought that the parallel fluting is a representation of the original. Because of the size and complexity of the chimney, it has been suggested that this was part of the original structure of the Commandery.

To the north-east of the house and set nearly at a right-angle to it is the coach house and stable courtyard. This complex is thought to have been designed by Keck, who also worked at Penrice, Gower, in the late eighteenth century. The three-sided building stands mostly to two storeys with decorative recessed arches on the ground floor. Across these arches and below the castellated parapet run dressed stone string courses that would have originally stood proud of the rendering. At the two southern corners and over the principal grand entrance are elevated, castellated walls that give the effect of towers. Some of the rendering has now gone revealing that windows have been moved and blocked; although it is not clear when these alterations were made.

Fenton apparently knew the site well and had access to family papers and documents; indeed B.G.Barlow writing in the National Library of Wales Journal in 1947-48 suggests that Fenton may have 'acquired' some of the Slebech papers including, possibly, a late eighteenth-century map. That notwithstanding, Fenton does give some clues as to the origin of the terraces, stating that they were 'of Dutch origin, and much in vogue about a century ago'. This suggests the garden design influences introduced under the reign of William III and Mary II and would put the creation of the terraces to somewhere between 1689 and 1702, possibly during the occupation of Sir John Barlow or his successor.

is a well-known and well-preserved park with extensive gardens set within an outstandingly beautiful and picturesque location. This ancient site incorporates the romantic remains of the Church of St John the Baptist. Although now outside the walled garden, which was to the north of the stable block, the layout has changed little since the plan of about 1790. The park and water features to north and east of the house are recorded on this plan. The south-facing terraces overlooking the Eastern Cleddau are of outstanding historical interest. They were probably constructed by Sir John Barlow or his successor during the reign of William and Mary . The range of plant material within the park and garden remains extensive and impressive.

Slebech Park, Stables RCAHMW

The stables at Slebech Park, dating from the late 18th century, are largely two-storeyed, castellated, measuring 40m NW-SE by 30-40m. Originally entered from south-west, the open north-east side being closed by a coach house, having a walled garden adjoining on the north-west; currently entered from north-west. Associated with house of c.1776

1773 Slebech Hall

According to Francis Jones in his article "Some Slebech notes" (1952)

"Nothing is known of the old house of Slebech. After the dissolution the Commandery became the property of the Barlows, who, no doubt, found it necessary to make structural alterations."

In the Hearth Tax records of 1670 for Slebech Parish there is a record of Sir Erasmus Phillips of Picton Castle paying tax on ten Hearths but the name Barlow is not mentioned at all. [Looking further afield I found that John Barlow of Slebech paid Hearth Tax for seven hearths on a property at Martletwy.]

Later descriptions would indicate that it was not a very comfortable house to live in.

It was one hundred years later that Anne Barlow heiress to the property married John Symmons of Llanstinan. The letter Anne Symmons wrote to her mother in 1774 complained about the coldness of the house, smoking chimneys and doors which could not be shut. They lived, she said, in the breakfast parlour. Is there any wonder that in 1776 alterations had started although from Anne Symmons correspondence of 15th November 1776 it would seem that they were still living there while alterations were going on.

Pre 1811 Fenton-- Slebech Mansion there is no doubt but that the present mansion of Slebech occupies part of the old site of the commandery, yet the elegant edifice we now see retains nothing that can enable us to form any idea of the extent or disposition of that religious house, which was most likely connected with that of offices. The pleasure grounds are neatly laid out, and the gardens are extensive, where the hanging terraces of Dutch origin, and are much in vogue about a century ago, are happily made subservient to fashionable luxury, by presenting walls of the best exposure for out-door fruit and a series of noble walks and parterres.

The present proprietor Mr Phillips seems to have taken firmer root than most modern purchasers, having married a lady of the country.

1830

Slebech Hall was a substantial building in the form of a square with a circular tower at each corner, and a wing containing domestic offices on its north side.

1847,

The property of the Baron de Rutzen , by marriage with the heiress of the late Nathaniel Phillips, esq., is an elegant, substantial, and comparatively modern mansion, presenting a quadrangle of noble elevation, and containing a fine collection of paintings by the old Masters, marble busts, and bronzes, with every appendage of luxury. Near the house is an extensive garden, strikingly pleasing in its appearance, with curious and ancient terraces, planted with the rarest fruit-trees and choicest vines, forming a rich and ornamental vineyard, attached to a Long range of hot-houses: the park has lately been very considerably enlarged, and inclosed with a lofty wall. The house was erected by the late John Symmons, esq., on the site of a commandery of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, which at the Dissolution was purchased by Roger and Thomas Barlow, the last representative of which family conveyed it by marriage to the late Mr. Symmons, from whom it was purchased by Nathaniel Phillips, esq., whose daughter is the present Baroness de Rutzen. There are many peculiar privileges belonging to the property, such as right of free Warren, &c.

1872 Annals and Antiquities Thomas Nicholas

Adjoining the manor of Picton Castle is Slebech, now called Slebech Hall a name the origin of which is unknown (Baron de Rutzen), a place of great antiquity, remarkable as having been a commandery of the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, and as such the resort of pilgrims, devotees, and mendicants for several ages. Glyn Cothi, the historic bard of the time of the Wars of the Roses, in a poem addressed to his friend Sir Thomas Philips, of Picton, aforesaid, whom he calls "Tomas ab Phylip o Bictwn," gives us to understand that he was himself of the number of such pilgrims, and bespeaks a resting-place at Picton, while in search, we suppose, of ghostly benefit. He says that at Slebech, as at the holy island of Bardsey, pardons and purification were to be obtained under St. John's auspices. In his greeting to Sir Thomas Philips and his lady he alludes to the latter as "descended from two Barons, Wogan the Fair and Owen Dwinn," calls her "the golden daughter of Harri Dwinn," and avers that in her old age she wore "a saintly face." (L. G. Cothi's Works, p. 301.)

1895 Slebech House (Hall) Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire Timmins appears to have been erected at a period when architecture had fallen to about its lowest ebb ; its yellow plastered walls being pierced with rows of featureless windows, and surmounted by meagre, meaningless battlements. Nevertheless, the spacious chambers command such charming vistas of woodland and shimmering waters, as to go far towards making amends for architectural shortcomings.

The mansion has superseded a structure of no mean antiquity, but of its history, which was presumably quiet and uneventful, few records have survived to our times.

1897 J Roger Rees comments

As to the place itself : Slebech Hall which, by the way, is a comparatively modern building occupying the site of the ancient Commandery, is in the occupation of Baron de Rutzen , the present owner of the estate, and is charmingly situated on the banks of the Cleddau, midway between the towns of Haverfordwest and Narberth, from either of which places it is within easy driving distance. But the pleasantest way of getting to it — in the summer time, at least — is by boat from the Great Western Railway terminus at New Milford going up with the flow of the tide and returning with its ebb.

The old Commandery has hopelessly disappeared,I think I am correct in stating that there is no document or picture in existence giving any idea of what the old house was like. One fact, however, is tolerably clear : it was built for purposes of defence.

1930,s

In the 1930's an heiress of Picton married the heir to Slebeche but shortly after World War 2 the Slebech park estate and the Hall were sold. The Hall was turned into flats. The property were repurchased by the family in the late 1950's

Slebech Parish

Most of Slebech parish is taken up with the Picton and Slebech estates. In the 12th century there was a Commandery of the Knights of St. John here, with the rights of sanctuary for criminals and refugees.

This benefice was one of the churches granted by Wizo the Fleming, Lord of Wiston, Walter his son, and Walter the son of Walter, to the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, under whom the Church at Slebech was served by a curate. On the dissolution of the monastic establishments the advowson with the other possessions of the Slebech Commandery came into the hands of the Crown,

1546

It was purchased by Roger Barlow, whose descendants resided at Slebech.

The Church of Slebech was endowed by George Barlow (the grandson of Roger Barlow, who acquired the advowson from the Crown) with a house and land, and tithes of the parish of Slebech, etc.

In the list of churches appropriated to the preceptory of Slebech appears this entry in the Eccl.:-
Ecclesia de Slebeche per annum cx.

Under the heading "Not in Charge": Slebech Cur. (St John Baptist). Preceptory of Slebeche olim Impr.; William Knox, esq.. £5 certified value. – Bacon's Liber Regis.

Slebech ruined Chapel stands beside the 18th century Slebech Hall and a service is held here once a year on the first Sunday in June. The ruined Church and its churchyard still belongs to the Order of St John.

Only the main walls are left.

1811 Fenton Vill of Slebech

At a little distance from the (old) Church towards the west stood the vill of Slebech, where the vassals of the commandery lived, but of which not a vestige now exists, though I am informed that about a century ago several of the houses were inhabited.

1581 Barlowe John 1581, Oct, 21, Lewis Begge of Slebech, yeoman, John Barlowe of the same, esq., Grant of a messuage and a garden in the town of Slebech above the wall of the cemetery of St, John the Baptist on the west side, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1923 RCAM The Modern Parish Church

The Parish Church Church dedicated to St John the Baptist. This is a modern building.

It contains two effigies that have been removed from the earlier parish Church, which was deliberately ruined and deserted by the first Baron de Rutzen about the commencement of the 19th century. The ruins comprise the remains of the tower, the chancel, transeptal Chapels, and the nave, all the buildings are roofless. The south transept appears to have been walled in and a fireplace introduced when it was converted into a family pew by the Barlows. – visited 14th July 1920

The old Church

According to the churchwardens accounts (which commence with the year 1706) show that from the year 1757 constant repairs were required by the Church.

1747 a payment was made for tiling the Church, but whether this refers to the floor or the roof is uncertain; it may be mentioned, however, that there are tiles on a portion of the floor of the Church at the present time. The accounts indicate that the Church was steadily decaying.

1762 no fewer than 3000 slates were purchased at 7s. 6d. per thousand, and 3000 more slates at 7s. per thousand were bought in 1763, while on 8 Mar., 1764, Lewis Harry was paid for 4+ days work at 1s. 2d. per day, for repairing several small breaches broken on the roof of the Church by storms at different times in February .

1766 It would appear that in 1766 the ceiling, or a portion of it fell down. The accounts show that 8000 slates at 7s. per thousand, 1000 ft. of deal at 1s. per ft., 40 bundles of laths at 1s. 4d. per bundle, 180 Bushels of lime at 1s. per bushel, and 8 lbs. of lath nails at 2s. 6d. per lb., were bought for repairs, while among other disbursements to workmen, Onven, the boatmate, received 4s. for the job of stripping the Church. From this period down till the year 1804 there was frequent expenditure on the maintenance of the Church and in the last mentioned year 8000 slates, at 11s. 6d. per thousand, were purchased.

1804 John Harries received £5 10s. 3d. for tiling the Church at 7d per yard, the area repaired by him being 169 yards. From 1804 down till 1812 (the latest year covered by the accounts) little appears to have been spent on the up-keep of the Church.

1812 new wheel for the Bell was obtained from Morris Owen at the cost of £1 1s and £1 15s. was laid out in acquiring a chest to hold the parish records.

Many interesting entries are contained in these accounts. One of these is the payment in 1706 of 1s. for a "Locke to ye stocked" which indicates that this form of punishment was still in vogue in the parish at that time. Another is the payment of 2s in 1709 to John Howell "for a foxe" a payment which suggests that foxes were more plentiful in that district than at the present day.

1840 In c1840 the original Church was unroofed and the 15th century effigies of Sir John Wogan and his wife were removed to a new Church.

1895 Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire.

The mansion and ruined Church of Slebech occupy the site of a Commandery of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, who early in the twelfth century established a small community here, to collect funds for the purposes of that ancient fraternity. The creation of this Commandery appears to have been an event of considerable importance ; and we find such names as Maurice de Prendergast, the invader of Ireland, and FitzGerald, the Bishop of St David's, enrolled amongst its earliest benefactors.

Dedicated to St. John the Baptist, the old ruined Church of the Knights-Templars stands in a low, sheltered situation, half surrounded by the waters of the Cleddau ; just one of those secluded spots that seem to have been congenial to the mediaeval temperament. The main walls and arches of the fabric still remain fairly intact, and, like the western tower, are smothered in masses of rank, untended ivy.

A doorway in the northern face of the tower gives access, beneath a low-pitched, Gothic archway, to the interior of the Church. This archway is surmounted by a decayed stone escutcheon, charged with certain armorial bearings which Fenton deciphered as ' arms quarterly, first and fourth a fesse dauncette, second and third a lion rampant.' A similar shield, at the apex of an upper window, displays the simple cross of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

The dismantled interior, carpeted with rank herbage and vaulted with the dome of heaven, looks picturesque in its decay..

Through the open archway upon the right we gain a glimpse of the roofless, desecrated chancel. When Fenton was here, about the beginning of the present century, the latter was still covered with its wooden ceiling, fashioned into square compartments and ornamented at the crossings of the beams with floreated enrichments, conspicuous amidst which appeared the arms of the Barlow family.

At that time the Barlow monument occupied a prominent position against the south wall of the chancel, which may be easily identified by the ragged stonework whence the structure has been torn away.

This act of vandalism is much to be deplored, for the monument appears to have been an unusually handsome one, the effigies of Barlow and his lady reposing beneath a sumptuous canopy, surmounted by a blank escutcheon.

By some lucky chance these figures have escaped destruction, and are now safely stowed away in the vaults of Slebech new Church. They are excellently carved in alabaster, that of the knight being of great size ; his head with its long curling locks rests upon a helmet, while the collar and order of the Golden Fleece is suspended around his shoulders. Hence it is supposed that this figure represents a certain Roger Barlow, who in the reign of Henry VIII. travelled into Spain, and was employed by the Spanish Monarch in his South American ventures.

The lady, whose effigy is apparently of somewhat earlier date than that of the male figure, is arrayed in a handsome robe, over which is drawn a gracefully flowing mantle ; while her Long, smooth hair, bound with a chaplet around the brows, falls upon either side about her sloping shoulders. Foundations of ancient buildings are said to have been traced in the grounds, between the Church and the neighbouring mansion ; but nothing worthy of note has as yet seen the light of day.

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire J T Evans 1905

Slebech (S. John Baptist). — Once a rich possession of the Knights Hospitallers. In the reign of Henry the 8th the greater part of the estate was acquired by the Barlow family in whose possession it continued for about 130 years. The Church which almost adjoins the mansion is now in ruins, and the plate is kept by the patron and present owner of Slebech, the Baron de Rutzen . It consists of a Chalice and Paten cover, Flagon and Almsplate, all bearing the Hall Mark of the Britannia standard for 1714 with maker's Mark A Ne for Anthony Nelme. The cup is Bell-shaped and carries a knopped stem, the lower half of the bowl being inscribed " This Plate was given to Slebech Church in the County of Pembroke in the year '1714 by John Barlow esq." ; height, 8 in. ; diam. of bowl, 4in. ; depth, 4in. ; diam. of base, 3in. ; weight, 13oz. 10dwts. Beneath the Paten cover the inscription is as follows " This Plate was given to Slebeche Church in the County of Pembroke in ye year 1714" and on the foot or handle " by T B " ; diam., 4 in. ; weight, 5oz. — The Flagon is a fine Tankard- shaped vessel with whistle handle, thumb-piece to raise the domical lid, and spreading base, the inscription being similar to that on the chalice except that " Slebech " is here " Slebeche " . — The Almsplate carries the same inscription ; diam., 8| in. ; weight, 11 oz. 3 dwts.

The Knights of St John of Jerusalem or knights hospitallers – Fenton 1811

Afterwards called the knights of Rhodes, and now knights of Malta are indisputably the oldest equestrian fraternity in the Christian world. Though it manifested such vigour in its after growth, its infant state was very feeble, for they were no knights but pure almsmen supported by charity, without any honour but what they derived from being eleemosynary ministers.

In the beginning of the ninth century the merchants of Amalfi in the kingdom of Naples traded to Syria, and usually led to visit the holy city of Jerusalem, were desirous of having a Church there. The Caliph of Egypt Romensor Mustesaph gave them permission to build one in that quarter set aside for Christians, opposite to the Chapel of the Resurrection. This Church was consecrated to the blessed Virgin, and called St Mary the Latin, to distinguish it from others in which the Latin customs were not observed; to this succeeded a convent for monks of the order of St Benedict, whose duty it was to receive and entertain such pilgrims as came there; and in consequence of the increasing number of the pilgrims, an hospital for male persons only, the healthy as well as the sick, with an additional Chapel to the honour of St John the Baptist for its peculiar use. The hospital was under the direction of a master or rector, appointed by the abbot of St Mary's.

Gerald of the island of Martinique on the coast of Provence was the first who had the superintendence of it in that character

Some years later Godfrey of Bouillon having conquered Jerusalem, and being struck with the meekness, the humility, and the benevolence of this institution, endowed it with large estates, and induced other persons of rank to imitate his princely munificence, so that in a short time the revenues of the hospital were considerably augmented.

Thus circumstanced, Gerald and his brethren thought it might be for the advantage of the hospital to separate it from the jurisdiction of the convent, and establish a particular congregation under the protection and to the honour of St John the Baptist. With the title of Hospitallers, or Brothers of the hospital of St John of Jerusalem. In 1104 the order became military and in 1113 the year of Gerald's death Pope Pascall the Second was pleased to confirm all the donations which had been made to the hospital, taking it under his apostolical protection, and ordaining that after Gerald's death the inspector should be chosen from the fraternity.

To Gerard succeeded Raymond de Podio, or, as translated, du Puy, who first assumed the title of master, and drew up a code of written laws for their government, exacting, in addition to their strict observance of the three solemn vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience to their superior, that they must receive the sacrament thrice a year, hear mass once a day if possible, and are to be no merchants, no usurers, art to fight no duels, and to stand neuter should the princes of Christendom fall out.

The first grand master separated the hospitallers into three classes, the first to consist of gentlemen who were destined to defend the faculty and protect the pilgrims; the second of chaplains and priests to supply the Church; and the third of serving brothers, who formed the militia of the order.

To be qualified for the order the person was to be eighteen at least, of able body, not descended of Jew or Turk, no bastard except a prince's bastard.

At his creation the knight was first girt with a belt, to remind him of the necessity of preserving his chastity, then had a sword with a cross hilt delivered to him in token that he must be valiant in defence of the cross. With the sword unsheathed he was struck three times over the shoulders to teach him patiently to suffer for Christ, which sword taking in his hand he waved, and thrice plunged its point into the air, thereby, as were defying the enemies of the Catholic faith in the name of the holy Trinity. The sword was then wiped and sheathed, implying that from that time his life was pure and undefiled. Gilt spurs were next fixed on as a stimulus to noble actions, and because he was to spurn gold as dirt. With a taper in his hand, for he was to be a light to others by his exemplary life, he was to proceed to hear mass; and after carrying the missal on which he ratified his three solemn vows to the altar and back again to the person commissioned to invest him, received the insignia of the order and was admitted into all its privileges annexed too it. With a rope round his neck, betokening his submission to the yoke of the Lord, he was dismissed.

The reputation of this military brotherhood diffused itself over all the world, and they had seminaries in most of the countries of Europe, and said to be possessed of twenty thousand manors in Christendom.

The Order of the Knights has shrunk spectacularly, but it is still in existence headed by a Grand Master and several Commanders over the Knights. It devotes itself to maintenance of hospitals. The uniform remains the same, a black Tudor cap and the White eight-pointed Maltese Cross worn on a black cloak. Their blessing still remains too, we wish you all "God Speed" today as of yore.

The Knights of St John of Jerusalem Slebeche – Fenton 1811

1100 In England John Briset a rich and religious man built the Knights of St John a large house at Clerkenwell near west Smithfield and they soon acquired immense possessions. Their superior, the Lord prior had a seat in parliament and was accounted the first lay baron.

How early Slebech was founded is not definitely known but one of the earliest benefactors was Wizo and Walter his son who granted the land of Slebech itself with advowson of its Church, as well as that of several other churches in Daugleddeau

This establishment is NOT mentioned by Giraldus 1146-1223 but he lists most of the other religious establishments.

1145 They owned enormous lands in South Wales in 1145 and were strong enough locally to have a commander at Slebech. Not even Bishops could discipline them and they could offer sanctuary to any criminal they liked, provided the crime was not treason or sacrilege. When some one happened to be ex-communicated, he would be cold shouldered by most of his friends. The Hospitallers were not bound to turn their backs on the excommunicated, they had the vested right to say "God Speed" to them.

1147 to 1176 Bishop David FitzGerald –between those dates grants and confirmed the appropriation of several churches in his diocese to the Knights Hospitallers at Sebech

1175 to 1203 Bishop Peter de Leia also confirmed the appropriation of some churches to the Knights Hospitallers at Slebech

1259 In a Papal Bull of 1259 Alexander IV addressed the Hospitallers "the elect people of God, a princely race, an earnest body of righteous men."

Many men of property contributed, some agreeing that, if they ever adopted religious habit, it would be that of the Knights Hospitaller and many bequeathed their bodies to be interned among that of the fraternity.

Master's of the Order in Pembrokeshire held some of the highest orders under the Crown ; Robert Waldeslief for example under Edward I in the late 1200's was *Steward of Pembroke, a Kings Justice of west Wales and the King's Justice in the bishopric of St David's 1415 10 November 1415 Institution of Sir John Cokworthy to the parish Church of Rudbaxton on the presentation of Brother Walter Grendons, Prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, the benefice vacant by the death of the last incumbent. Given at London.

Schedule of Properties attached to Slebech Commandery Knights of St John 13c

*Arch Camb*1897 & 1898

It would appear from this list that the earliest Properties were given c1130 also the land of Slebech (100 acres) and much other property was given to the Commandery by Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson pre 1176 pre1176 ? Amlot ? The Church to the Knights of St John Confirmation by Bishop David (1147-76)

c1150 Herizon William by permission of William de Narberth

Amstrud the Church with 50 acres of Sanctuary land and two carucates with there appertenances and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

1142 Hanerand (Anerawd, son of Gryffith ap Rhys) Benegerdon one carucate of land upon Berngdone (Benegerduna)Manor and the vill which is called Dolbryvawr [. Anerawd could well have been, in 1140, Lord of the land which afterwards came into the possession of the Martins, possibly through the marriage of William Martin with a daughter of Rhys ap Gryffith.] to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1150 le Poer William Blakedon seven oxgangs of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

pre 1230 Maelgyn the Great Maelgyn Merthyr Kinlas? (Mathry?) a moiety of his land which is called Merthyr Kinlas to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1150 son of Lomer Robert Minwear all his land with the Church of Mynwere and all their apparently and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

pre 1169 son of Gryffith Owen Moelon(Cardiganshire?) all the land called Moyl'on to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1195 son of Martin Raymond Martletwy the Church of Martheltwi with all its appurtenance and liberties (the right of advowson was held by William de Caumville who released it)to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

1176 son of Eilard (Elidur) Willia Alleston(Aylwardstone) One carucate of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1145 sons of Eugene Mereduc, William and Res Kidwelly all the arable land of Kidwelly with forest and plains etc. to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19,880

c1130 son of Letard Yvo Llanychaer the Church of the vill Letard with its appurtenance to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation (this Church site is now occupied by a farm-house called Hen Eglwys)

c1195 son of Martin William Benegerdon Two carucates of land in Benegerduna to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1200 son of William son of Martin William Newport one burgage in the New Burgh in Kemes to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1150 son of William de Henllys Maurice Berry (Bury part of Llwyngwayr) fifteen acres of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1150 son of Gryffith Kadugan Betmenon? The whole land of Betmenon with its appurtenances and liberties (a Church, mill etc)to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1150 son of Gerald (and Neste) and Odo his son c1150 Redberth the whole vill of Redebard to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1176 son of Gryffith Rhys Llansantffraid (Cardiganshire) the Church of Lansafreit and all the land which belonged to William of Lansafreit with all their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1176 son of Gryffith Rhys Llanrhystyd (Cardiganshire) the whole land of Riustud with the vill and Church and mill and their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation post 1230 son of Gryffith Owen Rhostie (Cardiganshire) all his land of Riostoye to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1145 son of Haion, William; son of Godebert, Robert; son of Tancard, Richard c1145 Rosemarket the whole vill of Rosmarche with the Church, mill and lands and all their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1125 son of Humphrey Robert c1125 Llanfair-nant-y-gof the Church of Landegof and two carucates of arable land with all their appurtenance and liberties except the lords Chapelry to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1200 may be c1230 son of Raymond John Blakedon one oxgang of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19,880

c1145 son of Tancard Richard Garlandeston?(part of Skomer island?) the Church of Garlandston with one hundred and twenty acres of land and their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1145 son of Tancard Richard Haverfordwest six burgages in the vill of Haverford (St Mary's) with their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1160 son of Stephen by Neste Princess of Wales Robert Llanvynach the Church of St Brenach of Bleintav in Kemeys and one hundred acres of land with all their appurtenances and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1278 son of King Henry III Edmund Llanllwch a third part of the mill of Landloche and its pool to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1170 son of Wizo and Henry his son Philip Bocchinfeild ?(in Dungledy) five carucates of land on Willansel and Bocchinfeild to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1170 son of Philip son of Wizo Henry Alleston(Aylwardstone)
One oxgang of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

pre 1176 son of Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson Merryborough(near Wiston) the land of St Mary Bergha to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

pre 1176 Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson Boulston the Church of Boulston with its Chapel of Pincheton to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

[Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c 11.?? Picton the Church of Boleston with its Chapel of Pincheton to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation] pre 1176 Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson Clarbeston the Church of St Martin of the vill of Clarenbald to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation pre 1176 Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson Almenolffestun the Church to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson Prendergast the Church of Predegast to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c11.. Rinaston (near Ambleston) The Chapel of the Vill of Reineri to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c11.. Uzmaston the Church of Osmund's vill to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c11.. Walton
East The Church of blessed Peter of Waletun to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms

Confirmation

C11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c11.. Wiston the Church of St Mary of the Castle of Wizo to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c11 Woodstock the Chapel of Wodestoke to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C1170 son of Wizo Philip and Henry his son c1170 Willansel (in Dungledi) five carucates of land upon Willansel and Bocchinfeild. to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson c11..
 Rudbaxton the Church of Rudepagston to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms
Confirmation

c11?? Wizo, Walter his son and Walter his grandson Slebech
the whole vill of Slebech (one hundred acres of land) with the Church, mill, fishery and lands with all their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C1160 son of Wizo Walter c1160 Stokebury half a carucate of land upon Stokebury to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C1188 Bured Robert c1188 Burlake? (Barnlake?) All his lands in Burlake to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C1150 Lodmer Robert c1150 Canaston All his land of Mynwere together with all the land of Cadugan within the territory of Mynwere to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19,880

1241 Marescal William Earl of Pembroke 1241 Canaston A free chase and Warren over the whole manor of Mynwere including the land of Cadugan with all the forest of the manor with its liberties and customs to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle
Hill MSS vol 19,880

C1158 Clare Roger Earl of Clare c1158 Cardigan Three burgages in the town of Cardigan to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

pre 1176 Hai Simon (son of William de Hay) Cilmaenllwyd(Carmarthenshire) the Church of Kilmaenloc with its appurtenances and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

pre1176 Apelgard Walter Cilsant (Carmarthenshire) one carucate of land on the west side of the Castle of Res ap Bleder to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

post1230 le Bull Adam Clarbeston one burgage together with two oxgangs of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19,880

C1160 de HwlFord (Lord of Haverfordwest)Robert c1160 Cuffern two carucates of land in Coferum to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

Ante 1142 Hanerand (Anerawd, son of Gryffith ap Rhys)
Dolbryvawr one carucate of land upon Berngdone (Benegerduna)Manor and the vill which is called Dolbryvawr [Anerawd could well have been, in 1140, Lord of the land which afterwards came into the possession of the Martins, possibly through the marriage of William Martin with a daughter of Rhys ap Gryffith.] to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

C1195 Marescal Earl of Pembroke William Esgermaenhir (near Newcastle Emlyn) the Church of Castelhan Emelin and the whole land (80 acres)of Castel Emelin and Esgermaenhirwith all their appurtenance and liberties

c1158 Clare Roger Earl of Clare Homdon (Cardigan) one hundred acres of land at Homdon to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1221 de Brewose John Ilston the Church of St Yltint vanik in Goher with all its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1170 de Londres William c1170 Kidwelly two burgages and twelve acres of land in Kedweli to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1167 de Turberville William Llandimore (Gower) the Church of Landimor (no records of this Church after 1291) to the Knights of St John Slebech
Anselms Confirmation

pre 1176 Lord of Penkethli ? pre 1176
Llanfigan (Breconshire) the Church of St Maugan with all its appurtenances and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1200 Carpenter Robert Llanllwch a moiety on his mill of Landlothe outside the walls of the town of Carmarthen to the Knights of St John Slebech
Anselms Confirmation

c1167 de Turberville William c1167 Llanrhidian (in Gower) the Church of Lanriden (with its Chapel of Walterston) to the Knights of St John Slebech
Anselms Confirmation c1158 de Clare Roger Earl of HertFord Llansantffraid (Cardiganshire) the Church of Lanfracrie with five carucates of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1170 Marmoi Geoffrey and his heirs Llanstephan (Carmarthenshire) the Church of St Stephen of Landestephan with fifty acres of arable land and one curcate of land between Goher and Longfforest and a fishery in the Taf with all the easements of the same vill of Landestephan in wood and plain and in ways etc and a boat with free ferryage across the Towy to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation --(his heirs--- William de Chamvilla and Albrea his wife, Sir William de Chamville son of William and Albrea, Geoffrey de Damville(Chamville) Lord of Llanstephan followed--- a William de Camville was Justice of South Wales c1285)

pre 1176 de Bruse William and Meurich son of Adae Llanvihangel-nant-melan (Radnorshire) the Church of St Michael of Nantmelan with all its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1165 de Newburgh Henry Lloughor (Gower) the Church of Lochud with 3002 all its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1113 de Cantitun Jordan Newcastle- Emlyn the Church of Castelhan Emelin and twenty acres of land lying near the Church to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation --- This grant had the confirmation of William son of Grold (Gerald) William FitzGerald son of Gerald and Neste who appears to have been Governor of Tenby Castle c1152

c1195 Mareacal William Earl of Pembroke c1195 Newcastle - Emlyn the Church of Castelhan Emelin and the whole land of Castelhan Emelin and Eschirmainhir with all their appurtenances and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1165 de Mara (de la Mare) Robert Oxwich (Gower)
Ten acres of the fee of Oxenwiche with their appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1165 Tortemains (Tortesmaris?) Helia Oxwich (Gower) Twelve acres and a little corner over and above to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

After 1230 de Haidon Thomas after 1230 Penkeyte (Pencoed) his right in the land of Penkeyte to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1200 Blanesighel John Penmaen (Gower) the Church of St John Baptist of Penmaine with all its appurtenance and liberties and twenty four acres of Sanctuary-lands pertaining to the same Church to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation and Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1180 de Penrice John Penrice (Gower) the Church of St Andrew of Penrice with all its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1165 de Mara Robert Porteynon (Gower) The Church of Porthainan and a mansion by the Church and six acres of land which Thomas the priest's son held to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1167 de Turberville William c1167 Rhosilly (Gower) the Church of Rossili with all its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech
Anselms Confirmation

? ? Ros, Castle??The Church of St Leonard of the Castle of Ros with its tithes and all its profits to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c11?? Rudepac Alexander Rudbaxton the advowson of the Church of St Madoc in the vill of Rudepac with the Chapel of St Leonard of Castle Symons , for charitable uses for ever to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1130 le Poer Philip St Lawrence the Church of St Lawrence of Patrick's Ford and the tithe of the mill and fishery of the same Ford, together with nine acres of land between Hellebeches and the Church, and seven acres above Poersberch to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

1147-76 Bishop of St David David Sarnnelay? The Church of Sarnnelay to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

Ante 1176 son of Elidr Robert Ante 1176 Stackpole two messuages and two oxgangs of land at Stakepol to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1165 son of Walter Robert Swansea a third part of the whole fee of Brictric Canut and one acre of meadow and thirty acres of land with their appurtenance and liberties all being for the construction of the Chapel of St John the Baptist to the Knights of St
John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1165 de Newburgh Henry Swansea one burgage, together with the burgage of William son of Palmer and twelve acres of land which Einan and his brother Goroneu sons of Loarht gave – all in the vill of Sweyneshea to the Knights of St John Slebech
Anselms Confirmation

c1180 de Penrice John c1180 Swansea the house of the Hospital of St John the Baptist at Swansea which he had built, for charitable uses for ever to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

c1221 de Brewose John Swansea all the land which is called Mullewood (Millwood now known as Cwmfelin) and Borlakesland (Bwria Heig and Cwmbwria) with its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1158 Earl of Clare Roger c1158 Troed-yr aur (Cardiganshire) the Church of Traftrehir with all its appurtenance and liberties to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c 1167 de Turberville Walter Walterston (Gower) the Church of Lanriden with its Chapel of Walterston to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

c1130 de Poer of Kemeys Philip Welsh Hook two carucates of land in Walschok to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation c1158 Earl of Clare Roger Ystrad Meyric (Cardiganshire) The Church of Stradmeurice with five carucates of land to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol 19880

ante1176 son of Gryffith Rhys Ystrad Meyric (Cardiganshire) the lands of Stratmeurich to the Knights of St John Slebech Anselms Confirmation

1100 to 1536 Knights Hospitallers of St John of Slebech and other names connected with Slebech

12c son of Godebert Robert 12c vill of Rosmarche to Slebech
Preceptory Anselms Confirm charter.

12c son of Haions William 12c vill of Rosmarche to Slebech Preceptory
Anselms Confirm charter.

12c son of Tankard Richard 12c vill of Ros marche to Slebech
Preceptory Anselms Confirm charter.

1115 Rudapec Alexander 1115 gave Rosemarket Church to the Knights of St John of Jerusalem

1130 Fitz Tancred Tancard Richard 1130 surviving son of Tancred outlived his elder brothers and inherited. Made donations to the Knights of St John at Slebech.
The Church of Garlandstone, given by the Richard Fitz Tancred , may have been the destroyed
Church in Skomar Island He was granted two fees of the episcopal Barony by Bishop David Fitz Gerald. Documents record him as being Lord and governor of Haverfordwest 1171 and Lord and governor of Haverford 22 March 1188.

1131 Godebert, "a Fleming of Roose", recorded as holding lands in that district in 1131, his two sons, Richard and Rodbert, took part in the Irish expeditions. Richard was one of the first invaders, and is called in the Norman-French poem," The Song of Dermot and the Earl, a "Knight from Pembrokeshire." Rodbert, gave lands in Roose to Slebech, 1147 Fitz-Gerald David 1147 -- FitzGerald David son of Neste Princess of Wales and Gerald de Windsor Uncle of Giraldus Cambrensis --appointed Bishop in 1147 died 1176 and Giraldus had hoped to succeed him. Had a daughter who married Walter son of Wizo the Fleming of Wiston soon after 1148

1151 de Cantinton Jordan 1151 granted, with the consent of Fitz Gerald
William, the Church of Castellan in Emlyn to Slebech. Old Pembrokeshire Families Owen

1151 William de Carew (Fitz Gerald William) 1151 confirmed the grant by Jordan de Cantinton, a well-known man in North Pembrokeshire, of the Church of Castellan in Emlyn to the Preceptory of Slebech," died in 1173 Old Pembrokeshire Families Owen

1173 de Carew Other of Carew 1173 confirmed his fathers gift of the vill of Redberth to Slebech. He died about 1204 ,Old Pembrokeshire Families Owen

1176 de Leiâ Peter (1176-1198), the third Norman Bishop, a Florentine monk, who had been Prior of WenLock Abbey, Shropshire, was the first of the great Bishop builders.

1239 Simond Richard 1239 married Beatrice, daughter of Nicholas de Carew Richard Simond was a witness to Earl Aymer's confirmation to Slebech in 1323 In 1325 he was appointed seneschal of Pembroke, removed by Roger de Mortimer and restored on his fall.

1295 Waldeshof Roger 1295 to 1323 Roger Waldeshof of the Knights of St John at Slebech was Master of Slebech. According to Fenton he filled many temporal offices in the reign of Edward I, being Steward of Pembroke under William de Valence who died in 1296. His name appears in 1323 as acting for the Hospitallers of Slebech in the agreement with Aymar de Valence Arch Camb 1899

1301 de Tottenham William 1301 Preceptor of the Knights of St John at Slebech was created Grand Prior of the Order in England Reference to William de Tottenham is found in a letter addressed to him by the Archbishop of Canterbury July 17th 1314 He died October 12th 1318 Arch Camb 1899

1323 de Waldeshof Roger 10th December 1323 Commander Order of St John at Slebech Arch Camb 1898

1323 Harold William of Haroldstone,was a witness to Aymerde Valence's charter to Slebech, 1323 Joce John 1323, being then a Knight, witness to that Earl's [Aymerde Valence'] arrangement with Slebech.

1323 Malefant Walter 1323 the grandson son Malefant Walter married

Elizabeth, daughter of John de Londres was in 1323 a witness to the agreement between Earl Aymerde Valence with the Commandery of Slebech

1334 de Penres Richard 1334 yearly retaining fee of £2 by the Order of St John at Slebech to maintain and protect the bailiwick " against the highway robbers and malefactors of the countryside of Wales who are fierce in those parts Arch Camb 1898

1336 Loi Phillip 1366-1367 reeve of Tempilton . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1338 de Ffrouwyck John 1338 Sir Knt Preceptor or Commander brother of the Order of St John at Slebech Arch Camb 1898

1338 de Frouwyck John 1338 John de Frouwyck was Preceptor of the Knights of St John at Slebech Arch Camb 1899

1338 de MountGomery James brother of the Order of St John at Slebech Arch Camb 1898

1338 de Thame Philip 1338 Slebes prior for the Order in England Arch Camb 1873 Page 173

1338 Laiuicelyn Simon 1338 brother of the Order of St. John at Slebech Arch Camb 1898

1338 William son of Henry 1339 rector, Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud' --1339, Friday after Easter Slebech Estate and Family Records

1339 Geraud Maurice 1339, Friday after Easter Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud' -- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1339 Geraud Richard de Ernebaud 1339, Friday after Easter son of William Geraud de Ernebaud,Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud'-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1339 Geraud William de Ernebaud 1339, Friday after Easter Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud'-- Slebech Estate and family Records

1339 Geroud Sarah 1339, Friday after Easter formerly wife of William Geroud, Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud'--Slebech Estate and Family Record

1339 Northwood Thomas Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud'--Friday after Easter Slebech Estate and Family Records

1339 Rys William 1339, Friday after Easter Release of one messuage and five bovates of land and one and a half acres of meadow in Ernebaud'-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1399 Vrende Robert 1399 reeve of Slebech.Witness,burgage in the vill of Slebech - Slebech Estate and Family Record

1342 de Walton Robert 1342 Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Record

1342 Goch John 1342 son of Robert Goch of Preskyli transfer land and tenements, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1342 Hichekoc Alice 1342 daughter of Richard of Cotysgrave Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1342 Midilhyll John 1342 transfer land and tenements, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1342 Ricard John , 1342 Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1342 Nichol John 1342 Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1342 Richard of Cotysgrave 1342 daughter Alice Hichekoc Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1342 Sampson Nicholas 1342 Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1342 Schirbour John 1342 Grant of a messuage and one and a half acres of land in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Colle Walter 1345 grant of a burgage in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Crispyn Robert 1345 bailiff of Slebech, grant of a burgage in Slebech' Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Gadde William 1345 grant of a burgage in Slebech' Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Gybbe John 1345 senior, grant of a burgage in Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Gybbe Richard 1345 grant of a burgage in Slebech' Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 John Ricard 1345 grant of a burgage in Slebech' Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 le Ferour Richard 1345 grant of a burgage in Slebech' Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Nichol Phillip 1345 reeve of Slebech, grant of a burgage in Slebech Estate and Family Records

1345 Robelot William 1345 , grant of a burgage in Slebech' Slebech Estate and Family Records

1356 de Coggeshale John 1356/7-1357/8 auditor of the Earl of March
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1357 Wyn John 1357-1358 .receiver of Roger de Mortuou Mari, Earl of March , for Nerbert and a third part of the commote of Amgoyd and Plunyok, from , 31 Edward III to , 32 Edward III. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1358 Seys John 31 May 1358 Juror

1359 ap Ieuan Vachan,Griffith 1359 beadle of Amgoit and Pelinauc
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1359 Bauson John reeve of Seint Clier, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1359 Cutta Ieuan reeve of Castledurant. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1359 Langs ?n David reeve of Moylaston Slebech Estate and Family Records

1359 Mold Thomas 1359 reeve of Lanwaythan Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 ap Howel Llewelyn ap Griffith 1361-1362 beadle of Wilfrey
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Baron John 1361-1362 reeve of Robertson, Slebech Estate and 3011

Family Record

1361 Cole Phillip 1361-1362 reeve of Kanaston, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 de Wylteschir John 1361-1362 receiver constable and forester of Philippa Countess of March for Narberth a third part of Amgoyd and Penllinyniaug and St Clare from Michaelmas 35 Edward III Slebech Estate and Family Record

1361 Gibbe John 1361-1362 reeve of Tempilton, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Gotta Iuan 1361-1362 reeve of Castro Durant, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Henry Phillip 1361-1362 reeve of St Clare Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Hychyn David 1361-1362 reeve of Nova Domus New House Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Iuan David 1361-1362 reeve of Moileston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1361 Meynlas Iuan 1361-1362 reeve of Lanwaythan. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Tailour John 1361-1362 reeve of the town of Nerbert. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1361 Vachan Gwyon 1361-1362 beadle of Amgoyd and Pluniauc Slebech Estate and Family Records

1362 Robelyn Robert died in 1362, holding at Maynowiston Cosheston ? of the Earl, at Oggeston [Hodgeston] of Walter de la Roche at Jameston of the Lord of

Manorbier, at Williamston, and Redbard Redbertli [Redberth] of the Master of Slebech and of Thomas de Northwode, and at Jorbardeston [Yerbeston] of John de Carew " his heir was his brother

1363 de Wilteshire John 1363-1364 receiver constable and forester of Philipps Countess of March for Nerbert a third part of Amgoyd Pellyniok and Seint Cler Slebech Estate and Family Record

1364 ap Gr Gwyon 1364-1365 beadle of Amgoid and Pluniawc . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 ap Gwylm Iuan 1364-1365 reeve of Castro Durant (Castell Dwyran) . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 ap Meredith Thomas 1364-1365 beadle of Wilfrey Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 ap Ros William 1364-1365 reeve of Albaland' Whitland . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 ap Sair Gr' 1364-1367 reeve of Lanwaythan. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 Ade William 1364-1365 reeve of Kanaston . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 Baroun Thomas 1364-1365 reeve of Nova Domus New House, . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 Brian Thomas 1364-1365 reeve of Robeston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1364 Kyft Phillip 1364-1365 reeve of Tempilton Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 le Smyth William 1364-1365 reeve of the town of Nerbert. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 le Webbe Robert 1364-1367 forester of the forest of Nerbert . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 Stocker Roger 1364-1365 reeve of Moileston, . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 Thomelyn Thomas 1364-1365 reeve of St, Clare Slebech Estate and Family Records

1364 Wade William 1364-1365 reeve of Kanaston . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1364 Wyn John 1364-1365 receiver, constable and forester of Philippa, Countess of March , for Nerberth, a third part of Amgoid and Penllynioch, and St. Clare, from , 38 Edward III to 39 Edward III.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1365 ap Gr Eynon 1365-1366 beadle of Amgoid and Pluiawc Slebech Estate and Family Records

1365 ap Iuan Res' 1365-1366 forester of the forest of Nerbert. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1365 ap Mereduth John 1365-1366 beadle of Wilfrey Slebech Estate and Family Records

1365 Adam John 1365-1366 .reeve of Nova Domus New House Slebech Estate and Family Records

1365 Bosoun John 1365-1366 reeve of St. Clare, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1365 Gilbert David 1365-1366 . reeve of the town of Nerbert, Slebech Estate and Family Records

- 1365 Goch Adan 1365-1366 reeve of Albalanda Whitland,. Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1365 Cole John 1365-1366 senior, reeve of Kanaston,. Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1365 Jankyn John 1365-1366 reeve of Roberteston. Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1365 John Maur' 1365-1366 son of reeve of Tempilton. Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1365 Llewelyn David 1365-1366 reeve of Moileston . Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1365 Sair Gr ' 1365-1366 reeve of Llanwaythan. Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1365 Stocker Adass 1365-1366 . reeve of Castrum Durant Castell Dwyran Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1366 ap Gwylm dominus Gr' 1366-1367 reeve of Albalanda Whitland Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1366 ap Iuan Vachan Gr' 1366-1367 beadle of Amgoid and Pluniac . Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1366 ap Mereduth Phillip 1366-1367 beadle of Wilfrey Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1366 Adyn Phillip 1366-1367 reeve of Rob'ston . Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1366 Br'nles James 1366-1367 reeve of the town of Nerbert, Slebech

Estate and Family Record

1366 Henry John 1366-1367 reeve of St Clare Slebech Estate and Family Records

1366 Ph'yn Walte 1366-1367 forester of the forest of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Records

1366 Phillip John 1366-1367 reeve of Nova Dom' New House . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1366 Rowe John 1366-1367 reeve of Moileston . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1366 Sth' William , 1366-1367 reeve of Kan Aston Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 ap Gosseline Lawelun 1367-1368 beadle of Wilfrey . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1367 ap Gr Vachan Thomas 1367-1368 beadle of Amgoyd and Penyloc. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 ap Cadogan Llywelyn 1367-1368 reeve of Moileston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1367 ap Ieuan Howel 1367-1368 reeve of Albalanda Whitland. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 ap Ieuan Res 1367-1368 foresters of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 ap Iuan Vachan, Griffith 1367-1368 beadle of Amgoid and Pluniauc . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 ap Meredith Phillip 1367-1368 reeve of Whitland (Albaland) .
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Cole Phillip 1367-1368 junior, reeve of Kanaston, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Duy Iuan 1367-1368 reeve of Llanwaythan Slebech Estate and Family Record

1367 Goldi John 1367-1368 reeve of a third part of St. Clare Sanctum Clarum, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Gronowe David 1367-1368 reeve of Robertstoun Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Held Walter 1367-1368 reeve of the town of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Hichyn David 1367-1368 reeve of New House Novus domus Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Hike Walter , 1367-1368 reeve of New House Novus Domus
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Hychyn William 1367-1368 reeve of Tempiltoun, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Jacke William 1367-1368 reeve of Robetistoun. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Knethil Eustas 1367-1368 . forester of the forest of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 le Clerke Phillip 1367-1368 .reeve of Kanestoun Slebech Estate and

Family Records

1367 le Webbe Richard 1367-1368 reeve of Tempilton Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Owan Thomas 1367-1368 reeve of Moylestoun. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Phillip David 1367-1368 reeve of Castrodurant Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Ph'yn Walter 1367-1368 foresters of Nerbert. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 T John 1367-1368 Chaplain, reeve of the town of Nerbert .
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Thew Howel 1367-1368 beadle of Wilfrey,. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Thomlyn Thomas 1367-1368 reeve of a third part of St. Clare
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1367 Veleyne Phillip 1367-1368 reeve of Castell Durant -Castro Durant.
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1369 Athon John 1369 reeve of Robiston, – 1370, Michaelmas. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1369 Bron Walter 1369,-1370 reeve of Kanaston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1371 de Hales Robert 1371 — Robert de Hales Preceptor of the Knights of St John at Slebech and SaundFord and Bailli of Aquila was appointed Grand-Prior of England. He was beheaded by Wat Tyler's supporters in 1381 Arch Camb 1899

1383 Broun John 1383 one messuage, 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1383 Gastyner Henry 1383 one messuage, 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1383 Cradok Alice 1383 daughter of Roger Cradok' de Slebech', one messuage, 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1383 Gadde John 1383 one messuage, 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1383 Creborghe John 1383 one Messuage 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1383 Nycholl John 1383 one messuage, 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1383 Standard William 1383 one messuage, 7 acres of land and 1 rood situated above Warlond in the tenement of Slebeche, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1393 Belsandr' John de Blebach 1393, April 21 and Agnes his wife. Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech. Rent. 4s annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1393 Clerc, William 1393, April 21 Witness—Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech. Rent, 4s annually. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1393 Helsandr' William 1393, April 21 Witness--Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech Rent 4s Annually Slebech Estate and Family Records

1393 Hodyn David de Wyston 1393, April 21 Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech Rent 4s Annually Slebech Estate and Family Records

1393 Nichole John 1393, April 21 junior, Witness--Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech. Rent 4s annually. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1393 Peryn John 1393 April 21 --Witness--Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech. Rent 4s annually. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1393 Rynioy Thomas 1393, April 21 Witness—Grant in fee-farm of one burgage and two acres of land in the town and fields of Slebech. Rent 4s annually. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1398 ap Meredydd Griffith 1398-1399 beadle of Wilfrey Slebech Estate and Family Records

1398 Heilot Phillip 1398-1399 reeve of Nova domus New House Slebech Estate and Family Records

1398 Peytevyn Thomas 1398-1399 receiver of Edward de Mortuo Mari, Knight, for the lordship of Nerberth, from , 22 Richard II to , 23 Richard II. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1399 Broun John 1399 ,burgage in the vill of Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Record

1399 Byschop William and Joan 1399 his wife of Slebech',burgage in the vill of Slebech -- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1399 Gad John 1399 reeve of Slebech.Witness,,burgage in the vill of Slebech -- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1399 Gode Joan 1399 ,senior, daughter of John Gode,burgage in the vill of

Slebech -- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1399 Jefrey Phillip 1399 reeve of Slebech.Witness ,burgage in the vill of Slebech -- *Slebech Estate and Family Record

1400 de la March William 7 August 1400 esquire Slebech Knights of St John 1400 Walter William 7 August 1400 Knights of St John London.

chaplain Slebech

1408 Styward William 1408, July 12 . On 12 July in the year above said, at Slebech, Sir William Styward chaplain, presented to the vacant Church of St. Peter, Carmarthen, by Thomas prior of the priory of St. John the Evangelist, Carmarthen, and the convent of the same place, had a commission to the archdeacon of Carmarthen or his official to enquire of the right of the presenter etc.

1412 Alisander John 1412 Witness two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech-- *Slebech Estate and Family Records

1412 Herford John 1412 Witness two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech-- *Slebech Estate and Family Records

1412 Heyn Thomas 1412 praepositus of the vill of Slebech, Witness two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech-- *Slebech Estate and Family Records

1412 Gadde John 1412 Witness two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech-- *Slebech Estate and Family Records

1412 Gardiner Henry 1412 and Agnes Colman,-- his wife, of Slebech,two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech *Slebech Estate and Family Records

1412 Rubeioy Thomas 1412 Witness two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech-- *Slebech Estate and Family Records

1412 Shepherd, Walter 1412 junior, of Pykeld, and Agnes Gobath, his wife.two burgages in the vill and fields of Slebech-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1429 ap Griffith John ap Davis 1429 seneschal of Nerbert, Witness two and a half burgages in and outside the vill of Kanaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1429 Cole John 1429 Witness,, two and a half burgages in and outside the vill of Kanaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1429 Grono John. 1429 Witness- two and a half burgages in and outside the vill of Kanaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1429 Herry John 1429 ,son and heir of Wadyn Henry of Kynaston two and a half burgages in and outside the vill of Kanaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1429 Herry Phillip 1429 senior, reeve of Kanaston, Witness, two and a half burgages in and outside the vill of Kanaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1429 Wadyn Phillip 1429 his brother, and Joan, his wife., two and a half burgages in and outside the vill of Kanaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1433 Hobbe John 1443 ,brother of William messuage and two acres of land in Mynner Slebech Estate and Family Records

1434 Andrew Margarete 1434/5, March 4 formerly wife of John Shepben, senior, of Kananyston messuage with 24 acres of land, the messuage in Kananyston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1434 Bron Phillip 1434/5, March 4 messuage with 24 acres of land, the messuage in Kananyston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1434 Call John 1434/5, March 4 messuage with 24 acres of land, the messuage in Kananyston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1434 Cogan Thomas chaplain, 1434/5, March 4 Slebech Estate and Family Records

1434 Creseborgh Richard 1434, July 3 son of Thomas . one messuage, 7 acres and 1 rood of land in the vill and fields of Slebeche-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1434 Creseborgh Thomas de Slebeche 1434, July 31 . one messuage, 7 acres and 1 rood of land in the vill and fields of Slebeche-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1434 Daa John 1434/5 March 4 messuage with 24 acres of land the messuage in Kananyston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1434 Jankyn Phillip 1434/5, March 4 senior, of Roberston Waytham messuage with 24 acres of land, the messuage in Kananyston Slebech Estate and Family Records

1434 Wade David 1434/5, March 4 reeve of the vill of Cananyston, messuage with 24 acres of land, the messuage in Kananyston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1434 Wogan Henry 1434, July 31 . one messuage, 7 acres and 1 rood of land in the vill and fields of Slebeche-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1443 Duy John 1443 Witness messuage and two acres of land in Mynner Slebech Estate and Family Records

1443 Hobbe William 1443 son and heir of John Hobbe, of Mynner, messuage and two acres of land in Mynner Slebech Estate and Family Record

1443 Herforde, Walter 1443 Witness, messuage and two acres of land in Mynner Slebech Estate and Family Record

1443 Hicke Walter 1443 Witness, messuage and two acres of land in Mynner Slebech Estate and Family Records

1443 Wade John 1443 ,Witness messuage and two acres of land in Mynner. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Browne William 1447/8, Feb. 1 .messuages and lands in Canaston--
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Carnell David 1447/8, Feb. 1 .messuages and lands in Canaston--
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Cole David 1447/8, Feb. 1 of Canaston, and Margaret his wife,
.messuages and lands in Canaston-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Coll Brian 1447, Nov. 18 nephew of John of Canaston,.messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Canaston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1447 Coll David 1447, Nov. 18 son of John of Canaston,.messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Canaston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1447 Coll John 1447, Nov. 18 of Canaston,.messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Canaston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1447 Coll Margaret 1447, Nov. 18 daughter of John, of Canaston,.messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Canaston Slebech Estate and Family
Record

1447 Hychyn John 1447/8 Feb 1messuages and lands in Canaston--
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Perrot John 1447/8, Feb. 1 messuages and lands in Canaston--
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Perrot Stephen 1447/8, Feb. 1 messuages and lands in Canaston--
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1447 Rede Henry 1447/8, Feb. 1 messuages and lands in Canaston
Slebech Estate and Family Records

- 1447 Veyser Hanry 1447/8, Feb. 1 .messuages and lands in Canaston--
Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1450 ap Gruffith Owen 1450/1, Feb. 20 son.of Gruffin, Nicholas., Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey-- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1450 ap Phillip Phillip ap Mereduth 1450/1, Feb. 20 Witness Nicholas Gruffin, esq., Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey -- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1450 ap Thomas Phillip 1450/1, Feb. 20 Witness Nicholas Gruffin, esq.,
Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey -- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1450 Forster Gruffyth 1450/1, Feb. 20 Witness Nicholas Gruffin, esq.,
Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey -- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1450 Gwyn William 1450/1, Feb. 20 Witness Nicholas Gruffin, esq.,
Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey,-- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1450 Nicholas Gruffin , 1450/1, Feb. 20 esq., Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey-- Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1450 Watkyn Thomas 1450/1, Feb. 20 Witness Nicholas Gruffin, esq.,
Lord of Nerberth and Wylfrey-- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1469 Gan William 1469 possession of a messuage and lands in Newhouse
Slebech Estate and Family Records
- 1472 Alisonder Phillip 1472, Oct. 30 and Ellen his wife Had daughter Ellen. lands and tenements in the vill and fields of Slebeiche and Arnoldushulle.-- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1472 Bole John de le Knocke 1472, Oct. 30 Witness. .lands and tenements in the vill and fields of Slebeiche and Arnoldushulle.-- Slebech Estate and Family Record
- 1472 Miles William 1472, Oct. 30 Witness .lands and tenements in the vill and fields of Slebeiche and Arnoldushulle.-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1472 Robbyn John , 1472, Oct. 30 senior.Witness .lands and tenements in the vill and fields of Slebeiche and Arnoldushulle.-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1474 ap Henry Robert 1474-1475 bailiff and receiver of the rents of Emote, formerly wife of Richard Neuton, knight, in co. Pembroke,. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 ap Gwillim Lewis 1482-1483 beadle of Kemmys. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 ap Gwillim Rees 1482-1483 beadle of Kemmys . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 ap Henry Robert 1482-1483 reeve of Kyngeswode and Gawdon. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 ap Llywelyn Rece ap Phillip ap David 1482-1483 beadle of Trayne Clynton. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 ap Phelip Jankyn 1482-1483 reeve of Coidroth. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Davy John 1482-1483 bailiff of the town of Pembroke villa Pembrochie Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Davy John 1482-1483 beadle of the manor of Waldwyn's Castle Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Davy Thomas bailiff of the town of Pembroke villa Pembrochie 1482-1483 Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Dymet Robert 1482-1483 farmer of the ferry of Burton Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Goss John 1482-1483 reeve of More Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Hante Richard 1482-1483 knight, and occupier of the mills of Pembroke Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Honyburgh John reeve of St Florence Sanctus Florencius 1482-1483
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Hoper William 1482-1483 Slebech Estate and Family Record

1482 Hoyman William , 1482-1483 reeve of Haroldeston Slebech Estate
and Family Records

1482 Lewis John 1482-1483 bailiff of the town of Tembie. Slebech Estate
and Family Records

1482 Lloid David 1482-1483 beadle of Penryn. Slebech Estate and Family
Records

1482 Lloid Llywelyn ap Llywelyn ap Gwillim 1482-1483 beadle of Osterlowe. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Maughlett Thomas 1482-1483 bailiff of the town of Tembie.
Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 More William 1482-1483 reeve of Rowespole. Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1482 Philkyn John 1482-1483 beadle of Rous . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Reynold John , 1482-1483 reeve of Suertebury. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Saunders Thomas 1482-1483 reeve of Malros. Slebech Estate and 3027

Family Records

1482 Smyth John 1482-1483 reeve of Syke. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Tasker John 1482-1483 reeve of villa Castro Walwini. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Thomas David 1482-1483 reeve of Fletherhill. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Thomas David 1482-1483 .bailiff of Dongledy Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Walter Jank 1482-1483 reeve of Fobbeston??(Robbeston). Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Records

1482 Wynter William 1482-1483 . bailiff of the vill of Llanstephan and reeve of the court of le Ferry Slebech Estate and Family Records

1488 Evers Robert preceptor of Slebech,1488, 19 April On 19 April in the year above at Lamphey one Philip Sir John chaplain , was admitted by the aforesaid Rev. father to the vacant perpetual vicarage of Martletwy on the presentation of the religious man Robert Evers, preceptor of Slebech, patron of the said vicarage. And he had Letters etc

1496 Eure Robert 1496 Preceptor of the Knights of St John at Slebech, was made Prior of Ireland. He was, however, suspended and deprived of his priory for misgovernment and debts, by Bull of the Grand-Master Emeri d'Amboise, dated May 8th, 1511. He was summoned to Rhodes, where he died in 1513. Arch Camb 1899

1500 Gobogh Agnes 1500/1, Feb. 7 of Sebech. twelve acres of land had of the gift of John Baret, senior, of Hetoke Slebech Estate and Family Record

1500 Gobogh John 1500/1, Feb. 7 senior, of Wiston. of twelve acres of land had of the gift of John Baret, senior, of Hetoke Slebech Estate and Family Record

1501 David Phillip 1501 July 17 clerk three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgage in Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1501 Lloide James 1501/2, Jan. 8 message and lands, etc., in the vill and fields of Slebech. Attorney - James Lloide. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1501 Roger John 1501, July 18 of Bentebergh.three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and one burgage in Slebeche in the tenure of Richard Voulér. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1501 Saundre John 1501/2, Jan. 8 of Wiston, yeoman messuage and lands, etc., in the vill and fields of Slebech. Attorney- James Lloide. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1501 Stephen Thomas 1501, July 17 of Arnoldishill , son and heir of Richard Stephyn.three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgage in Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Records

1501 Stephyn Richard 1501, July 17 had son and heir Stephyn Thomas of Arnoldishill .three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgage in Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Records

1501 Stephyn Thomas 1501, July 18 .three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and one burgage in Slebeche in the tenure of Richard Voulér. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1501 Voulér Richard 1501, July 17 .three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgage in Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1501 Voulér Richard 1501, July 18 three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and one burgage in Slebeche in the tenure of Richard Voulér. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1501 Wogan David 1501, July 17 three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgage in Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1502 Steven Thomas 1502, Dec. 20 of Arnoldishill , gent. Bond for the payment of money. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1503 Roger Phillip 1503/4, Feb. 20 of Tenby. Grant for eight years of lands,Slebech Estate and Family Record

1503 Roger Jenkyn 1503, June 22 son and heir of John Roger of Bentibargh. Agreement to nullify a grant of an annual rent Slebech Estate and Family Record

1503 Roger Thomas 1503, June 22 Agreement to nullify a grant of an annual rent Slebech Estate and Family Record

1503 Rogers John 1503, May son and heir of John Rogers of Bentybergh Release of three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgagee in Slebeche in the tenure of Richard Vogler. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1503 Scurfill Jenkyn 1503, June 22 Agreement to nullify a grant of an annual rent Slebech Estate and Family Records

1503 Stevyn John .1503/4, Feb. 20 of Marteltwy. Grant for eight years of lands, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1503 Stevyn Thomas 1503 ,of Arnoldishill , gent. May Release of three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgagee in Slebeche in the tenure of Richard Vogler. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1503 Stevyn Thomas 1503, June 20 of Arnoldishill , gent.rent of 26s. 8d. from messuages, etc., in Ardenoldishill and Slebeche. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1503 Stevyn Thomas 1503, June 22 of Arnoldishill , gent Agreement to nullify a grant of an annual rent Slebech Estate and Family Records

1503 Vogler Richard 1503, May Release of three messuages and two carucates of land at Arnoldishill and a burgagee in Slebeche in the tenure of Richard Vogler.

Slebech Estate and Family Record

1508 Docwra Thomas 1508 Aug 26 prior of the hospital of St John of Jerusalem in England Lease for three years of the pensions of the churches Slebech Estate and Family Record

1508 Philip Thomas , 1508 the Commander of the Knights of St John at Slebech granted a three years' lease to Thomas Philip of Pictoyn, of the pensions of several churches,Arch Camb 1899

1512 Scorffill Thomas 1512, June 8 . of the parish of Saynt Tyssellis Coetrath, co. Pembroke, two messuages and lands in Moleston in the lordship of Nerberth. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1515 ap Thomas Rhys 1515, June 4 knight, of the Castle, manor vill and lordship of Nerberthe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1515 Gybbe David 1515, September. 10 of Canyston in the lordship of Nerberth, Husbandman messuages, burgages and lands in the vill and fields of Canyston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1515 Vnfrey Thomas 1515, September. 10 of Rosecrothur, Husbandman messuages, burgages and lands in the vill and fields of Canyston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1524 Cole Ellen 1524, March 29 wife of David Webb. 31/2 acres of arable land and 1 stang of meadow lying in the fields of Canaston in the lordship of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1524 Cole Phillip 1524, March 29 31/2 acres of arable land and 1 stang of meadow lying in the fields of Canaston in the lordship of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1524 Grono Phillip 1524, March 29 . 31/2 acres of arable land and 1 stang of meadow lying in the fields of Canaston in the lordship of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1524 Molde Richard 1524, March 29 . 3 1/2 acres of arable land and 1 stang of meadow lying in the fields of Canaston in the lordship of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1524 Morce William 1524, March 29 3 1/2 acres of arabLeland and 1 stang of meadow lying in the fields of Canaston in the lordship of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1524 Webb David 1524, March 29 . and Ellen Cole, his wife 3 1/2 acres of arable land and 1 stang of meadow lying in the fields of Canaston in the lordship of Nerbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1526 Hugh Maunsell 1526, July 1 gent, and Joan Wogan, his wife Lease for sixty years of the manor of Arnoldishill with two tenements called TowNestrete and Killgrene Slebech Estate and Family Record

1526 John Stephyn 1526, July 1 gent brother and heir Phillip Stephyn,.Lease for sixty years of the manor of Arnoldishill with two tenements called Townestrete and Killgrene Slebech Estate and Family Record

1530 Cole Elen 1530, May 9 .widow, messuage and one loft with a garden attached, and 3 1/2 acres of arable land and 1/2 acre of meadow in the vill and fields of Canaston Slebech Estate and Family Records

1530 Gybb John 1530, May 9 of Canaston. messuage and one loft with a garden attached, and 3 1/2 acres of arable land and 1/2 acre of meadow in the vill and fields of Canaston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1531 ap Parre Maurice 1531-1532 receiver of the King, in the lordship of Narberth and its members,. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1531 Phillipps John 1531-1532 esq., deputy of Maurice ap Parre, receiver of the King, in the lordship of Narberth and its members,. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Begg Richard 1532, July 20 of Slebeche, and Margaret Porett, his wife, tenement, etc., in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Husbond John 1532, July 30 of Arnoldishill four messuages and three carucates of land in Arnoldishill and Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Husbond John 1532, July 31 of Arnoldishill Grant of land, tenements, etc, in Arnoldishill , Slebeche, and Underdowne Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Jones , Richard 1532, July 30 . four messuages and three carucates of land in Arnoldishill and Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Porett Margaret, 1532, July 20 wife of Richard Begg of Slebeche, .tenement, etc., in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Robyn William 1532, July 20 .of Pyckell, Husbandman, and Elen, his wife. tenement, etc., in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1532 Scurdefeld Henry 1532, July 30 . gent. four messuages and three carucates of land in Arnoldishill and Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Records

1532 Sutton John 1532, July 30 . four messuages and three carucates of land in Arnoldishill and Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Records

1533 Begge Richard 1533, July 18 of Slebeche, Husbandman, and Margery Porrett, his wife,. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1533 Brodene Thomas 1533, July 18 Witness. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1533 Fairabody Traharn ? 1533, July 18 Witness. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1533 Gobough Thomas 1533, July 18 Witness. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche

Slebech Estate and Family Record

1533 Matho Elen 1533, July 18 wife of William Robyn of Pickell, Husbandman,. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1533 Porrett Margery 1533, July 18 wife of Richard Begge of Slebeche, Husbandman,. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1533 Robyn William 1533, July 18 of Pickell, Husbandman, and Elen Matho, his wife. tenement and garden lying in the vill of Slebeche Slebech Estate and Family Record

1534 West Clement . 1534 . Tanner, in the Notitia monastica, states that at this time Clement West was Preceptor of the Knights of St John at Slebech. This position he occupied during the last days of the existence of the Order in England and on its suppression was granted a pension of £200 per Annum. Clement West, Preceptor of Slebeche, and Receiver of the Common Treasury, was named Turcopolier by- Bull of L'Isle Adam, Grand-Master, d Malta, January 7th, 1530-1. He was deprived of the habit and dignity for insubordinate conduct, 1533. He died in the year 1547. Arch Camb 1899 pre 1535 Sheffield Thomas (pre 1535) treasurer of the hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England Lease for three years of the pensions of the churches Slebech Estate and Family Records

1897 Rees J Roger 1897 Apr Article on Commandery and the Knights of St John Slebech Arch Cam 1897

1535 Dissolution Henry VIII

1536 ap Phelippes John 1536, a tenement called Tallyth in the said Lordship at a rent of 20s. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1536 Apparry Moris 1536, Oct. 20 esq., surveyor to the King of the Lordship of Nerberth .Lease for 21 years of a tenement called Tallyth in the said Lordship at a rent of 20s. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1546 Barlow of Slebech

Barlow John of Barlow Hall Lancashire. Married Barley Christian, daughter of Barley Edward, esq.. of Barley Com. HertFord.

John Barlow was committed to the Tower by Henry VII for his support of the Lancaster fraction and in particular for harbouring at Barlow his brother-in-law Barley, and Clifford Sir Robert, who had married his wife's sister, on the night before their departure for the court of Margaret, Duchess of Burgundy,

All his estate was confiscated and was conferred upon Vere, Earl of Oxford, then recently created Lord high chamberlain of England. John and Christian had children

Barlow Thomas a secular priest who co-signed several deeds with his brother Roger for property in Pembrokeshire he was described as a clerk of Catwick- chaplain to Queen Anne

1500 Barlow Roger 1500 - 1553 This Roger was the first of the family who came and purchased an estate in Pembrokeshire, (1546 Slebech Estate). He married Daws Julian, daughter and co-heir of Daws Robert, of Bristol

Roger Barlow (ca. 1500 - 1553) was brother of William Barlow Bishop of St David's as well as Thomas , Barlow.

Roger Barlow the second son of John Barlow on his father's commitment to the Tower, went over to Spain, and was employed, at the recommendation of the Duke of Modena, by The Emperor Charles V. for the discovery of Peru, but having communicated his discovery to the English ambassador at Madrid, Boleyne Sir Thomas , he was ordered by his own sovereign, King Henry VIII., to return home, with a promise of preferment. He was afterwards appointed vice-admiral to Lord Seymour, and but for the death of the King, was to have undertaken the discovery of a north passage to the East Indies with three of his highness's ships from Milford Haven. He had accompanied Sebastian Cabot out of Bristol April 1526 translated the Famous Spanish treatise Sume de Geographie. gent of Slebych granted Pille Priory bought Slebeche estate 1546 Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt. 38th Henry V111 acc to Tanner.

He was succeeded by his son, Barlow John.

1536 Barlow William 1536 Bishop of St David's previously Prior of Haverfordwest priory – translated from St Asaph's in April 1536 distinguish for allegedly removing the lead from the roof of the Bishops Palace at St David's to provide dowry for four daughters who all married Bishops

1569 Barlow William - the Bishop died about 1569 brother of Roger and Thomas , --first came to Pembrokeshire as Prior of Haverfordwest Priory then , was a Canon regular and prior of Bisham. he was constituted Bishop of St. Asaph, and two months afterwards translated to St David's . He was very keen to get the Diocese transferred from St David's to Carmarthen In 1538 Bishop Barlow of St David's , unroofed the Palace at St David's , (some say he sold the lead to get portions for his five daughters, who all married bishops). He also unroofed LLawhaden.

1540. In 1540 Henry VIII. rented Lamphey Palace from Bishop Barlow of St David's, and gave it to Devereux Richard, eldest son of Earl Ferrers, afterwards Earl of Essex.

1547 In the 2nd Edward VI. (1547) Bishop Barlow was translated to Bath and Wells but in the 1st of May 1553 he was deprived and forced to fly the realm, and remained in exile until the accession of Elizabeth, when he was appointed Bishop of Chichester, and was the principal Bishop of the four at the consecration of Archbishop Parker.

Bishop Barlow, the first Protestant Bishop in England died in 1569, and was interred in his own cathedral of Chichester. He had married Wellesbourne, Agatha a runaway Abbess of Norfolk, daughter of Wellesborne, John esq.. They had several sons, but only one is known.

1625 Barlow Rev William d. 25 May 1625 William Barlow son of Bishop William Barlow[d 1569] was an English churchman and scientist. and was born at St David's when his father was Bishop of that diocese. In 1560 he entered a commoner at Balliol College, Oxford and graduated B. A. in 1564. He then went to sea, but in what capacity is not known. About 1573 he entered into holy orders, and was promoted to a prebendary stall at Winchester, and rector of Easton, near that city. In 1588 Barlow was transferred to a prebendary stall at Lichfield, which in the following year he resigned, on being appointed treasurer of Lichfield Cathedral. He afterwards became chaplain to Henry Frederick, Prince of Wales, son of James I, and finally archdeacon of Salisbury (1615).Barlow died 25 May 1625, and was buried in the chancel of his Church at Easton.

Bishop William Barlow and his wife Agatha Wellesbourne had five daughters, four became the wives of bishops, namely, Barlow Anne Married first, Bradbridge Augustus then Westfaling, Herbert Bishop of Hereford.

Barlow Elizabeth went as a companion with the Countess of Oxford into Scotland, and was maid of honour to Mary Queen of Scots. Married first, Alexander, Lord Elphinstone when she was only 13 or 14 second

Lord Drummond and was mother of the succeeding Lords Elphinstone and Drummond. She died before 1622

Barlow Margaret Married Overton William, Bishop of Lichfield and Coventry.

Barlow Frances Married Parker Matthew, son of Archbishop Parker, then Matthews Tobias, Archbishop of York. Tobias Matthews, Archbishop of York, was a great favourite of Queen Elizabeth and King James I.,

Barlow Antonina Married Wickham W., Bishop of Lincoln

1535-1758 Barlow Slebech Estate, Family and other Records

Clergy CCED Slebech Old Church

Davies, Morganus	1688	Libc	Curate
Davies, Morganus	1692	Libc	Curate
James, Levi	1717	Appt (Licensing)	Curate
Bowen , George	1739	Appt (Licensing)	Curate
Ayleway, Charles	1746	Subsc	Stipendiary Curate
Philipps, William	1747	Subsc	Stipendiary Curate
Bowen , George	1750	Vac (Death)	Curate
Eynon, William	1750	Subsc	Curate
Philipps , William	1781	Vac (natural death)	Perpetual Curate
Williams , William	1781	Subsc	Curate
Williams , James	1798	Subsc	Perpetual Curate

.....

1535c Barlow John c1535 the son of Roger Barlow purchased Slebech property Martletwy

Pembrokeshire Parsons.

1540 Hughes John 1540 LLD Letters Patent granting to John Hughes , LLD, the stewardship and receivership of the Castle, Lordship and manor of Narbart, etc Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1541 Barlo Roger 1541/2, March 11 of Slebach, gent. Grant of a meadow in the vill of Mynwer called Adeismede, and ten acres of arable land in the fields of the said vill,
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1541 Holl William 1541/2, March 11 Witness Grant of a meadow in the vill of Mynwer called Adeismede, and ten acres of arable land in the fields of the said vill, Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1541 Wade John 1541/2, March 11 Witness Grant of a meadow in the vill of Mynwer called Adeismede, and ten acres of arable land in the fields of the said vill, Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1541 Rowe Robart 1541/2, March 11 Witness Grant of a meadow in the vill of Mynwer called Adeismede, and ten acres of arable land in the fields of the said vill, Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1541 Wade John 1541/2, March 11 Witness Grant of a meadow in the vill of Mynwer called Adeismede, and ten acres of arable land in the fields of the said vill, Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1541 Walter David 1541/2, March 11 vicar of Martheltwy, Witness Grant of a meadow in the vill of Mynwer called Adeismede, and ten acres of arable land in the fields of the said vill, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1542 Barlo Roger 1542, Nov. 1 of Slebeche, gent. Bond for the performance of covenants Slebech Estate and Family Record

1542 Nascent David 1542-1543 the Grange of Blaynwethnoy. Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1542 Thorne Nicholas 1542, Nov. 1 of Bristoll, Merchant Bond for the performance of covenants Slebech Estate and Family Record

1543 Barlowe Roger 1543/4, March 14 Letters Patent granting a commission to John, Lord Lysley, High Admiral of England, John Tregonwell, Anthony Husey, Thomas Jones and Roger Barlowe to administer the Maritime Laws of the realm in cos. Cardigan, Pembroke and Carmarthen. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1545 Barlo Roger 1545/6, Feb. 14 of Slebyche, gent. messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1545 Hoper Walter 1545/6, Feb 14 Witness --Joan Steven, wife of Richard Lome of Mynwer sic, tailor, and messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Mynwer Slebech Estate and Family Record

1545 Lome Richard 1545/6, Feb. 14 of Mynwer sic, tailor, and Joan Steven, his wife messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1545 Steven Joan 1545/6, Feb. 14 wife of Richard Lome of Mynwer sic, tailor, messuage and lands in the vill and fields of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1546 Barlow Roger 1546/7, Jan. 22 Receipt from Sir John Williams, knight, Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations, to Roger Barlow , gent., for £110 in respect of the grant and purchase of the woods and underwoods growing in and upon the Commandery or manor of Slebiche, parcel of the possessions of the late Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1546 Barlowe Roger 1546, June 26 Letters Patent, in consideration of £705 6s. 3d., granting to Roger Barlowe of Slebeche, gent., and Thomas Barlow of Catfield, co. Norfolk, clerk, the Lordship and manor of Slebyche, the late priory of Pyll', the site and lands adjoining late of the Monastery of Haverfordwest, the Chapel called Creswelle, all lately belonging to the dissolved Monastery of Haverfordwest, the site of the friary of Haverford with all its appurtenances in the town of Haverfordwest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1546 Barlow Thomas 1546, June 26 Letters Patent, in consideration of £705 6s. 3d., granting to Roger Barlowe of Slebeche, gent., and Thomas Barlow of Catfield, co. Norfolk, clerk, the Lordship and manor of Slebyche, the late priory of Pyll', the site and lands adjoining late of the Monastery of Haverfordwest, i the Chapel called Creswelle, all lately belonging to the dissolved Monastery of Haverfordwest, the site of the friary of Haverford with all its appurtenances in the town of Haverfordwest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1546 Barlow (Barlowe) Thomas 1546 brother of William Barlow Bishop of St David's bought Slebeche estate Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt. Clerk of Catfeld Pille Priory granted 38th Henry V111 acc to Tanner. Monasterii de Haverfordwest Orig 38 Henry VIII 5

1546 Eynon David 1546/7-1547/8 reeve of Caniston, parcel of the manor of Carew. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1546 Hancok Phillip 1546/7-1547/8 deputy of John Webbe, reeve of the town of Narbert Slebech Estate and Family Record

1546 Griffith Reis 1546/8 .esq., attained of high treason,-Slebech Estate and Family Records

1546 Webbe John 1546/7-1547/8 reeve of the town of Narbert. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1547 Barlow Roger 1547/8, Jan. 4 three acres of land lying at Stryvacre in the fields and parish of Slebyche and three acres of land lying at Sturboule Slebech Estate and Family Record

1547 Goubough Thomas 1547/8 senior,. of Slebyche, Husbandman,, Jan. 4 three acres of land lying at Stryvacre in the fields and parish of Slebyche and three acres of land lying at Sturboule Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 Barlo Roger 1549 April 9 .of Slebyche, esq.. a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 APhillip John 1549, April 9 a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 Begge Lewis 1549, April 10 Witness. a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 Goboghe Thomas 1549, April 10 Witness. a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 Goboghe William 1549, April 10 Witness. a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 Jenkyn Henry 1549, April 9 . a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Record

1549 Sawnders John 1549, April 9 of Wyston, yeoman. a burgage and half a burgage in the vill of Slebyche, and three acres of land Slebech Estate and Family Records

1550 Row Robert 1550, Oct. 7 .of Newton a fulling mill at Penglin in Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1550 Vaughan John 1550, Oct. 7 of Nerberth of land in Newton and land called Montayne land. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1550 Wyllie Thomas 1550, Oct. 7 possession of a tenement court roll of Newhouse. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1551 Vaghan John 1551/2, Jan. 4 of Nerberth, gent., Surrender of interest in 5 acres of land at Newton. and 7 acres of land called Montaigne lands held by lease of the Countess of Bridgewater. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barlowe Roger 1553/4, Feb. 15 died--Inquisition post mortem Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barlowe Roger 1553/4, March 14 The Most excellent Prince and Sovereign Lady Queen Mary to George Owen, esq., one of the Queen Majesty's physicians Grant of the custody and wardship of John Barlowe, son and heir of Roger Barlowe, esq., deceased. Attached an extent of all the manors, lands, etc., of the late Roger Barloe and John Barlow his son and heir. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barlowe Roger 1553, April 10 Release of the Lordship and manor or late the preceptory of Slebiche, the rectory and Church of Slebiche, the rectories or churches of Bulston and Marthelwy, the priory or hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in Anglia, five messuages, etc., in Slebeche, now or lately in the occupation of William Goboghe, Morgan William, Thomas Picton, Thomas Loyed, John Maddocke , all of which were Granted to the said Thomas and Roger Barlowe by Henry VIII, 21 June 1546. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barloe Thomas 1553, April 10 of Cattfled, co. Norfolk, clerk,.Release of the Lordship and manor or late the preceptory of Slebiche, the rectory and Church of Slebiche, the rectories or churches of Bulston and Marthelwy, the priory or hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in Anglia, five messuages, etc., in Slebeche, now or lately in the occupation of William Goboghe, Morgan William, Thomas Picton, Thomas Loyed, John Maddocke , all of which were Granted to the said Thomas and Roger Barlowe by Henry VIII, 21 June 1546. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barloe Mary 1553, April 12 daughter of Roger Barloe Grant of an Annuity of £40 by the said Roger to Thomas Barloe issuing out of lands and tenements in co. Pembroke and £20 to Mary , daughter of the said Roger Barloe for the preferment of her marriage, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barloe Roger 1553, April 12 of Slebiche, esq.. Grant of an Annuity of £40 by the said Roger to Thomas Barloe issuing out of lands and tenements in co. Pembroke and £20 to Mary , daughter of the said Roger Barloe for the preferment of her marriage, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barloe Thomas of Catteffeld, co. Norfolk, clerk,1553, April 12. Grant of an Annuity of £40 by the said Roger to Thomas Barloe issuing out of lands and tenements in co. Pembroke and £20 to Mary , daughter of the said Roger Barloe for the preferment of her marriage, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Barlow Roger 1553, July 28 Bond for the performance of covenants specified in a deed of even . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1553 Queen Mary 1553/4 March 14 .The Most excellent Prince and Sovereign Lady Queen Mary to George Owen esq.,, one of the Queen Majesty's physicians Grant of the custody and wardship of John Barlowe, son and heir of Roger Barlowe, esq.,, deceased. Attached an extent of all the manors, lands, etc., of the late Roger Barloe and John Barlow his son and heir. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1555 Watkyns John 1555, June 14 .Letters Patent Granting a lease for 21 years to John Watkyns of the mill called Caniston Mille, the weir called le Blackpole, the demesne lands called le Upper Talffe and the tenement called le lower Talffe, all in Caniston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1556 Madocke Alice de Slebeche 1556/7, Feb. 1 .widow Grant of a messuage and seven acres and one rood of land in the vill and fields of Slebech in alto vico between the land of John Wogan, knight, and the highway, the lands lying in divers parcels Slebech Estate and Family Record

1556 Wogan John 1556/7, Feb. 1 .Grant of a messuage and seven acres and one rood of land in the vill and fields of Slebech in alto vico between the land of John Wogan, knight, and the highway, the lands lying in divers parcels Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Barlowe John 1557, June 23 Letters Patent Granting pardon and release to John Barlowe for all instructions and entries, etc., by him or Roger Barlow, whose heir he is , in the Lordships, manors, etc., held of the Crown. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Barlowe John 1557, June 23 .Special Livery Granted to John Barlowe , esq., son and heir of Roger Barlowe , deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Barlowe John 1557, June 3 ,Letters Patent, being a confirmation of the Grant by Edward VI to Roger Barloe, esq., to John Barlowe , esq., son and heir of the said Roger Barlowe , deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Barlow John 1557/8, March 20 gent., son and heir of Roger Barlow , late of Slebech, esq., deceased,.Lease for sixty years of a Grange with a close adjoining and a meadow called the lordes made in Marthelltwy Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Barlowe Roger 1557, June 23 Special Livery Granted to John Barlowe esq., son and heir of Roger Barlowe deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Barlowe Roger 1557, June 3 Letters Patent, being a confirmation of the Grant by Edward VI to Roger Barloe, esq., to John Barlowe esq., son and heir of the said Roger Barlowe deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Cowper Edward 1557/8, March 20 of Marthelltwy, yeoman---John Barlow, gent., son and heir of Roger Barlow, late of Slebech, esq., deceased,.Lease for sixty years of a Grange with a close adjoining and a meadow called the lordes made in Marthelltwy Slebech Estate and Family Record

1557 Shelley Richard . 1557 Mary , Queen of England, made an ineffectual effort to revive the Order of St. John in England and by charter, d from Greenwich on April 2nd,1557 actually nominated Richard Shelley " Preceptor of the Knights of St John at Slebech and Halstone, " to the Turcopoliership. A copy of the grant by Philip and Mary , which was nothing less than the restoration of the Pembrokeshire estates to the Knights of Rhodes, was in existence at Slebech.

Arch Camb 1899

1558 Barlowe Robert 1558, Aug. 11 Witness Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 ap Ieuan John 1558 reeve of Templeston. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1558 Barlowe John 1558, Aug. 4 Witness. Release of tenements, etc., in Mynwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Barlowe John 1558, Aug. 11 of Slebeche, gent.-Rowe Phillip of Murles, iron Smith Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Barlowe John 1558, Aug. 11 of Slebeche, gent. Phillip Rowe of Marles, iron Smith, Grant of a tenement in Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Barlowe John 1558, Aug. 11 of Slebeche, gent.-Rowe Phillip of Murles, iron Smith Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Barlowe John 1558 of Slebetche, co. Pembroke, esq.. ---Ap Rees William of Yerboston, co. Pembroke, Husbandman,

1558 Barlowe John of Slebetche, co. Pembroke, esq.. Grant of a tenement in Loghwayne, parish of Braudy in the occupation of Marreddeth Woolcoke. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Follande John 1558, Aug. 11 Witness Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Heminge Thomas 1558, Aug 11 Witness Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc, in the town of Mynwer Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Jacob John 1558 reeve of Roberdeston Slebech Estate and Family Records

1558 Roberts,Thomas 1558 reeve of Welfraye. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1558 Roger Gr 1558 reeve of Caniston. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1558 Rowe Phillip 1558, Aug. 4 Witness Release of tenements, etc., in Mynwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Rowe Phillip 1558, Aug. 11 of Marles, iron Smith John Barlowe of Slebeche, gent Grant of a tenement in Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Rowe Phillip 1558, Aug. 11of Murles, iron Smith---John Barlowe of Slebeche, gent. Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Watkyns John 1558 reeve of the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1558 Woolcock Robert 1558, Aug. 11 Witness Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1559 Barlowe John 1559, July 6 -John Fyssher de Overton, co. Southampton, gent., John Barlowe , gent. Bond in the sum of 200 marks. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1559 Fyssher John de Overton 1559, July 6 Southampton, gent. John Barlowe, gent. Bond in the sum of 200 marks Slebech Estate and Family Record

1560 Barloe John 1560, Nov. 20 Witness---William Goboghe of Winchehill, parish of Hascard, Husbandman, John Barloe of Slebiche, gent. Grant in consideration of thirty shillings of a messuage with a small garden in the vill of Slebiche. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1560 Begge Lewis 1560, Nov. 20 Witness ---William Goboghe of Winchehill, parish of Hascard, Husbandman, John Barloe of Slebiche, gent. Grant in consideration of thirty shillings of a messuage with a small garden in the vill of Slebiche. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1560 Goboghe William 1560, Nov. 20 of Winchehill, parish of Hascard, Husbandman, John Barloe of Slebiche, gent. Grant in consideration of thirty shillings of a messuage with a small garden in the vill of Slebiche. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1560 Husbond John 1560, June 13 of the town of Pembrochia, tailor John Wogan of Wyston Release of a messuage and lands in the parish of Slebaiche called Arnolles hyll Slebech Estate and Family Record

1560 Styleman John 1560, Nov. 20 Witness---William Goboghe of Winchehill, parish of Hascard, Husbandman John Barloe of Slebiche, gent. Grant in consideration of thirty shillings of a messuage with a small garden in the vill of Slebiche. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1561 Barlowe John 1561, Oct. 12 of Slebiche.---Wogan John de Wyston, esq. Grant of lands and tenements in the Croft of Slebiche in the lordship and manor of Slebiche. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1562 Barlow John 1562 of Slebech son of Roger by Julian daughter and heiress of Dews Roger of Bristol 1562 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1562 Saunders David de Hayston 1562, Nov. 26 .Witness Ap Rees William of Yerbeston, co. Pembroke, Husbandman Barlowe John of Slebetche, co. Pembroke, esq..Grant of a tenement in Loghwayne, parish of Braudy in the occupation of Marreddeth Woolcoke. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1562 Voyell David 1562, Nov. 26 Witness -- Ap Rees William of Yerbeston, co. Pembroke, Husbandman Barlowe John of Slebetche, co. Pembroke, esq.. Grant of a tenement in Loghwayne, parish of Braudy in the occupation of Marreddeth Woolcoke. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1562 Wogan John 1562, Nov. 26 Witness Ap Rees William of Yerbeston, co. Pembroke, Husbandman Barlowe John of Slebetche, co. Pembroke, esq..Grant of a tenement in Loghwayne, parish of Braudy in the occupation of Marreddeth Woolcoke. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1563 Barlowe John 1563, July 15 of Slebeche, esq., John Wogan of Bolston, esq.. Deed of Exchange of three messuages, etc., called Rose downe and Norchard, parish of Bolston, for two tenements in the parishes of Harbeston and Slebeche. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Barlowe John 1565 of Slebeche, esq., John Wogan of Bulston, esq.. Grant, in consideration of £96, of the parish Church and parsonage or rectory of Buleston with the Parson's house, glebelands, tithes, etc., thereto belonging. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Barlowe John 1565, July 18 of Slebiche Pillipps William of Pycton, esq., esq..Grant of a messuage, etc., lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witness. Morgan Phillips, John Hodgeskynson, scribe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Hodgeskynson John 1565, July 18 scribe Grant of a messuage, etc, lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne Witness Morgan Phillips, Slebech Estate and Family Records
3047

1565 Hughe Elizabeth 1565, July 18 Grant of a messuage, etc., lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne Witness Morgan Phillips, John Hodgeskynson, scribe Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Meyler Richard 1565, July 18 .Grant of a messuage, etc., lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witness Morgan Phillips, John Hodgeskynson, scribe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Phillips Morgan 1565, July 18 Grant of a messuage, etc., lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witness Morgan Phillips, John Hodgeskynson, scribe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Pycton William 1565, July 18 Grant of a messuage, etc., lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witness Morgan Phillips, John Hodgeskynson, scribe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1565 Saunder William 1565, July 18 .Grant of a messuage, etc., lying in the vill and fields of Slebiche in the manor of Slebich in the occupation of Richard Meyler, William Saunder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerk, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witness Morgan Phillips, John Hodgeskynson, scribe. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1566 Barlowe John 1566, September. 26 of Slebiche, co. Pembroke, esq.. Elizabeth Phillips of Pycton, widow Release of messuages and lands in the vill and fields of Slebich in the manor (dominium) of Slebiche now or lately in the tenure of Richard Meyler, William Sawnder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerke, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witnesses. Morgan Phillips and John Hodgeskynson, scriptor. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1567 Barlowes Lewes 1567 Oct 20 of the Myddle Temple, gent.
Assignment of the remainder of a term of years in the late Commandery or Preceptory of Slebech and the Lordships, manors, lands, etc., thereto belonging in the county of Pembroke (leased by the Crown to Thomas Audley, esq., 29 March 7 Edward VI, and assigned by the latter to Thomas
Lloyd aforesaid and Richard Jones of the parish of St. Clare, co. Carmarthen, gent., 2 May 7
Edward VI), 1567, Oct. 20. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1567 Barlowe John 1567, September. 22 plaintiff, and John Perrott, knight. Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlowe, esq., plaintiff, and John Perrott, knight, deforciant, when the deforciant acknowledged the manor of Hubberston with messuages, lands, etc., in Hubberston, Luddamston, Mynware, and Marteltwye to be the right of the plaintiff. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1567 Jones Richard 2 May 7 Edward VI, 1567 Assignment of the remainder of a term of years in the late Commandery or Preceptory of Slebech and the Lordships, manors, lands, etc., thereto belonging in the county of Pembroke leased by the Crown to Thomas
Audley, esq., 29 March 7 Edward VI, and assigned by the latter to Thomas Lloyd aforesaid and Richard Jones of the parish of St. Clare, co. Carmarthen, gent., 2 May 7 Edward VI, 1567, Oct.
20. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1567 Lloyd Thomas 1567, Oct. 20 of Llanstephan, co. Carmarthen, esq.. Assignment of the remainder of a term of years in the late Commandery or Preceptory of Slebech and the Lordships, manors, lands, etc., thereto belonging in the county of Pembroke leased by the Crown to Thomas Audley, esq., 29 March 7 Edward VI, and assigned by the latter to Thomas Lloyd aforesaid and Richard Jones of the parish of St. Clare, co. Carmarthen, gent., 2
May 7 Edward VI, 1567, Oct. 20. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1568 Barlowe John 1568, September. 13 Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlowe, esq., plaintiff, and John Woogan of Wyston, esq., and his wife, deforciant, when the deforciant acknowledged the manor of le Pyll otherwise called the Great Pill and sixteen messuages, etc., in Steynton, Roche, Sleabyche and Lamston to be the right of the plaintiff. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1569 Barlowe John 1569/70, Feb. 25 of Slebech, esq.. Grant of a messuage and two acres of land in Mynwere Slebech Estate and Family Record

1570 Barlowe John 1570, May 1. of Slebeche, esq., Marget Phill otherwise Gobbough of Slebech, widow Covenant to convey a messuage on the west side of

Slebeche against the Marle pittes (where the said Marget lives) in exchange for a messuage with haie and garden adjoining the wall of the court of the house of the said John Barlowe in Slebeche, order under a piece of ground called Masterland. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1570 Loyde Thomas 1570, May 1 Slebeche, esq.. Marget Phill otherwise Gobbough of Slebech, widow .Covenant to convey a messuage on the west side of Slebeche against the Marle pittes where the said Marget lives in exchange for a messuage with haie and garden adjoining the wall of the court of the house of the said John Barlowe in Slebeche, orde under a piece of ground called Masterland. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1570 Orman Davyth 1570, May Witness Barlowe John of Slebeche, esq.. Marget Phill otherwise Gobbough of Slebech, widow 1.Covenant to convey a messuage on the west side of Slebeche against the Marle pittes (where the said Marget lives in exchange for a messuage with haie and garden adjoining the wall of the court of the house of the said John Barlowe in Slebeche, orde under a piece of ground called Masterland. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1570 Phill Marget 1570, May 1 otherwise Gobbough of Slebech, widow .John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Covenant to convey a messuage on the west side of Slebeche against the Marle pittes where the said Marget lives in exchange for a messuage with haie and garden adjoining the wall of the court of the house of the said John Barlowe in Slebeche, orde under a piece of ground called Masterland. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1570 Roche Patrycke 1570 May 1 Witness,Barlowe John of Slebeche, esq.. Marget Phill otherwise Gobbough of Slebech, widow .Covenant to convey a messuage on the west side of Slebeche against the Marle pittes where the said Marget lives in exchange for a messuage with haie and garden adjoining the wall of the court of the house of the said John Barlowe in Slebeche, order under a piece of ground called Masterland. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1571 Willy Thomas 1571 Quittance to Thomas Willy, reeve of Nova Domus, for an unspecified sum.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1572 Seys Jhon 1572, Oct. 26 .Jhon Seys of Monckton, Husbandman, and Elizabeth, his wife Thomas Baron of Nerberth, Husbandman, and Alson Roger of Nerberth, spinster, cousins of the said Jhon Seys and Elizabeth-Agreement, before the marriage of the said Thomas Baron and Alson Roger, for the latter to dwell and cohabit with the said Jhon Seys and his wife as if they were their own children, and for the making of an estate for the said Thomas

Baron and Alson Roger in 5 acres of arable land and 1 acre of grove or wood in the Englishry within the parish and reeve ship of Nerberth, and about 12 acres of arable land and 36 acres of mountain ground in the Welshry at Moyleston in the parish of Nerberth, being the lands of the said Jhon Seys. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1573 Gronowe Thomas 1573, Nov. 29 John Seys of Monckton, Husbandman, Thomas Gronowe of Templeton and Morgan Howell of Cronwer, yeoman. Grant of five acres of arable land and one acre of wood in the Englishry of the parish of Nerberth, and two acres of arable land and thirty-six acres of waste in the Welshry of Moyleston, parish of Nerberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1573 Howell Morgan 1573, Nov 29 John Seys of Monckton, Husbandman Thomas Gronowe of Templeton and Morgan Howell of Cronwer, yeoman Grant of five acres of arable land and one acre of wood in the Englishry of the parish of Nerberth, and two acres of arable land and thirty-six acres of waste in the Welshry of Moyleston, parish of Nerberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1573 Palmer Edward 1573, Oct. 17 John Wogan of Wyston, esq.. Edward Palmer of Carno, co. Montgomery, Husbandman. Lease for three lives of a messuage in the parish of Slebech in the occupation of John Wathen. Rent £3. 6. 8d. Annually, two couples of capons annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1573 Seys Elizabeth 1573, Nov, 29 ---John Gronowe of Templeton and Morgan Howell of Cronwer--John Seys and Elizabeth Seys his wife, Lease for two lives of the lands specified , Slebech Estate and Family Records

1573 Seys John 1573, Nov. 29 .---John Seys of Monckton, Husbandman Thomas Gronowe of Templeton and Morgan Howell of Cronwer, yeoman. Grant of five acres of arable land and one acre of wood in the Englishry of the parish of Nerberth, and two acres of arable land and thirty-six acres of waste in the Welshry of Moyleston, parish of Nerberth. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1573 Seys John 1573, Nov, 29 ---John Gronowe of Templeton and Morgan Howell of Cronwer-- John Seys and Elizabeth Seys his wife, Lease for two lives of the lands specified , Slebech Estate and Family Records

1575 Barlow John 1575 of Slebech 1575 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire Died 25th Dec 1610 married Fisher Elizabeth, daughter of Fisher John, esq.. and they had children

1575 Barlow John of Slebech 1575 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1575 Barlo John 1575/6, Feb, 2 Owen ap Owen of Wynshill, parish of Haskard yeoman,--John Barlo of Slebeche, esq., --Bond for the quiet possession of a messuage and land in the town and fields of Slebeche, and one acre of land in Wyston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1575 Jones Henry 1575, Oct, 31 , John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , Robert Lloyd of Morvill, gent., Thomas Nasshe of SandyHaven, gent., and Henry Jones of Vaynor, gent,--John Barlo of Slebeche, esq.--Bond for the performance of Covenants specified Witnesses Alban Stepneth, John David, John Voyell, Sebastian Tryke--Slebech Estate and Family Record

1575 Lloyd Robert 1575, Oct, 31 of Morvill,, John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , Robert Lloyd of Morvill, gent., Thomas Nasshe of SandyHaven, gent., and Henry Jones of Vaynor, gent,--John Barlo of Slebeche, esq.--Bond for the performance of Covenants specified Witnesses Alban Stepneth, John David, John Voyell, Sebastian Tryke--Slebech Estate and Family Record

1575 Stepneth Alban 1575, Oct, 31 , John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , Robert Lloyd of Morvill, gent., Thomas Nasshe of SandyHaven, gent., and Henry Jones of Vaynor, gent,--John Barlo of Slebeche, esq.--Bond for the performance of Covenants specified Witnesses Alban Stepneth, John David, John Voyell, Sebastian Tryke-- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1575 Tryke Sebastian 1575, Oct, 31 , John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , Robert Lloyd of Morvill, gent., Thomas Nasshe of SandyHaven, gent., and Henry Jones of Vaynor, gent,--John Barlo of Slebeche, esq.--Bond for the performance of Covenants specified Witnesses Alban Stepneth, John David, John Voyell, Sebastian Tryke--Slebech Estate and Family Record

1575 Voyell John 1575, Oct, 31 , John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , Robert Lloyd of Morvill, gent, Thomas Nasshe of SandyHaven, gent., and Henry Jones of Vaynor, gent,--John Barlo of Slebeche, esq.--Bond for the performance of Covenants specified Witnesses Alban Stepneth, John David, John Voyell Sebastian Tryke -- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Barlo John 1576 May 18 John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Mortgage of lands and tenements in the parishes of Wyston, Slebeche and Ambleston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Barlo Thomas 1576, May 18 John Wogan of Ayston, esq., ,Thomas Barlo of Slebeche,-- Grant of a messuage and land, etc., in the parishes of Wyston, Slebeche and Ambleston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Barlo John 1576, May 28 Letters Patent Granting licence to John Wogan, esq., , to alienate the Chapel of Cryswell with land, etc., and the rectory of Martiltwy, to John Barlo Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Gibbe Phillip 1576/7, March 24 John Evans of Llawhadden, co, Pembroke, gent,, Jenkin Hire of Hooke in the parish of Rudbackston, co, Pembroke, Husbandman,--Phillip Gibbe of Canaston, co, Pembroke, Husbandman,Bond for the quiet enjoyment of two messuages, etc., in Canaston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Hire Jenkin 1576/7, March 24 , John Evans of Llawhadden, co, Pembroke, gent,, Jenkin Hire of Hooke in the parish of Rudbackston, co, Pembroke, Husbandman--Phillip Gibbe of Canaston, co, Pembroke, Husbandman, Bond for the quiet enjoyment of two messuages, etc., in Canaston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Wogan John 1576, May 28 ,Letters Patent Granting licence to John Wogan, esq., , to alienate the Chapel of Cryswell with land, etc., and the rectory of Martiltwy, to John Barlo Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Wogan John 1576, May 28 ,Letters Patent Granting licence to John Wogan, esq., , to alienate the Chapel of Cryswell with land, etc., and the rectory of Martiltwy, to John Barlo Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Wogan John 1576, May 18 of Ayston,, John Wogan of Ayston, esq., Thomas Barlo of Slebeche,--Grant of a messuage and land, etc., in the parishes of Wyston, Slebeche and Ambleston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1577 Barlo John 1577, September, 2 John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , John Barlo of Slebeche, esq., Grant, in consideration of £600, of the tenements called Dunstrete,

Arnoldeshyll, Roweshyll, Bukeshyll, Stokebrydge, Clarkenhyll and Pykell, and all tenements in the tenure of Richard Mathewe in the parish of Slebeche, with all lands, etc., thereto belonging, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1577 Barlo John 1577, September, 24 John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , John Barlo of Slebeche, esq., Covenant to levy a fine of messuages and lands in the parishes of Wyston, Slebeche and Ambleston, *Slebech Estate and Family Record

1577 Barlow John 1577 May 14 Great Pill Manor -of Slebech -- free tenant who held of the Queen as of her Castle and Lordship of westHaverford by knight service, suit of court at the Castle gate and relief without paying rent" *Survey of the Lordship of Haverford in 1577- H Owen- Arch Camb

1577 Barlo John 1577, Oct, 14 Final Concordia a fine Levied between John Barlo, esq., , plaintiff, and Roger Bowles, gent., deforciant, when the defendant acknowledged two messuages, lands, etc., in Harbeston to be the right of the said John, *Slebech Estate and Family Record

1577 Mathewe Richard 1577, September, 2 , John Wogan of Wyston, esq., John Barlo of Slebeche, esq., Grant, in consideration of £600, of the tenements called Dunstrete, Arnoldeshyll, Roweshyll, Bukeshyll, Stokebrydge, Clarkenhyll and Pykell, and all tenements in the tenure of Richard Mathewe in the parish of Slebeche, with all lands, etc., thereto belonging, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1578 Davies John 1578 September 22 Exemplification of a Final Concordia a fine Levied between John Davies and William Dormer gentlemen plaintiffs and William Griffith and Edward Cowper gentlemen deforciants when the deforciants acknowledged two messuages land etc in Martletwye to be the right of the plaintiffs and a Lease thereof to the deforciants Slebech Estate and Family Record

1578 John, John Phillip 1578 John Phillip John of the parish of LLampeter Velfrey, gent,Phillip David Harrie of the same-Bond for the quiet enjoyment of land called Tir y golygon in the parishes of LLampeter Velfrey and Llandewie Velfrey,Slebech Estate and Family Record

1615 Johnes Lewis 1615/6. Jan.3 .John Sayes and William Sayes of Lonbeder Velfrey, yeomen,Henry Probert of Narberth. Bond for the quiet possession of two messuages, etc., lying in Nerberth, parish of Nerberth and within the Lordship and reeveship of Narberth and Welfrey, in the same manner as John Sayes late of Mounton heretofore enjoyed the same Witnesses Griffith ? Rolles, clerk, Lewis Johnes, William Lewis, Thomas John Prellregh, William David Wener. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1579 Barlo John 1579, September, 9 of Slebech John Wogan of Wyston, esq., , Cicill his wife,, esq., , Alban Stepneth of Prendergast, esq., , and Thomas Woogan of Antisladd, gent, Agreement following a fine Levied of the messuages and lands called Clerkenhill, Dunstrete, Arnoldeshill and Buckeshill touching lands (tenants specified) in Wiston, Slebeche and Ambleston, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1579 Barlowe John of Slebech, 1579, September, 14 , John Woogan of Wyston, esq., , John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Grant, in consideration of a Covenant to pay a sum of £500 to the Crown and of £100, of the manor of Burton, the messuage and lands of Cresswell, messuages and lands in Arnoldeshill and Donstrete, a messuage and lands in Slebech in the tenure of Richard Mathewe, a tenement called Clerkenhill in the parish of Marteltwy with tithes, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1579 Mathewe Richard 1579, September, 14 , John Woogan of Wyston, esq., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Grant, in consideration of a Covenant to pay a sum of £500 to the Crown and of £100, of the manor of Burton, the messuage and lands of Cresswell, messuages and lands in Arnoldeshill and Donstrete, a messuage and lands in Slebech in the tenure of Richard Mathewe, a tenement called Clerkenhill in the parish of Marteltwy with tithes, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1579 Willy William 1579, April 6 , junior, Thomas Wyllye of Newe House, Husbandman William Wyllye, senior, his son, of Newton, Husbandman, and Arnold Butler, gent, Grant of a tenement called Newhouse in the parish of Narbart, on condition that the Grantor or his wife, Joan, be re- enforced at request with remainder to William Willy, junior, and the rightful heirs of the said Grantor, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1579 Wyllye Thomas 1579, April 6 of Newe House, Thomas Wyllye of Newe House, Husbandman William Wyllye, senior, his son, of Newton, Husbandman, and Arnold Butler, gent, Grant of a tenement called Newhouse in the parish of Narbart, on condition that the Grantor or his wife, Joan, be re-enforced at request with remainder to William Willy, junior, and the rightful heirs of the said Grantor, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1579 Wyllye William 1579, April 6 , Thomas Wyllye of Newe House, Husbandman William Wyllye, senior, his son, of Newton, Husbandman, and Arnold Butler, gent, Grant of a tenement called Newhouse in the parish of Narbart, on condition that the Grantor or his wife, Joan, be re- enforced at request with remainder to William Willy, junior, and the rightful heirs of the said Grantor, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1580 Barloe John 1580, Dec, 1 Letters Patent Granting a licence for the alienation by John Barloe esq., , to Morgan Phillips, esq., , of the Manor of Slebetche, the site of the manor of Slebetche, the manor of Mynevare otherwise Minore, the site of the late priory of Pille with lands and a mill in the tenure of George Pynde, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1580 Phillips Morgan,1580, Dec, 1 Letters Patent Granting a licence for the alienation by John Barloe, esq., , to Morgan Phillips, esq., , of the Manor of Slebetche, the site of the manor of Slebetche, the manor of Mynevare otherwise Minore, the site of the late priory of Pille with lands and a mill in the tenure of George Pynde, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1580 Pynde George 1580, Dec, 1 Letters Patent Granting a licence for the alienation by John Barloe, esq., , to Morgan Phillips, esq., , of the Manor of Slebetche, the site of the manor of Slebetche, the manor of Mynevare otherwise Minore, the site of the late priory of Pille with lands and a mill in the tenure of George Pynde, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1581 Barlowe John 1581, Oct, 21,Lewis Begge of Slebech, yeoman, John Barlowe of the same, esq., Grant of a messuage and a garden in the town of Slebech above the wall of the cemetery of St, John the Baptist on the west side, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1582 Vaughan John 1582 of Narberth In 1582 estimated the size and quality of the Wood at Minwear – [he was probably acting as Steward of the Slebech estate.]

1583 Barlo John 1583/4, Jan, 7 David Phillip of Slebech, yeoman, John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Grant of a messuage and land, etc, in Slebech,-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1583 Barlow John 1583, May 14 Letters Patent Granting to John Barlow , gent., a Lease for 21 years of a tenement and land called Mowrton, parcel of the manor of Coydrathe, land called Coidree in the manor and forest of Coydrathe, tenements called Cockesyate, and Eglerath, lands near Gillauna and Erwerde, a house at a place called Holmen Will', all in the manor and forest of Coydrathe and late parcel of the lands of Jasper, Duke of Bedford, and a house and lands in Newton, parcel of the possessions of Katherine, late Duchess of Bridgewater, and a shop near le Bothall in the town of Aburgavenny, co, Monmouth, formerly parcel of the possessions of the Priory of the said place, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1583 Barloe John 1583, September, 14 John Barloe of Slebech, esq., ,
John Gybbe of Newhouse, Husbandman, Lease of a messuage and lands in the parish of Newton,
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1583 Gybbe John 1583, September, 14 of Newhouse John Barloe of Slebech, esq., , John Gybbe of Newhouse, Husbandman, Lease of a messuage and lands in the parish of Newton,-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1583 Phillip David 1583/4, Jan, 7 David Phillip of Slebech, yeoman John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Grant of a messuage and land, etc, in Slebech,-- Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1584 Barloe John 1584, September, 6 Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman, John Barloe of Mynwer, esq., Grant of two messuages or tenements in Mynwer in the tenure of John Tassye, grandfather of the Grantor, and William Gronow,-- Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1584 Barloe John 1584, September, 6 Richard Addy of Minwer, and Thomas Phelipp of Yeldblocke, yeomen, John Barloe esq., Bond for the quiet enjoyment of two messuages, etc., in Minwer,-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1584 Elliott John 1584 court rolls of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family
Records

1584 Gronow William 1584, September, 6 ,Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman, John Barloe of Mynwer, esq., Grant of two messuages or tenements in Mynwer in the tenure of John Tassye, grandfather of the Grantor, and William Gronow,-- Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1584 Tassye John 1584, September, 6, Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman John Barloe of Mynwer, esq., Grant of two messuages or tenements in Mynwer in the tenure of John Tassye, grandfather of the Grantor, and William Gronow,-- Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1585 Barlo John 1585, Oct, 2 Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman, John Barlo of Mynwere, esq., Release of two messuages in Mynwere, , Witnesses. Robert Gwyne, clerk, John Leves, John Henryker, Patricke Roche , Thomas Beccley, Thomas Hoell, Thomas Phillipe,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Baron Lewis 1585-1586 reeve of Welfray. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Gibbe Phillip 1585-1586 reeve of Caniston, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1585 Gwillim William 1585-1586 reeve of the town of Nerberte,. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Henryker John 1585, Oct, 2 ,Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman John Barlo of Mynwere, esq., Release of two messuages in Mynwere, , Witnesses Robert Gwyne, clerk, John Leves, John Henryker Patricke Roche , Thomas Beccley, Thomas Hoell, Thomas Phillipe,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Hoell John , reeve of Templeton, 1585-1586 Slebech Estate and Family Records

1585 Hoell Thomas 1585, Oct, 2,Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman John Barlo of Mynwere, esq., Release of two messuages in Mynwere, , Witnesses Robert Gwyne, clerk, John Leves, John Henryker Patricke Roche , Thomas Beccley, Thomas Hoell, Thomas Phillipe,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Leves John 1585, Oct, 2 ,Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman John Barlo of Mynwere, esq., Release of two messuages in Mynwere, , Witnesses Robert Gwyne, clerk, John Leves, John Henryker, Patricke Roche , Thomas Beccley, Thomas Hoell, Thomas Phillipe,-Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Llewhellin Thomas 1585-1586 reeve of Robertston. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1585 Phillipe Thomas 1585, Oct, 2 Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman John Barlo of Mynwere, esq., Release of two messuages in Mynwere, Witnesses Robert Gwyne, clerk, John Leves, John Henryker, Patricke Roche , Thomas Beccley, Thomas Hoell, Thomas

Phillipe,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Roche Patricke 1585, Oct, 2 ,Richard Adye of Mynwere, yeoman John Barlo of Mynwere, esq., Release of two messuages in Mynwere, , Witnesses Robert Gwyne, clerk, John Leves, John Henyker, Patricke Roche , Thomas Beccley, Thomas Hoell, Thomas Phillipe,-Slebech Estate and Family Record

1585 Sayce William 1585,June 7 of Tregallet, William Sayce of Tregallet, Husbandman John Barron of Muncion, Husbandman, Release of 48 acres of land in the fields of Moleston in the parish of Narberth, Slebech Estate and Family Records

1586 Barlowe John 1586/7, March 20 ,Phillip Gibbe of the parish of Robeston Wathen, Husbandman, John Barlowe of the parish of Minwere, esq., Bond for the quiet enjoyment of two tenements in Caneston,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1586 Gibbe Phillip 1586/7, March 20 Phillip Gibbe of the parish of Robeston Wathen, Husbandman, John Barlowe of the parish of Minwere, esq., Bond for the quiet enjoyment of two tenements in Caneston,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1587 Barlowe George 1587, May 8 Letters patent Granting to George Barlow of Slebeche, esq., , in consideration of £432, 16s, 8d., the rents of assize of the free tenants in Caniston, services, perquisites and profits of the courts there and all the courts and suits, the demesne lands called The Uppertaf, the park called the Lowertaf, the water mill called Caniston Mill, and the pool called the Blackpool with toll, late parcel of the lands of the late Rice Griffith, esq., , attained, late parcel of the lands of Katherine, late Countess of Bridgewater. also the tenement called Mariborough, parcel of the preceptory of Slebech late in the tenure of John Barnard of the yearly rent of 60s., also all woods and under-woods thereto belonging,

- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1587 Barlowe George 1587, May 8 Letters Patent Granting a Lease for 21 years to John Evans, esq., , of the demesne lands called le Uppertaff and the tenement called le Loertaff in Caniston, late parcel of the lands and possessions of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater, With a memorandum of the Assignment of the remainder of the term of ten years in the above lands by Owen verth Humfrey, otherwise Yeavans, widow of the said John Evans of Sleabedge, deceased, to George Barlow d 30 October 1603,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1587 Baron Lewis 1587 , Michaelmas,Account of Lewis Baron, reeve of

Welfray, for the year ending Michaelmas 29 Elizabeth,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1587 Evans John 1587, May 8 Letters Patent Granting a Lease for 21 years to John Evans, esq., , of the demesne lands called le Uppertaff and the tenement called le Loertaff in Caniston, late parcel of the lands and possessions of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater, With a memorandum of the Assignment of the remainder of the term of ten years in the above lands by Owen verth Humfrey, otherwise Yeavans, widow of the said John Evans of Sleabedge, deceased, to George Barlowe, d 30 October 1603,-Slebech Estate and Family Record

1588 Barlo John 1588, May 29 Watkin Feresfoote of Lambston, yeoman, John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Bond for the quiet possession of messuages, etc., in the parish of Slebeche now in the tenure of John Sutton and Maude White,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1588 Barlo John 1588, May 29 Watkin Feresfoote of Lambston, yeoman, John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Grant in consideration of £8 of messuages, etc., in the parish of Slebech, Witnesses. Thomas Fromond, Gryff Philpe, William Carraule, Thomas Sutton, William Lewes, Thomas Lloyd ,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1588 Feresfoote Watkin 1588, May 29 Watkin Feresfoote of Lambston, yeoman John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Grant in consideration of £8 of messuages, etc., in the parish of Slebech, Witnesses Thomas Fromond, Gryff, Philpe, William ? Carraule, Thomas Sutton, William Lewes, Thomas Lloyd ,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1588 Feresfoote Watkin 1588, May 29 Watkin Feresfoote of Lambston, yeoman John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Bond for the quiet possession of messuages, etc., in the parish of Slebeche now in the tenure of John Sutton and Maude White,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1588 Sutton John 1588, May 29 ,Watkin Feresfoote of Lambston, yeoman John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Bond for the quiet possession of messuages, etc., in the parish of Slebeche now in the tenure of John Sutton and Maude White,- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1588 White Maude 1588, May 29 ,Watkin Feresfoote of Lambston, yeoman John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Bond for the quiet possession of messuages, etc., in the parish of Slebeche now in the tenure of John Sutton and Maude White,- Slebech Estate and

Family Record

1589 Barlo John 1589, July 21 Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlo, esq., , plaintiff, and Thomas Harryes and Alice his wife, deforciants, when the deforciants acknowledged six messuages, lands, etc., in Staynton and Huberston to be the right of the plaintiff,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1589 Harryes Alice 1589, July 21 ,Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlo, esq., , plaintiff, and Thomas Harryes and Alice his wife, deforciants, when the deforciants acknowledged six messuages, lands, etc., in Staynton and Huberston to be the right of the plaintiff,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1589 Harryes Thomas 1589, July 21 ,Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlo, esq., , plaintiff, and Thomas Harryes and Alice his wife, deforciants, when the deforciants acknowledged six messuages, lands, etc., in Staynton and Huberston to be the right of the plaintiff,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1590 Barlow John 1590/1, March 22 Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlow , esq., , plaintiff, and Phillip Gybbe of Caneston and Alson his wife, deforciants, when the deforciants acknowledge two messuages, lands, etc., in Canaston and Robaston Wathen to be the right of the plaintiff,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1590 Gybbe Phillip 1590/1, March 22 ,Final Concord in a fine Levied between John Barlow, esq., , plaintiff, and Phillip Gybbe of Caneston and Alson his wife, deforciants, when the deforciants acknowledge two messuages, lands, etc., in Canaston and Robaston Wathen to be the right of the plaintiff,Slebech Estate and Family Record

1591 Barlo Georgio 1591 married Jane Phillipps claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1593 Barlo John 1593/4, Feb, 24 John Barlo of Slebech, esq., ,Fraunces Parry of Tregadogan, yeoman,Assignment for the Grant of the messuage and lands in the parish of Whitechurch in Dewisland in exchange for a messuage and lands in Pultarrawe in the parish of Llanhowell,-Slebech Estate and Family Record

1593 Barlowe George 1593, September, 1 William Wogan, gent, son and heir apparent of John Wogan of Wilston, esq., , lately deceased, Thomas Revell of Kyllgarran, esq., , and William Kettle of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent., John Barloe of Slebech, esq., , and George Barlowe, gent., his son and heir apparent, Covenant to suffer a recovery of the manor of Kylvelgy otherwise St, Issels with 46 messuages, 2 mills, lands, etc., the advowson of the Church of Martletwye, the fourth part of the manor of Burton, in St, Issells, Burton, Martletwy, Earbeston, Lawrenny, Wiston, and Slebech-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1593 Barloe John 1593, September, 1 William Wogan, gent., son and heir apparent of John Wogan of Wilston, esq., , lately deceased, Thomas Revell of Kyllgarran, esq., , and William Kettle of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent., John Barloe of Slebech, esq., , and George Barlowe, gent., his son and heir apparent, Covenant to suffer a recovery of the manor of Kylvelgy otherwise St, Issels with 46 messuages, 2 mills, lands, etc., the advowson of the Church of Martletwye, the fourth part of the manor of Burton, in St, Issells, Burton, Martletwy, Earbeston, Lawrenny, Wiston, and Slebech-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1593 Kettle William 1593, September, 1 , William Wogan, gent., son and heir apparent of John Wogan of Wilston, esq., , lately deceased, Thomas Revell of Kyllgarran, esq., , and William Kettle of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent, John Barloe of Slebech, esq., , and George Barlowe, gent., his son and heir apparent, Covenant to suffer a recovery of the manor of Kylvelgy otherwise St, Issels with 46 messuages, 2 mills, lands, etc., the advowson of the Church of Martletwye, the fourth part of the manor of ton, in St, Issells, ton, Martletwy, Earbeston, Lawrenny, Wiston, and Slebech-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1593 Parry Fraunces 1593/4, Feb, 24 John Barlo of Slebech, esq., Fraunces Parry of Tregadogan yeoman Assignment for the Grant of the messuage and lands in the parish of Whitechurch in Dewisland in exchange for a messuage and lands in Pultarrawe in the parish of Llanhowell,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1594 Phillipes Morgan 1594, July 20 Letters Patent Granting to Walter Rice a Lease of a tenement in Moliston, lately devised to Morgan Phillippes and late parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith, and Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater- following another Grant for the lives of Owen, Alban and Thomas Phillipps,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1594 Phillips Owen 1594, July 20 Letters Patent Granting to Walter Rice a Lease of a tenement in Moliston, lately devised to Morgan Phillippes and late parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith, and Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater- following another Grant for the lives of Owen, Alban and Thomas Phillipps - Slebech Estate and Family Record

1594 Phillips Thomas 1594, July 20 Letters Patent Granting to Walter

Rice a Lease of a tenement in Moliston, lately devised to Morgan Phillipes and late parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith, and Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater- following another Grant for the lives of Owen, Alban and Thomas Phillips,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1594 Rice Walter 1594, July 20 ,Letters Patent Granting to Walter Rice a Lease of a tenement in Moliston, lately devised to Morgan Phillipes and late parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith, and Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater- following another Grant for the lives of Owen, Alban and Thomas Phillips,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1599 Phillip Thomas David 1599, April 24 Owen Elliott of Narberth, esq., Hughe Lewes of Landewy Velfrey, carpenter-Lease for 20 years of a tenement and lands called Goughes landes in Velfrey in the tenure of Thomas David Phillip and held by the said Owen Elliott by Lease of the Queen, Rent 6s, 8d, Annually,- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Barlow George 1601, Nov. 27 John Thyme, senior, of Longleate, co. Wilts., esq., and Henry Best of London, gent.,George Barlow of Slebidge, esq.. Grant of nova domus otherwise Newhouse situated in or near nova villa otherwise Newtowne otherwise Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601/2 Barlow George of Slebeche 1601/2, Jan. 7 Letters Patent Granting to, esq., in consideration of £732.16. 8., the rents of assize of the free tenants of Caniston, perquisites of the court there, the demesne lands called le Uppertaf, the tenement called le Lowertaf, the mill called Caniston Mille, the weir called le Black Poole, parcel of the possessions of Katherine late Countess of Bridgewater, the tenement called Mariborough, parcel of the Preceptory of Slebeche.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Barlow George grandson of Roger endowed Church of Slebech. Barlow George 1601 had a busy iron forge at Blackpool East Cleddau. The Elizabethan Squirearchy in Pembrokeshire B. Howell,s. Pembrokeshire historian Vol. 1 p 25

1601 Canon Thomas 1601, July 20 Letters Patent being a commission to Herbert Crofte, receiver general of South Wales, Geoffrey Dupp, esq., supervisor there, George Owen, esq., William Wogan, esq., Richard Grafton, esq., and Thomas Canon, gent., to survey the manor of Caniston.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Crofte Herbert 1601, July 20 .Letters Patent being a commission to Herbert Crofte, receiver general of South Wales, Geoffrey Dupp, esq., supervisor there, George Owen, esq., William Wogan, esq., Richard Grafton, esq., and Thomas Canon, gent., to survey the manor of Caniston.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Barlowe George 1601, Nov. 19 George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq., The Crown. Bond for the payment of the purchase price of the manor of Caniston, late part of the possessions of Ryce Gryffythe, esq., attained, and the demesne lands called Uppertaf, the tenement and park called Lowertaf, the water mill called Caniston Mill, the water course called the Blacke Poole in Caniston, late parcel of the possessions of Katherine, Countess of Bridgwater, and a tenement called Mary boroughe in the parish of Slebiche, late parcel of the possessions of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, according to the value of the woods and under-woods to be surveyed by a commission of Survey and the purchase value of the soil.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Owen George 1601, July 20 .esq., Letters Patent being a commission to Herbert Crofte, receiver general of South Wales, Geoffrey Dupp, esq., supervisor there, George Owen, esq., William Wogan, esq., Richard Grafton, esq., and Thomas Canon, gent., to survey the manor of Caniston.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Thyme John 1601, Nov. 27 John Thyme, senior, of Longleate, co. Wilts., esq., and Henry Best of London, gent., George Barlow of Slebidge, esq.. Grant of nova domus otherwise Newhouse situated in or near nova villa otherwise Newtowne otherwise Newton.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1602 Allen William 1602, July 16 Letters Patent Granting a Lease for 21 years to William Allen of a tenement and lands called Goughes landes and Kiluaughe in Welfray.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1602 Phillip Thomas David 1602, Nov. 20 Owen Elliot of Erwear, gent., Thomas David Phillip of Landnwy Velfre, yeoman. Lease Assignment for 12 years of tenements and lands called Goughes landes in Welfray and a piece of meadow in a close called Parke Newydd. Rent 6s.8d.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1602 Watkins Phillip 1602, June 23 .Petition circa 1602, June 23 of John Willy and Phillip Watkins, freeholders of the lordship of Narberth, on behalf of themselves and the rest of the freeholders to Lord Buckhurst, Lord High Treasurer of England, requesting that the steward of the lordship be ordered to allow the freeholders to elect the foresters according to custom and to administer the oath to the foresters to safeguard the rights of the freeholders.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1602 Willy John 1602, June 23. Petition circa 1602, June 23 of John

Willy and Phillip Watkins freeholders of the lordship of Narberth, on behalf of themselves and the rest of the freeholders to Lord Buckhurst, Lord High Treasurer of England, requesting that the steward of the lordship be ordered to allow the freeholders to elect the foresters according to custom and to administer the oath to the foresters to safeguard the rights of the freeholders.-

Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Barlow Stephen 1603, September. 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq.. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and wood grounds called Pykell or Lakewood late in the tenure of John Barlowe, esq., in the parish of Slebidge, co. Pembroke. Witnesses Owen Elliot, Stephen Barlow , William Barlow , Thomas Hunshell, John Phillip, John Skourfyld.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Barlowe George 1603, September. 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq.. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and wood grounds called Pykell or Talfewood late in he tenure of John Barlowe , esq., in the parish of Slebidge, co. Pembroke. Witnesses Owen Ellyot, Stephen Barlow William Barlow Thomas Hunshell, John Phillip, John Skourfyld.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Barlow William 1603, September. 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq.. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and wood grounds called Pykell or Talfewood late in the tenure of John Barlowe, esq., in the parish of Slebidge, co. Pembroke. Witnesses Owen Ellyot, Stephen Barlow , William Barlow , Thomas Hunshell, John Phillip, John Skourfyld.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Ellyot Owen , 1603, September. 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq.. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and wood grounds called Pykell or Talfewood late in the tenure of John Barlowe, esq., in the parish of Slebidge, co. Pembroke. Witnesses Owen Ellyot, Stephen Barlow, William Barlow, Thomas Hunshell, John Phillip, John Skourfyld.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Hunshell Thomas 1603, September 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and wood grounds called Pykell or Talfewood late in the tenure of John Barlowe, esq., in the parish of Slebidge, co Pembroke Witnesses Owen Ellyot, Stephen Barlow, William Barlow, Thomas Hunshell, John Phillip, John Skourfyld- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Skourfyld John 1603, September. 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq.. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and wood grounds called Pykell or Talfewood late in the tenure of John Barlowe, esq., in the parish of Slebidge, co. Pembroke. Witnesses Owen Ellyot, Stephen Barlow, William Barlow, Thomas Hunshill, John Phillip, John Skourfyld.- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1604 ap Rice Griffith 1604/5, Feb. 4 Will of Griffith ap Rice, clerk, portionary of the Church of Llandewy Velfrey.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1604 Barlow George 1604, September. 29 William Wogan of Wiston, knight,George Barlow .Release of parcels of land called Neweparke in the parishes of Wiston and Slebech.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1604 Barlowe George 1604, Dec. 20 Francis Mansell of ModlesCombe, co. Carmarthen, esq.,George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the demesne lands called the Upper Taffe and the tenement and park called the Lower Taffe in Canaston, - Slebech Estate and Family Record

1604 Mansell Francis 1604, Dec. 20 . Francis Mansell of ModlesCombe, co. Carmarthen, esq.,George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the demesne lands called the Upper Taffe and the tenement and park called the Lower Taffe in Canaston, - Slebech Estate and Family Record

1604 Mansell Francis 1604, Nov. 29 .Francis Mansell of ModlesCombe, co. Carmarthen, esq., and Walter Rice of Newton, co. Carmarthen, knight, John Phillipps, formerly son of Owen Phillipps late of Moleston, gent., deceased. Bond for the performance of Covenants specified - Slebech Estate and Family Record

1608 Barlowe George 1608, June 5 Laurence Rudderch of Wiston, yeoman,George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Bond for the quiet possession of a messuage, etc., in the town and parish of Slebeche between the lands of the said George Barlowe on both sides and the lane leading from Slebeche towards Lormons foorde on the north part, now in the occupation of Thomas David.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1608 David Thomas 1608 June 5 Laurence Rudderch of Wiston yeoman George Barlowe of Slebech esq. Bond for the quiet possession of a messuage etc in the town and parish of Slebeche between the lands of the said George Barlowe on both sides and the lane leading form Slebeche towards Lormons foorde on the north part now in the occupation of Thomas David- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1608 Rudderch Laurence 1608, June 5 .Laurence Rudderch of Wiston, yeoman,George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Bond for the quiet possession of a messuage, etc., in the town and parish of Slebeche between the lands of the said George Barlowe on both sides and the lane leading from Slebeche towards Lormons foorde on the north part, now in the occupation of Thomas David.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1609 Barlowe George 1609, April 4 Acknowledgement by William Callon of Mouncton, yeoman, following an action in the Great Sessions, that the close called John Davies parke and land in the parish of Newton in Gale Rose near Rose waye to be the right and inheritance of George Barlowe , esq..- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1609 Barlowe George 1609, Aug. 9 George Salter of the parish of St. Dunstons in the west, London, gent., and John Williams of the parish of St. Peter le Poore, London, draper, George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq. .Grant of the manors of Roberston and Welfraye, late parcel of the lands and possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attained.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1609 Phelippes Francis 1609, September. 30 Letters Patent Granting in fee-farm to Edward Fererrs of London, mercer, and Francis Phelippes of London, gent., the mills of Nerbert and Lanwathen myll.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1609 Salter George 1609, Aug. 9 . of the parish of St. Dunstons in the west, London, gent., and John Williams of the parish of St. Peter le Poore, London, draper, George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Grant of the manors of Roberston and Welfraye, late parcel of the lands and possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attained.- Slebech Estate and Family Records

1609 Williams John 1609, Aug. 9 . of the parish of St. Dunstons in the west, London, gent., and John Williams of the parish of St. Peter le Poore, London, draper, George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Grant of the manors of Roberston and Welfraye, late parcel of the lands and possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attained.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1610 Barlow George (heir of John who died 1610) married Vernon, Anne niece of Deveureux Viscount Hereford, Barlow George 1618 Pembrokeshire of Slebech 1618 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire and he was succeeded. by his eldest son John Barlow. A younger son, William, founded the Lawrenny line

1612 Phelips Frances 1612, Dec. 17 Edward Ferrers of London, Merchant, and Frances Phelips of London, gent., George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Grant in fee-farm of the mill called Lanwathen Mill' parcel of the manor of Welfray and late parcel of the lands and possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attainted. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1613 Barlowe George 1613, Nov. 15 Morgan Watkin of Templeton, parish of Narberth, yeoman, and Rice Jermyn of Castlemartyn, yeoman, George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Bond for the performance of Covenants specified in a deed of even Granting two closes called Colsigg an Eyshridge with a sheep-cot near Rowsdowne in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1613 Barlowe George 1612, Dec. 17 Edward Ferrers of London, Merchant, and Frances Phelips of London, gent. George Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Grant in fee-farm of the mill called Lanwathen Mill' parcel of the manor of Welfray and late parcel of the lands and possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attainted. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1613 Watkin Morgan 1613, Nov. 15 Morgan Watkin of Templeton, parish of Narberth, yeoman, and Rice Jermyn of Castlemartyn, yeoman, George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Bond for the performance of Covenants specified in a deed of even Granting two closes called Colsigg an Eyshridge with a sheep-cot near Rowsdowne in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1614 Barlowe George 1614/5, Feb. 13 Special Livery Granted to George Barlowe esq., son and heir of John Barlowe , esq., deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1614 Rogers John 1614, September. 12 of Redston,. Symon Holland of Lawreny, gent., Harry ap Robert of Templeton, yeoman, John Rogers of Redston, yeoman. Covenant to suffer a recovery of two messuages, etc., in the village, fields, Englishry and Welshery in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1615 Barlowe George 1615/6, Jan. 23 William Wogan of Wiston, knight, George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Bond for the observance of the award of an arbitration. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1615 Sayes John 1615/6. Jan.3 John Sayes and William Sayes of Lonbeder Velfrey, yeomen, Henry Propert of Narberth. Bond for the quiet possession of two messuages, etc., lying in Nerberth, parish of Nerberth and within the lordship and reeveship of Narberth and Welfrey, in the same manner as John Sayes late of Mounton heretofore enjoyed the same Witnesses Griffith ? Rolles, clerk, Lewis Johnes, William Lewis, Thomas John Prellregh, William David Wener. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1615 Sayes William 1615/6. Jan.3 of Lonbeder Velfrey,,John Sayes and William Sayes of Lonbeder Velfrey, yeomen,Henry Propert of Narberth. Bond for the quiet possession of two messuages, etc., lying in Nerberth, parish of Nerberth and within the lordship and reeveship of Narberth and Welfrey, in the same manner as John Sayes late of Mounton heretofore enjoyed the same Witnesses Griffith ? Rolles, clerk, Lewis Johnes, William Lewis, Thomas John Prellregh, William David Wener. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1617 Barlowe George 1617, Dec. 29 Sir William Wogan of Wiston, knight, Dame Sibell his wife, and John Wogan, son and heir apparent of the aforesaid William Wogan,, George Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Grant, in performance of an award in the Council of the Marches of Wales and in consideration of £200, of the wood and wood grounds called Pickhill Woode,Talche ticket, and Taughe woode in the parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1618 Barlow George of Slebech 1618 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1621 Barlowe John 1621, September. 23 Thomas Price of Rycharston, gent., Thomas Adams of Loveston, gent., and John Phillipps of Molleston, gent., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of Molleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth, and late parcel of the lands of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and Rees Griffeth, attained, on condition that the said John Barlow shall Lease the lands of Molleston to Sir Rowland Rudgeley, knight, for eight years and the rent shall be used in the interests of Prissilla Phillipps, widow and mother of the said John Phillipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1621 Barlowe John 1629, September. 19 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., John Eliott of Narberth, gent., and David Vaughan of Llandoverer, clerk, John Barlowe of Slebiech, esq.. Bond to observe the orders and decrees of the Great Sessions in a suit between the said John Phillipps and John Barlowe . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1621 Phillipps John 1621, September. 23 Thomas Price of Rycharston, gent., Thomas Adams of Loveston, gent., and John Phillipps of Molleston, gent., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of Molleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth, and late parcel of the lands of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and Rees Griffeth, attained, on condition that the said John Barlow shall Lease the lands of Molleston to Sir Rowland Rudgeley, knight, for eight years and the rent shall be used in the interests of Prissilla Phillipps, widow and mother of the said John Phillipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1621 Price Thomas 1621, September. 23 Thomas price of Rycharston, gent., Thomas Adams of Loveston, gent., and John Phillipps of Molleston, gent., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of Molleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth, and late parcel of the lands of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and Rees Griffeth, attained, on condition that the said John Barlow shall Lease the lands of Molleston to Sir Rowland Rudgeley, knight, for eight years and the rent shall be used in the interests of Prissilla Phillipps, widow and mother of the said John Phillipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1621 Rudgeley Rowland 1621, September. 23 . Sir-Thomas Price of Rycharston, gent., Thomas Adams of Loveston, gent., and John Phillipps of Molleston, gent., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of Molleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth, and late parcel of the lands of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and Rees Griffeth, attained, on condition that the said John Barlow shall Lease the lands of Molleston to Sir Rowland Rudgeley, knight, for eight years and the rent shall be used in the interests of Prissilla Phillipps, widow and mother of the said John Phillipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1624 Eliott Owen 1624, April 18 Owen Eliott of Narberthe, esq., Phillip Lewes Thomas of Llanthewy Welfrey, gent. Assignment of a Lease from the Crown of meadow in Welfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1624 Eliott Owen 1624/5, March 4 Owen Eliott of Narberth, esq., Owen Willy. Assignment of a Lease of a meadow in the parish of Lampeter Welfray. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1624 Thomas Phillip Lewes 1624, April 18 . Owen Eliott of Narberthe, esq., Phillip Lewes Thomas of Llanthewy Welfrey, gent. Assignment of a Lease from the Crown of meadow in Welfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1624 Willy Owen 1624/5, March 4 . Owen Eliott of Narberth, esq., Owen Willy. Assignment of a Lease of a meadow in the parish of Lampeter Welfray. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1625 Phillipps Alban 1625, Aug. 18 Alban Phillipps of Greate Nash, esq., John Elliott of Narberth, gent. Assignment for the life of the said Alban Phillips of a Lease d 7 Feb. 1581/2. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1627 Barlowe George 1627, May 25 William Fanshawe, esq., one of the auditors of the Duchy of Lancaster, and William Bramhall of London, gent. George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Grant in fee-farm of the tenement called Molestone late in the tenure of Morgan Phillipps, a piece of waste land lying within a close of land called Caer On on the south part and the land of James ap Llŷn on the north part and a wood of the King called westwood on the west and north parts, lying in Moleston, late parcel of the lands and possessions of the late Lady Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater, and late of Rice Griffith, esq., attainted. Rent £3.2.4. for Molstone and 2s. for the lands in Molestons annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1626 Barlowe George circa 1626 Petition of George Barlowe , esq., to the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal of England to be release from the prison of the Fleet. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1629 Elliott John 1629, September. 19 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., John Elliott of Narberth, gent., and David Vaughan of Llandovery, clerk, John Barlowe of Slebiech, esq.. Bond to observe the orders and decrees of the Great Sessions in a suit between the said John Phillipps and John Barlowe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1629 Heath Robert Sir-circa 1629 Abstract of the bill of complaint in the suit between Sir Robert Heath, knight, attorney general to His Majesty, plaintiff, and John Elliott, John Phillips, Robert Philips, William Phillips, Richard Gronoe, Robert Llewellyn, William Jermin, Thomas Euan, Thomas ap Aynon, Henry P. Robert and others, defendants, concerning the customs of the forest of Narberth and the spoliation of timber there, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1629 Phillipps John 1629, September. 19 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., John Elliott of Narberth, gent., and David Vaughan of Llandovery, clerk, John Barlowe of Slebiech, esq.. Bond to observe the orders and decrees of the Great Sessions in a suit between the said John Phillipps and John Barlowe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1629 Vaughan David 1629, September. 19 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., John Elliott of Narberth, gent., and David Vaughan of Llandovery, clerk, John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Bond to observe the orders and decrees of the Great Sessions in a suit between the said John Phillipps and John Barlowe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1630 Morris Thomas David 1630, Nov. 15 .Petition of the defendant in the suit between Thomas David Morris and others, plaintiffs, and George Barlowe, esq., defendant, to the Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal concerning an order in the said suit, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Barlowe John 1631/2, Feb. 8 . Thomas Barlowe de Cresswell, gent., John Barlowe of Slebidge, esq.. Bond for the payment of money in respect of the demise of the manor of Newhouse. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Barlowe Thomas 1631/2, Feb. 8 . Thomas Barlowe de Cresswell, gent., John Barlowe of Slebidge, esq.. Bond for the payment of money in respect of the demise of the manor of Newhouse. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Barlowe William 1631, September. 1 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., Albane Phillipps of Nashe, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martletwye, gent., Hughe Phillipps of Stackpoole Elider, gent., Thomas Price of Rickeston, gent., Sir Thomas Cannon of Haverfordwest, knight, William Barlowe of Creswell, esq., and John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Assignment of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Barlowe John 1631, September. 1 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., Albane Phillipps of Nashe, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martletwye, gent., Hughe Phillipps of Stackpoole Elider, gent., Thomas price of Rickeston, gent., Sir Thomas Cannon of Haverfordwest, knight, William Barlowe of Creswell, esq., and John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Assignment of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Phillipps Albane 1631, September. 1 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., Albane Phillipps of Nashe, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martletwye, gent., Hughe Phillipps of Stackpoole Elider, gent., Thomas Price of Rickeston, gent., Sir Thomas Cannon of Haverfordwest, knight, William Barlowe of Creswell, esq., and John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Assignment of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Phillipps Hughe 1631, September. 1 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., Albane Phillipps of Nashe, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martletwye, gent., Hughe

Phillipps of StackPoole Elider, gent., Thomas Price of Rickeston, gent., Sir Thomas Cannon of Haverfordwest, knight, William Barlowe of Creswell, esq., and John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Assignment of the pannage of hogs and swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1631 Phillips John 1631, September. 29 John Phillips of Molleston, gent., Evan Max of the parish of St. Michael in Pembroke. Lease for 21 years of a messuage and lands in Molleston, parish of Narberth. Rent 13s. 4d. annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1632 Barlowe John 1632, Aug. 3 Henry Vax of High Holborne, co. Middlesex, esq., and John Barlowe of Slebridge, esq.. Henry Lovell of Blechinsley, co. Surrey, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the town, Castle and lordship of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1632 Lovell Henry 1632, Aug. 3 Henry Vaux of High Holborne, co. Middlesex, esq., and John Barlowe of Slebridge, esq., Henry Lovell of Blechinsley, co. Surrey, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the town, Castle and lordship of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1632 Vaux Henry 1632, Aug. 3 Henry Vaux of High Holborne, co. Middlesex, esq., and John Barlowe of Slebridge, esq., Henry Lovell of Blechinsley, co. Surrey, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the town, Castle and lordship of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Barloe John 1634, May 11. Precilla Phillipps of East Moore, parish of Mannerbeere, and John Barloe of Slevidge, esq., Susan Woolrich of the parish of St. Andrews in Holborne, co. Middlesex, spinster. Bond for the payment of £32.8s Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 ap Evan David 1640 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1634 Barlowe John 1634, Aug. 19 John James of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Grant of a messuage in the vill of Caneston in the occupation of Arnold Powell. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Barlowe John 1634, July 4 John Wyllie of Newhouse, yeoman, and 3073

Alice his wife, John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Covenant to levy a fine of a messuage and lands called Newhouse, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 James John 1634, Aug. 19 John James of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Grant of a messuage in the vill of Caneston in the occupation of Arnold Powell. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Phillipps Precilla 1634, May 11 Precilla Phillipps of East Moore, parish of Mannerbeere, and John Barloe of Slevidge, esq., Susan Woolrich of the parish of St. Andrews in Holborne, co. Middlesex, spinster. Bond for the payment of £32.8s Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Powell Arnold 1634, Aug. 19 John James of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Grant of a messuage in the vill of Caneston in the occupation of Arnold Powell. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Woolrich Susan 1634, May 11 Precilla Phillipps of East Moore, parish of Mannerbeere, and John Barloe of Slevidge, esq., Susan Woolrich of the parish of St. Andrews in Holborne, co. Middlesex, spinster. Bond for the payment of £32.8s Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Wyllie Alice 1634, July 4 John Wyllie of Newhouse, yeoman, and Alice his wife, John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Covenant to levy a fine of a messuage and lands called Newhouse, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1634 Wyllie John 1634, July 4 John Wyllie of Newhouse, yeoman, and Alice his wife, John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Covenant to levy a fine of a messuage and lands called Newhouse, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlow John Sir 1635, June 26 Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., The Honourable Sir Edward Atkins, knight, one of the Barons of His Majesty's Court of Exchequer, and Dame Rebenah Lytton of the parish of St Andrews, Holbourne, co. Middlesex, widow. Mortgage of the demesne lands of Arnoldishill, parish of Slebech, lands and tenements in the township of Colby, parishes of Wiston and Slebech, and a messuage called Lower Taught. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlowe John 1635, Dec. 1 John Phillips of Molleston, gent., 3074

Priscilla Phillips, late of Molleston now of Moore, widow, and Owen Phillips, son and heir of the said John Phillips John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.. Articles Of Agreement for the Conveyance of the farm of Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlowe John 1635, July 18 John Barlowe of Slebridge, esq., and George Barlowe of London, esq., George Mynne of Woodote, co. Surrey, esq.. Articles Of Agreement for a Lease of the decayed mill called Caniston Myll in the parish of Robinston and free liberty of the river running near thereto and other waters running through the lands of the said John Barlowe within one mile of the said mill, with liberty to erect buildings for melting iron and the habitation of workmen and other provisions for the establishing of iron works, and for a proportion of timber for the use of the ironworks and the erection of buildings to be felled in the woods of west Wood, Mynweare Wood and Penglynes Ciffe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlowe John 1635, July 20 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Robert Parckhurst of London, esq.. Mortgage of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlowe John 1635, Nov. 19 Receipt from John Phillipps to John Barlowe , esq., for £18 for the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the west Wood. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlowe John 1635/6, Jan. 19 receipt from Pressilla Phillips to John Barlowe of Slebedge, esq., for £20 being part of the sum due for the farm and demesne of Molleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Barlowe George 1635, July 18 John Barlowe of Slebridge, esq., and George Barlowe of London, esq., George Mynne of Woodote, co. Surrey, esq.. Articles Of Agreement for a Lease of the decayed mill called Caniston Myll in the parish of Robinston and free liberty of the river running near thereto and other waters running through the lands of the said John Barlowe within one mile of the said mill, with liberty to erect buildings for melting iron and the habitation of workmen and other provisions for the establishing of iron works, and for a proportion of timber for the use of the ironworks and the erection of buildings to be felled in the woods of west Wood, Mynweare Wood and PenGlynes Ciffe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Lytton Rebenah 1635, June 26 . Dame--Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., The Honourable Sir Edward Atkins, knight, one of the Barons of His Majesty's Court of Exchequer, and Dame Rebenah Lytton of the parish of St. Andrews, Holbourne, co. Middlesex, widow. Mortgage of the demesne lands of Arnoldishill , parish of Slebech, lands and tenements in the township of Colby, parishes of Wiston and Slebech, and a messuage called Lower Taught. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Mynne George 1635, July 18 John Barlowe of Slebridge, esq., and George Barlowe of London, esq., George Mynne of Woodote, co. Surrey, esq.. Articles Of Agreement for a Lease of the decayed mill called Caniston Myll in the parish of Robinston and free liberty of the river running near thereto and other waters running through the lands of the said John Barlowe within one mile of the said mill, with liberty to erect buildings for melting iron and the habitation of workmen and other provisions for the establishing of iron works, and for a proportion of timber for the use of the ironworks and the erection of buildings to be felled in the woods of west Wood, Mynweare Wood and Penglynnes Ciffe. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Parckhurst Robert 1635, July 20 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Robert Parckhurst of London, esq.. Mortgage of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Phillipps John 1635, Nov. 19 Receipt from John Phillipps to John Barlowe, esq., for £18 for the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the west Wood. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Phillips John 1635, Dec. 1 John Phillips of Molleston, gent., Priscilla Phillips, late of Molleston now of Moore, widow, and Owen Phillips, son and heir of the said John Phillips, John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Articles Of Agreement for the Conveyance of the farm of Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Phillips Owen 1635, Dec. 1 John Phillips of Molleston, gent., Priscilla Phillips, late of Molleston now of Moore, widow, and Owen Phillips, son and heir of the said John Phillips, John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Articles Of Agreement for the Conveyance of the farm of Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Phillips Priscilla 1635, Dec. 1 John Phillips of Molleston, gent., Priscilla Phillips, late of Molleston now of Moore, widow, and Owen Phillips, son and heir of the said John Phillips, John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., Articles Of Agreement for the Conveyance of the farm of Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1635 Phillips Pressilla 1635/6, Jan. 19. receipt from Pressilla Phillips to John Barlowe of Slebedge, esq., for £20 being part of the sum due for the farm and demesne of Molleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlow William 1636, May 2 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., and Jane his wife, Owen Phillipps his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, late wife of Owen Phillipps, father of the said John Phillipps, Alban Phillipps, esq., Thomas Phillipps, gent., brothers of the said Owen Phillipps, deceased, John Ellyott of Narbert, Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, and Nicholas Lewes of St. Issells, esq., William Barlow of Cristwell, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attainted, for the lives of Alban Phillipps and Thomas Phillipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe John 1636, May 3 John Phillipps of Moletson, gent., and Jane, his wife, Owen Phillipps, his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, mother of the said John Phillipps, Alban Phillipps of Greate Nash, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., John Ellyott of Narberth, esq., and Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, esq., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., and Phillips of pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, except the pannage and wild honey in the west woods and groves of the said forest, and of the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe John 1636, May 2 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., John Barlowe, the younger, gent., second son of the said John Barlowe. Assignment of the Crown Lease of the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the East Wood of the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of the tenants of Molleston during the lives of the said Alban and Thomas Phillipps and thereafter or the remainder of a term of 41 years. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe John 1636, Oct. 13 John Barlowe of Sleebich, esq., Sir Christopher Nevill of Newton Semilowe, co. Somerset, knight, and Sir Robert Vernon of Hodnett, co. Salop, knight. Covenant to stand seized of the Barlow estate to the use of the said John Barlowe for life with remainder to the use of George Barlowe, his eldest son and heir, remainder to John Barlowe, his second son, with divers remainders over. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe John 1636, May 3 John Phillipps of Moletson, gent., and Jane, his wife, Owen Phillipps, his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, mother of the said John Phillipps, Alban Phillipps of Greate Nash, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., John Ellyott of Narberth, esq., and Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, esq., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., and John Barlowe, his second son. Grant for the lives of the said Alban Phillips and

Thomas Phillips of pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, except the pannage and wild honey in the west woods and groves of the said forest, and of the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe John 1636, Dec. 13 Henry ap Robert of Narberth, gent., and Humphrey ap Robert of the same, son and heir apparent of the said Henry. John Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.. Bond for the Conveyance of two messuages, etc., in Narberth, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe John 1636, Oct. 13 John Barlowe of Sleebich, esq., Sir Christopher Nevill of Newton Semilowe, co. Somerset, knight, and Sir Robert Vernon of Hodnett, co. Salop, knight. Covenant to stand seized of the Barlow estate to the use of the said John Barlowe for life with remainder to the use of George Barlowe, his eldest son and heir, remainder to John Barlowe, his second son, with divers remainders over. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Barlowe George 1636, Oct. 13 John Barlowe of Sleebich, esq., Sir Christopher Nevill of Newton Semilowe, co. Somerset, knight, and Sir Robert Vernon of Hodnett, co. Salop, knight. Covenant to stand seized of the Barlow estate to the use of the said John Barlowe for life with remainder to the use of George Barlowe, his eldest son and heir, remainder to John Barlowe his second son, with divers remainders over. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Nevill Christopher 1636, Oct. 13 John Barlowe of Sleebich, esq., Sir Christopher Nevill of Newton Semilowe, co. Somerset, knight, and Sir Robert Vernon of Hodnett, co. Salop, knight. Covenant to stand seized of the Barlow estate to the use of the said John Barlowe for life with remainder to the use of George Barlowe, his eldest son and heir, remainder to John Barlowe, his second son, with divers remainders over. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Phillipps Alban 1636, May 2 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., John Barlowe, the younger, gent., second son of the said John Barlowe. Assignment of the Crown Lease of the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the East Wood of the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston during the lives of the said Alban and Thomas Phillipps and thereafter for the remainder of a term of 41 years. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Phillipps Alban 1636, May 3 John Phillipps of Moletson, gent., and Jane, his wife, Owen Phillipps, his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, mother of the said John Phillipps, Alban Phillipps of Greate Nash, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., John Ellyott of Narberth, esq., and Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, esq., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., and John Barlowe, his second son. Grant for the lives of the said Alban Phillips and Thomas Phillips of pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, except the pannage and wild honey in the west woods and groves of the said forest, and of the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Phillipps Alban , 1636, May 2 John Phillipps of Moleston, gent., and Jane his wife, Owen Phillipps his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, late wife of Owen Phillipps, father of the said John Phillipps, Alban Phillipps, esq., Thomas Philipps, gent., brothers of the said Owen Phillipps, deceased, John Ellyott of Narbert, Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, and Nicholas Lewes of St. Issells, esq., William Barlow of Cristwell, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, parcel of the possessions of Rice Griffith, esq., attained, for the lives of Alban Phillipps and Thomas Phillipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Phillipps Jane 1636, May 3 John Phillipps of Moletson, gent., and Jane, his wife, Owen Phillipps, his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, mother of the said John Phillipps, Alban Phillipps of Greate Nash, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., John Ellyott of Narberth, esq., and Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, esq., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., and John Barlowe, his second son. Grant for the lives of the said Alban Phillips and Thomas Phillips of pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, except the pannage and wild honey in the west woods and groves of the said forest, and of the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Phillipps John 1636, May 3 John Phillipps of Moletson, gent., and Jane, his wife, Owen Phillipps, his son, Priscilla Phillipps, widow, mother of the said John Phillips, Alban Phillipps of Greate Nash, esq., Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., John Ellyott of Narberth, esq., and Thomas ap Rice of Ricardston, esq., John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., and John Barlowe, his second son. Grant for the lives of the said Alban Phillips and Thomas Phillips of pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narbert, except the pannage and wild honey in the west woods and groves of the said forest, and of the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Phillipps Thomas 1636, May 2 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., John Barlowe, the younger, gent., second son of the said John Barlowe. Assignment of the Crown Lease of the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the East Wood of the forest of Narberth, and the rents and farms of the tenants of Molleston during the lives of the said Alban and Thomas Phillipps and thereafter for the remainder of a term of 41 years. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1636 Vernon Robert 1636, Oct. 13 .Sir John Barlowe of Sleebich, esq.,Sir Christopher Nevill of Newton Semilowe, co. Somerset, knight, and Sir Robert Vernon of Hodnett, co. Salop, knight. Covenant to stand seized of the Barlow estate to the use of the said John Barlowe for life with remainder to the use of George Barlowe, his eldest son and heir, remainder to John Barlowe, his second son, with divers remainders over. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1637 Barlowe John 1637, Nov. 20 John Elliott of Narberth, gent. John Barlowe of Minwere, esq.. Bond for the payment of money. Witnesses. Humphrey Shalcrosse, scribe, William Gwillim, Morice Morgan (by Mark) Slebech Estate and Family Record

1637 Morgan Morice 1637, Nov. 20 .John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Minwere, esq.. Bond for the payment of money. Witnesses, Humphrey Shalcrosse, scribe, William Gwillim,Morice Morgan by Mark Slebech Estate and Family Record

1637 Shalcrosse Humphrey 1637, Nov. 20 .John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Minwere, esq.. Bond for the payment of money. Witnesses, Humphrey Shalcrosse, scribe, William Gwillim, Morice Morgan by Mark Slebech Estate and Family Records

1637 William Gwillim 1637, Nov. 20, John Elliott of Narberth, gent., John Barlowe of Minwere,esq.. Bond for the payment of money. Witnesses, Humphrey Shalcrosse, scribe, William Gwillim, Morice Morgan by Mark Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Barlow John1640 Aug. 6 Receipt from Owen Phillipps to John Barlow of Slebech for £380 in respect of the sale of the lands of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Barlowe John 1640, May 12-May 21 proceedings in the Council in the Marches of Wales in the suit between Richard Gronowe of Robeston Wathen, yeoman, plaintiff, and David Palmer, Zachary Bartlett, David Roch, Howell Watts and John Barlowe of Mynwere, defendants, concerning a forcible entry into a cottage and close, parcel of the plaintiff's messuage and tenements called Atheston west in the parish of Robeston Wathen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Gronowe Richard 1640, May 12-May 21 proceedings in the Council in the Marches of Wales in the suit between Richard Gronowe of Robeston Wathen, yeoman, plaintiff, and David Palmer, Zachary Bartlett, David Roch, Howell Watts and John Barlowe of Mynwere, defendants, concerning a forcible entry into a cottage and close, parcel of the plaintiff's messuage and tenements called Atheston west in the parish of Robeston Wathen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Palmer David 1640, May 12-May 21 proceedings in the Council in the Marches of Wales in the suit between Richard Gronowe of Robeston Wathen, yeoman, plaintiff, and David Palmer, Zachary Bartlett, David Roch, Howell Watts and John Barlowe of Mynwere, defendants, concerning a forcible entry into a cottage and close, parcel of the plaintiff's messuage and tenements called Atheston west in the parish of Robeston Wathen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Phillipps Owen 1640, Aug. 6 Receipt from Owen Phillipps to John Barlow of Slebech for £380 in respect of the sale of the lands of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Roch David 1640, May 12-May 21 .proceedings in the Council in the Marches of Wales in the suit between Richard Gronowe of Robeston Wathen, yeoman, plaintiff, and David Palmer, Zachary Bartlett, David Roch ,Howell Watts and John Barlowe of Mynwere, defendants, concerning a forcible entry into a cottage and close, parcel of the plaintiff's messuage and tenements called Atheston west in the parish of Robeston Wathen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Watts Howell 1640, May 12-May 21 .proceedings in the Council in the Marches of Wales in the suit between Richard Gronowe of Robeston Wathen, yeoman, plaintiff, and David Palmer, Zachary Bartlett, David Roch, Howell Watts and John Barlowe of Mynwere, defendants, concerning a forcible entry into a cottage and close, parcel of the plaintiff's messuage and tenements called Atheston west in the parish of Robeston Wathen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1641 Barlow John 1641, Oct. 11 John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Lewis Barlowe of Creswell, esq..Lease for 14 years of woods and trees growing on two parcels of ground in the parishes of Martheltwy Wood and Foxenholes. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1641 Barlowe John 1641 deposition of Thomas Lee of the parish of Wiston, gent., in the suit between and others, plaintiffs, and Richard Gronowe and others, defendants, concerning a parcel of land part of the Weste Woode. Slebech Estate and Family

Record

1641 Gronowe Richard 1641, June 26 – July 7 Petition of Richard Gronowe of the parish of Robiston to the Barons of the Exchequer requesting to be admitted to the Court to defend a suit against John Barlowe in forma pauperis, with the Court's permission, certificate, and affidavit respecting the petitioner's poverty. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1641 Lee Thomas circa 1641 deposition of Thomas Lee of the parish of Wiston, gent., in the suit between and others, plaintiffs, and Richard Gronowe and others, defendants, concerning a parcel of land part of the Weste Woode. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1642 Barlowe John 1642, May 29 Letters Of Attorney of John Barlowe of Slebech, esq., to Richard Barnard of the parish of Wiston, yeoman, to receive from Griffith Griffith of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., and others the seisin of a messuage and lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey Slebech Estate and Family Record

1645 Barlow John 1645 son of George Barlow and Anne Vernon "John Barlow, esq.. of Slebech, known as "Colonel Barlow" from holding that commission in the royalist army during the great rebellion. Colonel Barlow marched at the head of his corps, chiefly composed of his own tenantry, to the relief of the Marquess of Worcester at Ragland Castle, but his followers having been nearly cut to pieces, he was himself forced to flee His estates were conferred upon Cromwell's favourites, and his library, with a valuable collection of manuscripts, burnt at Slebech by, Colonel Horton one of Cromwell's officers. In 1645, John Barlow of Slebech was taken prisoner in Pill Fort, near Milford Haven, by the Parliamentarians but escaped. Later, John Barlow accompanied the Marquis of Worcester to the Court of the exiled Charles II. in Paris, and with him went his young kinswoman, Walter's Lucy daughter of Walter's Richard of Treffgarn and Roch, who assumed, on arrival in Paris, the name of Barlow. She became the mistress (some say the wife) of Charles II., she was then eighteen. Evelyn describes her as 'The Brown, bold, beautiful creature.' After the death of Charles I. in 1649 on the scaffold, Lucy had a son, whom she called Crofts James, and afterwards a daughter. The pair then parted. In 1656, the year her father, Walter's Richard, as High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire, Lucy came to London, where she was arrested and put in the Tower. She was soon afterwards released, and eventually went entirely to ruin, the Queen-Dowager taking charge of her two children.

1645 Walter Lucy Confusion.

Mary Mirehouse, says "In 1645, John Barlow of Slebech was taken prisoner in Pill Fort, near Milford Haven, by the Parliamentarians. Later, John Barlow accompanied the Marquis of Worcester to the Court of the exiled Charles II in Paris, and with him went his young kinswoman, Lucy Walter daughter of Richard Walters of Treffgarn and Roch, who assumed, on arrival in Paris, the name of Barlow". That she did use the name Barlow is an established fact.

1648 Barlowe Thomas 1648 July 12 Slebech Signed letter ordering the destruction of Haverfordwest Castle Arch Camb 1876 Page 56

1657 Barlowe John 1657/8, Jan. 13 John Barlowe late of Moleston, co. Pembroke, gent., Herbert Westfalinge of the city of Hereford, esq.. Lease for seven years of the pannage of hogs and wild honey and the tenement of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1657 Barlowe John 1657/8, Feb. 20 John Barlowe late of Slebege, esq., and now of Abbey-doore, co. Hereford, Lewis Barlowe gent., fifth son of the said John Barlowe. Lease for 99 years of a messuage called New House formerly Redd Castle, parish of Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1657 Westfalinge Herbert 1657/8, Jan. 13 John Barlowe, late of Moleston, co. Pembroke, gent., Herbert Westfalinge of the city of Hereford, esq.. Lease for seven years of the pannage of hogs and wild honey and the tenement of Moleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1660 Perrot Herbert was knighted at the Restoration lived partly at Haroldston, he was sheriff of the county in 1666, and M.P. for and mayor of Haverfordwest in 1677. He had three wives 1 Sibyl, daughter of David Lloyd of Kilkiffeth, and grand-daughter of the founder of the Haverfordwest Grammar School. By her he had a son Herbert, who was stabbed in a tavern brawl in Fleet Street, and was buried " in the Middle Temple Church in the round within the City of London."

2 Hester, daughter of William Barlow of Slebech, by whom he had a daughter, Hester and

3 Susan, daughter of Francis Morris. Sir Herbert died in 1683. In his will he states that he had lately rebuilt the decayed Church of St. Ismel at Haroldston, and he maintained the Perrot tradition of benefactions to Haverfordwest, and gave his lands in the counties of Hereford, Pembroke and Haverfordwest to his daughter Hester. 1683 Perrot Hester 1683 married, as his second wife. Sir John Packington, the fourth Baronet and the original of Addison's Sir Roger de Coveley.

1660 Barlow John At the Restoration in 1660, King Charles II. restored John Barlow to the Slebech estates

John Barlow had six sons and three daughters, .-

Barlow George his successor. Barlow George son and heir of `Col John` of Slebatch married Joan daughter and one of the co-heiresses of David Lloyd , esq.. of Killy Keithed, in Pembrokeshire.

Barlow John

Barlow William served for the Venetians against the Turks, and returned to England after the Restoration. Barlow William who was introduced into the court of Charles II., and on the King's death was made Captain of Horse in Peterborough' Lord regiment, before King James 's abdication he had attained the rank of colonel, and accompanied that Monarch in his retirement. On his majesty's death he returned, and lived and died in Pembrokeshire in great esteem. He was succeeded by his elder son Barlow John. later in 1677 Sir John Barlow

Barlow Lewis Barlow Charles and

Barlow Thomas

Both Thomas and Charles served for the Venetians against the Turks with their brother William and were killed.

Barlow Anne who married Wogan Lewis esq.. of Wiston Castle. Two other daughters became lady abbesses in France.

C1652-c1695 Barlow John c.1652-c.1695 son of George Barlow by Joan daughter and co-heiress of David Lloyd of Kilkiffeth was his successor. Created a Baronet by King Charles II. 13th July, 1677.

1662 Barlow John 1662, May 12 Exemplification of an inquisition taken 5 Oct. 1642 of the lands of John Barlow of Slebidge in co. Pembroke in connection with debts owing to George Mynne, esq.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Barlow John 1662, Aug. 1 The Right Honourable Henry Lord Vaux, John Barlow of Slebech, esq. assignment of a Lease of the manor, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Barlowe George 1662 Oct. 20 deceased, Johan Barlowe of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlowe, esq., deceased, late son and heir apparent of John Barlowe , of

Slebech, esq.,The said John Barlowe , their third Lewis Barlowe of Cresswell, esq., Rowland Wogan of Wyston, esq.. William Barlowe , David Lloyd , Covenant to stand seised of messuages and lands all which said messuages and lands were formerly the lands of David Lloyd , esq., deceased, father of the said Johan Barlowe , from whom the said third part descended to the said Johan Barlowe as one of the co-heirs of the said David Lloyd , to the use of the said Johan Barlowe for her life and then to use of John Barlowe , son and heir of George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe with remainder to George Barlowe and , William Barlowe , their third son, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Barlowe Johan 1662 Oct. 20 Johan Barlowe of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlowe , esq., deceased, late son and heir apparent of John Barlowe , of Slebech, esq.,The said John Barlowe , their third Lewis Barlowe of Cresswell, esq., Rowland Wogan of Wyston, esq.. William Barlowe , David Lloyd ,Covenant to stand seised of messuages and lands all which said messuages and lands were formerly the lands of David Lloyd , esq., deceased, father of the said Johan Barlowe from whom the said third part descended to the said Johan Barlowe as one of the co-heirs of the said David Lloyd , to the use of the said Johan Barlowe for her life and then to use of John Barlowe , son and heir of George Barlowe and with remainder to George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe , William Barlowe , their third son, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Barlowe John 1662, Oct. 20 Johan Barlowe of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlowe, esq., deceased, late son and heir apparent of John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.,The said John Barlowe their third Lewis Barlowe of Cresswell, esq., Rowland Wogan of Wyston, esq.. William Barlowe David Lloyd ,.Covenant to stand seised of messuages and lands all which said messuages and lands were formerly the lands of David Lloyd , esq., deceased, father of the said Johan Barlowe from whom the said third part descended to the said Johan Barlowe as one of the co-heirs of the said David Lloyd , to the use of the said Johan Barlowe for her life and then to use of John Barlowe son and heir of George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe with remainder to George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe William Barlowe their third son, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Lloyd David 1662, Oct. 20 .Johan Barlowe of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlowe, esq., deceased, late son and heir apparent of John Barlowe, of Slebech, esq.,The said John Barlowe, their third Lewis Barlowe of Cresswell, esq., Rowland Wogan of Wyston, esq.. William Barlowe, son David Lloyd Covenant to stand seised of messuages and lands all which said messuages and lands were formerly the lands of David Lloyd esq., deceased, father of the said Johan Barlowe, from whom the said third part descended to the said Johan Barlowe as one of the co-heirs of the said David Lloyd to the use of the said Johan Barlowe for her life and then to use of John Barlowe, son and heir of George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe with remainder to George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe, William Barlowe, their third son, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Mynne George 1662, May 12 .Exemplification of an inquisition taken 5 Oct. 1642 of the lands of John Barlow of Slebridge in co. Pembroke in connection with debts owing to George Mynne, esq.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Vaux Henry ,1662, Aug. 1 .The Right Honourable Henry Lord Vaux, John Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of the manor, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1663 Barlowe John 1663, Oct. 20 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.,Joane Barlowe of Slebech, widow and relict of George Barlowe esq.. Lease for 21 years of a messuage, etc., called Jurdanston, parish of St. Florence. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1663 Barlowe Joane 1663, Oct. 20 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.,Joane Barlowe of Slebech, widow and relict of George Barlowe , esq.. Lease for 21 years of a messuage, etc., called Jurdanston, parish of St. Florence. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1666 Barlowe John 1666, April 8 John Barlowe of Sebetch, esq.,Gorge Maye of Nangle,gent. Mortgage of a capital messuage called Martletwy house, parish of Martletwy. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1666 Maye Gorge 1666, April 8 .John Barlowe of Sebetch, esq.,Gorge Maye of Nangle, gent. Mortgage of a capital messuage called Martletwy house, parish of Martletwy. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1667 Barlow John 1667, September. 20 John Barlow of Slebbidge, esq.,Thomas Phillips of Matheltwie, labourer. Lease for 21 years of a close called Quarter Parke in the parish of Martheltwie. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1667 Phillips Thomas 1667, September. 20 John Barlow of Slebbidge, esq.,Thomas Phillips of Matheltwie, labourer. Lease for 21 years of a close called Quarter Parke in the parish of Martheltwie. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1669 Barlow John1669/70, Jan. 11 George Meare late of Nangle, gent., and John Barlow of Sebetch, esq.,Thomas Carpenter of Lincolns Inne, co. Middlesex, esq.. Lease for a year of Martletwy house, parish of Martletwy. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1669 Meare George 1669/70, Jan. 11 .George Meare late of Nangle, gent., and John Barlow of Slebetch, esq.,Thomas Carpender of Lincolns Inne, co. Middlesex, esq.. Lease for a year of Martletwy house, parish of Martletwy. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1670 Barlow William 1670, April 14 Declaration by Thomas Carpender that the Conveyance specified in a Lease and release d 11 1669/70 was made to him in trust for William Barlow of Mynwear, gent. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1670 Barlow William 1672, June 7 Declaration by Henry Williams of Tenby, gent, that the lands conveyed to him by William Barlow and Lewis Barlow were conveyed in trust only for the said William Barlow and Lewis Barlow . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1670 Barlow John 1670, Dec. 24.John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Lewis Barlow his son, gent. Lease for 41 years of the messuage called Moleston with pannage of hogs and wild honey to commence after the termination of the Lease made by the Crown to Sir Walter Rice, knight. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1670 Hearth Tax

1670 Barlow John 1670 of Slebech Martletwy H7 Narberth Hundred
Hearth Tax

1670 Barsie Elizabeth 1670 Slebech H 2 Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Beavan Thomas 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Beckley Rice 1670 Slebech H 2 Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Begg Richard 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Bell John 1670 Slebech H Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Bell John 1670 of Arnold, Hill Slebech H 7 Dongleddy Hundred
Hearth Tax

1670 Bowen John 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Bowen Morgan 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Browne Elizabeth 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Bucher William 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Cooper Richard 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax .

1670 David Elizabeth 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 David Morgan 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 David Rice 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 David Richard 1670 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Davis Lewis 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Evans Evan 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Fisher William 1670 Slebech H 2 Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax .

1670 Freeman William 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Griffith Henry 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Gwyn Tobias 1670 Slebech P. Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Hodge John 1670 Slebech H 2 Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Hugh Griffith 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Hugh Mathew 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Howell Joane 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Jenkin Hugh 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Jermin Thomas 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 John Griffith 1670 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Jones Cadwalliter 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Jones Edward 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Jones Water 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Levet James 1670 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Marrow Anne 1670 Slebech P Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax .

1670 Mathias Thomas 1670 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Mathias William 1670 Slebech H 2 Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Morris David 1670 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Price John 1670 Slebech H Dongledddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Tax	Prce(Price) Richard 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth
1670	Price Thomas 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Rice Jenkin 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670 Tax	Stoakes ? 1670 .Widdowe Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth
1670	Thomas David 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Thomas Edward 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Thomas Richard 1670 Slebech H Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Vaughan Joane 1670 Slebech H 6 Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Vaughan Richard 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Walter Elenor 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Walter Gillian 1670 Slebech H Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Walter Henry 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	Watts Anne 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	William Anne 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax
1670	William Griffith 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Woogan Elizabeth 1670 Slebech H 2 Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Young Richard 1670 Slebech P Dongleddy Hundred Hearth Tax

1670 Rice Walter 1670, Dec. 24 .Sir-John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Lewis Barlow his son, gent. Lease for 41 years of the messuage called Moleston with pannage of hogs and wild honey to commence after the termination of the Lease made by the Crown to Sir Walter Rice knight. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1672 Barlowe William 1672, June 6 William Barlowe and Lewis Barlowe of Minweare Henry Williams lease for a year of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Record

1672 Barlow John 1672, June 7 deceased.
[Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., the grandson and heir of John Barlow late of Slebech]

1672 Probate of the will of Barlow John of Slebech, esq.. Will dated 12 September. 1670 Inventory dated 15 Aug. 1671. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1672 Barlow Lewis 1672, June 7 Declaration by Henry Williams of Tenby, gent, that the lands conveyed to him by William Barlow and Lewis Barlow were conveyed in trust only for the said William Barlow and Lewis Barlow . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1672 Williams Henry 1672, June 6 .William Barlowe and Lewis Barlowe of Minweare ,Henry Williams Lease for a year of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Record

1675 Barlow John 1675, June 28 Quietus to John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., on payment of £1415 towards supporting thirty foot soldiers in Ireland. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Barlow John 1676, September. 13 John Thomas of the town and county of Haverfordwest, esq.,William Wogan of Grayes Inne, co. Middlesex, esq., and Herbert Perrott of the Middle Temple, London, esq.,Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., the grandson and heir of John Barlow late of Slebech, esq., deceased. Assignment of a term of years in the messuage and lands called Langwathan otherwise Llaynedgwathell, a messuage called Whiteley, land called Churchland, and the corn grist mill called Langwathan Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Barlow Sir John 1676, September. 13 of Slebetch, Bart., the grandson and heir of John Barlow .John Thomas of the town and county of Haverfordwest, esq., William Wogan of Grayes Inne, co. Middlesex, esq., and William Barlow of the Middle Temple, London, esq., Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., the grandson and heir of John Barlow late of Slebetch, esq., deceased Assignment of a term of years in the messuage and lands called Langwathan otherwise Llaynedgwathell, a messuage called WhiteLey, land called Churchland, and the corn grist mill called Langwathan Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Barlow Sir John 1676, September. 14 Articles Of Agreement between Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., of the first part, William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., of the second part, and Walter Middleton of Slebbetch, and Johan his wife, mother of the said Sir John Barlow , and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., of the third part, touching the capital messuage and lands called Marteltwy and Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharon in the parish of Moncktun, the remainder of a term of years in Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Barlow William 1676, September. 14 Articles Of Agreement between Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., of the first part, William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., of the second part, and Walter Middleton of Slebbetch, esq., and Johan his wife, mother of the said Sir John Barlow , and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., of the third part, touching the capital messuage and lands called Marteltwy and Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharon in the parish of Moncktun, the remainder of a term of years in Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Middleton Johan 1676, September. 14 .Articles Of Agreement between Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., of the first part, William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., of the second part, and Walter Middleton of Slebbetch, esq., and Johan his wife, mother of the said Sir John Barlow, and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., of the third part, touching the capital messuage and lands called Marteltwy and Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharon in the parish of Moncktun, the remainder of a term of years in Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Middleton Walter 1676, September. 14 .Articles Of Agreement between Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., of the first part, William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., of the second part, and Walter Middleton of Slebbetch, esq., and Johan his wife, mother of the said Sir John Barlow, and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., of the third part, touching the capital messuage and lands called Marteltwy and Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharon in the parish of Moncktun, the remainder of a term of years in Molleston and the pannage of hogs and wild honey in the forest of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Perrott Herbert 1676, September. 13 John Thomas of the town and county of Haverfordwest, esq., William Wogan of Grayes Inne, co. Middlesex, esq., and William Barlow of the Middle Temple, London, esq., Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., the grandson and heir of John Barlow late of Slebetch, esq., deceased. Assignment of a term of years in the messuage and lands called Langwathan otherwise Llaynedgwathell, a messuage called Whiteley, land called Churchland, and the corn grist mill called Langwathan Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1676 Thomas John 1676, September. 13 John Thomas of the town and county of Haverfordwest, esq., William Wogan of Grayes Inne, co. Middlesex, esq., and William Barlow of the Middle Temple, London, esq., Sir John Barlow of Slebetch, Bart., the grandson and heir of John Barlow late of Slebetch, esq., deceased. Assignment of a term of years in the messuage and lands called Langwathan otherwise Llaynedgwathell, a messuage called Whiteley, land called Churchland, and the corn grist mill called Langwathan Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1677 Barlow Sir John 1677, June 27 Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., Walter Middleton of Tenby, esq., and Joan his wife, mother of the said Sir John Barlow. Lease for 99 years of the capital messuage and lands known as Slebetch House and the rectory of Slebetch with tithes. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1677 Middleton Walter 1677, June 27 Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., Walter Middleton of Tenby, esq., and Joan his wife, mother of the said Sir John Barlow. Lease for 99 years of the capital messuage and lands known as Slebetch House and the rectory of Slebetch with tithes. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1678 Barlow William 1678/9, March 10 William Skyrme of Llawhadden, gent., William Barlow of Martletwy, gent. Release of a term of years and interest in several manors, messuages and lands in the parishes of Narberth, Martletwy, Mounton, Hubberston and elsewhere, being Mortgaged for £600, and also a release of a judgement of £600 and costs. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1678 Davies Francis 1678 Aug 20 Francis Davies of Greeneway in the parish of Narberth gent William Skyrme of Llawhadden gent Mortgage of Narberth Mill and a Covenant to levy a fine thereof with final concords attached Slebech Estate and Family Record

1678 Skyrme William 1678/9, March 10 William Skyrme of Llawhadden, gent., William Barlow of Martletwy, gent. Release of a term of years and interest in several manors, messuages and lands in the parishes of Narberth, Martletwy, Mounton, Hubberston and elsewhere, being Mortgaged for £600, and also a release of a judgement of £600 and costs. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1681 Barlow Sir John 1681/2, Feb. 3 William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Lease for a year of the capital messuage and lands called Martletwy in the parish of Martletwy, two messuages and lands called Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharen in the parish of Mounckton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Barlow John 1681/2, Feb. 4. William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Grant in pursuance of articles of Agreement d 14 September., 1676, of the capital messuage and lands called Martletwy, and two messuages and lands called Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharen, parish of Monckton, in as large a manner as John Barlow, father of the said William Barlow, Mortgaged the same to George Mayer of Nangle and Nicholas Lewis, esq., deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Barlow Sir John 1681/2, Feb. 6 William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Surrender of the capital messuage and demesne lands called Minweare in the parishes of Minweare, Martletwy and Newton, the impropriate rectory of Minweare, the water corn grist mill called Minweare Mill in the parish of Minweare, closes and parks of land called the Rack Parke and the barley Parke otherwise called the Roche s Parke in the parish of Minweare, and lands and tenements late of John Barlow, esq., deceased, father of the said William Barlow, and grandfather of the said Sir John Barlow in Minwear Croft in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Barlow William 1681/2, Feb. 3 William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Lease for a year of the capital messuage and lands called Martletwy in the parish of Martletwy, two messuages and lands called Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharen in the parish of Mounckton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Barlow William 1681/2, Feb. 4 William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Grant in pursuance of articles of Agreement d 14 September., 1676, of the capital messuage and lands called Martletwy, and two messuages and lands called Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharen, parish of Monckton, in as large a manner as John Barlow, father of the said William Barlow, Mortgaged the same to George Mayer of Nangle and Nicholas Lewis, esq., deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Barlow William 1681/2, Feb. 6 William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Surrender of the capital messuage and demesne lands called Minweare in the parishes of Minweare, Martletwy and Newton, the impropriate rectory of Minweare, the water corn grist mill called Minweare Mill in the parish of Minweare, closes and parks of land called the Rack Parke and the barley Parke otherwise called the Roche s Parke in the parish of Minweare, and lands and tenements late of John Barlow , esq., deceased, father of the said William Barlow , and grandfather of the said Sir John Barlow in Minwear Croft in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Barlow Sir John 1681 of Minwear 1681 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

He married first, Lloyd Beatrice, daughter and eventually heir of Lloyd Sir John, Bart. of Forrest, in Carmarthenshire, and had two daughters:-

Barlow Beatrice married first to Rudd Sir Anthony, Bart. and, secondly, to Lloyd , Griffith esq..

Barlow Anne died. unmarried.

He wedded, secondly, Middleton Catherine, daughter of Middleton Christopher, esq.. of Middleton Hall in the county of Carmarthen, and by that lady had three sons,

1681 Lewis Nicholas 1681/2, Feb. 4 .William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., Sir John Barlowe of Minweare, bart. Grant in pursuance of articles of Agreement d 14 September., 1676, of the capital messuage and lands called Martletwy, and two messuages and lands called Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharen, parish of Monckton, in as large a manner as John Barlow, father of the said William Barlow, Mortgaged the same to George Mayer of Nangle and Nicholas Lewis esq., deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1681 Mayer George 1681/2, Feb. 4 .William Barlow of Martletwy, gent., and Lewis Wogan of Wiston, esq., Sir John Barlowe of Minweare, Bart. Grant in pursuance of articles of Agreement d14 September., 1676, of the capital messuage and lands called Martletwy, and two messuages and lands called Crigmaron otherwise Cregmaharen, parish of Monckton, in as large a manner as John Barlow, father of the said William Barlow, Mortgaged the same to George Mayer of Nangle and Nicholas Lewis, esq., deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

c1680- Barlow Sir George c.1680 - c.1726, his successor who married Heneage Winifred, daughter of Heneage George esq.. of Hainton, in the county of Lincoln, and had an only son, George.

1684 Barlow Sir John 1684, Oct. 31 .Francis Davids of Greeneway in the parish of Narberth, gent., Sir John Barlow of Minweare, Bart. Release of Narberth Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1684 Dauids Francis 1684 Oct 31 Francis Dauids of Greeneway in the parish of Narberth gent; Sir John Barlow of Minweare Bart. Release of Narberth Mill Slebech Estate and Family Record

1684 Barlow Sir John 1684, Oct. 4 .William Skyrme of Llawhadden, gent.,Sir John Barlow of Minweare, bart. Assignment of a Mortgage of Narberth Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1684 Phelipp Thomas 1584, September, 6 Richard Addy of Minwer, and Thomas Phelipp of Yeldblocke, yeomen John Barloe, esq., Bond for the quiet enjoyment of two messuages, etc., in Minwer,-- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1685 Barlow Sir John 1685/6, Jan. 29 .George Browne of the town and parish of Slebech, yeoman,Sir John Barlow of Slebech, bart. Grant of a messuage and lands in Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1685 Barlowe Sir John 1685/6, Jan. 28 George Browne of Slebech, yeoman, heir in law of Alban Browne of the same, father of the said George. Sir John Barlowe of Slebech, Bart. Lease for a year of a messuage, etc., in Slebech, in the tenure of Sussan David, widow. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1685 David Sussan 1685/6 Jan 28 George Browne of Slebech yeoman heir in law of Alban Browne of the same father of the said George, Sir John Barlowe of Slebech Bart. Lease for a year of a messuage etc in Slebech in the tenure of Sussan David widow Slebech Estate and Family Record

1685 Gronowe William 1685, September. 29 William Gronowe of Atheston, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman, and Margret his wife, Daniell Evans of Treventie, co. Carmarthen, gent. Mortgage of a messuage and lands called west Atheston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1688 Barlow Sir John 1688/9, Feb. 4 Declaration Of Trust by Edward Atkyns of Serjeants Inne in Chancery Lane, London, knight, to Sir Hugh Owen of Orielton in connection with a Mortgage for £500 by Sir John Barlow of Slebich of the demesne lands of Arnolds Hill, lands and tenements in Coleby, and the messuage called Tought, parishes of Slebech and Wiston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1688 Barlow John 1688, Nov. 17. Letters Patent Granting to John Barlow, knight and Baronet, the right to hold a Market weekly and three fairs Annually in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1688 Owen Hugh 1688/9, Feb. 4. Sir Declaration Of Trust by Edward Atkyns of Serjeants Inn in Chancery Lane, London, knight, to Sir Hugh Owen of Orielton in connection with a Mortgage for £500 by Sir John Barlow of Slebich of the demesne lands of Arnolds Hill, lands and tenements in Coleby, and the messuage called Tought, parishes of Slebech and Wiston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1689 Barlow Sir John 1689/90, Jan. 3. William Gronow of Atheston-west otherwise west Atheston, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman, Sir John Barlow of Cresswell, Bart. Conveyance of the messuage and lands called west Atheston and one dwelling-house lately erected as part of the tenement. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1689 Gronow William 1689/90, Jan. 3 William Gronow of Atheston-west otherwise west Atheston, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman, Sir John Barlow of Cresswell, Bart. Conveyance of the messuage and lands called west Atheston and one dwelling-house lately erected as part of the tenement. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1690 Barlow Sir John 1690/1, Jan. 16. William Gronow of Atheston, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman, Margaret his wife, and Daniel Evans of Peterwell, co. Cardigan, esq., Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart. Lease for a year of a messuage, etc., called west Atheston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1690 Gronow Margaret 1690/1, Jan. 16. William Gronow of Atheston, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman, Margaret his wife, and Daniel Evans of Peterwell, co. Cardigan, esq., Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart. Lease for a year of a messuage, etc., called west Atheston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1690 Gronow William 1690/1, Jan. 16 William Gronow of Atheston, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman, Margaret his wife, and Daniel Evans of Peterwell, co. Cardigan, esq., Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart. Lease for a year of a messuage, etc., called west Atheston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1691 Barlow Sir John 1691, Nov. 2. Sir John Barlow of Minweare, Bart., Phillipp Morgans of the village and parish of Narberth, mercer. Lease of Narberth Castle with houses, gardens and closes. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1691 Morgans Phillipp 1691, Nov. 2 .Sir John Barlow of Minweare, Bart.,Phillipp Morgans of the village and parish of Narberth, mercer. Lease of Narberth Castle with houses, gardens and closes. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1693 Barlow Sir John 1693, Aug. 14-15 Francis Davies of Greenway, gent., and Joan his wife,Sir John Barlow of Mynweare, bart. Lease and Release of a water corn grist mill called Narberth mill, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1693 Barlow Sir John 1693, March 27 Sir John Barlow , Bart., Francis Davies of Narberth, gent. Articles Of Agreement concerning Narberth mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1693 Davies Francis 1693 Aug 14-15 Francis Davies of Greenway gent and Joan his wife Sir John Barlow of Mynweare Bart. Lease and Release of a water corn grist mill called Narberth mill parish of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1693 Davies Francis 1693 March 27 Sir John Barlow Bart. Francis Davies of Narberth gent Articles Of Agreement concerning Narberth mill Slebech Estate and Family Record

1693 Davies Joan 1693 Aug 14-15 wife of Francis, Francis Davies of Greenway gent and Joan his wife Sir John Barlow of Mynweare bart. Lease and Release of a water corn grist mill called Narberth mill parish of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1693 Mathiass Thomas 1693 Cresborough Slebech. Peasant Houses in Stuart Pembrokeshire Brian and John Howells 1980

1694 Barlowe John 1694, June 2 John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.,The Right Hon. Thomas , Earl of Southampton, the Right Hon. Edward Lord Harbert, Baron of Chepstowe, the Right Hon. Edward Lord Vauxe, Griffith Hawkewell of St. Kenockes, esq., George Bardsey of Rose Hill, gent. Covenant to stand seised of the Slebech estate in co. Pembroke to the use of his children. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1697 Wills Edward 1697, July 14 .Owen David and Katherine David, widow, his mother, of the parish of Brawdy, Edward Wills, gent., Lettice Wills his wife, and Elizabeth Wills, eldest daughter of the said Edward and Lettice, of the parish of Mynweare.

Articles Of Agreement before the marriage of the said Owen David and Elizabeth Wills. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1697 Wills Elizabeth 1679, July 14 .Owen David and Katherine David, widow, his mother, of the parish of Brawdy, Edward Wills, gent., Lettice Wills his wife, and Elizabeth Wills, eldest daughter of the said Edward and Lettice, of the parish of Mynweare.
Articles Of Agreement before the marriage of the said Owen David and Elizabeth Wills. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1703 Barlow John 1703/4, Jan. 20 Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., John Barlow of Lawreny, the elder, esq., and Owen Ford of Berry, parish of Nevern, esq., John Barlow of Slebech the younger, esq., brother of the said Sir George Barlow .Grant of a messuage and lands Slebech Estate and Family Record

1704 Barlow John 1704, June 14 Evan Lewis of the parish of Laugharne, co. Carmarthen, yeoman, and Thomas Davies of Molleston in the parish of Narberth, minister, John Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a term of years in a messuage called Molleston, and lands near Greate Molleston mansion house, and a piece of land in the parish of Narberth called Trebaron. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1704 Barlow John 1704/5. March 20 Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart.,Lewis Pryse of Gogerthan, co Cardigan, esq., and Owen Foord of Berry, esq., Richard Vaughan of Derwydd, co. Carmarthen, esq., of Nanteos, co. Cardigan, esq., and Mathew Seys of the town of Pembroke, gent., John Barlow of Slebech, gent., brother of the said Sir George Barlow .Covenant to levy a fine of the manors, messuages, lands, etc. of the said Sir George Barlow in order to provide for his son and sisters. With a final concord attached . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1704 Seys Mathew 1704/5. March 20 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart.,Lewis Pryse of Gogerthan, co Cardigan, esq., and Owen Foord of Berry, esq.,Richard Vaughan of Derwydd, co. Carmarthen, esq., of Nanteos, co. Cardigan, esq., and Mathew Seys of the town of Pembroke, gent., John Barlow of Slebech, gent., brother of the said Sir George Barlow . Covenant to levy a fine of the manors, messuages, lands, etc. of the said Sir George Barlow in order to provide for his son and sisters. With a final concord attached . Slebech Estate and Family Records

1705 Barlow John 1705, Oct. 9-10 Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Hannah Skyrme and Elizabeth Skyrme both of the parish of Lawhadden, spinsters, two of the younger daughters of William Skyrme of the same, esq.. Lease and Release(Mortgage) of messuages and lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey called Llangwathen and Whitley, the corn grist mill called Llangwathen Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1705 Barlow John 1705, September. 4 Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and John Barlow of the same, esq., Francis Meyrick of the Middle Temple, London, gent., and Walter Thornborough of Arnolds Hill, gent., John Laugharne of St, Brides, esq., and John Mayricke of the Middle Temple, London, esq.. Release, to lead the uses of a recovery, of the manor and lordship of Slebech, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1705 Skyrme Elizabeth 1705, Oct. 9-10 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Hannah Skyrme and Elizabeth Skyrme both of the parish of Lawhadden, spinsters, two of the younger daughters of William Skyrme of the same, esq.. Lease and Release Mortgage of messuages and lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey called Llangwathen and Whitley, the corn grist mill called Llangwathen Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1705 Skyrme Hannah 1705, Oct. 9-10 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Hannah Skyrme and Elizabeth Skyrme both of the parish of Lawhadden, spinsters, two of the younger daughters of William Skyrme of the same, esq.. Lease and Release Mortgage of messuages and lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey called Llangwathen and Whitey, the corn grist mill called Llangwathen Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1705 Skyrme William 1705, Oct. 9-10 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Hannah Skyrme and Elizabeth Skyrme both of the parish of Lawhadden, spinsters, two of the younger daughters of William Skyrme of the same, esq.. Lease and Release Mortgage of messuages and lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey called Llangwathen and Whitley, the corn grist mill called Llangwathen Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1705 Thornborough Walter 1705, September. 4 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and John Barlow of the same, esq., of the Middle Temple, London, gent., and Walter Thornborough of Arnolds Hill, gent., John Laugharne of St, Brides, esq., and John Mayricke of the Middle Temple, London, esq.. Release, to lead the uses of a recovery, of the manor and lordship of Slebech, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1707 Barlow John 1707, Nov. 1 Anne Barlow of the town of Pembroke, spinster, John Barlow of Slebech, esq., son of Sir John Barlow late of Minweare. Articles Of Agreement for the Conveyance of lands on the parishes of Minweare, Crunweare and St. Issells. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1707 Barlow Anne 1707, Nov. 1 Anne Barlow of the town of Pembroke, spinster, John Barlow of Slebech, esq., son of Sir John Barlow late of Minweare. Articles Of Agreement for the Conveyance of lands on the parishes of Minweare, Crunweare and St. Issells. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1708 Barlow Dame Winifred 1708, March 9 Articles of Agreement between Faith Heneage, widow, and Thomas Heneage, esq., on the first part, and Sir George Barlowe and John Barlowe, esq., on the second part, and the Hon. Robert Price on the third part, touching trusts in behalf of Dame Winifred Barlow and her children. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1708 Barlowe John 1708, March 9 Articles of Agreement between Faith Heneage, widow, and Thomas Heneage, esq., on the first part, and Sir George Barlowe and John Barlowe esq., on the second part, and the Hon. Robert Price on the third part, touching trusts in behalf of Dame Winifred Barlow and her children. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1708 Barlow John 1708, April 12-13 Sir George Barlow late of Slebech, Bart., John Barlow of Slebech, gent., younger brother of the said Sir George Barlow, Richard Vaughan of Derwydd, co. Carmarthen, esq.. of Nanteos, co. Cardigan, esq., and Mathew Seys of the town of Pembroke, gent., Sir Simon Harcourt of Stanton Harcourt, co. Oxon, knight, and Ann Harcourt his daughter, Robert Price, esq., one of the Barons of Her Majesty's Exchequer, and William Banastre, serjeant-at-law, Simon Harcourt, son and heir apparent of the said Sir Simon Harcourt, and Edward Winnington of the Middle Temple, London, esq.. Settlement (before the marriage of the said John Barlow and Ann Harcourt) of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1708 Harcourt Ann 1708, April 12-13 Sir George Barlow late of Slebech, Bart., John Barlow of Slebech, gent, younger brother of the said Sir George Barlow, Richard Vaughan of Derwydd, co Carmarthen, esq., of Nanteos, co Cardigan, esq., and Mathew Seys of the town of Pembroke, gent, Sir Simon Harcourt of Stanton Harcourt, co Oxon, knight, and Ann Harcourt his daughter, Robert Price, esq., one of the Barons of Her Majesty's Exchequer, and William Banastre, serjeant-at-law, Simon Harcourt, son and heir apparent of the said Sir Simon Harcourt, and Edward Winnington of the Middle Temple, London, esq. Settlement before the marriage of the said John Barlow and Ann Harcourt of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1708 Heneage Faith 1708, March 9 Articles of Agreement between Faith Heneage, widow, and Thomas Heneage , esq., on the first part, and Sir George Barlowe and John Barlowe, esq., on the second part, and the Hon. Robert Price on the third part, touching trusts in behalf of Dame Winifred Barlow and her children Slebech Estate and Family Record

1708 Price Robert 1708, March 9 Articles of Agreement between Faith Heneage, widow, and Thomas Heneage, esq., on the first part, and Sir George Barlowe and John Barlowe, esq., on the second part, and the Hon. Robert Price on the third part, touching trusts in behalf of Dame Winifred Barlow and her children. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1709 Harcourt George 1709 iron forge Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt

1709 Barlow John 1709, June 4 Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and Dame Winifred his wife, John Barlow , brother of the said Sir George Barlow ,Richard Harcourt of the Inner Temple, esq., and of the town of Pembroke, gent. Deed to lead the uses of fines Levied of the Slebech estate . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1709 Barlow John 1709, July 16 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., Robert Price, esq., one of the Barons of the Exchequer, and William Banastre, sergeant at law,Sir Simon Harcourt of Stanton Harcourt, knight. Mortgage of certain manors and lands belonging to the Slebech estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1710 Barlow John 1710, May 24 .Peregrine Musgrave of Haverfordwest, clothier, John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Morgan Davies of Combe, parish of Llangunnoek, co. Carmarthen, gent. Mortgage (transfer) of the messuages and lands called Tretturner and Kingsland, parish of Robeston Wathan, and closes called Kilvadan parke and Cocks Hill Parke or Close, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1709 Meyrick Francis 1709, June 4 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., and Dame Winifred his wife, John Barlow, brother of the said Sir George Barlow, Richard Harcourt of the Inner Temple, esq., and of the town of Pembroke, gent. Deed to lead the uses of fines Levied of the Slebech estate . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1709 Price Robert,1709, July 16 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., Robert price, esq., one of the Barons of the Exchequer, and William Banastre, sergeant at law,Sir Simon Harcourt of Stanton Harcourt, knight. Mortgage of certain manors and lands belonging to the Slebech estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1715 Barlow John 1715, Nov. 18-19 John Barlow of Laurennny, esq., John Laugharne of Pontvane, esq., and John Vaughan of Trecoone, esq., John Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of two messuages and lands called Llangwathen and Whittley, and Llangwathen Mill, parish of Lampiter Welfry, a messuage and lands in the parish of Harbrainston, and a messuage and lands at Pill, parish of Stainton, in trust until John Barlow of Slebech pays certain moneys, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1715 Barlow Sir George 1715 Slebech Sir Bart Members of Parliament for Haverfordwest town and county Sir George (1680) made over a great part of his estate to his brother John Barlow esq. of Colby as he had financial troubles. He was succeeded. at his decease by his son George Barlow

1715 Vaughan John 1715, Nov. 18-19 John Barlow of Laurennny, esq., John Laugharne of Pontvane, esq., and John Vaughan of Trecoone, esq., John Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of two messuages and lands called Llangwathen and Whittley, and Llangwathen Mill, parish of Lampiter Welfry, a messuage and lands in the parish of Harbrainston, and a messuage and lands at Pill, parish of Stainton, in trust until John Barlow of Slebech pays certain moneys, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1718 Barlow John 1718, July 25 William Barlow of Colby, esq., son of Sir John Barlow of Slebech, Bart., deceased, John Barlow of Slebech, esq., son of the said John Barlow . Release of a legacy of £1,000 from the said Sir John Barlow , the messuage and lands called Molleston in the parish of Narberth, messuages in the tenure of Henry Istance, and messuages in the town of Tenby, and of the legacies bequeathed by Katherine Barlow , sister of the said William and John Barlow , deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1723 Barlow John 1723, May 1. John Barlow of Slebech, esq., Martha Price of the parish of Minwear, widow. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands near Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1723 Price Martha 1723, May 1 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., Martha Price of the parish of Minwear, widow. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands near Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1728 Barlow John 1728 Sir George Barlow of Rivmond near Market Reyson, co. Lincoln, Bart., only son and heir of Sir George Barlow late of Slebech, Bart., deceased, by Dame Winifred his wife, deceased, John Barlow of Slebech, esq., brother of the said Sir George Barlow , deceased, The Honourable Robert Price, esq., one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, and Thomas Heneage of Cadby, co. Lincoln, esq.. Confirmation and Release of the Slebech estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1728 Heneage Thomas 1728 Sir George Barlow of Rivmond near Market Reyson, co Lincoln, Bart., only son and heir of Sir George Barlow late of Slebech, Bart., deceased, by Dame Winifred his wife, deceased, John Barlow of Slebech, esq., brother of the said Sir George Barlow, deceased, The Hon. Robert Price, esq., one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, and Thomas Heneage of Cadby, co Lincoln, esq.. Confirmation and Release of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1731 Davies Francis 1731 September 18 Francis Davies of Summerhill gent and Priscilla his wife John Herbert of Court Henry co Carmarthen gent Assignment of a Mortgage of a moiety of a messuage in Loveston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1732 Barlow John 1732, June 4 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., John Phelps of the parish of Martheltwy, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Martheltwy tenement. Rent. £28 Annually, two couples of fat pullets and one Marketable bushel of good black oats to be delivered at Colby house by 26 Dec., yearly, and 20s., in lieu of a heriot. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1732 Phelps John 1732, June 4 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., John Phelps of the parish of Martheltwy, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Martheltwy tenement. Rent, £28 Annually, two couples of fat pullets and one Marketable bushel of good black oats to be delivered at Colby house by 26 Dec., yearly, and 20s., in lieu of a heriot. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1734 Thomas William 1734, Dec. 26 – 1737, July 30 .Will and codicil of William Thomas of Dyffrin in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1735 Barlow John 1735, September. 6 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., Richard Skrine of Warley, parish of Bathford, co. Somerset, and Anne Skrine his daughter, Edward Harington, doctor of physic, and Samuel Webb, both of the city of Bath, co. Somerset. Deed Of revocation and Appointment, revoking the uses of lands contained in schedules 1 and 2 to the marriage settlement of the said John Barlow and other trusts for the maintenance of the latter's younger children, and appointing other uses upon a marriage intended between him and the said Anne Skrine. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1735 Skrine Anne 1735, September. 6. John Barlow of Slebech, esq., Richard Skrine of Warley, parish of Bathford, co. Somerset, and Anne Skrine his daughter, Edward Harington, doctor of physic, and Samuel Webb, both of the city of Bath, co. Somerset. Deed Of revocation and Appointment, revoking the uses of lands contained in schedules 1 and 2 to the marriage settlement of the said John Barlow and other trusts for the maintenance of the latter's younger children, and appointing other uses upon a marriage intended between him and the said Anne Skrine. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1738 Barlow John 1738, April 17 John Barlow of Slebech, esq., William Lewis of the parish of Lampeter Vefrey, yeoman. Lease for three lives of the tenements called Killrhwy and Parksayson, parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1738 Lewis William 1738, April 17 .John Barlow of Slebech, esq., William Lewis of the parish of Lampeter Vefrey, yeoman. Lease for three lives of the tenements called Killrhwy and Parksayson, parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1739 Barlow John 1739, September. 12-Oct. 3 Will and codicil of John Barlow , esq.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1740 Barlow Ann 1740/1, March 2-3 .George Barlow of Colby, esq., and Ann, his wife, John Wogan of Wiston, esq., and John Bardin of Rowshill, gent., Thomas Philipps of the parish of Lampiter Velfray, gent., and Gilbert James of the same, gent. Lease and Release to make a tenant to the praecipe for the suffering of a recovery of the Castle lands Slebech Estate and Family Record

1741 Barlow Ann 1741/2, March 1-2 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., and Ann his wife, John Fowley of the parish of Lawhaden, gent., and Thomas Davies of the parish of Slebech, gent., David Lewis of the parish of Llangoidmor, co. Cardigan, gent., and Gilbert James of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., Samuel Rock of Staples Inn, London, gent., and Thomas Phillipps of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., John Wogan of Wiston, esq., and John Baron of Haverfordwest, doctor of physic. Lease and Release being the marriage Settlement of George Barlow Slebech Estate and Family Record

1741 Rock Samuel 1741/2, March 1-2 .George Barlow of Slebech, esq., and Ann his wife, John Fowley of the parish of Lawhaden, gent., and Thomas Davies of the parish of Slebech, gent., David Lewis of the parish of Llangoidmor, co. Cardigan, gent., and Gilbert James of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., Samuel Rock of Staples Inn, London, gent., and Thomas Phillipps of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., John Wogan of Wiston, esq., and John Baron of Haverfordwest, doctor of physic. Lease and Release being the marriage Settlement of George Barlow. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1743 Barlow George 1743 Slebech on death of Sir Eramus Philipps
Members of Parliament for Haverfordwest town and county

1746 Barlow George 1746, Dec. 19 .George Barlow of Slebech, esq.,David Webb of the same. Lease for three lives of a dwelling house called Oxhouse, and ground leading to the Mardle pits on the south-west, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family
Record

1746 Webb David 1746, Dec. 19 .George Barlow of Slebech, co, Pembroke, esq.,David Webb of the parish of Slebech, John Foley of the same, esq.. Lease for three lives of a dwelling house called Ox house and a spot of ground leading from the said dwelling house to the Mardle pitts in the village and parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1746 Webb David 1746, Dec. 19 .George Barlow of Slebech, esq.,David Webb of the same. Lease for three lives of a dwelling house called Oxhouse, and ground leading to the Mardle pits on the south-west, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1747 Barlow George 1747, September. 10 George Barlow of Slebech, esq.,William Page of the parish of Minwear, Mason, John Foley. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Begerland Back with a 'Hay' in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1747 Page William 1747, September. 10 George Barlow of Slebech, esq.,William Page of the parish of Minwear, Mason, John Foley. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Begerland Back with a 'Hay' in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and
Family Record

1749 Barlow George 1749, Nov. 8 Thomas Powell of BedFord Row, co.
Midlesex, esq.,George Barlow of Slebech, co. Pembroke, esq., John Hooke of Bangeston, esq..
Transfer of a Mortgage of part of the Slebech estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1749 Powell Thomas 1749, Nov. 8 Thomas Powell of BedFord Row, co.
Midlesex, esq.,George Barlow of Slebech, co. Pembroke, esq., John Hooke of Bangeston, esq..
Transfer of a Mortgage of part of the Slebech estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1749 Barlow George 1749, Dec. 7 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., Thomas Barry of Llanhowell. Lease for 99 years (or for the lives of Anne Barlow , daughter of the said George Barlow , Ann, wife of the said Thomas Barry and Richard his son) of a messuage and lands called Arnoldshill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1749 Barry Ann 1749, Dec. 7 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., Thomas Barry of Llanhowell. Lease for 99 years (or for the lives of Anne Barlow daughter of the said George Barlow, Ann, wife of the said Thomas Barry and Richard his son) of a messuage and lands called Arnoldshill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1750 Barlow George 1750/1, March 8-9 John Hooke of Bangeston, esq., George Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of lands called Castle Lands in the parish of Narberth, Parson Lewis's Tenement and a messuage called Minwear in the parish of Minwear, the messuage and lands called Molleston in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1750 Neal Nathaniel 1750, June 27-28 .William Davies of the parish of Lampiter Velfrey, gent., only son of John and Mary Davies, deceased, Margaret Davies of the same, spinster, Thomas Laugharne of Laugharne, Merchant, and Mary his wife, John Hook of Bangeston, esq., and Mary his wife, Jonathan Ellis of London, Merchant, Nathaniel Neal of Naggs Head Court, Grace Church Street, London, gent. Lease and Release being a Mortgage in fee of the Properties in trust for the said Mary Hook for securing £800 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1753 Barlow George 1753, June 11 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., John Hendy of Rosehill, parish of Slebech, yeoman Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called west Buckshill and a cottage, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1753 Barlow George of Slebech 1753 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1753 Davies Francis deceased 1753 Oct 5 Lewis Davies of Haverfordwest gent son of Francis Davies of Dudwell parish of Camrose gent deceased and Rachel Davies of Haverfordwest sister of the deceased Francis Davies. Richard Summers of Haverfordwest Merchant Mortgage of messuages and lands in the town of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1753 Hendy John 1753, June 11 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., John Hendy of Rosehill, parish of Slebech, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called west Buckshill and a cottage, parish of Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Record

1753 Neal Nathaniel 1753, May 25-26 .Jonathan Ellis of the city of London, Merchant, and Nathaniel Neal of Naggs Head Court, Grace Church Street, London, gent., John Hooke of Bangeston, esq., and Mary his wife, Thomas Phillips of the parish of Lampiter Velfrey, gent., John Wogan of Wiston, esq.. Lease and Release being an Assignment of the Mortgages. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1753 Summers Richard .1753, Oct. 5 .Lewis Davies of Haverfordwest, gent., son of Francis Davies of Dudwell, parish of Camrose, gent., deceased, and Rachel Davies of Haverfordwest, sister of the deceased Francis Davies, Richard Summers of Haverfordwest, Merchant. Mortgage of messuages and lands in the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1754 Barlow George 1754, Oct. 10 George Barlow of Slebedge, esq., Sir John Philipps of Picton Castle, bart. Lease for three lives of the tithes issuing out of Picton demesne. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1755 Barlow George 1755, June 23 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., William Bevan of the parish of Minwere, yeoman, James Meredith of Slebetch, agent of the said George Barlow . Lease for three lives of Minwere House. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1755 Landoy Lewis 1755, September. 19 .Margret Davies late of the Folly, parish of Minwere, widow, Lewis Landoy of the Folly aforesaid. Lease for three lives of the Folly. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1755 Meredith James 1755, June 23 .George Barlow of Slebech, esq., William Bevan of the parish of Minwere, yeoman, James Meredith of Slebetch, agent of the said George Barlow. Lease for three lives of Minwere House. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1756 Barlow George 1756, Jan. 22 George Barlow of Slebech, esq., Daniel Davies of the parish of Minwear, yeoman, James Meredith of Slebech, agent of the said George Barlow .Lease for three lives of a messuage in Minwear with lands. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1756 Barlow George 1756, Dec. 2-4 Will and codicil of George Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1756 Barlow Sir George son and heir of Sir George died in France after 1756, without issue, and the Baronetcy became extinct.

1756 Davies Daniel 1756 Jan 22 George Barlow of Slebech esq. Daniel Davies of the parish of Minwear yeoman James Meredith of Slebech agent of the said George Barlow Lease for three lives of a messuage in Minwear with lands Slebech Estate and Family Record

1756 Meredith James 1756, Jan. 22 .George Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Daniel Davies of the parish of Minwear, yeoman, James Meredith of Slebech, agent of the said George Barlow.Lease for three lives of a messuage in Minwear with lands. Slebech Estate and Family Record

After the death of Sir George Barlow his daughter Anne Barlow inherited the estate She married William Trevannion of Cornwall and after his death, John Symmons of Llanstinan.

Symmons inherited from his wife Anne and after her death sold the estate to William Knox of London, High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire for 1786, who in turn sold it to Nathaniel Phillips (High Sheriff for 1796)

Barlow Ann widow

1758 Barlow Ann 1758, June 1 of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlow, deceased,1758, June 1.Ann Barlow of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlow , deceased,William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq.. Release of household goods, timber, Mortgages and debts. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Barlow Ann 1759, March 1-2 of Haverfordwest, widow,Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow, William Trevannion and Ann Barlow relict of George Barlow,his wife, John Jones of Haverfordwest, esq., M.D., and Councill Williams of the same, esq., John Wogan the elder of Wiston, esq., and Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, co. Cardigan, esq.,Edward Elliot of Port Eliot, co. Cornwall, esq., and John Fortesque of Penwarne, co. Cornwall, esq.. Lease and Release being a settlement after the marriage of William Trevannion and Ann his wife of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Barlow Ann 1759, June 25 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow and relict of George Barlow, William Trevannion and Ann his wife, Thomas Kymer of Robeston Hall esq.. Lease for a year of lands, etc., in the parishes of Slebech, Minwear, Marteltwy, Robeston Wathen, Llandewy Velfrey, Newton, and Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Kymer Thomas 1759, June 25. Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow and relict of George Barlow, William Trevannion and Ann his wife, Thomas Kymer of Robeston Hall esq.. Lease for a year of lands, etc., in the parishes of Slebech, Minwear, Marteltwy, Robeston Wathen, Llandewy Velfrey, Newton, and Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Mathias John 1759, Oct. 10 .John Foley of Ridgeway, gent., Jenkin Ferrior of Pembroke, gent., William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq., John Mathias of Killey, esq., and Richard Bowling of Pembroke, gent. Assignment of a bond and judgement in trust and as a Collateral security. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Morgan Robert 1760, September. 26 .William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq., Robert Morgan of Carmarthen, Merchant. Lease for three lives of the iron forge, etc., in the several parishes of Newton and Robeston Wathan, and the fishery at Blackpool, parish of Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Prickett James 1760, Oct. 20 William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., James Prickett of the parish of Slebech, blacksmith, Thomas Stokes of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Clarkenhill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1764 Rees James 1764, July 21 suit in the Court of Exchequer between William Trevannion, esq., plaintiff, and James Rees and John Rees defendants, who were charged with digging stones on Narberth Mountain. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1764 Rees John 1764, July 21 suit in the Court of Exchequer between William Trevannion, esq., plaintiff, and James Rees and John Rees defendants, who were charged with digging stones on Narberth Mountain. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1763 Barlow Ann 1763, June 13 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow, Thomas George of Moleston, parish of Narberth, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of the messuage and lands called west Atheston and another messuage in the parish of Robeston Wathan. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1763 Philipps Thomas 1763, July 7 Thomas Philipps, etc., William Thomas . Bond for the payment of £40 interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1763 Stokes John 1763, June 13 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow, Thomas George of Moleston, parish of Narberth, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of the messuage and lands called west Atheston and another messuage in the parish of Robeston Wathan. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1768 Philipps Thomas 1768, June 22 Probate of the will of Thomas Philipps of Lampiter Velfrey, gent., will d 2 Nov. 1765 Slebech Estate and Family Record

1773 Barlow Ann 1773, Aug. 4-5 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, John Symmons of Lanstinan, esq., and Ann his wife, late Ann Trevannion and only Child of the said George Barlow by the said Ann Barlow. John Jones of Haverfordwest, doctor of Physic, and Counsel Williams of Haverfordwest, esq., Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, esq., Maurice Morgan of the Mint in the Tower of London, esq., John Wogan of Wiston, esq.. Lease and Release of the Slebech estate to make a tenant to the praecipe to suffer a common recovery thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1773 Jones John 1773, Aug. 4-5 .Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, John Symmons of Lanstinan, esq., and Ann his wife, late Ann Trevannion and only Child of the said George Barlow by the said Ann Barlow, John Jones of Haverfordwest, doctor of Physic, and Counsel Williams of Haverfordwest, esq., Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, esq., Maurice Morgan of the Mint in the Tower of London, esq., John Wogan of Wiston, esq.. Lease and Release of the Slebech estate to make a tenant to the praecipe to suffer a common recovery thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1773 Morgan Maurice 1773, Aug. 4-5 .Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, John Symmons of Lanstinan, esq., and Ann his wife, late Ann Trevannion and only Child of the said George Barlow by the said Ann Barlow, John Jones of Haverfordwest, doctor of Physic, and Counsel Williams of Haverfordwest, esq., Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, esq., Maurice Morgan of the Mint in the Tower of London, esq., John Wogan of Wiston, esq.. Lease and Release of the Slebech estate to make a tenant to the praecipe to suffer a common recovery thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1774 Edwardess William 1774, Nov. 19 John Phillips of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., Sir Richard Phillips of Picton Castle, Bart., and John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq., William Edwardess of Johnstone, esq., Edward Philipps of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk. Release of messuages called Dyffrin, Cwmlan, Plaindealings and Flathouse, in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, also a piece of land in the parish of Cronwear, and a messuage and lands called Berllan in the parish of St. Clears, co. Carmarthen. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1774 Lewis James ,1774, September. 28 .Lease by John Harbert Foley of Ridgeway, esq., to James Lewis of Gelly Dowhill, co. Carmarthen, esq., in trust of John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq., of land in the parish of Slebech, where the limekiln stood. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1776 Lewis James 1776, Jan. 29 .Bridget Foley of Ridgeway, widow, James Lewis of Gellyduwill, co. Carmarthen, esq., John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq., and Ann Symmons wife of John Symmons late Ann Trevannion, widow. Transfer of the Mortgage of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Record

1779 Morgan Martha 6 June 1779 Slebech Single woman Offence Theft of a horse. Slebech Prosecutor Davies Matthias, Clergyman Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

1786 Barlow Ann 1786, Jan. 19 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow, and William Knox, of Slebech, esq., Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Minweare House tenement and Cott with lands, parish of Minweare. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Barlow Anne 1786, Oct. 18 Anne Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, esq., deceased, Isaac Llewellyn of Newhouse, parish of Newton, farmer. Lease for three lives Slebech Estate and Family Record

1788 Barlow Ann 1788, Aug. 7 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, esq., deceased, William Hitchings of the parish of Minweare, Miller. Lease of a water corn grist mill in the parish of Minweare. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1789 Barlow Anne 1789, July 25 Anne Barlow of the town and county of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow late of Slebech, deceased, Sarah Hill of the parish of Minweare, widow. Lease for three lives of a messuage, etc., in the parish of Minweare. Slebech

Estate and Family Record

1789 Hill Sarah 1789, July 25 Anne Barlow of the town and county of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow late of Slebech, deceased, Sarah Hill of the parish of Mineweare, widow Lease for three lives of a messuage, etc, in the parish of Mineweare Slebech Estate and Family Record

1789 Phillips Grace 1789, Aug. 24 Cecilia Philipps of the parish of St. Mary , Tenby, spinster, Grace Phillips of the same, widow. Declaration of trust as to £785 included in Mortgage from Edward Philipps, clerk, and the interest thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1758 – 1773 Trevannion William and Anne nee Barlow.

1727 Trevannion William(15 Jan 1727 - 7 Jan 1767) of St Michael's CaerHays, Cornwall. MP for Tregony in 1754. married Barlow Anne on 1st 17 May 1758, at St Georges, Hanover Square, London

1735 Barlow Anne married 1st 17 May 1758, at St Georges, Hanover Square, London. Trevannion William(15 Jan 1727 - 7 Jan 1767) of St Michael's CaerHays, Cornwall. MP for Tregony in 1754.

married. secondly 2 Mar 1773 Bath, Somerset Symmons John High Sheriff of Carmarthen in 1804 John Symmons and Anne Barlow had no children.

1758 Trevannion William 1758, June 1 .Ann Barlow of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlow, deceased, William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq.. Release of household goods, timber, Mortgages and debts. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Lloyd Thomas 1759, March 1-2 .Ann Barlow, of Haverfordwest, widow, relict of George Barlow, William Trevannion and Ann Barlow his wife, John Jones of Haverfordwest, esq., M.D., and Councill Williams of the same, esq., John Wogan the elder of Wiston, esq., and Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, co. Cardigan, esq., Edward Elliot of Port Eliot, co. Cornwall, esq., and John Fortesque of Penwarne, co. Cornwall, esq.. Lease and Release being a settlement after the marriage of William Trevannion and Ann his wife of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Trevannion Ann 1759, June 25 .Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow and relict of George Barlow, William Trevannion and Ann his wife, Thomas Kymer of Robeston Hall esq.. Lease for a year of lands, etc., in the parishes of Slebech, Minwear, Marteltwy, Robeston Wathen, Llandewy Velfrey, Newton, and Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Trevannion William 1759, June 25 .Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow and relict of George Barlow, William Trevannion and Ann his wife, Thomas Kymer of Robeston Hall esq.. Lease for a year of lands, etc., in the parishes of Slebech, Minwear, Marteltwy, Robeston Wathen, Llandewy Vefrey, Newton, and Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Trevannion William 1759, Oct. 10. Edward Eliot of Port Eliot, co. Cornwall, esq., and John Fortescue of Penwarne, co. Cornwall, esq., William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq., Jenkin Ferrior of Pembroke, gent., and John Foley of Ridgeway, gent. Assignment of Solston otherwise Sodston, Moleston Back, Narberth Mill, parish of Narberth, the capital messuages and lands called Slebech, Kants, Piccell, Toch, High Toch, parish of Slebech, messuages and lands in Minwear parish, Ruturno in Robeston Wathan parish, and Kilrew and Blaenwithnoe in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Trevannion William 1759, Oct. 10 .John Foley of Ridgeway, gent., Jenkin Ferrior of Pembroke, gent., William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq., John Mathias of Killey, esq., and Richard Bowling of Pembroke, gent. Assignment of a bond and judgement in trust and as a Collateral security. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1759 Trevannion William 1759, March 1-2 Ann Barlow, of Haverfordwest, widow, William Trevannion and Ann Barlow relict of George Barlow, his wife, John Jones of Haverfordwest, esq., M.D., and Councill Williams of the same, esq., John Wogan the elder of Wiston, esq., and Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, co. Cardigan, esq., Edward Elliot of Port Eliot, co. Cornwall, esq., and John Fortesque of Penwarne, co. Cornwall, esq.. Lease and Release being a settlement after the marriage of William Trevannion and Ann his wife of the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Gwynn Stephen 1760 William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., Bartholomew Brown of Narberth, innkeeper. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands in the parish of Narberth late in the possession of Stephen Gwynn. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Stokes John 1760, Oct. 13 .William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., David Cousins of Deeplake, parish of Slebech, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Deeplake and Smith 's tenement, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1760 Stokes John 1760, Oct. 6 . William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq., Bartholomew Brown of Narberth, innkeeper. John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of a messuage and lands in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1760 Stokes Thomas 1760, Oct. 20 . William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., James Prickett of the parish of Slebech, blacksmith Thomas Stokes of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Clarkenhill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1760 Trevannion William 1760, Oct. 6 . William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall esq. Bartholomew Brown of Narberth, innkeeper. John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of a messuage and lands in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Trevannion William 1760, September. 26 . William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq., Robert Morgan of Carmarthen, Merchant. Lease for three lives of the iron forge, etc., in the several parishes of Newton and Robeston Wathan, and the fishery at Blackpool, parish of Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Trevannion William 1760, Oct. 13 . William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., David Cousins of Deeplake, parish of Slebech, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Deeplake and Smith's tenement, parish of Slebech.

Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Trevannion William 1760, Oct. 20 . William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., James Prickett of the parish of Slebech, blacksmith, Thomas Stokes of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Clarkenhill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1760 Trevannion William of Carhais 1760 , William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., Bartholomew Brown of Narberth, innkeeper. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands in the parish of Narberth late in the possession of Stephen Gwynn. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1761 Evan John 1761, Jan. 3 William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., John Evan of the parish of Minwear, co. Pembroke, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1761 Stokes John 1761, Jan. 3 .William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., John Evan of the parish of Minwear, co. Pembroke, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1761 Trevannion William 1761, Jan. 3 .William Trevannion of Carhais co. Cornwall, esq., John Evan of the parish of Minwear, co. Pembroke, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1763 Thomas William 1763, July 7 .Thomas Philipps, etc., William Thomas . Bond for the payment of £40 interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1763 Thomas William 1763, July 6-7 .John Wogan of Wiston, esq., William Davies of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent., Thomas Philipps and Philipps Philipps of the same, gentlemen, William Thomas of Castle Gorood, co. Carmarthen, esq.. Assignment of a Mortgage of messuages and lands called the Street House, Wernlogin Ycha, Nurton, etc., in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1764 Harry Lewis 1764 repairing the Church of Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Record

1764 Trevannion William 1764, July 21 suit in the Court of Exchequer between William Trevannion, esq., plaintiff, and James Rees and John Rees, defendants, who were charged with digging stones on Narberth Mountain. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1764 Trevannion William 1764, July 19-September. 3 .dispute between Mrs. Elizabeth Barlow of Lawrenny and William Trevannion, esq., touching the boundary of Minwear wood in the parish of Newton, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1767 Trevannion William Jan 7th died

1767 Morris David 1767, Aug. 21 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, David Morris of the parish of Narberth, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of a house and two fields in the parish of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1767 Stokes John 1767, Aug. 21 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, David Morris of the parish of Narberth, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of a house and two fields in the parish of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Records

1767 Stokes John 1767, Aug. 21 .Anne Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Richard Thomas of the parish of Newton, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a house in the parish of Newton and three fields in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1767 Stokes John 1767, Aug. 21 . Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Joseph Thomas of the parish of Slebech, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Clerkenwell, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1767 Thomas Joseph 1767, Aug. 21 . Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Joseph Thomas of the parish of Slebech, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Clerkenwell, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1767 Thomas Richard 1767, Aug. 21 .Anne Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Richard Thomas of the parish of Newton, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a house in the parish.

1767 Thomas Vaughan 1767, Aug. 21 .Anne Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Vaughan Thomas of the parish of Bletherston, gent. Lease for three lives of the dwelling house of Blackpool and land called Blackmorehill, Batemans Close, parish of Newton, the Bottoms otherwise the Hams, parish of Slebech, Blackpool Marsh, parish of Minwear, and Furnan Field, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1767 Trevannion Ann 1767, Aug. 21 . Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Joseph Thomas of the parish of Slebech, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Clerkenwell, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1767 Trevannion Ann 1767, Aug. 21 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, David Morris of the parish of Narberth, yeoman, of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of a house and two fields in the parish of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1767 Trevannion Anne ,1767, Aug. 21 .Anne Trevannion of Slebech, widow,Vaughan Thomas of the parish of Bletherston, gent. Lease for three lives of the dwelling house of Blackpool and land called Blackmorehill, Batemans Close, parish of Newton, the Bottoms otherwise the Hams, parish of Slebech, Blackpool Marsh, parish of Minwear, and Furnan Field, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1768 Stokes John 1768, May 24 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Thomas Barzey of the parish of Slebech, yeoman, John Stokes of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Arnolds Hill, parish of Slebech. Rent £4 annually, and one bushel of oats at Christmas and 6s. in respect of tithes annually. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1768 Barzey Thomas 1768, May 24 Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Thomas Barzey of the parish of Slebech, yeoman, John Stokes of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Arnolds Hill, parish of Slebech. Rent £4 Annually, and one bushel of oats at Christmas and 6s. in respect of tithes annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1768 Trevannion Ann 1768, Nov. 7 .Jenkin Ferrior of Pembroke, esq., and Bridget Foley of Ridgeway, widow, executrix of John Foley, gent., her late Husband, deceased, Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow of William Trevannion late of Carhais, co. Cornwall, deceased. Surrender of a Mortgage of the Castle of Narberth and the lands, etc., Slebech Estate and Family Record

1768 Trevannion Ann 1768, May 24 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow,Thomas Barzey of the parish of Slebech, yeoman, John Stokes of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Arnolds Hill, parish of Slebech. Rent £4 Annually, and one bushel of oats at Christmas and 6s. in respect of tithes annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1769 Rees David John 1769, May 11-12 .David John Rees yeoman, Ann Trevannion, widow. Lease and Release of a messuage and lands called Castle Linked, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1769 Rees David John 1769, May 19 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, David John Rees of the parish of Penrith, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Castle Kingkoed, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1769 Stokes John 1769, May 19 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, David John Rees of the parish of Penrith, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Castle Kingkoed, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1769 Trevannion Ann 1769, May 19 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, David John Rees of the parish of Penrith, Husbandman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Castle Kingkoed, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1769 Trevannion,Ann 1769, May 11-12 .David John Rees, yeoman, Ann Trevannion, widow. Lease and Release of a messuage and lands called Castle Linkoed, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1770 James Gilbert 1770, March 24 .Ann Trevanon of Slebech, widow, William Mathias of Haverfordwest, shopman, Gilbert James of Holloway, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Cumberland consisting of two closes and one small burgage or Hay by the wayside near Midcounty and one house called Morgan Bowene house in Colby Lane, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1770 Mathias William 1770, March 24 .Ann Trevanon of Slebech, widow, William Mathias of Haverfordwest, shopman, Gilbert James of Holloway, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Cumberland consisting of two closes and one small burgage or Hay by the wayside near Midcounty and one house called Morgan Bowene house in Colby Lane, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1770 Trevannion Ann 1770, March 24 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, William Mathias of Haverfordwest, shopman, Gilbert James of Holloway, gent. Lease for three lives of a messuage and lands called Cumberland consisting of two closes and one small burgage or Hay by the wayside near Midcounty and one house called Morgan Bowene house in Colby Lane, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1772 Trevannion Ann 1772, Oct. 14 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Rowland Bateman of Canaston Bridge House, parish of Robeston Wathan, yeoman. Lease of Canaston Bridge House and lands in the parishes of Robeston Wathan and Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1772 Trevannion Ann 1772, Oct. 14 .Ann Trevannion of Slebech, 3119

widow, Sir Richard Phillips of Picton Castle, bart. Lease for three lives of the tithes of closes called Rhose and Ash Parks, part of Millin Mountain, close called Newhouse Meadow, land called Picton Ewehill, all in the parish of Boulston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1772 Trevannion Ann 1772, Feb. 14 .Bridget Foley, widow, now residing in the parish of St. George, Hanover Square, co. Middlesex, Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow. Acknowledgment of the receipt of part of Mortgage money. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1772 Trevannion Anne 1767, Aug. 21 .Anne Trevannion of Slebech, widow, Richard Thomas of the parish of Newton, yeoman, John Stokes of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease for three lives of a house in the parish of Newton and three fields in the parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1773 – 1785 John Symmons married Anne Trevannion (widow) previously Anne Barlow on 2 March 1773 –

[On her death he inherited the Slebech estate as they had no children]

1713 Symmons John 1713 of Llanstinan High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1773 Symmons John of Llanstinan married the heiress of the Barlows

1773 Lloyd Thomas ,1773, Aug. 4-5 .Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, John Symmons of Lanstinan, esq., and Ann his wife, late Ann Trevannion and only Child of the said George Barlow by the said Ann Barlow, John Jones of Haverfordwest, doctor of Physic, and Counsel Williams of Haverfordwest, esq., Thomas Lloyd of Bronwydd, esq., Maurice Morgan of the Mint in the Tower of London, esq., John Wogan of Wiston, esq.. Lease and Release of the Slebech estate to make a tenant to the praecipe to suffer a common recovery thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1773 Symmons Ann 1773, Aug. 4-5 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, John Symmons of Lanstinan, esq., and Ann his wife, late

Lampeter Velfrey, clerk. Release of messuages called Dyffrin, Cwmlan, Plaindealings and Flathouse, in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, also a piece of land in the parish of Cronwear, and a messuage and lands called Berllan in the parish of St. Clears, co. Carmarthen. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1774 Symmons John 1774, September. 28 .Lease by John Harbert Foley of Ridgeway, esq., to James Lewis of Gelly Dowhill, co. Carmarthen, esq., in trust of John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq., of land in the parish of Slebech, where the limekiln stood. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1776 Symmons Ann 1776, Jan. 29 wife of John Symmons late Ann Trevannion, widow. Bridget Foley of Ridgeway, widow, James Lewis of Gellyduwill, co. Carmarthen, esq., John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq.. and Ann Symmons wife of John Symmons late Ann Trevannion, widow.

1776 Symmons John 1776, Jan. 29 .Bridget Foley of Ridgeway, widow, James Lewis of Gellyduwill, co. Carmarthen, esq., John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq.. and Ann Symmons wife of John Symmons late Ann Trevannion, widow. Transfer of the Mortgage of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Records

1776 Symmons John 1776 esq. of Llanstinan acquired Slebech Hall as he married Ann Trevannion, widow nee Barlow heiress of the Barlow estates 1773. and built the present house After his wife died childless he sold the estate to William Knox esq. in 1783 acc to the Beauties of England and Wales 1815 Slebeth WWHR 1929 p 232 Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt

1776 Symmons John 1776, Oct. 15 .Owen Thomas of Pickell, parish of Slebech, Husbandman, John Symmons of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of a messuage, etc., called Pickell, and a field called the Big Marsh, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1776 Thomas Owen of Pickell 1776, Oct. 15 .Owen Thomas of Pickell, parish of Slebech, Husbandman, John Symmons of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of a messuage, etc., called Pickell, and a field called the Big Marsh, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1778 Roberts John ,1778, Aug. 3-4 .John Roberts of the town of Narberth, innkeeper, John Gibby of Clover Hill, parish of New moat, farmer. Lease and Release

Mortgage of the White Hart Inn with the yard, malt house, stables etc., in the town of Narberth.
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1779 Although his main residence was in London, John Symmons contracted Calvert John of Swansea, to extend Slebech Hall in 1779 and retained it as a country residence until, possibly on the death of Anne, he sold it to Knox William and instead acquired the Llangennech Park estate, near Llanelli and about sixty miles east of Milford Haven. John Symmons owned this from about 1793 to sometime after 1817.

The reason for his change of location from Slebech to Llangennech was likely so that John Symmons could develop the coal mines on the Llangennech estate. In 1804, John Symmons was High Sheriff of Carmarthenshire and owned Llangennech until c1821, as the estate was advertised for sale in "The Cambrian", of 16 December 1820

1782 Hendy John 1782, July 11 John Hendy of the parish of St Nicholas, co Glamorgan, officer of excise, eldest son and heir at law of John Hendy late of Flemington, parish of St Florence, gent, deceased, John Phillips of Penclawdd, co Glamorgan, officer of excise Assignment of a Lease of a messuage and lands called west Buckshill, parish of Slebech
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1782 Phillips John 1782, July 11 John Hendy of the parish of St. Nicholas, co. Glamorgan, officer of excise, eldest son and heir at law of John Hendy late of Flemington, parish of St. Florence, gent., deceased, John Phillips of Penclawdd, co. Glamorgan, officer of excise. Assignment of a Lease of a messuage and lands called west Buckshill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1783 Hendy Abraham 1783 Oct 4 John Symmons of Slebech, esq., Abraham Hendy of Lanstinan, gent Bond for the payment of money Slebech Estate and Family Record

1783 Symmons John 1783.Oct. 4 .John Symmons of Slebech, esq.,Abraham Hendy of Lanstinan, gent. Bond for the payment of money. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1784 Symmons John 1784, May 4 John Symmons of Slebech, esq.,William Knox and Edward Boodle. Bargain And Sale and Covenant to levy a fine of the estates Slebech Estate and Family Records

1784 Symmons John 1784, May 6 .William Knox and Edward Boodle, John Symmons, Richard Foley of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Mortgage of the manor or lordship of Llanvairnanty of, and other portions of the Slebech estate in North and South Pembrokeshire. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1786 Llewellyn Isaac 1786, Oct. 18 .Anne Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, esq., deceased, Isaac Llewellyn of Newhouse, parish of Newton, farmer. Lease for three lives of Newhouse aforesaid. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Symmons John 1786, September. 1 .William Knox of Slebech, esq.,Peter Holford, Henry Bell of Grays Inn, gent., John Symmons, Richard Foley of Haverfordwest, gent. Deed appointing the said Henry Bell receiver of certain manors and lands in co. Pembroke for securing the punctual payment of the interest of the Mortgage thereof made to Peter Holford. With Covenants for the production of title deeds. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1786 Symmons John,1786, September. 1 .John Symmons,William Knox, Peter Holford of Lincolns Inn Fields, co. Middlesex, esq.. Assignment of a term of lands, etc., in the parishes of Lampiter Velfrey, Narberth and Robeston Wathan Slebech Estate and Family Records

1786 Symmons John 1786, September. 26 .John Symmons,William Knox, Peter Holford of Lincolns Inn Fields, co. Middlesex, esq.. Assignment of a term of 1000 years in messuages and lands in the parishes of Lampeter Velfrey, Narbeth and Robeston Wathan specified in detail for securing £4,000 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1787 Symmons John 1787, Jan. 13 .William Knox of Slebech, esq., John Symmons of the parish of St. John within the liberty of the city of Westminster, co. Middlesex, esq., Robert Dent and John Church both of Temple bar, London, esquires,Mortgage of the equity of redemption of estates specified in a deed d 1 September. 1786 as a further security for £16000 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1790 Symmons John 1790, September. 29 .William Knox. esq.,Robert Dent, John Symmons,Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Captain Style, Ormonde Place, and lands in the Narberth Forest and Narberth Mountain. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1783- 1796 Knox William Llanstinan and Slebech Estate and Family Record

1783 Knox William esq. of Llanstinan had purchased in 1783 Slebech the Slebech estate from John Symmons of Llanstinan who had married the heiress of the Barlows and thus inherited the Slebech estate acc to the Beauties of England and Wales 1815 and Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt. WWHR 1929 PP232

1784 Knox William 1784, May 4 .John Symmons of Slebech, esq.,William Knox and Edward Boodle. Bargain And Sale and Covenant to levy a fine of the estates Slebech Estate and Family Record

1784 Knox William 1784, May 6. William Knox and Edward Boodle, John Symmons, Richard Foley of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent. Mortgage of the manor or lordship of Llanvairnanty of, and other portions of the Slebech estate in North and South Pembrokeshire. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1784 Rees John 4 June 1784 Wiston blacksmith Offence Pickpocketing money whilst prosecutor slept in a meadow near Canaston Bridge. No indictment. Robeston Wathen Prosecutor James Benjamin , Slebech, farmer Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

1784 Summers Richard 1784, Oct. 1 .Richard Summers of Chewmagna, co. Somerset, esq., John Tucker of Pembroke, gent Assignment of Mortgage Slebech Estate and Family Records

1785 Knox William 1785, Feb. 19 .William Knox of Slebech, esq.,Richard William of the parish of Slebech, yeoman,Lease for three years of a messuage and lands called Buckshill or Eastern Buckshill and a parcel of land called Dingham parcel of the demesne lands of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1785 Knox William 1785, Dec. 1 William Knox of Slebech, esq.. John Havard of the parish of Minwere, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1785 John Havard 1785, Dec. 1 .William Knox of Slebech, esq.. John Havard of the parish of Minwere, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage called Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1785 Tucker Charles 1785, July 13-14 .Lewis Davies of Pembroke, gent., and Elizabeth, his wife, John Tucker and Charles Tucker, both of Pembroke, gentlemen. Lease and release of a messuage, etc., called White Horse and Golden Lyon, and other messuages and lands in or near the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1785 Tucker John 1785, July 13-14 .Lewis Davies of Pembroke, gent., and Elizabeth, his wife, John Tucker and Charles Tucker, both of Pembroke, gentlemen. Lease and release of a messuage, etc., called White Horse and Golden Lyon, and other messuages and lands in or near the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1785 William Richard 1785, Feb. 19 .William Knox of Slebech, esq.,Richard William of the parish of Slebech, yeoman,Lease for three years of a messuage and lands called Buckshill or Eastern Buckshill and a parcel of land called Dingham parcel of the demesne lands of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox Letitia Llanstinan 1785 daughter of William Knox

1786 Knox William 1786 of Llanstinan Hayscastle Ford Acc to Pembrokeshire Parsons.

1786 Knox William 1786, September. 1 .William Knox of Slebech, esq.,Peter Holford, Henry Bell of Grays Inn, gent., John Symmons, Richard Foley of Haverfordwest, gent. Deed appointing the said Henry Bell receiver of certain manors and lands in co. Pembroke for securing the punctual payment of the interest of the Mortgage thereof made to Peter Holford. With Covenants for the production of title deeds. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William 1786, Feb. 6 .William Knox of Slebech, esq., John Phillips of the parish of Slebech, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage in the parish of Slebech called Low Togh. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William 1786, Feb. 13 .William Knox, esq., of Slebech, John Morris of the parish of Minwere, yeoman. Lease of Minwere House farm in the parish of Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William 1786, Jan. 19 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow, and William Knox, of Slebech, esq., Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Minweare House tenement and Cott with lands, parish of Minweare. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William 1786, September. 1 .John Symmons, William Knox, Peter Holford of Lincolns Inn Fields, co. Middlesex, esq.. Assignment of a term of lands, etc., in the parishes of Lampiter Velfrey, Narberth and Robeston Wathan Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William 1786, September.1 gent. Assignment of a term of 500 years in the messuages and lands called Kibiew alias Kibihew and Parksaison and Blainwithno, parish of Lampiter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William 1786, September. 26 John Symmons, William Knox, Peter Holford of Lincolns Inn Fields, co. Middlesex, esq.. Assignment of a term of 1000 years in messuages and lands in the parishes of Lampeter Velfrey, Narbeth and Robeston Wathan (specified in detail for securing £4,000 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Knox William of Slebech -bought Slebech from John Symmons – 1786 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1786 Hassall Charles 1786, Jan 19 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow, and William Knox, of Slebech, esq., Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent Lease of Minweare House tenement and Cott with lands, parish of Minweare Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Morris John 1786, Feb. 13 .William Knox, esq., of Slebech, John Morris of the parish of Minwere, yeoman. Lease of Minwere House farm in the parish of Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1786 Phillips John 1786, Feb. 6 William Knox of Slebech, esq., John Phillips of the parish of Slebech, yeoman. Lease for three lives of a messuage in the parish of Slebech called Low Togh. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1787 Knox William 1787, Jan. 13 .William Knox of Slebech, esq., John Symmons of the parish of St. John within the liberty of the city of Westminster, co. Middlesex, esq., Robert Dent and John Church both of Temple bar, London, esquires, Mortgage of the equity of redemption of estates specified in a deed dated 1 September. 1786 as a further security for

£16000 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1787 Church John 1787, Jan. 13 .William Knox of Slebech, esq., John Symmons of the parish of St. John within the liberty of the city of Westminster, co. Middlesex, esq., Robert Dent and John Church both of Temple bar, London, esquires, Mortgage of the equity of redemption of estates specified in a deed d 1 September. 1786 as a further security for £16000 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1787 Philipps Edward 1787, April 14 Edward Philipps of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, co. Pembroke, clerk, Margaret James of the county of the borough of Carmarthen, spinster. Mortgage of the capital messuage called Loer House and messuages called the Street House, Wern y Login ucha, and Wern y Login issa, messuage and land called the Nurton, with lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1788 Knox William 1788, September.1 The Rev. David Griffith of Rhydwen, parish of Llandissilio, co. Carmarthen, clerk, and Ann his wife, only surviving Child of Bartholomew Brown of Narberth, innkeeper, deceased, Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent., William Knox heretofore of Slebech but now of Soho Square in the city of Westminster, esq.. Assignment of a Lease of a messuage, etc., called Captain ? Stye in the parish of Narberth, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1788 Hitchings William 1788, Aug 7 Ann Barlow of Haverfordwest, widow of George Barlow of Slebech, esq., deceased, William Hitchings of the parish of Minweare, Miller Lease of a water corn grist mill in the parish of Minweare Slebech Estate and Family Record

1788 Hassall Charles 1788, Sept1 The Rev David Griffith of Rhydwen, parish of Llandissilio, co Carmarthen, clerk, and Ann his wife, only surviving Child of Bartholomew Brown of Narberth, innkeeper, deceased, Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent, William Knox heretofore of Slebech but now of Soho Square in the city of Westminster, esq. Assignment of a Lease of a messuage, etc, called Captain ?Stye in the parish of Narberth, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1790 Knox William 1790, September. 29 .William Knox. esq.,Robert Dent, John Symmons,Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease of Captain Style, Ormonde Place, and lands in the Narberth Forest and Narberth Mountain. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1790 Hassall Charles 1790, September 29 William Knox esq., Robert Dent, John Symmons, Charles Hassall of Haverfordwest, gent Lease of Captain Style, Ormonde Place, and lands in the Narberth Forest and Narberth Mountain Slebech Estate and Family Record

1792 Knox William 1792, September. 15 . Agreement between William Knox and Nathaniel Phillips for the purchase of lands, tenements and woods in Slebech, Minwear and Canniston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1792 Knox William 1792, Dec. 20. William Knox of Llanstinan, esq., Mary Lewis of Minwere, widow. Lease for life of Minwere Lodge. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1792 Currie George 1792 Nov 2 Slebech Slebech MS 5549,

1792 Lewis Mary 1792, Dec. 20 of Minwere, widow. William Knox of Llanstinan, esq., Mary Lewis of Minwere, widow. Lease for life of Minwere Lodge. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1792 Cricket Mary 1792 Nov 2 Slebech Slebech MS 5549.

1793 Knox William 1793, Aug. 26 William Knox, Edward Boodle, trustee of the said William Nathaniel Phillips. Bargain and sale of the Slebech estate, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Knox William 1795, May 25-26 .Charles Tucker of the town of Pembroke, gent., and Mary , his wife, William Knox of Llanstinan, esq., Samuel Evans of the town of Narberth, gent. Lease and Release of three messuages called the Lamb and Flag in the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Knox William 1795, Oct. 20 .John Morris of the parish of Minwear, gent., William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.. Surrender of a Lease of Catts tenement. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Davies John 1795 Dec 1 of Narberth Leases for a messuage and lands William Knox of Llanstinan Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Lewis John 1795, Dec. 1 of Narberth. Leases for of a messuage and lands, William Knox of Llanstinan,. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Morris John 1795, Oct. 20 .John Morris of the parish of Minwear, gent.,William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.. Surrender of a Lease of Catts tenement. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Tucker Mary 1795, May 25-26 .Charles Tucker of the town of Pembroke, gent., and Mary , his wife,William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.,Samuel Evans of the town of Narberth, gent. Lease and Release of three messuages called the Lamb and Flag in the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1797 Knox Thomas 1797 Colonel of Llanstinan commanded his father's regiment of Fencibles whom he ordered to retreated from the French Landing at Fishguard. As a result he was ordered to resign his Commission by Lord Milford in the name of the King

The three Invalid soldiers sent to man the Fishguard garrison Gun platform -- were little use when the French landed as they only had three rounds of ammunition -- but they refused indignantly to leave their post or to spike their guns when Colonel Knox, in command of the Fishguard Fencibles marched his men smartly away from the scene of action.

1797 Knox William 1797 of Llanstinan left Pembrokeshire over the perceived insult to his son ex Col Thomas , Knox

1798 Knox William 1798, May 3 .William Knox of Llanstinan, co. Pembroke, esq., John Whittle of the parish of Narberth, innkeeper.Lease for 21 years of a garden and haggard behind the stables of the said John Whittle, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1798 Knox William 1798, Dec. 20 William Knox, Mary Lewis Lease for life of Minwear Lodge. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1798 Whittle John 1798, May 3 .William Knox of Llanstinan, co. Pembroke, esq., John Whittle of the parish of Narberth, innkeeper.Lease for 21 years of a garden and haggard behind the stables of the said John Whittle, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Knox William 1801, May 4 .William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.,Richard Cole of the parish of Minwear, carpenter. Lease of a cottage and lands called Nash Bottoms East, parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Knox William 1801, Nov. 22 .William Knox of Llansinan, esq.,Thomas Bowen of the parish of Narberth, mercer. Lease for 21 years of a messuage, etc., called the Castle Inn in the parish of Narberth lately in the tenure of Edward Griffiths, officer of excise. Slebech Estate and Family Records

1801 Knox William 1801, Jan. 23 .Joseph Davies of the parish of Minwere, farmer,William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.. Surrender of a Lease of a messuage and lands and Widdow Davies's land in Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Knox William 1801, Feb. 12 William Hitchings of Minwear Mill, Miller,William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.. David Beddoe of the town of Narberth, Miller, and William Harries of the same place, joiner. Surrender and Assignment of Minwere Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Knox William 1801, Nov. 23 William Knox,Thomas Rogers of Williamston Park, parish of Carew farmer. Lease of the messuage and lands called Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Rogers Thomas 1801, Nov. 23 .William Knox,Thomas Rogers of Williamston park, parish of Carew farmer. Lease of the messuage and lands called Minwere. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1802 Laundry Mary 1802, April 15 .Mary Laundry of the Folly, parish of Minwere, spinster,William Knox of Llanstinan, esq.. Surrender of a Lease at the Folly. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1802 Knox William 1802, Oct. 7 .Agreement between William Knox, esq., of Llanstinan, and Benjamin Boston of Rhositide, gent., relating to a Lease for 21 years of lands at Little Molleston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1803 Knox William 1803, March 1. Surrender by John Morris to William Knox of land on Cott Mountain lying next of New House Farm, parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1803 Morris John 1803, March 1 .Surrender by John Morris to William Knox of land on Cott Mountain lying next of New House Farm, parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1805 Knox William 1805, September. 30 William Knox, Edward Boodle, Nathaniel Phillips. Lease and Release of the manor and Castle of Narberth and the manors of Minwear and Martletwy and other messuages and lands in co. Pembroke, subject to a subsisting Mortgage thereon. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1809 Knox William 1809, September. 29 John Dent of Temple Bar, London, esq.,Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.,William Knox, Richard Grant of Russell Square, co. Middlesex, esq.. Assignment of the Mortgage Slebech Estate and Family Record

1790 -1822 Philipps &Phillips Nathaniel History and Records

1730 Nathaniel Phillips – father's name Nathaniel-- not connected with Welsh families

Born 10th June 1730 – planter in Jamaica – engaged in sugar trade

Nathaniel Phillips born in England , the illegitimate son of a Merchant trading between London and Kingston, Jamaica. Following his father he arrived at Kingston in April 1759 and used his father's connections to join a partnership with the Kingston merchants who owned sugar plantations which supported the slave trade to obtain workers. Over twenty five years he built a Fortune and his Jamaican Properties were valued £160,000 Jamaica currency, as well as ownership of 706 slaves valued at £50,000.

1761 18th June married at Jamaica Anne daughter of Richard and Anne Swarton –

1766 she died 6th October 1766 buried in chancel of the Church at Kingston –

1765 Anne Phillips born November 1765-Only surviving Child of marriage- for Many years heir apparent.

1770's Nathaniel lived in Gloucester Place Portman Square London but frequently returned to Jamaica to attend to business

1785 fought a duel and killed his opponent in dispute over a slave – He then settled permanently in England.

1793, he bought the estate at Slebech from William Knox of Llanstinan. Knox had purchased the estate in 1783 from John Symmons who had married the last heir of the Barlows. Although Knox has purchased the estate it would appear he was short of money as the year after the purchase he took out a mortgage on portions of the property. Then in 1786 there was a deed appointing Henry Bell as receiver of certain manors and lands for securing the punctual payments of the Mortgage interest to Peter Holford. In 1786 a further mortgage of £16000.Two years later a visitor wrote in his diary for 4 September 1787 :`In the way to Haverfordwest call at Slebech, a handsome house built Castle-wise, surrounded with fine Woods. The apartments are neat and pleasant. The estate is for sale, the purchase money £75,000. It appears to disadvantage from symptoms of neglect attending the family's leaving it'.

1792 there was an agreement between William Knox and Nathaniel Phillips for the purchase of the lands tenements and woods in Slebech, Minwear and Canniston Phillips bought 600 acres (2.4 km²) of park land and woodland

1793 The next year and agreement was reached between William Knox and

Edward Boodle acting as trustee for Nathaniel Phillips for the Bargain and sale of the Slebech estate.

1796 Nathaniel Phillips married Mary Philipps daughter of the Rev Edward Philipps rector of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, forty years younger than him and had two sons (Nathaniel and Edward Augustus) and two daughters (Mary Dorothea and Louisa Catherine). After his death, Phillips' heirs continued to operate the Jamaican estates but they became unprofitable after the end of slavery in 1834

...1779 Sir Alan Cameron met Anne Phillips – said to have eloped to Gretna Green Had seven children

1779 Nathaniel Phillips had rented a house in London where he came into contact with William Knox who held the Llanstinan and Slebech estates in Pembrokeshire 1792 negotiations started and by 1795 he had bought the estate and was resident.

He was 66 years old a widower for 30 years and met an married in February 1796 a 19 year old minor Mary Dorothea Philipps in St Mary's Islington. She was the daughter of a Parson and related the the Philipps of Picton Castle. That year he was also High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire. Nathaniel Phillips and Mary Dorothea had four children-----

1797 Mary Dorothea born 15th January 1797 parents Nathaniel Phillips and Mary Dorothea

1798 Nathaniel eldest son born 1798 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1820 died unmarried on 20th July 1824 in Amsterdam parents Nathaniel Phillips and Mary Dorothea

1801 Louisa Catherine born 1801 married 11 February 1819 to Thomas William Viscount Anson created Earl of Lichfield in 1831 – had children --parents Nathaniel Phillips and Mary Dorothea

1802 Edward Augustus born 1802 died unmarried on 15th February 1830 and was buried at St Marylebone London. parents Nathaniel Phillips and Mary Dorothea

1812 Sir Alan Cameron Lieut Gen KCB and KTS of the Erracht Branch of the house of Lochiel who with the aid of his father in Law Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Park raised the 79th or Cameronian Highlanders and afterwards commanded them in the Peninsula.

1813 Nathaniel Phillips the father died on 30th December 1813 age 83. He was buried in the churchyard of the old parish Church but in 1860 his remains were removed to the vault in the new Church of Slebech. His estate of over £37,000, apart from £7000, passed to his children and after the death of Nathaniel his oldest son and Edward Augustus the whole estate passed to Mary Dorothea and her sister the Louisa Catherine as Co-heiresses.

1819 Viscount Anson (later Earl of Lichfield) married Louisa Catherine Phillips

.....

Philipps of Lampeter Velfry (Philipps Mary Dorothea 25 February 1796 married Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech)

1787 Philipps Edward 1787, Aug. 11 The Rev. Edward Philipps, rector of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, Thomas John of Lower Henllan, parish of Llandewy Velfrey, Henry Evans of Llangwathan, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, and Richard Wiley of the same, parish, gent. Lease for three lives of the messuage and lands called Loer Duffryn, and a Moor being part of the tenement of Llangwathan, and the tithes of the aforesaid Loer Duffryn, parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Rent, £99 and three couples of fat hens in lieu of duties on Shrove Tuesday annually. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1789 Philipps Cecilia 1789, Aug. 22 Edward Philipps of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, Cecilia Philipps of the parish of Saint Mary 's in the town of Tenby, spinster. Mortgage of Lower House Farm, Street House, Wern Login Ucha and Wern Login Issa, Newton, etc. in the parishes of Lampeter Velfrey, for securing the repayment of £1716 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1789 Philipps Cecilia 1789, Aug. 24 Cecilia Philipps of the parish of St. Mary , Tenby, spinster, Grace Philipps of the same, widow. Declaration of trust as to £785 included in Mortgage from Edward Philipps, clerk, and the interest thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1789 Philipps Edward 1789, Aug. 24 Cecilia Philipps of the parish of St. Mary , Tenby, spinster, Grace Philipps of the same, widow. Declaration of trust as to £785 included in Mortgage from Edward Philipps, clerk, and the interest thereof. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1792 Phillips Nathaniel 1792, September. 15 Agreement between William Knox and Nathaniel Phillips for the purchase of lands, tenements and woods in Slebech, Minwear and Canniston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1793 Philipps Catherine 1793, Feb. 5-6 John Mathias of Langwarran, parish of Jordaston, esq., Edward Philipps of Lampeter-Velfrey, clerk, and Catherine his wife, Abraham Leach of the town of Pembroke, esq.. Lease and Release being an Assignment of a Mortgage on Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1793 Phillips Nathaniel .1793, Aug. 26 William Knox, Edward Boodle, trustee of the said William, Nathaniel Phillips. Bargain and sale of the Slebech estate, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1795 Phillips Nathaniel 1795, Jan. 13 James Cousins of the city of Bristol, yeoman, eldest son and heir at law of David Cousins late of Deeplake, parish of Slebech, Husbandman, deceased, and Mary Cousins late of Deeplake, widow and relict of the said David Cousins, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of a Lease of Deeplake, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1796 Philipps Mary Dorothea 25 February 1796 the eldest daughter of Rev. Edward Philipps and Catherine was married in London to Phillips Nathaniel 25 February 1796 of Slebech, a prosperous former west Indian planter, as his second wife

.....

1796 Phillips Nathaniel of Slebech –was in 1796 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire had bought Slebech from William Knox who was Sheriff in 1786

1797 Phillips Nathaniel 1797, Jan. 29 Bell's Weekly messenger, recorded the birth of a daughter to the lady of Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1797 Phillips Nathaniel 1797, March 12 Letter from Lord Cawdor from Oxford Street, London, to Nathaniel Phillips, High Sheriff, concerning his report to the King and his ministers of the French expedition and landing in the county. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1798 Philipps Edward ,1798, Oct. 1-2 Thomas Philipps of Canonbury Place, parish of St, Mary , Islington, co. Middlesex, son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of a messuage and lands called Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey with a fulling mill called Dyffrin Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1798 Philipps Thomas 1798, Oct. 1-2 of St, Mary , Islington, Thomas Philipps of Canonbury Place, parish of St, Mary , Islington, co. Middlesex, son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of a messuage and lands called Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey with a fulling mill called Dyffrin Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1798 Phillips Nathaniel 1798, Oct. 1-2 Thomas Philipps of Canonbury Place, parish of St, Mary , Islington, co. Middlesex, son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of a messuage and lands called Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey with a fulling mill called Dyffrin Mill. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Hyatt James 1800, Oct 18 James Hyatt of the county of the borough of Carmarthen, and Margaret his wife late Margaret James, Thomas Philipps of Grays Inn, co Middlesex, esq., eldest son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq. Assignment of a Mortgage on the Lampeter Velfrey estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Philipps Edward 1800, Oct. 18 James Hyatt of the county of the borough of Carmarthen, and Margaret his wife late Margaret James, Thomas Philipps of Grays Inn, co. Middlesex, esq., eldest son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased. Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Mortgage on the Lampeter Velfrey estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Philipps Edward 1780, Jan. 12 Edward Philipps of Begelly, clerk, John Mathias of LangWarren, esq.. Lease for a year of the Properties Bond for the performance of Covenants. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Philipps John 1800, Nov. 15 John Philipps of Penclawdd, co. Glamorgan, officer of excise, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of a Lease of west Buckshill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Philipps Thomas 1800, Oct. 18 James Hiatt of the county of the borough of Carmarthen, and Margaret his wife late Margaret James, Thomas Philipps of Grays Inn, co. Middlesex, esq., eldest son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased. Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Mortgage on the Lampeter Velfrey estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Phillips Nathaniel 1800, Nov. 15 John Philipps of Penclawdd, co. Glamorgan, officer of excise, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of a Lease of west Buckshill, parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Phillips Nathaniel 1800, Nov. 22 Thomas Gwynne of Kilkiffeth, parish of Llanychare, gent., nephew and executor of Vaughan Thomas of Bletherston, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of the Lease Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Phillips Nathaniel 1800, Oct. 18 James Hiatt of the county of the borough of Carmarthen, and Margaret his wife late Margaret James, Thomas Philipps of Grays Inn, co. Middlesex, esq., eldest son and heir of Edward Philipps of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased. Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a Mortgage on the Lampeter Velfrey estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1800 Thomas Vaughan 1800, Nov. 22 .Thomas Gwynne of Kilkiffeth, parish of Llanychare, gent., nephew and executor of Vaughan Thomas of Bletherston, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of the Lease Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801? Cole Richard 1801, May 4 of Minwear, carpenter. William Knox of Llanstinan, esq., Richard Cole of the parish of Minwear, carpenter. Lease of a cottage and lands called Nash Bottoms East, parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Evans William 1801, July 3 Lease for three lives of the White Hart Inn, in Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 ? Griffiths Edward 1801, Nov. 22 .William Knox ?of Llansinan, esq., Thomas Bowen of the parish of Narberth, mercer. Lease for 21 years of a messuage, etc., called the Castle Inn in the parish of Narberth lately in the tenure of Edward Griffiths, officer of excise. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Harries William 1801, Feb 12 William Hitchings of Minwear Mill, Miller, William Knox of Llanstinan, esq. David Beddoe of the town of Narberth, Miller, and William Harries of the same place, joiner Surrender and Assignment of Minwere Mill Slebech Estate and Family Record

1801 Hitchings William 1801, Feb 12 William Hitchings of Minwear Mill, Miller, William Knox of Llanstinan, esq. David Beddoe of the town of Narberth, Miller, and William Harries of the same place, joiner surrender and Assignment of Minwere Mill Slebech

Estate and Family Record

1801 James John 27 September 1801 Slebech Labourer Offence Aiding and abetting James Margaret , Wiston, a convict, his ?mother to escape from gaol by conveying wearing apparel, being disguised to facilitate her escape. See her indictment. Indicted with his sister? Prisoner aged 17. Haverfordwest Prosecutor Howell,s Samuel, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

1801 Williams James 1801, July 3 .innkeeper. Lease for three lives of the White Hart Inn, in Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1802 Philipps Cecilia 1802, June 10 Receipt from Maurice Bateman for £9 paid by Mrs. Cecilia Philipps. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1803 Philipps Catherine 6 May 1803 wife of Rev. Edward Philipps died at Slebech on, aged 55

1804 Edwards William 1804, Oct. 5 William Edwards gent. Lease of a garden called Breakman's Shins being fugitive land, a garden on the north side of Cresswell Street, and two stangs in the Ball Meadow, borough of Tenby. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1804 Harries John 1804 tiling the Church of Slebech Slebech Estate And Family Record

1805 Higgon John 1805, March 25-26 John Higgon of the parish of St Mary , Haverfordwest, esq., Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Record

1805 Philipps Cecilia 1805, July 27 Thomas Philipps of Neeston, esq., eldest son of the Rev. Edward Philipps late of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased, Thomas Philipps of Jeffreston, esq., nephew of Cecilia Philipps, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq.. Conveyance of the messuage called Lower House, etc., in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1805 Philipps Edward 1805, July 27 Thomas Philipps of Neeston, esq., eldest son of the Rev. Edward Philipps late of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased, Thomas

Philipps of Jeffreston, esq., nephew of Cecilia Philipps, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq..
Conveyance of the messuage called Lower House, etc., in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1805 Phillips Nathaniel 1805, July 27 Thomas Philipps of Neeston, esq., eldest son of the Rev. Edward Philipps late of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk, deceased, Thomas Philipps of Jeffreston, esq., nephew of Cecilia Philipps, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq..
Conveyance of the messuage called Lower House, etc., in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1805 Phillips Nathaniel 1805, March 25-26 John Higgon of the parish of St. Mary , Haverfordwest, esq., Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Record.

1805 Phillips Nathaniel .1805, September. 30 William Knox, Edward Boodle, Nathaniel Phillips. Lease and Release of the manor and Castle of Narberth and the manors of Minwear and Martletwy and other messuages and lands in co. Pembroke, subject to a subsisting Mortgage thereon. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1806 Harries Thomas 1806, Aug 22 Thomas Harries of Templeton, parish of Narberth, yeoman, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq. Surrender of a Lease of tenements and lands called Eastward, Rack Park and Minwear Mountain, parish of Minwear
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1806 Phillips Nathaniel 1806, March 22 Notice by Charles Morgan and John Morgan to Nathaniel Phillips esq., that they will quit Black Pool Forge and land, etc., Slebech Estate and Family Record

1806 Phillips Nathaniel 1806, Aug. 22 Thomas Harries of Templeton, parish of Narberth, yeoman, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq.. Surrender of a Lease of tenements and lands called Eastward, Rack Park and Minwear Mountain, parish of Minwear.
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1807 Phillips Nathaniel 1807, Aug. 27 Abraham Leach of the town of Pembroke, esq., Nathaniel Phillips, of Slebech Hall esq.. Lease for a year of Diffryn and Diffryn mill, parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1808 John Jason 1808, April 5 of Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, farmer. Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq., Jason John of Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, farmer. Lease for life of messuage and lands called Diffryn otherwise Dyffrin in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1808 Phillips Nathaniel 1808 Feb 1 Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall visited Stacpole, Bush and Brownslade Stayed one night at each Slebech Estate and Family Record

1808 Phillips Nathaniel 1808, April 5 Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq.,Jason John of Dyffrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, farmer. Lease for life of messuage and lands called Diffryn otherwise Dyffrin in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1809 Phillips Nathaniel 1809, September. 29 John Dent of Temple Bar, London, esq.,Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.,William Knox,Richard Grant of Russell Square, co. Middlesex, esq.. Assignment of the Mortgage Slebech Estate and Family Record

1810 Jenkins Benjamin 1810, September. 1 Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.,Benjamin Jenkins of Narberth, cordwainer. Lease for one life of the messuage, etc., in the occupation of the said Benjamin Jenkins in the town of Narberth, and also a small cottage lately erected by the said Benjamin Jenkins. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1810 Lewis Mary 1810, March 16 of Haverfordwest, widow, Mary Lewis of Haverfordwest, widow, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech, esq.. Surrender of a Lease Slebech Estate and Family Record

1812 Owen Morris Slebech. 1812 new wheel for the Church Bell Parish Records

1813 David Thomas 1813 Jan 30 of Blaengwaithnoah Thomas John of Narberth shopkeeper David Thomas of Blaengwaithnoah parish of Lampeter Velfrey farmer and Evan Thomas of BlackMoor Hill parish of Narberth farmer Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq. Bond for the performance of Covenants Slebech Estate and Family Record

1813 Moris Ann 1813, September. 8 .Letter from Ann Moris of Miner house to Mrs. Mary Prikat of Slebach. Complains of the treatment she receives at the hands of two of the worst brutes in this world and is in danger of her life. John Moris encourages them. She is willing for Mr. Phillips to have the place. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1813 Phillips Nathaniel 1813, Jan. 27. Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq., Thomas John of Narberth, shopkeeper. Lease of Diffryn and Diffryn Mill, parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1813 Phillips Nathaniel 1813, Dec. 2 Letter of Thomas Picton from Portsmouth to Nathaniel Phillips, Gloster Place, London, concerning the Milford floating dock business. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1813 Phillips Nathaniel 1813, Jan. 30 Thomas John of Narberth, shopkeeper, David Thomas of Blaengwaithnoah, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, farmer, and Evan Thomas of BlackMoor Hill, parish of Narberth, farmer, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq.. Bond for the performance of Covenants. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1813 Thomas John ,1813, Jan. 30. John Thomas of Narberth, shopkeeper, David Thomas of Blaengwaithnoah, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, farmer, and Evan Thomas of BlackMoor Hill, parish of Narberth, farmer, Nathaniel Phillips of Slebech Hall esq.. Bond for the performance of Covenants. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1814 Phillips Nathaniel 1814, April 18 Probate of the will of Nathaniel Phillips, esq., deceased. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1819 Holt Stephen 4 August 1819 Slebech Labourer Offence Theft from the dwelling house of Nathaniel Phillips, esq., of wearing apparel belonging to him, prosecutor and Mary Dorothea Phillips, Slebech Prosecutor John Mayling Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

1818 -1944 de Rutzen Family tree

1822 The Widow Mary Dorothea Philipps and Mary Dorothea her daughter spent much time travelling abroad and in Rome 1821-22 Mary Dorothea the daughter met

Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen born 3rd March 1795 at Niederbarton in Courtland who it is believed held a minor post in the Russian embassy. Shortly after their first meeting the Baron proposed . They were married by Special Licence at Colwich Staffordshire on 30th October 1822 by the Revd. Frederick Anson The register was witnessed by Lord Vernon and Lord Anson her brother in law. First they lived at Brighton until 1829 then Bedford Square London

1822 Harries ?Miss 1822, Letter from the Ringers of Haverfordwest to Miss Harries, drawing attention to the fact that they rang peals of bells on the marriage of her niece Miss Phillips of Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Record

1822 Phillips Mary Dorothea 1822 extract from the register of the parish of Colwich, co. Stafford, recording the marriage of Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea Phillips ,1822. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1822 Phillips ? Miss.,1822, Oct. 22 Marriage of the Baron de Rutzen and Miss. Phillips, 1822. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1822 Anson MA. 1822, Aug. 24 Letter from M.A. Anson at Sudbury to the Miss D Philipps (the future Baroness de Rutzen) concerning her forthcoming marriage. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1827 Phillips Nathaniel 1827, June 9 Baron and Baroness de Rutzen,Messrs. Hibbert. Assignment of the interest on a legacy of £10,000 bequeathed to the Baroness de Rutzen by the will of Nathaniel Phillips, esq., deceased, for securing £315 and £1150 and interest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

Baron Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Baroness Mary Dorothea de Rutzen nee Phillips had seven children

1823 de Rutzen Minna Frederica Phillipa born 23rd September 1823 died 29th June 1825 parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen

1825 Baron de Rutzen Frederick Leopold Sapieha Manteuffel born Brighton 10th June 1825 – Succeeded his father in 1874 served a High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire in 1871. Major Commandant Pembrokeshire Yeomanry 1864 and Lieutenant Colonel in 1871 ,Died 20th May 1890 age 64, never married, and was succeeded by his brother Rudolph --parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen

1827 de Rutzen Frederica Maria Louisa born 1827 married 20th August 1850 to Richard Ilbert Phillips of Lawrenny died 1st November 1904 parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen – had children

1828 Baron de Rutzen Rudolph William Henry Ehrard born Brighton 6th September 1828, a barrister of the inner Temple 1864, High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1895, inherited 20th May 1890, died unmarried on 18th April 1915 parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and was succeeded by his nephew Alan

1830 de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilien parents Mary Dorothea and Charles

Frederick Baron de Rutzen born 27th January 1830 B.A. Cambridge, barrister of the Inner Temple 1857 knighted in 1901 married 11th September 1872 at Llandeilo Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston, eldest daughter of Alan James Gulston JP of Derwydd Carmarthenshire. He died on 22 September 1913 and his wife on 23 February 1924 They were buried in the family vault at Slebech Church. They had five children

1832 de Rutzen Emmeline Charlotte Catherine born 24th March 1832 died unmarried August 1892 parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen

1834 de Rutzen Eugene Ferdinand Ulrich Stanislaus born 27th July 1834 Married 10th December Agnes Penman daughter of Thomas Penman, died without issue 29th September 1916 --parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen

1830 On the death of her brother Edward Augustus Phillips in 1830 the Baroness and her sister Lady Anson became co-heiresses to the estates in Jamaica and Slebech and they moved to Slebech a property of over 3700 acres

1860 the Baroness de Rutzen fell ill and died on 14th June She was buried privately in the vault in Slebech new Church and the remains of her father, at her request, were removed from the old parish Church and placed near her in the vault On August 2nd 1860 this was done

1874 Baron Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen died in Dresden 15th August 1874. His remains were brought back to Slebech and placed in the vault alongside those of his wife. He was succeeded by his eldest son

Baron de Rutzen Frederick Leopold Sapieha Manteuffel who died 20th May 1890 age 64, never married, and was succeeded by his brother

Baron de Rutzen Rudolph William Henry Ehrard born Brighton 6th September 1828, a barrister of the inner Temple 1864, High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1895 died unmarried on 18th April 1915 parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen

and was succeeded by his nephew Alan

1876 de Rutzen Alan Fredrick James born 4th July 1876 succeeded to Slebech on the death of his uncle Baron Rudolph in 1915. Serving abroad in Middle East as Lieutenant in Pembrokeshire Yeomanry – Transferred to Imperial Camel Corp. Killed at the battle of Kattia in the Sinai desert 7th August 1916 Had married Eleanor Anna Audley Thursby Pelham on 28th April 1908. parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston Had an only son John Frederick Foley de Rutzen born 27th January 1909

1909 de Rutzen John Frederick Foley parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston born 27th January 1909 inherited Slebech estate on death of his father at the battle of Kattia in the Sinai desert 7th August 1916. Served in the Welsh Guards during World War 2 as a Major and died in action in Italy. He had married on 28th July 1932 Sheila Victoria Katrin Philipps, daughter of Sir Henry Philipps of Picton Castle and they had one child Victoria Anne Elizabeth Gwynne de Rutzen who succeeded His widow Baroness de Rutzen married on 8th October 1947 The Hon. Randal Plunket later the 19th Lord Dunsany.

1957 de Rutzen Victoria Anne Elizabeth Gwynne parents de Rutzen John Frederick Foley and Sheila Victoria Katrin Philipps married 3rd May 1957 Francis Dashwood eldest son of Sir John Lindsay Dashwood, Baronet.

1913 de Rutzen Emmeline Augusta Louisa married 10th November 1913 Sir Frank Hilliard Newnes - died without issue parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston

1911 de Rutzen Gwendoline Mary - married 10th August 1911 Lieutenant Colonel Reginald Ernest Moffett – Duke of Wellington's Regiment parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston - had children

1877 de Rutzen Alberta Dorothea, died an infant 22nd December 1877 parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston

1903 de Rutzen Violet Francis, parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston married 24th April 1903 . Sir Watkin Randle Kynaston Mainwaring CBE and had children

1818 -1944 de Rutzen Miscellaneous Records

1796 Philipps Mary Dorothea 25 February 1796 the eldest daughter of Rev Edward Philipps and Catherine was married in London on to Phillips Nathaniel 25 February 1796 of Slebech, a prosperous former west Indian planter, as his second wife

1818 Kienitz Francis 1818, July 29 .Certificate from Francis Kienitz esq., His Britannic Majesty's Consul for all the Ports and Cities of Courland, that the Right Honourable Charles Frederick, Baron de Rutzen is son and heir apparent of John Frederick, Baron de Rutzen , . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1822 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1822 a Polish nobleman married Phillips Mary Dorothea daughter and co-heiress Phillips Nathaniel of Slebech Hall Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt

1822 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1822 extract from the register of the parish of Colwich co Stafford recording the marriage of Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea Phillips 1822 Slebech Estate and Family Record

1823 de Rutzen Baroness 1823 Aug 24 Letter from MA Anson at Sudbury to the Baroness de Rutzen concerning her marriage Slebech Estate and Family Record

1826 Gibby James 14 May 1826 born Firhill Slebech Pembrokeshire died July 1859 Wales Married to Jones, Phebe on 29 Oct 1844 at , , Utah Married to Stevenson, Catherine on 26 May 1857 at Salt Lake City Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

1827 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1827 June 9 Baron and Baroness de Rutzen Messrs Hibbert Assignment of the interest on a legacy of £10000 bequeathed to the Baroness de Rutzen by the will of Nathaniel Phillips esq. deceased for securing £315 and £1150

and interest Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Currie William Pitt 1830, Autumn Great Sessions suit between The King on the prosecution of William Pitt Currie of Rosehill (steward of the Slebech estate), plaintiff, and John Llewhellin and others of the parish of Robeston Wathan, defendants, who were charged with assault and riot at a poaching affray at the fishery at Blackpool. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Adams A Major General 1830, July 8 – 1834, Feb. 22. of Holyland Letters from Major General A. Adams of Holyland to the Baron de Rutzen concerning the Tavernspite Turnpike Trust. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 de Rutzen Baroness 1830-1847 Letters addressed to the Baroness de Rutzen from members of her family including MD Phillips her mother Lady Louisa C Lichfield her sister formerly Lady Anson, Lord Anson, C Anson, Luis Anson, W Anson, George Anson, Anne H. Anson, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 de Rutzen Baron 1830 Slebech Slebech MS 2984

1830 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1830 Nov 27 – 1836 May 3 suit in the Exchequer of Pleas Lent Assizes 1836 between William Rowlands master builder of Haverfordwest plaintiff and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen defendant in an action of debt incurred in building a Market place an inn and five houses in the town of Narberth in the years 1830 to 1834 Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1830 September 9 of Slebech Hall - James Nunn of the parish of Minwear yeoman Appointment of the said James Nunn as gamekeeper Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Gibby Elizabeth 18 Apr 1830 born Slebech Pembrokeshire died Mar 1871 Married to Lewis, John on 21 Jan 1859 at Utah Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

1830 Lichfield Louisa C Lady . formerly Lady Anson, Letters addressed to the Baroness de Rutzen from members of her family including M.D. Phillips her mother, Lady Louisa C. Lichfield her sister, formerly Lady Anson, Lord Anson, C. Anson, Luis Anson, W. Anson, George Anson, Anne H. Anson, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Llewhellin John 1830 , Autumn. Great Sessions suit between The King on the prosecution of William Pitt Currie of Rosehill steward of the Slebech estate, plaintiff, and John Llewhellin and others of the parish of Robeston Wathan, defendants, who were charged with assault and riot at a poaching affray at the fishery at Blackpool. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Llewhellin Isaac 3 July 1830 Slebech Labourer Offence Riot and assault on William Pitt Currie, Benjamin Phillips, Stephen Prickett, John Davies Thomas , Page, and Thomas , Rees, Slebech Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

1830 Llewhellin John 3 July 1830 Slebech Labourer Offence Riot and assault on William Pitt Currie, Benjamin Phillips, Stephen Prickett, John Davies Thomas , Page, and Thomas , Rees, Slebech Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

1830 Llewhellin William 3 July 1830 Slebech Labourer Offence Riot and assault on William Pitt Currie, Benjamin Phillips, Stephen Prickett, John Davies Thomas , Page, and Thomas , Rees, Prisoner aged 52, Slebech Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

1830 Llewhellin Thomas 3 July 1830 Slebech Labourer Offence Riot and assault on William Pitt Currie, Benjamin Phillips, Stephen Prickett, John Davies Thomas , Page, and Thomas , Rees, Prisoner aged 19, Slebech Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

1830 Nunn James 1830, September. 9 .Charles Frederick, Baron de Rutzen , of Slebech Hall,James Nunn of the parish of Minwear, yeoman. Appointment of the said James Nunn as gamekeeper. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Philipps Elizabeth circa 1830 Letter of Elizabeth Philipps from London to her cousin Baroness de Rutzen, concerning social life and family matters. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1830 Rodney Daniel 3 July 1830 Slebech Labourer Offence Riot and assault on William Pitt Currie, Benjamin Phillips, Stephen Prickett, John Davies Thomas Page, and Thomas Rees Slebech Verdict No true bill, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

1830 Rodney William 3 July 1830 Slebech Labourer Offence Riot and 3148

assault on William Pitt Currie, Benjamin Phillips, Stephen Prickett, John Davies Thomas Page, and Thomas Rees Slebech Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

1830 Rowlands William 1830, Nov. 27-1836, May 3 .suit in the Exchequer of Pleas Lent Assizes, 1836 between William Rowlands, master builder, of Haverfordwest, plaintiff, and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen , defendant, in an action of debt incurred in building a Market place, an inn and five houses in the town of Narberth in the years 1832 to 1834. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1831 de Rutzen Baron 1831 Jan 27 Priscilla Williams of Templeton parish of Narberth widow The Baron de Rutzen Surrender of a Lease of a messuage and lands being part of Templeton Mountain parish of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1831 Williams Priscilla 1831, Jan. 27 . Priscilla Williams of Templeton, parish of Narberth, widow, The Baron de Rutzen . Surrender of a Lease of a messuage and lands, being part of Templeton Mountain, parish of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1832 de Rutzen Baroness 1832 letter from Mrs M D Phillips of Clynfiew to her daughter the Baroness de Rutzen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1832 Llewellyn John 1832, April 25 .Letters from John Llewellyn of Newhouse to the Baron de Rutzen and another, concerning the threats of the cottagers of Tavern Spite Common over the payment of rent and road-making near Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1833. Michaelmas Term – 1834 April 30 Suit in the King's Bench between the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen plaintiffs and Paul Phillipps defendant concerning a debt in respect of dues and tolls at Narberth Market Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1833-36 Suits in the King's Bench between Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea his wife plaintiffs and Edward Farr defendant in a plea of debt Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 Enright John 1833 Easter and Midsummer. Prosecution in the Quarter Sessions suit Rex on the prosecution of John Davies of Narberth against John Thomas , Thomas Thomas , John Enright and Benjamin Rogers, for riot an assault arising out of the Collection of tolls by the plaintiff in Narberth Market on behalf of the Baron de Rutzen . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 Phillipps Paul 1833, Term – 1834, April 30 Suit in the King's Bench between the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen, plaintiffs, and Paul Phillipps, defendant, concerning a debt in respect of dues and tolls at Narberth Market. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 Rogers Benjamin 1833 , Easter and Midsummer. Prosecution in the Quarter Sessions suit Rex on the prosecution of John Davies of Narberth against John Thomas Thomas Thomas John Enright and Benjamin Rogers for riot an assault arising out of the collection of tolls by the plaintiff in Narberth Market on behalf of the Baron de Rutzen . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 Thomas John 1833 , Easter and Midsummer. Prosecution in the Quarter Sessions suit Rex on the prosecution of John Davies of Narberth against John Thomas , Thomas Thomas , John Enright and Benjamin Rogers, for riot an assault arising out of the Collection of tolls by the plaintiff in Narberth Market on behalf of the Baron de Rutzen . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1833 Thomas Thomas 1833 Carew , Easter and Midsummer. Prosecution in the Quarter Sessions suit Rex on the prosecution of John Davies of Narberth against John Thomas Thomas Thomas John Enright and Benjamin Rogers, for riot an assault arising out of the Collection of tolls by the plaintiff in Narberth Market on behalf of the Baron de Rutzen . Slebech Estate and Family Record

1834 de Rutzen Baron 1834 Spring – 1851 April Suits between the Baron de Rutzen plaintiff and Thomas David, Paul Phillips, Jason Lewis ,Daniel John ,and others concerning the tolls of Narberth Market Slebech Estate and Family Record

1834 de Rutzen Baron 1834 Oct 2 The Baron de Rutzen and the Baroness de Rutzen, Dame Mary Dorothea Phillips of Leamington co Warwick widow relict of Nathaniel Phillips and mother of the said Baroness de Rutzen Lease by virtue of the power reserved in the said Baron de Rutzen of a parcel of ground Market house Market and Fair and buildings including the Lamb and Hog in the town of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1834 Lewis Jason 1834,-1851 April .Suits between the Baron de Rutzen , plaintiff, and Thomas David, Paul Phillips, Jason Lewis Daniel John and others, concerning the tolls of Narberth Market. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1834 Phillips Paul 1834, Spring – 1851, April. Suits between the Baron de Rutzen , plaintiff, and Thomas David, Paul Phillips, Jason Lewis, Daniel John and others, concerning the tolls of Narberth Market. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1834 Phillips Mary Dorothea 1834, Oct. 2 The Baron de Rutzen and the Baroness de Rutzen, Dame Mary Dorothea Phillips of Leamington, co. Warwick, widow, relict of Nathaniel Phillips and mother of the said Baroness de Rutzen. Lease, by virtue of the power reserved in the said Baron de Rutzen , of a parcel of ground, Market house, Market and Fair, and buildings including the Lamb and Hog, in the town of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1835

Anson Augustus Henry Archibald Captain The Hon. VC born Slebech Hall 1835
5 March 1835 born at Slebech Hall. Captain The Hon. VC the son of the 1st Earl of Lichfield, and a native of Slebech Hall Pembrokeshire. His mother Lady Louisa C. Lichfield [nee Phillips] was sister of the Baroness de Rutzen and co-heiress of the Slebech estate. He was serving as a Captain in the 84th (later the York & Lancaster) Regiment when he performed the deeds for which he was awarded the Victoria Cross.

Augustus later achieved the rank of lieutenant colonel and was for some time Member of Parliament for BewdLey. He died at the age of 42, on 17 December 1877, in Cannes, France, and was buried at Cimitiere Protestant du Grand Jus, Cannes. His full medal entitlement were the Victoria Cross,

Crimea Medal (1854-56) (Clasp Sebastopol),

Indian Mutiny Medal (1857-58) (Clasps Delhi, relief of Lucknow, Lucknow), 2nd China War Medal (1857-60) (Clasps Taku Forts 1860, Pekin 1860),

Order of the Medjidieh (5th Class) (Turkey),

Turkish Crimea Medal (1855-56)

1835 de Rutzen Baron and the Baroness de Rutzen 1835 Dec 29-30 John May of Nash parish of Minwear farmer Baron de Rutzen and the Baroness de Rutzen Lease and Release of Nash and Cott parish of Minwear Slebech Estate and Family Record

1835 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1835 Dec 30 Evans William of 3151

Haverfordwest gent Conveyance of leasehold hereditaments in the parish of Minwear Slebech Estate and Family Record

1835 Gibby William 18 Dec 1835 born Slebech Pembrokeshire died 29 Aug 1910 Salt Lake City Salt Lake Utah Left on 7 Dec 1854 aboard the Clara Wheeler Arrived in New Orleans on 11 Jan 1855 Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

1835 May John 1835, Dec. 29-30 .John May of Nash, parish of Minwear, farmer, Baron de Rutzen and the Baroness de Rutzen. Lease and Release of Nash and Cott, parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 de Rutzen Baroness 1836 Oct 3 The foundation stone of the new Slebech Church was laid by the Baroness de Rutzen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 de Rutzen Baron 1836 Aug 6 Mary Dorothea Phillips late of Leamington co Warwick now of Clarges Street co Middlesex widow Baron de Rutzen , George Hibbert and others of Billiter Court London merchants Assignment of the Lease Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1836 Summer Assizes King's Bench Suit between the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen plaintiffs and Thomas Morris of Haverfordwest huckster defendant for the recovery of debt in respect of tolls at Narberth Market Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen 1836 April 19 Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen of Slebech Hall The Rev. William Lloyd clerk rector of Narberth and Jonathan Rogers Powell of Haverfordwest gent Declaration of trust in the White Hart Inn Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 Morris Thomas 1836 , Summer Assizes. King's Bench Suit between the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen, plaintiffs and Thomas Morris of Haverfordwest, huckster, defendant, for the recovery of debt in respect of tolls at Narberth Market. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 Philipps Grismond 1836, April 18-19 Dame Katherine Mathias of Haverfordwest, widow, William Evans of the same, gent., and Cecilia his wife, Grismond Philipps late of Croft Cottage but now of Cwmgwilly, co. Carmarthen, esq., and Thomas Lloyd late of Haverfordwest but now of Millbank Cottage, esq., William Lloyd , clerk, rector of Narberth, and Jonathan Rogers Powell of Haverfordwest, gent. Lease and Release Appointment and Conveyance of the White Hart Inn in Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 Phillips Mary Dorothea 1836, Aug. 6 Mary Dorothea Phillips late of Leamington, co. Warwick, now of Clarges Street, co. Middlesex, widow, Baron de Rutzen , and George Hibbert and others of Billiter Court, London, merchants. Assignment of the Lease Slebech Estate and Family Record

1836 Powell Jonathan Rogers 1836, April 19 Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen of Slebech Hall, The Rev. William Lloyd , clerk, rector of Narberth, and Jonathan Rogers Powell of Haverfordwest, gent. Declaration of trust in the White Hart Inn, Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1837 de Rutzen Baron and the Baroness de Rutzen 1837 April 15 Martha Evans of the Rutzen Arms Inn in the town of Narberth widow and innkeeper Baron de Rutzen and the Baroness de Rutzen Assignment of household goods and furniture in the Rutzen Arms Inn with inventory to secure arrears of rent Slebech Estate and Family Record

1837 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1837 Nov 24-25 Sir John Owen of Orielton Bart Baron and Baroness de Rutzen, Samuel Hibbert and George Hibbert of Billiter Court London esquires Lease and Release of lands in the parish of Minwear Slebech Estate and Family Record

1837 de Rutzen --Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen his wife title to land in the parish of Narberth intended to be conveyed to the Guardians of the Poor of Narberth Union for the purpose of erecting a workhouse thereon Slebech Estate and Family Record

1837 Owen John of Orielton, 1837, Nov. 24-25 . Sir John Owen of Orielton, Bart., Baron and Baroness de Rutzen, Samuel Hibbert and George Hibbert of Billiter Court, London, esquires. Lease and Release of lands in the parish of Minwear. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1837 Williams J 1837, Dec. 5 .Statement by the Rev. J. Williams of the tithe belonging to him as perpetual curate of the parish of Slebech. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1838 Anson Edward 1838, Oct. 3 funeral sermon of Edward Anson, esq., at Slebech Slebech Estate and Family Record

1839 de Rutzen Baroness 1839 May 19 Letter from Frederick Anson of Sudbury Uttoxeter to the Baroness de Rutzen concerning his new living in Lincolnshire Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1840 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron --Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen of Slebech Hall and Mary Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen his wife, Inigo William
Jones esq. a captain in Her Majesty's 11th Regiment of Hussars Lease Mortgage for securing £3000 and interest of messuages and lands called the Slebech Estate and other messuages etc in the parishes of Slebech Minwear and Martlehoy Slebech Estate and Family Record

1841 de Rutzen Baron 1841 September 27 John Lewis of Minwere House parish of Minwere farmer Baron de Rutzen William Evans of Haverfordwest gent Conveyance of the leasehold messuage and lands called Minwere House in the parish of Minwere upon trust to secure an Annuity of £60 to the said John Lewis during the life of Mr Davies and subject thereto in trust to the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1842 Anson Lord 1842, April .Letter from Lord Anson to the Baroness de Rutzen concerning his journey from Naples to London. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1842 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1842 September 16 Evan Phillips of Low Toch parish of Slebech farmer Baron and Baroness de Rutzen deed of Covenant for payment of an Annual sum of £12 in lieu of tithes during the continuance of the Lease of Low Toch Slebech
Estate and Family Record

1843 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1843 July 29 Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen his wife formerly Mary Dorothea Phillips spinster, Onley Savill Onley of Stisted Hall co Essex esq. Mortgage for securing £1500 and interest of the estate of the said Baroness and the Assignment of a policy of assurance on her life Slebech Estate and Family Record

1844 de Rutzen Mary Dorothea Baroness 1844 June 28 Charles
Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea his wife William Liddiard of Streatham co Surrey esq. Grant of the next presentation to the rectory of Yerbeston Slebech Estate and Family
Record

1846 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1846 July 28 Baron and Baroness de Rutzen Frederick Baron de Rutzen William Elliot Oliver Conveyance to bar the entail and make a new settlement of estates devised by the will of Nathaniel Phillips esq. deceased Slebech Estate and Family Record

1848 de Rutzen Baron and Baroness 1848 September 5 Baron and Baroness de Rutzen Thomas Hodges of Trewynt parish of LLawhaden Agreement for the tenancy of Minwear Lodge and Minwear House Farms parish of Minwear Slebech Estate and Family Record

1850 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1850 Dec 7 Agreement between George Lort Phillips of Ashdale esq. and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen for the exchange of North Newton in the parish of Newton for another estate more convenient to the Lawrenny estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 Davies James 1851 Feb 20 Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and his wife James Davies of Narberth draper Lease for 60 years of a piece of land in the town of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 de Rutzen Baron 1851-1853 suit in the Exchequer of Pleas between the Baron de Rutzen plaintiff and John Lewis defendant for the recovery of debt Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1851 Aug 21 George Lort Phillips of Ashdale esq. John Henry Philipps of Williamston esq. James Higgon of Scolton esq. and the Rev. William Roch of Herbrandston clerk Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen Agreement for the sale of the messuage and lands called North Newton parish of Newton Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron and his wife 1851 Feb 20, Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and his wife James Davies of Narberth draper Lease for 60 years of a piece of land in the town of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 Mansel Thomas 1851, Aug. 21 – 1852 .Contract between Thomas Mansel, esq., and the Baron de Rutzen for the sale of messuages and lands in the parish of Minwear, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 Mansel Thomas 1852, April 24 .Thomas Mansel of the town of Pembroke, surgeon, and Eliza his wife, John miles of Templeton, gent.,Baron de Rutzen , Baroness de Rutzen and the eldest son of the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen, Lionel Oliver of the Inner Temple, London, esq., barrister at law. Conveyance of messuages and lands in the parish of Minweare. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1851 Miles John 1851-1852 . title of Thomas Mansel and John Miles, esq., to certain messuages and hereditaments in the parish of Minwear, with requisitions and observations thereon. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1852 de Rutzen Baron 1852 April 24 Thomas Mansel of the town of Pembroke surgeon and Eliza his wife John Miles of Templeton gent Baron de Rutzen , Baroness de Rutzen and the eldest son of the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen Lionel Oliver of the Inner Temple London esq. barrister at law Conveyance of messuages and lands in the parish of Minweare Slebech Estate and Family Record

1852 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron1852 Dec 9 Mary Dorothea de Rutzen and Frederick Leopold Sapieha Manteuffel de Rutzen Baron de Frenz of Slebech Hall the eldest son of the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen, Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen Mortgage of a messuage called North Newton and lands in the parishes of Newton and Minwear as Collateral security for £5500 and interest Slebech Estate and Family Record

1852 Miles John 1852, April 24 .Thomas Mansel of the town of Pembroke, surgeon, and Eliza his wife, John Miles of Templeton, gent.,Baron de Rutzen ,Baroness de Rutzen and the eldest son of the Baron and Baroness de Rutzen,Lionel Oliver of the Inner Temple, London, esq., barrister at law. Conveyance of messuages and lands in the parish of Minweare. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1852 Oliver Lionel 1852, April 17 .George Lort Phillips of Ashdale, esq.,Lionel Oliver of Inner Temple London, esq.. Covenant for the production of title deeds of North Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1853 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1853 Oct 11 Mary Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen and her son Frederick Leopold de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen ,George Carr Glyn and Boyce Comb esq. uires and Sir Isaac Lyon GoldSmith Bart Mortgage of North Newton and lands in the parishes of Newton and Minwear as Collateral security for £2000 and interest Slebech Estate and Family Record

de Rutzen Eugene Ferdinand 1853 March 23 had been dismissed from Navy

1853 Memorial of Eugene Ferdinand de Rutzen to the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty requesting to be restated in the Navy after dismissal Slebech Estate and Family Record

1853

de Rutzen Mary Dorothea Baroness 1853 Oct 11 Mary

Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen and her son Frederick Leopold de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen , George Carr Glyn and Boyce Comb esquires and Sir Isaac Lyon GoldSmith Bart Mortgage of North Newton and lands in the parishes of Newton and Minwear as Collateral security for £2000 and interest Slebech Estate and Family Record

1854

de Rutzen Baron 1854 Oct 7 John Colby of Ffynnone esq. Baron de Rutzen , Baroness de Rutzen, Lionel Oliver of the Inner Temple esq. Conveyance of a piece of woodland in the parish of Robeston Wathan in trust for the Baroness de Rutzen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1856 Appointment of a receiver of the Slebech estate with schedules of rents de Rutzen Baron 1856 Feb 1 Mary Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen and her son Frederic Leopold, The Baron de Rutzen , Inigo William Jones of Ludford House near Ludlow co Salop esq. and Henry Richmond Jones esq. Andrew Colvile of Fenchurch Buildings London Merchant Daniel Mildred of Nicholas Lane Lombard Street banker George Hibbert of Billiter Court London Merchant James Gordon Murdoch of HayMarket banker Sir Jervoise Clarke Jervoise of Idsworth co Southampton Bart Sir William Wellesley Knighton of Blendworth co Southampton Bart and John Malcolm of Lamorby co Kent esq. William Elliot Oliver of New Bridge Street in the city of London esq.. Appointment of a receiver of the Slebech estate with schedules of rents

Slebech Estate and Family Record

1857

de Rutzen Baroness 1857 May 9 George Washington Sheriff of Friday Street in the city of London esq. Baroness de Rutzen and her son Frederic Leopold Baron de Rutzen , William Elliott Oliver of New Bridge Street London gent Appointment and Conveyance in fee of the rectory of Newton to the uses specified therein Slebech Estate and Family Record

1857 de Rutzen Charles Frederick Baron 1857 Feb 27 John William Liddiard of Streatham co Surrey esq. Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and Mary Dorothea Baroness de Rutzen Grant of the next presentation to the rectory of Yerbeston upon the same becoming vacant during the life of the said Baroness de Rutzen Slebech Estate and Family Record

1857

Thomas Reece Thomas 1857, Nov. 26 .Baroness de Rutzen and

Frederic Baron de Rutzen , Charles Baron de Rutzen , Thomas Reece Thomas of Lampeter House, esq., William Elliot Oliver of New Bridge Street, London, gent. Exchange of lands in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1858 de Rutzen Baron 1858 June 15 The Right Honourable John Frederick Earl of Cawdor of Stackpole Court and the Honourable John Frederick Vaughan Campbell, Baron de Rutzen, Baroness de Rutzen and Frederic Leopold her son Lionel Oliver of the Inner Temple esq. Conveyance of the advowson of the Church of Loveston parish of Loveston Slebech Estate and Family Record

1858 de Rutzen Charles Baron 1858 April? 30 Baroness de Rutzen and Frederic Baron de Rutzen her eldest son Charles Baron de Rutzen Frederic Baron de Rutzen and William Elliot Oliver Appointment and further Declaration of trust respecting policies of assurance assigned by trust deed d 1 Feb 1856 Slebech Estate and Family Record

1858 Oliver Lionel 1858, June 15 .The Right Honourable John Frederick, Earl of Cawdor of Stackpole Court, and the Honourable John Frederick Vaughan Campbell, Baron de Rutzen ,Baroness de Rutzen and Frederic Leopold her son.Lionel Oliver of the Inner Temple, esq.. Conveyance of the advowson of the Church of Loveston, parish of Loveston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1860 the Baroness de Rutzen fell ill and died on 14th June She was buried privately in the vault in Slebech new Church and the remains of her father, at her request, were removed from the old parish Church and placed near her in the vault On August 2nd 1860 this was done

1860 de Rutzen Baron 1860 July 25. Letter from John Edmond, Haverfordwest to the Baron de Rutzen concerning the bed in the vault Slebech Estate and Family Record

1860 de Rutzen Baron 1860 September 3 – 1861 Dec 13 Bill Of Costs Of W.E. and F.W. Oliver in connection with the will of the Baron de Rutzen and the Grant of space for interment in the vault of Slebech Church Slebech Estate and Family Record

1861 de Rutzen Frederick LSM Baron 1861 Will of Frederick LSM Baron de Rutzen Slebech Estate And Family Record

1862 de Rutzen Baron Frederick 1862 Jan 2 Baron de Rutzen Baron Frederick de Rutzen Assignment of furniture and effects at Slebech Park Slebech Estate and Family Record

1864 Lascelles A.H 1864, April 13 .Agreement between A.H. Lascelles of Narberth, gent., and the Baron de Rutzen , regarding the tenure of a shop in Market Street, Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1866 de Rutzen Baron Frederick 1866 March 27 Baron Frederick de Rutzen of Slebech Hall Wyndham Pike of Slebech Hall gamekeeper and William Hood of Forest Lodge parish of Minwear Appointment of the said Wyndham Pike and William Hood as gamekeepers Slebech Estate and Family Record

1871 de Rutzen Baron Frederick 1871 Oct 14 Baron Frederick de Rutzen of Slebech Hall Wyndham Pike of Slebech and George Freeman of Church Park parish of Newton Appointment of the said Wyndham Pike and George Freeman as gamekeepers Slebech Estate and Family Record

1871 de Rutzen Frederick Leopold Baron 1871 of Slebech Hall son of Baron Charles Frederick de Rutzen High Sheriff and has a son Albert de Rutzen, Albert married Horatia Augusta Gulston eldest daughter of Dirleton Carmarthenshire Slebech Estate and Family Record

1873 de Rutzen Baron 1873 Aug 30 The Baron de Rutzen Daniel Davies Lease of the messuage and lands called Barn parish of Templeton Slebech Estate and Family Record

1873 Davies Daniel 1873 Aug 30 the Baron de Rutzen Daniel Davies Lease of the messuage and lands called Barn parish of Templeton Slebech Estate and Family Record

1874 Baron Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen died in Dresden 15th August 1874. His remains were brought back to Slebech and placed in the vault alongside those of his wife. He was succeeded by his eldest son Baron de Rutzen Frederick Leopold Sapieha Manteuffel who died 20th May 1890 age 64, never married,

1877 de Rutzen Frederic Leopold SM Baron 1877 April 30 .Will of Baron Frederic Leopold SM Baron de Rutzen of Slebech Park Slebech Estate and Family Record

1877 Landon W.H 1877, April Rev. Evidence taken by the Commissioners appointed to enquire into the proposed resignation of the Rev. W.H. Landon and the value of the living of Slebech cum Minwere and Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1878 de Rutzen Baron 1878 July 4 The Baron de Rutzen , John Lewis of Saundersfoot hotel- keeper Lease for 21 years of the Rutzen Arms hotel Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1880 de Rutzen Baron 1880 Aug – 1881 Nov 15 Letters from Sir CEG Philipps of Picton Castle to the Baron de Rutzen concerning the family pew in the new Slebech Church Slebech Estate and Family Record

1883 de Rutzen Rudolph 1883 July 31 Passport for Rudolph de Rutzen to travel on the continent Slebech Estate and Family Record

1888 de Rutzen Baron 1888 Aug 15 Baron de Rutzen George Macken of Market Gate parish of Jeffreyston farmer Agreement for letting Minwear Farm Slebech Estate and Family Record

1890 Baron de Rutzen Rudolph William Henry Ehrard inherited born Brighton 6th September 1828, a barrister of the inner Temple 1864, High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1895 died unmarried on 18th April 1915 parents Mary Dorothea and Charles Frederick Baron de Rutzen and was succeeded by his nephew Alan

1890 de Rutzen Emmeline Charlotte Catherine 1890 20 Nov will of de Rutzen Emmeline Charlotte Catherine Slebech Estate and Family Record

1893 de Rutzen Baron 1893 Baron de Rutzen, Edward Field of Hazelhurst Gravesend co Kent and James W Thompson of Edinburgh Agreement for a Mortgage of £36000 on the Slebech estate Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 Davies John 1896 March 31 Baron de Rutzen John Davies of the 3160

Barn Farm parish of Narberth South farmer. Conveyance of Stoney Leys and Barn Farm and the 'Boars Head' public house parish of Narberth South Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 de Rutzen Baron 1896 April 25 Albert Richard Francis Maximilian de Rutzen and others Baron de Rutzen James Lewis Hamilton Williams of Narberth spirit Merchant. Conveyance of the Rutzen Arms and other hereditaments in the town of Narberth Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian 1896 May 26 Albert Richard Francis Maximilian de Rutzen of 90 St George Square co Middlesex esq. and F.W. Oliver solicitor Rudolph William Henry Erhard de Rutzen, Baron de Rutzen ,William Edward Jenkins of Market Street Narberth. Conveyance of the Masonic Hall Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 de Rutzen Rudolph William Henry Erhard Baron 1896 Oct 24. Will of Rudolph William Henry Erhard Baron de Rutzen of Slebech Park Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 de Rutzen Rudolph William Henry Erhard 1896 May 26 Albert Richard Francis Maximilian de Rutzen of 90 St George Square co Middlesex esq. and F.W. Oliver solicitor ,Rudolph William Henry Erhard de Rutzen Baron de Rutzen ,William Edward Jenkins of Market Street Narberth Conveyance of the Masonic Hall Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 Jenkins William Edward 1896, May 26 .Albert Richard Francis Maximilian de Rutzen of 90 St. George Square, co. Middlesex, esq., and F.W. Oliver, solicitor, Rudolph William Henry Erhard de Rutzen, Baron de Rutzen ,William Edward Jenkins of Market Street, Narberth Conveyance of the Masonic Hall Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 Oliver F.W. 1896, May 26 .Albert Richard Francis Maximilian de Rutzen of 90 St. George Square, co. Middlesex, esq., and F.W. Oliver, solicitor, Rudolph William Henry Erhard de Rutzen, Baron de Rutzen ,William Edward Jenkins of Market Street, Narberth. Conveyance of the Masonic Hall Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1896 Williams James Lewis Hamilton 1896, April 25 .Albert Richard Francis Maximilian de Rutzen and others, Baron de Rutzen , James Lewis Hamilton Williams of Narberth, spirit Merchant. Conveyance of the Rutzen Arms and other hereditaments in the town of Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1899 de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian Baron 1899
September 28 Appointment of Edward Eaton Evans as trustee of the will of Baron de Rutzen
Slebech Estate and Family Record

1915 de Rutzen Alan Fredrick James born 4th July 1876 succeeded to Slebech on the death of his uncle Baron Rudolph in 1915. Serving abroad in Middle East as Lieutenant in Pembrokeshire Yeomanry – Transferred to Imperial Camel Corp. Killed at the battle of Kattia in the Sinai desert 7th August 1916 Had married Eleanor Atna Audley Thursby Pelham on 28th April 1908. His parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston.

1916 de Rutzen John Frederick Foley parents de Rutzen Albert Richard Francis Maximilian and Horatia Augusta Stepney Gulston born 27th January 1909 inherited Slebech estate 7th August 1916. Served in the Welsh Guards during World War 2 as a Major and died in action in Italy. 1944 He had married on 28th July 1932 Sheila Victoria Katrin Philipps, daughter of Sir Henry Philipps of Picton Castle and they had one child Victoria Anne Elizabeth Gwynne de Rutzen who succeeded His widow Baroness de Rutzen married on 8th October 1947 The Hon Randal Plunket later the 19th Lord Dunsany.

1944 de Rutzen Victoria Anne Elizabeth Gwynne parents de Rutzen John Frederick Foley and Sheila Victoria Katrin Philipps married 3rd May 1957 Francis Dashwood eldest son of Sir John Lindsay Dashwood, Baronet.

Descendants managed both estates and in 2003 owners Geoffrey and Georgina Philipps created a £4m business and leisure development converted the 18th Century coach house in Slebech Park into a 26 bedroom conference and exhibition centre. It was the first project in Pembrokeshire to attract European Objective One funding and was also funded by the Welsh Development Agency (WDA) and the Wales Tourist Board. (Slebech Hall Brochure)

1560 – 1803? Barlows of Lawrenny History and Records

1560 Barlow William the younger brother of George commenced the Lawrenny line. 1560 – 1636

1612 Barlow William 1612 of Criswell (Christwell – Creswell) He was a member of the Slebech family and married Elizabeth the daughter of John ap Rhys of Rickeston High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1612

1640 Barlow William of Criswell (Cresswell) son of Sheriff 1612 – High Sheriff 1640

1641 Barlowe Lewis 1641, Oct. 11 John Barlow of Slebech, esq.,Lewis Barlowe of Creswell, esq.. Lease for 14 years of woods and trees growing on two parcels of ground in the parishes of Martheltwy Wood and Foxenholes. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1657 Barlowe Lewis 1657/8, Feb. 20 John Barlowe late of Slebege, esq., and now of Abbey-doore, co. Hereford, Lewis Barlowe gent., fifth son of the said John Barlowe. Lease for 99 years of a messuage called New House formerly Redd Castle, parish of Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 Barlowe Lewis of Cresswell, 1662, Oct. 20 Johan Barlowe of Slebech, widow, relict of George Barlowe, esq., deceased, late son and heir apparent of John Barlowe of Slebech, esq.,The said John Barlowe, their third Lewis Barlowe of Cresswell, esq., Rowland Wogan of Wyston, esq.. William Barlowe, son David Lloyd ,Covenant to stand seised of messuages and lands all which said messuages and lands were formerly the lands of David Lloyd , esq., deceased, father of the said Johan Barlowe from whom the said third part descended to the said Johan Barlowe as one of the co-heirs of the said David Lloyd , to the use of the said Johan Barlowe for her life and then to use of John Barlowe, son and heir of George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe with remainder to George Barlowe and Johan Barlowe, William Barlowe their third son, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1667 Barlow Lewis of Criswell (Cresswell) 1667 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1672 Barlowe Lewis 1672, June 6 William Barlowe and Lewis Barlowe of Minweare ,Henry Williams. Lease for a year of Properties Slebech Estate and Family Record

1686 Barlow John of Criswell (Christ's well) Cresselly 1686 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1703 Barlow John the elder 1703/4, Jan. 20. Sir George Barlow of Slebech, Bart., John Barlow of Lawreny, the elder, esq., and Owen Ford of Berry, parish of Nevern, esq., John Barlow of Slebech the younger, esq., brother of the said Sir George Barlow . Grant of a messuage and lands Slebech Estate and Family Record

1705 Barlow John 1705 of Lawrenny High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1715 Barlow John 1715, Nov. 18-19 John Barlow of Laurennny, esq., John Laugharne of Pontvane, esq., and John Vaughan of Trecoone, esq., John Barlow of Slebech, esq.. Lease and Release of two messuages and lands called Llangwathen and Whittley, and Llangwathen Mill, parish of Lampiter Welfry, a messuage and lands in the parish of Harbrainston, and a messuage and lands at Pill, parish of Stainton, in trust until John Barlow of Slebech pays certain moneys, etc. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1729 Barlow Anne 1729 daughter of John Barlow of Lawrenny married Owen Wyrriot of Nash He was Pembroke Mayor 1729, 40 53

1753 Barlow Hugh 1753, Nov. 16 Alexander Elliot of Earewere, esq., and Elizabeth Elliot his wife, Hugh Barlow of Lawrenny, esq., and Wyrriott Owen of Nash, esq., John Lort of Prickerston, esq., and William Williams of Tenby, esq.. Deed Of revocation of uses in the marriage articles of Alexander Eliot and Elizabeth Elliott his wife to the former's estate in the parishes of St. Issells, Amroth and Narberth. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1764 Barlow Elizabeth 1764, July 19-September. 3 dispute between Mrs. Elizabeth Barlow of Lawrenny and William Trevannion, esq., touching the boundary of Min wear wood in the parish of Newton, Slebech Estate and Family Record

1775 Barlow Dorothy daughter of John Barlow of Lawrenny married John Lort of Prickeston from the marriage of their daughter Elizabeth with Dr. George Phillips of Haverfordwest come the present family of Lort-Phillips at Lawrenny

1803 Barlow Hugh 1803, Dec. 30 Hugh Barlow of Lawrenny Hall esq., David Protheroe of North Newton, parish of Newton, farmer. Lease of the messuage and lands called North Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1841 Philipps John Henry 1841, March –George Lort Phillips of DumpleDale, Isabella Georgina Allen of Cresselly, spinster, John Hensleigh Allen of Cresselly, esq., Seymour Phillips Allen of Cresselly, esq., Henry George Allen of Lincolns Inn, esq., George Roch of Butterhill, esq., John Henry Philipps of Williamston, esq., and Henry George Fownes of the Middle Temple, London, esq., barrister at law, now residing in Haverfordwest. Settlement on the marriage of the said George Lort Phillips and Isabella Georgina Allen of the Lawrenny estate. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1662 – 1791 Barlow of Colby history and records

David Lloyd of Cilciffeth married Mary daughter of John Wogan of Wiston David Lloyd was mayor of Wiston in 1628 and died on Oct 4th 1631 their fourth daughter married 3 times the first being George Barlow of Minwear and Slebech whose administration was granted her on 17th July 1662. Their eldest son John Barlow, on whom his mother had settled her estates in 1662 also inherited his fathers estate of Slebech and was created a Baronet in 1677. He married Katherine Middleton and had 3 sons.

1708 The eldest George succeeded to the Properties but by 1708 had accumulated debts to the tune of over £8000 and to resolve his difficulties he conveyed the estates to his brother

John Barlow who lived at Colby in Wiston Parish and Clarges St London. They had an only child according to her Mother a poor nervous creature delicate, pious, who played the harpsichord and enjoyed a rent roll of £5000 per annum.

1758 Catherine Barlow, the sole heiress married

1758 Sir William Hamilton who became HM Envoy Extraordinary to the court of Naples. She died without issue and her estates passed to her Husband

1791 he married again to Amy Lyon alias Emma Hart. Sir William died in 1803 and is buried near his first wife in the Barlow vault at Slebech Church. Sir William had a sister who married Francis 1st Earl of Warwick whose second son,

1803 Charles Francis Greville, acted as agent for his uncles Pembrokeshire estates he founded the town of Milford and it was to him Sir William left the estates. He died unmarried in 1809 and the property passed to his next brother,

1809 Robert Fulke Greville who died in 1824 leaving the property to his son and heir

1824 Colonel Robert Fulke Murray Greville. In 1831 he unsuccessfully contested the county parliamentary seat against Owen of Orielton and amassed enormous debts. He left the area hurriedly and did not return for 20 years. He died in 1867 at Pier House Milford

.....

The later Church of St John the Baptist Slebech

1844 The three perpetual curacies of Slebech, Minwear, and Newton were united under an Order

Baron had Minwear de roofed.

1848 The new Church of Slebech was consecrated

1851 Slebech Parish Church Erected in January 1848 in lieu of an old Parish Church W D Landon, Perpetual Curate

1904 On 3 Feb., 1904, a faculty was granted for the carrying out of certain alterations and improvements in the parish Church.

1923 RCAM The Parish Church Church dedicated to St John the Baptist. The present parish Church with its appointments, is a modern building. It contains two effigies that have been removed from the earlier parish Church, which was deliberately ruined and deserted by the first Baron de Rutzen about the commencement of the 19th century

1929 Parish entry for Slebech with Newton North from The Welsh Church Year Book, 1929 St John

Baptist & Church in ruins, Newton North ;Incumbent and Curates; W H Barnes

1991 The new Slebech Church which stands alongside the A40,dates from 1844 and is now closed due, a report states, to subsidence and was up for sale. It was peculiar in that it was not built in the normal east-west configuration.

1992 St John The Baptist Church Slebech opened 1848 RCAHWW

1. Replaced med. & later Church by Slebech Hall

2. wall paintings; 1992 notes by A.J. Parkinson refer to decoration in the chancel, and a coat of arms in north Chapel.

3. wallpaintings

[1] Royal Arms on boards, 19thC.

[2] patterning - Decoration on the ashlar of the chancel arch: on the west chamfer, elaborate running scroll-work in red; on the soffit, similar in blue; on the East chamfer, in red.

Chancel roof: black IHS with red outline, surrounded by elaborate green foliage with red berries. Red lining on the ribs, gilt bosses.

North Chapel: de Rutzen coat of arms painted on the central boss of the ceiling.

Reset medieval tomb (North Chapel) has traces of paint: the lady has yellow hair, gilt necklace. The stonework of the East window may have been reused from the old Church, likewise the Roundels of the Evangelists (18th C?) in the glass.

Two stained glass memorial windows: North wall of nave (1896), Good Shepherd; South Chapel (1894), Christ stilling the storm.

Roof trusses - heavy queen-post roofs of 'industrial' type.

2008 Tomb disturbed in Slebech Church

9:20am Tuesday 15th April 2008 in News

Police are appealing for Witnesses after the Church in Slebech has been broken into and a tomb disturbed.

Vandals gained entry to the Church sometime before yesterday (Monday) evening. Police say that one of the tombs in the crypt has been disturbed.

The Church in Slebech, famous for having been built the wrong way round, is privately owned and used for storage.

Slebech Church was for sale for several years in the 1990s. The asking price was £130,000. The structure was deteriorating and vandalised, eventually it was sold for a very nominal sum to a someone who was going to use it as a craft workshop or similar.

Description according to the sale notice

St. John the Baptist Church, Slebech is a substantial Grade II Listed, 2 storey building which is in need of renovation and modernisation work and situated in the hamlet of Slebech, within 6 miles or so of Haverfordwest. The Church has considerable potential for either residential or commercial uses (subject to any necessary change of use and/or Planning Consents). Properties of this nature are rarely available

Hall with staircase to small room, electric meter and fuse box, window, strong room and door leading into main place of worship.

The Former Place Of Worship an extremely large room, no doubt the main feature of this property, retaining full height ceilings with many original features to include attractive stained glass windows, fireplaces, door and balcony leading to the Tower.

Rear Lobby. A square sized room beneath the tower. The Tower stairs lead up towards the tower.

Externally Access is approached via a gated entrance through the lay-by where a right of way is enjoyed leading towards the Church. To the fore, is an attractive garden, mainly laid to lawn with numerous shrubberies.

Boiler Room a pathway leads to the old boiler room situated in the basement.

The Crypt comprising waiting room and inner door leading into 7 bays used many years ago for burial approached from the north east end.

according to "The Buildings of Wales - Pembrokeshire" the Church was closed in 1990 due to subsidence It was built 1838-40 for Baron de Rutzen because the original Church "brought the local rustics too close to his private domain" [Slebech Hall]. Only handed over to the Church of England ,with reluctance, in 1848 after which it was consecrated.

The monuments brought from the old Church, and other fittings are now in the county museum Scolton Manor.

Nonconformist Chapels:

Zion, near South Dairy [Baptists, 1832].Erected in 1833 David Jenkins, Minister, Dollaston
Wiston Parish 1851 , restored 1890 Still open 1998

South Dairy Baptist Chapel was built in 1832, restored in 1899, further improvements carried out in 1902 and a porch added in 1977. The present Chapel, dated 1899, is built in the Vernacular style with a long-wall entry plan. South dairy is now Grade 2 Listed for its fine interior and late nineteenth century fittings RCAHMW

Millin Cross Methodist Chapel was built in 1866 in the Vernacular style with a gable entry plan. Millin Cross is now Grade 2 Listed as an attractively designed wayside Chapel with a simple unaltered interior. RCAHMW

Millin Cross, in Millin Cross [Calvinistic Methodists, 1866] Still open in 2000

The State of Education in Wales 1847 – The Parish of Slebech

Rose Hill School – This school is held in an old blacksmith's shop converted into a schoolroom by the Baron de Rutzen, the chief supporter of the school. The schoolroom is in tolerably good repair, and there is a house for the master adjoining it. The school is open to all denominations. The Baron pays £6 a year for teaching his labourers' children, and gives a house, with culm, valued at £3 to the master.

The furniture consists of one desk for the master, two large desks, four benches, a large map of the world, and a map of England and Wales.

The master was an intelligent man, and highly praised by the patroness, who takes great interest in the school

Being New Years Day the scholars were not present, but were being regaled with dinner and tea to the number of 22 at Slebech Hall.

The Rev. W H Landon, Incumbent of Slebech, informed me that there is no other day school in the parish than the above. The population is small. There is hardly a cottage in the parish which has not been supplied with Bibles, Testaments and Prayer books by the Incumbent.

The character of the people upon the whole is very good; not a single individual of this parish, nor of the parishes of Newton and Minwear, has been committed for any crime since the Incumbent resided at Slebech. Labourers get 7s a week on their own finding; farm servants on an average £4 and female servants £3 a year. There is no Church Sunday-school for them to attend

January 1st 1847 Wm Morris Assistant

Iron mining and working Blackpool- Mill and Iron works

Till recently this was believed to be one of the earliest sites if not the earliest of Iron Smelting in

Pembrokeshire

In 2006 a report was published on Archaeological discoveries at South Hook Pembrokeshire on a site being developed for a Gas Terminal.

Evidence was found of slag from an iron smelting site

The report states that “The South Hook assemblage is of enormous significance for there are extremely few other iron smelting sites known from this period (8-10th century) in Britain and none to date in this part of the country. (Evaluation of archaeometallurgical residues from South Hook LNG terminal, Dyfed (52787) Dr T.P. Young)

According to Claughton (Iron Ores of Pembrokeshire 1976)

Iron ore is known in Pembrokeshire in fairly small quantities from several distinct sources: Iron carbonate nodules from the Coal Measures have been mined extensively in the Saundersfoot area and also have been interpreted to have been the source of ore for the 17th century Canaston forge

However iron ores are found locally in small pockets with the deposits also seem to occur to the north of the coalfield, with occurrences of ochre noted near Haverfordwest. At Minwear, another small iron ore deposit was worked in the 17th century. This would be very close to the Canaston Forge

1811 Fenton

By another shady avenue through the woods I then descend to Blackpool, for many years noted as a great iron forge and fishery, rented of Slebech, where in the season a vast number of Salmon and sewen, are taken.

Of what value the forge is now to the estate I know not, but above a century ago in Sir George Barlow's time, a Mr Wheele, the then tenant was to pay for it, and an annual supply of 800 cords of wood , at nine shillings a cord, the sum of £412 per annum.

The woody tract of Canaston was appropriated for many years to the maintenance of the iron forge at Blackpool, and admitted of a certain portion being annually cut for ever; for by the time the whole was gone over, thus parcelled in regular rotation, the first cutting was fit for the axe; but of late years, on the transfer of the Slebech estate, the whole forest, without any reserve, from an over anxiousness of gain, was at once laid low, which by overstocking the Market produced only disappointment, and it will be some years before it arrives at a growth sufficient , though ornamental, to tempt its present or any future proprietor to make the same sacrifice.

1830 Blackpool bridge built by the de Rutzens – all craft entering within the bounds of the estate had to pay toll to the owner and also for loading or discharging cargoes at Blackpool Quay. The fishery on the river belonged to him and the tolls and fishery were let for £40 per annum.

From 1100 onwards most of the land in what became the Selbech estates was donated to the Knights Hospitallers of St John of Jerusalem.

1150 In approximately 1150 Robert Lodmer of Canaston gave “all his land of Mynwere together with all the land of Cadugan (Canaston) within the territory of Mynwere to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol. 19,880”

1241 William Marescal Earl of Pembroke granted “A free chase and Warren over the whole manor of Mynwere including the land of Cadugan (Canaston) with all the forest of the manor with its liberties and customs to the Knights of St John Slebech Middle Hill MSS vol. 19,880

In early times Blackpool was part of the vast forest of Narberth in which special rights were established and maintained. It is recorded in 1357 that "8s. was yearlie received of 91 burgages and 5 censuaries in the villages of Narbut, Templeton, Robertson, Canaston and Moylaston . . . ld. for a certayne custom then caled virsilver and £4. 11s. 3d. also for custome payd for lybertie of goings of cattle in the said forest" Blackpool Mill (Acc./to Sir Francis Dashwood.)

Following the dissolution of the Monasteries by Henry VIII, the majority land of the hospitallers was sold by the Crown to Thomas and Roger Barlow

1546 Barlowe Roger 1546, June 26 Letters Patent, in consideration of £705 6s. 3d., granting to Roger Barlowe of Slebeche, gent., and Thomas Barlow of Catfield, co. Norfolk, clerk, the lordship and manor of Slebyche, the late priory of Pyll’, the site and lands adjoining late of the Monastery of Haverfordwest, the Chapel called Creswelle, all lately belonging to the dissolved Monastery of Haverfordwest, the site of the friary of Haverford with all its appurtenances in the town of Haverfordwest. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1547 Barlow Roger 1547, Jan. 22 Receipt from Sir John Williams, knight, Treasurer of the Court of Augmentations, to Roger Barlow , gent., for £110 in respect of the grant and purchase of the woods and underwoods growing in and upon the Commandery or manor of Slebiche, parcel of the possessions of the late Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England. Slebech Estate and Family Record

But it would appear from the Slebech papers that Caniston including Caniston Mill was part of the lands held by Rice Griffiths

1546 Eynon David 1546/7-1547/8 reeve of Caniston, parcel of the manor of Carew.

1546 Griffith Reis 1546/8 .esq., attained of high treason,-Slebech Estate 3171

and Family Records

1555 Watkyns John 1555, June 14 .Letters Patent Granting a lease for 21 years to John Watkyns of the mill called Caniston Mille, the weir called le Blackpole, the demesne lands called le Upper Talffe and the tenement called le lower Talffe, all in Caniston. Part of the lands of the late Rice Griffith, esq.,

1558 Barlowe John 1558, Aug. 11 of Slebeche, gent.-Rowe Phillip of Murles, iron Smith Bond for the further assurance of a burgage, etc., in the town of Mynwer. Slebech Estate and Family Record (what was an Iron Smith as distinct from a blacksmith?)

1587 George Barlowe purchased Caniston including Blackpool from the Crown

1587, May 8 Letters Patent Granting to George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq., , in consideration of £432, 16s, 8d., the rents of assize of the free tenants in Caniston, services, perquisites and profits of the courts there and all the courts and suits, the demesne lands called The Uppertaf, the park called the Lowertaf, the water mill called Caniston Mill, and the pool called the Blackpool with toll, late parcel of the lands of the late Rice Griffith, esq., , attained, late parcel of the lands of Katherine, late Countess of Bridgewater. also the tenement called Mariborough, parcel of the preceptory of Slebech late in the tenure of John Barnard of the yearly rent of 60s., also all woods and underwoods thereto belonging, - Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Nov. 19 George Barlowe of Slebeche, esq.,,The Crown.Bond for the payment of the purchase price of the manor of Caniston, late part of the possessions of Ryce Gryffythe, esq., attained, and the demesne lands called Uppertaf, the tenement and park called Lowertaf, the water mill called Caniston Mill, the water course called the Blacke Poole in Caniston, late parcel of the possessions of Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater, and a tenement called Mary boroughe in the parish of Slebiche, late parcel of the possessions of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England, according to the value of the woods and underwoods to be surveyed by a commission of Survey and the purchase value of the soil.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

This records a Mill called Caniston Mill – was this situated at Blackpool? According to the record from 1635 Caniston Myll was in the parish of Robinston. Also there is a record that in 1601 George Barlow had a busy iron forge at Blackpool East Cleddau. The Elizabethan Squirearchy in Pembrokeshire B. Howell,s. Pembrokeshire historian Vol. 1 p 25

Was this forge in existence before 1587 ?

1635 Barlowe John 1635, July 18 John Barlowe of Slebidge, esq., and 3172

George Barlowe of London, esq., George Mynne of Woodcote, co. Surrey, esq.. Articles Of Agreement for a Lease of the decayed mill called Caniston Myll in the parish of Robinston and free liberty of the river running near thereto and other waters running through the lands of the said John Barlowe within one mile of the said mill, with liberty to erect buildings for melting iron and the habitation of workmen and other provisions for the establishing of iron works, and for a proportion of timber for the use of the ironworks and the erection of buildings to be felled in the woods of west Wood, Mynweare Wood and Penglynes Ciffe. Slebech Estate and Family Record 1635 A charcoal-fuelled blast furnace was erected at Canaston Wood in 1635 by George Mynne.

In the lease for the furnace, Mynne was granted the right to take timber and cordwood for the works from nearby woods. The site of a possible charcoal-burning platform has been identified on the steep wooded bank of a small stream some 0.9km south-east of the furnace,

1760 Later a lease in 1760 for the nearby Blackpool Forge, 0.4km west of the furnace, was given to Robert Morgan --A survey of the charcoal-fuelled ironworking industries of Carmarthenshire and Pembrokeshire By Nigel Page 2007

Ore for the furnace was available locally, but the locations of the ore pits are unknown

1645 John Barlowe fought on the side of the Royalists and his estates were confiscated. This would have included the Iron workings. The estates were returned to him in 1660 but had been looted by Col Horton and his men.

1662 Barlow John 1662, May 12 Exemplification of an inquisition taken 5 Oct. 1642 of the lands of John Barlow of Slebidge in co. Pembroke in connection with debts owing to George Mynne, esq.. Slebech Estate and Family Record

These would be debts incurred by George Mynne in connection with the breaking of the 1635 lease by actions in the Civil War. Was the Forge destroyed at that time and George Mynne claiming recompense ? What damage there had been done to Slebech Hall I cannot find records but I think that it must have been considerable as the Hearth Tax Record for 1670 show that Barlow John

1670 of Slebech Martletwy H7 Narberth Hundred Hearth Tax

paid tax on property at Martletwy but not on property at Slebech. Also most records after this date The grandson and heir of John Barlow, Sir John is recorded as living at Minwere.

1708 John Barlow of Slebech, gent., younger brother of the Sir George Barlow, late of Slebech agreed a settlement on the marriage of the said John Barlow and Ann

Harcourt. Ann is described as daughter of Sir Simon Harcourt of Stanton Harcourt, co. Oxon, knight, whose son and heir was Simon Harcourt. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1709 In 1709 George Harcourt made a proposal to change the forge into a furnace but we hear no more of the ironwork Story of Blackpool Mill by Sir Francis Dashwood Bt

Was he related to Ann Harcourt

1760 Morgan Robert 1760, September. 26 .William Trevannion of Carhais, co. Cornwall, esq.,Robert Morgan of Carmarthen, Merchant. Lease for three lives of the iron forge, etc., in the several parishes of Newton and Robeston Wathan, and the fishery at Blackpool, parish of Newton. Slebech Estate and Family Record

Ann Barlow heiress of the Slebech estates and last of the Barlows of Slebech married William Trevannion of Carhais, as her first Husband Her Husband died in 1766 and she married in 1773, John Symmons who subsequently sold the estate to William Knox after her death. The latter may have bought the property in order to prospect for coal and silver; he carried out extensive Mining trials at Minwear near Blackpool but failed to find any good seams. He also sold all the timber on the estate. In 1792 he sold the estate to Nathaniel Phillips through Mr. Christie, the founder of the famous London firm of auctioneers.

Nathaniel was a wealthy plantation owner from Jamaica, shipping sugar and rum from his estates to England. At his death Slebech passed to his daughter, Mary Dorothea, who married in 1822

Charles Frederick, Baron de Rutzen , a Polish nobleman and a relative of Field Marshal Potemkin, the favourite of Catherine the Great of Russia.

At the end of the 18th century, we find Nathaniel Phillips receiving 10 shillings for every sloop and 5 shillings for every lighter on account of navigation and wharf age for loading and discharging at Blackpool.

1805 With the death of John Morgan in 1805, the lease came to an end.

1805 His sons Charles and John wanted to continue and proposed to erect a pair of cylinders to blow three fires and to apply for an Act of Parliament to take off the duty on pit coal which they intended to use rather than charcoal as a previous owner of the Estate has denuded the whole area of timber.

1806 However, trade was poor and by March 1806 they had made little iron owing to the scarcity of charcoal and inadequate supplies of timber. The forge needed 6 to 700 loads of summer and Winter wood. Furthermore, great advances were being made in iron making in Manchester and they were facing stiff competition. Coal had risen 300 per cent in price, the cost of labour and cordwood had also risen and the supply of the latter was less sure. It was difficult to keep the forge supplied owing to the uncertainty of navigation due to the tides.

1806 The Morgans refused to agree a higher rent and quit the forge in 1806 taking with them most of the equipment, the anvil block, the cast iron hammer wheel, the namer, beam, gudgeon and rings. Their lease for £52 12. 6d. had included the forge, shed, Coke house, Coke oven, stable, iron house, seven cottages, carpenter's shop, flood gates and Locks.

1813 The iron forge was replaced in 1813 by the existing mill which was built by Nathaniel, the son of Nathaniel Phillips He erected "a large grist mill and over that river a commodious and ornamental bridge which was so placed to unite two roads which had long existed."

1968 In 1968 the late Lady Victoria Dashwood embarked on a programme of restoration of Blackpool Mill which had been rebuilt in 1813 by her ancestor Nathaniel Phillips. The Mill was part of the Slebech Estate and had passed to her following the death of her father John, Baron de Rutzen , whilst serving with the Welsh Guards in Italy in 1944. Extensive repairs were made not only to the Mill itself but also to the corn milling machines, and the water powered turbine that drove it, and an attractive café was created at one end of the Mill.(Sir Francis Dashwood.)

2016 – Plans and grant being considered to restore the Mill

Sites of Interest

Slebech park, holy islands mound, RCAHWW

1. Two small mounds on small peninsula in estuary. At high tide become islets. Both circa 13 m. high, 11 m. wide. trees and grass covered. Presumably to do with defence or anchorage of commendery.

2. The NE of a pair of mounds/tidal islets , having a tapering oval flat-topped summit, c.28m NE-SW by 13.5m, apparently stone revetted, showing traces of masonry foundations.

Portrayed as a 'tumulus' on OS County series (Pembroke. XXVIII.11 1889), thought to be a (17th-18th C.) landscape feature part of Slebech Park ; associated with Slebech Hall
A 15th C. sword was found in the vicinity of the mounds.

Garden terraces SW of Slebech Hall RCAHMW

Two extents of terraced gardens running along the N shore of the Eastern Cleddau: three tiers of terracing, revetted by stone walls, extending 154m WSW-ENE
CADW 2002

Earthworks in Slebech Park RCAHMW

elements of a rectilinear field systems, extending over an area, c.300m E-W by 260m, between (?)clay pit & Slebech Hall & gardens,

[Was this the area where the old village was. There are records of Properties near the old clay pit and the wall of the (old) cemetery]

Picton Castle

The Castle is magnificent, set in parkland and occupied by the Philipps family. It was built around 1300, and a four-storey block (in the best possible taste) was added in 1800. The Castle now houses the Graham Sutherland Gallery and this and the gardens are open to the public. Down the road Picton Ferry, on the shore of the Eastern Cleddau, is an idyllic picnic spot.

Norman earth and timber Motte built it is said by William de Picton to command the River. Original stone Castle built nearby probably by Sir John Wogan about 1300 part added in 1800s.

The large motte at Slebech probably represents the original Norman Castle in this area. Towards the end of the 13th century this was replaced [on a new site] by the powerful Edwardian Castle which now survives as Picton. The core of the building, with its four round towers, was probably built by Sir John Wogan who was the Justiciar of Ireland under King Edward I. From the Wogans Picton passed to the Dwnns, and in the later 15th century an heiress married into the Philipps family who continue to hold the Castle today. Picton was besieged and taken by the forces of Glyndwr in 1405, and was captured twice during the Civil War - first by the Royalists in 1643, then by Parliament in 1645.

1685 The Lord of Picton Castle was entitled to hold Courts leet, Courts Baron, and Views of Frank pledge. He was also entitled to heriots, deodands, waifs and strays, the goods of felons, fugitives, attainted persons, suicides and outlaws, and also to treasure trove, wrecks, escheats, fines and amercements, in a large number of parishes.

1807 Picton Castle is the seat of Lord Milford who has one of the largest estates in this part of the country. His Lord-ship is descended from John Philips esq.. created a baronet in 1621. The Castle and domain came to Sir Thomas Philips the father of John, the first baronet, in right of his wife descended from the Wogans. It owed its foundation to William de Picton.

It is a noble residence very much in the English style, both with respect to natural character and artificial improvements. The plantations are extensive and flourishing, The house, which is in the old fashion of grandeur commands a fine view of the water towards Landshipping where the two rivers meet, and join their forces to make Milford Haven. The Scenery Antiquities of South Wales Malkin 1807

1811 A Historical Tour through Pembrokeshire Fenton – Picton Castle

Walk up through beautiful woods to Picton Castle, which, approached from this side, as a component part of the landscape, appears to the greatest advantage; but with an eye to the building itself in its purest castellated state, and as connected with its ancient consequence, I would recommend an approach from the east, on which side only we can trace the inseparable criterion of a Castle, the moat, the moat where nothing is wanted but the drawbridge and the portcullis to carry us back to the time of William Rufus.

It would be an insult to Picton Castle to estimate its consequence and its beauties by a scale employed to measure modern villas, the work of a Brown or a Nash. Picton Castle owes its beauties to circumstances that wealth cannot supply or titles confer, circumstances that age and an unbroken line of ancestry in its possessors have given value to, and have made venerable; an ancient structure that nothing can so much disfigure as an attempt to modernise and make less so; a Castle (and I believe a solitary instance) never forfeited, never deserted, never vacant, that never knew a melancholy blank in its want of a master, and whose governors might be said to have been hereditary, a Castle in the midst of possessions and forests coeval with itself, and proudly looking down over a spacious domain on woods of every after growth to an inland sea, bounded by its property and its prospect beyond them for such is Picton Castle.

We hear of no earlier settlement than this by any of the Norman followers of Arnulph de Montgomery in Pembrokeshire, so that it is not presuming too much to date its origin as far back as William Rufus's time, since which it has always the good fortune to be inhabited, and not for half a century at a time by owls and bats but by lords of its own, men eminent in their day as warriors, as statesmen, and as Christians; and till within these few years this interesting pile has preserved the same form it originally had without addition of diminution, the ground about it only having been from time to time altered to suit the convenience or taste of the different possessors.

It appears to have been an oblong building, flanked with six large bastions, three on each side, with a narrow projection terminating in two bastions of smaller dimensions at east end, between which was the grand portcullised entrance, now contracted into a handsome doorway. It was evidently moated round, and approached by a drawbridge, now supplied by a raised flagged terrace between low parapets.

About ten years ago Lord Milford finding the Castle disproportionate to his style of hospitality, made an addition to its west end, whereby he obtained two magnificent rooms, one a dining room the other a drawing room with suitable bed-chambers over them, though it is to be lamented that his Lord-ship had not better assimilated the extent of his improvements to the ancient part of the structure. The whole interior is well disposed off, so as to produce an elegant suite of rooms. The largest space between the more western bastions is occupied by a Hall a cube of noble dimensions, paved with black and White marble, at the east end of which is a gallery with an Organ, and beyond it a Chapel, handsomely wainscotted with mahogany, more to the eastward. In the Hall there is a fine original portrait of that great minister Sir Robert Walpole, in his robes as chancellor of the Exchequer. In the middle south bastion there is a well furnished library, and over it an elegant breakfasting room with a chimney piece of White marble, and exquisite piece of sculpture, with windows, though at the end of of an avenue of nine feet from the thickness of the walls, commanding a most enchanting view of the junction of the Cleddaus and Landshipping Quay over a fine sloping and well wooded scene. A small drawing room takes up a space terminating in the sweep of the western bastion and a small dining parlour opposite is formed to accommodate itself to the bow of the north bastion, though of comfortable, yet small, when compared with those of the new apartments. His Lord-ship I understand has a fine cabinet of drawings of some of the first Masters collected by his uncle Sir Erasmus Philipps when in Italy, who was an amateur and great patron of the arts.

The gardens are of vast extent and luxuriantly cropped, and the hot houses and hot walls occupy and immense space; nor is the conservatory ill stocked.

The park, now destitute of deer is of large compass, and richly wooded, occupying that part of the grounds chiefly and flanked towards the river by a hanging wood through which a most charming walk has been formed to wind in a very romantic direction above the estuary, and rendered more delightful by the frequent occurrences of seats placed to produce the happiest effect, and a hermitage yet but seldom visited being at such distance from the Castle.

On the moat elevated spot in the park, terminating an avenue facing the grand entrance of the Castle stands a hansom belvedere, a most central situation that takes in a view of the whole county.

Picton town or vill -- Fenton

On a gentle rising ground a little to the south west of the gardens, stood formally the town or vill.

1815 Beauties of Wales – Rees.

Residence of Lord Milford . The greater part of this noble edifice retains its original form and character, having , by peculiar good fortune, passed with comparatively little injury through the hands of its successive proprietors to the present time. The ground plan occupies an oblong area of nearly uniform breadth, but having three large projecting bastions on each side, which while they contribute essentially to the military strength of the building, formed an important addition to its interior convenience and splendour. At the east end, between two bastions similar to the others but of smaller dimensions was placed the grand entrance gate , with its portcullis. This has now lost its military character, having, without injury to its appearance, been transformed into an elegant modern doorway. The moat which surrounded the Castle has in part been filled up, and the drawbridge has given way to a raised terrace, guarded on each side by a handsome open parapet. At the western end the present noble proprietor has made some additions, which, though they do not strictly comport with the architecture of the original edifice , are very material as respects its adaption to the uses of a modern residence; and are highly creditable to the liberate spirit of hospitality by which his Lord-ship seeks to emulate the most distinguished of his ancestors.

The foundation of this house is ascribed to William de Picton one of the followers of Arnulph

Montgomery. On failure of the male issue, the property fell to Jane daughter of Sir Henry Donne, who by marriage conveyed it to Sir Thomas Philipps of Cisant, the ancestor of Lord Milford .

The grounds about Picton Castle are on a very magnificent scale, and laid out with a proper regard to the baronial dignity of the mansion. They are every richly wooded; and have every advantage of water scenery from their position near the confluence of two handsome streams, which spread before them into the noble Haven of Milford.

1847 Topographical Dictionary of Wales

The seat of Lord Milford is a noble and spacious edifice of the Norman era; and though it has undergone some alterations and received several additions, to adapt it more for the purpose of modern residence, it still preserves much of its original character of a fortress. It was erected by William de Picton, one of the followers of Arnulph de Montgomery, and has been inhabited without intermission since that remote period. The greater portion of the building, to which the late Lord Milford made some large additions, is in the ancient style of baronial grandeur. During the parliamentary war in the reign of Charles I., the Castle was gallantly defended by Sir Richard Philipps for the King; but it had the good fortune to escape the destruction which so many other fortresses experienced. This estate came by marriage with a descendant of the Wogans to Sir Thomas Philipps, of Cîlsant, father of John, the first baronet of the family; and, on the death of the late Lord Milford descended to R. B. P. Philipps, who in 1828 was made a baronet, and in 1847 was created Lord Milford . The park, which is partly in the parish of Boulston, possesses many attractions; the gardens are extensive.

Picton Castle 1872 Annals and Antiquities Thomas Nicholas

This spot has been famous since that early age when the Norman, Arnulph de Montgomery, temp. William Rufus, took possession of the district, and assigned this lordship to William de Picton, who built here a Castle and called it after his own name. Around this Castle have grown, in the long succession of ages, all the tokens of a venerable antiquity and true lordly grandeur. Injudicious restoration and alteration have marred the external form of the fabric, but parts still remain which are hoary and pitted over with age, and eloquent concerning times when the Castle was a Norman fortress, defiant of attack and fearless of beleaguerment.

Time, has writ upon the demesne the story of seven centuries-" ancestral woods," lichen- covered walls, which have witnessed the passing in and out of many succeeding proprietors, memorials of moat and drawbridge, outstanding watch-towers and camps, secret passages, the appointments of more recent and peaceful times, and the elegance and taste of the present.

This is one of the very few Norman castles in Britain which have never been dismantled or alienated, and the only one of the kind in Wales. Picton Castle has always been inhabited, has never been forfeited, and has continued in the same line of proprietors from the beginning. From the Pictons it passed by marriage of the heiress, to the Wogans in the person of Sir John Wogan; from the Wogans it passed in like manner to the line of Donne of Cydweli by the marriage of Catherine, dau. and heiress of Sir John Wogan, to Owen Donne; and lastly, 'from the Donnes, by the marriage of Jane, dau. and heiress of Sir Henry Donne, of Picton, to Thomas ap Philip, otherwise Sir Thomas Philips, Lord of Cilsant, time of Richard III., whose posterity, in direct or indirect line, has ever since remained in possession

1895 Nooks and Corners Timmins

Running us ashore near some cottages, at a picturesque nook of the Haven, the ferryman now puts us in the way for Picton; which is reached after a brisk twenty minutes' tramp through the leafy glades of a deep, sequestered dingle.

It would be difficult to image anything more attractive than the situation of Picton Castle. Crowning the brow of a gentle declivity, the stately pile is sheltered from the north and east by groves of forest trees, and mighty banks of rhododendrons; while upon its southern side a beautiful expanse of the home-park rolls away, 'in emerald slopes of sunny sward,' to a broad, land-locked reach of Milford Haven.

In conjunction with the neighbouring estate of Slebech, Picton Park comprises a vast extent of open, park-like land, the haunt of game and wild-fowl; while the river front affords miles of woodland strolls, with a charming variety of ever-changing prospects. What with boating and fishing galore, not to mention an occasional meet of fox and otter hounds, he must indeed be a fastidious sportsman who cannot find recreation in this favoured locality.

Picton Castle can boast a record unmatched in the annals of any other Southwallian fortress; for the place has never once been deserted, but has always been occupied by those who can claim direct descent from the original founder.

It was in the days of William Rufus (when Arnulph the Norman handed over the whole of the surrounding district to his trusty follower) that Sir William de Picton erected the first Castle, and gave his own name to his newly-acquired possession. To his descendant, the good Sir John Philipps, the town of Haverfordwest is indebted for its fine old sandstone bridge, which he caused to be built at his own expense, and presented as a free gift to the borough. John Wesley and Sir Isaac Newton were numbered amongst his friends; and a monument, erected to his memory by the grateful townsfolk, is to be seen in St. Mary's Church, Haverfordwest.

General Picton, of Peninsular War renown, was a famous scion of the same good stock. It is said that, owing to his influence abroad, large quantities of the best wine of Oporto found their way into many a Pembrokeshire cellar, where such a vintage had hitherto been a luxury unknown.

During the Civil Wars, Picton Castle was garrisoned and held for King Charles by Sir Richard Philipps, second baronet ; but was eventually surrendered (as the story goes) under the following circumstances.

One day during the course of the siege, a servant-maid was standing at an open casement in the eastern bastion with Sir Erasmus, the infant heir, upon her arm ; when a Parliamentary trooper rode up with a flag of truce, and presented a letter at the window. No sooner had the maid reached forward to take the missive, than, raising himself in the saddle, the soldier snatched the child from the nurse's arms, drew his sword, and threatened to slay the hope of Picton upon the spot, unless the Castle were instantly surrendered.

Though much altered and extended in comparatively modern times, Picton Castle still presents an imposing and dignified appearance ; especially when viewed from the south-east side.

The entrance front (which is by far the oldest portion of the structure) retains the deeply-recessed portal, the rounded arches, quaint, archaic corbel-heads and narrow windows, that mark the enduring handiwork of the original Norman builders. Above the massive entrance porch rise the deep-set windows of the Chapel ; the handsome painted glass with which they are adorned, forming an appropriate memorial to a member of the family of Sir Charles and Lady Philipps, whose tragic death, in 1893, aroused the deep sympathy of the entire county.

Rounded bastions project at intervals from the main structure, which is of an oblong form, with a lofty wing flanking its western end. The moat, having no purpose to serve in these piping times of peace, has long since been filled up ; and its place is now occupied by pleasant walks and parterres, varied by luxuriant shrubberies. The interior of the Castle contains numerous suites of apartments, disposed around a handsome and spacious Hall from whose lofty walls historic family portraits of various styles and periods look down upon the beholder.

At one end of the Hall is a gallery communicating with the private Chapel above mentioned ; and several quaint, old-fashioned chambers, whose solid circular walls are of enormous thickness. The panelled floors and ceilings of these apartments are worthy of notice, as are their white marble chimney-pieces, delicately wrought in the Italian manner. From the recesses of the deep-set windows, we command a lovely prospect over the rich rolling woodlands of the park, encircled by a silvery reach of the Cleddau towards Landshipping Ferry

1909 Edwards, Emily Hewlett Castles and strongholds of Pembrokeshire Tenby

Picton Castle was founded by Wm. de Picton, a Norman knight in the following of Arnulph de Montgomery ; the existing building suggests, however, an Edwardian rather than a

Norman structure. Fenton says the building was oblong with six bastions, three on either side, and a portcullised, turreted gateway, since modified into a handsome doorway. Lord Milford rashly altered this ancient fortress to suit his taste.

Picton Castle has been an inhabited dwelling from the time of William Rufus to the present day, and is unusual in having belonged to the same family for the whole period, though heiresses have brought into the pedigree the names of Wogan, Bonn, and Philipps.

The story went that during the Civil Wars a Parliamentary soldier stole the heir of Picton from his nurse's arms while she chatted at a Castle window, and that holding the child to ransom he reduced the stronghold to submission. There is no truth in the tale, for Picton was then garrisoned for Parliament; Colonel Gerard after storming it took possession for the King, finding therein Sir Richard Philipps' children, who were certainly not held up to ransom.

A new four-storey block was added to the Castle about 1800, with further additions some fifty years later. Since 1954 Picton has been extensively restored to serve as a modern residence.

Acc/to Fenton (1811): "never forfeited, never deserted, never vacant. I know of no Castle in Wales or England that has been inhabited by a regular succession of lords of the place"

1923 RCAM Picton Castle

A Norman Motte Castle was placed at the summit of gently rising ground about half a mile east of the present castellated residence. It occupies almost certainly the site of the Castle of 'Dungledi' erected by Wiz or Wizo a Fleming, who early in the 12th century was granted by Henry I the Lord- ship of Daugleddau, the land between the two Cleddau. There are no indications that the original wooden defences ever gave place to others in stone, and it is clear that about a century and a half after its erection it was deserted for the fine 13th century Castle which was placed in a more sheltered position below it. The mound is about 24ft high, and has a summit diameter of about 50ft. The moat still remains, though made more shallow by subsequent disturbances to the mound. The Bailey was probably on the north side.

The later Castle is a four sided structure having strong towers at the corners, with intermediate towers guarding the entrance which was placed near the southern end of the east curtain. It has been a residence from the earliest period of its existence to the present day, with the result that while the exterior has retained its military character, many of the original details have been modified, and its interior completely altered – visited 14th July 1920

Picton Castle Estate and Family Record

Wogan Family of Pembrokeshire.(see also Woogan)

c1114

Wiz or Wizo the Fleming c1114 founded the Pembrokeshire

Family .Wizo seems to have chosen an existing Iron Age enclosed settlement or rath as the basis for his Castle. A large conical earthen motte was thrown up across the bank of the earlier settlement, and a gateway was created on the north-eastern side of the rath defences. The unusually large Bailey of Wizo's stronghold probably served to house the borough occupied by the first group of settlers. The prehistoric defences would have provided them with ready-made protection against the newly-dispossessed Welsh . It would originally have been a timber and earth motte and Bailey Castle. By the 14c the Castle, which by then had a stone keep, was abandoned the Wogan family who had become lords of the manor. Their principal residence was at nearby Picton Castle.

Wyzo or Wys the Fleming who gave his name to Wiston had conquered the present hundred of Daugleddy except the episcopal lordship of LLawhaden, which was held as a Barony under the earl by the service of two and a half Knight's fees

Hist st Cart Mon S Petri Glous Rolls ed i 228 262 6.

Wyzo or Wys Lord of Wiston Ecclesia de Rudepagotona Knights Hospitalers of St John.Wizo the Flemish Lord of Wiston Clarbeston Pembrokeshire Parsons. Church of Predergast to Knights Hospitallers of St John of Jerusalem Anselms Confirm charter.

Wys, or his son Walter , gave the advowsons of the churches in the Barony to the Hospitallers of Slebech, whereon there was afterwards a quarrel between the authorities of Slebech and of St. Peter's, Gloucester, and St Mary's, Worcester."

Walter son of Wizo the Flemish Lord of Wiston Clarbeston Pembrokeshire Parsons

William FitzGerald had battered his new Castle of Wiston

1148,'

Walter married the daughter of William's brother, David FitzGerald, Bishop of St David's , and received from his father-in-law certain lands near LLawhaden, for the seizure of which Wys had been excommunicated.

Walter left two sons, -----Walter son of Walter succeeded Walter grandson of Wizo the Flemish Lord of Wiston Clarbeston Pembrokeshire Parsons.

1193

Philip Gwys ,son of Walter succeeded his brother Walter , and was, in 1193, captured in Wiston Castle, with his wife and two sons, by Howel ap Rhys ap Gruffydd.'

One of these sons, Henry Gwys succeeded his father, and was a benefactor to Slebech. There is some mystery as to who Henry married or even if he did marry as in 1220 the Barony was under the care of the Earls of Pembroke as guardian for the infant heiress of Henry. Was it his daughter, a sister or a niece? She married

1247 de Herford Sir Walter , who held the Barony in 1247. This Sir Walter came of a family said to have been settled in West Wales in the time of Rufus. He held lands in Ireland which, with Wiston, passed to his daughters, who married representatives of the family of Wogan and of Stainton. He was a witness to Earl Walter Marshal's charter to Gilbert de Valle 1241-5, and was one of the Pembroke magnates who sent to John of Monmouth in 1244 the account of their attack on Cardigan. He held, on the partition of the Marshal inheritance, three Knight's fees, a holding exceeded only by the Martins of Kemes, the de Barris, Carews and Stackpoles. It may be that part of his holding was of the lands conquered by the Marshals in Cardigan. *Owen- Arch Camb*1903

ap Rhys ap Bledre Sir Aaron fought in the Crusades under Richard 1 and was made Knight of the Sepulchre--

The sixth in direct descent from Sir Aaron was ap Meredith Philip of Cisant who had a son

ap Philip Sir Thomas , who married Donne Jane daughter of Donne Sir Henry Kt of Picton who had inherited the estate in the right of his mother

Wogan Catherine daughter and co-heiress of Wogan Sir John of Picton whose ancestor Wogan Sir John Kt of Wiston had married Picton Joan the daughter and heiress of Picton Sir William the Norman who gave his name to the Castle and estate.

1572 Ph'es(Phillippes) William of Picton 1572 Mar 14 died Saturday and was buried at Slebech ye munday following (George Owen's MSS from the muniments at Bronwydd Arch Camb 1867)

1591 Philips John 1591 of Picton son of ap Philip Sir Thomas , was Lord of Picton when Lewys Dwinn visited in 1591. He was made a Bart in 1621 and married as his 1st wife Perrott Ann daughter of Perrott Sir John Kt of Haroldston and Ann and Sir Thomas , were succeeded by their eldest son

1620's Philipps Richard 1620's - 2 Bart followed by

1697 Philipps Erasmus 1697 - 3 Bart who died in 1697 and was succeeded by

1697 -1736 Philipps John 1736 - 4 Bart who died in 1736 and had several children his eldest son was Erasmus

1736 Philipps Erasmus 1736 the 5 Bart inherited and as he had no children the title passed to his brother

Philipps John the 6 Bart who was succeeded by his son Sir Richard Philipp

1776 Phillips John 1776, Oct. 23 Richard, Baron Milford of the Kingdom of Ireland, and now of Picton Castle, son and heir of Sir John Phillips late of Picton Castle, bart., deceased, John Philipps late of the parish of Lampiter Velfrey and now of the parish of Begelly, gent. Lease for a year of a messuage and lands called Diffrin, parish of Lampiter Velfrey, and a messuage and lands called Cwm Llan, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1776 Phillips Sir Richard 1776 - 7 Bart of Picton was created Lord Milford in 1776 and died without direct descendant in 1823 - The title thus became extinct

Phillips Bulkeley was another son of the 4 Bart and brother of both the 5 and 6 Barts and Uncle of the 7

1741 Philipps Bulkeley 28 3 1741 to Philippa Mrs. Adams marriage Bosheston Church Register although in the family traditions he was of minor importance, being a younger son, the whole future of the Picton Estate stems from him. He had no children from his marriage but after the death of his wife he was reputed to have adopted an illegitimate daughter by a woman named Maria Philippa Artemisia and gave the young girl the surname "Philipps". Her real name was Mary Philippa Artemisia Bulkeley Philipps he died in 1776 and after his death she married James Child of Begelly and she herself had a daughter whom she named Maria Artemisia. She died in 1786. Her daughter Maria Artemisia, married the son of the Vicar of Roch and Nolton, the Rev. John Grant, who succeeded his father in these livings. The father, the old Vicar, had been mad for some years.

Their son was named Richard Bulkeley Philipps Grant. This boy's father, the Rev. John Grant, in addition to inventing the measuring wheel gained a great deal of notoriety because of his condemning those of his parishioners from Roch and Nolton who, whilst looting a wrecked ship containing a cargo of Gunpowder on Druidston Sands caused it to blow up, killing many and blinding others. He was said to have declared openly that it was an act of God punishing them for their wickedness.

Maria Artemisia, upon the death of her first Husband, the Rev. John Grant married as her second the Rev. Alexander Gwyther, the Vicar of Yardley in Worcestershire. By him she had a second son who later became the Rev. James Henry Alexander Gwyther, Vicar of St Mary's Church Haverfordwest. Richard Burkley Philipps Grant and his half brother, the Rev. James Henry Alexander Gwther, in turn, inherited the vast Picton Castle estates, both changing their surnames to "Philipps ", thus causing those of closer relationship to become disinherited.

1823 Grant Richard Bulkeley Philipps became heir to the Picton estates in 1823 under the will of Lord Milford 7 Bart and assumed the name and the arms of Philipps . He was created a Baron in 1828 and Baron Milford in 1847 In 1847 he married Lady Anne Jane daughter of the Earl of Wicklow but died without direct heir.

His half brother Gwyther James Henry Alexander inherited. And took the name Philipps

1857 Philipps James Henry Alexander 1857 Rev MA late Gwyther of Picton Castle Vicar of St Mary's Haverfordwest was Vicar of Madeley Salop patron of the livings of Morvil, Llanycefn, Mynachlog- ddu, Llysyfran, Begelly, East Williamson, Llandower and Reynalton. Born at Winkfield Wilts 1814 married

Lea Mary Catherine

daughter of William Woolrych Lea of Ludstone Salop. Had two surviving daughters

1868 Philipps Mary Philippa 1868 married to Charles F G Fisher and they had children

Philipps Amy Octavia

.....

c1500 ap Phylip Thomas of Pykton, co. Pembroke, esq.. Lease for three years of the pensions of the churches Slebech Estate and Family Record

1541 Philips John 1541 esq. of Picton Castle 1541 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1548 Philips Thomas 1548 esq. of Picton Castle High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1563 Phillips William 1563 of Picton Castle eldest son of John Phillips by Elizabeth daughter of Sir William Griffiths of Penryn High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1566 Phillips Elizabeth 1566, September. 26 of Pycton, widow; John Barlowe of Slebiche, co. Pembroke, esq.. Release of messuages and lands in the vill and fields of Slebich in the manor dominium of Slebiche now or lately in the tenure of Richard Meyler, William Sawnder, Elizabeth Hughe, William Pycton, John Clerke, Thomas Powyer and John Browne. Witnesses Morgan Phillips and John Hodgeskynson, scriptor. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1567 Philipps William 1567 of Pyckton, esq., Assignment of the remainder of a term of years in the late Commandery or Preceptory of Slebech and the Lordships, manors, lands, etc., thereto belonging in the county of Pembroke leased by the Crown to Thomas Audley, esq., 29 March 7 Edward VI, and assigned by the latter to Thomas Lloyd aforesaid and Richard Jones of the parish of St. Clare, co. Carmarthen, gent., 2 May 7 Edward VI, 1567, Oct. 20. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1576 Phillips Morgan 1576 of Picton Castle 2nd son of John and father of Sir John created bart 1623 – High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire Philipps Morgan of Picton married Elizabeth daughter of Richard Fletcher of Bangor (ancestor of the first Sir John Philipps of Picton) Arch Camb 1846 p 190

1591 Barlo Georgio 1591 married Jane Philipps claimants to the estate of William Philipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Philipps Jane 1591 Picton Daughter of Morgan Philipps and Elizabeth Fletcher married Georgio Barlo—mort claimants to the estate of William Philipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Philipps Morgan 1591 Picton Married Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Philipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Philipps William 1591 Picton Son of Morgan Philipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Philipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Phillips Alban 1591 Picton Son of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Phillips Cicil 1591 Picton Daughter of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Phillips Jenett 1591 Picton Daughter of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Phillips John 1591 Picton Son of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 ArchCamb 1854

1591 Phillips Margaret 1591 Picton Daughter of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Phillips Owen 1591 Picton Son of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Phillips Thomas 1591 Picton Son of Morgan Phillipps and Elizabeth Fletcher claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1591 Stepneth ? 1591 Married Mary Phillipps daughter of William Phillipps of Picton and Jane Perotte his wife claimants to the estate of William Phillipps and his wife Jane Perotte George Owen
MSS1591 Jan 12 Arch Camb 1854

1595 Philips John of Picton Castle High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire 1595

1601 Phillips Alban 1601, Dec. 8 Thomas Phillipps of Picton, gent., Thomas ap Rice of Rickarston, gent Assignment of a Lease for the life of the said Thomas

Phillips of pannage of hogs, swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and also the rents and forms of the tenure of Moleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth and late parcel of the lands and possessions of the Lady Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and late parcel of the possessions of Rees Gruffith, esq., attained for high treason, which pannage and lands the said Thomas Phillips held of the Queen by a Lease for the lives of Owen Phillips, Alban Phillips and the said Thomas Phillips.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Phillips Owen 1601, Dec. 8 Thomas Phillips of Picton, gent., Thomas ap Rice of Rickarston, gent Assignment of a Lease for the life of the said Thomas Phillips of pannage of hogs, swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and also the rents and forms of the tenure of Moleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth and late parcel of the lands and possessions of the Lady Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and late parcel of the possessions of Rees Gruffith, esq., attained for high treason, which pannage and lands the said Thomas Phillips held of the Queen by a Lease for the lives of Owen Phillips, Alban Phillips and the said Thomas Phillips.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1601 Phillips Thomas 1601, Dec. 8 Thomas Phillips of Picton, gent., Thomas ap Rice of Rickarston, gent Assignment of a Lease for the life of the said Thomas Phillips of pannage of hogs, swine and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and also the rents and forms of the tenure of Moleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth and late parcel of the lands and possessions of the Lady Katherine, Countess of Bridgewater and late parcel of the possessions of Rees Gruffith, esq., attained for high treason, which pannage and lands the said Thomas Phillips held of the Queen by a Lease for the lives of Owen Phillips, Alban Phillips and the said Thomas Phillips.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1602 Phillips Albane ,1602, September. 8 Albane Phillips of Pickton, gent., Thomas Addams of Loveston, gent. Assignment of a Lease of the pannage of hogs and wild honey within the forest of Narberth and the rents and farms of the tenants of Moleston, parcel of the lordship of Narberth, lately parcel of the lands of the Countess of Bridgewater and of Rees Griffith, esq., attained.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1603 Phillippes John 1603, September. 1 John Phillippes of Picton, esq., George Barlowe of Slebydge, esq.. Grant in consideration of £90 of woods and woodgRounds called Pykell or Talfewood late in the tenure of John Barlowe, esq., in the parish of Slebridge, co. Pembroke. Witnesses Owen Ellyot, Stephen Barlow, William Barlow, Thomas Hunshell, John Phillip, John Skourfyld.- Slebech Estate and Family Record

1611 Philipps John 1611 of Picton Castle afterwards Knight and Bart High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1619 Phillipps Richard 1619, Aug. 10 John Phillipps of Clogevrane, co. Carmarthen, esq., and Richard Phillipps of Picton, gent., son and heir apparent of the said John Phillipps, John Phillipps of Moleston, gent. Grant of three messuages, lands, etc., in Upper Moleston and Lower Moleston, parish of Narberth, in exchange for a messuage and a close called the Greate meade, in the parish of St. Cleares, co. Carmarthen, commonly called Wolsdon otherwise Wolston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1620 Philipps Johes c1600 Pembrokeshire Ar.- Justice of the Peace Cambrian Register 1796 History of Pembrokeshire -George Owen

1620 Philipps John Owen c1600 Pembrokeshire Ar.- Justice of the Peace Cambrian Register 1796

1620 Philipps Jones c1600 Pembrokeshire esq.. Justice of Oyer and Terminer Cambrian Register

1796

1620 Phillipes Johannes Armig 1620 of Picton Castle. Justice of the Peace in Pembrokeshire in 1620

1620 Philipps Alban 1620 of Nash son of Morgan Philipps of Picton he married Janet daughter and heiress of Richard Nash of Nash High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1632 Phillipps Richard 1632 Sir of Picton Castle son of Sir John 1 Bart by Anne daughter of Sir John Perrott of Haroldston High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1632 Philips Katherine 1632-1664 . London, raised in Picton Castle, married to James Philips M.P. and Mayor of Haverfordwest, her poetry and membership of the Society of Friendship made her the first woman writer in Britain to receive professional and public recognition. Her collected works was published in 1993.

1640 Phillippe Richard 1640, May 1 Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., Sir Richard Phillippe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a term of years in a tenement in Martheltwy. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1640 Phillipps Thomas 1640, May 1 Thomas Phillipps of Martheltwy, gent., Sir Richard Phillippe of Slebech, esq.. Assignment of a term of years in a tenement in Martheltwy. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1661 Philipps Richard 1661-1751 lieutenant-general, was the second son of Richard Philipps of Picton Castle, Pembrokeshire. He was employed, when a young man, to disperse the manifestos of the Prince of Orange among the King's troops encamped at Hounslow, for which service he received no other recompense than a Captain's commission. He was present at the battle of the Boyne . In 1717, he obtained the command of the 40th Regiment of Foot, which had been almost entirely raised by him. In 1720, he was appointed governor of Nova Scotia, which post he held for 10 years. His commission as lieutenant-general is dated March , 1743, and he died eight years later, at the advanced age of 90 years. Burke's Peerage, Baronetage, 1882, p. 1028.

1662 Philipps, Sir John, 1662-1736, of Picton Castle, Pembrokeshire, educational reformer and philanthropist, was the father of Sir Erasmus Philipps. In 1695, he was returned to Parliament for the borough of Pembroke, which he continued to represent until 1702. He re-entered Parliament in 1718, as member for Haverfordwest, and sat until 1722. He had command of great wealth, which he laid out munificently in various schemes of philanthropy. He was one of the most active Commissioners for building 50 new churches in and about the City of London, and a leading member of many charitable societies. He was one of the earliest and most distinguished members of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, established in 1699, and the records of the Society are full of references to his great work for education. To him belongs the honour of first directing the attention of that Society to the Principality, and the credit of encouraging its efforts to supply the needs of his fellow-countrymen. The great work of his life, however, was in connection with the Charity School movement in Wales, in which he spared neither time nor money. He was buried at St. Mary's Church, Haverfordwest, a handsome marble monument being erected to his memory. Eminent Welshmen

1691 Phillips Edward 1691 of Picton Castle and Kilgetty son of Sir Erasmus by his second wife he married the heiress of Kilgetty but died shortly after High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

1700 Phillips John 1700-1764 Sir a Member of Parliament, was descended from John Phillips, esq., of Picton Castle, Pembrokeshire, who was created a Baronet in 1621. He was the second son of the fourth Baronet of the same name. At the age of 41, he entered Parliament for Carmarthen, representing that borough for six years. He rapidly made his Mark in the House, and, having joined the Tories, he soon became, together with Sir John Hanmer and Sir Watkin Williams Wynn, one of the leaders of the old country party, as those were called who strenuously, and with much fervour and ability, opposed the Court. Horace Walpole has given him the name of " a notorious Jacobite."

1743 Phillipps Sir Erasmus, died 1743, economic writer, was a son of Sir John Philipps, of Picton Castle, Pembrokeshire. He matriculated at Pembroke College, Oxford, but left in 1721 without graduating. He was entered as a student of Lincoln's Inn in 1721, and succeeded to the baronetcy on the death of his father in 1736. He was M.P. for Haverfordwest from 1726 until 1743, when he was accidentally drowned in the river Avon. Eminent Welshmen

1754 Philipps John 1754, Oct. 10 George Barlow of Slebedge, esq.,Sir John Philipps of Picton Castle, bart. Lease for three lives of the tithes issuing out of Picton demesne. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1772 Phillips Richard 1772, Oct. 14 Ann Trevannion of Slebech, widow,Sir Richard Phillips of Picton Castle, bart. Lease for three lives of the tithes of closes called Rhose and Ash Parks, part of Millin Mountain, close called Newhouse Meadow, land called Picton Ewehill, all in the parish of Boulston. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1774 Phillips Richard 1774, Nov. 19 John Phillips of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, gent.,Sir Richard Phillips of Picton Castle, bart., and John Symmons of Llanstinan, esq.,William Edwardess of Johnstone, esq.,Edward Philipps of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, clerk. Release of messuages called Dyffrin, Cwmlan, Plaindealings and Flathouse, in the parish of Lampeter Velfrey, also a piece of land in the parish of Cronwear, and a messuage and lands called Berllan in the parish of St. Clears, co. Carmarthen. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1776 Baron Milford Richard 1776, Oct. 23 Richard, Baron Milford of the Kingdom of Ireland, and now of Picton Castle, son and heir of Sir John Phillips late of Picton Castle, bart., deceased, John Philipps late of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey and now of the parish of Begelly, gent. Lease for a year of a messuage and lands called Difrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, and a messuage and lands called Cwm Llan, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1776 Philipps John 1776, Oct. 23 Richard, Baron Milford of the Kingdom of Ireland, and now of Picton Castle, son and heir of Sir John Phillips late of Picton Castle, bart., deceased, John Philipps late of the parish of Lampeter Velfrey and now of the parish of Begelly, gent. Lease for a year of a messuage and lands called Difrin, parish of Lampeter Velfrey, and a messuage and lands called Cwm Llan, parish of Llandewy Velfrey. Slebech Estate and Family Record

Philipps John of Picton married Janet daughter of Sir William Griffith of Penrhyn North Wales (whose family were ancestors of the first Sir John Philipps of Picton) Arch Camb 1846 p 190

1784 Milford Lord 1784 Picton Castle Milford Members of Parliament for Haverfordwest town and county

1797 Phillips William 10-Jan1797 Aged 10 Amroth Calfs Meadow pit in Amroth property of Lord Milford he was an on iron bar fastened to windlass rope but fell off the

1803 Edward John 19 October 1803 Slebech Infant Offence Manslaughter of William David, Slebech, by throwing a stone at him in the deer park of Picton Castle. Deceased had struck prisoner on the legs with a whip. No indictment. Prisoner aged 10. Inquest returned a of accidental manslaughter. Slebech Verdict Discharged Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

1838 Lloyd William 1838, Feb. 1-2 .Rev. Sir Richard Bulkeley Philipps of Picton Castle, bart.,The Rev. William Lloyd clerk, rector of Narberth, and Jonathan Rogers Powell of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent.,Robert Innes Ackland of Boulston, esq.. Lease and Release being an exchange of part of Crisborough, parish of Slebech, for Cockshutt otherwise Newfoundland, parish of Robeston Wathan. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1838 Powell Jonathan Rogers 1838, Feb. 1-2 Sir Richard Bulkeley Philipps of Picton Castle, bart.,The Rev. William Lloyd , clerk, rector of Narberth, and Jonathan Rogers Powell of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent.,Robert Innes Ackland of Boulston, esq.. Lease and Release being an exchange of part of Crisborough, parish of Slebech, for Cockshutt otherwise Newfoundland, parish of Robeston Wathan. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1838 Philipps Richard Bulkeley 1838, Feb. 1-2 Sir Richard Bulkeley Philipps of Picton Castle, bart.,The Rev. William Lloyd , clerk, rector of Narberth, and Jonathan Rogers Powell of the town and county of Haverfordwest, gent.,Robert Innes Ackland of Boulston, esq.. Lease and Release being an exchange of part of Crisborough, parish of Slebech, for Cockshutt otherwise Newfoundland, parish of Robeston Wathan. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1870 Phillips Sarah 1870s Bramble Hill nr Thomas Chapel rented farm from Picton Castle Estate in arrears --distress Levied by Picton Castle Estate on her goods and she was in receipt of relief as a pauper through the 1870's (farm was used by a nearby coal mine as a slag heap preventing farming)

1880 Philipps C.E.G1880, Aug. – 1881, Nov. 15 Letters from Sir C.E.G.Phipps of Picton Castle to the Baron de Rutzen , concerning the family pew in the new Slebech Church

1897
Arch Camb 1898

Phillips E P 1897 Aug Chairman-Local Committee Haverfordwest

1893 Philipps Mabel 1893, Nov. 17 funeral of the late Miss Mabel Philipps of Picton Castle reprinted from the Pembrokeshire Herald. Slebech Estate and Family Record

1916 Philipps----Orpen Picton Castle Walter Selwyn Orpen, Second Lieutenant, Lancashire Fusiliers. Walter was born on 20 July 1893, the youngest son of Rev. John Herbert Orpen and Mrs. Amy O. G. Orpen, the sister of Lady Philipps of Picton Castle, He was killed in the Somme Offensive by a sniper on 6 July 1916. age 22.

1916 Phillips Ethel Philippa 10 September 1916 the eldest daughter of Sir Charles and Lady Phillips of Picton Castle. Her Husband was Harry Hickman Bromfield, DSO, Major, Welsh, Guards the son of Henry and Mary Elizabeth Bromfield,

He had served in the South African War as Captain in the South Wales Borderers, and had gained the Distinguished Service Order in South Africa. Volunteered to serve with the newly formed Welsh, Guards in 1915. Harry was killed while leading his men on 10 September 1916. Age 47.

.....

RCAM Sites of Archaeological and Historical interest

Picton Castle RCAHMW Icehouse

One of two ice houses within the grounds of Picton Castle

150m south-west of the house is a brick-vaulted ice house, 2.6m square and 2.66m high. It faces north and has short dog-leg passage. There is a small lake 350m to the south, and the estuary of East Cleddau 700m away.

The Picton Castle park and gardens RCAHMW are set within the fine rolling Pembrokeshire countryside and was extant in the eighteenth century. The pleasure garden, albeit recently altered, still retains some late eighteenth to early nineteenth century features and still contain some fine exotics, including many hybrid rhododendron. The park includes an interesting mount and a scenic walk along the estuary, which includes a Georgian `Peepout' or shelter. The plantings probably date from around 1800.

A large, circular, brick ice house is located 300m south of the house. Steps from the north east lead down to an ante-chamber, no doubt a purpose built larder (2 x 1.5m), thence at right Angles along a 1.6m long passage with two doors, leading to a chamber, 2.7m in diameter and over 3m deep overall. The dome has a slightly pointed head. It is not depicted on the Ordnance Survey maps.

Picton Castle, Stables RCAHMW

The stable court at Picton Castle is a rectangular block in a castellated style, overall about 40 by 60m. The different elements of the design are strongly differentiated architecturally so that it appears more as a picturesquely planned group of related buildings rather than one block; the skyline is varied and parts stand forward or back.

The block is built of local rubble stone masonry, brought to courses, with quoins of limestone. Extensive traces of render remain and the buildings appear to have been rendered throughout. Crenellated parapets conceal slated roofs. The entrance is by a vaulted passageway with sturdy Norman-style columns and arches with cushion caps at front and rear. There is a small carved face above. There is an octagonal clock-tower above, with clocks front and rear and a cupola and weathervane above. The entrance is flanked by two-storey domestic quarters, consisting of a three-window range each side in which the bay closest to the entrance passage at front is slightly advanced and raised, and with small round headed windows.

Picton Home Farm RCAHMW

A model farm of the early C19, the Home Farm of Picton, first appearing on the 1829 estate map. It was therefore possibly designed by Thomas Rowlands of Haverfordwest, who carried out numerous estate improvements for R B P Philipps in the period 1826-8.

There was formerly a dovecote in the centre of the farmyard, now demolished. The central part of the yard is now occupied by modern cattle sheds, and the NW corner of the original ranges of farm buildings has also been lost.

Listed as a fine example of an early C19 model farm probably contemporary with the many Picton estate improvements carried out by R B P Philipps in the late 1820s.

Farmhouse and buildings arranged in a square. The house faces S with a garden at its front, with low wall and railings. The house has lower extensions at E and W, the left one being a farmyard building and the right one an extension of the domestic accommodation. The ends of the E and W ranges are carried forward to the same building line as the house frontage, with gateways for farmyard access linking them to the house extensions. The plan of house and yard is symmetrical about the N/S axis. The original farmyard main entrance was at the centre of the N range, but is no longer in use.

All the buildings are in local sandstone rubble, more or less brought to courses, and do not appear to have been rendered. Limestone is informally used for some quoins and dressings. Slate roofs throughout, except where replaced by artificial slates on the house roof. Tiled ridges.

The house consists of a taller central part of three windows, except that the central window over the door is only a blind fenestration panel. Arched doorway centrally with a round-headed door. Four-pane sash windows under low segmental arches. Brick end-chimneys. At each end are symmetrical extensions with a lower roof level: at right a domestic three-window extension with a hipped end. The upper window on the E end face is blind; at W a building in farmyard use with similar elevation and roof. In the SE corner of the latter is a malting kiln with a plastered room (for grain) above.

This extension, which does not communicate internally with the house, was probably accommodation for farm servants. rounded engaged gatepiers link the E extension to the flanking range of farm buildings. On the rear elevation (facing the farmyard) the central three-window range is also advanced. Twelve-pane windows with hornless sashes above and below. Six-pane hornless-sash windows above in the 4-window wings.

The farmyard ranges at E and W of the yard are symmetrically similar, with six cartsheds each side at the N end facing the yard. These have low segmental arches. There are two staircases in the E range. These ranges are now used mostly as cattle sheds, with some workshops.

The N range has an architecturally composed N elevation (indicating the original main farmyard entrance) with alternating giant square and round headed openings. This was linked to the side ranges by buttressed corner buildings, now unroofed or demolished.

(CADW Listed Buildings Database)

`The Island` Mounds

On a small projecting piece of land, which at high tides the Eastern Cleddau converts into an island, are two mounds of uncertain character. Each one is termed a `Tumulus` on the 6in Ordinance sheet, but neither has the appearance of such, being somewhat oval or pearshaped in plan, and their situation is decidedly against such a suggestion. The summits of both shows traces of masonry foundations, possibly of late construction. The site is now known as `Holy island` or the `Sacred Isle` and somewhere in the immediate vicinity was found a sword 54 inches in length of the period of Henry VI now preserved at Slebach Hall. visited 14th July 1920.

Sockets Rath Tumulus

A mound most probably of sepulchral origin. The site has almost disappeared, but is to be traced by the difference of soil and the quantity of small quartz stones scattered over it – visited 13th March 1923

Sockets Rath (Promontory Fort)

A small earthwork consisting of a half moon shaped bank , some 400 feet in length drawn across the tip of low ground called Picton point at the junction of the Eastern and western Cleddau. There was an exterior ditch now much silted up. The entrance was at the eastern corner of the bank visited 13th March 1923

Castle Lake Fenton 1811 tours

On a protruding point of land there is an old encampment ,called Castle Lake, a strong point having a high agger to the west , a deep ravine on the north east and south west sides, and a precipitous rocky steep facing the river. There was a considerable cavern under it to the north east(his lordship told me) now choked up with the rubbish thrown against the mouth of it by opening a quarry at its side for building stones.

Castle Lake Camp (Promontory Fort)

This earthwork is of the same type as Sockets Rath, though the little rocky bluff rising immediately above the waters of the Cleddau gave it a strategic value that Sockets Rath did not possess. Fenton describes it as `a strong post having a high agger to the west, a deep ravine on the North East and South west sides , and a precipitous rocky steep facing the river`. There has been much quarrying of the rock on the enclosure , in the course of which the ditch has almost disappeared. The entrance was at the western end of the bank – visited 13th March 1923

Solva, ---- [Roman bronze bow brooch or `fibula found]

Occupying the mouth of the River Solva, Lower Solva is set back from the sea along a narrowing inlet providing excellent sheltered harbourage. This inlet has long been considered advantageous. Solva Head promontory fort has overlooked the harbour from a promontory to the east since the Iron Age, and a Roman bronze bow brooch or `fibula' of late first century A.D. type was also found here.

Solva was once a vibrant fishing and trading port where in its heyday, between c.1750 and the mid-nineteenth century, it was recorded that there were some 30 trading ships, nine warehouses and a population of over a thousand people. remarkably, emigrants once sailed from here to New York for a single fare of £3 but had to carry their own food. It was from the same harbour that equipment, cast-iron fittings and timber for the world's earliest pile-built lighthouse on the Smalls Rock were sailed in 1775/6 by Henry Whiteside, and also for the present stone lighthouse which was erected in 1858-61. Voyages to the notorious Rock by the construction team often ended in failure due to changing wind conditions. A major role of the harbour at Solva was the importation of lime, and a number of kilns can still be seen. Today Solva is something of an artists' colony and a popular destination for tourists.

Extract from: Driver, T. 2007. Pembrokeshire, Historic Landscapes from the Air, RCAHMS, Chapter 4. T. Driver, 28 June 2007.

Originally a traditional fishing, shipbuilding and trading port with an iron age fort above the port.

Once copper mined here.

Now a favourite holiday resort centred on a deep and very beautiful rocky creek which is flooded except at low tide.

The name has a Viking origin, and means "sunny inlet".

There is a great seafaring tradition here, and shipbuilding and coastal trading operations were in full swing until the coming of the railway to West Wales killed off most of the ship-borne trade.

The village is in two parts - Lower Solva is the place where holidaymakers congregate, with small-boat sailors conspicuous around the old Quays and with many visitors enjoying the shops and Nectarium in the main street. Up the valley at Middle Mill there is a pretty hamlet with a woollen mill and an old corn mill now used as a shop and buttery.

Fenton 1811

Taking leave of my friend and Llanunwas (Estate of his friend Joseph Harries esq.. -'the demesne of Llanunwas extends from the Valle of the Nine Wells to the estuary of Solva bounded by on one side the turnpike road leading from St David's to Haverfordwest and on the other by the sea.) I descend to the little port of Solva where within these twenty years a new town has sprung up, and the number of the shipping greatly increased. The estuary forms a curious inlet between two high hills, where a clear trout stream discharges itself. The harbour by a singular bend it takes at the mouth when once entered, is well protected from the violence of the sea, and furnishes excellent shelter for shipping, but the entrance is dangerous, having a large pyramidal rock that divides the passage leaving a narrow opening on each side. It has been suggested that this rock, without much difficulty and expense, might be blasted and got rid of; but though in one way it appears to be a detriment, yet in another it is found to be of infinite service, as it checks the influx of the sea which by its removal would, in particular winds, be felt in such a degree as not to admit of the possibility of a vessel riding with any safety in the harbour. There are the remains of an old pier, but injudiciously placed; whereas a pier to form a noble and safe basin within it ought to be constructed at the eastern point, formed by the principal bend of the estuary near its mouth. About half way down the harbour out of the rabby rock issues a most redundant spring, a great convenience to mariners.. The water of the river, though silvery grey and pure, is remarkably hard, but that of the spring light and uncommonly soft. There are about 30 vessels of different descriptions belonging to this port, from twenty to two hundred and fifty tons, but there is but little of either import or export trade, except a few cargoes of corn in Winter shipped off to Bristol and the limestone and culm which the smaller vessels are employed to fetch from Milford for the firing and manure of the neighbourhood. The larger vessels are general carriers, wherever they can get freights.

Solva may be said to be divided into an upper and a lower town. The upper , like the lower, every day increasing, and built without reference to any particular plan, which, from a most perverse intermixture of property, and unaccommodating spirit to continue it, can never become regular, commands a most delightful view of that almost land locked expanse of ocean, St Bride's Bay, and begins to be frequented in the summer months by such as wish for an airy, healthy situation with a charming sea prospect.

The lower town, affecting to get into the form of a street, would not be unpleasant or very irregular were it not for two lime-kilns placed in the centre of the western Row, and rather too forward in it , whose hot vapour, and the dirt and noise of carting incidental to them make them very offensive, proving a great drawback on a residence in that part of the town where the chief shops and warehouses are, and the trade of the place is carried on; yet those friends of agriculture, though in this case nuisances, from having existed prior to the thought of any houses, will be able to maintain their ground; and it would be difficult to prevail on their proprietors perhaps to destroy them. The houses are stretching fast up the valley, having beautiful hanging and very early gardens behind , and before between them and the river. The fences are chiefly planted with elder, that here boasts a luxuriance of growth that I have never observed any where else, even about the upper town in the teeth of the sea and south west wind. It was now in bloom and scented the air to a great distance. Few places can have a more picturesque or cheerful appearance, especially in approaching it from the Haverfordwest road. Where you see the commercial division of the town and the port to great advantage. The hills that form this interesting little valley were formerly well wooded but the hills immediately about Solva have not the slightest vestige of their former clothing, being overgrown with firze and fern.

The eastern boundary of the harbour of Solva is a very curious ridge, separating from the inlet of Gwadan on the other side. It rises to a sharp summit, and continues of the same breadth and form for a mile and seems to have had its whole extent covered with a series of encampments.

1895 Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire –Timmins

Crossing the bridge that spans the Newgale Brook we enter the ancient Welsh province of Dewisland. Presently our venerable quadrupeds are crawling at a snail's pace down a slanting hillside not quite steep as a house roof with the village of Lower Solva squeezed into a crevice beneath our very feet. The situation of this pretty hamlet recalls the Devonshirecombe that enfolds with such imitable Grace the village of Clovelly. groups of bowery cottages cluster around the head of a landlocked Haven, which, small as it is bears no inconsiderable traffic in coal, lime and general produce from the Bristol channel ports for distribution Throughout the western parts of Pembrokeshire. The rocky weed-strewn shores shelving up to low grassy hills overarched by the soft blue sky; a stranded coasting vessel, with weather-stained canvas and rust eaten anchor, besides a handful of rough fishermen's cottages present all that an artist could desire to compose a charming picture.

From the crest of the Hill near Upper Solva a wide view of the sea opens out, with a Brace of rocky islets off the coast; while far ahead the high lands of Ramsey Isle, Carne Llidi and Pen Beri raise their graceful undulations above remote Octopitarum, and the wind swept sandhills that mark the site of legendary Menapia.

Topographical Dictionary of Wales – Lewis 1839

Solva, a small sea-port, in the parish of Whitchurch, union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Dewisland, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 12 miles (N. W. by W.) from Haverfordwest; containing 596 inhabitants. This place derives its name from its situation near the mouth of the small river Solva, which here discharges itself into the northern part of St. St Bride's Bay. It first came into notice from the great demand for shipping during the last war, and the convenience of its harbour; and, from one of the poorest hamlets in this part of the principality, has within the last sixty years risen into a flourishing little town. The houses are of very neat appearance, but are built without any regard to regularity of plan, and only those which are situated in the lower part of the valley, in a direction parallel with the river, have the form of a street. Within a few hundred yards of the original buildings another small town has been erected, occupying the height above the Valle, and from that circumstance called Upper Solva. The aspect of the whole is highly interesting; the cottages are of a comfortable description, and the gardens, laid out in terraces on the acclivity of the Hill, and commanding a fine view of the sea, are pleasing and picturesq.ue.

The harbour is sheltered from the waves of St. St Bride's Bay by a singular bend at the mouth, and by a large pyramidal rock, which divides the entrance into two narrow passages. It is accessible to ships of five hundred tons' burthen, and in cases of emergency ships of a thousand tons might anchor; but the great rock at its mouth, and the high lands which surround it, appear at a distance as one entire cliff, and render the approach somewhat dangerous, owing to the difficulty in discerning the entrance. Many nautical men are of opinion that, at a very small expense, such improvements might be made as would render it one of the safest and most commodious Havens on the coast. There were formerly about thirty vessels of various descriptions belonging to the port, of from twenty to two hundred and fifty tons' burthen; but that number is greatly reduced, and at present there are only four brigs, varying from one hundred and fifty to two hundred tons' burthen, and a few small craft of from twenty to forty tons. The staple trade of the port is in corn, of which considerable quantities are shipped for the English Markets; and in limestone and coal, which are brought from Milford Haven: the limestone is burnt into lime at some kilns near the entrance of the town, for the supply of the surrounding districts. The sand of the harbour, possessing saline Properties, is raised in tolerable quantity at low water, and landed on the Quay, whence it is taken away by the farmers in the neighbourhood, and used as a manure. A small Market is held weekly on Friday. On the ridge called the Gribyn, which bounds the valley of the Solva on the east, are traces of various intrenched encampments; and at the southern extremity, towards the sea, is a circular intrenchment, surrounded by a rampart of loose stones, and supposed to be of British origin.—See Whitchurch.

In this town, until transferred to Milford was the establishment belonging to the lighthouse upon the "Smalls," a cluster of dangerous rocks, distant about eighteen miles from the Welsh coast, bearing from St. Anne's Point W. N. W., from St Davids W. S. W., and from Gresholm W.¾ N. These rocks form three distinct reefs, extending parallel to each other in a direction from north-east to south-west, for three-quarters of a mile; the entire breadth in a transverse direction is about a quarter of a mile. The greater number of them are above water, while others are visible only at half tide; on the largest of the former is the lighthouse, the plan of which was first suggested by Mr. Philipps of Liverpool, and the building erected by Mr. Whitesides, of the same place. It was completed in the year 1775, and its stability was proved by the architect himself, who, in company with two other persons, passed the following Winter in it. The lighthouse is an octagonal building, resting upon eight strong oak piles at the Angles, and one in the centre; the piles at the north and north-east Angles are stayed, to resist the violence of the waves, which sometimes strike the edifice on the opposite side with the whole force of the Atlantic swell. The rock on which it is built is twelve feet above the level of the sea at high water, and the lantern has an elevation of seventy feet; it is lighted by eighteen argand lamps, and in clear weather the light, which is of a red colour, is seen at the distance of five or six leagues, having the appearance of a star of the first magnitude. Beneath the lantern are the store-room and the apartments for the men, who are always three in number, and are furnished with a supply of provisions and stores for six months, as it frequently happens that for many weeks together, during the Winter, no boat can reach the rock. The erection of a lighthouse on these dangerous rocks has been attended with the greatest benefit to the navigation of the Channel, many lives and much property having been saved since the design was carried into effect. The Smalls, it is said, belong to no parish, nor are they within any county; but they are nearest to the Welsh coast, and the inhabitants of the lighthouse are considered as parishioners of Whitchurch.

Pembrokeshire Church Plate J T Evans

St Aidan Solva – This is a Chapel of Ease built in 1879 and there is no plate

.

Early Christian Sculptured Stone

Solva is some 3 miles east of St David's. In the Church of St Aidan (Maedoc) beside the A487 there is an early Christianized stone called 'Maen Dewi' - St David's Stone. It has an early Christian ring-cross carved onto it, but could, in fact, be an older, prehistoric stone.

The stone was brought to St Aidan's Church in 1925 after being discovered in use as a gatepost at St Elvis farm about a mile and half east of here. It had stood beside the second entrance to the farm for some considerable time without anyone realising what it was. On the stone there is an incised ring cross - a thin linear cross that is mainly concentrated within a round circle; however the lower arm or shaft extends downwards - the whole cross measures 8'x16' - and is probably a Christianized stone.

The artefact has long been associated with St David, patron St of Wales, and may have once stood beside St Aelbyw's holy well in St Elvis farmyard. This well is considered to be the one where David was baptised in about 500 AD by St Ailbhe, Bishop of Munster, in Ireland. It probably stood in the old Church of St Teilo which is now a ruin in the farmyard. The ruined Church was said to measure 35 feet east to west and 17 feet across, but after 1850 it fell into decay and the stone and an old font were brought for safety to St Aidan's in Solva.

Non Conformist Chapels

Solva Methodist Chapel was built in 1812 and rebuilt during the mid nineteenth century. The later Chapel was built in the Vernacular style with a long-wall entry plan and round-headed windows. By 1922 this Chapel had been converted for use as a Memorial Hall and by 2010 had been demolished. RCAHMW, November 2010

Capel-y-Cwm Methodist Chapel was built in 1823 and rebuilt in 1887. The later Chapel was built in the Simple Gothic style of the gable entry type. By 1993 this Chapel had been converted into a shop/ studio/gallery. RCAHMW, November 2010

Hen Capel Baptist Chapel was built before 1800 and by 1905 was serving as the Sunday School. This former Chapel was built in the Vernacular style of the long-wall entry type. By 1994 this Chapel stood disused. RCAHMW, November 2010

Mount Pleasant Baptist Chapel was built in 1863 by masons William Harris and John Richards, with carpenters Joshua Morris & Son of Newport. The Chapel is built in the Sub-Classical and Simple Gothic style gable entry type. Mount Pleasant is now Grade 2 Listed. RCAHMW, November 2010

Mynydd Independent Chapel is shown on the First Edition of the OS 1/2500, 1891. It appears to have been of the lateral entry type with porches at the NE and SW ends of the SE side. The Chapel was built in the Simple round-Headed style. In 1896 this was rebuilt with, on the SE side, corner vestibules accessed from a central covered porch. The porch has a single, central cast-iron column supporting a small, plain pedimented gable. RCAHMW, D J Percival, April 2007

Felinganol Baptist Chapel was built in 1756, rebuilt in 1799 and rebuilt again in 1833. Further alterations took place in 1833 and in 1920, which included a refronting project. The present Chapel, dated 1920, is built in the Gothic style of the long-wall entry type and with a total immersion pool in the small churchyard. Felinganol is now Grade 2 Listed. RCAHMW, November 2010

Names associated with Solva

Pigot & Co. South Wales directory for 1844

Solva

.....is a small sea-port, in the parish of Whitchurch, in the same hundred and county as St Davids, four miles east from that city. The scenery around here is highly romantic, and the air is very salubrious. The port has a small trade in the export of corn and butter, and importation of culm and limestone. There is no Church here, though there are several dissenting Chapels. A small Market is held on Friday. Population of Whitchurch parish, in 1831, 1,028; and in 1841, 1,120.

POST OFFICE, Solva,

Henry O. Thomas , Post Master.-Letters from all parts arrive (from Haverfordwest) every morning (Sunday excepted) at seven, and are despatched thereto every afternoon at five.

GENTRY AND Clergy.

Bland Mrs. Phoebe,	Trelethen
Harries Gilbert,	esq.. Llanunwas
Harries Henry,	esq.. Trenginnis
Harries John H.	esq.. Trevaccoon
Prosser John,	(inspectg. Commander of the preventive service), Nine Wells
Raymond Thomas ,	esq.. Upper Solva
Williams John,	esq.. Treyarched
Williams Rev. James,	Whitchurch
Yeates R.H.M.	esq.. Hencre House

NATIONAL SCHOOL, Upper Solva-

Henry O. Roberts,	Master
--------------------------	--------

AGENTS

Williams John,	(to Lloyd 's), Solva
-----------------------	-------------------------------------

BLACKSMITH

Jenkins David,	Solva
Morris David,	Upper Solva
Phillips Daniel,	Upper Solva

BOOT AND SHOE MAKERS.

Arnold John,	St Davids
Lloyd John,	Solva
Morris Thomas ,	Solva
Roberts David,	Solva
Thomas Henry,	Solva

Wagner Edward, Upper Solva

CARPENTERS & JOINERS.

David John, Solva

John William, Solva

Lewis John, Upper Solva

Lloyd William, Upper Solva

COOPERS.

Matthias John, Solva

Richards William, Solva

CORN, SEED AND GENERAL MERCHANTS.

Williams John, Solva

GROCERS, DRAPERS, AND DEALERS IN SUNDRIES.

Bevan Thomas , Upper Solva

David John, Solva

Griffiths John, Solva

Harries Henry, Solva

Howell John, Solva

John Thomas , Solva

INNS. (SEE ALSO TAVERNS & PUBLIC HOUSES.)

Cambrian, John Howell, Solva

Ship Richard Williams, Solva

LIME BURNERS

James Michael, Solva

John Thomas ,	Solva
Raymond Thomas ,	Upper Solva

MILLERS.

Thomas Ebenezer,	Solva
-------------------------	--------------

MILLINERS AND DRESS MAKERS.

Bowen Eliza,	Solva
---------------------	--------------

Bowen Jane,	(and straw hat), Solva
--------------------	-------------------------------

Cormack Hepzebah,	Upper Solva
--------------------------	--------------------

Thomas Jane,	Solva
---------------------	--------------

PAINTERS & GLAZIERS.

Davies John,	Solva
---------------------	--------------

John William,	Solva
----------------------	--------------

STONE MASONS

Harries William,	Solva
-------------------------	--------------

Watts Jason,	Upper Solva
---------------------	--------------------

SURGEONS.

Howell John,	Solva
---------------------	--------------

Williams Peter,	Solva
------------------------	--------------

TAILORS.

Harries Henry,	Solva
-----------------------	--------------

Harries Thomas ,	Upper Solva
-------------------------	--------------------

Lewis James,	Solva
---------------------	--------------

Thomas George, Solva

TAVERNS & PUBLIC HOUSES.

Hope & Anchor,	Ann Bowen Solva
Mariners,	John Davies, Solva
Royal George,	Margt. Williams, Uppr Solva
Square & Compass,	William John, Solva
Swan,	Daniel Arnold, Upper Solva
Union,	John Lewis, Upper Solva

TIMBER MERCHANTS.

Williams John,	Solva
-----------------------	--------------

WHEELWRIGHTS

Davies John & Son,	Solva
John William,	Solva

MISCELLANEOUS.

Howell John,	Auctioneer And Wine And Spirit Merchant, Solva
Lawrence William,	Shipwright, Solva
Prosser Levi,	Saddler, Upper Solva
Williams John,	Watch Maker, Solva

CARRIERS.

TO Haverfordwest,	Mary John, from Solva.
--------------------------	-------------------------------

Davies James Griffiths 1838-1890 a Baptist minister was born near Solva Pembrokeshire Baptized when 13 years of age he was received into Haverfordwest College in 1859 In 1862 he settled at Beulah Church where he ministered for 27 years As a preacher he was endowed with rare abilities and he became one of the best known public men in his denomination Throughout Wales

His profound thought penetrating judgment intense earnestness and glowing eloquence commanded the admiration of all who attended his ministrations He was remarkably zealous in the cause of civil liberty and religious equality Baptist Handbook 1890 Eminent Welshmen

Harries George 1818 of Trevaccoon son of John Harding Harries born at Solva 1818 married 1855 Charlotte Frances Forster daughter of the Rev Charles Manners Forster and inherited the Trevaccoon estates in 1869 they had one son and six daughters The son and heir Charles Harding Harries

Hoton Adam 1361 born Caervoriog near Solva..... Bishop of St David's —acc/to Fenton— property later became a possession of the Perrots Arch Camb 1865

Morris Rhys killed in Pier Hotel Pembroke Dock destroyed by enemy action. 1941 May 12th Pembroke Dock .. ."born Solva but lived for many years in Haverfordwest," proprietor of the Pier Hotel buried when the hotel received a direct hit and was totally destroyed,"Vernon Scott

Whitesides 1797 Feb 22 Solva Liverpool contractor for the erection of the Smalls Lighthouse Raised a force from the Solva sailors French Landing at Fishguard – E Laws – Arch Camb 1883

The State of Education in Wales 1847

Solva British School

On the 14th of January I visited the above place. The schoolroom was well furnished with desks and benches. There were no maps or cards, but the master told me that they had cards and that a carpenter was then engaged in fixing them to boards. A one end of the room there was a platform to which boys who had attained a certain proficiency were promoted, as well as private pupils of the master. The room was well lighted by six glazed windows. The master was educated at the Presbyterian College Carmarthen; he occasionally assisted in preaching at the Independent Chapel, but derived no emolument from it; he seemed an intelligent man. The assistant at the school was almost a cripple; he received no fixed salary, but was entirely dependent upon the generosity of the committee; he formerly was a master of the National school at Solva, which had been closed for some time past, for want of sufficient funds, and was licenced as a Chapel of ease under Whitchurch.

David Lewis Assistant

Solva Dame School

The mistress of this school was formerly a sempstress, but from ill health was obliged to relinquish her trade. She lived with her mother and took such few pupils as she could get to earn some little support. The room in which the school was kept was part of the dwelling house. It contained no manner of school furniture. David Lewis Assistant

At one time Solva had a reputation for smuggling and wrecking. In 1773 a ship called "Phebe & Peggy" was wrecked near here. Everyone on board was murdered by the locals for their valuables.

Wrecks at Solva Acc to Pembrokeshire Dive UK

At one time Solva had a reputation for smuggling and wrecking. In 1773 a ship called "Phebe & Peggy" was wrecked near here. Everyone on board was murdered by the locals for their valuables.

1773 January 8th PHOEBE AND PEGGY Fully rigged ship. Porth-y-Bwlch. Solva. Philadelphia to Liverpool.

December 12th JOHN AND MICHAEL. Sailing Ship. Solva.

1812 December 30th FORTITUDE. Brig. Solva.

1845 September 23rd VICTORIA. (YOUGHAL). Schooner. Solva Harbour entrance vessel slipped off rocks and ended on beach.

1846 November 20th. VICTORIA. Schooner. Off Solva. Driven onto Green Scar Rock in SW gale.

1862 October 17th OAK. (BELFAST). Sailing Ship. Solva. (off Solva.??).

1902 August 20th. RESULT. Ketch. Solva.

Solva of interest

The Small's Lighthouse

".....in 1856 the "almost stagnant trade" of the town was revived by the building of the second Smalls Lighthouse under the direction of Sir James Douglass. This was completed in 1861 at a cost of £50,125, although the Corporation of Trinity House had to pay £170,468 for the proprietorship of the first Smalls Lighthouse.

It was built of 3,696 tons of granite, the stones being brought by steam tugs, whaleboats and barges from the De Lank Quarries near Bodmin in Cornwall. The stones were dressed in Solva and shipped from Trinity Quay, which was built for this purpose and named after the Corporation of Trinity House."

["The History of Solva" by F.W. Warburton 1944]

Lifeboat Station Solva

Sailing Directions dating to 1870 note that there was a lifeboat at Solva. OS 1st edition mapping shows the lifeboat house and its slipway at the western end of Trinity Quay. Modern aerial photography suggest that the building and slipway are still extant. It has been reported that the building has been altered with its entrance doors reduced in size and two windows blocked up. The tide guage alongside the slip is dated 1856.

Maritime Officer, RCAHMMW, September 2014.

Sand Quay Solva

Lewis Morris' early chart for Solvach Bay and Harbour shows an anchorage/drying berth at, what is now known as Sand Quay. OS 1st edition mapping shows a track following the cliff edge and leading down the foreshore from the northeast. The track converges on a level area containing what may have been a small proto-dock (Sand Quay). Modern aerial photography reveals the Quay to have been substantially remodelled and developed. It is reported to be faced with an assortment of brick blocks and stone and has slipway access to the beach at its eastern end. The small 'proto-dock' has been infilled.

Sources include:

Morris, L, 1748, Plans of Harbours, Bars, Bays and roads in St George's Channel, plate 22

NAW aerial photography 2006-9

OS 1st edition 25in

Maritime Officer, RCAHMMW, September 2014.

Solva Limekilns

A bank of four circular lime kilns, linked by straight lengths of retaining wall, c.45m overall extent, fronting a terrace above the S foreshore of Solva harbour.

Repaired 1996 following storm damage. RCAHMMW J.Wiles 12.09.03

Lime became commonly used to improve agricultural land after c.1600, but it was not until the early nineteenth century that most of the permanent, stone-built limekilns around the Welsh coast were constructed. Far safer than transporting burnt, unslaked lime by sea, rock and coal were imported directly to coastal limekilns to be burnt, so that the finished product could be transported inland to where it was needed. The impressive set of four limekilns forming a single masonry structure on the east side of Solva harbour was once joined by six others nearby.

T. Driver, 28 June 2007.

Solva Woollen Mill

opened on 31 January 1907 and has been in continuous production since. It specialises in carpets and floor rugs. Originally powered by an overshot water-wheel, now restored and running but not supplying power, the mill uses the leat built for the adjacent corn mill

. The factory contains five Dobcross looms and associated warping and weft preparation machinery.

(Sources include: Welsh Mills Society published leaflet, 1999)

B.A.Malaws, RCAHMMW, 27 September 2001 & 21 October 2014.

Corn Mill Middle Mill Solva

1. Disused but intact water powered corn mill; part converted for holiday accommodation. Overshot waterwheel.

B.A.Malaws, 28 September 2001.

Middle Mill occupies the central, north-east section of an L-plan range of buildings, developing from the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, and heavily restored in the late twentieth century. They are constructed of rubblestone, with artificial slate roofs. The mill contains a full set of machinery, which was driven by an overshot iron waterwheel on the north gable. The principal access was provided by a cart entry in the angle of the building, now made narrower, and there is an access from the road into the upper floor, where the mill is built into the bank. The mill was probably originally separated from the mill house to the south-west, but a later building, of two storeys but with a lower roof line, has been inserted to link them.

Information from Cadw Listed Buildings database. W J Crompton, RCAHMW, 3 July 2014.

Llanungar Faer Maenhir RCAM 1921

A fine monolith 300 yds south west of the farm house of Llanungar Fawr. It stands 7ft above the soil and leans slightly eastwards. Although the monument is marked on the Ord Surv sheet as "Cromlech" there is no trace of other stones around it, or any suggestion of the base of a mound; nor does a tradition survive to warrant the idea of a cromlech having stood here. The field is known as Parc garreg and the second and third fields due east as Stone Park and Upper Stone Park respectively. --visited 27th April 1920.

Stones at Tre Maenhir RCAM 1921

On the farm of Tre Maenhir are two standing stones; one erected in the hedge of the farmyard, the other recumbent on the far side of the road. Both are rude monoliths from 7ft to 8ft high. The initials J G cut on one are those of the late John Gibbon, who was born here and occupied the farm for over 60 years. He informed the Pembrokeshire Survey enquirer that "it was a tradition in his family that before the fields were enclosed the farm was a sheep walk, and that the round up was at the three meini hirion – hence the name Tre maenhir or Tre Maen Hir. There can be no doubt that the former is the correct form of the farm name –visited 20th April 1921.

Standing Stone RCAM 1921

On Parc y Garreg, the second field south of Tre Cadwgan farm house is an erect stone about 4 ½ ft above the level of the soil and bluntly pointed. It is not marked on the 6in sheet –visited 13th April 1921.

Standing Stone RCAM 1921

In the field known as Parc Maen immediately west of St David's Vicarage, is a standing stone not marked on the 6 in sheet. It has a height of 37 in from the soil, its somewhat flattened top being 27in by 25 in. Unlike the other meini hirion in this parish this is of "pudding stone" with a somewhat smoother surface. It may not be an antiquity ---- Visited 19th April 1921.

Porth y Rhaw Camp RCAM 1921

A cliff castle on the south west boundary of the parish locally known as 'Old Encampment'. The peninsula which is surrounded on three sides by the sea, is fortified by a rampart some 280yds in length that is extended to the west for another 60yds. The extension being along the edge of a sheer and formidable cliff. A portion of the enclosed area has been swept away by the sea since the building of the line of defence. Beyond the rampart the camp is further defended by a series of three terraces from 12ft to 15ft in width, the drop from one to another being sharply scarped. The terraces have each a low bank in front. The first scarp has a present drop of some 15ft, the second of 20ft, the third 25ft and fourth and outermost of 12ft with a slight ditch beyond. The present entrance, some 50ft from the western termination of the main rampart, has a width of 15ft; possibly this is a later entrance – the original may have been destroyed by the elements. 19th April 1921
This is one of the few earthworks of which Fenton gives a somewhat detailed account.

Fenton saw in the centre of the enclosure 'two large stones near which I dug and found charcoal and other strong evidence of there having been much fire there..... near it we got a bed of limpet shells – In the space between the outer and second and second vallum there are many little hollows marking where huts had been... On the declivity of the Hill facing the creek and seemingly connected with it, there is the foundation of an old wall, or perhaps a pitched way stretching upward towards the country' (Tour p135)

According to the Pem. Arch Survey, there was in the ditch outside the camp 'a broken stone worthy of note. The stone when entire measured 34 in by 36 in by 16in thick. On either side is a bored hole, the outer edge of one side is 6in in diameter and the one on the opposite side of the same dimension, and both holes are about 8in deep. The holes are nearly opposite but do not meet'. Neither this object of Fenton's hut circles, are now to be found. Erosion has removed all signs of a descent to the sea, but from slight traces remaining at the summit of the cliff such a feature would seem to have been part of the original plan –visited 20th April 1921.

Gribin Entrenchment. RCAM 1921

Some thirty years ago an earthwork on the Hill known as Gribin above Solva Harbour, when examined by Lieut-Col W L Morgan, RE was found to have been 'practically destroyed'; cultivation and the erection of stone boundaries have now made it impossible to say with any degree of certainty what the nature of the work really was. It was evidently an enclosure which followed the contour of the Hill, the defence consisted of a stone wall without ditch. The entrance may have been to the north. To the east, west and south, the Hill falls 100ft to sea level. The site commands the mouth of the creek known as Solva Harbour. Within the last 20years, the Site is reported to have shown 'distinct outlines of three circular hut foundations ... still discernible but much overgrown' (Pem Arch Survey)

About half a mile to the north east, the 6 in sheet marks another 'Intrenchment' of which few traces remain. It was evidently of similar construction to the former –visited 20th April 1921.

Y Castell RCAM 1921

Of this work, on a farm locally known as Hendre Ruffydd, a quarter of a mile east of the parish Church, only the faintest indications are visible. Advantage was apparently taken of a rocky outcrop, 100yds in length and 25 in breadth, upon which a loose stone wall seems to have been imposed. The site, however, became occupied by cottages and gardens now in ruins, so that further description is impossible. A field to the east is known as Pant y Castell and another containing an erect and somewhat pointed stone is called Parc y Garreg –visited 19th April 1921.

Caerforiog RCAM 1921

A modern farm house standing on the site of Caerforiog Mansion, the birthplace of Adam Houghton Bishop of St David's (1361 – 1289) and Lord Chancellor.

According to Jones and Freeman, inconsiderable remains of the mansion were used as an outhouse so recently as 1856; they speak of a 'doorway with an ogee head and moulded jambs, possibly of the 14th century and one or two small windows, now blocked'

Site of Chapel. RCAM 1921

About 30yds south of the house are the scanty ruins of a small Chapel which was practically destroyed in the year 1898, when its stones were used in the erection of the present cow-sheds.

The south wall, 30ft in length and 4ft in height, and a portion of the west wall still remain, as also the part of a doorway 40 in wide in the south wall. The Chapel had a length of 30ft and a width of 12ft. The piscina, circular and plain is built upside down in the wall of the new structure – visited 19th April 1921.

Neolithic Factory RCAM 1921

On Tre Maenhir common, about the year 1883 Dr Henry Hicks, F.R.S. President of the Geological Society, discovered evidence of a factory of neolithic implements (Laws Little England 1888 p 17). Four celts from this site are in Tenby Museum : 'a rough celt of the fine grained ash of the district; another very like it of gabbro; a third of chert, that had it been discovered under different circumstances, would have perhaps been assigned to the palaeological age; and a forth of ash, like the first but finely worked and polished.'

Ffynnon Dogfael, Solva

Well covered over, no local traditions, RCAHMW

Ffynnon Dewi; Ffynnonddewi, Solva

1. A spring with a reputation of curative powers.
2. A 0.6m square cavity, 0.6m deep, the lower part of which appears to have been stone lined. The well, which has been linked with the St David's pilgrimage, was full of brackish water and disused in 1964.

J.Wiles 15.05.02 RCAHMW

Gribin Promontory Fort, South Of Solva Harbour

The promontory fort at Gribin is a pear-shaped enclosure, about 56m by 74m, set across a narrow ridge above the inlet to Solva Harbour. It is defined by stong scarps, possibly concealing stone-walling, and is ditched on the north-east and south. Internally there appear to be two circular and two rectangular structures.

J.Wiles, RCAHMW, 12 September 2003.

The Gribin Ridge Fort is sited on narrow spine of the Gribin ridge, 55m above sea level, some

300m SW of the Upper Solva defended enclosure and 500m NE of the Gribin fort

The fort is roughly oval shaped and measures 127m NE by SW and between 7m and 34m NW by SE. It is defined by steep natural slopes along its eastern side and by a 4.5m wide terrace along its western side. There is no evidence for any extant defences and it is most likely that a timber palisade originally enclosed the fort. Given the steep slopes to the east and west, the approach to the fort was most likely along the spine of the Gribin ridge, with two opposing entrances set at the NE and SW ends.

Within the fort nearly all available space is occupied by a series of platforms, presumably providing level foundations for structures. Some 20 platforms are evident their varying size suggesting some may have been occupied by more than one structure. The most obvious platforms survive as a series of clear earthworks created through cutting into the sloping ground on the west side of the fort. Those on the ridge top survive as much shallower depressions cut into the bed rock.

The fort lay unrecorded until 2010 following investigation by the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park archaeologist. Since then the Royal Commission has carried out aerial reconnaissance and a detailed survey of the site.

Louise Barker, RCAHMW, June 2013

Solva Defence enclosure

is a small, quite lightly defended enclosure with concentric annexe lying on a ridge crest at 60m above sea level. It occupies a strong naturally defensive position, with very steep slopes to the north and south. To the southwest the ridge-top falls away slightly and narrows to an arête. The most easily approachable side is the northeast where the flat ridge-top widens out into the coastal plateau. The main enclosure is sub-rectangular in shape approximately 100m SW - NE and 85m SE - NW internally. The defences are best preserved beneath a hedge-bank on the southwest side where a single earth bank (stonework here seems to be associated with the hedge-bank rather than the defences) rises to over 2m externally, with no trace of a ditch. On the north and south sides the bank survives as a scarp, up to 1.5m - 1m high externally at the western ends, but fading to nothing to the east. The northeast end is defended by a spread bank up to 6m wide and 0.5m high, but this fades to nothing towards the southeast corner of the enclosure. There is a trace of a ditch towards the northeast corner, and here a simple gap marks the entrance. The defence of the outer enclosure or annexe is best preserved to the southwest of the main or inner enclosure. Here a simple spread bank 1m high externally lies 100m from the inner enclosure, cutting off the approach along the arête. This bank curves round to the northeast and southeast where it fades into a scarp running along the sharp breaks of slope that define the ridge-top. Effectively this bank forms a concentric outer enclosure, but not a complete circuit as the easily approachable northeast side is left undefended by it. In 2006, the site was under improved pasture.

(Ken Murphy, Dyfed Archaeological Trust, 2006).

The fort commands the north-easterly summit of the Gribin ridge, which descends to the sea to the south-west and has two further promontory forts, the Gribin Ridge fort and the Gribin promontory fort

Royal Commission aerial reconnaissance on 16th July 2013 recorded parchmarks which added to our understanding of this interesting concentric defended enclosure. On the north-east side, where the ground is almost level, aerial photos show the curving line of a palisade trench continuing the course of the outer enclosure where the earthwork is almost plough levelled. This allows calculation of a maximum dimension to the outer enclosure of approx. 320m NE-SW by 180m, meaning that the defended enclosure as a whole encompasses some 4.0 hectares.

Further complexity was suggested on the south-west side where the ridge narrows and the outer enclosure swings around to cut off the coastal approach to the summit, with the site of the gate marked by a simple gap in the earthwork. Parchmarks clearly show an outer palisade trench, or a very narrow slit-trench, external to the rampart and flanking the gateway. However, rather than the line of this outer rampart forming a concentric defence to the inner, parchmarks clarify its return back north, forming a 'Bailey' or discrete outer enclosure to the west of the main inner enclosure. This may suggest a more complex development to this site than was previously thought.

T. Driver, RCAHMW, Dec 2013.

St David's Airfield, Solva

consisted of thirty diamond-shaped hard-standings which were placed in five clusters around the perimeter, the most extensive clusters being to the north. The bomb store and fuel store were also placed on the northern perimeter, with the bomb dump further to the north. The south side of the airfield was the area determined for a watch office to pattern 12779/41, living quarters, and various maintenance buildings formed from Nissen or Maycrete huts. Provision for four T type hangars was also made on the southern perimeter, but only three were erected. Three Blister hangars were also built. The airfield had three runways 1801m (5910ft) long, 975m (3200ft) long, and 1088m (3570ft) long, established in a triangular pattern. The majority of buildings have now been demolished, but the runways and taxi-areas remain.

Event and Historical Information:

St Davids was initially intended to be a base for the US Navy with Consolidated Vultee PB4Y Liberators, but in September 1943 it opened for RAF Coastal Command units instead. The first aircraft were Boeing B17 Flying Fortresses from 206 and 220 squadrons. 517 Meteorological Squadron brought two Handley Page Halifax bombers in November 1943, followed in December by the Halifaxes and Hawker Henleys from 58 and 502 squadrons. 517 Squadron moved to Brawdy when it opened in February 1944. However, 58 Squadron was in residence at St David's until August 1944, and 502 Squadron until September 1944. 202 Squadron returned between June-September 1945 along with 53 Squadron (both equipped with PB4Y Liberator aircraft). The station's headquarters was moved to Brawdy along with the sick bay and workshops facilities in November 1945. St Davids was then placed into care and maintenance before both airfields were passed to the Royal Navy on 1 January 1946. Between 1955 and 1958, whilst Brawdy was being modernised to accept jet aircraft, St Davids was used by the Fleet Requirement Unit (FRU) operated by Airworld Ltd.
RCAHMW, June 2008.

Spittal

An interesting Landsker village, more English than Welsh, just to the east of the A40 near Treffgarne. There is a simple bellcote Church, a “rath” and a compact village layout including a village Green. There was once a hospitium here (hence the name) probably used by pilgrims en route for St David’s. There are strip fields around the village revealing Norman influence. In the 1700’s the village was used by the cattle drovers, and there was a thriving tannery. Now the village lies within Haverfordwest’s commuter belt which has caused it to be built up with much modern housing.

Topographical Dictionary of Wales 1839 Lewis

SPITTAL, a parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Dungleddy, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 5 miles (N. by E.) from Haverfordwest; containing 429 inhabitants. This parish is bounded on the east by Walton, south by Rudbaxton, west by Camrhos and part of Trevgarn, and north by Ambleston. It is situated on the western Cleddy, which forms its boundary on the west; and is intersected by the turnpike-roads leading from Haverfordwest to Cardigan and Fishguard, respectively. It contains by admeasurement 2674 acres, all of it arable or pasture, except from 10 to 20 acres of woodland. The surface is generally flat, and the scenery therefore not very attractive: the soil is of an excellent quality, producing grass, and wheat, barley, and oats; the prevailing timber is oak and ash. There are three modern mansions, named Scotton, Froy Hall and Haver Hill. The living is a perpetual curacy, endowed with £800 royal bounty, and £200 parliamentary grant; net income, £79; patron, the Bishop of St Davids. The tithes, which are appropriate, have been commuted for a rent-charge of £152, and there is an appropriate glebe of 32 acres, valued at £20 per annum. The Church, dedicated to St. Mary , is not distinguished by any architectural details of importance, consisting only of a nave and chancel, separated by a low and unornamented circular arch; the length is 78 feet, and the breadth 24. There are places of worship for Baptists, Wesleyan Methodists, and Independents; and two Sunday schools.

About 100 yards south-east of the Church is an ancient ruin, covering nearly an acre of land, and said to have been a hospitium, or hospital, from which the word Spittal is supposed to be derived. It must have been a place of considerable importance, as the walls, still visible in some parts, are of great solidity, being about five feet in thickness; and under these, immense vaults have been discovered. Tradition reports the erection to have been by the monks of St Davids, at an early period, for the accommodation of pilgrims to the shrine of St Davids; which is slightly corroborated by the circumstance of the tithes of the parish still belonging to the dignitaries of the cathedral. In the parish are also several remains of ancient encampments, here called "rhâths:" of these, one occupies the summit of a conical Hill which rises abruptly in the Valle ; the area, about two acres, is nearly circular, and is inclosed by a single rampart. Near it was a Chapel, dedicated to St. Leonard, which, together with the Church at Rudbaxton, was granted by Alexander Rudebac to the commandery of the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, at Slebech; and on the site of this Chapel, and on that of another a mile west of the Church (the two being called East Chapel Park, and west Chapel Park), stone coffins and a great quantity of human bones have been dug up. Not far from the road leading from Haverfordwest to Cardigan is a place named "Scotton Gallows," where tradition says the heir of the family suffered in consequence of slaying the heir of the family of Heythog on that spot in a duel. West of the same road, at Scotton, is an elegant mansion, erected by Jas. Higgon, esq., being one of the three mansions above mentioned: it commands an extensive western view.

Spittal St Mary

The narrow arch towards a demolished north transept looks Norman so the nave maybe of that date. It contains a Norman font. The 13th century chancel has a recess in the south wall. The porch is also medieval.

Spittal Parish Church dedicated to St Mary RCAM

This small building consists simply of a chancel and nave : it was restored in 1861 and 1898. on either side of the chancel arch is a squint; that on the north being 4ft by 1 ¼ ft and its fellow 3 ¼ ft by 1 ¼ ft, narrowing eastwards to 1 ½ ft by 8 inches. In the south chancel wall is a low recess, which may have been an Easter sepulchre or have contained a tomb. The font bowl is of square Norman type with the usual scalloped sides; externally it is 22 in square, with a circular basin 17in in diameter; The base has been renewed. Surmounting the west gable is a double Bell cote and at the junction of the chancel and nave is a single Bell-cote, known locally as the priest's Bell. visited 15th July 1915

Inscribed Stone

In the porch, to which it has been removed from the churchyard is a stone bearing the inscription ;-
EVALI FILI DENCVI CVNIO VENDE MATER EIVS

Early inscribed stones of Wales Spittal Pembrokeshire Arch Camb 1861

In the churchyard at this place and on the southern side of the sacred edifice, immediately against the eastern side of the entrance, by the porch , stands a tall stone of the porphyritic greenstone formation, from Preselau. It is nearly square in section, and of great regularity in: its faces are smooth, though whitened by atmospheric influence; and on the southern side it bears the inscription of which we append an engraving. No Oghamic characters are to be observed on the edges; and from this circumstance as well as from the character of the letters, and the formula of the inscription itself we are inclined to place it among the earliest in Wales. It will be observed that the inscription runs in vertical lines, reading from left to right downwards; that the lines are neither parallel nor conterminal : and that the letters are somewhat debased , though still preserving much of a good

Roman style about them. The inscription is probably to be Read thus

EVALI FILI DENO CVNI OVENDE MATER EIVS

It is of importance for supplying us with three new names for early British history – Evalus or Evalius; his father Denocunus; his mother Ovendwe and for the use of the somewhat rare formula constituting the last line Mater Ejus

It may be of the fifth century.

Pembrokeshire Parsons

This benefice originally belonged to the Bishop of St David's. In 1224 Bishop Gervase established the office of a precentor in the cathedral of St Davids, and endowed it with the prebends of the Hospital [the ancient name of Spital,] and Llandrudian with all their appurtenances. - Stat. Mens.

Under this grant the precentor became the rector of Spital, the Church of which was served by a curate, appointed by the precentor.

Described as Ecclesia Hospitalis, this Church was assessed at £8 13s. 4d. in 1291, the tenths payable thereon to the King being 17s. 4d. - Taxatio.

There appears to be no mention of this benefice in the Valor Eccl.

Under the heading "Not in Charge": Spittle alias Spittal Cur. (St. Mary). Precentor of St David's Patr. £5 10s. 0d. certified value. – Bacon's Liber Regis.

On 20 May, 1567, the tithes of the prebend and parsonage of Spital were leased by Thomas Hlett, the precentor to Nicholas Goddard of Rudbaxton, Pems., yeoman, for 40 years at the yearly rent of £13 6s. 8d., the lessee to provide a curate to serve the Church. The next mention of a lessee of this benefice is in 1668 when the rectory, etc., was granted to James Hawald of Rudbaxtons Pems., esq., for the lives of Thomas Haward (son and heir apparent of said James Haward), Mary Haward, (daughter of said James Haward), and Griffith Tanckred, of Easter Dudwell, Pems., gent. (nephew of James Haward) at the yearly rent of £13 6s. 8d., and a fine of £50. The tenant to find meat for the preceptor and a horse when he came to preach at Spital. This lease was granted on the surrender of a former lease for the life of Ursula Haward, the second daughter of George Haward, senior, of Flether Hill in the parish of Rudbaxton deceased.

The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire. Evans, John Thomas , 1869

Spittal (S. Mart). —An Elizabethan Chalice upon which there are no Hall marks. The Paten cover has disappeared. The ornamentation on this cup is exactly like that on the Amroth example. Within the lower band on the bowl is inscribed " + POCVLVM ECLESYE DE ". The base of the bowl has been repaired very badly as usual. Height, 7 in.; diam. of bowl, 3in.; depth, 3 in.; diam. of foot, 3in.; weight, 7oz. 15 dwts.—A pewter Plate, 9 in. in diam., bearing the Mark of Allen Bright (London). Underneath appear the initials " S F

Nonconformist Chapels:

Salem Baptist Chapel was built in 1827 and rebuilt c.1880. 1851 Essex Lewis, Elder, Treffgarn Bridge, Spittal. The present Chapel, dated late nineteenth century, is built in the Sub-Classical style with a gable-entry plan and tall round-headed windows. RCAHMW, November 2010

Spittal Green Methodist Chapel was built in 1826 and rebuilt in 1864. 1851 George Llewellyn Trustee, Spittal. The later Chapel was built in the Simple round-Headed style with a gable entry plan and tall large pane windows. By 2010 Spittal Green had been converted for use as a village Hall.

Bethlehem Baptist Chapel was built in 1820 and restored/interior refitted in 1874. This Chapel is built in the Simple round-Headed style with a gable entry plan and two storeys.

Zions Hill Congregational Chapel was built in 1823, rebuilt in 1841 and modified in 1893. The present Chapel, dated 1841, is built in the Sub Classical style of the gable-entry type. 1851 Daniel Davies, Minister, Ambleston RCAHMW, November 2010

Parish of Spittal The State of Education in Wales 1847

– On the 4th of January I visited the above parish. There had been no day school for the last twelve months; but the incumbent informed me that one of Mrs Bevan's Circulating Schools would be opened in the parish on the 14th of the present month. Mr Jenkins did not consider the labourers in Spittal so well off as those in the adjoining parish of Treffgarne. The farms were smaller – the occupiers were obliged to work themselves and consequently there was less demand for agricultural labourers. Wages were here 1s per day to the labourer on his own finding or 8d per day with food. They were in general an industrious class of people, but did not bear so high a character for sobriety as the same class of men in Treffgarne. --- David Lewis Assistant

Names Connected with Spittal

Spittal Clergy CCED

Phillips, Johannes	1717	Curate
Garnons, William	1745	Curate
Higgon , John	1786	Curate
Harries , William	1786	Vac (natural death)	Curate
Hughes , Thomas	1795	Curate
Higgon , John	1802	Vac (resignation)	Curate
Phillips , George	1804	Curate

1851
Haverfordwest Spittal Parish Church Thomas Jenkins, Incumbent, 1929

W H A Walters St Mary & Parish Church (Treffgarne) Incumbent and Curates;

Davies Thomas of Spittal baptized February 19 1826 Penbont Zion Hill Independent parents Davies Daniel Minister & Elizabeth Davies Haveshill

Evan Thomas 8 Aug 1858 born Spittal Pembrokeshire died 2 Mar 1889 Malad
Oneida Idaho Left Liverpool on 16 May 1883 aboard the Nevada Arrived in New York on 28 May 1883 Married to Rees, Elizabeth on 1 Nov 1881 at Haverfordwest, Pembroke, Wales Mormon
Records for Pembrokeshire

Howell George Morgan 26 May 1862 born Spittal Pembrokeshire died 20 Mar 1919 Married to Jones, Elizabeth on 20 Mar 1895 Mormon Records for Pembrokeshire

Rice David 1676 Spittle Clerk licensed to keep a school "Pembrokeshire in
By,gone Days

Hearth Tax 1670

Browne John	1670 Spittle	Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Cod David	1670 Spittle	Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
David George	1670 Spittle	Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred

David John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
David Laurence	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H2 Dongleddy Hundred
George Morgan	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Griffith John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Harry Nicholas	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Higgon Phillip	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Higgon Thomas	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H4 Dongleddy Hundred
Hugh David	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
James Rowland	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Jenkin Phillip	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Morgan Henry	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Owen William	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Reynish Jenkin	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Reynold James	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Reynold Phillip	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Reynold Thomas	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Smith George	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Smith John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H2 Dongleddy Hundred
Stephen Rice	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Stephens John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Thomas David	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Vittell John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Wallas John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
William Henry	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax P Dongleddy Hundred
Williams John	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred
Williams William	1670 Spittle Hearth Tax H Dongleddy Hundred

Sites of Interest

Spittal Rath

On a field known as Castle Meadow is a circular enclosure having an area of about two thirds of an acre. The rampart has been much disturbed by cultivation; at its best it rises 3ft and falls 6ft to the outer level. There are no indications of a ditch. Apparently the entrance was to the south east, where the bank drops gently to the level; on the other side the bank has disappeared. visited 30th July 1915

FrogHall Wood or Pentry Parc Rath

This earthwork stands immediately above and commands the Cartlett Brook, two miles east of the parish Church. The enclosed area about 200ft by 180ft slopes gently to the south east, in which direction the ground falls sharply to the brook. About 10ft from the crest is a narrow terrace which has been formed by by scarping. The crest itself is defended by a low bank. To the west the rampart has a rise of 6ft and a fall of 12 ft to an outer ditch, now much choked by vegetation. The entrance was to the north; it had been much disturbed. visited 12 July 1915.

Longstone Upper and Lower.

Two long and narrow fields appurtenant to Lower Farm. No stone is now visible thereon, and no local tradition exists of any having stood there RCAM 15th July 1915

The Hospitium

Of this site about 100 yards south of the Parish Church, the Pem, arch, survey remarks: "all that remains of this ancient building is a small space enclosed between four walls, some 15yds long by 6yds wide. No details have survived. A good deal of it was pulled down about thirty years ago to build the modern farmhouse," Today nothing remains of the hospice, which is said to have been founded by Bishop Beck of St David's (1280-1298). close by is a well known as Hall well. visited 26th July 1915

Chapel Park

About 600 yards north of FrogHall farmhouse is a large field usually called Chapel Park, but given in the Tithe Schedule as Chapel Back and Church back. It has been divided into two portions for which the names of Chapel Back and Church back are still used by old parishioners. Concerning them a writer in the Pembroke County Guardian (1904) observes : "Forming part of the farm of FrogHall in the parish of Spittal are two fields known respectively as Church Back and Chapel Back, in which is situated a mound which,, I was informed, marks the spot where a Church formerly stood. Crossing the road locally known as the Cardigan road , and joining the mound, is a ridge, which I was further informed was caused by the filling in of a hole which occurred there by the falling in of a subterranean passage or vault connected with the Church. Mt informant ... further mentioned that his grandfather remembered part of the old wall of the Church standing, and that in ploughing the field graves had been disturbed, in consequence of which the ploughing was discontinued" All traces of buildings have vanished visited 30th July 1915

Cross Meadow

The second field south east of Castle Meadow. The name is now lost and no tradition exists respecting it. visited 30th July 1915.

Scolton Cross

To older parishioners this cross road is known as “Gallows Cross” tradition marking it as the site of the manorial gallows visited 30th July 1915.

Spittal Cross

The name is probably due to the neighbouring cross road – visited 30th July 1915.

Monastic Treasure Trove

It was probably somewhere in the neighbourhood of the hospitium that certain treasure trove was unearthed in 1572 and reported by John Wogan, High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire, in a letter to Lord Burghley :

“Jevan Canton ... Hurte and Thomas Probert of this county of Pembroke have ffounde at an old pyre of (walls) at Spittle in the said countie a great quantitie of threasure, gold and silver , conteynede in certain crockle of brass as is supposed, and that they had knowledge whereof by advertisement of one Syr Lewis, a prieste dwelling in Carmarthenshire not far from Kayo”. (Cat MSS relating to Wales in Brit Mus.,i p 45)

Spittal, Crop Mark Enclosure

Crop marks of an oval enclosure, about 37m east-west by 33m, ditched & showing indications of an internal bank, that appears to be rather terraced into, or occupying a ledge on, generally south-facing slopes: the enclosure appears to have a south-facing entrance & has a small annex, in the region of 15m across, appended on the south-east. Source: RCAHMW

Scolton Manor

Scolton Manor was built in 1840. It is a 2-storey country house in a restrained neoclassical style. It has slate hipped roofs, flat overhanging eaves and rendered chimney stacks. With a 5-window south elevation, 3-window east entrance elevation and 4-window west elevation, all with raised plinth, sill band to the first floor and band under the eaves. The windows have heavy stepped voussoirs and keystones, generally 12-pane sashes to the first floor and late 19th century or early 20th century plate-glass sashes to the ground floor. East front has a recessed centre bay and the door is further recessed in loggia of 2 pairs of Ionic columns with entablature over. Cadw.

Scolton, Garden, Spittal

This garden is depicted on the Second Edition Ordnance Survey 25-inch map of Pembrokeshire XXIII, sheet 5 (1907). Its main elements on that map include greenhouse, pheasantry, walled garden, carriage drive, isolated geometric copses, walk, lodge, pond, terrace, lawns and parkland. Although Scolton Manor is now well-known for its museum and educational function, it was originally a nineteenth century parkland, completed around 1843. The site still preserves some fine exotic and mature trees, a terrace garden, sunken garden and lawn of the original creation. CSB

St Brides

[According to legend was originally founded when a girl rescued a young sailor from drowning. They married and lived at the manor founding the settlement.]

A little cove on the southern shore of St. Brides Bay with a Church (greatly restored by the enthusiastic Victorians), a limekiln and a couple of old houses which in recent times have been used as a Scouting Centre. Once an important trading point for this rocky stretch of coastline.

The Church which was restored in 1868 was believed to be early 13c with a double bellcote and Sanctus Bellcote is built on a much older Celtic Christian site. Between the Church and the sea is an early Christian cemetery, and traces of stone-lined graves are visible in the cliffs. Nearby there are the remains of a medieval manor rumoured to be the haunt of dragons and basilisks but I could never find anyone who had seen one.

Kensington Mansion to the west, was built around 1800 by Lord Kensington. For many years it was used as a hospital in later years as a TB treatment centre.

This is a very ancient site as in approximately 350BC at nearby Nab Head there was a middle stone age factory for the production of flint knives and arrowheads.

1811 Fenton St Brides

St Brides Church a rectory in the gift of the family of Orlandon, St Brides, and Fobston alternately, is a building of very dignified appearance, having a tower and side aisles. On the outside of the pine end of the north aisle I observed an effigy of a priest, drapery well executed, though much defaced. How long it has lain there, or, if it always lay there I could not learn. There are likewise introduced into the outside wall of the east end two heads parts of effigies in religious habit. In the little creek which almost comes up to the Church yard wall there was in former days a great fishery of herrings ;and close on the shore a little raised above the beach stood a small Chapel where the fishermen used to put up their prayers for their success and averting to dangers of the sea, and round which they where buried , as to this day many stone coffins are seen peeping out of the crumbling earth eaten away by the sea at high tides.

On the slope of the ascent to the west of the Church stands Hill, the seat of Charles Philipps esq., the owner of St Brides,commanding a most charming view over Brides Bay and the opposite coast, and though bleak an exposure, backed and skirted with a thriving belt of plantation open only to a beautiful lawn of great extent gradually sinking to the creek. Behind to shelter, a little from the violence of the south west , the ground rises. The peninsular point of land forming one side of the fulcum between it and Skomar, belonging to Hill is converted into a deer park, admitting, from the irregularity of its surface of much shelter and the sweetest herbage , and producing venison of most excellent flavour.

1849 Topographical Dictionary of Wales

BRIDE'S (St.) a parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Rhôs, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 11 miles (W. S. W.) from Haverfordwest; containing 178 inhabitants. This parish is situated on the south side of the bay in St. George's Channel to which it gives name, and at the neck of a small inlet from the bay, which flows up almost to the churchyard, forming what is called St. Bride's Haven. A considerable herring-fishery, which has been discontinued for many years, was carried on here with very great advantage, and there are still the remains of an ancient Chapel on the beach, which, according to tradition, being no longer used for religious worship, was appropriated as a salting-house for curing the fish. In the cemetery belonging to this Chapel were numerous stone coffins, several of which have been washed away by the encroachment of the sea,which has here gained considerably on the shore, as was proved some years ago, during an extraordinary recess of the tide, by the discovery of several stumps of trees. The surrounding scenery is richly diversified, and various parts of the parish afford extensive marine views, and pleasing prospects over the adjacent country. Hill, the elegant mansion of W. Charles Allen Philipps, esq., is beautifully sheltered by luxuriant plantations, being open only to a verdant lawn, sloping gently to the creek of which mention has been made above. This family, who are descended from the ancient royal house of Cilsant, resided formerly at the old mansion of St. Bride's, which was abandoned some years since on the erection of the present house. Attached to Hill is a park well stocked with deer, forming one of the very small number of deer-parks to be found in this part of the principality. The living is a discharged rectory, rated in the King's Books at £15. 12. 11., and in the alternate patronage of Sir W. Philipps, Bart., W. Philips, esq., and Mary Bird Allen: the tithes have been commuted for a rent-charge of £195, and there is a glebe-house. The Church is not distinguished by any features of importance. A Sunday school in connexion with the Church, established in 1839, is superintended by Mrs. Allen Philipps, of St. Bride's Hill.

1895 Nooks an Corners of Pembrokeshire --Timmin

After passing Talbenny Church, we approach St. Brides, and obtain the pretty coup d'ceil, the Church and old-fashioned rectory -house nestling under the lee of some wind -tossed trees, while Lord Kensington's fine residence of St. Brides Hill shows clearly out against the dark woodlands that crest the western down. To the right is seen a glimpse of the tiny Haven, famous in bygone times for its productive herring fishery. The little structure close beside the water occupies the site of an old fishermen's Chapel, which, falling into ruins, was put to the degenerate uses of a salt-house. From that time forth, as the old story runs, the herrings deserted their accustomed haunts, and the fishing trade dwindled away :

' When St. Bride's Chapel a salt-house was made,
St. Bride's lost the herring trade.'

The parish Church is interesting, and has a bright, well-cared-for look that is pleasant to see. Upon the floor of a small north transept lie four sadly defaced effigies. The largest of these is reputed to represent St. Bride, the patron saint of the Church, a contemporary of St David and St. Patrick. According to tradition, St. Bride sailed over with certain devout women from Ireland, and established a nunnery here. A short distance south-east from the Church rise the ivy-mantled ruins of some extensive buildings of unknown origin, overshadowed by dark trees and surrounded by lofty stone walls pierced with loopholes, while an arched gateway opens towards the west.

The Parish Church Dedicated to St Bride 1856 September 16 Glynne Arch Camb 1886

The plan of this Church consists of a nave without aisles, a north transept, chancel, and south porch. There are here two Bell-cots, one over the west and one over the east gable of the nave, each for two bells; the former square-topped, the latter pointed; the walls, externally whitewashed; the windows mostly modernised and fortified with shutters. There is a rude pointed chancel arch and another between the nave and north transept. There is a rood door on the north of the chancel arch and a stone bracket. The chancel is large, has a lancet on the south and a mutilated east window. On the south of the altar is a piscina upon a corbel table. On the north of the chancel has been once an aisle of Chapel; and a rude misshapen arch is seen in the wall. Several pews are painted blue! The south porch is large and plain (This Church has been admirably restored by Mrs Allen Philipps, the principal landowner under the direction of Mr C Buckeridge)

1920 RCAM -

This Church situated on the margin of a tiny inlet called St Bride's Haven, consists of chancel 24ft by 13 ft, nave 46 ½ ft by 18 ft, north Chapel 17 ½ ft by 13 ½ ft and south porch.; Bell cotes each for two bells over the east and west nave gables. A thorough restoration took place in 1868. On the north side of the chancel are traces of a chambered recess, now blocked; on the south side is a blocked priest's door, and in the south west angle a restored low sided window 17in by 14in. An original Early English lancet is in the south wall; beneath it is a plain piscina. The chancel arch is sharp pointed. On the north of the arch to the rood stairs. Opposite the present south entrance is a walled up doorway. The exterior south wall shows traces of an arch which may have lead to a small transept or Chapel, of which there are traces in the churchyard. The north Chapel opens to the nave through a pointed arch. On the floor are the much obliterated remains of three slabs; one bears a floriated cross, and all have mutilated heads, one being that of an ecclesiastic. The east window of the Chapel is a small lancet. All the other windows in the Church are modern. The font is of the usual square type, and retains its hinge and hasp sockets; it stands upon a circular shaft and octagonal base, the total height 36 ins. The doorway to the south porch has a pointed arch, and on either side are low masonry seats.

Some fragments of a rood screen, and a metal lantern dated 1787 have been restored within recent years and are now preserved within the Church --visited 15th September 1920

Site of Chapel and Burial Ground

A small Chapel, which has been swept away by the sea, stood formerly just north of the Church, and it is still possible to trace in a section of the cliffs the outlines of a few stone lined graves which surround it. Of the building it is said;” There are still the remains of an ancient Chapel on the beach, which , according to tradition, was subsequently appropriated as a salting house for curing fish (for a considerable herring fishery, now discontinued for many years). In the cemetery belonging to this Chapel were numerous stone coffins, of which several have been washed away by the encroachment of the sea, which has here gained considerably on the shore , as was proved some years ago, during an extraordinary recess of the tide, by the discovery of several stumps of trees “ (parochial wallicanum” in Y Cymmrodor X xii, 26) The graves found in the cliffs are lined with slabs. There is no record of any discoveries. – visited 15th September 1920

Inscribed stone.

Covering one of the graves may have been a stone of which a sketch was in the possession of Edward Lhuyd about the year 1698. The lettering though rude, is not that of pre Norman inscriptions, and may not be earlier than the latter half of the 16th century. It is probably only a fragment, and may still exist in one of the neighbouring walls.

Acc/to Old Parish Churches – Salter.

St Bride

The nave, chancel, north transept and south porch are 13th century. Only two of the lancets are unrestored. The porch outer entrance has just one Long stone on each side. There are three grave-slabs, one showing a priest and another a floriated cross.

St Brides -The Church Plate Of Pembrokeshire. Evans, John Thomas , 1905

St. Brides (S. Bridget). —The only Mark on the Chalice belonging to this Church is the maker's, viz. R W with mullet beneath within a heart-shaped shield. This Mark is also found at Lechlade, Gloucestershire, on a chalice and paten dated 1641. The St. Bride's chalice is an inverted truncated cone with a flat base standing upon a round stem, the upper part of which carries a flange or collar; beneath the foot is inscribed "This Chalice and Paten made A. D. 1686 were restored A. D. 1893 for the use of St. Bride's Church in the Parish of S, Bride Pembrokeshire"; weight, 10 oz. 8 dwts. The Paten referred to is of parcel gilt and carries the maker's Mark IS linked as in O. E. P. at 1675; weight, 7 oz, 5 dwts.—

A Pyx of parcel gilt decorated with a Lamb, flag and book. This piece which weighs 3 oz. 10 dwts was bought on the Continent and was given by the Dowager Lady Kensington. It carries the Augsburg Mark and dates from the early 18th century. The maker's Mark L. R is found on plate belonging to some of the Augsburg churches.—

A silver-mounted glass Cruet, Hall marked 1884 with maker's Mark C K in plain oblong.

On the mounting which is of silver-gilt is inscribed " To the Glory of God and for the use of this Church of S. Bride Easter 1902".

Another glass Cruet with silver-mounted stepper is by the same maker and Hall-marked 1901.

A pewter Alms-dish, 13 in. in diameter, bears the following marks—X crowned; R above W S; London.

Pembrokeshire Parsons

It is not certain in whom the patronage of St Brides Rectory was originally vested. In 1535-6 John Wogan of Wiston, Pems., was patron (Valor Eccl.), who on 14 Oct., 1577, sold it to Francis Laugharne of St. Brides. - Deed in the possession of Dr. Henry Owen of Poyston.

The dedication of the Church is now ascribed to St. Bridget, but the deed referred to describes it as the Church and rectory of St. Murus? [St. Mary's] and St. Brides. In 1594 the Church was held – in grossa, - that is to say, it was not appendant to any manor - Owens Pem.

Described as Ecclesia de Sancta Brigida, this Church was in 1291 assessed at £13 6s. 8d. for tenths to the King, the sum payable being £1 6s. 8d. - Taxatio.

Ecclesia Sanete Brigitte. - Ecclesia ibidem ex collacione Johannis Wogan armigeri unde Morganus Griffith est rector habens unam rectoriam sine terris. Et valet fructus hujus rectorie per annum x. Inde sol in visit acione ordinaria quolibet tercio Anna xvj d. Et in visitacione arehidiaconi quolibet

Anna v ixd. St remanet dare £15 12s. 11d. Inde deeirna 31s. 3d. - Valor Eccl.

Under the heading "Livings Discharged":- St. Brides alias Bridis R. Ordinario quolibet tertio anno, 1s. 4d. Archidiaconus quolibet anno, 5s. 8d. John Wogan, esq., 1535 Rowland Philips, esq., 1725; William Allen esq., 1744; William Phillips, esq., 1765. Clear yearly value, £35 King's Books, £15 12s 11d. – Bacon's Liber Regis.

On 10 July, 1868, a room at St. Brides Hill was licensed for divine service during the rebuilding of the Church.

Nonconformist Chapels: None found

1847 The State of Education in Wales

Parish of St Brides

This parish contains no day school. The nearest schools at Talbenny and Marloes are rather out of distance, along bad roads, for young children. The only school in the parish is a Sunday school connected with the Church. I was furnished with the following account by the lady who superintends it, Mrs Allen Philipps of St Brides Hill.

The Sunday school was set on foot by Mrs Bowling, wife of the former Curate in 1839. It is divided into four classes, of which the clerk has the youngest, two former pupils the two intermediate ones, and Mrs Allen Philipps of St Bride's Hill the highest class. Her class commences with reading the psalms and lessons of the day, and they are regularly questioned by her to prove if they understand what they are learning; it is not done in the lower classes as she does not think the teachers capable of questioning the children judiciously. The teachers can scarcely be said to be paid as the clerk receives £1 as a present at Christmas, and the others (a girl and a boy of 16 and 17) clothing, the same as the rest of the school.

The Rector (the Rev William Allen of Bosheston near Pembroke) subscribes £1 yearly to the expenses of the school. None of the children attend a day school their parents being principally labourers and the children themselves, almost without exception employed in the fields during the week.

Wages in the parish are 7s per week on the labourers own finding. It is more usual to feed him, and then he gets 4s or 4s 6d in money. They were said not to be very ill off. The only considerable farmer who had any family was sending his children to school at Haverfordwest. There were only two Dissenters in the parish; one of these sent his children to the Church Sunday school

RCAM

Neolithic Flint Factory

The site examined by Edward Laws F.S.A. and by him regarded as Neolithic is thus described:-

"At St Brides there was an important [flint] factory which ... seems to have been carried on in one spot, and so probably either one individual or one family, for on a spot on the cliff there is an actual stratification of worked flint chips and flakes, and so careful was this workman, that hitherto, I believe, no spoiled implement has been discovered, though many people have examined and worked at the deposit. It is covered by about 3ft of soil and on the very verge of the cliff close to two camps

(Little England P127)

The site has suffered still further from the inroads of the sea --visited 15th September

“Abbey” Ruins

So far as external appearances suggest, the walls and foundations to the right and left of the main drive to St Bride's Castle are the remains of a domestic structure which is locally known as “the Abbey”. They most probably belong to an earlier dwelling. The site of a kitchen with its capacious oven, the fish stews, and the walled garden can be made out. The luxuriant growth of vegetation makes further identification impossible – visited 22 September 1920

Orlondon

1811 Fenton Orlondon

I reached the place of my destination Orlondon or , as it was formerly called Humprey, the seat of my old friend J P Laugharne, esq.. Whose hospitality I was engaged to share for a few days, and from whose inexhaustible source of ancient lore I was permitted to draw largely.

Orlondon --Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire Timmins 1895

Upon leaving St. Brides, we strike directly inland by the Dale road. This brings us in about a quarter of an hour to Orlondon, where the skeleton of a large old mansion rises grimly above a group of wayside cottages. In its palmy days Orlondon was the home of the Laugharnes, a family of some celebrity in their time, but now extinct in this locality.

According to a romantic story-, the first member of this family who appeared in this district was shipwrecked and washed up more dead than alive on the seashore not far away. Here he was found by the daughter and heiress of Sir John de St. Brides, who caused him to be carried to her father's house, where he was hospitably entertained. Laugharne, of course, was soon over head and ears in love with his Fair deliverer, and the lady being in no wise backward in response to his suit, they married and founded a family whose descendants resided for generations at Orlondon.

Names —De St Bride Laugharne of St Brides. Owen

In later Pembrokeshire story the Laugharnes were a family of great importance, but their origin is obscure; it is probable that they took their name from the town, which was afterwards included in Carmarthenshire.

Fenton gives a legend that the original Laugharne came from Cornwall, was shipwrecked near St. Bride's, and found on the beach by the heiress of John de St. Bride (who joined the standard of Henry VII at Milford), that he married the heiress and founded the Pembrokeshire Laugharnes. It is a pretty story, but like many pretty stories, it is not true. The Laugharnes had been in the county Long before the time of the Tudors. A John de St. Bride was a witness (1241-5) to Earl Walter Marshal's charter to Gilbert de Valle ." Another John de St. Bride was a witness to the arbitration in 1345 between the Precentor and Chapter of St Davids and the tenants in Hayscastle of Sir Peter Russell this is worthy of note, as Richard, the son of the first authentic Laugharne, married a daughter of this same Sir Peter; another daughter married John Cradock. We find several Russells Witnesses to charters in the 13th and 14th centuries; they held lands at Brimaston, Rhindaston and elsewhere, of the Bishop and of the lords of Roch.

Richard Laugharne above mentioned, who married Joan Russell, was the son of Richard Laugharne, collector of the customs on wool at Haverford from 1304 to 1309 ; the audit of his accounts is extant.' In 1324 Richard Laugharne (as also a John de Laugharne) was on a jury at Haverford. In 1378 an enquiry was held whether it would be to the damage of the King, or of any other person, if Richard, the son (therein described as of Haverford), gave £4 5s. of rent out of a tenement in Haverford, which he held of Sir Thomas Felton (Justice of Chester") and Elizabeth his wife, to certain chaplains to celebrate divine service in the Chapel of the Holy Trinity over the gate at Haverford ; it was found that it would not, and Richard was allowed to make the donation.'

Thomas , the son of Richard the younger, married Joan, daughter and co-heiress of Philip Crabhole, and is described in the pedigrees as of St. Bride's, which he acquired by his marriage ; he was a witness to a Malefant charter in 1444 and died before 1447, as in that year Nicholas Carew held of Joan, his widow, and Thomas Wirriot certain lands at Williamston. The Laugharnes inter-married with the leading county families and acquired large estates. Thomas left two sons, Philip and John, and several daughters.

The next step in the pedigree is proved by the proceedings taken in 1543 by Owen Laugharne to recover a messuage and two carucates of land at Little Marloes. Owen produced in court a charter, dated 26th April 1482, by which Joan Herbord granted the tenement in question to John Laugharne and his heirs, with remainder to Thomas (the son of Phillip) ; evidence was given that John died in the reign of the then King (Henry VIII), leaving an only child, Dorothy, who died without issue, and that the property then descended to the plaintiffs as the son and heir of David Laugharne, the son of the last-mentioned Thomas . Owen Laugharne died in 1550; he married the daughter of Henry Wirriot, of Orielton, who is called in the pedigree Katherine, but in the above-mentioned proceedings, Matilda ; his inquisition is extant, with a Long account of his possessions."

Francis, the son of Owen Laugharne, was sheriff of the county in 1568 and 1578, the probate of his will is dated 12th November 1583, and is in the writer's possession. Rowland, the son of Francis, was sheriff in 1586, he died in 1587, having married Lettice, daughter of Sir John Perrot; his marriage settlement" was executed in three parts, one part is among the Laugharne deeds in the writer's possession. Lettice brought St. Bride's to her second Husband, Walter Vaughan, who was sheriff in 1594. Rowland had a younger brother, Thomas , who was the father of two sons : William, described in the pedigrees as of LlwyngWarren (now corrupted with LlangWarren), and Francis, the ancestor of the Laugharnes of Laugharne. William married Ursula, the daughter of George Owen, Lord of Kemes, and the widow of Thomas Mathias, who brought LlangWarren" to her second Husband for his life ; William was a member of the Committee of Safety for the counties of Pembroke, Carmarthen and Cardigan, nominated by the Houses of Parliament in 1644."

Rowland Laugharne of St. Bride's, had two children:

John, sheriff in 1631, who married Janet, daughter of Sir Hugh Owen of Orielton and Elizabeth Wyrriot ; and Dorothy, who married John Owen, the elder brother of Laugharne of St. Brides.

Janet, from which marriage the baronets of Orielton were descended.

John Laugharne of St. Bride's had several children ; his youngest son Francis married Lettice, daughter and co-heiress of James Vaughan of Pontvaen, and was the ancestor of the Laugharnes of Pontvaen ; his eldest son, Rowland, was the famous Major-General, the most prominent soldier of the Parliamentary forces in South Wales during the Civil War. He began life as a Page to Robert Devereux, the third Earl of Essex the General of the first army raised by the Parliament. Under such auspices Laugharne's rise was rapid ; in 1642 he was made Governor of Pembroke and Commander of the Parliament soldiers in the county; he drove out the Earl of Carbery and the Royalists, and he besieged and took several strongholds in the three counties of Pembroke, Carmarthen, and Cardigan, for which he was made Major-General. In 1645 he defeated the Royalists under Stradling and Egerton at a decisive battle at Colby Moor in Wiston parish ; curiously enough Fenton, although he found relics of the fight and had heard the local tradition about it, could ascertain no particulars of what happened ; another local tradition, also testified by relics, states that the Royalists, in their flight towards Haverford, held the ancient encampment at the Rath in Rudbaxton parish, and were driven out by Laugharne ; but in all these local traditions of the Civil War it is Cromwell who gets the credit. By an ordinance of Parliament dated the 4th of March 1646, the Lords and Commons, taking into consideration the " great and faithful services" of the Major-General, granted the forfeited estate, at Slebech, of John Barlow to him and " his heirs for ever". These last words have in such times a doubtful value ; a few years later Laugharne had revolted from the Parliament, and all his estates were confiscated. The reason he gave for this singular change of position was that his soldiers had not been paid, and that Colonel Horton had been sent down to interfere in his command ; but it is probable that his conduct was influenced by the circumstances of the resignation of his old friend and patron, the Earl of Essex.

In 1648, John Poyer, "the fighting Mayor of Pembroke," had also revolted from the Parliament and set up the standard of the King at Pembroke Castle ; he was joined by Rice Powell, a soldier of Fortune and another old Parliamentary hand, and by Laugharne ; Poyer and his allies marched on Glamorgan, were defeated with great loss by Horton at St. Pagan's (where Laugharne was wounded), and fled home to Pembroke. They were there besieged by Cromwell in person, who took up his abode at Welston, and they surrendered to him on July 11th, 1648.

Laugharne, Poyer and Powell were tried by court-martial and sentenced to death. They were, however, allowed to cast lots for life, a little child drew three pieces of paper, on two of them was written "Life given of God" ; the third was blank and fell to Poyer, who was shot at Covent Garden. Laugharne was banished and fell on evil days, but he lived to receive a pension at the Restoration, and he sat in the Parliament of 1661 as M.P. for Pembroke ; he died in 1676." St. Bride's he had again, but Slebech, after being granted to Horton, who destroyed the books and manuscripts, was restored to the Barlows.

Rowland, the son of the Major-General, and according to some accounts, the M.P. of 1661, had two sons:

John, who married Anne, daughter of Lewis Wogan, of Boulston, and died without issue in 1715 on the night of his re-election as M.P. for Haverfordwest (for which borough he had sat continuously since 1702) ; and Rowland, who died without issue in 1691, and is buried in the nave of Salisbury Cathedral ; there is a Latin epitaph on his monumental slab. The St. Bride's estates, therefore, were ultimately divided among the three married daughters of Rowland Laugharne (the second) ; Philippa, who married (as his second wife) Charles Phillips of Sandy Haven ; Albinia, who married William, the son of Charles Phillips, by his first wife Anne (one of the four daughters and co- heiresses of William Phillips, of Haythog) ; and Anne, who married David Allen, of Popston, whose younger son John married Joan Bartlett, the heiress of Cresselly.

From Charles Phillips and Philippa came the Laugharnes of Orlandon (which Fenton' says was before their time called Humprey) ; their grandson Rowland married Ann, daughter of James Laugharne, vicar of St. Mary's, Haverfordwest, who had married his cousin, Katherine Laugharne ; Katherine was the sister of John Laugharne, of Pontvaen, who by his will, dated 12th May 1742, devised his estates in the counties of Pembroke and Carmarthen to his niece Ann Rowland Phillips after his marriage took the name of Phillipps-Laugharne.

Rowland Henry, the grandson of this Rowland, inherited the Picton baronetcy upon the death of the first Lord Milford in 1823, and took the name of Laugharne-Philipps ; he was succeeded by his brother. Sir William, and his nephew. Sir Godwin (the son of Sir William) ; Sir Godwin died without issue in 1857, and the old Picton baronetcy passed to the heir of Richard Phillipps (younger brother of Charles, of Sandy Haven), Governor of Nova Scotia from 1720 to 1730, and ancestor of Sir James Erasmus Phillipps, the twelfth baronet of Picton.

Charles Phillipps, the son of William and Albinia, had St. Bride's in his share of the Laugharne estates ; he left the old house of the Laugharnes, which Fenton" says, from the remains which were to be seen in his time, must have been the finest place in the county with the exception of the castles and the Bishop's palaces, and built a house adjoining (since rebuilt) which he called Hill. St. Bride's Hill passed through the Allens, a branch of the house of Gellyswick who took the name of Philipps, to Harries, of Llanunwas, and thence to Lord Kensington.

Names connected with St Brides

Clergy CCED St Brides

Walter,	George	1661	Rector
---------	--------	------	--------

Griffiths,	Morgan	1687	(Institution)Rector
Griffiths,	Morganus	1725	Vac natural death)Rector
Edwards,	Johannes	1725	(Institution)Rector
Edwards,	John	1744	Vac(Death)Rector
Allen,	Joshua	1744	(Institution)Rector
Allen ,	Joshua	1765	Vac (natural death)Rector
Thomas ,	James	1765	(Institution)Rector
Thomas ,	James	1786	Vac (natural death)Rector
Powell Curry ,	John	1786	(Institution)Rector
Evans ,	John	1788	Stipendiary Curate
Bowen ,	Hector	1791	Curate
Walters ,	Richard	1792	Curate
Bird Allen ,	David	1801	Stipendiary Curate
Powell Curry,	John	1825	Vac (natural death)Rector
Allen ,	William	1825	(Institution)Rector
Allen ,	William	1831	Disp-AppRector
Bowling ,	William	1832	Stipendiary Curate

1851 St Brides Parish Church -William Bowen Harries, Minister

1929 St Bridget & St Peter (Marloes) Incumbent and Curates; J M Price

.....

Laugharne Francis of St Brides 1568 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Laugharne Francis of St Brides 1578 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Vaughan Walter of St Brides and of Golden Grove 1594 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Laugharne John of St Brides son of Rowland by Lettice daughter of Sir John Perrott of Haroldstone He married Jane daughter of Sir Hugh Owen - 1630 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Philipps William of St Brides 1790 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Philipps Charles Allen of St Brides Hill – third son of Joseph Allen (see Allen Philipps of Dale Castle) He assumed the name of Philipps on succeeding to the St Brides Estate ----1809 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire.

Laugharne John 1714 St Brides ? Deceased 1715 Members of Parliament for Haverfordwest town and county.

.....

Allen William 9th April 1872 Rev son of the Rev. D. Bird Allen was Rector of St Brides and of Bosheston Pembrokeshire He died 9th April 1872 Arch Camb 1885

Allen William 1744 Patron St Brides Church.

Beynon John Thomas 1807 of Trewern JP son of Beynon John of Trewern near Narberth. Born 1807 married in 1829 Philipps Catherine 2 daughter of Philipps Charles Allen of St Brides Hill (Of the Allens of Cresselly family but assumed the name Philipps) Had a son and heir Beynon John born 1829 .JP

Brasell Thomas 1670 St Brides P Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Cornocke James 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Cornocke John 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Cuny John Powel 1820 Rev Rector of St Brides – lived Golden Pembroke

David Thomas 15 July 1788 St Brides Minor Yeoman Offence Forgery of a promissory note Removed by habeus corpus to gaol from co Glam Haverfordwest Prosecutor Morgan Jenkin Coety co Glam Yeoman Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830

Davis James 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Edwards John 1 December 1818 Hasguard Labourer Offence Theft of wool belonging to prosecutor and Phillips John Edmund Laugharne , St Brides Prosecutor Phillips Rowland Henry Laugharne Verdict No true bill, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Edwards William 1 December 1818 Marloes Labourer Offence Receiving stolen goods - wool, St Brides Prosecutor Phillips Rowland Henry Laugharne Verdict No true bill, Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Ferrior Jenkin 1769,71,74,80 Pembroke Mayor Monument inscribed at St Brides Pembs WWHR 1915

GilFord Rowland 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Griffith Morganus 1535-6 est rector St Brides Rectory Valor Eccl.

Gwynn John 27 July 1822 St Brides , Labourer Offence Theft of wearing apparel, St Ishmaels, Prosecutor Smith George, St Ishmaels, servant Verdict Guilty, Punishment 6 months imprisonment Before the Pembrokeshire Courts 1730-1830,

Howell Francis 1670 St Brides P Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Jenkin Rees 1670 St Brides P Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Laugharne Dorothy 1600 St Brides Pems Married John Owen of Orielton they had a son Hugh her father was Sir John Laugharne. WWHR 1915

Laugharne Francis 14 Oct 1577 of St Brides patron St Brides Rectory Deed in the possession of Dr Henry Owen of Poyston.

Laugharne Francis 1577 May 14 "East Dunston Manor, Mountain Cot, west Dunston"

"of St Brides—free tenant who held of the Queen as of her Castle and Lordship of westHaverford by knight service, suit of court at the Castle gate and relief without paying rent"
Survey of the Lordship of Haverford in 1577- H Owen- Arch Camb 1903

Laugharne Jane 1565 of St Brides married William Walter of Haverfordwest. Had daughter Mary born about 1597

Laugharne John 1630 of St Brides son of Rowland by Lettice daughter of Sir John Perrott of Haroldstone He married Jane daughter of Sir Hugh Owen - 1630 High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Laugharne John 1613c St Brides son was Major General Rowland Laugharne spouse Janet Owen Pemb Hist Vol 5 Owen of Orielson.

Laugharne John 1613 of St Brides Lewis Dwnn Deputy Herald of Wales 1613.

Laugharne John 1705, September. 4 .Sir George Barlow of Slebech, bart., and John Barlow of the same, esq.,Francis Meyrick of the Middle Temple, London, gent., and Walter Thornborough of Arnolds Hill, gent.,John Laugharne of St, Brides, esq., and John Mayricke of the Middle Temple, London, esq.. Release, to lead the uses of a recovery, of the manor and lordship of Slebech, Slebech Estate and Family Records

Laugharne Rowland 1586 of St Brides son of Francis Laugharne, married Lettice daughter of Sir John Perrot and had children John and Dorothy. His widow married Walter Vaughan of Goldern Grove High Sheriff of Pembrokeshire

Laugharne Rowland 1670 esq. St Brides H 11 Roose Hundred ,Marlos H Roose Hundred
Hearth Tax

Laugharne Rowland 1613 of St Brides Lewis Dwnn Deputy Herald of Wales .

Laugharne Thomas of St Brides recorded in the Port Books of Milford The Elizabethan Squirearchy in Pembrokeshire B. Howell,s. Pembrokeshire historian Vol. 1 p 25

Martley William 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Miles Gilbert 1670 St Brides P Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Morgan Elinor 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

of St Brides Arnold , 1301 January 6 file 34 No 12 Northampton. Juror Inq A O D

Owen nee Laugharne Dorothy 1652-3 died 70yr Orielton &St Brides widow of John Owen who died in 1612 Pemb Hist Vol 5 Owen of Orielton.

Phillips James 1897 St Brides Bay Rev of Haverfordwest– surveyed Howelston Farm Exploration of Earthworks on the coast of Pembrokeshire -Rev James Phillips – Arch Camb 1897

Philpin Mr 1897 St Brides Bay Occupied Howelston Farm Exploration of Earthworks on the coast of Pembrokeshire -Rev James Phillips – Arch Camb 1897

Roch Walter 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Smyth John 1670 St Brides H Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Voyle John 1567 October 17 gent Haverfordwest Records 1539--1660 Started a mine for silver at St Brides Bay had son in law Sir Thomas , Cannon

Waller George 1670 St Brides H2 Roose Hundred Hearth Tax

Walter William about 1561 of Haverfordwest of Roche Castle married Jane Laugharne of St Brides about 1585 St Brides

.....

Wrecks at St Brides Acc to Pembrokeshire Dive UK

1749 January 31st	BATCHELOR Sailing Ship St. St Bride's Bay
1795 December 1st	ROSE Fully rigged ship. ?? St. St Bride's Bay.
1829 July 4th.	DILIGENCE. Smack. St. St Bride's Bay.
1833 March.	EAGLE. Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay.
1833 June	UNIDENTIFIED Sloop. St St Bride's Bay.
1833 August. 31st.	JANE Sailing Ship. St. St Bride's Bay.
1833 November 29th	VENUS. Sailing Ship. St St Bride's Bay.
1834 March 22nd.	EAGLE. (Cardigan). Smack. St. St Bride's Bay.
1835 October 8th	Cardigan. Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay.
1835 October 8th	DOGSTAR. Smack. St. St Bride's Bay. Goulthrop roads
1846.	PILGRIM. Sailing Ship. St. St Bride's Bay.
1846 October 13th.	UNIDENTIFIED. Sailing Ship St. St Bride's Bay.
1848 November	ELIZABETH MARIA Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay.
1848-'53.??	MARY . (Aberystwyth). Sloop. St St Bride's Bay /Jack Sound.
1848-'53.?? Bay /Jack Sound.	MARY . (Milford Haven). Sloop. (Bt Lawrenny.). St. St Bride's
1849 July 17th. Bay.	ANN. (Cardigan). Sloop. Jack Sound/broad Sound/St St Bride's
1851 March 17th.	TERRESA. (Milford). Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay
1852 September 18th	UNITY. (Aberystwyth). Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay.
1855 July 16th	MARY . Sailing Ship. St. St Bride's Bay.
1860. March 16th	REQUEST. (SWANSEA). St. St Bride's Bay. Cargo of tar.
1860. August 6th.	TIVY LASS. Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay.
1861 February 21st	AILSA. Barque. St. St Bride's Bay.
1862 January 24th St Bride's Bay. From Pembrey to Roscoff.	EUPHEMIE KERNORVANT. FRENCH). Fully rigged ship. St
1864 July 4th.	EUGENIE. Schooner. St. St Bride's Bay.
1866 September 11th	ELLEN. Smack. St. St Bride's Bay.

1873 October 22nd	Sarah. (STRANGFord). Schooner. St. St Bride's Bay . NW to W gale.
1875 November 25th	ANTELOPE Cutter. St. St Bride's Bay .
1880 April 19th.	Marie. NORWEGIAN). Sailing Ship. St. St Bride's Bay . Driven within 1/2 mile of Solva Saved herself by cutting masts and lowering anchors.
1880 August 9th	ANN DAVIES. Sloop. St. St Bride's Bay .
January 25th	NANTEOS. (Aberystwyth). Schooner. St. St Bride's Bay .
January 25th	SOLFERINO. (DUBLIN). Schooner. St. St Bride's Bay .
1891September 16th	GWENDOLINE. Ketch. St. St Bride's Bay .
1900 February 16th	CASHIER. (ANTWERP). Barque. St. St Bride's Bay . Crew and Passengers taken off at Goultrop. Outward bound from Cardiff to Table Bay loaded with 1800 tons of coal.

Mining --Silver

Silver has been sought for on a small promontory in St Bride's Bay, but the attempt to procure it there, which has been several times repeated since the reign of Elizabeth, has been as often abandoned with loss

RCAM

Tower Point Rath

This is a fairly well preserved work three quarters of a mile south west of St Bride's parish Church, and about 100yds due south of the flint factory site. Two sides of a triangular enclosure are defended by precipitous cliffs. The point bearing slight traces of a descent to the sea which reaches the foot of the rock. The neck of the promontory is defended by a rampart running across from cliff to cliff; the entrance , some 10ft wide, is about midway. The bank here has a present total height of 30ft; it has been lessened by erosion. Its average height is 10ft, and its fall to an outer ditch about 15ft; the ditch which was from 8ft to 10ft in width is now silted up. Faint traces occur of an outer short bank guarding the entrance. The two fields east of the earthwork are known as Big and Little Castle meadows – visited 15th September 1920

Castle Head Camp

An earthwork on a promontory known as Castle Head, marked on the original 1in Ord map, but not on the 6in Sheet. The faint remains show an enclosed area of 120ft north to south, and 90ft east to west ; it is protected almost entirely by nature, the approach from the mainland being along a pathway from 10to 12 ft wide. On the land side is a rampart is constructed of stones to a greater extent than is usual in the cliff castles of the county. The entrance at the head of the little causeway is destroyed . To the southeast of the enclosure a pathway down the cliffs is visible. The situation is wild in the extreme and caution should be exercised in visiting this exposed spot. – visited 15th

September 1920

RCAHMW

Kensington Hospital

Two storeyed house of 1833, then known as Hill Mansion, extended late 19th century.
Battlemented, with Roughcast exterior

Deer Park or Wooltack Point is a vast 22ha coastal cliff-girt plateau that has been cut off by earthen ramparts to form one of the largest Iron Age promontory forts in Wales. The name probably derives from an intended, albeit unlikely, deer park.

The ramparts run along the lip of the north-south valley that delimits the plateau on the landward side. They consist of a large bank, sometimes ditched, some 268m long that merges with the natural slopes to the north. Access was at the upper southern end of the valley. Here there are two entrances, one, slightly inturned, some 65m from the southern cliffs, and the second, immediately north of the cliff, opening onto a small, roughly rectangular enclosure about 72m north-south by 32m.

It is possible that the fort was adapted as a park pale.

Additional field boundaries and cultivation ridges have been noted within the fort to the south-west and on the north sides, during RCAHMW aerial reconnaissance. Archaeological reconnaissance on 3rd March also discovered a promontory enclosure, possibly of Iron Age date, enclosing the north-west rocky promontory within the larger 22ha main fort. T. Driver, RCAHMW, 6 April 2011.

Nab Head

Mesolithic and possibly later material has been recovered from this naturally segregated promontory known as Nab Head, roughly 100m north-south by 35m.

Unspecified 'objects of bronze' (Leach 1933, 230) and Pottery (Figgis 1999, 90), appear to have come from the site. Flint occurs only as beach material in this region and its exploitation is likely to have occurred over a Long period.

Material from the various investigations is mostly held in Tenby Museum and the National Museum of Wales. Other material is held by: the Asmolean Museum; the Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Cambridge; the Manchester Museum; Abergwili Museum, Carmarthen, and Scolton Museum

St Davids

1769 Description of England and Wales

From hence a road extends south-west and west fourteen miles to St Davids, which has the title of a city, on account of its being the see of a Bishop, though it is only a poor village. It is situated about a mile from the extremity of a large naked promontory, which projects with a very high front into the Irish sea.

Roman Town?

It is supposed to have been a Roman town, and the Oilapitarum mentioned by Ptolemy, from which it obtained the name of Menevia.

Here St. Patrick is said to have founded a Monastery, and to have dedicated it to St. Andrew, about the year 470. Hither St David translated the archbishopric of Wales from Caerleon, about the year 577, and here he built a cathedral, and became its first archbishop. After his death it was dedicated to him, and the city also took his name. This see enjoyed the archbishopric till about the year 930, when archbishop Sampson withdrawing from his province on account of a pestilential disease which then raged here, carried the pall with him to Dole in Brittainy : yet after this the archbishops of this see are said to have consecrated the Welch bishops, and to have been primates of Wales, till the reign of King Henry the first, when

Bernard, a Norman being made archbishop, professed subjection to the archbishop of Canterbury, as his metropolitan

At the suppression this bishopric was valued at £426 1. 2 s. 1 d. per annum.

The cathedral and palace were seated within a mile of the sea, and within view (in clear weather) of the Irish hills. They are in-closed with a wall of stone one thousand one hundred yards in circumference. In this close stand the cathedral, the palace, and the houses of the dignitaries, some of which are habitable, and others in ruins. The entrance is by four gates, the principal of which leads from the town. In this gate the bishops held their courts.

The old Church was taken down, and the present cathedral (dedicated to St. Andrew and St David) was begun by Bishop Peter de Lein in 1180, and completed by his successors. It is a venerable structure three hundred feet in length ; the distance from the west door to the entrance of the choir is a hundred and twenty-four feet ; from the choir to the altar is eighty feet ; the breadth of the body of the side isles is seventy-two feet, that of the west front is seventy-six feet, and the length of the great cross-isle, from north to south, is a hundred and thirty feet, the height of the middle isle to the vaulting is sixty- four feet ; and over the middle of the Church is a tower a hundred and twenty- seven feet high.

The west end of the Church is in tolerable repair, but the east end has suffered greatly from time and neglect, the roof having fallen in.

The Bishop's palace is now a large magnificent piece of ruins, of which only the walls are standing. It was built by Bishop Henry Gower, about the year 1335, and had a Hall eighty-eight feet long and thirty broad, with another sixty-eight feet long and twenty-three broad, and the apartments were proportionally grand and noble. There is no dean belonging to the cathedral of this place; but here is a precentor, who has the power of a dean, a chancellor, a treasurer, four archdeacons, nineteen prebendaries, eight vicars choral, four choristers, and other officers.

In 1369, John, duke of Lancaster, Blanch his wife, and Adam Hutton, Bishop of St Davids, founded here a College for a master and seven priests, which was dedicated to St. Mary .

In short, St Davids was anciently a considerable city, encompassed with walls, which are now demolished ; but from its wild and bleak situation, with the barrenness of the country near it, has become so deserted, that it has neither Market nor Fair.

1838 Topographical Dictionary of Wales Lewis

David's (St.)

David'S (St.), a city and parish, in the union of Haverfordwest, hundred of Dewisland, county of Pembroke, South Wales, 16 miles (W. N. W.) from Haverfordwest, 26 (N. W.) from Pembroke, and 265 (W. by N.) from London; containing, with the Close, 2413 inhabitants.

Roman Station?

This city has been described by several historians as occupying the site of the Roman station Menapia, both from the evidence of various ancient roads leading in a direction towards it, and the position of that station as noticed in the Itineraries. But later writers are of opinion, chiefly from the absence of all military works or other relics of the Romans, that the site of Menapia was nearer the sea, on or not far from a sandy tract called "The Burrows," and that it is now covered either by an accumulation of sand, or by the sea itself, which has encroached considerably upon the shore in the vicinity.

That the district constituting the parish of St Davids was inhabited at a very early period is obvious, from the Druidical remains with which it still abounds. In the fifth century it appears to have been called by the Welsh Mynyw, which is also variously written Menyw and Manyw, and is probably compounded of the words Mân and Yw, signifying "small yew-trees," which were formerly very plentiful in the neighbourhood; though divers other etymologies have been proposed.

Its Roman name, which was perhaps a Latinized modification of the British Mynyw, was also altered into Menevia, which is still retained in the style of its bishops, who are called Episcopi Menevenses.

The history of the present city commences with that of the saint to whom it owes its name, who is also the patron saint of Wales, and to whom its origin is ascribed. St David was the son of Xantus, Prince of Caredigion, and Non, daughter of Gynyr, of Caer Gawch in Mynyw, or Menevia, a chieftain who lived about the middle of the fifth century, and who, embracing a religious life, gave all his lands to support the Church, which was probably the first endowment of the see of Menevia. The period of David's birth is not with certainty known, but may be assigned to the middle of the fifth century. The author of his life in the Acta Sanctorum considers him to have been born in 445; Cressy, in 462; and others, at a still later period. In Leland's Collectanea it is related that St David was baptized by Elveus, Bishop of Menevia; that he was brought up in a place now called Hên Fynyw, or "Old Menevia," and that Gistilianus, Bishop of Menevia, was his uncle; from which it appears that this place had been made the seat of an episcopal see at least before David had arrived at years of maturity. Being advanced to the priesthood, and having long studied in the Isle of Wight, under Paulinus, a disciple of St. Germanus, David proceeded to propagate the truths of Christianity among the Britons, and to assist in uprooting the Pelagian heresy, in which he exhibited such surpassing abilities, that he collected around him a considerable body of disciples, many of whom were afterwards Canonized for their superior wisdom and piety. His reputation, indeed, became so well established, that at a great synod held at LlandewyBrevi, in the county of Cardigan, he was preferred to the archbishopric of Caerleon, the capital of Gwent, on account of the increasing infirmities of the holy Dubricius, who then enjoyed that high dignity. David, however, only accepted it at the unanimous request of the bishops, Clergy, and laity present at the synod, and on condition that he should be allowed to remove the metropolitan see from Caerleon to this place, where St. Patrick had already founded a Monastery, over which David presided, and which he is said to have held in greater favour than all the other religious houses in the diocese. The archbishop, with the consent of his nephew, the renowned King Arthur, accordingly removed the seat of the primacy to Menevia, called by Giraldus Cambrensis Vallis Rosini, which Capgrave translates "the Rosy valley," and Sir R. Colt Hoare "the Valle of Rhôs;" and established it at his College in this Valle, near the western extremity of Wales; the place being afterwards called by his countrymen, from respect to his memory, Tŷ Ddewi, "the House of David," or "St Davids," which appellation it has ever since retained. During his primacy he had for his suffragans the bishops of Worcester, Hereford, Bangor, Llandaf, Llanelwy or St. Asaph, Llanbadarn (near Aberystwith), called in Latin Paternensis, and Margam. The two first were at an early period accounted English bishoprics, and the two last being dissolved, the succeeding archbishops had only the bishops of the other three Welsh dioceses as suffragans.

The period of the death of David, and the age at which he died, are as undetermined as the time of his birth. Pits considers this event to have occurred in the year 544; Giraldus Cambrensis, and John of Tynemouth, in 609; and Bishop Godwin in 647; whilst all four concur in ascribing to him the almost incredible age of 147. Usher, and St Davids biographer in the Acta Sanctorum, are also of opinion that he died in 544; but the former states that he was only eighty-two years old, and the latter ninety seven. He was interred in the cathedral which he had founded, and many years after his decease was Canonized by Pope Calixtus II.; but the distinction which he attained, as patron saint of Wales, is comparatively of modern origin. His immediate successor is stated by Giraldus to have been Ceneauc, or Kenanc, called also Kinothus, who was also interred in the cathedral, and was succeeded by St. Teilo, the celebrated Bishop of Llandaf; but in Bishop Godwin's list of successors the name of Eliud appears next to that of David.

The city and cathedral of St Davids were repeatedly exposed to the desolating effects of incursive warfare in the early ages, and the events which marked the progress of one had an equal influence on that of the other. In the year 808, during the reign of Cynan Tyndaethwy, they were reduced to ashes by the west Saxons, which disaster was followed by a destructive murrain among the cattle in the surrounding district. In the reign of Anarawd, in the year 911, St Davids was utterly destroyed by the Danes: on this occasion a desperate battle was fought in the vicinity, in which Maylor, one of the Welsh princes, was slain. Bishop Godwin records that, in the time of Samson, the twenty-fifth archbishop, there were seven suffragans to the see, viz., the bishops of Exeter, Bath, Hereford, Llandaf, Bangor, St. Asaph, and Ferns in Ireland. This prelate, in 915, according to Browne Willis, on account of a pestilential disease which then raged here, withdrew to Dôl in Brittany, taking his pall with him: he appears to have died there; and his successors in the see, either for want of the pall, or for some other reason, were deprived of the title of archbishop, although they still exercised the power of consecrating the Welsh bishops of Llandaf, St. Asaph, and Bangor, until the reign of Henry I. At that time, a Norman ecclesiastic, named Bernard, not chosen by the Welsh Clergy, as had been the custom, but forced upon them by the English Monarch, yielded an extorted submission to the see of Canterbury, which has continued to the present time; the bishops of St Davids and the other Welsh dioceses, being thenceforward suffragans to the primate of all England. The first mention of the archdeaconry of St Davids occurs in this reign, about the year 1128, when it was held by one William, whose successor was the celebrated Giraldus Cambrensis, who was afterwards elected by the chapter to the bishopric, but not consecrated.

Meanwhile, events of great importance to the city had occurred. In 982, during the reign of Howel ab Ievav, Geofryd, son of the Danish King Harold, laid waste the Church of St Davids and its possessions; and towards the close of the same century, the Danes again landed, slew Bishop Urganau, or Morgenau, and destroyed with fire and sword the inhabitants and their property. The reigning sovereign, whose two sons had been interred here, being unable to restrain the desolating progress of these marauders, was compelled to purchase their departure by paying them a tribute of one penny for every man in his dominions, commonly called "the Tribute of the Black Army," and is said to have died of grief in consequence. In 1077, in the reign of Trahaern ab Caradoc, St Davids was sacked and destroyed by a roving army either of Danes or Norwegians, who landed in great numbers from their ships. But notwithstanding these disasters, the city rapidly increased in wealth and magnificence, owing principally to the largesses bestowed at the shrine of its patron saint, two visits to which were deemed as meritorious as one pilgrimage to Rome. The amount of these offerings is reported to have been so great, that it was divided among the Clergy of the establishment by measures, to save the trouble of counting it.

In 1077, William the Conqueror invaded Wales with a large army; but not experiencing the slightest opposition from the natives, he, with his accustomed good policy, changed his military expedition into a pilgrimage, and advanced at the head of his troops to this city, where he offered his devotions at the shrine of St David, and received the homage of the Welsh princes. The shrine was sacrilegiously pillaged, and the city plundered, in 1087; and a few years afterwards, the Danes once more landed, plundered and burnt the Church, and, taking possession of the surrounding intrenchments, settled here for some time, during which they perpetrated the most cruel outrages in the adjacent country. In 1090, the descent of the Normans on the district now forming the county of Pembroke commenced; and it is probably to the hardy valour of these invaders that the city of St Davids owed the tranquillity which it afterwards enjoyed. During the prelacy of David FitzGerald, the immediate successor of Bernard, the Norman Bishop, who, in the reign of Henry I., had surrendered the archiepiscopal authority of the see into the hands of the Archbishop of Canterbury, King Henry II. came hither, and having made his offering at St Davids shrine, was entertained by the Bishop. Peter de Leia, the successor of FitzGerald, who finding the cathedral Church almost in ruins, from the frequent assaults of the Danes and other piratical invaders, pulled it entirely down, in 1180, and built in its stead a new Church, dedicated, as the former had been, to St. Andrew and St David, and which constitutes the greater part of the present edifice. Before the preferment of this prelate, the chapter had elected Giraldus Cambrensis as the successor of his uncle, Bishop FitzGerald; but the King, unwilling to elevate to that dignity a man of such influence and talents, refused to ratify their choice. The same body, however, on the death of Peter de Leia, again placed Giraldus at the head of a list of four persons, whom they nominated; but his election not being confirmed, the see remained vacant for six years, whilst Giraldus was endeavouring to procure his consecration to it; and it was ultimately filled by Geoffry de Henelawe, prior of Llanthony, whose successor was Iorwerth, or Gervase, by whom the precentorships in the cathedral were founded, about the year 1225, and in whose prelacy the new tower of the cathedral fell down, in November 1220.

During the war between Henry III. and the disaffected barons, Richard, Earl of Pembroke, Mareschal of England, and the most powerful of the barons, attacked this city, in 1223, and barbarously put to death all the King's partisans in it.

In March 1248, whilst Anselm was Bishop, a great part of the cathedral was thrown down by an earthquake.

The office of treasurer of St Davids was founded in 1259, by Bishop Carew and the dignity of chancellor in 1287, by Bishop Thomas Becke, who established other offices in the cathedral, some of which exist at present, though under different names. During the episcopacy of Becke, King Edward I. and Queen Eleanor, in 1284, came on a pilgrimage to the shrine of St David. The next Bishop was David Martin, who built a Chapel, dedicated to St. Mary, at the eastern end of the cathedral, still occasionally called Bishop Martin's Chapel, in which he was interred. He was succeeded by Henry Gower, Chancellor of England, who erected the magnificent episcopal palace of St Davids, the interesting remains of which are so deservedly admired: this prelate died in 1347, and was interred in a Chapel, dedicated to St. John, which he had built for his own sepulture under the rood-loft of the cathedral. His immediate successor was John Thoresby, Chancellor of England, and subsequently Archbishop of York; and Bishop Adam Houghton, who was also Chancellor from 1377 to 1379, was another early successor. The latter drew up certain statutes, to be observed in the Church of St Davids: he also built St. Mary's College, adjoining the northern front of the cathedral, for a master and seven fellows, and endowed it with £100 per annum, and a separate house for each. To this institution John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, and Blanch his wife, were so great benefactors as to be reckoned joint founders with the Bishop. Bishop Houghton was interred in the Chapel of St. Mary ; and his second successor was John Gilbert, who was twice appointed Treasurer of England. He was succeeded by Guy Mohun, who was also Keeper of the King's Privy Seal, Treasurer of England, and Treasurer of St. Paul's, London. This prelate's immediate successor, Henry Chichele, afterwards became Archbishop of Canterbury, and was accounted the most worthy and benevolent Bishop of the age in which he lived.

Edward Vaughan, the eighty-second Bishop of St Davids, is recorded as the last who contributed materially to the enrichment of the cathedral. He built a most elegant Chapel in honour of the Holy Trinity , between the Chapel of St. Mary and the choir, and adorned various parts of the Church with appropriate embellishments; he is said to have also erected St. St Justinians Chapel, about a mile from the city, and, dying about the year 1521, was interred in his own Chapel, where was formerly a brass plate inscribed to his memory. His successor, Richard Rawlins, died in 1535, and was the last Bishop buried in the cathedral.

Bishop Barlow, the immediate successor of Rawlins, presided over the see thirteen years, during which he greatly impoverished it, in order, as it is said (by Browne Willis), successively to provide for his five daughters, who were married to five bishops. He is even stated to have taken off the roof of the episcopal palace, for the sake of the lead, thus occasioning so much damage to that magnificent structure, as to require the revenue of the bishopric for twelve years to repair it; but this object was never attempted, so that it now presents a vast pile of ruins. Bishop Barlow's successor, Robert Farrar, was likewise a great dilapidator: subsequently to the fall of his patron, the Duke of Somerset, he was imprisoned by the precentor and Canons, and, after continuing in confinement during the remainder of the reign of Edward VI., was, in the time of Mary , adjudged a heretic, and burned at the stake at Carmarthen, in 1555.

On Farrar's deprivation, Henry Morgan was elected, in 1553, but he was ejected on the accession of Elizabeth, and succeeded by Thomas Younge, the precentor, who had caused the imprisonment of Farrar, and who had been driven into exile in Germany, during the persecutions in the reign of Mary , but finally was made Archbishop of York. His successor in this bishopric was Richard Davies, a man of great learning, and one of the translators of the Bible: he was buried at Aberguilly, near Carmarthen, and his coffin has lately been discovered in the chancel of the parish Church there, in consequence of which Bishop Thirlwall has placed a tablet in that Church to his memory, with an inscription in the Welsh language, written by the Rev. J. Jones (Tegid). Bishop Davies was succeeded by Richard Milbourne, D.D., who was translated to the see of Carlisle in 1621, and was accounted one of the most learned, benevolent, and public-spirited persons of the age.

The next Bishop was the celebrated William Laud, subsequently elevated to the archbishopric of Canterbury, and beheaded on Tower-Hill in 1644.

His second successor in this see was Roger Mainwaring, who was imprisoned and subjected to great persecution during the parliamentary war: he died in 1653. About this period, lands of the value of £3547 were alienated by an ordinance of the parliament from the bishopric, which continued vacant from the death of Bishop Mainwaring to the election of William Lucy, in 1660. Another vacancy, of five years and eight months, occurred in the see, which was terminated in 1704, by the appointment of George Bull, one of the most eminent divines of the last century.

Robert Lowth, prebendary of Durham, who was eminently distinguished for his learning and amiable manners, was elevated to the see in 1766, but was translated in the same year to Oxford, and thence to London.

Samuel Horsley, the one hundred and fifteenth Bishop, was appointed in the year 1788. He was a man of great learning, and early distinguished himself by an intimate acquaintance with the mathematical sciences: amongst his publications were, a complete edition of Newton's works, and a translation of Hosea. He was promoted to Rochester in 1793, and afterwards to St. Asaph. Thus, with the divines who have since succeeded to the bishopric, has St Davids had the greatest number of prelates of any see in the kingdom: of these, twenty-six were archbishops, and twenty-one more, although they did not bear the title, retained archiepiscopal authority over the other Welsh sees; whilst many others filled the highest civil offices in the state.

The parish comprises the westernmost portion of the great rocky promontory projecting into St. George's Channel, and forming the northern boundary of St. St Bride's Bay; and also the small islands lying off its extremity, which gave to this headland its ancient name of Octopitarum, or Octo- petrarum. These islands, with some sunken rocks, occasion in the intervening channels exceedingly strong currents. They are eight in number, but seven of them are mere rocks, called "The Bishop and his Clerks;" the eighth, called Ramsey Island, lies about one mile from the main land, and is about three miles in length and one in breadth. At the southern end of the intervening sound is a dangerous reef of rocks, denominated "The Bitches;" and in the middle of it a rock much dreaded, called "The Horse," which is covered at high water. The whole of Ramsey Island is elevated, and at each end rises a lofty Hill, imparting to it a grand appearance, and presenting various picturesque groups of rocks: on the summits of these hills, which command prospects of great magnificence, are various remains of antiquity, including intrenchments, carneddau, &c. The island contains much good arable and pasture land, and is amply supplied with water, the principal stream being powerful enough to turn a mill. "The Bishop and his Clerks," three of which afford scanty pasturage for sheep, are appurtenant to Ramsey; they are all included in this parish, and are the property of the Bishop. At the eastern end of Ramsey, and scarcely separated from it, are two smaller rocky islands, one termed Ynys y Byry, or "The Kite's Island," and the other Ynys y Cantwr, or "The Precentor's Island," yielding a thick matted herbage, on which a few sheep feed. A little to the northwest of Ramsey is a bank, which is said to have been noted for its excellent fishery of Cod, turbot, soles, &c., Long since entirely neglected. The rocky cliffs of the islands are annually the resort of an immense number of migratory birds, including eligugs, razor-bills, puffins, &c., and were anciently likewise distinguished for their breed of falcons. The area of the parish is 10,655 acres.

The city of St Davids, exclusively of "the Close," is situated on ground sloping gently towards the sea, and at the distance of one mile from it. There were formerly five Streets, called respectively High-street, St. Non's street, New-street, Shipstreet, and Pit-street; but it is now reduced in appearance to a mere village, the houses, with few exceptions, being small and meanly built. In the middle of the town stands the High Cross, where the Market was held, and funerals were wont to stop; from which the High-street is continued downward to the Close, an extensive area at the foot of the Hill, which comprises within its precincts the venerable cathedral, the magnificent ruins of the palace, and other buildings; exhibiting very interesting remains of the pristine grandeur of this ancient city. The Close, which is extra-parochial, is 1200 yards in circumference, and was encompassed by an embattled wall, of which there are still some remains. In this wall were four gates, corresponding with the cardinal points; but the only one remaining is the Tower Gate, situated at the bottom of the Highstreet, and forming the principal entrance into the Close. The small river Allan, celebrated for its trout, runs through the area, and is now crossed by a bridge, in lieu of an ancient marble slab, which was polished by the feet of pilgrims, and was superstitiously believed to possess miraculous Properties.

The parish is very productive of grain, which in some years is shipped to a considerable extent. A Haven is formed by the mouth of the river Allan, at Porth Clais, about one mile from the city, where a pier was constructed, at a very early period, to defend it from the violence of the waves, and was rebuilt in 1722. Of late years the Quay has been extended, and the harbour otherwise considerably improved. To this small port belong seven vessels, averaging about twenty five tons' burthen, which are principally employed during Winter in conveying grain (chiefly barley) and butter to Bristol and other ports on the Severn, and during summer in bringing limestone, coal, and culm from the shores of Milford Haven. The Market, which was held on Monday and Thursday, has long been discontinued: fairs take place on March 12th and August 5th.

St Davids has no municipal Corporation, but there is an officer called mayor, whose duty consists in collecting the chief rents belonging to the Bishop, within the limits of the city, which is co-extensive with one of the four cylchs, or divisions of the parish, called Cylch-y-Drêw, or "the Town Hamlet;" the remaining three being denominated Cylch-Mawr, Cylch-Bychan, and CylchGwaelod, "the Larger, the Smaller, and the Lower Hamlets." During the debates in parliament on the subject of amending the representation of the people, it was proposed by the first Reform Bill that St Davids should be contributory to Haverfordwest, but that arrangement was altered, and it was wholly omitted in the Act.

The diocese appears anciently to have comprised the whole of South Wales, and is still of great extent, containing the four counties of Brecknock, Cardigan, Carmarthen, and Pembroke; the whole of Radnorshire, except six parishes, which belong to the see of Hereford; and the hundred of Ewyaslacy, in the county of Hereford. Prior to the passing of the act 6th and 7th of William IV., c.77, it also comprised the deanery of Gower in the county of Glamorgan, and two parishes in each of the counties of Monmouth and Montgomery. The ecclesiastical establishment consists of a Bishop, dean, chancellor, treasurer, four archdeacons, a number of Canons and cursal Canons, two minor Canons, an organist, six choristers, a master of the grammar-school, and other officers. The bishops formerly exercised almost sovereign authority Throughout the diocese, particularly over the province of Dewisland, or honour of Pebidiawg, in which their jurisdiction was more absolute than the minor regality of a lordship marcher. In their instruments they called the inhabitants of Dewisland, including St Davids, their subjects; and such as dared to violate rashly, or infringe upon, their statutes, were punished by them. The mayor of St Davids acted in entire subordination to the bishops, whose statutes and mandates it was his duty to enforce; he held his court in the building which formed the south-east wing of the Tower Gate. The Bishop's seneschal, or steward, was usually some person of distinction in the country; and within his jurisdiction the prelate had several inferior courts, from which an appeal lay to the supreme court at his Castle of Lawhaden, which place still confers on the bishops the dignity of a baron of the United Kingdom. In some cases the Bishop exercised the power of inflicting capital punishment; but on the other hand he was bound to garrison and protect the city and its suburbs, and, by his military tenure, was compelled to be present in war; in which event he made his progress with great state, being accompanied from this city, on the first day of his march, by the burgesses, carrying with them the relics and shrine of St David, so far as permitted their return the same night. The privileges of the sanctuary of St Davids were very extensive, and much respected: the sanctity of the place was not confined to the limits of the Close, or of the city, but the whole parish, emphatically called in Welsh Plwyv Tŷ Ddewi, "the parish of the house of St David," was overspread with Chapels, crosses, and holy wells, some of the last being still held in great repute. In addition to the sumptuous episcopal palace of St Davids, the Bishop had castles at Trêvdyn, about six miles distant, Llan-Vydd (now Lamphey), and Lawhaden, in Pembrokeshire; at Llandygwidd, in Cardiganshire; Llanddewi, in Brecknockshire; and Aberguilly, in Carmarthenshire; all which are now in ruins, except the last, where an establishment is still kept up. At present the Bishop holds his consistorial court at Carmarthen for the whole of the diocese, at Brecknock for the counties of Brecknock and Radnor, at Haverfordwest for Pembrokeshire, and at Cardigan for Cardiganshire: at each of the three places last mentioned the principal registrar appoints a deputy.

The cathedral, dedicated to St. Andrew and St David, is a magnificent cruciform structure, consisting of a nave, with aisles extending nearly the whole length of the building, a choir and sanctuary, north and south transepts, and a large square tower of elegant proportions rising from the intersection of the nave and transepts, surmounted by pinnacles at the Angles. The exterior, with the exception of an early Norman doorway on the north side, is wholly in the three styles of English architecture: the western front was rebuilt, towards the close of the last century, by Mr. Nash, and displays a fantastic inter mixture of these various styles. The principal entrance is through a grand doorway at the west end, called the Bishop's Door; but this is seldom used, the common entrance being by a handsomely enriched porch on the south side. The Nave is separated from the aisles by a Row of five massive pillars on each side, alternately round and octagonal, with corresponding pilasters at each end, supporting six arches rudely ornamented in the later Norman style, above which is a double series of Norman arches, reaching to the roof of the nave, and occupied in the upper part of the higher range by the windows of the clerestory, every alternate one of which, on the south side, has been closed. There is also a range of five elegant windows, in the English style of architecture, in each of the aisles, opposite the arches which separate them from the nave. The roof of the nave is of Irish oak, divided into compartments, and ornamented with a carved pendent in the centre of each. The Choir, in which service is performed daily, is entered from the nave through the centre of a handsome stone screen, erected by Bishop Gower, and accounted, both for design and execution, one of the finest specimens of decorated English architecture. It is comprised within the four lofty arches that support the tower, three of which are of ancient English architecture, and the fourth, or western, which is occupied by the rood-loft, and is supposed to be the only one remaining of those on which the tower was anciently built by Bishop Peter de Leia, is in the Norman style: all of them spring from Norman columns. The choir contains twenty eight stalls, which are of oak, and the Bishop's throne, which was executed at the expense of Bishop Morgan, and, for elegance of design and carved decorations, is probably only surpassed by that in Exeter Cathedral. In the north arch, and not in the roodloft, as is usual, is placed the Organ. The Sanctuary, which is separated from the choir by an oak screen, contains a beautiful Mosaic pavement, composed of small tiles, inscribed with religious mottoes and other ingenious devices: the altar is placed under an elegant design of three arches, said to have been formerly filled with painted glass, which, combined with the handsome window above, consisting of three lancet shaped compartments, and adorned with the most elaborate tracery, had a rich appearance.

Immediately beyond the sanctuary is the Chapel erected by Bishop Vaughan, in the reign of Henry VIII., an exquisite specimen of the later (or Perpendicular) style of English architecture, almost rivalling in richness and elegance the Chapel of Henry VII., in Westminster Abbey: the roof, which is of freestone, is beautifully designed in fan tracery, and the sculpture, from the great care with which it is preserved by the chapter, appears almost as fresh and perfect as when first executed. Beyond a small intervening passage, and forming the eastern extremity of the cathedral, is the decayed Chapel of St. Mary the Virgin, built by Bishop Martin, which has been unroofed for some years. In the same state of ruin are the aisles eastward from the transepts, which were greatly damaged by Cromwell's soldiers, who unroofed them for the sake of the lead, which they sold to one of their partisans, then in possession of the priory estate at Cardigan, who made use of it in covering the Church and priory-house there. From the north aisle a considerable flight of steps forms the ascent into what was anciently the chapter-house, but is now used as a grammar-school. Under it is a room of the same dimensions, having an elegant groined roof, and being probably that in which the entertainments of the chapter took place at their audits, the upper end containing a dais, as in colleges and ancient baronial mansions. Both these ruined aisles retain vestiges of their groined roofs, with windows of beautiful proportions in the English style of architecture, and other corresponding decorations. In the north transept was formerly a Chapel, dedicated to St. Andrew; and in the south was one dedicated to St David, now called the Chanter's. The north-west door of the cathedral opens into a space much obstructed by some heavy and unsightly buttresses, which it was found necessary to erect for the support of this part of the building. Between this and the ruins of St. Mary's College were the cloisters, of which only the pillars of the arches are now remaining. The extreme length of the cathedral, including the Chapels of Bishop Vaughan and Bishop Martin, is 274½ feet; its breadth along the transepts is 184 feet, and the width of the nave and aisles 76 feet.

Since the appointment of Dr. Connop Thirlwall to the see in 1840, laudable efforts have been made by the Dean and Chapter in the restoration of the fabric; though much yet remains to be done. The new works include, the restoration of the south transept, now used as a parochial Church instead of the nave; the insertion of a large window with flowing tracery, in the gable of the north transept, previously blocked up; and the erection of two windows of a similar character in the aisles. The stone screen of the choir, and the rood-loft above, have been restored and partly rebuilt, and the Norman arch between the nave and choir, which was closely built up, has been opened; the steps in front of the screen have been repaired, and a new pavement of encaustic tiles laid down. W. Butterfield, esq., of London, was the architect employed for these restorations and improvements, which have been effected partly from the funds of the Dean and Chapter, and partly by subscription.

Among the monuments are several of great beauty and antiquity. The celebrated shrine of St David, now scarcely distinguishable from other ancient tombs, occupies a recess on the north side of the sanctuary, consisting of three arches in the ancient style of English architecture, resting on pillars of great delicacy and beauty. In the central arch was placed an image of the saint, and on the sides were images of St. Patrick and St. Denis: beneath a horizontal slab were four quatrefoil holes, for the offerings of pilgrims, of which two have been closed; and the whole was formerly enriched with precious stones, and veiled with silken drapery. In another part of the cathedral are three recumbent effigies, one of which, originally enclosed on two sides by a railing of brass, is of Bishop Gower, and the other two are attributed by Browne Willis to Thomas Wallensis, who died in 1255, and Richard de Carew who died in 1280, though other writers have assigned them to different persons. In the area of the sanctuary is the altar tomb of Edmund, Earl of Richmond, the eldest son of Owen Tudor (by Catherine, widow of Henry V.), and father of Henry VII., on which were formerly his effigy and various escutcheons and other ornaments in brass, removed by the parliamentarians, who stripped the cathedral of many of its costly decorations: the earl was first interred in the Monastery of Grey friars, at Carmarthen, on the dissolution of which his remains are said to have been removed to this place. On the floor of the south side of this portion of the building are the recumbent effigies of Bishops Iorwerth and Anselm; and under recesses on the sides of the altar, are figures of two knights in armour, well executed in freestone. That on the south side, which is in good preservation, is interesting as the memorial of Rhys ab Gruffydd, last Prince of South Wales, who died in 1196: the effigy represents a man rather advanced in years, in a recumbent posture, his vizor raised, and his head supported by a helmet, with a sword suspended at his side by a rich belt, a lion rampant sculptured on his breastplate, and another lion supporting his feet. The other effigy is that of a Welsh chieftain, named Rhys Gryg, and represents a younger man, similarly accoutred. Near it is the handsome tomb of Treasurer Lloyd, who died in the reign of James I. In the roofless aisle on the north side of the sanctuary are the mutilated effigies of a Knight Templar and a monk, another effigy with an inscription much defaced, and two arched ornamented recesses. Beneath a richly adorned canopy, on the south side of the dilapidated Chapel of St. Mary, lie the remains of its founder; and on the opposite side is the tomb of Bishop Houghton. The decayed aisle on the south side of the sanctuary contains the monuments of various dignitaries of the cathedral, one of which is supposed to be the effigy of Giraldus Cambrensis, who was interred here. In the north transept, in which is an effigy of some dignitary, many relics of antiquity, found in the cathedral, and some of them very curious, are deposited. In this part of the edifice is a place separated by a railing, said to have been used as a penitentiary; and in the wall are some round holes, by means of which the voices of the priests officiating in the choir might be heard by the inmates. Near the west end of the cathedral stands a building, erected towards the close of the last century, as a chapter-house: this, from the inelegance of its style of architecture, and as it obstructs one of the finest views of the venerable cathedral, has been the object of general censure. Besides a room in which the affairs of the chapter are transacted, it comprises a handsome apartment, forty-two feet long, in which the audit entertainments of the chapter take place, with kitchens, cellars, &c.; the whole being surmounted by a fancifully ornamented spire. The records of the minor chapter are kept in a room over the porch on the south side of the cathedral.

The living is a perpetual curacy, endowed with £600 royal bounty and £1200 parliamentary grant, and in the patronage of the Bishop of St Davids; net income, £110. The tithes have been commuted for three respective rent-charges, the largest, amounting to £720, payable to the Dean and Chapter of St Davids; the second, £320, payable to the Subchanter and Vicars-choral; and the third, £7, to the Bishop. The cathedral is used also as the parochial Church, divine service being performed in the nave four times every Sunday, twice in the English, and twice in the Welsh language.

Formerly there were several small Chapels in the parish, most of them situated near the sea-side, adjacent to the landing places, so as to attract the devotion of seamen and passengers; and the offerings received at them were carried to the cathedral, and there divided every Saturday among the Canons and priests. Of these, the names of four have been preserved, viz., St. Justinians, St. Non's, Capel-y-Pistill, and Capel-yGwyrhyd. St. Justinians is said to have been built by Bishop Vaughan, and now forms a very interesting ruin in a beautiful and romantic situation: some remains, also, still exist of St. Non's. There are three places of worship for Calvinistic Methodists, two each for Independents and Baptists, and one for Wesleyans. The free grammar-school attached to the cathedral affords instruction to six choristers, the number fixed in 1501, by Bishop Morgan, who conferred upon it a handsome endowment, which, however, it lost at the time of the Reformation, by the act for the suppression of chantries. The master, who is appointed by the chapter, has from that body a stipend of £20 per annum; and each of the choristers receives £3. 8. per annum from the same source. There is also what is called the Benevolent school, established in 1812, and supported by the chapter and a few subscribers: two schools, conducted on the principles of the British system as regards religion, are maintained principally by subscription; and the master of another school receives an endowment of £1. 4. per annum, being the interest of £40 bequeathed by the late Thomas Beynon, in 1810. Of the ten Sunday schools, one, conducted by the curate of the parish, is held in the cathedral. About 1703, William Jones bequeathed to the chapter a sum of £300, which, after a suit in chancery, was vested with arrears in the three per cent. reduced annuities, producing £15 per annum, now distributed among six widows of Clergymen of the diocese in equal shares. St Davids is one of the four parishes participating in the munificent bequest of Dr. Jones, made in the year 1698, for the relief of the poor and the apprenticing of children, and receives as its share £50 per annum, which are distributed according to the intentions of the donor. This sum is received from the trustees of the charity by the sub-chanter and vicars-choral, who pay £1 to each of the Masters of four boys placed out as apprentices, and divide the remainder among poor persons not receiving parochial relief, in sums varying from £3 to 2s. 6d. A rent-charge of £1 per annum, the gift of Mathias Adams in the year 1700, is likewise distributed among the poor.

A College for a master and seven priests was founded here, as already observed, in 1365, by Bishop Houghton; to which John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, and Blanch his wife, were so great benefactors as to be considered joint founders with the Bishop. It was dedicated to St. Mary, and at the Dissolution had a clear revenue of £106. 3. 6. The buildings were connected with the north side of the cathedral by cloisters, which, with the exception of the pillars of the arches, have been destroyed; and the only part remaining of the College is the shell of its Chapel, from which some idea may be formed of its grandeur and extent. The Chapel was sixty-nine feet in length, and about twenty-four in width, with a square tower at the west end, which is seventy feet in height: the side walls are forty-five feet high, and in each of them were three windows in the English style of architecture, twenty-four feet high and nine broad; the east window was similar in shape, but larger in dimensions, and the whole of them were enriched with painted glass. Underneath this edifice is a vaulted crypt of equal dimensions, through which runs a small stream of water.

In addition to the cathedral and the College Chapel, the remains of the episcopal palace complete the venerable and magnificent group of buildings which, with their varied architectural features, characterize the Close. This superb edifice was situated at a short distance to the west of the cathedral, on the western bank of the river Allan, and was built by Bishop Gower, in the reign of Edward III.; it inclosed a quadrangular area, 120 feet square, and presented four fronts, of which the south-east and south-west alone remain. In the latter is a noble room, measuring ninety-six feet by thirty-three, erroneously called King John's Hall which is entered from the court by an elegant porch, in the exterior of which are two niches, containing mutilated statues of Edward III. and his queen. The apartment is lighted by lofty windows at the side, and by a rich and curious circular window at the south-west end, having sixteen radii diverging from its centre, which were originally filled with painted glass. At the other end of the Hall is a drawing-room, opening into a small Chapel, the freestone tower and spire of which are still standing. The Bishop's apartments occupied the other remaining, or south-east, side of the quadrangle: the principal is a Hall sixty-seven feet in length and twenty-five in breadth, also entered from the court by an elegant porch, the archway of which forms a curious semi-octagon. At the southeast end, between these two Halls, was the kitchen, alike convenient to the royal and the episcopal apartments, having in the centre a low pillar, from which sprang four arches, gradually diminishing into the same number of chimneys, the whole now presenting a heap of ruins. At the other extremity of the Bishop's Hall was a drawing-room, opening also into a small Chapel, corresponding with that at the extremity of King John's Hall; the basement story is composed of a series of curious and spacious vaults. But the most remarkable feature of these interesting ruins is the majestic open parapet surmounting the walls, and which, rising to the height of seven feet above the ceilings of the upper rooms, is formed by a succession of arches, resting upon octagonal pillars with decorated capitals. Besides its concealing the roof, and having been exceedingly ornamental to the palace, it afforded the means of defence similar to the battlements of a Castle; and it was adopted by the same Bishop in the fortification and adorning of Swansea Castle and Lamphey Court.

The entrance from the town to the ecclesiastical precincts of the Close is through the Tower Gate, an arched gateway flanked by two towers. One of these is a noble octagonal structure, sixty feet in height, which anciently comprised the consistory court and record office of the diocese; it now communicates with the cemetery, a spacious area on the south side of the cathedral. The other is circular, and, as it communicated only with the town, is supposed to have been appropriated to municipal purposes. The whole was secured by a ponderous portcullis. The lower part of the building consisted of a porter's lodge, and prison, and to the latter was attached a dungeon, entered only by an iron grating, through which malefactors were lowered into it.

The promontory of St Davids abounds with ancient military and Druidical remains. The Barrows, on or near which the Roman Menapia is supposed to have been situated, are overspread with tumuli; and there, according to tradition, was the site of a town called Caerlleon, "the City of the Legion." The military work situated nearest to the city is a small circular encampment, about a mile to the north of it. In the same direction is St Davids Head, projecting a considerable distance into the sea, and displaying scenery of the wildest character. At the entrance to it, from a heathy tract producing various aromatic plants, rises a lofty mass of rugged rocks, called Carn Lludw, towering in the most grotesque forms, and commanding from their summits an extensive and diversified prospect by sea and land. At the southern base of this rocky elevation lies the celebrated Maen Sigl, or Logan Stone, of enormous size, and once so delicately poised as to yield to a slight pressure; but its equilibrium was destroyed by the parliamentary soldiers in the seventeenth century. Several ancient military enclosures of a great variety of shapes and dimensions are scattered over this part of the promontory, which is also intersected by the remains of a rampart, formed of loose stones, adjacent to which are divers square and circular areas, inclosed with stones. There is also a remarkable cromlech; the table-stone is twelve feet long, eight feet broad, and about two feet thick, and is supported by a single upright stone. A little beyond is a huge work called Clawdd-yMilwyr, "the fence of the soldiers," which consists of a high and broad rampart of loose stones, extending, like that above-mentioned, from one side of the promontory to the other, but across a narrower part of it, with two outer lines of defence. This work is supposed to have been constructed by the Northmen, who repeatedly ravaged these coasts, and of whose habitations there are still some remains in various circular inclosures within the space protected by it. The parish is interspersed with numerous carneddau, or sepulchral heaps of stones; and on Crûglas, a common about three miles in length, bestowed on the parish by Rhÿs ab Tewdwr, is a huge stone, the supposed memorial of some victory obtained here by the Welsh over some of the northern pirates. There were likewise vestiges in the parish of an ancient fosse-way, called also "the military way;" and on the southern extremity of Carnochun, or Carn Nwchwn, are the remains of some ancient fortifications, the inclosed area of one of which is about one hundred yards long and sixty broad, and is intersected by a natural perpendicular trench of great depth and width: the whole is flanked with four parallel ramparts.

Metallic Veins – copper and sulphur

Here are several metallic veins, most of them containing copper, which run in parallel directions, and are much impregnated with sulphur; but none of them are worked.

In the clefts of the precipitous and abrupt rocks forming St Davids Head, is found a species of crystal, called "St Davids diamond," which, when first obtained, resembles the amethyst, and, being extremely hard, is susceptible of a better polish than most of the British gems. In this part of the promontory is also a large natural cave.

The principal holy wells in the parish, now held in repute, are, one situated near St. Non's Chapel, which is arched over, and the water of which is esteemed efficacious in the cure of divers diseases, particularly those of the eye; another near Porth Clais; and a third just without the southern boundary of the Close: the last has also an arched covering, which yet exhibits some specimens of the rich sculpture that characterized an elegant Chapel erected near it by Bishop Houghton. At a place called Llan-Druidion is a number of springs, called the Nine Wells, the waters of which are immediately united into a copious stream.

St Davids and its immediate vicinity are distinguished as the birthplace of several eminent characters, in addition to the patron saint. Carausius, the celebrated Roman general, was born at Menapia: he assumed the government in Britain, which he conducted with great dignity and splendour, but was assassinated by his minister Alectus, at the instigation of the Emperor Constantius. According to some writers, Asser, the friend and biographer of Alfred the Great, and commonly called Asserius Menevensis, was born here, about the middle of the ninth century; but others are of opinion that he was a native of a small village called Trêv Asser, in the parish of Llanwnda, and that he obtained the surname of Menevensis from having been a monk at this place, where his uncle Novis was archbishop. John Erigena, who is also known by the names of John Patrick Erigena and John Scotus, is claimed by the Welsh as a native of St Davids, whilst, so great is the obscurity of his birth, both the Irish and the Scots regard him respectively as their countryman. He flourished in the middle of the ninth century, was a man of great learning, and, having resided for a considerable period in France, distinguished himself by some writings on school divinity, which gave offence to Pope Nicholas I. In recent times, the late Richard Fenton, esq., F.S.A., author of an "Historical Tour through Pembrokeshire," was born in the parish.

Cylch Y Dre - Cylch-Bychan -Cylch-Gwaelod-Y-Wlad Cylch-Mawr

St Davids Cathedral City but in fact a small town on the north side of St Brides Bay.

It forms one of the four cylchs or hamlets Cylch-Y-Dre along with Cylch Bychan, Cylch-Gwaelod-Y-Wlad and Cylch-Mawr into which the parish is divided. This, the smallest city in Britain, is a place devoted to the memory of Wales' patron saint. The first Monastery was built here in the sixth century, but the present cathedral dates from Norman times, having been commenced in 1182. The building in its present form is a concoction of styles and the result of rebuilding and restoration work over 800 years or so - the most recent major projects having been in 1789 and 1863. But the cathedral is undoubtedly magnificent, almost hidden from view in its little valley, encircled by its massive wall and cheek-by-jowl with the ruined Bishop's Palace.

In spite of some distinctly unpleasant developments on the main street, St David's is still an attractive breezy place with shops, inns, and houses grouped around a spacious square which leads via The Pobbles to the Cathedral's Tower Gate. The area around the little city is full of interest, with prehistoric sites, sites connected with the religious history of the peninsula, the scenery of striking beauty around the coast. In summer St Davids is still a place of pilgrimage today.

Original ecclesiastical settlement associated with the Celtic foundation of St David in the 6c.

The Cathedral dedicated to the patron saint of Wales is held in high esteem across the Principality by Anglicans and non-Anglicans, by Christians and non-Christians alike. It is in its own right a building of great beauty and very much part of our Welsh heritage.

Cylch-Bychan

1834 Acc to Topographical Dictionary of Wales S Lewis.

A hamlet in the parish of St David's hundred of Dewisland county of Pembroke 1 1/2 miles E from St David's containing 359 inhabitants. It forms one of the four cylchs or hamlets into which the parish is divided.

Cylch-Gwaelod-Y-Wlad

1834 Acc/to Topographical Dictionary of Wales S Lewis.

A hamlet in the parish of St David's hundred of Dewisland county of Pembroke 1 mile W from St David's containing 512 inhabitants The name denotes that it consists of the lower or coast portion of the parish which is divided into four cylchs or hamlets this one forming its western division and extending along the sea coast being the most westerly part of the principality. The island of Ramsey on which there is a single farm is included in this hamlet.

Cylch-Mawr

1834 Acc/to Topographical Dictionary of Wales S Lewis.

A hamlet in the parish of St David's hundred of Dewisland county of Pembroke 2 1/2 miles NE from St David's containing 492 inhabitants. The adjunct signifies that it is the larger hamlet into which the parish is divided.

St Davids RCAM – Hamlets 1923

The bounds of the present parish of St David's, regarded not as an ecclesiastical district merely but also as a local administrative area probably follows much the same direction that they have taken at least since the parochial system assumed its permanent and well recognized characteristics. There have been changes within the parish; its sub divisions of cylch, trev, township or hamlet have fallen into desuetude; while, on the other hand, the one survival amongst these cylchau or circuits, the Cathedral of St Davids with its precincts, has within recent years become an Independent parish under the title The Cathedral Close of St David's. The ecclesiastical status of the great Cathedral Church has not changed, and it still continues to be what it appears to have been throughout the ages

– the parish Church of the wide area comprised within the limits of the mediaeval parish of St David's

1844 St Davids South Wales Directory

.....is a city and the See of a Bishop, in the hundred of Dewisland, and county of Pembroke, 266 miles w. from London, 16 N.W. from Haverfordwest, and the like distance S.W. from Fishguard. It is the most westerly town of all South Wales, situated about a mile and a half from the sea, near the promontory, called St Davids Head, from which, on a clear day, the coast of Ireland may be distinctly seen. This is a place of little or no consideration in the way of trade and manufactures it has none, the inhabitants being chiefly employed in agriculture. Although a city, and at one time of high importance in its ecclesiastical character, its present appearance is far from prepossessing the stranger in its favour, and but two structures remain from which any idea can be formed of its original grandeur-these are its cathedral, and the beautiful and extensive ruins of its archiepiscopal palace. The architecture of the cathedral is a mixture of the Saxon and Norman styles; the whole length of the edifice, within the walls, is three hundred and seven feet. That part of the interior of Saxon design is of very early date; and to this day shews the effect of an earthquake which happened in 1248, and cracked the building from top to bottom. The Church contains many ancient monuments; among others those to the memory of the Earl of Richmond, father of Henry VII, and Owen Tudor, his grandfather. St David translated the metropolitan see of Wales from Caerleon hither, in the sixth century, and such it continued to the reign of Henry I. The other places of worship are, four Chapels for dissenters; and the charities are a free grammar school and a charity school, both principally supported by the Chapter and other members of the cathedral.

The Market, which is entitled to be held on Wednesday, has all but fallen into disuse; and the fairs, of which there are four, are unimportant. The parish of Saint David comprises the hamlets of Clych-Byehan, Clych-Gwylod-y-Wlad, Clych-Mawr, and Clych-y-dee, containing in 1831 2,388 inhabitants; and in 1841, 2,445.

1864 Cambrian Journal p341 St Davids.,Mackenzie E. C. Walcott B.D, F.R.S.L., F.S.A.,

The city is now only a poor secluded village , severed from the busy world. Its Cathedral, built on a western promontory nearest to the setting sun. Giraldus spoke of it “as forlorn and remote , exposed to the attacks of Flemings and Welshmen” and said its site called “Valle of Roses” would be more appropriately called “valley of Marble”

The country on every side is wild, desolate and barren – a more covered with heather and gorse, and the Cathedral stands in a ravine , with pyramidal piles of trap rock raising their hughe bulwarks round it; ruins, shapeless heaps and unroofed walls, render the scene profoundly gloomy; and there are no trees except some few gnarled stems and weather-beaton tops in the hollows. Yet the road to the Church was known by thousands of pilgrims as the Meider Saint the “Holy Way”. Druid remains and fragments of medieval Chapels, evince the religious character of the neighbourhood at remote and various periods. “On the east” said Defoe “the hills darken the air with their height”

The cathedral.

The exterior, in consequence of its exposure to the sea air, and a damp climate, was never ornamented; but it is now in a calamitous state of dilapidation, and a considerable portion of the eastern portion is positively roofless, long abandoned to decay. For years the interior was lime washed; the stones were green with moss, dank with rain and dripping moisture from the walls, while the Nave presents no floor but damp earth. After a while rough flagstones were laid down as a pavement and the whitewash removed. The west, north and south sides of the Tower are dangerously fissured; and the whole nave is thrown westards so that all the pillars are out of perpendicular and the arches damaged.

1895 Timmins – Nooks And Corners Of Pembrokeshire

From the crest of the Hill near Upper Solva a wide view of the sea opens out, with a brace of rocky islets off the coast ; while far ahead the high lands of Ramsey Isle, Carn Llidi and Pen Beri, raise their graceful undulations above remote Octopitarum, and the wind-swept sandhills that Mark the site of legendary Menapia.

Coasting along through a rolling treeless country parallel with the course of the

Via Julia (the Roman road from Carmarthen), which accompanies us henceforth to the end of our journey, we mount the gentle ascent that leads to the time-honoured ' city,' of which, however, little is seen until we are 'right there,' as our Transatlantic cousins say.

Dismounting at the Grove Hotel, we fare forth for our first view of time honoured T y Dewi, the city of St Davids. Strolling leisurely along the quiet ' street " of the village-city, we pause now and again to make way for a herd of cattle, or to watch a fLock of geese, stubbing, with sinewy- necks outstretched, in a damp and weed - grown corner. Presently the roadway widens out, and here stands an ancient stone cross, which, rising from a flight of time-worn steps, marks the central point of this most diminutive of cities.

Casting about for some clue to the whereabouts of St Davids Cathedral, we soon espy a low, dark object that proves upon closer inspection to be the topmost story of the central tower. With this as guide, we traverse an old paved lane ycleped the Popples, Anglice Pebbles, and passing beneath the tower gate— sole survivor of the four gate towers of the ancient city — enter the cathedral precincts. This point affords perhaps the most characteristic coup d'œil of the venerable edifice, set amidst that stern and sombre landscape with which its time worn architecture so completely harmonizes. Viewed from our present vantage-point St Davids Cathedral appears ensconced within the hollow of the Valle , its topmost pinnacles scarce rising clear of the distant horizon. grouped around the central mass of the cathedral stand the crumbling ruins of medieval structures of scarcely inferior interest. Away to our left, beyond a grove of wind- swept trees, rise the arcaded walls of Gower's incomparable palace, while the slender tower of St. Mary's College peeps over the Long cathedral roof.

The stone wall that encompasses the cathedral-close upon its eastern side terminates in the massive octagonal tower, with Gothic doorway and windows. This is flanked again by the old gateway through which we have just entered.

We now descend the broad flight of steps that, from their number, have been dubbed the ' Thirty-nine Articles.' Passing through the great south porch our eyes are greeted by a beautiful Decorated doorway, the work of Bishop Gower, which is adorned with exquisitely-carved figures and foliage encrusting arch and pillar. Here enclosed amidst intersecting branches we discern quaintly sculptured representations of the Root of Jesse, the Crucifixion, St David with his harp, and various other saintly personages ; yonder the artist tells the history of Adam and the birth of Eve ; while overhead presides the Holy Trinity , flanked by angels with swinging censers — a veritable gem of mediaeval sculpture. Proceeding onward we now enter the nave, whose rich yet massive architecture forms a unique and enduring memorial of the first Norman Bishop, Peter de Leia. The general effect is of breadth rather than height, the solid cylindrical pillars supporting semicircular arches of unusual width, wrought with the varied and elaborate ornamentation of the Transitional Norman period.

Above this rises a series of lofty arches enclosing both clerestory and triforium — a rather unusual arrangement — while a singular appearance is produced by the upward slope of the floor, and the outward lean of walls and nave pillars, the latter being the result of an earthquake that occurred in the thirteenth century.

The roof which spans the broad nave is one of the most notable features of the cathedral. It was built of Gray Irish oak about the end of the fifteenth century, and is a veritable masterpiece of construction and design. The sculptured foliage of the capitals is worthy of close examination, and one of the nave pillars bears a faded fresco, generally supposed to represent King Henry IV. Beneath an adjacent arch reposes the effigy of Bishop Morgan — a goodly figure habited in priestly robes that are admirably rendered by the sculptor's chisel. The base of this monument is enriched with an unusually fine Resurrection, carved in marble.

Fronting the full width of the nave, the beautiful Decorated rood screen of Bishop Gower now claims our attention. This exquisite structure is perhaps unrivalled in the picturesque variety of its several parts, and the charming effects of light and shade that enhance the mellow tones of its ancient stonework. Panelled buttresses divide the screen into five bays, the middle compartment forming a wide archway adorned with flowers and vine-leaves. To the left is the older portion, subdivided by Gothic arches borne by detached pillars, with grotesque heads and figures clad in thirteenth-century armour. A narrow stair winds up to the ancient rood-loft above.

Turning to the southern side of the rood-screen, we are confronted by the rich and sumptuous fabric erected by Bishop Gower. Under the noble founder sleeps his last sleep beneath a richly-groined canopy, whose traceried arches sparkle with cusps and crockets — a dignified, reposeful figure, worthy the Wykeham of the west, as Gower has been fitly styled.

In memory of his greatest work Gower's tomb once bore the legend,

' Henricus Gower, Episcopalis Palatio Constructor.'

After gazing our fill upon this beautiful structure, unquestionably the chef d'œuvre of the whole cathedral, we pass through the central archway beneath a vaulted roof, whose stony ribs, disdaining the customary support, spring clear of the circumjacent masonry. Here venerable tombs cluster beneath fretted ceilings that retain much of their ancient coloured fresco work, depicting figures, foliage, and fantastic forms which in nowise transgress the Scriptural commandment, for they bear little or no resemblance to any created thing.

We next enter the choir, which occupies the space beneath the central tower. Upon either hand extends a range of canopied stalls, with seats devoted to the use of the dean and chapter of the cathedral.

These old miserere seats were so ingeniously balanced that if an unwary brother chanced to nod over his breviary, he was quickly brought to his seven senses by the overturning of his treacherous perch.

The under-sides of these curious benches have been adorned by the craftsmen of that bygone time with the quaint conceits of their mediaeval fancy. Here, for instance, a vigorously carved panel portrays in unmistakeable fashion the woebegone plight of two seafaring pilgrims, whom a pair of jolly monks are ferrying across the troubled waters of Ramsey Sound. Yonder some subtle humorist has been at work, and given us his version of the priest under the guise of a fox administering the wafer to a goose of a layman ; and it may be noticed that (after the olden custom) the priest reserves the wine flagon to himself. Two wolfish-looking dogs snarling over a bone may by some be thought to prove the antiquity of the familiar couplet,

' Taffy was a Welshman, Taffy was a thief,

Taffy came lo my house and stole a piece of beef

Then we have a couple of sturdy boat-builders, one of whom, having laid aside his adze, drains the contents of a capacious cup, while a mighty beaker stands ready to his hand.

With such -like quaint original devices have those men of old encrusted the surface of these ancient stalls.

So, having done justice to their curious details, we pass on through a second screen separating the chancel from the presbytery, an arrangement peculiar, we believe, to St Davids Cathedral. This portion of the fabric was rebuilt with pointed arches after the fall of the central tower in 1220, and contains some extremely interesting features.

The place of honour in the centre of the presbytery is occupied by the tomb of Edmund Tudor, father of Henry VII, a massive table monument of Purbeck marble, enriched with shields and heraldic devices, and bearing the proud inscription :

' Under this Marble Shrine here enclos'd resteth the Bones of that noble Lord, Edmund Earl of Richmond, Father and Brother to Kings, the which departed out of this World in the Year of our Lord God a thousand four hundred fifty and six, the first Day of the Month of November, on whose Soul almighty Jesus have Mercy, Amen."

Upon the north side of the presbytery rises the stone structure that formed the base of St Davids Shrine. It is the work of Bishop Richard de Carew and dates from the latter half of the thirteenth century. The three arches were once adorned with figures representing St David, St. Patrick and St. Denis, while the quatrefoil openings beneath were provided with small Lockers to receive the offerings of devotees. In the presbytery we also notice a small circular piscina of very ancient date pierced with concentric rows of holes — a rare and curious feature.

After examining the handsome effigy of Bishop Anselm Le Gros, nephew of Earl William of Pembroke, with its laconic couplet —

' Petra Precor die sic

Anselmus Episcopus jacet hie ' two fine recumbent figures of very ancient date arrest our attention, none other than those famous

South Welsh princes, the Lord Rhys ap Gruffydd and his son, Rhys Grygg.

Higden, in his quaint 'Polychronicon,' breaks forth into unbounded panegyrics over the great Lord Rhys: 'O blysse of battayle!' he exclaims, 'Chylde of Chyvalry ! defence of Countre ! Worshyppe of Armes ! the noble dyadame of fayrnesse of Wales is now fallen, that is, Rees is dead. The Enemy is heere, for Rees is not heere ; now Wales helpeth not itself; Rees is dead and taken away, but hys noble Name is not dead, for it is alwayes new in the wide Worlde. His prowesse passeth hys manners ; hys Wytte passeth hys prowesse ; hys fayre Speech passeth hys Wytte ; hys good Thews passeth hys fayre Speech !'

Not to proLong the subject ad nauseam, we will merely indicate as more particularly worthy of notice the tomb of Silvester Medicus; a recumbent effigy reputed to be that of Giraldus Cambrensis, of Manorbere ; the massive shrine of St. Caradoc ; and two early Celtic crosses in the south transept, with the legend

PONTIFICIS ABRAHAM FILII.

We next glance into St. Thomas 's Chapel, one of the oldest portions of the fabric, whose massive groined roof is adorned with sculptured bosses of unusual size. Here is a piscina enclosed within a group of pointed arches, whose lovely Early English enrichments form one of the daintiest features of the cathedral.

We now enter the beautiful Chapel erected by Edward Vaughan, the last of the great building prelates of St Davids. It boasts a handsome fanvaulted ceiling, and a peculiar hagioscope fashioned like a cross within a circle.

Some curious details attract our notice as we wander amongst the unrestored Chapels. In one of these, a trio of sculptured quadrupeds suggests the idea of the Trinity , while another contains the effigy of a knight in chain-mail, shorn of half its length by a clumsy buttress — a legacy from the days of churchwarden misrule.

Outside the Lady Chapel stood St. Mary's Well, which according to tradition arose at the prayer of St David to supply the neighbouring Monastery. Giraldus tells us that this accommodating spring would sometimes flow with wine, at other times with milk, and that it was the scene of many edifying miracles.

Sauntering around the mellow-tinted walls of the old cathedral, we notice the huge flying buttresses built against its northern side to strengthen the fabric. These rugged bastions, clothed in their luxuriant mantle of ivy, with the crumbling arches of the ruined cloisters hard by, group in a picturesque fashion beneath the central tower, whose broad front, bronzed by the rays of the declining sun, forms a rallying-point for a host of homing jackdaws.

A bowshot westward of the cathedral stand the beautiful ruins of the Bishop's Palace, rising from amidst the rich meadows beside the Allan River. Our route thither lies over the stony way called the Popples, the ancient approach to St Davids Shrine, and traverses the low-arched bridge that superseded the Llechllafar, or Speaking Stone, which in olden times spanned the stream at this point.

Many a curious legend clung around this venerable stone, which Giraldus tells us was even in his time worn hollow by the feet of wayfarers. Tradition avers that Llechllafar was wont to cry out in remonstrance if a corpse was carried across it ; and Merlin is said to have foretold that an English King, returning from the conquest of Ireland, was to meet his death upon this spot. So when Henry II. chanced this way, a disappointed suppliant endeavoured to foist this sinister prediction upon him ; but the King, having made a suitable oration to the stone, passed over it unharmed to make his orisons before the Shrine of St David.

Turning; from the scene of these miraculous events, we pass a group of lowly cottages and enter the ruined gateway of the palace. Across a stretch of greensward, close-cropped by flocks of sheep, rise the ruined walls of Bishop Gower's lordly dwelling ; the open-arched parapets casting a dappled shade athwart the grass-grown courtyard.

Built in the Decorated style that prevailed Throughout the fourteenth century, this interesting structure extends around a quadrangle, of which two sides remain in fair preservation, the others being either much in ruins, or entirely razed to the ground. Everything here speaks of peace and bygone hospitality. A wide ogee archway- adorned with sculptured niches gives access to the banqueting-Hall an apartment of noble proportions adorned with an exquisite rose window still in good preservation. Near at hand rises the Chapel, with its picturesque Bell- turret and pointed windows ; while over all runs a pretty open arcade, borne upon huge corbels embellished with grotesque heads and strange fantastic monsters. A pleasant variety has been obtained by arranging the stonework above the arches in a kind of diaper pattern, With the lapse of time these venerable ruins have mellowed into all sorts of harmonious hues where golden lichens, valerian and plants innumerable, have run riot over the rough purple sandstone.

St David Patron Saint.

Tradition states that St David was born on the spot where St. Non's Chapel now stands. The year of his birth is uncertain; authorities place it between 462 and 520 A.D. Both his father, Sant, Prince of Ceredigion, and his mother, Non, were of noble family, and the boy's education was the best that could be given him. He grew up into a tall dignified man, and was ordained priest after study, probably at Henfynyw (Aberaeron), in Cardigan, his fathers territory. Then, with his friends and disciples he left it, to found his Monastery near the sea. And here the first building rose, either of rough stone, or of wood, with a stone foundation.

A legend states that David journeyed to Jerusalem, was consecrated Bishop by the Patriarch John III, and that the portable altar stone, now in the South Transept was the Patriarchs gift to him.

He attended the celebrated Synod of Brefi, and was instrumental in refuting the Pelagian heresy which the Synod had been convened to suppress. Legend tells that a white dove descended and rested on his shoulder as he spoke, and the dove is often used in representations of the saint.

St David and his monks worked in the fields round their Church. Monasteries in those days were self supporting units. He travelled on missionary journeys through South Wales, founding Churches as he went, visited Ireland, and possibly Cornwall and Brittany, where there are Churches called by his name.

His death is commemorated on March 1st, but the year is uncertain. In the twelfth century Pope Callixtus II decreed that two pilgrimages to his shrine should equal one to Rome. The fame of the Cathedral reached its height in the 14th and 15th centuries, and among the royal pilgrims who visited the shrine was William the Conqueror, who presented two velvet copes and a handful of silver, Henry II, Edward I and Queen Eleanor, and possibly King John, are reckoned to have visited. It is claimed that St David's relics still rest within his Cathedral in an oak and iron reliquary, kept in the Holy Trinity Chapel behind the High Altar.

St Davids Day, March 1st The Collect.

O God, Who by the preaching of Thy blessed servant Saint David didst cause the light of the Gospel to shine in this our land; Grant we beseech Thee, that having his life and labours in remembrance, we may shew forth our thankfulness unto Thee for the same, by following the example of his zeal and patience; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

1327 Of The Lands Of The Bishopric Of St David's, PRO. E. 152. No. 16. Villa Menevens. (Town of St Davids).

The jury say that there is there a mansion for servants and animals in Winter, where there ought to be a palace, worth 6d. per annum:

and a carucate of land lying fallow and untilled, and it is not extended because the pasture is common: 16 acres of meadow in demesne worth 16s. at 12d. per acre.

There is another meadow in the island which is called Romeseye and worth 5s. per acre.

There are 2 water mills worth £4 per annum. There is of rent of assize of the burgesses 100s. per annum payable in the terms at the Feasts of the Annunciation of the BVM, St. John Baptist, St. Michael and St. Andrew, in equal portions.

There is a rent of assize at Emenyt of 16s. per annum payable at the Feast of St. Michael.

There is a rent of assize at Pencors of 4s. payable at the said Feast of St. Michael.

There is a rent of assize at the Berewych of 50s. payable at the Feast of St. Michael.

Pleas and perquisites of court there, with the Fair on the Feast of St. John Baptist, worth 7s. per annum.

1997 A Short History Of The Cathedral.

The first Church or Cathedral was built on the spot where the present building stands, by St David and his monks. It was burnt down in 645. The Danes invaded and sacked the buildings in 1078, killing Bishop Abraham, and the Church was again burnt down in 1099.

The first Norman Bishop was enthroned in 1115, when the Cathedral organisation was converted from the Celtic and monastic, to the ordinary diocesan type.

Peter De Leia (1176-1198), the third Norman Bishop, a Florentine monk, who had been Prior of Wenlock Abbey, Shropshire, was the first of the great Bishop builders. An old writer states, "St Davids had been often destroyed in former times by Danes and other Pyrats, and in his time was almost quite ruined." He started rebuilding in 1180, and left the Cathedral, ending at the wall of the High Altar, substantially as we see it now, as he built the nave, choir, transepts, and aisles. The stone used was Cambrian sandstone, taken from the cliff quarries at Caerfai and Caerbwdy. But the tower fell in 1220, crushing choir and transepts, and an earthquake in 1248 did still more damage. The tower was not rebuilt from the foundations, as the old western arch was retained. His successor dedicated the Cathedral to St. Andrew and St David.

Bishop Gower (1328-1347), added the South Porch, remodelled the aisles, inserted the Decorated windows on the north and south, built the Rood screen between the nave and choir, added a storey to the tower, and two upper floors to the Chapel in the north transept. He founded a Chantry in the Lady Chapel, where the sedilia and Bishop Martin's tomb are also attributed to him.

In the late 15th and early 16th centuries the roofs were entirely renovated; Owen Pole, Treasurer (1472- 1509), built the roof of the nave, and possibly that of the choir.

Bishop Vaughan (1508-1522), was the last of the great building Bishops. The Holy Trinity Chapel was his work; he roofed in the open space on its east side, and vaulted the Lady Chapel in stone. The tower received a third storey, raising it to its present height.

The Cathedral suffered severely during the Civil wars. Lead was stripped from the Lady Chapel and aisles, the latter being left open to the weather. In consequence the presbytery arches were blocked in with stone. Bishop Watson urged his Chapter to repair the damage, and he resealed the transepts in 1696. £1500 is said to have been expended a few years later, and Chapter orders of the period show that the Canons curtailed their own incomes to carry the repairs out effectually.

In 1789 a subscription was set on foot, and Mr. Nash was directed to plan rebuilding the west front.

In 1863 a general restoration was begun by Sir Gilbert Scott. The west front, spoilt by Nash, was rebuilt from a drawing of the old design. Most important of all, the central tower, which was in a most precarious condition, was made secure, the hollows in the masonry being filled with liquid cement. The foundations were drained for the first time in the history of the building and made secure, and certain relics, thought to be those of St David and St. Justinian were discovered.

The restoration of the Lady Chapel with the surrounding Chapels, a few years later, completed St David's Cathedral as we see it today.

The Cathedral Interior.

The South porch, was added to the Cathedral by Bishop Gower 1328-1347). It is decorated work, worn and damaged, but details of the "Jesse Portal" with the subjects of our Lords genealogy, can be made out. Over the arch there is a representation of the Holy Trinity with angels. The Parvise, or room over the porch, was added about 1515.

Nave and Aisles: Built by Bishop Peter de Leia (1176-1198).

The general style of the nave is Transitional Norman or Early English. Its length is 130 feet, and the slope in the floor, a fall of three feet towards the west, gives a unique and striking impression. There is a total difference of 14 feet in height between the west door and the Lady Chapel. The great piers consist alternately of circular and octagonal columns. Each arch has a different moulding, and 24 Mason marks have been traced. The outward slope of the westernmost pillars has been attributed to the earthquake of 1248. Enormous buttresses on the north side of the Cathedral were built to strengthen the nave. The triforium and clerestory, merged in one, rest on the main arcade. The roof, of Irish oak, consisting of rows of pendants connected by a system of arches, is attributed to the treasurer, Owen Pole (1472-1509), and is a magnificent piece of work. The Welsh dragon figures upon the square pendants. Some of the piers still show traces of frescoes, but the coating of whitewash, applied by Bishop Field in 1630, and removed by Archdeacon Davies about 1835, has almost obliterated them. The Font may date back to the pre-Norman Bishops, but the base cannot be earlier than the 13th century. Near it stands a very old font, possibly one of the oldest relics in the Cathedral. Close to the west wall are one of the old pre-Reformation bells, and several Celtic stones, of the 8th-11th centuries, bearing crosses. These latter were found near Whitesands Bay.

Bishop Morgan's tomb, 1504, is the chief monument in the nave. Opposite is the beautiful sculptured tomb of an unknown priest in a canopied recess.

Both aisles are part of the original design, but are lighted by the decorated windows added by Bishop Gower.

The rood screen consists of a solid wall, pierced by a doorway, and with chambers in its thickness. On one side is the tomb of Bishop Gower who built it, 1328-1347. Modern figures now fill the niches on each side of the doorway. The "Peoples Altar" stands on the left. The rood is modern.

The Choir.

The choir occupies the space below the tower, marking the monastic origin of the building. It is unique in possessing a second "parclose" screen, making a complete enclosure. There are 28 stalls, dating from Bishop Tully's episcopate (1460-1481), when they replaced those of Bishop Gower's time. The Misericords (hinged folding seats which when turned up can be leant on for rest) are very fine. The reigning Sovereign always holds the first prebendal stall, an honour peculiar to St David's. This stall is marked by the royal arms. The Bishop's throne is of great height; part of it dates from Bishop Gower's time, but Sir Gilbert Scott was obliged to reconstruct it. A faded painting of our Lady can still be seen on the panel below the canopy. The Organ is an early Willis instrument, (1883), the old Organ, built in 1695 having been given to St. Martin's, Haverfordwest, but some fragments of the case, said to have been carved by Grinling Gibbons, are kept in the Cathedral library. The Organ was rebuilt modernised and supplied with new cases in 1953.

The Presbytery And Sanctuary.

Four Transitional Norman bays form the Presbytery, the piers, as in the nave, being alternately circular and octagonal. There is a clerestory, but no triforium. The East End today is practically as it was when Peter de Leia designed it, the lower part being the original work of de Leias, masters, the upper, restoration. The lower stage contains one of the most perfect instances of triplet lancets in existence; they are magnificent, and amongst the finest things in the Cathedral. Bishop Vaughan's Chapel, immediately behind, blocks them, and the spaces have been filled with Salviati mosaics. In the centre is the Crucifixion, with its type, Moses and Aaron pointing to the brazen serpent, below. The right lancet shows a figure representing the Jewish Church, the left, the Christian Church, with St David addressing the council of Brefi, and St David giving alms.

The four lancets above contain modern glass, the subjects being the Nativity, Transfiguration, Last Supper and Agony in the Garden.

The roof dates from 1461 and was carefully restored by Scott.

The floor largely consists of the original; encaustic tiles, yellow and reddish brown, dating from the 15th century. The designs are the Beauchamp and Berkeley arms, the Tudor rose and Edward III's arms. Probably they came from the famous Malvern manufactory. Tradition states that some of the tiles were broken by Cromwells horse, as he rode up to the Altar when his troops desecrated the building.

The Altar is modern, but there were two very ancient altar slabs, with their five crosses found in the floor near it. It is believed that they may be the altar stones from St Davids own Church, and one of them is now the mensa stone of the altar in Holy Trinity Chapel, the other in the Chapel of St. Thomas .

The oak Perpendicular sedilia probably date from Bishop Tully's episcopate (1460-1481). The piscina contains 12 holes, representing the twelve apostles, and is made in the shape of a Rose. Before the High Altar stands the table tomb of Edmund Tudor, father of Henry VII. It was placed originally in the Grey Friars Church at Carmarthen, and was transferred by order of Henry VIII, at the dissolution of the Monastery. The remains of St David's Shrine are on the north side of the Presbytery. It was built about 1275 and the relics were probably placed upon it, in a removable reliquary. It is certain that this was so at one time for there was an old order that in case of battle, the relics should be taken one days journey from the city.

In the destructive days of the Cathedral, when the aisles were unroofed, solid walls were built between the arches, and these must have seriously damaged the Shrine. Traces of pavement, worn hollow by pilgrims knees, could once be seen. The niches at the foot of the Shrine were intended to hold the pilgrims offerings, possibly also to hold devotional objects, placed near the relics, before being taken away.

South Transept.

The transepts are separated from the nave, being connected by doorways and not by open arches. The South Transept, known at one time as the - Chanters Chapel,- contains several relics of Celtic slabs and crosses, one of which commemorates Bishop Abrahams sons, 1078. It was used before the restoration as the Parish Church. Much of the old material of the Cathedral, of which use could not be made, is reserved here.

The vestries have recently been moved here from the North Transept. The Clergy Vestry is behind the wooden screen, the Choir Vestry in the former lower library. The Tower is also reached from a doorway in this transept, but visitors who wish to ascend it must be accompanied by the Verger.

The small portable altar stone, said to have been brought from Jerusalem by St David, is kept here, sunk into a table at the east end. There is also an old wooden chest which is supposed to date from the time of Peter de Leia.

South Choir Aisle.

Here, the tombs are of interest, and the priestly stone slabs show the development in stone effigy work, from the plain incised to the modelled figure. There are tombs ascribed to Rhys ap Gruffudd, the last Prince of South Wales, Giraldus Cambrensis, and a physician named Silvester. His inscription runs "Silvester the physician lieth here, and his dissolution sheweth that medicine withstandeth not death." In the southern bay are the tombs of Bishop Anselm la Gras (1231-1247) and Bishop Gervase (1215-1229).

St. Edward's Chapel.

The Chapel of King Edward the Confessor opens out of the south choir aisle. It was restored by Viscountess Maidstone, in remembrance of her grandfather Bishop Jenkinson, and contains her tomb, and a case containing the garments worn by the Bishop at the coronation of Queen Victoria.

The Lady Chapel.

This was added to the Cathedral by Bishop Martin (1296-1328). Bishop Gower built the sedilia, and two tomb recesses, probably intended for Bishops Beck and Martin. The figure of Bishop Owen (1897-1926) has been recently added to Bishop Beck's tomb. The vaulted roof fell in 1775, and has been entirely replaced, but the roof of the ambulatory or ante Chapel is original. The southern arch leading from the Chapel to the ambulatory is earlier than the northern one.

St. Nicholas Chapel.

This Chapel was restored in memory of Dean Howell in 1910. He is buried in the eastern end. It contains some mutilated tombs, and the remains of an old and beautifully carved Crucifixion on the south wall.

Holy Trinity Chapel

This Chapel, late Perpendicular, was built by Bishop Vaughan, about 1500. Originally an open courtyard, possibly used as a waiting place for pilgrims, it, and the ante Chapel behind were then roofed over. The roof is a beautiful piece of fan tracery. Modern statues of Bishop Vaughan and Archdeacon Giraldu, are set on the old brackets. The reredos is a reconstruction of 14th century carving, and the altar is built up of very ancient stones. That on the south end bears a rare representation of the Birth of the Virgin. Bishop Vaughan's tomb, a marble slab, lies before the altar. The mullioned windows towards the Lady Chapel were found walled up and opened in 1898.

At the back of the High Altar, facing the Chapel altar is the old recess near which the relics were hidden at the Reformation. It must have been made for the purpose of veneration of relics, as the Cross with its pierced arms, between the High Altar and the Chapel, formed part of the original building. It is transitional, and dates from the time of Peter de Leia. Sir Gilbert Scott found the recess walled up, practically indistinguishable from the rest of the wall. He took out the stones, found the bones in the recess, and interred them in the floor of the Chapel, immediately below.

Dean Williams had them disinterred in 1921 and placed them in the oak and iron reliquary. The fact that they were identified as the bones of a very tall and a short man, together with the knowledge that St David, very tall, and his confessor, St. Justinian, a short man, had been buried together, gives a reasonable probability that the relics are really those of the saints.

Some of the Eastern patriarchs visited St Davids in 1925, the sixteen hundredth anniversary of the Council of Nicaea, and presented a metal and jewelled reliquary for the Shrine.

Holy Trinity Chapel is now used for the daily Celebration of Holy Communion, and for private devotion.

North Choir Aisle.

The North Choir Aisle leads from St. Nicholas Chapel to the north transept. The back of St David's shrine is seen here, and the tomb of Rhys Gryg, Rhys ap Gruffudds son.

The North Transept.

The Northern Transept Chapel was dedicated to St. Andrew. The Shrine of St. Caradoc a Religious solitary of the 11th-12th century, is built against the south wall. Near it, in the east wall there is a piscina. An altar dedicated to St. Andrew originally stood here. It is now furnished as the County of Pembroke War Memorial to those who lost their lives in 1939-45.

Over the shrine of St. Caradoc, a memorial to the noted Church Musician and Composer - Thomas Tomkins - has been placed. He was born in St Davids where his father was Cathedral Organist, and the Memorial was unveiled at a Festival held to commemorate the Tercentenary of his death.

Chapel Of St. Thomas .

This Chapel was built out of the Chapel of St. Andrew, and dedicated to St. Thomas a Beckett about 1220. It was rebuilt by Bishop Gower who added the upper floors. A double Early English piscina of beautiful work is placed on the south wall. The vaulted roof is very fine. This Chapel has just been refurnished in memory of Bishop Prosser (d. 1950). In 1958 a new stained glass window, representing the Saint, and his murderers, with the Royal Arms of Henry II, was fixed above the Altar in memory of Ernest Harry Evans, Priest. The blessed Sacrament is reserved in the aumbry to the north of the altar.

Above the Chapel was the original Chapter-house which is now the Lower Library. It contains a fine decorated fireplace, and can be seen on application to the Verger. Above the Lower Library was another room which was used as the Treasury. This room was destroyed and in its place a Gallery has been erected which has recently been shelved in memory of Bishop Havard (d. 1956).

St. Mary's College.

St. Mary's College was founded in 1377 by John of Gaunt, and Bishop Adam Houghton. It was endowed to support a Master, 7 priest Fellows, and two choristers who were intended to serve in the Cathedral, the Master being one of the Canons. The building was connected with the Cathedral by a covered way, and the Chapel walls still show traces of the cloister abutments. The Chapel is all that now remains, the domestic buildings which stood between it and the north wall of the close having disappeared, though some remains of their crypts may still be seen.

St. Mary's College. The latter building in ruins for centuries was restored and opened again for public use in 1966.

St Davids Bishop's Palace- a Castles of Wales

During the Middle Ages there were few landowners in Wales wealthier than the Bishops of St David's. As well as being princes of the Church, they were Marcher Lords in their own right, owing allegiance only to the King. It is hardly surprising, therefore, that at their cathedral city these powerful prelates created a group of medieval buildings unsurpassed anywhere west of Offas Dyke. Even in ruin, the palace is a magnificent architectural splendour, speaking volumes of men rich in experience of both Church and State. The entire cathedral close was surrounded by a precinct wall and one of four gates. Porth y Twr, which dates to about 1300 remains standing. Within, the palace is very largely the work of a succession of builder-bishops who held the see in the later 13th and 14th centuries.

Edward I and his queen were at St David's on a pilgrimage in 1284, and their visit may have well called attention to the inadequacies of the early medieval palace. About this time, Bishop Thomas Beck (1280-93) began a program of new building commensurate with his role as a major churchman and former statesman of King Edward. He was responsible for the Chapel in the south-west corner, the Hall and the private apartments, and the gate. The Bishop's Hall and the private chamber were on the first floor, and were carried on a series of barrel vaults. Notice the superb series of corbels carved as human heads which span the main trusses of the roofs in this range.

But the man who more than any other left his imprint decisively and characteristically on this palace was Bishop Henry de Gower (1328-47). In addition to major works in the cathedral itself, including the imposing rood screen. It was de Gower who built the Great Hall which remains undoubtedly the finest range. Moreover, he brought a graceful unity to the palace with the distinctive arcaded parapet which takes command of the beholders eye. It is similar to the bishops other work at Lamphey, and probably Swansea. The Hall is again on the first floor and was designed for the entertainment of important guests. The wheel window in the east gable is a sheer delight, and the majestic porch would have provided a fitting entrance to so fine a building. Notice, too, the chequered pattern in the stonework on the upper stages, which may have been very striking in its original colours.

Later bishops made further additions and alterations to the palace, but with the Reformation the story of decay and destruction in the 16th and 17th centuries begins. An exhibition, entitled Lords of the Land, is situated in parts of the palace undercroft. It tells more of the wealth and power of the medieval bishops, and explains the phases in the growth of the buildings.

Notes

In 1115 Henry I granted a charter of Privileges to St David's and in 1120 the Pope raised the status of the Cathedral and site by decreeing that two visits to St David's Cathedral and shrine were the equivalent to one visit to St Peter's Rome.

Later in November 1281 St David's town received a grant of two Markets a week and two yearly fairs (a weekly one was already being held under the charter of Privileges).

Records suggest that in 1326 there were 130 burgesses but John Speede map of 1610 only suggests 51 houses.

Bishop Beck (1280-93) founded Whitewell Hospice to care for sick and infirm Clergy and provide hospitality for pilgrims. This was annexed to St Mary's College at St David's in 1377.

St David's Head was called by the Romans "Promontarium Octopitarium" (promontary of Eight perils). There can still be seen the remains of an Iron age fort and Celtic field system boundaries (300BC). Some iron age fields are still in use. Also a Neolithic cromlech (carreg Coetan) and Neolithic mini burial Chambers (Maen Sigl).

RCAM 1921

The best, indeed the only attempt at a topographical account of the City and Close of St Davids is the account by Fenton of features that were in existence barely a century ago, but which have almost completely disappeared.

Fenton's remarks are as follows:--

1811 Fenton, Tours pp 59 st seqq., London 1811

[Note Fenton Richard 1746-1821 the author, was born at St David's Pembrokeshire, and received his early education at the Cathedral School. (He would, one suspect, have a far greater knowledge of the Cathedral than Bishop Burgess Thomas , who was formerly Prebendary of Durham and consecrated on 17 July 1803). He subsequently entered the Middle Temple, and there studied for the legal profession. He afterwards practised at the Irish, English, and Welsh, bar, both in North and South Wales. During his stay in the Metropolis he met Dr. Johnson, and was on intimate terms with Goldsmith and David Garrick. He was a good Greek, Latin, and French scholar, The last twenty or thirty years of his life were devoted to literary pursuits. He was a very intimate friend of Sir Richard Hoare, at whose suggestion he undertook and published his "Historical Tour through Pembrokeshire," London, 1811, and a very caustic reply to the strictures of Dr. Burgess, Bishop of St David's on that work. As well he publishing other works"]

"I now enter the on the sacred precinct of Ty Ddewi, or St David's, Once the metropolitan see of all Wales, but where it now a wide field of legend and history opens on me.

Romans -Fenton

That the Romans were acquainted with this part of the county of Pembroke there can be no doubt.

